SPECIAL NOTE.—NO DEPUTIES WILL BE ACCEPTED AT REHEARSALS.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. T. GERALD MORTON, Empire Palace, Leeds.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—Her Marriage Vow, as exploited by a capable company under the command of Mr. J. Forbes Knowles, presents many thrilling features, while the elaborate mounting could not well be bettered. Supporting Mr. Knowles are Miss Violet Lytton as Kate Walters; Mr. Edward Avinal as Gilbert Carlton, Miss Nellie Shirley as Hester Norton, Mr. Harry Momber as Daffy Dan, Mr. Richard Nugent as Larry Leary, Miss Nancy Lawrence as Maggie Clare, Mr. Chancey Morris as Eben Chubb, and Miss Nellie Waddington as Almira.

PALACE THEATRE. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Gallagher.—Valazzi, expert juggler and balancer, tops the bill; the Arthur Gallimore troupe of fun-makers; Tom Wootwell, comedian; Allis and Casati, Cromo and Hamilton, Billy Rex, Yetta, and Terry and Tate also contribute to the entertainment.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's excellent company is here in The Eyes of the World. Miss Ethel Van Praagh, in the arduous rôle of Helene de l'Orme, appears to conspicuous advantage; Mr. J. Edward Whitty as Achille acquits himself with distinction; and Mr. Charles O'Connor is a meritorious Hector. Mr. Fred Bentley makes a most dignified Gaston; and as Octave Mr. Robert Wynne makes a good impression. Mr. Wilton Bedford does ample justice to the part of M. Paul Roqueville; and Mr. Harold Forde is quite satisfactory as Brigard. A charming portrayal of Avice is submitted by Miss Elsie Capell; Miss Flora Hastings is a convincing Esmé Carnac; and Miss Nellie Garside a vivacious Susanne.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—The Seven Bramusas, an all-British family of juvenile musicians, introduce here a brass-band extravaganza, Music Afloat, which is received with great approbation; the New Macs, with amusing patter, supply a good turn; Osborne and Brookes, musical comedy duo, provoke loud applause; and Marie Braymen proves a delightful comedienne. Will Nosam is a capital coon vocalist; Ivey Aberdare wins golden opinions for her wooden-shoe dancing; Fred Spencer is very popular as a facial mimic; and the Bioscope concludes.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—The Little Damozel is being presented by a talented company under the management of Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow. Miss Eva Stuart, a talented actress, has a fine conception of the Little Damozel; Mr. Alick Chumley's Recklaw Poole is a huge success; Miss Elsie Leigh Hunt's portrayal of Sybil Craven is excellent; Mr. Guy Newall gives a clever enactment of Fitzroy Lock; Mr. J. Henry Twyford as Captain Partington is exceptionally good; whilst Messrs. Wm. Matthews (Walter Angel), Chas. R. Stone (Papa), and Chas. Clarke, Richard Ravenscroft, and Arthur Redmond are also well placed. A capital curtain-raiser is Curing a Selfish Husband, in which Miss Dorothy Blackader and Messrs. Guy Newall and J. Henry Twyford take part. Both comedy and farce are well staged.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—One of Mr. Fred Granville's Productions, Ltd., An Old Man's Darling, by Mr. D. C. M. Granville, is being presented here by a selected company. Mr. Stanley Radcliffe essays the leading rôle, that of a Yorkshire squire, George Ricroft, and brings to its interpretation a manly presence, and a vigorous and convincing manner; Mr. Stanley S. Gordon as Jack Lee, the lover of Bessie, the old man's darling, shows earnestness and ability; the evil genius, Cuthbert Blacksland, is well hit off by Mr. W. R Winning; Mr. W. Hudson Pointon as Enoch Earnshaw, is a capable exponent of character; Mr. Miller Wilson is a humorous Billy Barlicorn; Mr. Frank Masters and Mr. E. W. Duxbury do good work as a cool American and a village parson; Miss Nina Vaughton is a tender and lovable Bessie; Miss Beryl Fernedez as Mary Winters gives a finished character study; Minnie is charmingly played by Miss Emily Entwistle; and Miss Florrie Hall is a smart Molly Maloney. Miss Florrie Lucerne does well as the boy, Dick.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem—Herbert Darnley's comedy company is here in the spectacular Spanish musical comedy, in four scenes, The Brigands of Tarragona. The other artists for the week are a couple of experts, Milton and Horton, comic triple horizontal bar artists; Bert Wood, a clever comedy siffleur and raconteur; Dave Carter, tenor; La Belle Duchess puts through their paces two boxing stallions, two ponies, and some clever dogs; Bert Rayburn is a quaint comedian; Cora Magda, a neat and expert lady gymnast; Tom Franks, an amusing ventriloquist; Dolly and Elsie, neat duettists and dancers; and Cullen, Carthy, and Little Cluley, in new songs and dances.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company, in Send Him Victorious, is here. Mr. Howard Hardy is a dignified King of Ravonia, and Mr. Hugh Carmichael a capital Colonel Kaufman; Mr. Charles Higgins does well as Major Strauss, as also does Mr. Henry Hellier as Sergeant Max; Mr. Herbert Skardon makes a gallant Captain Frank Allison, and Miss Netta Mitchell a sweet Ethel Harding; Mr. Bert Woodin as Geordie Walker and Miss Madge Palmer as Gretchen Holtz are very amusing, and the part of Countess Kara Von Mechlinberg is beautifully done by Miss Sydney Crowe.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Charles Hinchcliff's "Scarleteers" are here still, and again give an interesting change of programme.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—The premier turn here is supplied by the Three Prestons in an exceedingly humorous sketch; Austen Temple, assisted by Miss Irene Vincent, performs some exceedingly smart conjuring tricks; Wyllie, the tramp musician, gives a bright and diverting turn; Marie Golding sings her ballads in nice style; Hanley and Melton have some quaint patter; Blanco and Emilio are smart song and dance artists; Harry Drew is a singer with ability and a good voice. Vernon's Bioscope contributes some interesting pictures.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—After three weeks' musical comedy, The Little Damozel is making her bow to Bath audiences, through the medium of Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. A young lady in whom much interest centres is Miss Marguerite Unett, from Australia, who shows histrionic talent of no mean order as Julie Alardy; mention should also be made of Mr. William J. Stack and Mr. Reginald Hargreaves as Franz Pepo and Abraham. Curing a Selfish Husband is a more than usually uncommon curtain-raiser.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—The management bill in big type this week those wondrous Chinese performers, the Tan-Kwai Troupe; the Merrions return to amuse as purveyors of vocal instrumental merriment; Beatrice Harris, with a pleasing appearance and a clear voice, is a distinct acquisition to the programme; John Macaulay repeats his former success; a young dancer of merit is Harry Martell; and the Two Zongaras, burlesque artists and dancers, also meet with favour.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week Mr. Gaston Mayer's company is presenting Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch to excellent houses. Miss Sophie Lingwood's sympathetic and engaging personality goes far towards making her assumption of the inimitable Mrs. Wiggs an artistic success; Mr. Harry G. Wright does splendidly as H. Hunkerdunkus Jones; Mr. Robert Shiells merits warm commendation for his portrayal of Sheriff; the Mr. Wiggs of Mr. Ernest Ruston is a clever character study; Miss Florence Mitchell gives grace and distinction to the part of Mrs. Eichorn; Asia is pleasingly played by Miss Marie Stella; Miss Ruhamah Catton as Lovey Mary obtains sympathy by her simple pathos; Mr. Walter Hicks is amusing as Billy Wiggs; capital assistance is forthcoming from the rest of the company.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Mr. Henry Miller's company opened here on Monday with the modern play The Servant in the House. A great success was achieved by Miss Laurie Flockton in the rôle of Mary, her acting being quite irreproachable; and honours were also achieved by Mr. Harry Parker, whose clever assumption of the rôle of Mr. Robert Smith reflected the utmost credit on this capable actor. The rôle of James Ponsonby Makeshyfte, D.D., fitted Mr. Ernest H. Paterson like the proverbial glove; and Mr. Walter Gay may be congratulated on his able impersonation of the Rev. William Smythe. Mr. Forrester Harvey furnished a humorous impersonation of Rogers, the page boy; and the rôle of Manson could not be in better hands than those of Mr. Matthew Boulton. Miss Nellie Hodson appeared to the utmost advantage as Auntie, the Vicar's wife.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The attraction here this week is the fine drama The Heathen and the Christian, presented by Mr. Frank Adair's company. Mr. Adair himself appears as Li, the avenger, and furnishes a powerful impersonation; and the clever actress, Miss Louie Adair, appears with unqualified success as Mira Sampson. The iniquities of Lung Hi were done full justice to by Mr. Fred Withers; and Miss Stanley Burt gains the sympathies of the audience with her fine acting in the trying rôle of May Beresford. The humorous element was sustained by Miss Eva Reid and Mr. Charles Luck, who appeared in their respective rôles of Becky Fibbins and Bah Lamb Gentle, Miss Reid speedily making herself a favourite with her capitally rendered songs and clever dancing; while Mr. Fred Robins as the Postman was also very laughable. Mr. Reginald Payne was all that could possibly be desired as George Beresford; and other rôles were adequately sustained by Messrs. Herbert Sydney (Harold Garth), Jas. Severn (Gerald Shirley), Gerald Turner (Douglas Ames), and Fred Waring.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The star here is Miss Clarice Mayne, an accomplished comedienne, who made a big hit on Monday, and deservedly so; the hoop-rolling performance of the Kratons gains much appreciation; and the comic songs of Mr. Austin Rudd have been hugely enjoyed. Miss Daisy James is a vivacious comedienne with good songs, who delights the audience and elicits rapturous applause; and Mr. Carl Lynn is one of the best mimics and imitators of animals before the public. The comedy act of the Three Krakes is very entertaining. Also here are Mr. Archie Glen, storyteller and dancer; Kartelli, in his wire act; the Kepples, operatic vocalists; and the Hipposcope, in The Biter Bit.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The leading attraction is provided by the Abdullah Arabs, whose tumbling feats have been enthusiastically received; the comedy act of Hemsley and Ambrose is one of the features of the bill; and Miss Rose D'Aulby sings some chorus songs, which have afforded much pleasure. Miss Ruth Davenport, operatic vocalist, has a good voice, which she knows how to use; and Conan and Doyle, comedians and dancers, Fatmah Diard, vocalist, Frank Maura, the Mexican wonder, and the Bioscope, are also included in the bill.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Edwin G. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—A capital variety company includes Mlle. Florrie, Clown Paulo, with the performing pony, Tiger; Beattie Foster, comedienne; and a highly amusing comedian, Wallace Witney. Among several good films is The Great Bank Smash, which is very exciting.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Exercising a very wise discretion, Mr. Kelly has for the summer season reverted to the two houses a night system, the inauguration taking place on Monday, when crowded houses testified to the popularity of the innovation. Mr. Tom Craven's company, in a condensed version of When a Lass Loves, gave great satisfaction; Miss Josephine Middleton's fine rendering of the ex-lady detective, Constance Lane, being received with acclamation; Mr. Louis Palgrave as Slack scores heavily; Mr. P. Ramsay Foreman depicts the rascalities of Bertram Bridge in vivid colours; Mr. George F. Ide is a capital Reggie Stapleton; Cynthia Bridge is well played by Miss Rita Trekelle; the remaining parts are well placed.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Keating.—Miss Jennie Johns, a clever and charming comedienne, is a leading attraction. Mr. Joe O'Gorman, comedian and raconteur, is again meeting with his accustomed success; and Mr. Tom Taylor and his company present a capital sketch, entitled The Plumbers, which is received with enthusiasm. Mr. Wilson Hallett, impersonator of children, is a favourite turn; and Miss Carlotta Levey, a talented comedienne and descriptive vocalist; the Quality Quartette of vocalists and dancers; Ingram and Irving, in an entertaining sketch; the Brothers O'Gorman, cross-talkers and dancers; Mr. Bert Byrne, comedian; Miss Anna Heath, vocalist and dancer; and Brown's Royal Bioscope complete the company.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Mr. Evelyn A'Dell's company are playing The Old Home twice nightly with excellent results. Mr. Charles Franmore is prominent with a capital performance of Daddy Dean; and Miss Violet Ingram as his daughter is unexceptionable. Mr. Horatio Sinclair is a capable Lord Avondale, and the company generally is thoroughly capable.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—The Galavanters Concert Party and Wishart, in his mystifying entertainment, form an attractive combination.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree has a big following in Birmingham, and patrons are enjoying the privilege of seeing the famous actor and his company in four different plays—on Monday and Tuesday The Merchant of Venice; on Wednesday and Thursday The O'Flynn; Friday and Saturday, Trilby and The Man Who Was. Limited space forbids a lengthly eulogy of Sir Herbert's performances. They are excellent. He is supported by a well-chosen company, including Miss Evelyn D'Alroy, Mr. Arthur Wontner, Miss Nigel Playfair, Miss Gladys Harvey, Mr. Shiel Barry, and Miss Hilda Moore.

PRINCE OF WALES'.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—The Woman in the Case is the great attraction here. Mr. Herbert Sleath is supported by a strong company, and it is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Charles Fitch's play is the talk of the town. The most striking feature is the finished and effective acting of Miss Ellis Jeffreys as Mrs. Rolfe, "the good woman." It is not easy to impersonate the "hopelessly bad woman," but Miss Violet Vanbrugh is a versatile actress, and succeeds admirably; Mr. Herbert Sleath is an excellent Julian Rolfe; and considerable praise is due to Mr. William Grant for his characterisation of the Solicitor.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Guest.—There are many thrilling incidents in the melodrama The King's Romance, written by Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds. Mr. Edmonds makes an ideal Prince, and is a big favourite. He is supported by a strong company, including Miss Mary Austin, an actress of considerable ability, as a charming heroine, Mr. William H. Dewhurst, and Mr. George P. Porteous. The scenery and costumes make an effective display.

PALACE THEATRE, BORDESLEY.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company in A Broken Heart is entertaining lovers of sensational drama, the piece being exceedingly well acted. Mr. Foxwell is well qualified for the part of John Barnard, the blacksmith, and Miss Sheila Walsh, as Mary Barnard, plays naturally and gracefully; Mr. A. C. Holmes acquits himself well in the strong part of Stephen Rayiton, and Mr. Charles Vivian is responsible for a good interpretation of the difficult character of Gash Gills. Mr. Newton Pearce scores a success as Tony Tibbets, and Miss Nancy Mitchell is praiseworthy as Sally Travner. The drama is excellently staged.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Scottie and his Colossal Combine are billed in a novel programme, the principal feature of which is a pantomime production entitled Androcles and the Lion. The piece is most laughable and goes with a successful swing, the characters being presented by a capable body of artists. A military episode, Napoleon at Waterloo, arouses great excitement, and another important feature is a sporting novelty, "Whizzing the Whirl," competitions being taken part in by local amateurs. The Operatic Ballet Troupe appear in The Cry of the Children, and other popular contributors are the Sisters Charlton, Will Warren, Knoto, Freda and Frank, and Little Rose Pink.

ASTON ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Managers, Mr. E. Hewitson; Manager, Mr. F. Martin Morris.—The melodrama Was She to Blame? is scoring a great success here. Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, the authoress, appears as Mrs. Kate Rosille, and fully realises the opportunities afforded by the part; Mr. F. G. Kimberley has a difficult rôle as William Clark, a broken-down actor, but he sustains interest very cleverly, especially in the light comedy asides; the character of Mary Norman is effectively presented by Miss Ellen Beverley; and Miss Nancy Roberts capably portrays the part of Lilian Norman, the heroine. Miss Florence Steyne provides a clever character study; and the other parts are in efficient hands.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Carlton stock company is enjoying a highly successful season. This week Miss Ethel Griffies presents Shadows of a Great City. Mr. Haldane Dalton proves his ability in the exacting character of Tom Cooper, and as his sweetheart, Nellie Standish, Miss Nellie Thorne Hallem is responsible for some clever acting; Mr. Victor Gardom is well suited to the part of George Benson, and Miss Motie Everett deserves much praise for her interprettion of a warm-hearted Irish girl; Mr. Johnny Chippendale is amusing as Jim Farren, and praise is also due to Mr. Norman Tracy, Mr. Geoffrey Broughton, and Miss Yoxa Summer.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—Harry Tate is a big attraction in his absurdity Fishing, and crowded audiences simply roll with laughter while the inimitable comedian is on the stage. Pat Rafferty, character comedian, is as popular as ever; a pleasing entertainment is provided by the Eight College Girls, in song and dance; Les Marco Belli give a fine exhibition of juggling, the comedy element being very effective; Speedwell's "lightning" sketches are much admired; Black and White are eccentric acrobats and genuine mirth-makers; Madge Brownie is a charming comedienne; Scotch humorous songs are rendered by Dan Fraser; and selections on the mandoline are admirably played by Signor Persichini.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas. Crowds are gathering to hear Mme. Ella Russell render her well-chosen songs in delightful style; as the lazy juggler Tom Hearn is irresistibly funny; Alexandra Dagmar is always a big favourite here, and she well merits the hearty reception accorded her; the Brothers Griffiths, with their wrestling sketch, provide a highly amusing turn; Mona Garrick strikes a note of originality in her impersonations of plays and players; Arthur Leslie is a clever and entertaining mimic; Betty Green dances beautifully and sings sweetly; and others who contribute to a strong programme are J. W. Rowley, Dora Poole, and Fred Maguire.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—Mr. R. A. Roberts, the protean actor, shows marvellous powers of quick change in his sketch Cruel Coppinger, and his work meets with enthusiastic approval; Regan and Ryan are very funny men, and their dances are cleverly executed; a particularly smart troupe of trick cyclists are the Veranos, who perform some daring and skilful feats; a humorous entertainment above the average is provided by the Columbia Trio; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon-Wilde perform adequately in their drawing-room act; Honors and Le Prince are skilful eccentric acrobats; Patty Yole is a chic comedienne with pleasing chorus songs; and other good items are given by Marion Armitage and Flo Cecil and George S. Melvin.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—A well-acted sketch is The Leaves of Memory, presented by Miss Beaumont Collins and company, which heads the programme. Miss Collins provides an effective study as Ruth Challoner, being assisted by Messrs. David Baird, George Ingleton, and John Laurence. The Tom Davis Trio are responsible for a startling sensation, "Motoring in Mid-Air"; Randolph King is a very clever quick-change artist; the Godfreys are successful in a musical speciality, The Slavey and the Coon; the Alaskas are smart comedy acrobats; Susie and Protti are well applauded for original Continental dances; Boden and Bell are popular vocalists and dancers; and Dolly Ross is an attractive comedienne.

CURZON HALL.—Lesse, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—Great interest is aroused by a splendid film, illustrating the great aerial race from London to Manchester. Having regard to the conditions under which they were taken, the photographs are remarkably clear, and much enthusiasm is accorded the series, showing Paulhan alighting at the end of his flight.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy. So popular are the cinematograph entertainments here that during the week numbers of people have had to be turned away. The favourite subjects in the programme are Two Women and a Man, The Triumphant Hero, and Indian True Heart. The Comic Pictures are in great variety.

QUEEN'S HALL. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—Programmes here are kept up to date in every respect, and are thoroughly enjoyed by full houses. Dramatic subjects play an important part in the entertainment, and many hearty laughs are caused by the comic films. The programme is rendered more acceptable by attractive variety turns.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — EDEN THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Miss Winifred Chalmers' company is here in Miss Plaster of Paris. Miss Celestine Brandon is admirable as Eliza Plaster; and Miss Chalmers plays Medea Hamilton effectively. Mr. Chas. Tolcher is a most amusing Numbskull Nubbs; and Mr. Harry Ed. Ray (Alexander) and Mr. Sid Dean (Mrs. Nubbs) intensify the fun, the songs of the two latter being highly appreciated. Mr. Wilfred E. Brandon appears as Tom Flubbs successfully. Pleasing specialities were introduced by the Berlin Belles (dancers), Miss Celestine Brandon, and the Sisters Holman (duettists and dancers).

HIPPODROME, — Proprietors, the Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—The Six Brothers Luck produce their two amusing sketches, The Demon of the Cellar and Lift-Ems, Ltd., and are well received; Les Trappellos are a marvellous musical trio; and Williams and Warden are good. troupe give a fine equilibristic act; and included in the bill are Dunn and Reano and the Fitzroys, comedy artists. The Hippo films are interesting.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Frank Weathersby's company is here with The Best People. Mr. H. Elliott-Ball contributes a remarkably clever sketch of Lord Emsworth, and the Hon. Gerald Bayle is a part which exactly fits Mr. Pennington-Gush; Miss Irene Lavington scores a complete success as Lady Emsworth, and Miss Proberta Pulleyne, who plays the Hon. Mrs. Bayle, is an actress possessing many qualifications.

Grand Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The King of Cadonia, played by Mr. Frank Curzon's capable company, is again the attraction here. The title-rôle is well accounted for by Mr. J. Warren-Foster, and Princess Marie finds a capable exponent in Miss Alice Moffatt; as the chief mirth-provider Mr. Johnny Osborne, who plays the Duke of Alacia, fully merits the ovation he receives; whilst Mr. Edward Thrilby as Bran and Mr. H. Hartley-Summers as Panix are also worthy contributors. Mention should also be made of the success attained by Miss Mabel Hirst as Militza, and Mr. Jack Martin as General Bonski.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—May Henderson, the dusky comedienne, is going well here; the Two Anartos are also well received; the O'Gust is acclaimed a very clever mimic; the Rangers, comedy cyclists, Josie Delaine, dancer, Joe Martin and Lona, in an acrobatic act, Verno and Voyce, vocal comedians, Sisters Cora, duettists, and Tom Collinge, light comique, also merit approbation.

BOLTON. — Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Sexton Blake, Detective, is here, the title-rôle being played with conspicuous success by Mr. Murray Yorke; Mr. Paul B. Lewers is well cast as Randolph Lovell; the Philadelphia Kate of Miss Lydia Mannington is a clever piece of work; Miss Elizabeth Watkins is an acceptable Marjorie Lovell. The comic relief is in the capable hands of Mr. Will Glaze as Tinker, and Miss Betty Seymour is an agreeable Euphemia Pattacake.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—One of Bolton's greatest favourites is here this week in the person of Tom Foy, comedian, who, along with his company, is appearing in the screamingly funny absurdity First of April. The rest of a good company comprise Metz and Metz, comedians, with a unique dance; Victoria Dagmar and comedy assistant, in an artistic gymnastic display on the horizontal bar and rope; Florence and Rose Showell, duettists; the Miles Stavordale Quintette; Elsie and Max Arbra, in a comic novelty act; Annie Lang, dainty comedienne and speciality dancer; the Carney Brothers, vocal comedians; the Courtiers, including Paul Mill, in a delightful musical mélange; and the Premier Imperial Pictures.

Empire Hippodrome, Ltd.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Managing-Director, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—An entertaining programme is provided here by Adams and Ward, acrobatic eccentrics; Woolmer Young, vocal comedian; Helen Martin, vocalist; the Oakes Duo, in a comedy concoction, Making a Man of Her; Witty Wattie Walton, mirth provider; Marguerite Ismay and Girls, in a local and dancing scena; J. W. Darley and company, in Music; Lomax, one-legged equilibrist and jumper, assisted by Miss Cissie; Mr. Louis Taylor's company, in a dramatic episode, The Adder's Tooth, and the Hippodrome pictures.

BOOTLE. — Muncaster Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young.—At the Muncaster Theatre this week Mr. John F. Preston presents Secrets of the Harem. Mr. Chas. Horner was successful in the character of Lieut. Herbert Markham; Mr. John Richter did well as Noureddin; Mr. Dan. F. Roe scored a success as the Hon. Cecil Cholmondeley; and Miss A. Churchill is a delightful Thyrza Meleda.

Winter Gardens. — Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. Lionel Cole.—At the Winter Gardens this week Mr. Oscar Mills presents the celebrated Nonentities. Miss Louie Counsell, the popular light comedy vocalist, was very successful in her charming songs; Mr. Oscar Mills takes very high rank as a humorist; and much mirth was created by Mr. Fred Everett, the lady impersonator. An artistic item was that rendered by Miss Mariana Carozzi, the Italian soprano; and other pleasing turns were contributed by Miss Mary Pitcairn, contralto; Mr. Oliver Hardwick, tenor; and Mr. Gordon Garratt, baritone.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Mr. George Dance's principal company in Miss Hook of Holland, is here with Miss Marie Studholme in the title-rôle. She is ably supported by Mr. Alfred Wellesley as Mr. Hook and Miss Maud Denny as Mina. The other parts are all capably filled, especially Mr. Fredk. Hobbs as Capt. Paap, Mr. Frank H. Crimp as the Bandmaster, and Mr. Fred Lyne as Slinks.

BRADFORD. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company, on a return visit with Diana of Dobson's, furnishes very enjoyable fare for Mr. Hart's patrons. Miss Emelie Polini elicits unstinted applause for her admirable impersonation of Diana Massingberd; Mr. Leslie Rea supports her well as Captain Bretherton, and very excellent and entertaining efforts are the parts of shop assistants filled by Mesdames Nannie Hume, Eva Leonard, Boyne, and Cicely Oates. Miss Hilda Francks is an excellent Mrs. Cantelupe; Mr. A. A. Harris a diverting Sir Jabez; and Miss Winifred Trevor Lowe as Miss Morton, Miss Marie Ault as Miss Pringle, and Miss Mary Crewe as Mrs. Whyte Fraser leave nothing to be desired. Out West, a stirring and romantic curtain-raiser by Mr. A. Chance, is exceedingly well played by Miss Boyne and Messrs. Harris, Leslie Rea, and Pauncefort.

The Prince's.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidlaw; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—We have the rare experience here this week of a pantomime in May, Mr. Laidler having revived the recent successful Forty Thieves, and with the exception of the adult chorus, and the part of the donkey (cleverly represented by Mr. Chris Le Brun) the characters are all played by the smart juveniles who were so great a feature of the Christmas production, and, if we may judge by the attendance and the applause, the novel experiment has proved a genuine success. The book of the pantomime has been somewhat revised, and to Mr. Laidlaw, Mr. J. A. McAlister, and Miss Madge Donald the credit of training the children is due; and considerable talent and ability is displayed by Miss Lena Booth as Ali Baba, Miss Marjory Holmes as Morgiana, Miss Minnie Grossman as Abdallah, and Miss Alice Pammenton as Ganem, the rest of the characters being filled by the children with intelligence.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—That marvellous Oriental illusionist Chung Ling Soo is on a return visit here this week, astounding the large audiences with weird mysticism; Tom and Marie Motramo, with music and humour, are again responsible for roars of laughter; the Delevines are here again too, successful as ever in their clever legmania act, Flipp and Flopp; the Royal Delomes, in Phantom Clogs, give a clever display of step-dancing; Emma Don's smart male impersonations are features of her vocal scena, On the Thames Embankment; Frank H. Fox is a capital and agile comedian of the light comedy type; Kathleen Gray's fine presence and good voice are advantages in her character songs; Beaty and Blanche, duettists, are dainty step-dancers; Peter Bermingham's Scotch songs and patter are amusing; and the Bioscope shows some fine films of Grahame White's flight.

The Palace.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—George D'Albert is introducing here this week some capital songs; Clark and Hayden win success which is well merited; Victor Brothers give a fine athletic and equilibristic performance; John R. Poole's Cairo Troupe are skilled instrumentalists, who present a unique performance; in a clever diabolo exhibition Sergeant Brennan's dexterity as a performer is warmly applauded; the Dancing Gilberts give a capital turn; the Comedy Meisters, entertaining as ever, are on a return visit; and the Palace Perfection Pictures are, as usual, a well-appreciated item.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The promenade concerts continue to be successful, and Mr. Norfolk Megone, the talented conductor, is constantly giving his audiences fresh numbers. Miss Violet Oppenshaw, a lady with a rich contralto voice, has been a great favourite, and Mr. Fowler Burton is a fine baritone vocalist.

New Spa and Gardens.—Managing-Director, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—Catlin's Royal Pierrots entered upon the last week of their present engagement on Monday. Mr. Sid Frere contributed some of his best humorous songs; Mr. George Houghton sang some fine tenor songs; Mr. Edmanson and his ventriloquial figure came in for well-deserved applause; and Mr. T. Braham-Fox (Mr. Tom Catlin's new stage name) gave some of his comic effusions with great effect. Mr. Golly Glynn's impersonations are very clever; and Mr. Jackson Brown and Mr. Albert Lyons are always humorous and pleasing. Some clever sketches are given this week, including the amusing farce Uncle's Return.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Miss Renée Glendower and company are here with What a Man Made Her. Mr. J. M. Ollvert gives a manly and popular impersonation of Doctor Mark Haven; Miss Renée Glendower wins hearty applause for her thoroughly artistic enactment of Janet McAllister; Mr. George Arthur is powerfully effective as the villainous Rupert Wogan Danescombe; Miss Stella Carmichael's representation of Lady Thora Danescombe merits praise; Mr. Martin Alwyne's Sir Ernest Cavendish and Miss F. Russel Speer's Dowager Countess are well played; Miss Tessa Myers is a vivacious Deborah; and Mr. Fred Acton is amusing as Gunnerstein. The play is finely mounted.

Alhambra.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Taree, "the Australian bushman," gives a clever musical turn, which is enthusiastically appreciated; Arabella Allen gives impersonations of characters from Dickens in admirable style; the Mezzettis are smart and diverting in their clever horizontal bar act, The New Recruit; the Four Louberts are good comedy acrobats; Will Smythe, comedian and acrobatic dancer, is well received; Queenie Major is a charming comedienne; Ethel Pierce, comedienne and dancer, wins applause; Jack Crawley comedian, appears with Fluffy, "the canine prima donna," and achieves much success; Bert and Dora submit a refined comedy act; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting.

Barrasford's Hippodrome. — Resident-Manager Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—The Mirza Golem Troup submit a novel and much appreciated turn with The Slave Dealers; Brataz's dogs are wonderfully clever in The Burglar's Fate; James Basnett, vocalist, wins hearty applause; the Karistons are skilful trapeze artists; the Carina Sisters are highly successful in their musical act; W. G. Wesley is a capital comedian; Paul Conchas displays some extraordinary feats of strength; the Three Comedy Chanters, harmonious comedians, are distinctly effective; the Havannas Troupe of eccentric acrobats are clever and entertaining; Cedar and Elgar are capital comedians; Damerell and Rutland are good comedy sketch artists; and Goodfellow and Gregson, the musical comedy duo, are very favourably received.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Frederick Mouillot's company is here with A Message from Mars. Mr. Vernon Travers merits warm praise for his admirable portrayal of Horace Parker; Mr. W. H. Brougham makes a dignified and impressive Messenger; Miss Aubrey Ashton gives a very fine impersonation of the aunt, Miss Parker; Miss Rose Helene submits a graceful and charming enactment of Minnie Templar; Mr. Norman Clark is well placed as the tramp; and the other parts are ably sustained.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Mann; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—Messrs. Daniel and Frank's company is here, in Caste. Miss Elsie Roberts makes a charming and emotional Esther Eccles; Miss Dorrie Roberts is a bright and captivating Polly Eccles; Mr. Percival Madgewick gives a fine portrayal of the Hon. George D'Alroy; Mr. Dudley Stuart is an excellent Captain Hawtree; Miss Victoria Wray-Holmes is a dignified Marquise; the bibulous Eccles is capitally enacted by Mr. Roland Daniel; and Mr. Theodore Kelly presents a diverting representation of Sam Gerridge.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—An excellent series of pictures is exhibited here. The Memento and The Girl and the Judge convey stirring dramatic stories; Candle-Making is an interesting and instructive film; In the Land of Eternal Summers is a splendid coloured picture; The Waiter's Dream is a trick representation; and much fun is afforded by The Wishing Charm and Foolshead on Skates. Mr. Arthur W. Briggs gives appropriate pianoforte accompaniments, and Mr. Osland Denner sings new baritone songs.

Theatre de Luxe.—Proprietors, Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. H. Cousens.—The animated pictures exhibited here are very attractive. A Victim of Bridge and A Brigand's Kindness of Heart are full of exciting incidents; The Ticket-of-Leave Man is highly dramatic; An Act of Honesty conveys a good comedy story; A Train Ride Through Lawry's Pass is highly interesting; and the films of an amusing character include Too Many Admirers and The Test.

BRISTOL. — Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is here with the London success Our Miss Gibbs. Miss Alice Pollard, who was an immense favourite here as principal girl in the last pantomime, acts most charmingly the name-part, singing and dancing also in her accustomed pleasing style; Mr. George Gregory is really amusing as Timothy Gibbs; Mr. H. V. Crofton acts excellently as Lord Eynsford; Mr. Ellis Holland does capitally as the Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint; Mr. Myles Clifton makes a stately Earl of St. Ives; Mr. Robert Nainby makes the most of Slithers; Mr. Ernest Mahar does well as Mr. Toplady; and Mr. Campbell Bishop is a business-like solicitor as Mr. Beavis. Miss Marie Wilson acts prettily as Lady Elizabeth Thanet; Miss Grace Wixon is a dignified Duchess of Minster; and all the remaining parts are carefully played. Miss Florence Phillips scores with her clever dance in Act II.; the chorus is strong and tuneful; the augmented orchestra does well under the direction of Mr. Harold Lonsdale; and the play is excellently staged.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Almost His Bride is being well played here by Mr. Stephen Pritt's company, the play being staged in good style. Mr. George R. J. Austin and Miss Yhda Moores act excellently their respective parts of Philip Rowland and Mona Gilchrist; Jasper Thorne and Myra Thorn have effective exponents in Mr. R. F. Stacey and Miss Lily Prescott; Mr. Stephen Pritt makes a good part of Simon Simson; Miss Cissie Clarke is amusing as Emma Baxter; Miss Adele Liddon is sufficiently stately as Ruth Gilchrist; and the Earl of Ullswater and Squire Rowland are well played by Mr. David McFarlane and Mr. Felly Dillson. The play is excellently staged, and the musical effects obtained by gramophone add considerably to the attraction.

Palace.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, is here for the week. He has a most enthusiastic reception, and all his new songs and clever dances are fully appreciated. Arthur Roberts and company score with their farcical sketch The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife; Kirk and Saraski perform with much grace their evolutions in the tank, one of the ladies being stated to hold the record for endurance under water; Lily and Harry Zanoni do some smart juggling and club throwing; the Lyric Mummers (Frank and Lilian) score with their vocal and comedy speciality; Nellie Strand is a pleasing comedienne; J. C. Inman, light comedian, is appreciated; Agnes Tina successfully mimics popular artists; and Frank Godfrey, comedian, obtains applause. Animated pictures conclude.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Horace Mills and company amuse with their comic sketch Off Duty; George Lashwood, comedian, is successful with his new songs; Barnold's animal actors do admirably in A Hot Time in Dogville; the dogs, cats, and monkeys are all admirably trained, Dan, the drunken dog, being a marvel; Charley Harvey and company entertain with their sketch The Broken Statue; Mabel Thorne is a pleasing comedienne; Ernest Tilbury is a good tenor vocalist; Lillian Oates sings a Maori song, and accompanies herself on the violin, obtaining considerable appreciation; the Kenna Brothers score with some novel acrobatic work; and the entertainment concludes with animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. James Cramer; Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Under the superintendence of Mr. Cecil A. Melton the drama The Shadows of a Great City is being presented. The sailor hero, Tom Cooper, is well sustained by Mr. Milton; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh capably undertakes the double rôle of Annie and Nellie Standish; Mr. Leonard Clarke as George Benson, Mr. H. M. Clifford as Abe Nathan, Miss Ethel Tooney as Biddy Roonan, and Miss Esmai Ellys as Mrs. Higgins do good work in their various characters. Mr. J. P. Marden is amusing as the sneak thief, Jim Farren.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Delighted and crowded audiences are here thoroughly enjoying the tuneful music, pretty dances, and excellent joking embodied in The Dollar Princess, as presented by Mr. George Edwardes's clever company. Nothing could be more pleasant than the charming acting and beautiful singing of Miss Norah Barry, in the rôle of Alice, and Mr. Alex Worcester is possessed of a good voice, which is heard to advantage in Freddy Fairfax; Miss Madeline Seymour is of striking beauty and fine stage appearance as Olga, and Miss Peggy Primrose as the lively Daisy is also very good indeed. Mr. Leslie Holland brings out the fun of the millionaire, Harry Conder; Mr. J. Cranston Neville is sufficiently foppish as Dick; hearty laughter is easily created by Mr. W. H. Rawlins as Bulger; and Mr. Sydney Lyndon makes a pleasant character of John Earl of Quorn. The chorus and orchestra are under the management of Mr. Ernest Vousden.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Highly interesting acrobats are the Croisit Trio, whose performance is neatly and cleverly carried out; great excitement is created by a sensationally dramatic sketch with the title A Society Woman; and Miss Dora Barrington is a clever turn, with songs in an operatic scena. The Santeron Wonders introduce plenty of fun into their jumping act, and Will Willis has some humorous songs; Sid Bandon is responsible for songs with catchy choruses, and Dan Hendy, comedian, can sing funny songs. The Empire Theatrescope pictures No Excitement.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—Sammy Shields' excellent joking here provokes a continuous roar of laughter, his football songs also being very acceptable; the Olympian Football Cyclists give a highly-interesting and exciting match awheel, and also organise a local competition; Tina Frank is a dainty soubrette; the Four Sydney Girls are good vocalists and dancers; the mysterious automaton "Simeon the Seer" causes much amazement, and Julian Mack has a host of good jokes well told; the Five Jolly Bakers, comedy risley acrobats, are accorded much appreciation; and Scouts to the Rescue is shown by the Palace Pictures.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — Opera House. — Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Vaudeville and living pictures continue to draw good houses. Miss Grace Wynne, "possessor of a good voice," is heard to special advantage; Mr. Nat Lewis's impersonations of children cause roars of laughter; Mr. Fred Arthur gives an original and finished entertainment, consisting of song and recitation; and excellent films are shown.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr. Fred Mouillot's company is here for the week. For the opening night The Greek Slave was staged, and was as successful as on a previous visit. Miss Annie Grey as Maia was a commanding figure, and she also sang and acted with charming effect. Miss Clarice Eldon was remarkably good as Antonia; Miss Adela Crespin rendered her songs with taste and danced with grace as Isis; Mr. Edward Carlton was particularly good as Heliodorus; Mr. Lionel Braham made a hit as Marius Pomponius, a part full of comedy; and Mr. W. J. Douglas and Mr. Sam Lockridge as Slaves were also thoroughly good. The Geisha is billed for the concluding three nights of the week.

CARDIFF. — New Theatre. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Tom Jones, on a return visit, is presented by Mr. Mouillot's company by arrangement with Mr. Robert Courtneidge. Miss Dorothy Castles, in the rôle of Sophia, charms all; a vivacious representative of Honour is found in Miss Clare Marsden; Partridge is well portrayed by Mr. E. Stratham Staples; Mr. Cyril Thompson's capital voice makes his delineation of Tom Jones one of particular merit; as Squire Western Mr. Fred Seymour causes many a genuine laugh; Mr. Michael Dwyer is quite at home in the rôle of Gregory; Mr. Roland Stagg makes the most of his opportunities as Blifil; Mr. Alworthy is safely entrusted to Mr. A. J. Nicholls; Miss Edith Jeffries as Lady Ballaston is particularly fascinating; Mr. Ernest Hartman is in charge of the full chorus, the latter being a feature of this elaborate production.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert J. Taylor.—Vesta Tilley is the centre of attraction, and it is doubtful if this popular lady has ever been accorded a more spontaneous, genuine, and flattering reception than Cardiffians have given this great favourite this week. The Brothers Egbert ("the happy dustmen") and Fred Curran (the popular comedian) are scarcely less successful in gaining hearty approbation; the Findens (Mr. and Mrs. Harold) appear in a capital sketch; Falco and Elda, in their interesting exhibition of Ju-jitsu, provide a most instructive turn; Cumminger and Colonna, a dancing couple, fully merit the plaudits accorded their skilful performance; Miss Addie Adell, in two Irish songs, gains much appreciation; and Little Lulu Williams, a Cardiff juvenile comedienne, shows exceptional promise. The Bioscope concludes.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Cambrian Theatres, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. E. Clay.—A welcome return visit of Mr. Oswald Cray's company in When It Was Dark is being paid this week, and good business has been done throughout. Mr. C. Wordley Hulse submits a weird rendition of Constantine Schwabe, endowing the difficult part with considerable realism; Mr. Oswald Cray fills the rôle of Basil Gorire with exceptional skill; Mr. Chas. A. Baker acquits himself of the responsibilities of Harold Spence with the ease of an experienced actor; as Sir Robert Llewellyn Mr. Edward Valentine plays the character to perfection; and the Rev. Mr. Byars is quite safely entrusted to Mr. Walter Manfree. Miss Lilian Herries achieves a great success as Gertrude Hunt; and Helena, at the hands of Miss Rosalie Notrelle, is very sweet. Mr. Sidney Claydon as Charlie Gayfly and Miss Madaline Grande as Gracie Goldeye prove diverting.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson.—At the head here is Burt Shepard, with potted poetry. One of the best class sketches yet seen on the Palace stage is that of The Key, by Jessie Danvers and her company. The acting throughout is of a high standard; and Miss Jessie Danvers as Bess, Gilbert Heron as Ted, and Victor Huntley as Dick, all contribute to make this intensely interesting playlet a thrilling performance. The Zampas, vocalists, dancers, and bâton swingers, obtain well-merited approbation for a clever item; and Libson and Barker, topical comedians, cause considerable merriment. The Maro Duo, eccentric triple-bar performers; Chas. Gardiner, comedian; Lily Edwardes, comedienne; and the Bioscope pictures are other attractions.

CARLISLE.—H.M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—A return visit of Mr. George Edwardes's company in The Merry Widow is again a big attraction. Miss Phyllys Le Grand, who now appears in the title-rôle, has everything in her favour—appearance, histrionic ability, and an excellent voice enable her to fit the part like the proverbial glove, and she is a big success throughout. Mr. Fred Leslie as the Prince is always in the picture, and makes admirable use of his many opportunities; Miss Ada Thomas is again Natalie, and sings and acts with delightful freedom and skill; and Miss Katie May dances charmingly as Frou-Frou. Mr. Edward D'Arcy is, if possible, funnier than ever as Popoff. With many new gags and all the best of the old ones, this clever comedian keeps his audience in roars of laughter; Mr. Ripley Evans's fine voice is heard to advantage in all his numbers; Nisch is most amusingly portrayed by Mr. Fred Fowler; and Mr. Adrian Beaumont creates merriment as the Waiter. The orchestra is under Mr. Harry Burton.

The Palace.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—Mr. Harry Atkinson is paying his first visit here with imitations; Les Arabellas are wire artists above the ordinary; Cavalli is an excellent ventriloquist, with smart and original patter; Charles Erard, pianist and mimic, gives quite an attractive turn; and Flo Burnett meets with success as a chorus vocalist. David Fuller's baritone ballads are most impressive; Madison and Webb in a comedy-sketch, and a very fine picture of the Cup Tie conclude a most interesting programme.

CASTLEFORD.—Royal.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—A Wrecker of Men is presented by Mr. C. Watson Mills' company, under the direction of Mr. Thompson Carruthers. As the unscrupulous Risca Miss Ruth Zillwood acts with vivid and realistic force, which merits no little eulogy; Doris Melville is played with care, precision, and grace by Gwendoline Talbot; Mr. Lydia Hart causes frequent laughter as Slopper; as Pharosaphus Mr. William Heilbronn gives a strong and telling performance; while Jim Murley is powerfully enacted by Arthur S. Pitt. Mr. Richard Bosco is to be commended for an able portrait of Railton, and the foppish and effeminate Hon. Reggie is well hit off by Mr. William A. Armour; Mr. Arthur Robinson acts consistently as John Strange; as Eric Melville Mr. Thompson Carruthers displays ability and skill; as Ezekiel and Karnaphus Mr. Edward A. Brooks merits praise. To-night this theatre closes until August, and, in the meantime, the building is to be cleaned and overhauled.

Queen's Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Chas. H. Beanland and Will H. Emerson.—An attractive programme is headed by Charles M. Daly and company, in a laughable comedy sketch Where There's a Will. The Adras are a talented pair of acrobats and head-balancers; Frank Dunlop renders some good songs, and causes much amusement with his patter; Minnie D'Aubyn is a charming contralto vocalist, with chorus songs, and the Sisters Wingrove are bright and graceful dancers and vocalists; Fame and Fortune keep the audience hugely entertained with clever knock-about business and patter; Sam Williams is a character vocalist who pleases; and the pictures of the Loyal Dominion Company are entertaining.

CHATHAM.—Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Bert Lytton, light comedy artist; Mlle. Ottino, with neat conjuring tricks; Bowman and Morton, a very entertaining couple, whose scena Mixed Pickles, has an excellent reception; the Four Panamas, in a smartly-worked pantomimical speciality, The Delineator; Ted Cowan, with a taking ditty "Sing a song"; Jack Fortescue and company, in their dramatic playlet A Gambler's Wife; and the Cavalottis, who create a highly favourable impression with their musical act Ten Minutes with the Great Composers.

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. George Humphries.—Topping the bill is Miss Flo Stanley's musical comedy success Prince of the Dandies, presented by Arthur Watson, who scores throughout as Sprouts. Miss Flo Stanley appears as Daisy Highclass, and gives a bright performance; Gordon's Scottish songs are freely applauded; the Lannons dance in their well-known style. The programme also includes Harry Lawson, eccentric comedian; Victoria Glenn; Ford and Hanson, in musical scena; Blanche and Powell, society entertainers; and new films by the Edisonograph.

CHELTENHAM.—Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company, in The Arcadians, proves a huge attraction. Mr. Gus Oxley as James Smith and the transformed "Simplicitas," with his inimitable drollery, puts the house into hearty laughter; Mr. Frank Collins as Peter Doody, the jockey, was equally successful with a different, yet none the less pleasing, style of humour; Mr. Roy Sidney was very pleasing as Jack Meadows, and Miss Mysie Devine as Eileen Kavanagh, his inamorata, sang and acted delightfully. Miss Marion Edwards as Sombra was irreproachable, her singing being much enjoyed; Miss Katie Yates as Chrysea was always charming; Miss Madge Haines as Mrs. Smith was a huge success. Mr. Berkeley Davies as Time made a difficult part convincing; Mr. Frank Henry was a picturesque Astrophel; Mr. W. Dawson looked well as Strephon; Mr. Roy Lorraine did well as Bobby, and Mr. C. Herbert Hewetson was well placed as Sir George Paddock; Mr. Hubert Glenny as Percy Marsh, Mr. Percival Latimer as Reggie, and Mr. Patrick Evans as Sir Thomas Ryan were good, as also were Mr. Leslie Gray as Harry Desmond and Miss Daisy Bindley as Damœtas. Mr. Albert Bartlett capably directed the excellent chorus and augmented orchestra.

Albert Hall.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. L. Glen-Barber.—Miss Millie Gordon is the principal attraction this week, her beautifully artistic dancing and brilliant exponency of the "dans seul" proving a huge draw. Johnnie Phillips gives some clever bone solos, and does some smart acrobatic dancing; and Ernest Clark is an acceptable descriptive vocalist.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The Race Week attraction is an excellent variety bill. Phil Ree's Stable Lads give an exciting and well-acted novel racing sketch, entitled Not a Crook; Vesta Nixon is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Will Huston, an original and smart coster comedian; Polo and Florence astound with their herculean equilibristic feats; and Helene Mohr charms her audience with skilful dancing and racy songs. Bonnetti and Corrie provoke much amusement by their eccentric juggling acts; Carson Hicks, a novel singer and dancer, scores a well-merited success; and Hinton and Wooton give an exceedingly clever turn by presenting a football match on bicycles. Vernon's biographic pictures conclude.

CHORLEY.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Dereve.—An excellent company, headed by Miss Florence Glossop-Harris, is presenting Shakespearean plays, the répertoire including The Merchant of Venice, The Taming of the Shrew, Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, Twelfth Night, and Othello. A hearty welcome was given to the company by a large audience on Monday when The Merchant of Venice was presented. As Portia Miss Florence Glossop-Harris was in every way admirable; Mr. Cellier as Shylock was most successful; and others who contributed to a most enjoyable performance were Mr. J. H. Irvine as Bassanio, Mr. Gordon Philliott as Launcelot Gobbo, Miss Nora Craigie as Nerissa, and Mr. Murray Kinnell as Lorenzo.

CHORLTON - CUM - HARDY. — Chorlton Theatre and Winter Gardens.—Proprietors, The Chorlton Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Stott; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fredk. J. Reece.—Mr. H. Flockton-Foster's costume comedy company opened a six nights' engagement here on Monday. Miss Enid Hamilton, in a pretty song-scena, was ably assisted by Miss Rita Vincent, and Messrs. Tom E. Roma and Ernie Le Butt; Mr. Donald Gilbert and Mr. James Craig sang effectively a humorous duet; Mr. Flockton-Foster powerfully recited a Kipling ballad; and two musical sketches elicited applause, Miss Ray Morgan being an amusing Jemima.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Neville Claude's company, in The Girl from Kay's, opened to a nicely-filled house on Monday. As Hoggenheimer Mr. Henry Adnes was drollery itself, never allowing the interest to flag; Miss Florrie Millington was an undoubted success in the title-rôle; Miss Lilian Rignold extracted much from the character of Ellen; Miss May Wiltshire was excellent as Mrs. Chalmers; and the part of Norah was ably sustained by Miss Rosie Burnett. Mr. Baron H. Herron was immensely funny as the irrepressible Joseph; and Master Walter H. Pink made a nimble Pepper. Mr. John H. Latham was an efficient Harry Gordon; Mr. Chas. Adeson was an excellent Hon. Percy; and Mr. Richard Andean a capable Quench, K.C.

Hippodrome.—Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—That charming musical play The Arcadians is delighting audiences here. Mr. Chas. A. Stephenson as Simplicitas extracts the maximum of fun and frolic from the part, and the dry, droll character of Peter Doodey is portrayed by Mr. Alfred Beers in a manner which evokes constant mirth. Miss Gertrude Aylward is highly popular as the amorous Mrs. Smith; Miss Sybil Tancredi sings delightfully as Sombra; and the singing and dancing of Miss Mollie McIntyre as Eileen is charming and picturesque. Mr. Arthur Macdonald works well as Jack Meadows, and the chorus sings in excellent style.

CONSETT.—New Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Messrs. Shiel-Porter and Garth's company is here this week. The Money Spinner was presented to a good house on Monday. Mr. Garth as Lord Kengussie proved to be a very capable actor; Baron Croodle was ably played by Mr. McCullock; Mr. Vane made an interesting Harold Boycott; and Mr. Bickell a capital Jules Faubert. Miss Thornton was successful as Millicent Boycott; and as Dorinda Miss Coleman excelled. Still Waters Run Deep was billed for Wednesday, and Caste for Friday.

CORK.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—An amateur company is presenting here Saturday to Monday, by Fred Fenn and Rd. Pryce, preceded by Sheilah's Dilemma. The performance is in aid of local charities.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Thos. P. O'Brien.—Lamberti, impersonator of famous musicians, gives a refined and artistic performance; Rose and Jeanette, in a singing and dancing act, win applause; Flo Chevalier, burlesque artist, contributes a pleasing turn; Dart and Leonard, comedy acrobats, give a clever display, and manage to wedge much humour into their turn; Ford Williams, a powerful baritone, contributes a couple of delightful numbers; Radie Furman, "the jolly little Dutch girl," evokes laughter by her clever singing and whimsical dancing; the Leymens introduce a clever and skilful equilibristic juggling act; Vera Rochdale remains over from last week, and continues a favourite; the Carpate Brothers, Roumanian bar performers, are the best pair of bar performers seen here at any time—their performance is daring; and the Palascope pictures are the newest.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—The Cingalee is just as successful as on its first visit here, the company being Mr. Haldane Crichton's. As Chambhuddy Ram Mr. Hylton Warde proves the life and soul of the play; Mr. Frank Barclay as Harry Vereker and Mr. Herbert Franklyn as Bobby Warren give well-rendered impersonations; Miss Flossie Greensmith is clever as Peggy Sabine; Miss Ray Anderson as Lady Patricia Vane is a capable actress, and possesses a charming voice; Miss Isa Bowman is clever in the character of Nanoya; Mr. Frank Lennard and Mr. Grafton Williams as Boobhamba and Sir Peter Loftus are amusing.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—The principal turn is provided by Gustave Fasola, the Indian fakir, who does all sorts of bewildering tricks. *The CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Alexander Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—Mr. William Greet's Sign of the Cross company is winning approval here. Miss Evelyn Hope is admirably suited to the part of Mercia, acting with sweetness and dignity; the rôle of Stephanus offers scope for the exquisite acting of Miss Winifred Delevanti; Miss Dorothy Lart acts powerfully and is a handsome Berenice; Miss Esme Lee is successful as Dacia; and praise is due to Miss Beryl Hamilton as Poppæ and Miss Mary Newcombe as Ancaria. Mr. W. Lawson Butt enacts Marcus Superbus with telling effect; Mr. W. Mayne Lynton just touches the right note as Nero; Mr. Charles Aldred is expressive as Tigellinus; Mr. Frank Wood makes a droll Glabrio; Mr. Phil Ellis is commendable as Virturius; and convincing impersonations of Flavius and Titus are given by Messrs. W. Fleet and H. Raymond.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—The Flood Tide is capitally acted by Harry P. Selwyn's company; the Meymotts are excellent in the humorous sketch, My Artful Wife; Zaleski gives a remarkably clever contortionist act; Gertie Gitana is first-rate in a vocal and comedy turn; Iris Fox is a charming comedienne; Lawrence Barclay is a whimsical comedian; Carney and Armstrong are an entertaining pair; Madge Osmond is a smart male impersonator; Ted Waite, comedian, is good; and others who please are Queenie Essex, vocal comedienne; and Sam Mayo.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Miss Winifred Maude's company, with The Sins of a City, is giving two shows nightly. Mr. Arthur L. Read as Sandy M'Donald, appears to great advantage; a fine rendering is given by Mr. Harold Neath of Donald M'Ivor; Mr. Maurice Jones is clever in the parts of Joe Woodleigh and Jasper Woodleigh; Mr. Morris Maud does well in the heavy lead; and Mr. Victor du Cane is a typical Jew. Miss Minnie Millwarde sings and dances in the part of Midge, and is well received; Miss Winifred Maude is admirable as Seaweed; and Mrs. Wingold Lawrence shines as Leabin L'Estrange.

HIPPODROME THEATRE, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Nicholls.—Vivian and company, in The Toyshop, head the bill, and prove very popular; Mlle. de Rose, the lady Foli, assisted by Miss Hilda Claremont, make a great hit as vocalists; the Melbournes are clever; the Lesters, vaudeville artists, go well; J. H. Hawtrey sings some sensible songs; Alf. Chester, comedian, keeps the house in a merry mood. Nellie Wigley and the Hipposcope pictures conclude a fine programme.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Owner and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Denley.—This week is devoted to the annual Carl Rosa visit, and the occasion is being largely taken advantage of by local lovers of the lyric drama. The all too brief season opened on Monday night with a production of Tannhäuser. Mr. B. C. Hedmondt, who took the title-rôle, gave a magnificent performance, acting where required as well as singing with fine dramatic effect; Miss Gertrude Vania, as his partner in several trying duets, displayed the possession of a voice of wide range, exceptionally rich in the higher notes, and she also possesses an admirable stage presence; Mr. Alan Turner's Wolfram was successful from every point of view; whilst the superb bass of Mr. Arthur Winckworth was heard to rare advantage. The Shepherd Boy's music was sweetly sung by Miss Lawson Taylor, and the minstrel songs had excellent justice at the hands of Mr. Alexander Richard, Mr. Charles Brierley, Mr. Albert Felton, and Mr. Wm. O'Connor. The entire performance was in accordance with the best traditions of the company, and the band and chorus were on a scale commensurate with the importance of the piece. The Queen of Sheba (Tuesday), Faust (Wednesday), Il Trovatore (Thursday), Destiny (Friday), and Carmen and Maritana (Saturday) were the other operas billed.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes.—The premier attraction here is presented by Haines and Bothwick, and their comedy sketch Half-a-dollar is in every way successful. Second place is deservedly allotted to Rappo and Ella, gymnasts of excellent ability; the Three Clarks, jugglers and club manipulators, accomplish much that is clever and neat; Madame Adah Payne, a delightful soprano, makes herself eminently popular; Stephens and Rennior as burlesque comedians create hearty laughter; Will Mitcham, instrumentalist, gains deserved applause; and Fred Herbert sings topical verses in a smart style. The Bioscope concludes a good bill.

DEVONPORT.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Only a Little Boy, as played by Messrs. Watson and Ussher's company, proves an excellent attraction. Miss Dot Forde plays the name-part in a way which earns universal admiration; Mr. Watson carefully delineates the drunkard Bragstone; Miss Florence E. Florence is a creditable Jane; Miss Mary Ainslie is well suited as Lady Meynell; and Mr. Oswald Douglas does well as Steve Kingdom.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—The military tabloid play Drummed Out is excellently performed by Mr. A. C. Lilly's company; Mastro and Mlle. Oretta execute some first-rate jugglery; Dancit's dancing abilities are most pronounced; Frank Seeley soon gets on good terms with his audience; Earle and Melville are responsible for some first-rate patter; and Will Harmony ably impersonates some well-known stars. Ethel Campbell, an attractive comedienne, supplies the remaining number.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. J. W. Cordiner's company, in Dare-Devil Dorothy, is paying a return visit here. Dorothy is capably taken by Miss Gertrude de Lacy, whose singing is much enjoyed; Mr. James Salter as Silas Crump keeps the house in continuous merriment; Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith sings and dances admirably; Miss Kathleen Stewart does well as Ruth Montrose; Mr. Geo. A. Fox makes a popular hero of George Fielding; and the villainy of Captain Dudley is fully illustrated by Mr. Robert Gilbert, who receives much assistance from Mr. Edward Aldworth as Hawkins. Mr. Deane Cliffe makes a humorous Featherstone Haugh; Mr. W. H. Troutback is good as Smith; and some excellent dancing is introduced by Misses Iris and Lillie Elvido.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. R. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler; Musical-Director, Mr. E. G. Summerfield.—Heading a good bill here this week are the Four Black Diamonds, who score well with their capital singing and dancing; Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, surprise everybody with their performance; an interesting turn is provided by the Austral Trio in a refined scena, A Musical Evening; Tom and Neal bring down the house with their burlesque boxing and wrestling; Wilman proves himself to be an excellent musician; the Fimans cause roars of laughter in The Fire Station; Lilian Lowe is well applauded for her singing; Williams and Hayes, the prima donna and the tramp, go well; and animated pictures complete.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. George Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. Jack Harris.—An attractive bill is provided here, a series of animated pictures on the Harriscope being a leading feature. The principal variety turn is supplied by Marek Shah, the Indian necromancer, in mysterious illusions; Lytton and De Silda meet with favour; Phil Terris's comic creations evoke much laughter; John Budd has an excellent baritone voice; Chris. Masters excels as a character vocalist; and Master Bedford, a cornetist, does well. The Daintees supply some good singing and dancing.

DONCASTER.—GRAND THEATRE AND EMPIRE.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—A clever juggling contribution is sponsored here by Cole and Rags; Mark Stuart, patter comedian, is deservedly popular; and Gladys Hooley, in her original scena Fiddle and I, is an artist bristling with possibilities. The Spanish Goldini Troupe, in their rôle as carpet-spinning acrobats, constitute a novel feature; Leo Fields, comedian, is particularly sparkling; Maud Bettison's pretty voice wins golden opinions; Carlos Ménard, novelty musician, creates a furore; and the concluding item, F. Aeronaut and company in the laughable sketch An Airship Elopement, is humorous and quaint.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. Whitbread's company, now in their second week here, is playing The Shaughraun. Mr. Tyrone Power gives an excellent study of Conn; Father Doolan is in the capable hands of Mr. Dane Clarke; and as Conn's mother Mrs. Glenville fills the part with her accustomed ability. Mr. Henry C. Ward acts the part of Corry Kinchela very well; and as Harvey Duff Mr. Morley Carroll does excellently. Miss Monica Kelly plays Moya in capital style; Robert Pfolliott is in the capable hands of Mr. Kendrew Neilson; and as Captain Molyneux Mr. Fred Lloyd does capitally.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. P. Wright.—This week we have Mr. W. Graham Arthurs' company in The Mockery of Marriage. Mr. Graham Arthurs takes the part of Dick Kenyon, afterwards Sir Montague Jephson, in which he displays his ability with great success; Miss Mabel Liston acts the part of Alva Kenyon in a very finished manner; Miss C. Middleton is pleasing and effective as Rose Verham; and the other parts are capably filled.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Marsh.—The company here this week includes Frank and Jen Latona, in their musical act; Siems, the Danish coin-card manipulator; Ryan and Hall, acrobats and comic wrestlers; and the Elite Harmony Boys, in their harmonised choruses, songs, and dances. Billy Hobbs, Lillian Trevellie, the Yokels, Sam Dalton, and Ethel Dancy also appear.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Jones; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—This week the artists are Emerson and Baldwin, the famous American jugglers, Carlisle and Wellman in their novel musical act, Lucy Coventry, Fred Lyndo, Benson and Rose, Baby Wolff, Wright and Ward, Stanley and Vandyke, and Denby and Dent.

WORLD'S FAIR.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—Here we have the Two Extremes (comedians and dancers), little Bert Allen (vocalist), Alice Leigh (ballad vocalist), F. Wilson Forest (monologuist), and Sylvester Stuart (coon and dancer).

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—This house opened on Monday night (for two weeks) as a picture palace, and the many films shown were much enjoyed by large audiences. The Merry Widow is booked to open the theatre on Whit Monday.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Midland Entertainment Corporation, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Watt.—Included in an attractive programme are the Arthur Breton Troupe in a screaming knockabout act, A Sleepless Night; Venola Brothers, gymnastics; Delvene's Marionettes; René, clever little lady juggler; 3 Rochesters, speciality dancing act; Dainty Doretta, comedienne and dancer; Nell Alma, comedienne; Bert Bowden, quaint comedian; and the Empire Pictures.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—A hearty welcome was accorded The Merry Peasant on Monday evening, on its first visit to Dundee. As the Merry Peasant, Mattheus Roiter, Mr. Courtice Pounds submits a really delightful study of the part; Stefan is pleasantly undertaken by Mr. Percy Carr, who sings and acts with good effect; as Annamiri Miss Gwladys Gay makes a decided hit; and Little Mary Glynne is a huge favourite, her rendering of Little Rosalie being marked with conspicuous ability. Mr. Ernest J. Langford as Zoph, the village constable, is mirth-provoking in the extreme, his extraordinary dancing being unique; Lindoberer is well sustained by Mr. William Hindson; and Vincent excellently played by Mr. Frank Wilson; Mr. Horace Dawson acquits himself with distinction as General Count Von Grumow; and Mr. Sidney Johnstone is an amusing Lieut. Grumow; Miss Madge Vincent as Freda sings and acts delightfully; and Miss Tina Martini does extremely well as Lizi.

KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—An excellent all-round bill is submitted here this week. Ferguson and Mack score in their laughing absurdity The Dimple Sisters; Lawson and Francis Namon appear with success in an unusually clever cycling and ball-punching act; H. Hodgson and H. Lowther and company, in the farcical comedietta, Barmaids, provide any amount of fun; Bi-Bo-Bi is a thorough musician; and Ada Fawn scores a hit in her song, entitled "I'll wear your little band of gold"; Leolin appears in an effective juggling scena; Rose and Calvert are popular in their sketch, Captain Kettle and His Charming Mate; Harry Herbert is diverting with a capital repertoire; and the programme is completed by the Kingscope.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—The Outcast of the Family occupies the boards here, and is admirably interpreted by Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company. Mr. Wybert Clive essays the part of Squire Thorne with much power; Mr. S. Leigh-Courtney bears himself bravely as Harry Thorne; Mr. Bert Oates handles the rôle of the villainous Richard Martin with a realistic touch; as Stephen Barry, the blacksmith, Mr. Herbert Bentone is responsible for a fine character study; Abram Wasper, the bailiff, is effectively played by Mr. Edward W. Cudd; the comedy relief is capably handled by Mr. Tom Armitage, a comical Joe Bushell, and Miss Freda Beckett, a bright and amusing Nancy Bray. Miss Elsie Shelton supplies a really good delineation of Ruth, and instils the necessary amount of emotion into the character; Miss Maud Leslie Cudd's rendition of Grace Redburn is marked by much grace; and the child's part of Little Rob is intelligently rendered by Little Arthur. Messrs. Herbert Reed, M. Platting, N. Horton, T. Carruthers, and E. Melville complete a strong cast.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—Corman's Juveniles, in a pretty scena, The Waif, are topping the bill here this week; A-Ba-Bé's Picture Postcard Album shows some effective pictures; Tom Child has an enthusiastic reception; and Hall and Wilson Trio, with a sensational cycle act, prove favourites; Robb Gilmore causes merriment with his quaint songs and patter; the Hoston Twins, versatile comedians, meet with well-merited appreciation; and the Northcotes sing in good style. The Cathedoscope shows the Cup Tie Final.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company is appearing here in The Prince and the Beggar Maid. Mr. Ernest H. G. Cox as Prince Olaf gives a bright, animated, and pleasing performance; Mr. Alfred Goddard imparts much character and penetrating effect to his work as Hildred; Mr. Victor Ray is a pointed and expressive Prince Michael; Mr. Herbert Burton is a refreshing, frank, and happy Captain Hector; Mr. J. H. Vyvian is well placed as Carl Stromburg; Mr. Sydney Bayliss is impressive as Nathan; and other gentlemen take the remaining parts in satisfactory manner. Miss Stella Campbell imparts much interest and cleverness to her work as Monica, the beggar maid; Miss Elmie Kemp is a complete success as a sympathetic and able Camiola; and excellent help is given by Miss Mona Hall as Viola.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Herbert Sleath's company is paying a return visit here in The White Man. Mr. Wilfred Forster is very happily cast as Jim Carton, and his work is easy, natural, and effective; Mr. Frank Mayo is a bold and convincing Cash Hawkins; Mr. Charles Maunsell is a successful Kerhill; Mr. Eric Hudson repeats a conspicuously realistic performance as the Indian Chief; Mr. Ray Raymond is a strong, capable Sheriff; Mr. Alexander Wills is a gentle, pleasing Mr. Petrie; and Mr. R. A. Brandon is a striking and consistently clever Big Bill. Miss Kathleen Maude is a pretty, womanly, and sympathetic Countess of Kerhill; Miss Ormonde Wynne does earnest work as Lady Kerth; Miss Hilda Barita is a picturesque Nat-u-rich; and Miss Dorothy Duncan is a bright, attractive Mabel.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here are the Sutcliffe Family, and these Scottish pipers, dancers, and acrobats rouse the audience to enthusiastic applause; Mons. Jules Charmettes is a popular eccentric comedian; the Luzzellas give a very clever and varied turn as gymnasts and wire performers; Mr. Rowland Hill is a funny and original comedian; Solo and Mayo dance and sing in amusing and able manner; Royburn and Dix are a couple of laughter-making patterers; Miss Eva Noel sings and plays the cornet, and new pictures are shown.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Mr. George A. De Gray and Harry Masterman's company in The Angel of His Dreams is here. Mr. De Gray as the Rev. Christian Esdaile gives a capital performance; Mr. Wallace Campbell as Major Dudley Ferrars is to be complimented on his natural impersonation; Sir Francis Tregarthen has a very capable representative in Mr. Charles Arnold; Mr. Robert Hall is well suited in the part of Roy Ferrars; Miss Effie Bartlett as Hilda Revelle gives a clever assumption of the part; Miss Edna Earl as Milly St. Austell is all that could be desired; and other characters are in capable hands. The scenery is very effective.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—The production of The Merchant of Venice by Mr. Arthur Phillips, brought from the Court Theatre, London, is an interesting and attractive performance. Mr. Phillips submits a good study of Shylock, whose thirst for revenge is strong y emphasised, other and better aspects of the character not being overlooked. Mr. James Berry is convincing as Antonio; Bassanio has an excellent representative in Mr. E. Harcourt Williams; Salanio, Salarino, and Gratiano are portrayed with commendable spirit by Messrs. Stuart Vinden, Richard Fielding, and Herbert Dansey; Mr. Leslie Palmer and Mr. L. M. Briggs fairly realise their rôles of Morocco and Arragon; and the Duke of Mr. Cyril Vernon, as also the Lorenzo of Mr. Scott Sunderland, are good characterisations; while the two Gobbos, father and son, are well played by Mr. Arthur Payne and Mr. Ross Shore. Miss Amy Brandon Thomas makes a very charming Portia, being particularly effective in the Trial scene; Miss Dora Hole is to be congratulated on her Nerissa; and Miss Christie Laws creates a favourable impression as Jessica.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Mr. John Clyde and company are here this week with the evergreen drama Jeanie Deans. Mr. Clyde plays the part of the Laird of Dumbiedykes with much pawky humour, and he is admirably supported by the members of his company. Miss Lydia Donovan acts with force and feeling in the title-rôle; and Miss Jean Mackintosh is a sweet and tender Effie. Mr. W. S. Stevenson is an imposing, robust David Deans; and Mr. Herbert Evelyn is an emphatic Geordie Robertson. Miss Florence Lambeth plays effectively as Madge Wildfire, and she sings the snatches of songs in the part with expression; Mr. Jas. Finlayson is good as Radcliffe; and Mr. George Delamore is excellent as the Counsel for the Defence. Minor characters are well enacted by Mr. Jas. Kilspindie as Reuben Butler; Mr. George Elliott as Black Frank; Mr. J. Oswald as Tyburn Tim; and Mr. Charles Aitken as the Lord Justiciary, a small part, played with great tact and intelligence. The play is carefully staged, and is drawing large audiences.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Armand Mascard.—There is a highly-meritorious programme here this week. De Biere, a very clever sleight-of-hand performer, executes various tricks with extreme deftness, and his cabinet mystery puzzles the audiences; Mr. W. Ellis and company act in an amusing fashion a laughable piece, entitled The Sleepwalker, which evokes loud applause; Miss Dolly Golden dances with great neatness and charm; La Belle Nello gives a graceful exhibition in her bathing scena; and Mr. Neville Delmar contributes an artistic whistling turn. Professor Thornbury's lightning sketches and ventriloquial entertainment are exceedingly well done; the Vetter Bros. present a dashing gymnastic performance in The Page's Recreation; and Mr. Leonard Teel, comedian, and views shown by the King's Bioscope complete an excellent bill.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—At the head of this week's list of artists stands Mr. Van Biene, the actor musician, who, assisted by Miss Violet Vaughan and Mr. Munroe, makes use of a new and pleasing sketch, entitled Van Biene's Dilemma, to charm the audience with a series of selections played on the 'cello with the popular and talented musician's well-known skill. The Leslie Bros. also provide a clever musical entertainment, mingled with buffoonery, which affords considerable amusement; a comedy skit by the Haytors, styled The Electrician, has the merit of novelty, and is smartly performed; Ike and Will Scott show to advantage as diverting comedians and expert dancers; and another clever exhibition of dancing is given by Bertha Winder. Impersonations of famous historical characters are successfully presented by Rauschle, whose repertory includes many notables, past and present. Other enjoyable single-handed turns are supplied by Winifred Ward, who masquerades in male attire; by Frank Cass, a strenuous vocal comedian; and by Johnny Fuller, whose antics and gambols and wire-walking in the guise of a kitten are very natural. Good football films are shown on the American Bioscope.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—A thoroughly up-to-date series of films in this week's programme gives an excellent representation of incidents during Mr. Roosevelt's recent hunting expeditions. Supreme Recognition is a strong Russian drama; The Open Gate and The Cowboy and the Squaw are pleasant love-stories; and humour is shown in such subjects as Foolshead as Reporter and The Newlyweds.

PRINGLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—The President's Special is a remarkably fine picture in an admirable series here, and there are many others, both dramatic and humorous, which afford variety enough to suit all tastes. The musical programme is a capital one, and includes good singing and other turns.

ELLESMERE PORT.—HIPPODROME AND PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Corelli and Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Corelli.—Topping the bill this week is Miss Amy Allnutt, who is deservedly applauded for her rendering of several up-to-date songs each performance; a humorous comedian and dancer is seen in Fred Dice; Edwards and Ward, in a smart comedy act, score with song and dance; a much-appreciated contribution is supplied by Prof. Jennion's Marionettes; and films depicting latest interesting events are thrown upon the screen in a very clear manner by the Hippodrome Bioscope.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—A Son's Devotion is staged here twice nightly by Mr. Edward Ranier's company. Captain Eric Farnham is powerfully portrayed by Mr. Edward Ranier; Esther Farnham is sympathetically played by Miss Harrison; and Mr. A. Field Fisher is a thorough-paced stage scoundrel as Captain Rutland. The humorous element is well supported by Mr. G. Gregory as Sergeant O'Mailly, cleverly assisted by Miss Phillis Dane as Drummer Knight.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy; Musical-Director, Mr. Dudley Powell.—The Vampire Dance, which is being presented by its originators, Mildred Deverez and Tom Terriss, has a weird fascination about it which is proving tremendously attractive to Exonians; the Warsaw Brothers in their Australian comedy musical act are exceedingly popular; the Stein Esthor Trio contribute a daring and smart hand-jumping act; Fred Walmesley, the dotty poet, has a happy style; the Cheers, in their original scena, introduce some highly-trained cats; the Melroses are two amusing musical comedy artists; and Olive West sings and dances excellently.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. W. Ebbutt.—The management has initiated a short season of vaudeville this week. The famous "B. B." living pictures fill the bill for the most part. Miss Nellie McNab, Scottish vocalist, sings illustrated songs successfully; Cinephone selections are given at intervals.

FLEETWOOD.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Mr. W. V. Garrod's company is appearing with much success here in A Country Girl in London. Mr. Charles Halling is excellent as the Squire of Langdale; Mr. Garrod himself enacts the part of Frank Gordon in a realistic manner; Mr. William Bradford has the trying part of Godfrey Clinton, an adventurer, and he comes out of the ordeal with great success; Job Smithers has a capable exponent in Mr. Owen Remonde; Mr. Frank Dallas, as Heinrich Oppenheim, keeps the audience in good humour, in which he is ably supported by Miss Alice Clarke. The title-rôle is in the hands of Miss Bertha Kingston, who quickly establishes herself a favourite by her clever acting; Miss Ethel Crawford as Gwendoline Gordon also gives a first-class rendering. For the latter three nights of the week Are You the Man? was announced.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is here in the American drama The Still Alarm. Mr. Mathew H. Glenville as Jack Manley plays with sincerity and sympathy; Miss Beatrice Shirley makes a charming Elinor Fordham; a good study of Franklyn Fordham is given by Mr. Lewis Gordon; while Mr. Gerald Kennedy as the villainous John Bird is excellent. Miss Lydia Audre is an admirable Carrie Wilbur; much amusement is afforded by Mr. Henry C. Gilpin as Doc Wilbur; and Mr. Edward Hobart is well placed as Willie Manley; Miss Mable Veriton scores as Mrs. Manley. The play is well staged.

THE LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—This popular place of entertainment continues to grow in favour, and a most enjoyable programme is afforded by the Go Bangs. Miss Amy Brook is excellent at the piano; Miss Kate Conway must be commended on her choice of songs; Miss Elsie Norris is also excellent in her song, "The bonnie blue 'kerchief"; Mr. Bryan O'Sullivan, a cultured baritone, scores a marked success; Mr. Edward Lacy keeps everyone in roars throughout; and Mr. Charles Conyers is excellent in his ventriloquial entertainment.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Leivers and Bennett; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—Mr. Charles Carte's company is here this week, playing condensed versions of A Noble Brother and Drink, on the two-shows-a-night principle. In the former piece Mr. Carte again gives his well-known impersonation of Jerry the tramp, well supported by Miss K. Birchley as Nana, Miss Alice Ballard (Mrs. Leigh), Miss Amy M. Gross (Rosie), Mr. Sidney Gordon (Col. Leigh), Mr. Frank Carlile (Henry Travers), and Mr. Henry Childs (Jack Elsworth).

GATESHEAD. — King's. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Local Manager and Licensee, Mr. Sydney B. Stringer.—Heading a bill composed of most excellent items submitted here this week are the Four Royal Scots, in a vocal, instrumental, and comedy act, the accomplished ladies provoking loud applause; Hanvarr and Lee juggle and tumble with their accustomed grace, and make the usual hit; Olive and Owen in a vocal scena, The Roadside Tinkers, provide most agreeable fare; the Bros. St. Clair play a football match on cycles with much skill; a powerful Yorkshire tenor, Ted Gill, is specially good; the Rosses show an expertness in dancing which is vociferously recognised; Bertha Evelyn, comedienne, and the Kingscope complete the list.

Metropole Theatre.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. Edmund Tearle, supported by Miss Kate Clinton and a specially selected company, are appearing here this week in a répertoire of plays, comprising The Octoroon, Jeanie Deans, Shall We Forgive Her? East Lynne, and It's Never Too Late to Mend.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. G. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Bardsley.—The picture programme here includes Newcastle United Winning the English Cup and Hearts are Trumps. Harry Tate's company in Motoring, and Dan Daly, comedian, are attractive turns.

Black's Picture Palace.—The principal films here this week are The Thead of Destiny and The Prisoner of the Golden Isle. In addition to the pictures Tom Casey, the singing newsboy, and Isa Gibson, comedienne, provide entertainment.

Ravensworth Picture Hall.—Proprietors, Messrs. R. Allan and T. F. McDonald; Manager, Mr. R. Allan; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. S. Newton.—The star items are Rivalry of the Two Guides, The Livingstone Case, and the English Football Cup Final. Tom Berrick, comedian and dancer, adds variety to the entertainment.

GLASGOW.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy O. Humphrys.—Cavalière Castellano's Italian Opera Company began their second week here with a presentation of Verdi's Ernani, to which all the artists did ample justice, the quartette and chorus in Act 3 evoking much enthusiasm. Signora Protti gives a fine rendering of Elvira; Signor Barbato makes an effective Ernani; Silva is admirably portrayed by Signor Massia; Carlo V. is well interpreted by Signor Modesti; and Signora Massia as Giovanna, Signor Antonini as Scudiero, and Signor Quintina as Jago complete a satisfactory cast. Lucia di Lammermoor, Un Ballo in Maschera, Carmen, Rigoletto, and Cavaleria Rusticana, with I Pagliacci, are also in the week's bill.

King's, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—A return visit is paid by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company with Mrs. Ponderbury's Past. As before, the comedy is well staged, and all the members of the company work well together. Mr. George Mudie is capital in the part of Mr. Ponderbury and causes much amusement; Miss Celia Gordon's portrayal of Mrs. Ponderbury has much to commend it, and displays an excellent grasp of the character; while Miss Florence Wellesley makes a capital Ethel. Mr. Stewart Dawson acts in accomplished fashion the rôle of Mervyn Thorne; Mr. Percy Bell provides a good study of Peter; Stella, played by Miss Florence Wix, is an exceptionally brilliant performance; and Mr. George Child does well in the small part of Captain Rumford. The comedy is preceded by Chalk and Cheese, a bright and amusing curtain-raiser, the characters in which are undertaken by Miss Jessica Thorne, Mr. J. Stewart Dawson, and Miss Ethel Wellesley.

Royalty.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Wareing.—On Monday the Repertory Players gave the first performance out of London of Messrs. Housman and Barker's poetical play Prunella, and this interesting work was accorded a very hearty reception by a crowded house. Mr. Milton Roomer acted with excellent effect as Pierrot; Miss Ethel Evans scored a decided success as Prunella; the three maiden aunts were portrayed with grim fidelity by Miss Elspeth Dudgeon, Miss Irene Rooke, and Mrs. Arthur Milton, and their serving-maids by Misses Lola Duncan and Alice Mansfield. Mr. M. R. Morand is not afforded much scope in the part of Scaramel, but what he had to do was well done. The other members of the Pierrot troupe were well played, with varying degrees of eccentric humour, by Messrs. Campbell Gullan, Cecil Brooking, Cyril Griffiths, and Arthur Milton, and Misses Norah Delaney, Irene Clarke, Blanche Pearl, and Muriel Pope. Very clever studies of character were given by Messrs. Norman McKeown, Walter Roy, and Lawrence Hanray as the three old gardeners, and by Mr. George Tawde as the gardeners' boy. Mr. Kenelm Foss played the statue of Cupid and spoke his lines with weird impressiveness. The play was produced under the direction of Miss Madge McIntosh and Mr. Kenelm Foss. Special scenery by Mr. T. F. Dunn gave the appropriate setting to the play.

Grand.—District-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Chas. L. Sealy.—The third week of a most promising stock season opened with an elaborate production of the Adelphi play The Bells of Haslemere. Mr. George Roberts as Frank Beresford (the young squire) gave a bright and interesting portrayal; Mr. R. B. Drysdale likewise gave a clever performance of Matthew Brookfield; Mr. Fred Terris as John Silkstone put in his unpleasant work in a very effective manner; Mr. B. Johnstone as Benjamin Tremble, the oldest inhabitant, looked the part; Mr. W. G. Robb as Joseph Thorndyke, the scheming trustee, was capitally fitted; while Mr. Cecil Renton as Captain Vere was always interesting. Mr. Charles Danvers as Reuben Armstrong extracted a wonderful amount of good humorous business out of the part, and was ably seconded by Miss Sadie Neville as Dorthy Tremble. The combination are also lucky in the inclusion of such excellent exponents of their art as Miss Alice Defoe, Miss Marie Rignold, and Miss Maude Melliss in the rôles of Evelyn Brookfield, Mary Northcote, and Norah Desmond respectively.

Metropole, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—An entertainment of special merit is provided here by Mr. Lewis Gilbert, who presents the drama, of which he is the author, A Daughter of the Sea. Mr. Gilbert takes the part of Glensdale, a villainous lawyer, and gives a realistic study of an old man; the heroine, Sunshine, as played by Miss Florrie Green, is bright and winsome to a degree; another attractive village girl being seen in the Mollie of Miss Allyce Williams. Mr. Cole Aspinall has a fine part in Captain Ben Morrison; the young fisherman Moreland has a pleasing representative in Mr. Roy Denman; in the comedy part of Billy Mr. Jo. Monkhouse gives a clever character sketch; Mr. Ashmore Vincent looks and acts well in the rôle of young Glensdale; as Sir Maxwell Brentwood Mr. Carl Caigna is admirably suited; and the parts of Jack Strong (Mr. Cyril Craven). Harris (Mr. J. W. Gonne), and Banks (Mr. John Meadows) are also well played.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—Charles R. Whittle is highly popular here. In their phantom scena The Burglar's Dream Edward Crosland's Melody-makers are worthy of the highest praise; the Kellinos in their spectacular risley production introduce much clever work; a dainty lyric scena is Old Venice, for which the Serenaders are responsible; much praise is likewise due to dainty and Winsome Lillie Lassah; Staig's steeplejack cyclists are daring and clever; Chanti, "the modern Porteus," gets through his work with grace and ease; Little Ganty makes mountains of mirth with his skit on the Boys' Brigade; Kerr and Koe are smart comedians and dancers; and the Bioscope presents the English Cup Final.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest R. Foster.—The principal turn in this week's bill is the new sketch H.M.S. Perhaps, presented by the Six Brothers Luck. It is full of healthy fun, and the audience are kept laughing from start to finish. Violet Lorraine takes well in her various catchy songs; Albert Le Fre contributes a smart pot-pourri entertainment; the eccentric songs of George Prince are all funny; the Brothers Werde contribute one of the best knockabout acrobatic turns seen here for a long time; the Soho Trio include two wonderful dancers and a lady vocalist of considerable merit; Ruhart's comic conjuring, &c., is extremely funny; Karl Cynski, the one-man band, contributes an enjoyable musical act; and the Sisters Edwardes prove themselves vocalists and dancers of much ability.

Palace.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—The principal item of an excellent programme is the vocal scena "The Gainsborough Girl" a reproduction of the famous picture, within which Miss Dora Lind, the well-known English soprano, wins applause for her singing. Haley's Garden of Girls, a combination of vocalists and dancers, are cordially received; and other prominent artists include Guest and Newlyn in a smart vocal and comedy act; Vena Valma, dainty comedienne and dancer; Edie Day, a clever new comedian and dancer; Gladys Re-Vell, popular chorus vocalist; Margit and Lever, in the refined acrobatic act Wet Paint; Harry Conlin, comedian; and Wadham and Sterling in the vocal and artistic sketch The Maid and the Artist.

Coliseum.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Fred Karno's new production Wontdetainia proves a big hit here, both scenically and for the fun introduced by those clever comedians Shaun Glenville and Deane Tidbune. Fred Lincoln, in the other part of the programme, gives a clever character sketch of a burglar; Lydia Yeamans once more delights with her baby impersonations and her inimitable rendering of "Sally in our alley"; in a clever playlet, Lucky Jim, Margaret Parker does well in the title-part, and is ably supported by the members of her company; Max Carl and Harry Carr are very funny in a comedy interlude; Geo. Rae gets a big reception for his eccentric Scotch turn; Nellie Farrell sings her Irish songs with good effect; and Edward Rose and Dora Challoner in their duo complete a first-rate bill.

Gaiety.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—A specially attractive picture programme is submitted here, and there was a large audience on the opening night. The principal films, depicting instructive and amusing subjects, include Visit to a Duck Farm, The Prisoner of the Golden Isle, The Winning of a Father, A Slippery Dog, Elephants in India, and Caught in His Own Trap. A variety programme is well sustained by Fred Collins, the popular comedian, and Dolly Marney, the "pocket Vesta Tilley."

Panopticon.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Sinclair.—The Three Comps are responsible for an act introducting some clever dancing; J. H. Maddock is an exceedingly clever musician; Kate Darroch, deputising for Mable St. Clair, renders two songs in admirable style; Horace Horner dances well; and Stevens and Dunn in The Traveller and the Porter are well received.

Hengler's.—Proprietor, Mr. Albert Hengler; Manager, Mr. Harry Milne.—This popular house is still being attended by large and enthusiastic audiences. In an extensive and varied list the more interesting films are those of Hop Frog, the Jester and The Eleventh Hour. Agreeably interspersed are vocal numbers by Miss Ethel Edwards, a chorus vocalist of more than ordinary merit, and Miss Sheila McNeil, a pleasing Scotch comedy artist; while in Mr. M. R. Nolan, "the boy from Ennis," we have a young Irish comedian who bids fair to maintain the popularity of an honoured name in variety.

GLOSSOP.—Theatre Royal and Picturedrome.—Good houses continue, a capital selection of films being shown nightly. Included in a pleasing selection are Life's Game of Cards, The Unlucky Winner, A Gipsy Lover, The Decoying Song, Death in the Mountains, &c. The concluding feature of the season is a film depicting the £10,000 aviation flight from London to Manchester.

GLOUCESTER. — Palace. — Lessee, Mr. Will Smithson; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—With Edged Tools is being played here by Messrs. Leigh and Armitage's company. Mr. Hamilton Deane is an excellent Jack Meredith; Victor Durnoto is capitally depicted by Mr. Charles Barrett; Sir John Meredith has a capital representative in Mr. J. D. Geddes; and Guy Oscard is ably sustained by Mr. Charles Hartopp; Miss Marie Leonhard is effective as Jocelyn; Millicent Chyne is well enacted by Miss Marguerite Cellier; Miss Edith Anton-Laing is a commendable Lady Herries; and Miss Alice Maude is noticeable as Lady Cantourne; Mr. J. Graham Pockett deserves mention as Maurice Gordon.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—Royal Aquarium.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale.—Drama gives way this week to a welcome visit of Lucky 'Liza. As Silas Slim Mr. Dickie Clare is excruciatingly funny; Miss Vesta Brownie is popular as Lucky 'Liza; Mr. T. W. Benson plays well as Peter Pettitoe, and Mr. Leonard Maitland is an amusing Dude; the eccentricities of Mr. Bert Collins cause a lot of fun; Mme. Constance Bellamy's charming voice is heard to advantage; Virginia is charmingly played by Miss Hettie Gale; and Mr. Harry George is good as Barnaby Bladderwick.

GREENOCK. — King's Theatre. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The attraction for the closing week of the present season is provided by Mr. Richard Waldon's company in the emotional drama East Lynne. Mr. W. S. Palmer makes a capital impression as Archibald Carlyle; a realistic portrait of Lord Mountsevern is submitted by Mr. J. H. Oakden; Francis Levison is enacted with decision by Mr. Austin Mortimer; Mr. J. Randle Wilson ably undertakes the rôle of Justice Hare; and Richard is well interpreted by Mr. Will Ellythorn. Miss Ada Oakley essays the rôle of Lady Isabel, and her emotional passages are most effective; Miss Lily Roselle appears to advantage as Barbara Hare; as Cornelia Carlyle Miss Jennie Macintyre shows marked ability; and Miss Alice Eugene as Little Willie deserves a special word of praise. The other rôles are all efficiently sustained.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—A bright representation of the musical comedy Havana is being given by Mr. Alexander Leighton's company. Mr. William Pringle's dry humour as Nix is highly diverting; he is well assisted in the comedy scenes by Mr. Reg. Edwards as Reginald Brown; Miss Hebe Bliss sings with splendid effect the charming songs allotted to Consuelo, and her acting is also excellent; Miss Winnie Brown infuses plenty of dash and vivacity into her representation of Anita, and her dancing is much admired; Mr. Savill Foster sings well as Jackson Villiers; Mr. Charles Boulting makes an impressive conspirator as Diego; Miss Edith Barwell is good as the eccentric Isabelita; and Mr. J. Brian Ridout as the Hon. Frank Charteris, Mr. Lauri Aster as Bombito del Campo, and Mr. Cyril K. Percival as the Don Adolfo also accomplish excellent work.

The Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—Much interest is being taken in the visit of Consul, the "almost man." The wonderful degree to which this intelligent ape has been educated, has evoked the greatest admiration; Will Nettas's singing jockeys give a pleasing vocal turn, and introduce good comedy; Curtis Leo gives a smart juggling performance; Bert Harrow is a successful comedian, his cricket burlesque being very well received; the Three Romas are clever gymnasts with good head and hand balancing business; Selby and Myers secure approval as comedians and dancers; and Gracie Lawn is a popular balladist.

The Picturedrome.—Lessee, Mr. Matt Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Maxwell Edwardes.—Corilosto, the Hypnotist, is a thrilling subject that is very successful; Cupid and the Motor Boat is a film of much interest, and For the Honour of His Family has much dramatic interest, whilst there is a big variety of humorous pictures.

GUERNSEY.—Theatre St. Julian's.—Joint-Lessees, Messrs. Ed. Marris and Albany Ward; Resident-Manager, Mr. George A. Deighton.—Albany Ward's electric pictures and varieties still continue to attract. The Mahatma, in her clairvoyant demonstration, is intensely interesting.

HALIFAX.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Leigh Lovel and Miss Octavia Kenmore's company is here with a series of Ibsen's plays. On Monday A Doll's House was produced. Miss Kenmore undertook the part of Nora Helmar very successfully, and was well supported by Mr. Lovel as Torvald Helma; Mr. C. W. Sykes (Dr. Rank), Mr. Arthur Rodney (Nils Krogstadt), Miss K. Maynard (Mrs. Linden), Miss Daisy Race (Ellen), and Miss G. Everard (Anna). Hedda Gabler and When We Dead Awaken have also been played.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Eugene Stratton is proving a big attraction here; Ferdie's Ma-in-Law is a very humorous sketch, in which Mr. Arnold Richardson plays with marked success, and is well supported by Miss Ethel Lonsdale and Mr. A. Gordon Laws; the Miltons are clever figure and comic skaters; the Bartholomew Girls, duettists and dancers, are well received; Colin Mail, light comedian, gives a pleasing turn; George Geffreys, comedian and dancer; Selim, the singing Sultan and his Sultana; and the Palace pictures complete.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Reano and his celebrated band are meeting with a hearty welcome. "1812" is nightly applauded to the echo; J. W. Hall scores his usual success with his funny songs, and quaint patter and dancing; Jimmy Shields, the one-legged comedian and dancer, meets with success; Les Henris, equilibrists, give a good show; Mike Cray is a really funny juggler, and is assisted by a highly-trained terrier, "Dooly"; Elsie Denby is a refined and attractive comedienne; Felix and Fisher give an excellent bar act, the gentleman being funny yet clever and daring; St. Ruth and Conyers, classical duettists, are very good. The pictures complete an excellent bill.

HAMILTON, N.B. — Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. Rene Clayton.—The Ten Loonies, in their musical absurdity Dotty, are topping the bill and going well; Queenie May is a dainty little artist who possesses a distinctive personality; Archie Royer, acrobatic comedian, is clever and amusing; Ernie Myers is a funny little chap, who keeps the house in a roar; Miss Lily Lonsdale is a pleasing soprano vocalist; Rob Wilton is a comedian who "gets there" without any seeming effort; Merton and Rylon are an amusing vocal comedy couple; and the Dancing Paceys, together with the Bioscope, conclude an excellent programme.

HANLEY. — Royal. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Manging-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin F. Melford's company in The Silver King is drawing large and appreciative audiences. Mr. Fred D. Daviss as Wilfred Denver and Miss Mildred Surrey as Nelly Denver are admirably suited; Mr. Sidney Lynn as Spider and Mr. W. Leslie Ellis as Geoffrey Ware are villains of the refined type; Mr. E. J. George still enacts Daniel Jaikes to perfection; Mr. Arthur Wright as Coombe is well suited; and Mr. A. H. Warburton as Sam Baxter is excellent.

Grand.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—A capital programme includes Charles Cardow, comedian; Little Maude Olmar, a marvellous child dancer; Kathleen Cogan, a dainty and charming comedienne; the Brothers Starley, trick motor cyclists; the Three Comerfords, tumblers of decided merit; and the Three Cunards are a fine dancing turn. Paulhan's Great Flight is realistically shown on the screen. Joe Reichen's Dog Show is unique, and success is scored by the star turn, Julius Gebhardt's Tegernseen, Alpine singers and dancers, in A Sunday Morning on the Alps.

King's.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Managers, Capt. F. Shaw and Mr. C. Hazlewood.—The sensational fight, Johnson v. Ketchell, is a capital picture. Also in the series are The Anarchists and the Bank, Lady Charity Winning the V.C., The Dancing Fiend, and An Unstoppable Cycle. Herbert Bates is a great success.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding-Smith.—Mrs. Mark Kinghorne's company was here for the first three nights of the week in Mother-in-Law, the clever farce by the ever-popular Geo. R. Sims. Mr. Fred Kaye was excellent as Major McTurtle; and Talfourd Twigg had an able exponent in Mr. Edward Jephson. Mr. Wylie A. Thompson was well placed as Percy D'Amaine; Miss Christie as Mrs. McTurtle was very good; and Mrs. Kinghorne as Mrs. Pounceby made a distinct hit. Small parts were in reliable hands. The farce is well mounted and dressed. For the rest of the week variety was in the bill.

The Kursaal.—Manager, Mr. J. E. Wilshere.—Mr. Horace White, the ventriloquist at the piano, goes well; Miss Violet Elliott is possessed of a lovely voice, which she uses to great advantage.

St. James's Hall.—New Century Animated Picture Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Boden.—An interesting picture is one of the A.B. Series, In a Hempen Bag. A beautiful travel subject is The Valley of Sessa. Saved by His Sweetheart and A Trip Through Jersey are very entertaining. Mr. Paul Freeman is a popular entertainer.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—The early part of the week Mr. Robert Macdonald's company held the boards with The Gay Gordons. As Angus Graeme Mr. Frank Lincoln greatly distinguished himself; the old showman, Nervy Nat, is admirably represented by Mr. Edwin Dodds; Mr. Bernard Vaughan makes a dignified American millionaire; Miss Edie Martin is natural as Nat's wife, whose daughter is admirably played by Dorothy Grasdorff; as Peggy Quainton Miss May Yates gives a performance of conspicuous ability, and the minor characters are well supported.

Pier Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—An excellent variety entertainment is given here. The principal artist appearing is Carlton, a humorous card manipulator and wonderful sleight-of-hand illusionist; Will Conn is a good singer and dancer; an attractive turn is seen in Enid Harcourt, comedienne; Tom E. Conover is highly amusing in his topical songs; some clever clog dancing is shown by the three Langfords; the Hon. Evie O'Conour is a typical Irish contralto at the piano; and the Bioscope introduces a series of new pictures, including The Little Detective.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING. — Gaiety. — Proprietors, Messrs. Ainley and Hall.—This week Miss Marie Dagmar's capable company is here in The Tyrant. Mr. Roy Fortescue as Angelo was a decided success; and able renditions of their respective parts were given by Mr. Percy Folliss (Homodei), Mr. Edward E. Louis (Rudolph), Fred Gurd (Nobbo), and Messrs. T. Ashmore, and T. Wilson Summers. Miss Jean Scott took the part of Lady Catherine with success.

HUDDERSFIELD.—Hippodrome Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The best turn in the bill is provided by Caryl Wilbur, who, assisted by Miss Zoe Gilfillan, gives a fine spirited rendering of his clever little comedy, 61, Prospect Street. Other items are Ernest Cadle's Casey Army, a troupe of lively youngsters; the Lovelaces, in illustrated songs; Miss Annie Purcell, comedienne; F. V. St. Clair, in his topical compositions; Miss Sara Rosebury, Lancashire dialect comedienne; and Zellini, a diverting juggler. The pictures are interesting.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—The top of the bill is taken by Dan Lipton's company in the vocal scena Songland, in which Miss Eva Kelland appears with success as principal, and the whole production is charming. Others in the bill are the Sims, a pair of dainty ladies who sing and dance with grace; Lennard and Vereker, with artistically illustrated songs; Clive Cattley, comedian; Friend and Downing, laughter raisers; Miss Kitty Clinton, comedienne; and Stidder and Dunbar, in a clever musical act. The pictures are good.

HYDE.—Empire and Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Central Theatres and Franco-British Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percy Silver.—The reception accorded to Louie Tracy, male impersonator, is as hearty as it is deserved; Jack Hayworth's songs take very well; Granville Morris has a good voice, which is heard to advantage; Mlle. Marjutti's graceful performance is applauded; the Brothers Melford's songs and dances are very enjoyable.

ILKESTON. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Leigh.—Captain Permane and his Teddy Bear family present an act which commands attention; James Storey and company, in Sweet Seventeen, are cordially received; Evie Daunton, comedienne and dancer, provides a pleasing turn; Earle and Godfrey score in song, dance, and patter; Nellie Denver, a lively little vocalist and dancer, wins admiration; Maud May Murray is clever in electric dances; and George Porter, comedian, successfully contributes to a good programme.

IPSWICH.—Lyceum Theatre.—Mr. Charles Windermere and company occupy the house this week with his farcical comedy, entitled Where is William? Mr. Charles Windermere himself fills the principal part in a most effective and humorous manner, being well supported by Mr. Rule Pyott as the Butler Jolly; General Rubbub, the Indian veteran, is played by Mr. Leslie Norman; Mr. Edmund Hollick does well as Harry Gregory; and Mr. Fred Lake is effective as the burglar. Miss Bella Donaldson is an excellent Lady Gregory; Miss Clare Manifield a charming Phyllis; and Miss May Rosine as Jolly's wife and Miss Zoe Davis as Eliza evoke much laughter.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The Geni Family of ten acrobats heads the bill this week. The Child Trio of musicians are extremely popular; Mlle. Pollo is daring and graceful on the trapeze; and Fox and Melville are song illustrators of no mean order. Walter Wade is a comedian with an excelent voice; and Edna Barrett, an American singer and dancer, makes herself popular; Charles Bowen is an eccentric comedian; and Dora Lyric has some good songs.

JERSEY.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Enthusiastic audiences congregate here nightly, and show their appreciation of Mr. Albany Wad's pictures. A Fire at Sea is a very thrilling incident, and Jean from Aberdeen is a fine example of the gramophone and kinematograph running conjointly. The English Cup Final and the Jack Johnson v. Stanley Ketchell Fight are also prominent. Mlle. Rossini's miniature menagerie is a leading feature of the entertainment.

KEIGHLEY. — The Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy's company, in The Beggar Princess, is here this week. Mrs. Cassidy is very successful as "Seaweed," a Slavonian Princess, and Mr. Cassidy is a humorous Algernon Fitzhugh. Mr. Villiers Stanley scores as Allen Armstrong; Mr. Tom Royden is a capable Duke Sergius; Mr. Alfred Boxall does well as King Olga; Mr. William Melvyn is well suited to the part of Harry Lortimer; and Miss Ada Roscoe displays much ability as Countess Olga.

KIDDERMINSTER.—New Opera House.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—For the first three nights this week the boards were occupied by Mr. John E. Watson's excellent company. On Tuesday the farcical play The New Boy was produced, chief honours being taken by Mr. F. G. Thurstons, altogether excellent as Archibald Rennick, and Miss Phyllis Manners as Mrs. Rennick. Mr. T. Weldon Anderson did well as Dr. Condy; Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood was well placed as Felix Roach; Theodore de Brizac (a French master) was cleverly taken by Mr. Alfred Field Fisher; Mr. H. J. Wildy as Bulloch Major was characteristic; and Nancy Roach was prettily played by Miss Vera Wallace. Each evening Mr. Alfred Field Fisher, assisted by Miss Vera Wallace, gives an excellent entertainment preceding the plays.

KING'S LYNN.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Pareezer.—For three nights this week Mr. George Edwardes's company have presented The Merry Widow to good houses; Miss Mary Ridley is the Widow, and her charming voice and manner are greatly appreciated; Miss Enid Forde is an admirable Prascovia; Miss Alice Humphrys as Sylvanie is delightful; Miss Eileen Clanford as Olga is a success; Miss Nester Laurel as Frou-Frou presents some most graceful dances; and Miss Mabel Hope as Natalie is an exceptional actress and singer. Mr. Robert Needham as Danilo shows much ability; Mr. H. Sinclair Cotter as the Baron is very funny; Mr. Ronald Pomeroy as Jolidon is excellent, both in voice and acting; Mr. Harry Emeric is a great favourite as Nisch; and Mr Cyril Warwick maintains the eccentricities of Novakovitch.

KIRKCALDY.—King's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Ellis Fredericks and Abrahams.—Mrs. John Lawson and company are here with three playlets—The Devil's Sunday, The Bride for a Living, and The Woman and the Apple. Mrs. John Lawson well sustains her reputation in each play, and Mr. Hamilton Leicester, Mr. Cohen Owen, Mr. J. L. Boon, Mr. E. Hoggan Armadale, Mr. J. Gee, Miss D. Williams, Miss Gertie Grosbie, and Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh acquit themselves creditably.

LANCASTER.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—In the Shadow of Night is capitally presented by Mr. Arthur Lee Mitchell's company. Mr. Forbes Carrington sustains the rôle of John Allington with dignity; Mr. Leonard Williams appears to advantage as Gordon Allington; Mr. Fenton Wingate in the double rôle of Joe Jackson, a postman, and the Rev. Nathaniel Hope is decidedly good; and Mr. William Hayward as Jake Grudgewell makes a capital poacher. Miss Irene Arondel gives a charming study of Violet Kingston; Miss Kittie Roze is a pleasing Molly Woodstock; and Miss Kitty Johnston does very well as Bob. Much comedy is introduced by Mr. Ern Carlton as Tom Nainby.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Longden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. John Halifax.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company is appearing to delighted audiences in Sapho. Miss Florence Halton gives a very artistic rendering of the title-rôle, and Mr. Edward Ouston plays Jean Gaussin with considerable success; Mr. John Drake as Henri Dechelette wins distinction; Mr. Stephen Crossley is effective as Flamant; and Miss Ethel Tinsley is a commendable Aunt Divonne. Other characters are meritoriously fulfilled. The company also gave two performances of Trilby.

LEEDS. — Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Mr. Edward Compton was very cordially received on his appearance in The Rivals, and played Bob Acres with his usual characteristic effect; Mr. J. W. Austin had a highly popular part as Faulkland; and the testy Baronet was in the worthy hands of Mr. Henry Crocker. Mr. Frank Royde ably played the Captain; Mrs. Malaprop found an amusing exponent in Miss Marie Hassell; Miss Nell Compton daintily portrayed Lydia; and Julia and Lucy were ably undertaken by the Misses Kathleen Leigh and Lorraine Stevens, and Mr. Clifford Marquand and Mr. Laurence Mead gave forcible representations.

Royal Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—Through the Divorce Court is presented by Messrs. Henry Chattell and Jack Denton. Miss Hettie Chattell gives an admirable impersonation of the wronged wife, and Lord Robert is excellently played by Mr. Robert Purdie; Mr. Henry C. Cooper appears to every advantage in the part of Guzman Di Mendoza; Mr. Jack Denton as Algy proves himself a genuine humorist; Mr. John Camplin ably plays Leon Di Valdiz; Mr. E. W. Thomas as Pettigrew, K.C., is quite a convincing barrister, as also is Mr. Vincent Howard as Sir Edward Sharpe, K.C. Miss Nellie Sheffield as Dinah and Mr. Harry Colbeck as a servant are very amusing, and Miss Edith Cruikshanks and Miss Pattie Groves take prominent characters with success.

The Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—Mr. R. G. Knowles makes a welcome return in new songs and some very smart patter; Frank Danby and J. C. Piddick shine in a musical comedy playlet, entitled Cupid's Arms; Barry Lupino, besides being a good comic singer, excels as an eccentric dancer; Millie Payne is on good terms with the audience in some new songs; Lola Patey is a favourite in some Dutch dialect songs; and others supporting a good bill include Heeley and Meeley, Harry Friskey, Stanley and Greenop, and the Two St. Johns.

Barrasford's Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Joe Peterman and Geo. Ricketts, with a capable company of artists, are presenting The Belle of the Orient; Jack and Evelyn are appearing in a new sketch, which is brimful of mirth; Tennyson and Wallis make a welcome return with some very funny patter; the Sisters Brenton are skipping-rope dancers of ability; Willie Atom and company appear in a sketch, entitled Wiggles; Iris Banfield sings sweetly; and other artists include Eastbury, Avon and Crest, and Curwen and Belle, in a bright musical act.

The Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Leonard Charburn's young stars appear in a pretty musical scena; Marie Blythe's fine voice is much admired; Lillie Le Main appears in a Lilliputian act and also dances successfully. Harry Thurston, the Livrons, Peter Pan, and Shanara's Mountain Goats are also favourites.

The Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Fanny Harris and Harry Dent supply the principal turn; Percy Ford and Edward C. Webb's company go through a thrilling performance in The Spy; Yolande Noble makes herself very popular; the Six Ontarios, Edgar Budden, Millie Denham, and the Athlones are successful.

MIDAS BRONZINE POLISHES — PATENT APPLIED FOR — MADE

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Business-Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—A capital attraction is provided by Messrs. Smith and Carpenter's company in the romantic play The Proud Prince, which is beautifully staged. King Robert of Sicily is rendered full justice by Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan; Miss Eileen Kerin as Perpetua is also deserving of high commendation; Miss Vashti Wynne is very good as Lysabetta; and others in the cast who deserve praise are Mr. Clifton Boyne as Count Hildebrand, Mr. Ernest A. Douglas as the Archangel, Mr. Terence O'Brien as Theron, Mr. Frank Ward as Diogenes, and Mr. Ernest Stidwell as the Priest.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—We are receiving another visit of Mr. Carr Loates's company in At the World's Mercy. Miss Cissie Milford displays great versatility and cleverness in the dual rôles of Skittles, the stowaway, and Kitty Knott, a music hall star. Mr. Fred W. Graham as Morris Goldstein well maintains his popularity as an actor of ability; Mr. Fred Mintz is excellent as Captain Manley; Mr. Carr Loates as a solicitor plays with his accustomed skill; and Will H. Irving as Charley Smart is also a success. The drama is well staged.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—Alice Eis and Bert French are a special attraction here in their famous Vampire Dance, which is given in a realistic and artistic manner. The Craggs are on a welcome return visit, and score a big success in the acrobatic conception Territorials; G. W. Hunter is a raconteur and comedian who is thoroughly entertaining; William Mitchell and John J. Cain as the Frenchman and the ostler fellow create plenty of merriment with an original act; Florence Smithers, supported by Owen Dacre and company, is responsible for a side-splitting comedy sketch, entitled Our Mary Jane, in which Miss Smithers is a conspicuous success as the servant; the Five Vernons are delightfully entertaining in their xylophone speciality; Tom Moore is a clever character comedian with a fine voice; Elsa Brull and Arthur Helmsley are amusing in their skit Fun in a Music Shop; and the Bioscope shows the replayed Cup Tie.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—The lead is taken by Pete and Minnie Lee, who are making a well-deserved hit in their Scotch comedy success A Scotchman's Visit to London; the Camplins are very good in their musical comedy act; Durazcoe and Azella display great smartness and neatness as equilibrists; Vera Mayne is popular with her illustrated songs; and Irene Meldon (the dainty dot), Jimmie Pullin (character comedian), Arthur Stacey (eccentric comedian and dancer), and Phono, described as the human record, are others who offer entertaining turns. The pictures are again of the best.

EMPIRE.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles R. Craig.—The popularity of this hall is well maintained, Mr. F. R. Griffiths continuing to provide first-class programmes, this week's list including The Cattle Raiders, A Tantalizing Young Lady, The Hungry Child, An Obstinate Mule, The Mexican's Revenge, The Pierrot's Desertion, and Students on the Spree. Tom Desmond, a local descriptive vocalist, is paying another visit.

EMPRESS PICTURE PALACE, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. H. V. Horton.—One house a night is now the rule here, with the prices somewhat reduced. The films shown are, without exception, of the very highest class, and quite new to the town. The opening list on Monday evening included The Death Disc, Pine Ridge Feud, Incorrigible Mary, The Rice Harvest in Japan, The Welsh-Daniels Fight; Coco and the Earthquake, and Indian's True Heart.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—In The Great Awakening Miss Olga Andre finds herself fitted with the part of Lo'a Selby, an unprincipled adventuress, and the interpretation is rendered with much skill; Mr. Charles H. Mortimer is prominent with Miss Florence Zillwood as the hero and heroine; Mr. Arthur Wimpenny, Mr. Andrew Esmond, Mr. Wood, and Mr. E. A. Andrews strongly delineate the respective parts of James Selby, Sir Henry Merton, Jack Merton, and Gibbs. Mr. Harry Hoyland acts powerfully as Lola's father, and Mr. Tom Arkinstall is effective as the accomplice Guy Logan. Mr. R. J. Turner finds opportunities for comedy in Sergeant Brew, and the audience are also vastly amused by Billy Brass and Selina Worts in the persons of Mr. Walter Rousby and Miss Hetty Farrell. The piece is well-staged.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—Excellent business is being done here this week with the Follies, who make a first appearance at a theatre in this city. The opening part of the programme consists of a capital selection of songs and stories, which are richly enjoyed; then come the "potted" plays, Henry of Navarre, The Fires of Fate, and King of Cadonia. These are greeted with uproarious laughter, the peculiarities of well-known actors and actresses being imitated to a nicety. The burlesque of a modern music hall likewise finds great favour—in fact, the whole entertainment is voted exceedingly good and uncommon. Mr. H. G. Pélissier is ably supported by the Misses Ethel Allandale, Effie Cook, Gwennie Mars, Muriel George, and Messrs. Morris Harvey, Lewis Sydney, Dan Everard, and Douglas Maclaren.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The attraction this week is Mr. Harry Foxwell's company with Mother, which is receiving a fair measure of success. Mr. J. O. Stewart is Duncan Fairweather, and shows much ability as a character actor; Miss Grace Jones plays Nellie with a deal of earnestness and a natural touch; as the heroic Frank England Mr. Alexander J. Haviland deservedly earns general favour; Miss Elsie Dene makes an amusing Polly Crumpet; Mr. Teddy Myles as Tommy Noblets also assists in the fun; and Miss Amy Wood carefully plays Martha. The drama is well staged.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The always-popular East Lynne is here this week, presented in capital style by Mr. Wentworth Croke. Mr. Leonard Yorke acts with much dramatic strength as Archibald Carlyle; a capital Lady Isabel comes from Miss Muriel Marsden; Miss Dorothy Clifton efficiently holds the part of Barbara; and excellent support is given by Messrs. S. Herbert Humber (Francis Levison), Thomas Barry (Justice Hare), John Blake (Richard Hare), Miss Mary Hardacre (Cornelia), and Miss Doris Zola (Little Willie). The play is put on in excellent style.

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Are You a Mason? is affording satisfaction here to big audiences, the company being under the direction of Messrs. Williams and Dunn. All the artists combine in excellent manner to extract all the fun possible out of the comedy, among those to the fore being Messrs. William Lockhart (Amos Bloodgood), Howard L. Tracey (Frank Perry), Archie Selwyn (George Fisher), Stanley Arthur (Hamilton Travers), Miss Agnes Maude (Mrs. Bloodgood), and Miss Peggy E. Yeoman (Lottie).

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—The favourite Miss Ada Reeve tops the bill here this week, and is having great receptions for her songs; Edward Lewis and company are also prominent here with the merry farce, The Five Wishes, which causes endless laughter; Carl Howard is an exceedingly popular turn, his comic conjuring being immensely enjoyed; a pretty musical mélange, Our Audiences, is excellently presented by the talented Dandies; Little Zola proves a most amusing artist; Les Andres have a smart protean and terpsichorean act; Ellis Barrieton, the double-voiced vocalist, earns applause; and Rita Rhylle, comedienne, pleases greatly.

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Heading the programme here this week are the Vays, with an appreciated comedy and pathetic scena, Life in the Slums, which finds much favour; Harry Nelson, a smart comedian, affords great pleasure with his latest songs; the Corcoran Brothers go through a clever musical speciality and quick-change act; some accomplished work as a lightning cartoonist and painter is shown by Flake White; Talberto and Douglas are a couple of able comedians; McBride and Logie raise many a laugh with their eccentric acrobatic novelty, Canadian Lumbermen; and Elsie Kerry, comedienne, is also in the list. Next week this theatre will be closed, reopening on Whit Monday with a two-houses-a-night dramatic show.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Jake Friedman and company, with the picturesque Happy Holland, are prominent here this week, affording as much pleasure as formerly. There is a capital chorus, and the principal parts are in the good keeping of Messrs. Jake Friedman, Leigh Ellis, G. Latimer, C. Mavern, Miss Florence Hunton, and Miss A. Lennon. The Ten-Ka Troupe of Japanese magicians go through a surprising performance; Tom E. Finglass has some capital coon songs; Chorley and Conner, as Scotch comedians and dancers, are a smart turn; Harry Russon, actor-comedian, finds general favour; Fred Hastings brings his latest songs, which are received with satisfaction; as operatic duettists, Belrose and Develin come in for well-deserved applause; Renroff's dancing horse shows remarkable training; and others who appear are Dorothy Sephton, vocalist; and Bessie Heins, comedienne.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Dan the Rake is being played here this week by the stock dramatic company, principal among whom are Messrs. Cecil Ravenswood, Leo Montgomery, Sydney Grant, R. Seath Innes, Tom H. Solly, E. D. Allen, Harry Tresham (Dan), Miss Lina Nazeby, and Miss Gertrude Entwistle. Brown's Bioscope shows A Dream of Paradise.

OLYMPIA.—District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Bransby Williams is a great favourite in Liverpool, and his appearance here again is being received with great acclamation; Harry Weldon keeps his audience in shouts of laughter with his football description and "Dick Turpin" story; Arthur Lennard is another big line, his latest songs earning for him rounds of applause; Harvey's American boys and girls afford much satisfaction; Daisy Dennis, with her "Teddy bear" song, and Frank Victor, with his "Santa Fee" cowboy ditty, being particularly popular; the Brothers Redmond, of "Willie, come here" reputation, prove as amusing as ever; Florence Cooper reaches her audience with some charming songs, well rendered; Fred Barnes finds favour for the scena, The Scapegrace; as novelty equilibrists the Stowe Brothers show capital talent, and come in for a deal of applause; and Fanny Robina pleases with her medley of old songs.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—The beautiful Irma Lorraine heads the bill here, and, assisted by Marjah and Mlle. Leony, provides an exquisite show of living statuary, which meets with rounds of applause; Jan Rudenyi, the celebrated violinist, and company, present a pleasing episode, The Power of Music; Rousby's company, in Greater London, is a fine panoramic view of the Metropolis; the Georgians have a capital vocal, instrumental, and dancing scena; an amusing football match is played by Rutter's dogs; the Seven Wulfrunas are exceedingly diverting acrobats with their speciality, Fun in a Café; Johnson and Hart show high powers as hoop rollers and jugglers; and contributions also come from Alf Brookes, comedian and patterer; Phillips and Bristow, wooden shoe dancers; and W. B. Raby, comedian.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arnold Macara.—The Michael Williams Welsh Minstrels head the bill, and are well received; Annie Casey is a popular comedienne; Morelli and Moore are very funny musical eccentrics; Charles Chard and Doris Yorke find favour; Sisters Belmoir are smart duettists and dancers; and Forde's Merry Mannikins are extremely clever. The Biograph pictures are good.

LONDONDERRY.—ST. COLUMB'S HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—This week Mr. Williams presented a capital programme, which drew enthusiastic audiences. Topping the bill is the famous American illusionist, Sears, who is quite bewildering in his feats. Mr. Sears is supported by a capital company. Bella Leeburn, vocalist, and George Westland, comedian, are on welcome return visits; Flora McDonald, comedienne and dancer; Mrs. Lillie Williams, vocalist; the Farrows, an amusing pair; Motorscope complete the bill.

LOUGHBOROUGH. — TEMPERANCE HALL. — Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Manager, Mr. A. Evanson.—The "World in Motion" has a very fine set of pictures this week, including a striking representation of The Death and Passion of Christ, and an American Biograph film, The Honour of His Family, which is an excellent picture story of the Civil War. The variety turns are given by Mr. J. H. Wakefield, coon dancer, who quickly made himself popular; Miss Violet Beatrice, boy impersonator; and the Matt Wilkinson Trio, in their comedy sketch, The Registry Office.

MAESTEG.—PICTURE PALACE.—Lessees, Poole's Theatres Co., Ltd.; Manager Mr. G. F. Knowles.—The London to Manchester Flight is the star film here. Other effective pictures are A Tea Plantation, The Girl Detective, King and Soldier, and The Seventh Day. Variety turns are given by J. P. Ling, a popular mimic; and the Victas, acrobatic barrel jumpers.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—The bill is headed by the Dayton Family, who give a smart acrobatic and Risley performance, entitled Le Rendezvous; Dan Whitley is a clever comedian; Jessie Templeton delights the audience with chorus songs; Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls are clever in song and dance; J. A. Wilson and his performing dog "Towser" appear in The Troubles of a Recruiting Sergeant; Sydney Brandon gives some good impersonations. Vere and Nelldon, entertainers; Chas. Lilburn, comedian; and the electric pictures are also in the programme.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Mr. Vedrenne's company is playing here in The Fires of Fate, which was well appreciated by a very good house on Monday. The cast is an excellent one. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart plays admirably as Colonel Egerton; Mr. Herbert Vyvyan gives a very effective rendering of the Rev. Samuel Roden; and Mr. Charles Francis makes a successful Dr. Roden. As Miss Adams Miss Gwendoline Floyd is especially pleasing; and Miss Ruth Bower is also clever and engaging as Sadie; while among other interesting characters that of Ali Wad Ibrahim is capitally rendered by Mr. Everard Vanderlip. The scenery is beautiful and much applauded.

PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—The story of Don, Rudolf Besier's comedy, was followed here with considerable interest and appreciation by Monday's audience. It is played by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Mr. Charles Harley submits a fine piece of acting as Thompsett; and Miss Violet Harley is excellent as the wife. Mr. Gordon Bailey as Stephen Bonington is also very good; Miss Emma Hutchison plays very naturally as Mrs. Bonington; and Mr. Arthur Willoughby is equally lifelike as the Rector. Her Dearest Friend is a pleasant curtain-raiser.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—This week sees here a revival of The Critic, which was produced by Miss Horniman's company a few weeks ago with so great a success. The cast employs all the best talent of the company; and the piece is preceded by an equally well-rendered one-act play, by Mrs. W. K. Clifford, The Searchlight, in which Miss Darragh as Miss Williamson and Mr. Ian Maclaren as Major Travers score.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. Fred. J. Webb and company are here in For Old Times' Sake. Mr. Fred. J. Webb as Rupert Sydney and Miss Marie Danvers Smith as Sareta Berkly are well to the fore; and in heroic parts Mr. Richard Oliver and Miss Mamie Stanton are adequate. Humour is well supplied by Mr. Tom J. Taylor, Miss Marie Robertson, and Mr. Edwin Beverley.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—An enjoyable programme here is topped by Fred Karno's Perkins, M.P. (Albert Bruno in the title-part), the same company and comedian being seen in The G.P.O.; De Bassell, clay modeller, adds a very good turn; and other pleasing acts are Tommy Ellis, quaint character actor; Flo Banks, comedienne; Three Aza Boys, simultaneous clog-dancers; and Marion St. John, dancer.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—The programme here is headed by Miss Mary Mayfern's company in The Yellow Fang, a highly dramatic episode of an opium den in San Francisco; the Mysterious Marriotts, mind readers, are also prominent and very smart; and S. W. Wyndham, comedian, adds an excellent turn. Other enjoyable items are Murphy's Affinity, a comedy sketch; Harry Kirk, comedian; the Four Mayos, in their burlesque skating act; the celebrated Watsons, a quartette of very smart entertainers; and the Becketow Brothers, in pot-pourri.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Briarley.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company in répertoire are drawing good houses here. They opened in Mr. Barnes of New York on Monday, when distinguished work was done by Miss Henrietta Schrier as Marina Paoli, Mr. F. Douglas Howard as Danella, and Mr. Andrew Money as the Lieutenant, Mr. J. C. Lodge-Percy being seen in the title-rôle. The company, however, is efficient throughout. Other plays on the programme are Frou-Frou (two performances) and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray (a benefit performance to Miss Henrietta Schrier).

KING'S THEATRE, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr James R. Trippett.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company once more entertained local audiences in the well-known moral drama The Sin of Her Childhood. In the prologue Little Gladys Brittain as Mary Haysel (aged nine) is still a successful feature; while in the play Miss Maud Warburton impersonates the same character grown up quite effectively. Mr. Guy Hastings as the Rev. Alan Grey remains a strong element in the success of the play; and other good parts are well rendered by Mr. Cecil Mannering as Stephen Haysel and Miss Clara Santley as Marie Haysel. Mr. Hugh Brady as O'Reilly is funny.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Mr. William Mollinson and company are presenting here with great success an effective playlet, The Touch of a Child; Ye Colonial Septette give a delightful vocal turn, including selections on the cornet by Charles Edwards; the Bensons make a hit as The Page and the Maid; Hagedorn's wonderful grotto, an electrical creation of surprising beauty, is greatly enjoyed; Barrett and Knowles are highly-amusing talkers; Dick Tubb, the well-known eccentric comedian, meets with a deserved big reception; Horace Wheatley, the genuine Irishman, dances neatly; Jessie Buckle is a pleasing comedienne; and Loyal's trained dogs give a capital performance. Up-to-date pictures on the Bioscope complete.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—J. L. Sullivan, famous boxer, is to the front here in his enjoyable monologue, and is also seen in a three-round boxing exhibition with Jake Kilvain; Fred Russell, as usual, scores a huge success with Coster Joe; the Zigeuner Quartette give an exceedingly clever musical turn; Morny Cash, the Lancashire comedian, makes a hit; Maud and Sidney Wood are capital dancers; and others who offer good turns are Addie Lennard, comedienne and dancer; Three Borela Brothers, in a neat gymnastic act; and George the First, the almost human chimpanzee. The Palace pictures complete.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred. Dry.—Harry Ford, the well-known comedian, is to the front here this week, and his whimsicalities cause no end of laughter; the Great Virto, assisted by Venita, his talented daughter, is heard to advantage in a charming musical speciality; Stylo gives a wonderfully clever turn as a hoop manipulator and juggler; Percy Williams' Juveniles are good in songs and dances; Nellie Engler and company are capital in farcical episode, Beauty and the Burglar; whilst other enjoyable items are offered by Robb Rossi, tenor vocalist; Jack McKenzie, comedian; Smith and Gibbs, quaint and quiet athletes; and Beatrice Bonnie, comedienne. The Power of the Press on the Bioscope is good.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—Madeline Rossiter, a charming and versatile artist, scores a huge success; G. W. Desmond as a light comedian and dancer is also exceedingly well received; Gilbert Fernie, who acts as deputy for Sydney James, captivates the house; Nellie Seymour James, soprano, Frank Halpin, basso, and Jack Austin, tenor, all sing well; and Dorothy Belmore is entertaining at the piano.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—This pretty theatre, which was opened on the 30th ult., seems to fill a want in the district, as it is crowded twice nightly, as well as at the matinées. The pictures are selected from all the best film-makers, and on Monday they included The Plot That Failed, Tommy's Locomotive, The Winning of Father, The Lost Banknotes, He Wanted to be a Jockey, and A Friend in Need. Excellent singing was also introduced.

MANSFIELD. — GRAND.—Managing-Director, Capt. Clayton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Fred Clayton.—Mrs. Frank Bateman and company are here in The Way Women Love. Mrs. Frank Bateman plays in characteristic manner the part of Verena Alabra; Miss Camile Treherne is effective in the part of Violet Tremayne; Miss Sadie Underhill is a good Frank Tremayne; Miss Amy Manfree is successful as Lottie Gray; Mr. Fred W. Goddard handles the part of Captain Tremayne in good style; Mr. Percy Shaw shines as a humorist as Dick Palmer, his introduction of whistling specialities being a feature of the show; Mr. Harry Aynsleigh is an excellent Leslie Lumont; John Barringford is capably portrayed by Mr. George Herbert; Mr. Herbert Barrs is good as Joe Alaros; and Mr. Will White plays the butler successfully. On Wednesday evening Mrs. Frank Bateman played the title-rôle in Camille.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—The Love of the Princess is presented by Mr. C. Watson Mill's company. Miss Dorothy Haigh creates a favourable impression as the Princess, and Mr. Frank Harvey acts well as the Prince; as the traitorous Count Nicholas Mr. Richard Vane is effective and capable; Lady Irene and Constantia (Miss Maud Steeple and Miss Josephine Lee) are quite capable; and the remaining characters are all suitably undertaken.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The Atlas and Vulcana Troupe of athletes are renewing their former successes; Harry Luck is a smart comedian; Miss Adela Masson scores in an original triple song-scena; Mlle. Eugene (Lady baritone), Bros. Weston (comedians), Bert and Dora in a novel patter and singing act, and Biograph pictures provide the turns here.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Methil Theatre Company, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. John C. Burnett.—The attraction is supplied by Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company, in The Power of a Wicked Woman. Mr. G. M. Montanini is very successful as Horace Winter; Mr. Courtney Robinson portrays the rôle of Phillip Carey in a fine manner; Mr. C. Russell is good as Lord Arthur Dumley; Miss Amy Dalby acts well as Denise Carey; Miss Renée Wreanfort scores as Nellie Montague; and Miss Muriel Inglis's interpretation of the part of Helen Terraire is exceedingly well done. The staging and dressing leave nothing to be desired.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. H. Smith.—Mr. Jas. E. Lewis is presenting the musical play The Welsh Maid. Mr. Victor Cannon's interpretation of Carodoic Howell is very fine; Jack Francis is cleverly played by Mr. Laurie H. Stuart; the rascally James Seymour is forcefully presented by Mr. Herbert de Ville; Mr. Wm. Pemm is enjoyable and breezy as Dafyd Thomas; Miss Zeta Murdoch is charming and winning as Jenny Jones, and sings pleasingly; Miss Theresa Spencer plays creditably as Mrs. Jones; Miss Madge Raymond is an entertaining Sally Davis. The Celtic Troupe of dancers contribute specialities, and Miss Josephine Allbutt, the child bass vocalist, renders songs in good style.

NEW PICTURE HALL.—Lessee, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. Melton, late manager of the local theatre, has taken over this hall, and after decoration and refitting, opened it on Monday with a capital programme, the leading picture being a reproduction of the Cup Final.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. Ian Robertson and his company are meeting with deserved approval for their fine performance of The Passing of the Third Floor Back. In the title-rôle Mr. Robertson is seen to distinct advantage. Throwing himself thoroughly into the part, he delineates the character with artistic taste and skill; Miss Helena Parsons as a slut is really clever; Miss Jeannie Thomas is smart as a cheat; and as a hussy Miss Barbara Everest commands commendation. The other characters have been placed with much care and discretion. Come Here! precedes the play.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Imeson.—Messrs. F. Marriott Watson and James Ussher present The Face at the Window. Mr. W. Houghton Macaulay as the Chevalier Lucio, alias Le Loup, fully sustains his reputation as a character actor; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe is successful in the detective part of Paul Gouffet; and as the "mad doctor" Mr. Jas. Chippendale is much appreciated. Miss Clare O'Sullivan and Miss Constance Glenabyn as Marie de Brisson and La Pinau meet with approval.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Miss Helen Trix, the American comedienne, displays to full advantage her great versatility in a capital budget of character songs, and the large audiences highly enjoy her performance; "Lydia" Dreams gives his ventriloquial show with as much success as on former visits; and the Four Figaros, vocalists and dancers; the Three Orros, gymnasts; the Five Bombays, in a vocal and speciality act; Frane and Stewart, comedians; Miss May Gibson, vocalist; James Stewart, comedian; and the Empire pictures are all good.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Frank D. Todd.—Pictures continue to draw well at the "Hip."

MORLEY.—ALEXANDRA PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Izon.—A startling "turn" this week is Sim Maree, termed the indiarubber Mohammedan; Della Ray, with a charming stage presence, contributes some popular vocal items and arouses warm encomiums; Long Amos, 6ft. 5in. of funniosity, causes roars of laughter; and Edna Deno, a pretty comedienne and dancer, is quite a favourite.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chisholm Taylor.—Gilbert Payne and company are this week appearing in The Marriage Mart. Mr. Hervey Bruce sings and acts with grace and ease as Richard Mannering; Miss Nellie Dyson is sweet and charming as Ray Desmond; Vera Mannering is capitally enacted by Miss Ethel Erroll; Miss Fanny Adamson being distinctly successful as Flossie Fluff, a typist. Mr. H. F. Housden is a portly and imposing Rajah Bunkam, his bodyguard being humorously enacted by Mr. Cliff Artley. The bulk of the comedy work falls to Mr. Gilbert Payne in the rôle of the office boy, Crackett. Mention should be made of the dancing of the Godfrey Girls. Scenery and dresses are alike good, and there is a well-drilled chorus, under the bâton of Mr. Louis Elgar. At the end of this week the theatre will be closed for the usual summer vacation.

NEATH.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Brogdon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice.—A very interesting and instructive programme is given here this week. To the variety part of the programme Salida and Vone, singers and dancers, and the Wagners, singers, dancers, and xylophone players, successfully contribute.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglas.—Mr. Tom Jones, Miss Ethel Newman, Mr. Harry Ellison and company, Mr. E. Thornley-Dodge, Mr. V. Wakeman, Slippere, and the Frohmans all make pronounced successes here. The new and comfortable theatre has become an immediate favourite place of resort.

PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, The New Brighton Pier Co.; Secretary, Mr. E. W. Kampion.—Variety is still presented here with success, and this week's programme includes La Vie, in graceful poses; the Middies and Maids' Concert Party; Mr. H. O. Borie, juggler; and the Big and Little Four, vocal quartette.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—A capital audience greeted the welcome reappearance of Florodora. Mr. Johnnie Schofield takes the part of Tweedlepunch, and is a huge success, his quaint style and rich humour finding ample opportunities; Miss Florence Hersee plays Angela Gilfain in a charming and piquant fashion; Miss Kate Leicester as Lady Holyrood is also quite successful; as Frank Abercoed Mr. Martin D. Pitts is well suited, his fine voice being heard to advantage; Mr. Johnnie Junior gives a spirited personation of Captain Arthur Donegal; Mr. Stanley White as Cyrus Gilfain is also quite happy in the part; and as Dolores Miss Daisy Lake gives a finished performance.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—A large audience on Monday thoroughly enjoyed A Pair of Spectacles, presented in excellent style by Mr. Russell Rosse's company. Mr. Arthur Hare takes the part of the good-natured Goldfinch with great success; Miss Ida Philips acts admirably as the charming Mrs. Goldfinch; Mr. Maurice Denham is very natural and convincing as Uncle Gregory; a capital study is Mr. H. St. Barbe-West's Dick; Mr. Guy Vivian gives a good representation of Percy Goldfinch; and the rôles of Lorimer and Bartholomew are suitably filled by Mr. Walter A. James and Mr. George N. Williams. Miss Madge Monte is sufficiently vivacious as Lucy Lorimer, and Miss Marion Williams is also very good as Joyce.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Large audiences have attended the performances of Mr. Morton Powell's company in A Girl's Temptation. Mr. Frank V. Fenn plays with care and ability the part of Guy Warren; Mr. C. Earle sustains the character of the villain, Mark Klaw, with realism; Mr. Charles Herbert makes a dignified and successful Basil Warren; Mr. Tom Handley is well placed as the Hon. Charles Clade; Mr. Gerald Nolan effects good work as Geoffrey Stirling; an amusing portrayal of Sammy Sniggles comes from Mr. F. Bentley, ably assisted by Miss A. Corallie as Jemima Gorsap; Miss Gertrude Gilbert as Kate Stirling plays with dramatic skill; Miss Blanche Lee acts forcibly as Annie Brown; and Miss Winnie Donovan is a capable Lady Constance.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—The wonderful dog impersonator, Mr. George Ali, is this week delighting Newcastle audiences in a sketch entitled Papa's Day Off; Humpsti Bumpsti, an acrobatic sketch, by Pipifax and Panlo, is a clever acrobatic and eccentric act; Spry and Monti meet with well-merited success in the Schoolmaster and the Soubrette; Gardener and Stodard, American entertainers, give a capital show; and the Carmos, in an elaborate juggling act, perform many marvellous feats. Other notable turns are Maudie Francis, comedienne and dancer; Jackley Trio, comedy acrobats; Leo Tell, musical mimic; and Waul Langtry, with some genuinely funny patter.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—A Life for a Life is capitally played by Mr. Chas.

MOTHER

SEIGEL'S SYRUP

This standard remedy for indigestion, biliousness, headaches, constipation, and all other complaints arising from a disordered state of the stomach, liver, and bowels, has behind it the solid reputation of forty years' unbroken success. It has never failed the people who have used it. It will not fail you! If you feel out of sorts, fit for nothing, played out; if you can't eat, work, or sleep, take a few doses of Mother Seigel's Syrup, and you will be delighted with the change. Mother Seigel's Syrup — the herbal tonic made of roots, barks and leaves — exerts a remarkable curative and tonic effect on the stomach, liver, and bowels. Thus it makes food nourish you, clears your system of the poisonous products of undigested food, and gives you the vigour and tone of robust health. "We have known the value of Mother Seigel's Syrup for over twenty years," say Mr. and Mrs. Rodway, Hillesley, Wotton-under-Edge, "and have never known it fail to cure stomach troubles."

The 2/6 bottle contains three times as much as the 1/1½ size.

H. Lester's company. Mr. E. Ashby appears in the leading rôle of Josh Harker successfully; Miss Lallah Davies as Eulalie displays excellent emotional power, and is most effective in the trying rôle; Pedro Li Calic, a scoundrel whose villainy is of the blackest description, is played by Mr. Hugh Travers with great efficiency; a comedian of amusing versatility is Mr. Fred Yarnold, who very capably enacts the part of Tim McCarthy; Miss Dorothy Riddell admirably portrays Kate Evelyn, the heroine. Sorrows of Satan was announced for Friday.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Major Gallagher; Assisting-Manager, Mr. Percy A. Wilde.—A noteworthy feature in the current programme is The Magic Carpet, in which John Warren and company succeed in mystifying the audience with some clever illusions; Charles Vincent achieves success with a couple of good songs; brilliant vocalism is furnished by Amélié De L'Enclos, the hearty reception accorded the Lukushimas, a troupe of Japanese entertainers is well deserved; James Eadie and Cissy Ramsden, in a crisply written comedy duologue, Charlie's Visit, are popular; the wonderful dental act of the Four Regals gains unstinted applause; Harry May Hemsley, child impersonator and caricaturist, supplies pleasing variety in the entertaining programme; H. O. Wills' song, patter, and business are very funny. The Bioscope is always good.

NORTHAMPTON. — Temperance Hall.—Secretary, Mr. G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Messrs. Andrews' Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—A fine sporting picture show the Replayed Football Match for the English Cup between Newcastle and Barnsley. Miss Margaret Payne's vocal contributions are "Love's dearest eyes" and "As long as the world rolls on."

The County Electric Pavilion.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—On Friday last the management were able to show some interesting views of the London to Manchester Flight, and have brought them into this week's programme; another fine set is With Roosevelt in Africa.

NORTH SHIELDS. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Percy Brown's company with Geoffrey Langdon's Wife has drawn large audiences. Mr. Wilson Coleman gives an excellent rendering of Felix Beverley; Mr. John Millward skilfully portrays Jack Stirling; Mr. Craig Hunt is capital in his delineation of Geoffrey Langdon; Mr. Cyril Grier proves a capable Colonel Mills; Mr. Percy Brown is good as Thomas; and the same may be said of Messrs. Victor T. Raymond and W. Annesley as Charles and Arthur Bellairs respectively; whilst Detective Banks finds an able exponent in Mr. Harland Brookes. As Mary, Miss Amy Ellam enacts the rôle with admirable effect; Miss Kathleen Magee gives a characteristic study of the Hon. Mrs. Sands; and Miss Minnie Goepel makes a hit as Sweet Nancy.

Central Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—An attractive bill-of-fare is drawing large audiences here. Will Godwin, versatile artist, is a great favourite; Cissie Carter, comedienne and dancer, has been accorded a hearty reception; Josie Neilson is a clever young entertainer; the Vedras are a smart pair of acrobatic eccentrics; and another fine series of pictures make up an enjoyable programme.

NORWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. Morgan.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company came here on Monday evening with The Merry Wives of Windsor. Mr. Henry Herbert admirably portrayed the character of Falstaff; Mr. Robert Atkins was excellent as Mr. Ford; Mr. Cyril Sworder was equally so as Mr. Page; Mr. John Cairns did well as Sir Hugh Evans; Mr. Andrew Leigh admirably acted the part of Dr. Caius; Miss Gladys Vanderzee deserves much praise as Mrs. Ford; Miss Kate Turner was very good as Mrs. Page; Miss Dorothy Radford was appreciated as Anne Page; Miss Betty Ward did well as Mrs. Quickly; and Mr. John Hood as Shallow and Mr. H. S. Cohen as Slender ably accounted for their respective parts. On Tuesday The Tempest was given.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Heading an excellent programme here are Mooney and Holbein in their pleasing vaudevillian entertainment. The Daunton Shaw Troupe give some astounding and clever cycling feats; the Rohda Bros, as society gymnasts evoke applause; the Bros. Dean, original dancers in white, gain much approbation; Violet Stockelle pleases in her vocal items; Harry Lewis is popular; and Miss Florence proves a clever mimic; Will Garvey causes much laughter, and the Hippo-Bio. Pictures are interesting.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Moody-Manners company commenced a week of répertoire on Monday with Tannhäuser. Mr. Joseph O'Mara sang the music of the hero with exquisite taste and expression; Madame de Vere-Sapio played the part of Elizabeth with true sympathy; Mr. Lewys James sang and acted with grace as Wolfram; and Mr. Charles Magrath's sonorous voice gave the music of the Landgrave additional beauty. Miss Toni Seiter made an admirable exponent of Venus, and the chorus numbers were rendered with animation and feeling. Samson and Delilah on Tuesday was a success from every point of view.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—The company of Miss Loie Esmond gives a capital rendering of The Sorrows of Satan. Mr. Edward Neville looks the cynical Prince Lucio to the life; Miss Rosie Neville supplies an excellent portraiture of Lady Sybil; Miss Dorothy Dewhurst makes a sympathetic Mavis Clare; Miss Loie Esmond is delightful as Diana Chesney; Mr. Jack McGaig offers an interesting study of Geoffrey Tempest; and Mr. J. Le Fleming is successful as the Earl of Elton.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—Miss Evie Greene is giving the greatest delight to audiences here by her charming vocalism. Alexander and Hughes excel in smart and humorous patter; the versatility of Dusty Rhodes is well exemplified; Astronomy is capitally played by W. Fulbrooke and company; the O'Brien Bros. show agility in double somersaults; and Lupino Lane, eccentric dancer; the Sisters Caselli, dancers; Katie Butler, comedienne; and Jennie Hartley, comedienne and dancer, also contribute to the programme.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—A visit by Little Tich is always welcome, and the quaint comedian, with his mercurial spirits and constant flow of banter and jokes, keeps everybody in the merriest of humours. Another attractive item is the astonishing and skilful acrobatic feats of the Gaudsmidts, given with a neatness and finish that arouse enthusiasm. A pleasant instrumental turn is provided by the five M.P.'s; a musical sketch by Rorke and company is well received; Tom Clifford ventriloquises effectively; a smart sketch entitled The Boat-builder is cleverly played by Miss Rita Warne, Mr. J. Holland, and Mr. E. W. Edmonds. Items are also given by the Ted Moxon Trio of acrobats, Harriett Rose, comedian, and Dan Filmer, comedian.

NUNEATON.—Prince of Wales's.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—Mr. Frank Lindo's company is occupying the boards with Love the Conqueror. The Brian Norval of Mr. Frank Lindo is a masterful piece of work; Mr. Sidney Dench successfully depicts Sir John Mortimer; Mr. Leonard Laurence ably presents the despicable character of Count Leon Lascelles; Mr. Norton Shields is good as Captain Rupert Armadale; Mr. Harry Belford as Andrew Albertree is a typical Boniface; Mr. Bert Dence amuses the audience as Peter; Mr. Eric S. Crowther is a dignified William of Orange; Miss Nellie Benson's rendering of Dame Norval is well received; and Miss Helen Thomson is good as Susan Shortly. Miss Marion Wakeford shows fine capabilities in her charming portrayal of Mistress Beatrice Mortimer. The play is dressed and staged in excellent style. To-day Home, Sweet Home, will be played by special request.

OLDHAM.—Grand Theatre.—Closed for summer vacation.

Colosseum Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. T. Edward Ward and company opened here on Monday in the new drama His Real Wife. Miss Ward as Rose Avondale acted most capably; Miss Gabrielle Romero as Lady Sybil proved a most capable actress; Miss Clarrie Yandell as Betty Tuttlebee, and Miss Celia Howard as Mrs. Creele were well suited in their parts; Mr. J. W. Evelyn as Martin Avondale acted in a clever manner, and Mr. Clifford Rean as Herbert Barton was well placed; Mr. Chas. Yorke as Colombo infused much vim into his acting; Alf Snickers was very amusing as played by Mr. Walter Walmsley; Mr. T. Ed. Ward made a capable landlord; and Mr. Bernard Elliott did well as Randall Meredith.

Empire Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Rollicking Rory is staged here. In the part of Rory O'Donohoe Mr. Chalmers Mackay appeared quite at home; Mrs. Mackay as Rosaleen was quite successful; Miss Connie Meadows was equally good as Rosie O'Donohoe; and Miss Jeanette Lyons made an excellent Widow O'Callagan. Mr. Lawrence Derrick as Desmond Fitzgerald was very good indeed; and Stephen D'Arcy was well played by Mr. Edward Warden. Mr. Lawrence Sullivan as the despicable agent Shaun Brady made a capable exponent; and Miss Kathleen Emmett was a good Queen of the Fairies.

Royal Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—The top-liner this week is the fourth part of the Life of Moses, and, needless to say, is a great success. The other pictures are equally good, and are witnessed with great interest. Much amusement is caused by the Wibberley Wob competition; Mr. Roger Alwyn also contributes to the programme.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—The latter half of last week Mr. Weedon Grossmith paid us a successful visit with his company in Mr. Preedy and the Countess. On Monday the Moody-Manners Opera Company began a satisfactory week's engagement here with Samson and Delilah, which earned the entire approval of a full and delighted house. Mr. Albert Bowyer is an ideal Samson. In appearance, in acting and singing, he satisfied the most exacting critic, and fully merited the continuous applause lavished on him. Miss Helen Culver's Delilah was also a first-class performance, fully realising the sensuous and fascinating woman; her singing was a positive treat. Mr. Dudley S. Marcus sang well and acted with excellent judgment as the High Priest of Dagon; Mr. Graham Marr made an admirable Abimelech; and Mr. W. Anderson was duly impressive as the aged Hebrew. The chorus was strong and well-balanced, and did good work under the control of Mr. Harrison Frewin, who admirably conducted an augmented orchestra, who did full justice to the delightful music. During the week Lohengrin, Faust, Il Trovatore, The Masked Ball, and Carmen are billed for performance.

East Oxford Theatre.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart's company is this week presenting interesting and admirable productions of Called Back and The Streets of London. In Called Back Mr. E. Holland Day again gives proof of solid ability and sound study as Gilbert Vaughan; Mr. Harry Parr makes an excellent Dr. Ceneri; and Mr. Fred Biron is very capable as the villain, Paulo Macari. Mr. Harry Mascot is bright as Arthur Kenyon; and Mr. Edwin Firth fills the rôle of Louis Petroff successfully. Mr. Karl Edwards in the rather small part of Anthony March easily sustains his good reputation; Miss Katie Norris is effective as Mary Vaughan; and Miss Mabel Parker, with her sympathetic temperament, makes Priscilla very attractive. Miss Elma C. Turner is, as usual, highly successful as Pauline March.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Mr. Herbert Fuller with his company is in possession here for another week, and giving good all-round performances of the two plays A Noble Mother and Trilby.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—Heading the bill, and giving a wonderful exhibition of trick and comedy cycling, are Lotto, Lilo, and Otto; the Norman and Leonard Trio provide a pleasing and refined musical turn; and the programme includes Margaret Ruby and Ernest Laws, in a vocal and comedy act; A. J. Gamble, Scotch comedian; Dolly Barrie and Juan Wood comedy duo; the Denaro Brothers, juvenile hand equilibrists; George M. Baker and Lilian Balfe instrumentalists; Chummie La Mara, comedienne, and the Bioscope.

PENTRE.—Tivoli.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; General-Manager, Mr. Edgar Harper; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lacy Lyne. — Mr. Haldane Crichton's company is here in The Cingalee. Miss Florence Watson as Nanoya sings and acts with much charm; Mr. Jack Crichton as Chambhuddy Ram gives a clever delineation; Mr. Arthur Cartwright as the Hon. Harry Vereker uses his well-trained voice to advantage; Miss Pauline Hague gains admiration as Lady Patricia; and Mr. Scott Cullen's Bobby Warren is a praiseworthy performance. Miss Ida Ernest is a lively Peggy Sabine; and Messrs. Douglas Munro (Boobhamba) and F. W. Ford (Sir Peter) are good in their respective parts. An efficient orchestra is under the leadership of Mr. Rowland Wood.

PERTH.—Perth Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—Under the Iron Heel is played by Mr. Wilson Howard's company. Mr. Howard takes the part of Rene de Maupassant with distinction, and he is ably supported by Miss Carlotta Anson as Germaine Mirbeau. Other members of the company who help to make the production noteworthy are Mr. J. W. Richards, Mr. John Talford, Mr. Dennis Clyde, Mr. Gerald Smythe, Mr. R. Merring, Mr. Carl Vallender, Mr. Austin Longford, Mr. F. M. Best, Mr. A. E. Rose, Mr. M. J. Douglas-Hicks, and Miss Marie Angus.

PETERBOROUGH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and Miss Beatrice Wilson are here in The Marriage of Kitty. Mr. Norman V. Norman as Sir Reginald Belsize gives an interesting study; Mr. F. Lock Whittaker is successful as John Travers; as Kitty Miss Beatrice Wilson gives a fine performance; Miss Vera George as Mme. de Semiano is well placed; Mr. Norman Leslie is very good as Norbury; and Miss Betty Stannard is satisfactory as Rosalie.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—Mat Lynton's company is presenting the great dramatic episode, The Tempter, the various parts in which are capitally enacted by Mr. Ivan Coherney, Mr. Morley Carroll, and Miss V. St. Lawrence. A. G. Spry arouses much enthusiasm in his comical songs; Mark Leslie scores successfully as an eccentric dancer; Rousby and Rene, in Lancashire comedy study Fine Feathers make a decided hit; George Norton, in "Cleaning empty houses," is loudly applauded; Godfrey Rumford, ballad singer, is well received; and Rosie Lloyd in several songs has a fine reception.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Large contingents of the younger members of the community have thoroughly enjoyed themselves at the Royal this week, where Alice in Wonderland is the attraction. As Alice Miss Ivy Sawyer receives much well-merited applause; Messrs. Tom Graves and Roland Henry as Mock Turtle and Gryphon in the first part, and subsequently Tweedledee and Tweedledum, are a brilliant pair of comedians; Miss Doris Walker is a dainty little March Hare; Mr. Franklyn Vernon a most meritorious Mad Hatter; and Master Dan Leno as Caterpillar is responsible for clever dancing.

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The brilliant spectacle afforded by the Elliott-Savonas is the principal attraction at the Palace, and some wonderful harmony is produced from novel instruments, culminating, as usual, in a blaze of colour; Hayman and Franklin, in a Hebrew skit, entitled A Matrimonial Agency, are responsible for fifteen minutes' amusement; Senorita Elvina is a graceful and daring gymnast; Charles Grantley is well described as an erratic comedian; Mlle. Florence is heard to advantage in some tuneful songs, accompanied by lantern slides; the McConnell Trio score in a vocal omedy sketch, entitled The Invalid; and Miss Eily Adair is a dainty comedienne.

PONTEFRACT.—Alexandra Theatre of Varieties. — Mr. John Lawson and company head the programme in the episode Humanity. The piece is excellently staged. The Newmans present a unique trick cycling act, introducing an exhibition of boxing on unicycles; the Lauri Brothers are smart acrobats; the Robinis star as hat jugglers and club throwers; Vera Saunders is a comedienne and dancer of merit; the Dutrees appear as cartoonists; C. Ibbotson causes amusement with his patter; Saro gives a novel musical act; Cissy Esdale is a charming comedienne; and the Alexscope shows the English Cup Final.

PORTH.—Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Ritter and Foster top the bill here; Mabel Le Roy is a burlesque artist; Bert Woodward a steeple-chasing cyclist; Chas. Mildare, whistling comedian; the original society gymnasts, the Fitzroys; and Chas. Penrose, comedian. Father's Footsteps, a most amusing farcical sketch, presented by the Heriot Trio; Hunter and Maris, in a comedy novelty; and the Palascope, with the latest films, are the other attractions.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—A large and appreciative audience assembled on Monday, when Mr. Martin Harvey, supported by Miss N. de Silva and company, opened with The Breed of the Treshams. The thoroughly artistic development of the various incidents by the distinguished actor and his company keenly interested those present. On other nights The World and His Wife, The Conspiracy, and Hamlet have been submitted.

Prince's.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company, in his romantic drama For Love and the King occupies the boards. Mr. C. Watson Mill himself powerfully impersonates Gerald Meredith; Mr. F. K. Wicksteed skilfully portrays Prince Uros Dragomar; the peasant girl Natua is sympathetically played by Miss Joan Ellis; Miss Rosalind Tate is successful as Edith Meredith; the remaining characters are in capable hands. Pictures, as usual, precede.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Captain E. H. Warren Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—This comfortable hall is particularly inviting, with its new scheme of decoration and crimson drop curtain. The special feature is wrestling, with Tarro Miyake, the famous exponent of the Ju-jitsu defence, the efforts of various aspirants to the prizes offered causing considerable excitement; Kitts and Windrum take well in their funny sketch The Cuckoo; the Musical Keiths are entertaining; Harry Leybourne as a mimic at the piano scores well; the Bristons are clever acrobatic cyclists; the songs and patter of Ambrose Thorne kept the audience amused; and Shenton and Chicks are appreciated.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—A great attraction is provided by Joe Elvin and his company in his racing sketch The Rocket, the two scenes introducing racing stables, course, and four horses imparting realism to the production. Jack Lorimer's quaint singing and dancing is thoroughly enjoyed; the Juggling Geraldos exhibit great dexterity with hoops and clubs; Henriette and Selina contribute a pleasing instrumental turn; Les Videos, showily costumed, display skill on roller skates; Mark Sheridan, jun., made a successful appearance; Nash and Noel are clever in their comedy business; and Mabel Mignon is a chic singer and dancer. An exclusive film, the R.M.L.I. and South Bank football match, attracts attention.

King's.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—A brisk and entertaining programme this week includes La Pia, with her series of spectacular and weird dances; Harry Tate's company in Fishing are highly amusing; part song vocalism and drollery find exponents in the Empire Comedy Four; the Eight Elves sing, dance, and play instrumental music; Telma is a wonderful contortionist; exceedingly droll and amusing comedians are Paul Barnes and Ernie Mayne; James R. Sinclair forcibly impersonates some of our greatest actors; the Society Quartette and Moon and Morris are smart entertainers.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Exors. of the late M. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—Madame X., with Mrs. Brown-Potter in the title-rôle, is a big attraction here. Mrs. Brown-Potter is entitled to the highest praise for her wonderful and enthralling presentment of Jacqueline Fleuriot; Mr. Leonard Pagden is also seen to advantage as Louis Fleuriot; Mr. Frank Bradley is an excellent Noel; Mr. Douglas Alington as Raymond Fleuriot is another good actor, and delivers his address (in the last act) to the jury in a most impassioned and impressive manner; Mr. Charles B. Bedells is clever as Laroque; an excellent bit of acting is contributed by Mr. Thomas Sydney as Perissard; and Mr. H. Lionel Brocknor as Merivel, Miss Freda Ashford as Helene, Miss Forbes Phillips as Marie, Miss Sara de Groot as Mme. Varenne, and Miss Emma Stockley as Rose, are each and all excellent.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Miss Minnie Kaufman performs some most difficult feats with her bicycle; Chinko the juggler presents some remarkable novelties, and Graham, in a sketch entitled The Lilliputian Wonder, presents a pleasing and novel turn; Brayne and Lloyd, in a quaint comedy, The Tree of Truth, cause much laughter; Dix and Dox give a capital musical turn; Fanny Humber proves herself a smart dancer, vocalist, and instrumentalist; the Zaid Trio are clever Oriental contortionists; Harry Marlow, light comedian, is appreciated; the Tennessee Coloured Guards in Camp Life Down South are a capital turn, and introduce several specialities.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Clarkson.—The drama Can a Woman be Good? is a capital attraction here. Mr. J. Millaine gives a manly portrayal of Manuel; Mr. Henry C. Robinson as the unscrupulous Herod Steinburgh and Mr. J. L. Jackson as Ralph Desmond imbue their respective parts with the necessary stage villainy; Miss Winifred Barton as Slithers and Mr. J. R. Tyrrell as Curly Dabbs fully succeed in their efforts to keep the house in good humour; Miss Blanche St. Albans gives a finished rendition of the part of Esther Howarth; Miss Florence Hunt is excellent as Naomi Morrick; and Miss M. Rose is a charming Magdala Fawcett.

RAMSGATE.—Royal Palace Theatre.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Chas. Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—The interesting military drama, The Scapegrace, has been put on this week by a capable company, under the direction of Mr. John Levey. The dramatic situations, particularly those on the "illimitable veldt," are made the most of, and are extremely effective. Mr. John Levey is excellent in the rôle of Bill Burke; and Miss Nellie Lambert plays with marked skill and power as Nellie Burke. The other parts are capably handled by those to whom their presentation is entrusted.

Marina Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—At the Marina this week Mr. Manager Attack has put up a fine programme, and there have been large and appreciative "houses" to see the picture shows. Variety is provided by Nelson Hardy, whose ventriloquial sketches are enjoyed.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—Mr. John F. Preston is producing Rogues of the Turf. The leading parts are well sustained by Miss Mabelle F. Barlow as the adventuress, Marion, Lady Heathcote, and Mr. John F. Preston, who acts in first-rate style as Joe Flaxman, the trainer. Nellie Flaxman is well impersonated by Miss Ethel Rainforth; Mr. Arthur Hartley as Sir Gerald Heathcote, Mr. Edward Ray as Arthur Somerton, and Mr. Arthur Leighton as Steve Burton act with ability; and "the rogues of the Turf" are characteristically personified by Messrs. W. Howard Barlow, F. Laurence, and Tom Phillips. The comedy element is well sustained by Mr. Horace Custens as Sammy Flaxman and Miss Marie Brian as Phyllis Wurzel. The sporting scenes are well staged, and the race for the Manchester Cup, in which three real racehorses take part, forms an exciting climax.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco.—The Selbinis perform a variety of the most daring and clever feats in juggling, acrobatics, roller-skating, and cycling. The Eight Lancashire Lads are warmly applauded for their excellent singing and dancing; Thomas Brooklyn and Alys Hardy and company present a very amusing comedietta entitled Algy's Advertisement; Kloof and Ramsey give a good musical turn; the Primrose Quartette appear with success in an original Welsh song scena; Eva Ellis sings and dances cleverly; Agnes Molteno and company appear in a pathetic song-scena, entitled An Old-time Story, which is illustrated by effective tableaux; L. B. Athol presents a vocal scena, Dreamland, in good style; and some excellent films are shown on the Bioscope. The recent ticket benefit on behalf of the Reading Football Club realised £31 3s. 10d.

ROTHERHAM.—Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur R. Hollands.—A splendid company is here this week. Radford and Valentine are highly diverting in their jolly juggling and mirth; Max Waldon presents lifelike impersonations of celebrated stage stars; Miss Ethel Thomas, the Welsh nightingale, is rapturously applauded; Phil Percival is a most amusing entertainer; Elton and Elma are highly successful knockabouts in the triple-bar act; Eva Simpson is a dainty little song and dance artist; Harry Bickley is clever; and Miss Sadie Simpson is a pleasing comedienne and dancer. An excellent series of pictures are shown on the Hipposcope.

SALFORD.—P.O.W.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones and his company commenced a second week here on Monday with When Other Lips, which was well received by a good house. Mr. John Davidson was an excellent Ted Daunton; Miss Marie Daventry as the heroine, Ruth Lingley, played with charming ability; and Miss Florence Melrose Millett made an impression as Octavia. Mr. Juan D'Alberti did good work as Basil Cunningham; Mr. Bob Anderson as Tommy Neccles, Mr. F. Thorpe-Tracey as Duddle Topwash, Miss Jane Watson as Kitty Topwash, and Miss Irene Tracey as Nancy Jenkins kept the audience in excellent humour throughout. Mr. T. Arthur Jones as Jenkins and Mr. Arthur H. Clarke as the pickpocket Sharpy, and the other members of the company, gave able support.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond. — Jock Whiteford, with his Scotch humour and songs, is a great favourite; Mabel Bright has a very pleasing act, "Aladdinette," in which she very cleverly represents several characters; the Avolas are smart acrobats. The following turns are also well received:—Bent and Gerda, in old Swedish peasant songs and dances; J. J. Mannix, coffee-coloured coon; Hammon and Wyatt, in novel singing act; Amy Russell, soprano; and Baby Vi Davis, a clever child vocalist and actress.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—A well-arranged programme is again presented, and much fun is got out of Billy Merson, comedian; Yost and York, military boys, are very clever; the Royal Banzai Family of Japanese artists do some wonderful balancing; The Girl and the Tough is a pleasing sketch by John G. Brandon, Rosie Vernon, and Leslie Tyler; the second-sight by the Days is marvelled at; Baby Myrtle Grove, pierrot, Stevens and Brett, burlesque entertainers, and Mitchell and Stott, in The Clever Tramps, also appear.

Opera House and Assembly Rooms, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—The Cowboy and the Squaw, a thrilling Wild West picture, Seeing the Real Thing, Elephants in India, and Double Sight are the principal films, interspersed by welcome songs by Mr. Tom Sherlock.

Central Hall (Blackfriars-road).—Proprietors, Messrs. Matt. Raymond; Company-Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—The pictures include Adventures in the Golden Valley, Football Final, 1910, Old Man's Valentine, Two Portraits, Weary Will Ballet Girl, Vice Versa, and On the Reef, with songs by Mr. A. H. Gilbert.

New Central Hall (Pendleton).—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Whiteley; Manager, Mr. Gilbert Bruce.—The Trooper's Bride, The Hanging Lamp, Hiccoughs, A Fight for Honour, Dumb Sagacity, Saved from the Cannibals, Ups and Downs of a Hat, Man's Most Fearful Enemy—Alcohol, are among the films shown twice nightly.

SCARBOROUGH.—The Aquarium.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Bench.—Tom Lloyd tops the bill here, and is very popular; Phil Bransby is successful as a coster comedian; Dacey and Lewis prove highly entertaining; and George Rapley finds favour as a comedian. A turn of considerable merit is provided by the Sylvester Trio; Reed and Cully are capital comedy tumblers; and John Trevellian appears with success as "the man in the street." The pictures on the Bioscope are excellent.

New Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Tully.—Variety was the order here for the first half of the week, the artists appearing being the Bros. Webb, clever musical clowns; the Carlo Maie Trio, in wire act; the Habs Bros., eccentric acrobats; Charles Ulrick, the barrel king; Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard, in a well-acted comedy sketch, Coming Home; Bros. Lavelle, comic acrobats; the Sisters Gretti, in a smart gymnastic display; Blanche and Zeyna, in sensational cycle act; and George Castrey. Mother-in-Law is billed for the second half of the week.

The Spa.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. H. T. Chambers.—Exceptionally large attendances are the rule at this popular resort. Mr. Nelson Jackson appeared in humorous and musical recitals on the first three days of the week, and proved exceedingly popular.

SEACOMBE.—King's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Mr. Arthur Leigh's company fulfils a welcome re-engagement here with Lucky Durham. Mr. Edmund Kennedy repeats his former brilliant success in the title-rôle, and Mr. William Calvert gives a powerful rendition of Lord Mountfallon; Mr. Arthur Leigh is as good as ever, which says much, as the Hon. Reginald Steighton, and Mr. Vallerton is cleverly drawn by Mr. Chas. Wemyss. Miss Florence Tressilian presents a most winsome and attractive Helen Vallerton, Lady Mountfallon being strongly played by Miss Frances Wolviston; Miss Dorothy Turner is successful as the Hon. Margaret Steighton; and Miss Nellie Bonser is a delightful Mrs. Durham.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—Flight, a drama dealing with aviation, is being successfully presented here by Mr. Charles March's company. As Jack Trevor, Mr. Charles March stands out prominently with a vigorous portrayal; the rascally Stanley Wilmot is skilfully treated by Mr. Percy Ballard; Mr. E. Hall-Eldon is a popular Ben Bolter; Rice Pritchard finds a careful exponent in Mr. Henry Compton; a well-defined study of Arnold Maynard is contributed by Mr. J. Court Harvard; the Chevalier Brissent is smartly interpreted by Mr. G. Marshall; Miss Kathleen Yates gains hearty encomiums for her interpretation of Elsie Meynard; and as Mrs. Trevor Miss V. Crawford is successful.

SHEERNESS.—Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham. —The World, The Flesh, and The Devil is here. Gertrude Grant is ably portrayed by Miss Dora Hammersley, Mr. Henry Doughty acts with power and ability as Nicholas Brophy, Mr. Frederick Jacques submits a careful study of Sir James Hall, Mr. Will Smith gives a fine portrayal of Rupert Dyke, Miss Doris Whyte makes a charming Beatrice Cuthbert, Mr. Eardley Howard a manly Robert Hall, and much amusement is caused by Mr. Will Harman as Mr. Johnson and Miss Florence Vickers as Mrs. Jenkins.

SHEFFIELD. — Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—In Mr. Robert Courtneidge's successful production here of The Arcadians Mr. Walter Passmore fairly revels in the congenial part of James Smith, and Mr. Oliver J. Round's clever impersonation of Peter Doody is not only screamingly funny, but remains a sound piece of comedy acting. Mr. Harold E. Pearce acts and sings in characteristic musical comedy fashion as Jack Meadows; Mr. Ivan Cleveland is first rate as Sir George Paddock; and Mr. Louis Victor is good. As Bobby Miss Billie Sinclair continues to be the incarnation of girlish grace and refined vivacity as Eileen Cavanagh; Miss Veronica Brady is very amusing as the lively, good-natured Mrs. Smith; and Miss Ethel Erskine's piquant appearance and melodious singing as Sombra makes this talented young artist a general favourite. The chorus is first rate, and Mr. Edwin Thornton is an efficient conductor.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey-Aldred.—Miss Grace Warner opened to a good audience on Monday in The Wages of Sin. Mr. George Gordon gains a large share of popular approbation for his manly and sympathetic acting as the Rev. George Brand; Miss Grace Warner as the ill-fated Ruth exercised her wonted power over the audience, and her fine performance frequently evoked enthusiastic applause.

Alexandra Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—The Diver's Luck was revived here on Monday. The well-drawn character of Martin Faber gave Mr. William Macready every opportunity for the display of his histrionic ability; the hearty humour of Big Barney Bawn was well expressed by Mr. Edward O'Grady; and Miss C. Bickerstaff fully realised the womanly faith and sympathy of Helen Wyngate.

Empire Palace.—The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The programme this week is contributed to by Mr. Whit Cunliffe, the popular "swell comique," in new songs and old favourites; Mr. Ben Albert, the philosophical comedian, who discourses in a witty manner on current topics; Miss May Mars, a handsome and vivacious burlesque actress; the Blank Family, Continental Risley artists and jugglers; the Francolis, pantomimists and acrobatic drolls; Mr. Tom Stuart, humorist; Miss Gladys Mavius, a chic entertainer; Les Silvas, operatic vocalists; the Lyric Vocal Quartette; and Miss Wish Wynne, comedienne. Topical pictures conclude.

The Hippodrome.—The Thomas Barrasford Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—Miss Maud Santley, the charming vocalist, heads the bill this week, and the company also includes the Tintos, comic acrobats; the Markes, instrumentalists; Mr. Tom Gott, comedian; Mr. Bruce Green, humorist; the Three Carlens, clever gymnasts; Miss Gwennie Morgan, vocal comedienne; the Six White Boys, variety artists; Mr. Rolando Martin, eccentric comedian; the Florodora Girls in a pleasing act; and Sandy McNab and company in the successful screaming absurdity The Egyptian Mummy. The Bioscope pictures of up-to-date events are well received.

SHREWSBURY.—Theatre Royal and Hippodrome.—Lessee and Director, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; General-Manager, Mr. Thos. Baugh.—Les Vivandières, a capable and artistic company of vaudeville entertainers, are providing an attractive and varied bill of fare. Miss Della Fredricks is a tuneful singer and agile dancer; Mr. Wilfred Dane a droll and eccentric character comedian; Miss Gertrude Russell sings well; Mr. Eddie Noble's musical sketches are novel and clever, and his entertainment refined; Miss Dora Gaye, soprano, merits praise

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's play, which has been a great success in America, was presented on Monday at the Liverpool Shakespeare Theatre prior to its introduction to a London audience next week. The manner of its reception in the Mersey city is some considerable assurance that the play will prove a big success. Londoners especially will be impressed by the faithfulness of the pictures of East-End life, which occupy a fairly large portion of the story. The theme is one that conveys a powerful lesson in hope amidst difficulties, and such being preached by a waif of the slums, its strangeness is all the more pronounced, and, perhaps, all the more effective with those who are prepared to accept moral encouragement. The beauty and strength of the play, which thoroughly grips the audience, lies in its simplicity and its close adherence to human feelings and passions. There is nothing unnatural about it, and the onlooker is driven to admit that here is a perfect reflection of people and things of everyday life. One scene in particular—that of Apple Blossom Court, a squalid hole—brings before the eye an actual reproduction of countless spots to be found in East London. The indication of a fog, through which dim lamp-jets are endeavouring to struggle, is one of the best pictures of its kind that has been seen on the stage for many a long day. This instance of completeness and detail is only one of several to be found in the drama.

The narrative starts in the London house of Sir Oliver Holt, where three medical men are in consultation regarding that baronet's nervous breakdown, the conclusion come to being that unless he braces himself up an imbecile's death can be the only ending. One of the trio, however, holds the opinion that he may possibly recover through the influence of a power greater than that possessed by physicians, such as a new interest in life. The baronet overhears the conversation between the medicos, and resolves to commit suicide rather than lose his reason. With this intention he dons the rough clothing of a working man, and, putting a revolver into his pocket, journeys to the East End of the city, bent upon doing away with himself there in order that his identity may not be discovered.

The second scene finds him in the wretched surroundings of Apple Blossom Court, with the deadly weapon in one hand, while with the other he is throwing away some gold which he found in his pocket, thinking it would do some poor creature good. The sound of the jingling coins arouses a young girl, nicknamed "Glad," who has been sleeping beneath some sacks; and her sudden appearance, quickly followed by a cheerful remark not to use the weapon upon himself, arrests the man's attention. Seeing that she has caught his thoughts, the girl follows up her advantage by unfolding in a bright, confidential way, a gospel strange to him, which she was taught whilst in hospital, viz., that "things are never so black as they look," and "to-morrow's are always worth living for." Sir Oliver is gradually, but surely, impressed by the earnestness of the girl, and it is soon clear that his suicidal ideas are retreating into the background. He commences to show an interest in the inhabitants of the district, being completely influenced by the sunny nature of the little slum girl, who obtains such power over him that he unconsciously learns the valuable lesson of "hope for the morrow." The introduction of a police hunt for Dandy, Glad's sweetheart, who is falsely accused of a crime, and is eventually proved innocent through the girl's exertions, adds an element of keen excitement to the play. In the end everything is straightened out, and the influence of Glad restores Sir Oliver's health.

For all those who have been admirers of Miss Gertrude Elliott's acting in former pieces, a delightful surprise is in store. Even had The Dawn of a To-morrow lacked strength, the distinguished actress would, by her own ability, have raised it to a high level. "Glad" is a type of character which enables her to show emotional powers of a high order. Particularly noticeable was her perfect Cockney accent. The whole of the cast were well suited to their work. Mr. Herbert Waring was impressively great as the medically-sentenced Sir Oliver, and the grimness of despair was shown in his every movement, until the advent of Glad, when interest in life gradually expressed itself. Mr. Henry Ainley portrayed with striking truthfulness the terrified and hunted thief; Mr. Jameson Lee-Finney did everything necessary with his profligate Oliver Holt; an amusing coffee-stall holder came from Mr. Frank Bertram; Messrs. J. H. Barnes, James Hearn, and James Gelderd naturally portrayed the physicians; and Miss Ada Dwyer made the quarrelsome Bet a capital piece of character acting. At the close of each scene the artists were greeted with enthusiasm and prolonged applause.

A word of praise is due to the management, who, in the course of a very short time, succeeded in getting the whole of the scenery and properties painted, the original ones, as already stated, having been lost in the wreck of the Minnehaha.

Mr. William A. Brady has joined hands with the Shuberts, and a company has been formed in America with a capital of one million dollars. Its title is the William A. Brady Company. Mr. Brady is the president, Mr. Lee Shubert the vice-president, and Mr. J. J. Shubert the secretary and treasurer. The plans of the company include the building of two more theatres in New York, one to be called the New Netherlands and the other the Edwin Booth, and the providing of big productions for the Manhattan Opera House when opera is not being given there. These productions will be similar to those made at Drury Lane Theatre.

The house on Riverside Drive, New York, that was owned by the late Richard Mansfield, was recently bought by Mr. William A. Brady for his wife, who is known professionally as Miss Grace George. The price paid was $51,000. Mansfield spent a great deal of money on the house when he bought it about ten years ago. The library is a beautiful room, and the house contains many rich cabinets built into the walls for the bric-à-brac which the late actor had a fondness for collecting.

EDWARD COMPTON ASSAULTED

Mr. Edward Compton appeared as prosecutor on the 28th ult. in connection with a charge of assault against Mr. John Hyde, a coal merchant, of Monton-street, Moss Side, Manchester. The defendant did not answer to the summonses

Mr. W. R. W. Murray represented Mr. Compton, and said the prosecutor had been appearing at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester. There were altogether three summonses against the defendant, two taken out by Mr. Compton and one by Mr. John Gray, his chauffeur.

The summonses taken out by Mr. Compton were for assault and for wilful damage to his motor-car, and the summons by the chauffeur was for assault.

On Monday evening, after the performance, continued Mr. Murray, the prosecutor was being driven in his car, and on reaching Cavendish-street crossing the chauffeur slowed up. The defendant was then on the other side, and he deliberately turned round and tried to obstruct the prosecutor's car.

The chauffeur was compelled to pull up dead, but thinking there was going to be no further trouble, he started again. The defendant proceeded towards Gray, seized him by the shoulder, and tried to pull him off the car. That, said Mr. Murray, was a most dangerous thing to do. The car was moving, and anything might have happened.

After that Mr. Compton thought there was going to be no further bother, and he waved on the chauffeur. The prosecutor had both his windows up, and the defendant went round to one of them. He struck the plate-glass window a blow with his fist, scattering the glass over Mr. Compton's two daughters, part of the glass striking the prosecutor's face and injuring him, only temporarily.

"Mr. Compton's face, we all agree," went on Mr. Murray, "is his fortune. At least, I agree with it; I don't know whether you gentlemen do." There was great risk of the glass going into his eye, and there was a risk of his face being seriously damaged. They knew perfectly well that Mr. Compton's was a difficult place to fill so far as his plays on the stage were concerned. Fortunately no serious injury was done.

Mr. Compton went round to the man, who was under the influence of drink, and asked him what he meant. The defendant replied: "You are not the only —— gentleman on the road with a motor-car." Later, however, he altered his language and referred to Mr. Compton as "My Lord Duke."

"My Lord Duke," said Mr. Murray, tried to persuade the defendant to have no further bother, and with the assistance of the chauffeur and two other gentlemen he was got into Cavendish-street.

The police could not take any part in the business, so Mr. Compton insisted on the man giving his own name and address. He gave it, and Mr. Compton gave his own name and address, saying he would summon the defendant for the assault and damage to the car.

Since then Mr. Compton had received messages asking him to "square" the matter. "Mr. Compton," added Mr. Murray, "had no vindictiveness. He has taken the matter up as much in the interests of motorists as anything else. Of course, this sort of thing cannot be allowed to go on with impunity. If the defendant had turned up this morning and apologised to the Court and paid the damage and the costs Mr. Compton would have withdrawn without any pressure on the part of the defendant.

Mr. Hyde when he found he could not "square" the case appears to have forgotten all about the affair. His wife tells me that she has wired to him and that the wire was returned, but when I say I will go to the Post Office she says "Oh! there is no need to go there." The man appears to be treating it very lightly, and he ought to know a good deal better.

Service of the summons having been proved, Mr. Compton went into the box to formally bear out Mr. Murray's statement: "Every word of it is true," said Mr. Compton, "except, of course, the remarks about my face." (Laughter.)

The magistrates said they could not proceed with the case in the absence of the defendant, and they would grant a warrant.

Mr. Murray said he would like to give the defendant notification of that proceeding to give him an opportunity of surrendering.

The Clerk: Very possibly he will be arrested to-night, and may be here in the morning.

Mr. Murray added that Mr. Compton was in Leeds next week, and it might be very inconvenient for him to come.

The warrant was issued, and it was left to Mr. Murray to take it up.

Princess Christian and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein were present at the performance of Die Walküre, at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on Wednesday evening

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

"SUMURUN,"

Pantomime, in Five Scenes, by F Freksa, Music by Victor Hollander, Produced at the Deutsches Chamber Plays, April 28.

Alter Kaufmann ..... Herr Wegener
Sein Sohn ..... Herr Von Winterstein
Sumurûn ..... Fraulein Wiesenthal
Nur al Din ..... Herr Moissi
Der Buckelige ..... Herr Schildkraut
Tänzerin ..... Fraulein Konstantin
Sklavenhändler ..... Herr Pagay
Dienerin ..... Fraulein E. Wiesenthal
Ein Blinder ..... Herr Kuehne
Ein Dieb ..... Herr Richard

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, Thursday, May 5.—This is quite a new departure for the Deutsches company. It is pantomime in its literal sense—a play without words, and as such was brilliantly acted and mounted; indeed, the mounting forms the chief attraction of the piece, if we except the charming dancing of the Sisters Wiesenthal. The author has drawn his work from Oriental fairy tales, possibly the ever-popular "Thousand and One Nights." Sumurûn is the young wife of a wealthy old merchant, and, despite the danger of such a proceeding, loves, instead of her rightful lord and master, the handsome young tradesman (carpets are his particular wares) Nur al Din, who returns her passion adequately. The love scenes, though set in Eastern colouring, are up to date in other ways, with "Parisian" details to give the desired piquancy. Nur al Din goes though a good many adventures, and so does the poor cripple who loves a fair maid with a hopeless passion. The latter, for instance, take poison after his inamorata has finally repulsed his advances, and his dead body is unluckily put into a huge hamper ostensibly full of silks, but which in reality conceals Nur al Din, who adopts this means to be smuggled into his sweetheart's palace. After some complications, a good deal of fun, and more than a good deal of love-making, the cripple turns out not to be dead after all. The plot is a secondary consideration all round, the chief stress being laid upon a series of brilliantly effective pictures and graceful dancing. Whoever is a friend of these dumb shows will doubtless find much to his liking, but the piece is far too long, and the audience yawned in places unreservedly. The music, though not in the least original, is very pleasing, and well adapted to the setting. Author and composer, with the principal artists, were called before the curtain frequently in response to hearty and general applause.

The boards of the Hebbel were turned to account one night last week by a new association for the "promotion of art." The Hebbel company—an excellent one—gave the association their services for the production of a very poor play entitled Konkurrenten (Competitors), by Fritz Peters, a dramatist hitherto unknown, and whose reputation will certainly not be enhanced by the present work. It is in three acts and a prologue. It opens in a boarding school, where the two rival boys fight for the love-letters of a neighbouring school maiden; in each succeeding act the rivalry increases—in business, in love of a more mature kind, and even after death in the matter of eulogies. Only the excellent acting saved the crude piece from utter failure.

The Imperial Russian Ballet from St. Petersburg is about to pay us a second visit, this time to the Komische Oper instead of the Royal Opera. The first performance will take place on the 15th, and the booking is already brisk.

In consequence of the great success of The Islander, at the Apollo, matinées will be given every Wednesday and Saturday until further notice.

At the Theatre Royal, Glasgow, on Wednesday night, John Mackay, an attendant, was seriously wounded. An Italian opera company is at present appearing at the theatre, and half-a-dozen Italians from the audience started quarrelling in the corridor. Mackay went to keep order, and caught hold of one of the men. The foreigner, it is alleged, drew a revolver and shot Mackay in the groin. The man was seized by a plain clothes constable, and the three Italians were incarcerated, while Mackay was taken to the infirmary.

The Berlin Opera House, instead of being pulled down and replaced by another, and one worthy of this fine capital, is to be patched up once again. There are all sorts of alterations and improvements necessary on the stage and in the wings and dressing-rooms—necessary for the safety of the artists in case of fire—and these will take several months' hard work as well as swallow an enormous sum of State money. Accordingly the house closed on May 1 until October or even November. The company has removed to the New Royal Opera—still better known by its more popular name of Krolls—where performances not demanding too great dimensions will continue to be given until the holidays. Whether now a gala opera will be performed in honour of Mr. Roosevelt appears to be doubtful.

MISS SOPHIE LINGWOOD

AS "MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."

Miss Sophie Lingwood submitted a thoroughly artistic impersonation of the warm-hearted, lovable, and forgiving Mrs. Wiggs. Her delightful comedy and touches of tender pathos, with her charming rendering of the quaint philosophy associated with the part, secured her frequent and well-deserved applause.—Sussex Daily News (Brighton).

Miss Sophie Lingwood in this rôle is delicious and life-like, and does not over-act, as do many of the others. Her way is her own—not that of previous exponents of the part. She was shrewdly clever in the "match-making" episodes.—Daily Mail (Hull).

Miss Sophie Lingwood plays the part of Mrs. Wiggs in a tender and sympathetic manner; the quaint sayings of the original character and her lovableness and tender-heartedness are given with point and feeling deserving of considerable praise.—Chatham Daily Mail.

At the head of the list is Miss Sophie Lingwood, whose acting in the title rôle is admirable. As the sunny Mrs. Wiggs she has a part in which she is able to show her histrionic abilities to the full, and she was the recipient of hearty applause on Monday evening, having to appear again and again to recalls.—Eastbourne Gazette.

The rôle of Mrs. Wiggs was cleverly portrayed by Miss Sophie Lingwood, who handled her part with infinite skill, her performance being always natural.—Folkestone Herald.

Miss Sophie Lingwood brought out the intense human character of the part admirably. She was always the loving mother of lively children, the sympathetic friend of the less fortunate, and finally the forgiving wife of an erring husband, and the more exacting calls of the last phase were met as adequately as the earlier. She is the moving spirit of the play, and it is her cheery optimism, warmth of heart, and breadth of sympathy that leave the most abiding impression.—Huddersfield Examiner.

Mrs. Wiggs is made a very lovable character by Miss Sophie Lingwood, the actress's sunny personality influencing the whole performance.—The Record (Bedford).

Mrs. Wiggs, as portrayed by Miss Sophie Lingwood, is particularly lovable, the actress's cheery personality pervading the entire performance.—The Stage.

Miss Sophie Lingwood is an ideal representative of the unselfish and kind-hearted Mrs. Wiggs.—The Era.

"THE LAW OF THE ZINGALI."

One-Act Tragedy, by Frances M. Gostling, Played, for the First Time, at the Theatre Royal, Worthing, on Tuesday, May 3.

Tawno Chinkno ..... Mr. Cecil A. Collins
Tanguy Lescure ..... Mr. Marcus D. Draper
Mongette ..... Miss Beatrice Whitney
Pepita ..... Miss May de Launey

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

There was a large audience to witness the initial production of this powerful tragedy at the Theatre Royal on Tuesday evening, and it was generally conceded that the authoress had penned a piece which was dramatically effective. The plot is of a sombre nature, and deals with the love and hatred of gipsies. The scene of the play is laid in a farmhouse kitchen. A gipsy named Tawno Chinkno tells the farmer and his wife of the revenge he intends to take for the desertion of his sweetheart, Pepita, who has left him for someone in the neighbouring castle. Pepita, overcome by the bitter weather, is discovered prostrate on the doorstep. Chinkno demands to know whether or not she has killed her lover at the castle, and the reply is in the negative. Pepita and Chinkno leave the farmhouse together, but immediately that they have crossed the threshold a heavy groan is heard, and Pepita is found dying on the doorstep, she having been murdered by Tawno Chinkno. Thus is the Law of the Zingali enforced.

The characters in the tragedy are very heavy, but all the artists did themselves full justice. Miss De Launey was successful in the portrayal of Pepita's varying moods; and Mr. Collins was forceful in the character of the revengeful Tawno. An excellent interpretation of Mongette was given by Miss Beatrice Whitney; and at the conclusion there were loud calls for "Author!" and when Mrs. Gostling appeared she was accorded a hearty ovation.

Brussels is at present in the enjoyment of an operatic festival, which is being held at the La Monnaie Opera House. It commenced this week with a Gluck cycle, which included Iphigénie en Aulide, Iphigénie en Tauride, Alceste, Armide, and Orphée. At the end of the month Salomé and Elektra will be performed, and will be followed by a cycle of the "Ring." Among the artists taking part in the festival are Mesdames Mary Garden, Kirkby Lunn, Saltzmann-Stevens, Claire Friché, and Marie Beral, MM. Van Dyck, Van Rooy, and Zador.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"MON AMI TEDDY."

Play, in Three Acts, by André Rivoire and Lucien Besnard, Produced at the Renaissance, on April 29.

Madeleine ..... Mlle. Yvonne de Bray
Mme. Roucher ..... Mme. Chrirel
Francine ..... Mlle. Gravier
Mathilde ..... Mlle. Bordoni
Yvonne ..... Mlle. Stylite
Juliette ..... Mlle. Valois
Teddy ..... M. Tarride
Didier-Morel ..... M. Dubosc
D'Allonne ..... M. Boucher
Bertin ..... M. Vappellani
Verdier ..... M. Berthier
Dominique ..... M. Cogney

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, Thursday, May 5.—This bright and amusing piece met with an excellent reception. The hero, Teddy, is a rich American. He has made the acquaintance in Paris of D'Allonne, a caricaturist, who has introduced him to his married sister, Mme. Madeleine Didier-Morel. Teddy at once feels attracted towards the lady. He pities her for being married to a man much older than herself, a pompous ass, a Deputy, solely interested in politics, and a great friend of the elderly Mme. Roucher, the wife of an ex-President of the Republic. Teddy takes a practical view of the situation. He loves Madeleine, and wants her to become his wife, and as Didier-Morel and the scheming Mme. Roucher are so fond of one another, all Teddy has to do is to make Didier-Morel divorce Madeleine, pass her over to him, and the two marriages can take place on the same day. Teddy then invites the Didier-Morels and Mme. Roucher to spend a few weeks with him in his villa at Trouville. He gives the Deputy and Mme. Roucher every opportunity of being alone, and cleverly arouses in Madeleine a kind of jealousy towards Mme. Roucher. And when things have reached boiling-point, Teddy brings about a violent explanation between Madeleine and her supposed rival. Madeleine's temper is roused. She says she has long suffered in silence, but since her husband prefers his elderly friend, he may as well marry her. All she, Madeleine, asks is a prompt divorce. Teddy is delighted. His scheme has succeeded, and he has now only to come forward and inform Madeleine that what she has taken for friendship on his part was in reality love. But something happens which he never could have foreseen. Jacques Bertin, a young diplomat, a kind of lady-killing nonentity, suddenly comes back upon the scene. For some time past he has been worrying Madeleine with his attentions, and by an unfortunate chance he happens to be present at the scene when Madeleine tells her husband that she intends to divorce him. When she has finished her violent tirade she turns towards Jacques, and informs him that now she is ready to become his wife. Jacques is not at all pleased. He wanted a mistress, not a wife; but he has not the courage to draw back. As to Teddy, he almost feels inclined to commit suicide when he thinks what he has brought about. Didier-Morel certainly was a fool, but he was an honest man, whilst now Madeleine will become the wife of a little blackguard. Her second marriage will even be much more terrible than the first. And her brother, D'Allonne, realises this very well when he reproaches his friend Teddy with having set this scheme on foot and made a mess of the whole business. The fact is that Teddy is at his wits' end. However, he summons up pluck, and, from a conversation with Jacques gathers that the latter only marries Madeleine, so to say, on compulsion, and that he looks upon this union as detrimental to his interests. Teddy at once decides to act vigorously. In Madeleine's presence he asks Jacques to let him take his place, and almost puts his rival out of the house. Madeleine resents this proceeding very much. She is even on the point of saying some rather unpleasant things to her American admirer, when it dawns upon her that he has been actuated by good motives, and that he is far from being indifferent to her. All difficulties are now overcome, and Madeleine will become Teddy's wife. The first act is a little gem, and although the other tableaux are less successful, Mon ami Teddy is a capital play that is certain to enjoy a good run at the Renaissance. As the phlegmatic yet passionate American, M. Tarride proved himself an artist in the highest sense of the word, M. Dubosc supplied a fine sketch of the boring politician, Mlle. de Bray was an ideal Madeleine, and the minor rôles were also very ably held.

"LE MARIAGE DE TELEMAQUE."

Lyric-Comedy, by Jules Lemaître and Maurice Donnay, Music by Claude Terrace, Produced at the Opéra-Comique on May 4.

Hélène ..... Mme. Marguerite Carre
Nausicaa ..... Mlle. May-Lutz
Pénélope ..... Mlle. Beriza
Arêté ..... Mlle. Jurand
Euryméduse ..... Mlle. Cocyte
Adresté ..... Mlle. Canteri
Ulysse ..... M. Fugere
Télémaque ..... M. Francell
Ménélas ..... M. Delvoye
Alkinos ..... M. Azema
Eumée ..... M. Dupre

MM. Jules Lemaitre and Maurice Donnay have compiled a libretto from Fénélon's "Télémaque," which we all remember from our schooldays. They call it a lyric-comedy, but the term "operette" would be far more suitable. It was originally intended for the Renaissance, which explains the effaced rôle the music plays in the work. The personages seem to belong to the domain of operette, and we cannot take them seriously. Ulysses is anxious that his son Telemachus should marry Nausicaa. Hélène and Ménélaus are also in favour of this match. But Télémachus pays little attention to Nausicaa. He falls in love with the beautiful Hélène, and begs her to elope with him. Hélène, who does not hanker after any more love affairs, pretends to accepts the youth's offer, but arranges matters in such a manner that Nausicaa, thickly veiled, is to take her place. With Minerva's help Télémacus is induced to accept the inevitable, and content himself with the little princess. To this farcical libretto—more suited to an Offenbach or a Hervé—M. Claude Terrace has written some pale music, wherein some of the old masters are more or less parodied. Many years ago M. Maurice was one of the artists of the once famous "Chat Noir," where, in fact, he made his début as a poet. And it seems as if he has not quite been able to dissociate himself from these early recollections. The work was very well interpreted, especially by Mme. Carré, a most fascinating Hélène.

M. Dalmores, the French tenor, sang the part of Samson in Saint-Saëns' opera Samson and Dalila at the New Royal Opera, Berlin, on Monday, achieving considerable success. The artist is already known there, having made a very favourable impression at that house last summer in the Gura opera season. Frau Goetze sang the part of Dalila in her usual good style.

The Miners' Theatre, Ashington, Northumberland, is for sale by tender. The theatre seats about 2,000 persons, and is lit throughout with electric light. The present tenancy of the theatre, at a rent of £400 a year, expires on May 31, 1919, and the purchaser will obtain vacant possession. Particulars and conditions of sale and form of tender may be obtained on application to Messrs. Watson, Burton, and Corder, Pilgrim House, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, to whom tenders are to be sent on or before May 13.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, May 2, the Musical Play, entitled
"THE LITTLE DUKE."

The Little Duke, the original London production, in its entirety, is paying its first visit here, and well deserves the hearty welcome extended to it, for in the hands of Mr. George Dance's accomplished company, including Miss Zena Dare, the play has all the elements that make for success. The principals are talented, the chorus is pretty, tuneful, and well up to its work, and the lavish way in which the play is mounted and staged shows that the matter of expense has been a very secondary consideration. Miss Zena Dare makes a fascinating Duc de Richelieu, acting, singing, and dancing with a gracefulness and charm which endear her to all hearts. Miss May Rawlinson is a captivating Diane de Noaille, and her voice is heard to advantage in her several songs. Mr. Reginald Adair, who has a voice of very fine quality, and whose enunciation is perfect, acts and sings with great charm as the Chevalier de Matignon. Mr. Alec Johnstone, with his clear, ringing voice, is excellent as the Abbe de la Touche, and his duet with Mr. Reginald Adair is one of the hits of the play. Mr. Johnny Danvers undertakes the part of Baron de Bellechase; and he and Miss Nellie Dade as the Baroness de Bellechase make the house rock with laughter. Miss Finlay as the autocratic Duchesse de Noaille acts the part in a most praiseworthy manner; and Miss Doris Dickens is a winsome Cesarine de Noce. Miss Gertrude Robertson is well placed as the Duchesse de Burgoyne; and the graceful dance by Miss Nina Terry in the second act is much appreciated. Mr. Langley Wyatt is Mr. George Dance's business-manager, and Mr. H. H. Shaw the very capable musical-director.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Comedy, entitled
"YOU NEVER CAN TELL."

Messrs. Platt and Towers' company is appearing this week at Notting Hill Gate in Mr. Bernard Shaw's brilliant comedy You Never Can Tell. This piece is written in Mr. Shaw's cleverest and most cheery style, and though satirical in the extreme, it is entirely free from the somewhat sordid cynicism which spoils other work by this gifted but erratic author. If only for the classic character of the dear old waiter, "William," the play is worth seeing. The patient resignation and benevolent philosophy of the old man does one's heart good to contemplate. The part is most excellently played by Mr. Claude Haviland, whose manner and speech are in perfect consonance with the part, and he receives his reward for good acting in the way in which the audience hangs on his every sententious saying, and eagerly watches his discreet movements. Mr. J. Edward Pearce is admirable as the irritable old Curmudgeon Fergus Crampton, whose complex character requires deft handling. Miss Winifred Beech gives a well-thought-out rendering of the cryptic character of Gloria Clandon, the product of modern methods of higher education, which are powerless to overcome a substratum of natural sentiment and common sense, and her performance is an eminently pleasing one. Mr. Graham Colmer is alert and convincing in the rather disappointing part of Valentine, the five-shilling dentist and practised lady-killer, who falls a victim to Gloria's charms. Mrs. Clandon is enacted by Miss Edith Hunter with a sense of character and proportion. Miss Ida Southern is a bright and mischievous enfant terrible as Dolly Clandon, imbuing the part with a loveable drollery. Mr. Geoffry Wilkinson as her equally emphatic brother, Philip Clandon, who also possesses a wide "experience of human nature," is distinctly droll, and Mr. Bellenden Clarke exactly hits off the truculent manner of the successful K.C., Walter Bohun. Mr. J. Allan Jeayes causes considerable amusement as the sensitive solicitor, Finch Comas. Mr. E. J. Trollope stage-manages the show, and Mr. E. Taylor Platt (general-manager) is represented by Mr. Douglas Jeffries as acting-manager for the company.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Play, by Clyde Fitch, entitled
"THE WOMAN IN THE CASE."

That striking and powerful play The Woman in the Case was presented at Kennington Theatre this week by Mr. Herbert Sleath's company, under the immediate direction of Mr. Sydney Palfrey, and it scored an immediate success. The acting of Miss Kathleen Russell and Miss Winifred Pearson especially captivates attention, and as the leading ladies in what is a distinctively woman's play, they enact the principal parts of Mrs. Margaret Rolfe and Miss Claire Foster respectively in a style which should take them to the front rank in their profession. In the great scene in the third act, when Claire Forster is lured into confessing the truth by Margaret Rolfe, Miss Pearson and Miss Russell on Monday achieved a great triumph, which had its reward in a triple curtain call. It was magnificent acting all the time, and it would be difficult to distinguish in skill between the clever performance of Miss Russell as the devoted wife, the strain on whose patience and tact in her efforts to unravel the tangle of her husband's innocence had nearly reached the breaking point, and the vivid portrait of the demi-mondaine, which was so brilliantly drawn by Miss Pearson. Mr. C. W. Standing was an admirable Julian Rolfe, making a manly and striking figure; while Mr. Paul Wynter was excellent as the warm-hearted Jimmie O'Neil. Mr. James Lindsay gave a wonderful sketch of the part of Thompson, the solictor, endowing it with great force and vim. Mr. Sydney Palfrey was intensely amusing as Kluffsky; and Mr. Christopher Steele deserves more than a passing good word for his careful study of the rôle of Walters, the butler. Mr. Mervyn Rentoul was good as the granitic Police-Inspector; and Miss Gertrude Gwynne was largely responsible for the lighter side of the play for her impersonation of the garrulous Mrs. Hughes. Miss Pamela Hope, Miss Joan Temple, and Miss Janice Deane were pretty and sympathetic as the girl friends of Margaret, playing with great naturalness. The first-named made an attractive and unaffected Elsie Brewster. The Woman in the Case was preceded by Her Ladyship's Guest.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Drama, entitled
"HOW GIRLS ARE BROUGHT TO RUIN."

The patrons of Mr. Charles Barnard's famous South London theatre insist on richly spiced fare, and they certainly have no cause for complaint in the menu for the current week. How Girls are Brought to Ruin, produced last year at the Shakespeare, Clapham, is described by the authoress, Mrs. Morton Powell, who also plays in the piece, as "a great human story, founded on facts." It is a highly sensational drama, greatly to the liking of Surrey-side playgoers, who go through eternities of anguish and anticipation, and are worked up to the highest pitch of excitement as they witness "How Men Win Women," "How Men Treat Women," and "How Women Treat Women." The incidents going to make up the first, second, and third acts entitled as above, may be all very improbable, but they constitute the fabric of a thrilling drama of the new order, in which it seems to be the fashion for the low comedy people to almost pantomime their parts.

Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne is Jessie Burton, the poor girl who is forced to receive the attentions of the lustful Philip Edge. Great praise should be given for her splendid performance of this difficult rôle. Mr. Harry Scott makes a splendid hero of the Jack tar Harry Hailing, and he has a breezy, manly way with him. Mrs. Morton Powell is also a great favourite as Miss Minnie Waters, a woman who has seen life and has profited by the experience—a fine actress with a good fund of humour. Mr. Edward M. Heanley is the unscrupulous Philip Dare, the man who lives a double life, one as an eminent lawyer, the other as a roué of the most debased type; his treatment of this part leaves little to be desired. Mr. Sydney Bryant is a good comedian, and does well as Jack Jossle; Mr. Alaric Burton makes a good study of the Stiggins-like Solomon Sleek; Miss Kathleen Eckhart fully realises the part of the bad-natured Annie Burton.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, May 2, the Drama entitled
"THE BAD GIRL OF THE FAMILY."

The playgoers of Clapham are never slow to show their appreciation of anything good, hence a crowded and enthusiastic audience were present at the Shakespeare Theatre on Monday evening to witness Mr. Fredk. Melville's remarkable drama, The Bad Girl of the Family, which commenced a fortnight's run there. It is an interesting production, and well suited to a popular audience. Miss Violet Crossley as Bess Moore scores a complete success, her impersonation being thorough and convincing; Miss Margaret Tucksie as the callous sister, Honour Moore, acts with intelligence; and Miss Guineveve Shilton is a satisfactory Mrs. Moore. Miss Daisie Cook is a refined and charming Gladys Erskine, her acting in the emotional scenes being very impressive; and Miss Amy Randolph's Sally Smithers is a refreshing and diverting impersonation, causing the audience hearty laughter throughout the evening. Mr. Dudley Winton enacts the rôle of the hero, Lieut. R. Marsh, with great power and dramatic skill; and Mr. Fred W. Freeman is an aristocratic and dignified Lord Erskine. Mr. Geo. R. Montford submits a polished and consistent delineation of the scheming Harry Gordon; and Mr. Luke Forster enlivened the part of the wily money-lender, Barney Gordon, with some grim flashes of humour. Mr. Tom May was very amusing in the rôle of Sammy Snozzle; and Mr. George Belmore furnished a capital portrayal of Jerry Holmes. The minor parts were capably sustained; and Mr. Chris Mason worthily fulfils the duties of general and stage-manager for Mr. Fredk. Melville.

NEW LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, May 2, the Drama, entitled
"THE SINNER."

With a drama full of interesting and dramatic situations, well written and constructed as all Mr. C. Watson Mill's plays are, Mr. Wilson Benge's company is meeting with hearty approval from big audiences at the above house. Mr. Benge is to be congratulated on his clever performance as Monk Stretton, J.P., K.C. As his false friend Edgar Thornhill Mr. Chas. Burdon is an effective villain. His accomplice in crime, Paul Levaine, is played in an easy manner by Mr. Alec Finlayson. Mr. Sydney P. Clewlow gives a good character-study as Bill Stanton. In the part of Chris Floppington Mr. Jay Kay's amusing performance raises many a laugh. As Lord Ewen Mr. Henry Danson does well, as also does Mr. Harold Playfair as his son Jack. Miss Muriel Dean acts sympathetically as Honor Thornhill, and wins much favour; Miss Geraldine Verner is a satisfactory Vera Ewen; and Miss Sadie Smith a sweet and vivacious Nora Stretton, deservedly proves popular. Little Ned is cleverly played by Miss Dora Olga. The minor characters are all well filled, and the staging is satisfactory.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Drama, entitled
"ALONE IN LONDON."

Once again melodrama reigns supreme at Mr. Fred Melville's popular playhouse, and good audiences have given the late Robert Buchanan and Harriett Jay's evergreen play a hearty reception. Alone in London is presented by Mr. Charles Gibbon's company, who give a vigorous rendering of their respective characters. To Miss Nellie Clyde must be awarded high praise for her pathetic portraiture of Nan, the flower-girl. Her acting is of high merit, and won the plaudits of the audience. Mr. Gerald Jordan is well cast as Dick Redcliffe and gives a powerful representation; Mr. Russell Norrie is at home in the part of the heroic John Biddlecombe; the thief philosopher, Old Jenkinson, is a humorous creation in the hands of Mr. J. W. Wilkinson; as Paul, the child, Little Hetty Hornsby is sweet and lifelike; Mr. Frank Caffrey is to the front as Charlie Johnson, and provides plenty of laughter; Miss Molly Monaghan also causes merriment as the loquacious and kind-hearted Mrs. Maloney; Liz. Jenkinson is capitally sustained by Miss Carrie Young; Mr. J. Vernon Shaw does well as Mr. Burnaby, the banker. Mr. Charles Gibbon produces the drama; and is to be congratulated; he also plays skilfully as Walter Burnaby. Miss Lena Vernon as Ruth Clifton is sweet and graceful; and Miss Laurie O'Neil is very good as the faithful Tom. Alone in London has exceptionally heavy scenery, and the sets of the suice gates, and the other Metropolitan scenes deserve praise. Mr. Newman Maurice as the genial manager for Mr. Fred Melville is indefatigable in studying the comfort of his numerous patrons.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Comic Opera,
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. John Hart's company is presenting here the ever-green comic opera Les Cloches De Corneville, which remains one of the brightest and most tuneful of entertainments. H. B. Farnie and Robert Reece's adaptation of the French story and the sparkling music of Planquette charm as completely as ever, with the result that encores are the order of the evening. The introduction of modern allusions into an old piece adds zest to the performance. The full band and tuneful chorus is under the conductorship of Mr. Knight Pearce. The scenery, by Mr. J. J. Markwell Davis, is decidedly good, and the stage management is entrusted to Mr. George McCloskie. The opera is produced by Mr. E. St. Alban, who also plays Gaspard. His chief scene, that in the Crusaders' Hall, where he mistakes visitors for ghosts and loses his reason, is decidedly powerful, and the childish weakness which follows in the final act of the opera is cleverly portrayed. Mr. Augustus Cramer as the Marquis de Corneville brings the necessary touch of romance to bear upon the character. His extolling in song of his ancestors, in the Crusaders' Hall, is splendid, the audience demanding a repetition. The air, "Dost thou remember, 'twas in September?" is also finely rendered, and is encored. Mr. Wensley Russell as the fisherman, Grenricheaux, sings and acts with evident care, and his rendering of his opening number, "On billow rocking," has quite the heave of the ocean about it. "That night I ne'er regret" is also nicely sung. Mr. Mark Lester makes a decided hit as the Bailie. Gobo, as played by Mr. Alfred Selby, is a most amusing creature, and his agility is remarkable. Miss Vera Dorian gives a neat representation of Germaine, being encored in the song descriptive of the bells of Corneville. "By your side" is also sweetly sung. Miss Gurney Delaporte is an animated Serpolette, her song, "Just look at that, just look at this," being quite a lesson in vivacity. Miss Lucy Kipling, Miss Florence Hardy, Miss Ethel Clifford, Miss Alice Hornsby, and Miss Mabel Ross complete the efficient cast. The business manager at the Dalston, Mr. W. R. King, has the delectable task of finding accommodation for the crowds that are flocking to witness the favourite comic opera.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, May 2, the Drama entitled
"THE FEMALE SWINDLER."

Throughout this week the theatre has been packed with an enthusiastic audience to give that popular play The Female Swindler a hearty welcome. Mr. Douglas Bruce is to be congratulated upon the excellent manner in which the play is produced. As Jack Coulson, criminal investigator, Mr. Henry Lonsdale is unremitting in his efforts to promote the interest of the play; Mr. Fred Hodson as Abraham Mikestein makes a typical Jew; Mr. Arthur Vasey makes a fine hero in the person of Detective Dixon, his acting being very smart; Miss Gertie Henderson wins much applause as Mary Ann Mee; Miss Irene Atchinson makes a capital May Andrews; Mr. W. T. Riley as Geoffrey Warden is certainly "as bad as they make 'em," which says much for his acting; James Oliver, a retired merchant, is portrayed in a capable manner by Mr. Kenyon Gray; Mr. Frank Howard is very humorous as Harold Travers; Lu Valroy is played to perfection by Miss Olive Warne; and Mr. Fred De Vere is provocative of laughter in the part of an ambitious young man.

FULHAM THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Musical Comedy, by "Cryptos," &c., entitled
"OUR MISS GIBBS."

The Fulham Theatre has been doing well this week with Mr. George Dance's company in Our Miss Gibbs. The company is an excellent one, strong at all points, and the scenery and the dresses are quite first-class. The sprightly Miss Gibbs finds an admirable exponent in Miss Effie Vincent, whose personal charm and clever acting, singing, and dancing make her a prime favourite from the first. Other good performances are those of Miss Amy Singleton as the Duchess, Miss Ethaline Thorne as Madame Jeanne, and Miss Florence Hylton as Mrs. Farquhar, while Miss Lilian Birtles sings very nicely as Lady Betty. Mr. Eustace Burnaby is bright and amusing as Hughie Pierrepoint, and his singing and dancing are excellent; Mr. Gordon Begg is dignified enough as the Earl of St. Ives; and Mr. J. S. Durant is light-hearted and light-handed as Slithers. Mr. Arthur S. Radcliffe plays Lord Eynsford in a sincere and manly fashion; and Mr. Frank Sealy does well in the rôle of Toplady. Of course, the chief laughter-maker is Mr. Vincent Erne as Timothy Gibbs, and when he was in full swing the house fairly rocked with laughter. His resource is never-failing, and his business and facial play are screamingly funny. The ladies and gentlemen of the chorus are quite distinguished in their way and look well in their admirable costumes. Altogether the management may be congratulated on a bright and clever presentation of a good specimen of the genus musical comedy. Mr. D. Miller stage-manages for Mr. Dance, and the music is under the direction of Mr. Hubert Bogetti.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, May 2, the Drama, entitled
"SHALL WE FORGIVE HER?"

For the current week Messrs. Eden and David are presenting the well-written domestic drama, Shall We Forgive Her? from the pen of the late Frank Harvey. The drama is adequately mounted, and the members of the judiciously-selected cast deserve the flattering reception which is accorded them. Mr. Ernest Rivarez submits a powerful rendering of Oliver West, an artist's engraver. Mr. Rivarez is an experienced actor, and delivers his lines with good effect. Mr. Richard Webb gives a good portrait of James Stapleton, and puts plenty of force into his acting; Mr. Charles K. Francis as Paul Elsworthy submits an impressive characterisation. The vagabond, Neil Garth, is ably undertaken by Mr. Burton Taldwyn, the depraved nature of the man being judiciously indicated. Mr. Arthur E. Holland submits an amusing delineation of Reggie Walton, and is ably seconded in his endeavours by Miss Grace Emery, who supplies a lively impersonation of Nellie West. Miss Mabel Coleman in the rôle of Grace West essays the part in a pathetic manner which goes to the heart of her hearers, and she meets with a large measure of success. Joanna Lightfoot is excellently portrayed by Miss Doris Kelvey. Miss Pollie Marshall does well as Aunt Martha, and becomes very popular. Dr. McKerrow is capably played by Mr. Percy Warlow; and Mr. George Gordon is suitably placced as Jerry Blake.

A PATRIOTIC MATINEE.

The Court Theatre was devoted on Tuesday afternoon to a performance in aid of the British Girls' Patriotic League. The object of the League, which numbers among its vice-presidents Miss Winifred Emery, is to stimulate interest in Imperial matters, to give girls an opportunity of serving their country as effectively as their brothers and fathers, and to "show a way" to active patriotism. One means of furthering the aim of the society, it is instanced, is for women, "the shoppers of the world," to combine to exclude from their purchases everything but British-made articles, when the effect upon British industry, it is urged, would be electrical.

It was decidedly a home-made article that was selected for the performance on Tuesday, when a house crowded in every part witnessed a highly enjoyable representation of Mr. R. C. Carton's charming play Sunlight and Shadow, in which Mr. George Alexander made one of his brilliant hits on its production at the Avenue nearly a score of years ago. Well-known names figured in the cast on the occasion under notice, and an artistic rendering of the play was the result. Mr. Leslie Hamer made a distinguished appearance as the middle-aged lover, Mark Denzil, whose reprobate wife, thought to be dead, turns up unexpectedly to cast a shadow athwart the sunlight of his affection for the sweetheart of his boyhood. Mr. Hamer has a nicely modulated voice, which he uses effectively, and his acting was thoroughly impressive. The sorely-tried Helen was played with feminine tenderness by Miss Mabel Aldridge, who, however, lowered her voice at times so as to render her lines indistinct, but did very well in the affecting interview where the deformed George Addis declares his love. That part was pathetically played by Mr. Jules Shaw, by whom the play was produced. His delivery was delightfully distinct, and the feeling he imparted to his performance made it deeply affecting. A thoroughly successful achievement was the Maud Latimer of Miss May Leslie Stuart, a youthful actress with a melodious and penetrating voice which carried the droll remarks of the impulsive young girl to every part of the house and set it laughing heartily. Miss Stuart has a deliciously fresh and girlish appearance, well set off by some exquisite dresses, and she acted in a manner that gave every indication of a brilliant career. She is clearly among the most promising of recent debutants bearing an honoured name. Mr. C. H. Croker-King was responsible in no less degree for the merriment of the afternoon by a drily droll rendering of the passive and obedient suitor Bamfield, and Mr. Arthur Chesney made Dr. Latimer a typical country gentleman, with the keen sense of humour required. Mr. Arthur E. Holland's gardener, too, was a capital character sketch, and Miss Violet Sterne made the depraved Janet Felton grimly realistic. Mr. Lewis Casson acted as stage-manager. Two patriotic songs, "The Banner of St. George," sung by Miss Christine D'Almayne, and "England, my England," rendered by Mr. Charles Copland, also figured in the programme.

The Prince and Princess of Wales saw The Scarlet Pimpernel at the New Theatre on Wednesday night.

THE LYCEUM.

On Saturday, April 30, Revival of the Play, in Four Acts, by Walter Howard, entitled
"THE PRINCE AND THE BEGGAR MAID."

Prince Olaf ..... Mr. Godfrey Tearle
Hildred ..... Mr. Eric Mayne
Michael ..... Mr. Halliwell Hobbes
Capt. Hector ..... Mr. Frederick Ross
Lieut. Karl Stromberg .... Mr. Hastings Lynn
Col. Wellenberg ..... Mr. S. Major Jones
Capt. Karsburg ..... Mr. Herbert Lester
Capt. Schwartz ..... Mr. Sidney Vautier
Capt. Sudermann ..... Mr. Henry Pollard
Lieut. Welder ..... Mr. J. R. Gillespie
Lieut. Schultz ..... Mr. Henry Armstrong
The Bishop of Illyria .... Mr. Cowley Wright
Nathan ..... Mr. Arthur Poole
Viola ..... Miss Maxine Hinton
Camiola ..... Miss Ethel Patrick
Princess Monica ..... Miss Annie Saker

The romantic drama has before found popularity at the Lyceum under various managements, and that history repeats itself was proved by the great crowd that came to welcome on Saturday night Mr. Walter Howard's The Prince and the Beggar Maid, a most effective and well-written piece, which was first produced at the popular playhouse on June 6, 1908, with Mr. Lauderdale Maitland in the rôle of Prince Olaf of Sylvania and Miss Norah Kerin as Princess Monica. Mr. Howard infuses a touch of poetry into many of the scenes, and though deeply sentimental, as every properly constructed romantic piece must of necessity be, we escape the gruesomeness and the morbidity that too often distinguish drama of the twentieth century. The characters, too, are virile, the dialogue is often smart, and there is a poetic charm that is almost Elizabethan about the heroine that not only makes the love interest idyllic, but constitutes a gracious contrast to the stern military element that pervades the piece.

The country of Illyria breathes the spirt of chivalry; and when, therefore, the fair Princess Monica assumes the lowly state of a singing beggar maid and goes to the great hall of Wellenberg Castle to plead with the callous Prince Hildred for a cessation of strife, the glamour of poetry is upon us. By the unlucky chance of a dropped handkerchief her identity is discovered, and she is only saved from insult by the more chivalrous brother of Hildred, Prince Olaf. Like Portia, Monica has singled him out as the man of her choice, and the remainder of the piece is devoted to his saving her from the desperate cruelty of Hildred, who by holding her to a hastily-expressed oath that she will marry the man of his choice, tries to force a union between her and his hunchback brother Michael. Of course, the real lovers are united at last.

Mr. Godfrey Tearle, who is new to the part of Prince Olaf of Sylvania, has the romantic air so necessary for an Illyrian prince, and does yeoman service to the representation by his gallant bearing and his spirited style. He is a true knight errant of the stage. Miss Annie Saker as the beggar maid in the first act gives a delightful touch of comedy to the part, and looks exceedingly picturesque in her rags. Later in the drama, when the distraught woman is so sorely put to it to escape a union so distasteful, Miss Saker holds the house by the power of her protests and the expressiveness of her devotion. Mr. Eric Mayne again takes up the part of Prince Hildred, a consistently drawn character, and introduces us to a polished rascal, with a complete indifference to the happiness of others, but possessing at the same time perfect manners. Mr. Mayne cuts a fine, soldierly figure, and delivers his speeches admirably. Mr. Frederick Ross repeats his great success, too, in the character of Captain Hector, the commander of the Princess's bodyguard. The staunch servitor has no sympathy with young people in love, but is eventually caught in the toils himself. The captain is always interesting, but especially so when suborned by Cupid. Mr. Halliwell Hobbes, another of the original cast, gives fine expression to the despair of the mis-shapen Prince Michael, being genuinely pathetic in the scene of the interrupted wedding, where Michael's better nature finally triumphs over the machinations of statecraft. Mr. Hastings Lynn and Miss Maxine Hinton as the young lovers keep the house laughing at the indiscretions inseparably associated with the union of Mars and Venus. Mr. S. Major Jones is a bluff, soldierly Colonel Wellenberg; Mr. Cowley Wright gives clerical dignity to his assumption of the Bishop of Illyria; Miss Ethel Patrick is always interesting and sometimes pathetic in the part of Camiola; and Mr. Arthur Poole's gesture play makes the part of the dumb servant Nathan stand out to advantage. Messrs. Herbert Lester, Sidney Vautier, Henry Pollard, J. R. Gillespie, and Henry Armstrong play the parts of officers of the Sylvanian Army, and do so with real intelligence and aptitude. The incidental music, composed and arranged by Mr. H. Sullivan Brooke, is very finely played by the excellent band under his direction, and the military uniforms and accoutrements by Morris Angel and Son make a brave show. The Lady Chapel in the Cathedral at Illyria and the Great Hall of Wellenberg Castle are imposing interiors by Mr. E. C. Nicholls.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, May 2, the Play, entitled
"THE FLAG LIEUTENANT."

The highly attractive and excellently mounted and dressed play, The Flag Lieuenant, by Major W. P. Drury and Mr. Leo Trevor, is here this week, and proves itself as much a "drawing" production as ever. The talented and judiciously selected company is under the guiding hands of Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper. As Richard Lascelles Mr. Edgar Kent submits a very breezy and rollicking interpretation of the devil-may-care officer, and soon becomes popular. Mr. George Mallett offers a clever and realistic study of Vice-Admiral the Hon. Sir Berkeley Wynne, K.C.B., and his rendering of this important part is thoroughly convincing. Major William Thesiger has a capital exponent in Mr. Montague Love, who provides a most acceptable performance. Mr. Hugh Wakefield and Mr. Olaf Hytten, as the two larking midshipmen, Horatio Hood and Edward Dormer Lee respectively, are the source of much amusement. John Penrose, the flag captain, is capably played by Mr. Vincent Fletcher. Mr. John Cross makes the most of his opportunities as Christopher Neate. A good study of Walter Crutchley, the surgeon, is given by Mr. George Percy. Mr. James Holdsworth is mirth-provoking as Charles Penny; Mr. Lionel Isted is good as General Gough-Bogbo; and Mr. John Wheatman is excellent as the Irish telegraphist, Michael Palliser. Miss Florence Jackson is seen to considerable advantage as Mrs. Cameron, and her able characterisation is duly recognised and rewarded. Miss Dorothy Ripley is charming as Lady Hermione Wynne, and the remaining characters are all admirably impersonated.

The North Staffordshire Symphony Orchestra and Festival Choral Society, conducted by Mr. John Cope, gave a concert at the Victoria Hall, Hanley, on the 28th ult., when Miss Grainger-Kerr, Mr. Webster Millar, and Mr. Charles Tree were the principal soloists. The success attained was very gratifying, the orchestra excelling itself in Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

On Thursday night, April 28, Siegfried was performed at Covent Garden by a familiar cast. In the part of the young hero Herr Cornelius has often been heard, and if his impersonation is somewhat lacking in the youthful and impulsive characteristics of Siegfried, he always, both in acting and singing, displays great intelligence. Madame Saltzmann-Stevens played Brünnhilde, and, although her voice this season does not seem quite so powerful as on former occasions, there was much to admire in her fine acting and stately bearing. Of course, the music of Erda was splendidly sung by Madame Kirkby Lunn, while Herr Van Rooy gave a magnificent performance of Wotan, who in Siegfried appears as Der Wanderer. Herr Bechstein's Mime is incomparable, and his weird impersonation of this strange being on Thursday night was as fine as ever. There was no little charm in Miss Amy Evans's singing of the Waldvogel music, and the fierce Dragon of Herr Fönss was capital and most awe-inspiring. Some changes in the business are made in this scene, and the great fight is rendered more impressive and realistic. Herr Zador was an excellent Alberich, and the scenic effects and forging of the magic sword were admirably accomplished, while to the fine orchestra, conducted by Dr. Richter, there is nothing but praise to award.

Madame Tetrazzini appeared in La Traviata on Friday night, April 29, and again charmed the audience with her beautiful vocalisation. Though not entirely free from the indisposition that prevented her singing in Verdi's early opera on the opening night of the season, Madame Tetrazzini gave such a superbly dramatic and pathetic rendering of the closing scenes in the opera, especially the death of the unhappy Violetta, as to deeply impress her hearers. Of course, Madame Tetrazzini's perfect singing and the wonderful high notes aroused the greatest enthusiasm; but both in Rigoletto and La Traviata the accomplished vocalist strikes a deeper dramatic note, which makes even the consumptive heroine of Verdi's old opera a convincing personality. The rest of the cast remained the same as on the opening night. Mr. John McCormack as Alfredo has never sung better or with greater freedom and expression; and Signor Sammarco once again gave a fine impersonation of the elder Germont. How was it that Madame Tetrazzini appeared in modern dress and all the other characters in costumes of the period? Signor Campanini conducted, and secured a very finished performance.

On Saturday, April 30, Wagner's Opera,
"GOTTERDAMMERUNG."

Siegfried ..... Herr Stratz
Gunther ..... Herr Schutzendorf
Hagen ..... Herr Fonss
Alberich ..... Herr Zador
Brünnhilde ..... Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens
Gutrune ..... Miss Elizabeth Amsden
Waltraute ..... Mme. Kirkby Lunn
Woglinde ..... Miss Amy Evans
Wellgunde ..... Mme. Knupfer-Egli
Flosshilde ..... Mme. Edna Thornton
First Norn ..... Mme. Edna Thornton
Second Norn ..... Mme. Knupfer-Egli
Third Norn ..... Miss Amy Evans

Owing to the indisposition of Herr Cornelius, Herr Strätz undertook the part of Siegfried in the performance of Götterdämmerung on Saturday evening. Herr Strätz may be a capable actor, but his vocal methods are so completely German in character, with the music declaimed and not sung, as to seem entirely out of harmony with all modern ideals. In all performances of the "Ring" the best results are gained by having, as far as possible, the same artists in the principal parts, but owing to our unfortunate climate this does not appear practicable. Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens remains unaffected by the weather, and gave on Saturday evening the finest embodiment of Brünnhilde she has secured this season. Always graceful in action and singing admirably, Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens displayed great ability as an actress in the pathetic closing scenes of the Twilight of the Gods. Brünnhilde, in the last section of the "Ring," has many moods, and of all these this talented artist showed keen artistic perception. A certain lack of power in particularly strong situations is certainly evident at times in Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens's singing, but more experience will remedy this and give greater confidence. Neither Herr Schützendorf as Gunther nor Miss Elizabeth Amsden in the part of Gutrune was entirely satisfactory, but the Hagen of Herr Fönss had many excellent features; while Mme. Kirkby Lunn, who played Waltraute, sang with her usual charm and refinement. Herr Zador proved himself a most useful artist in his rugged and picturesque reading of Alberich; and the efforts of Mme. Knüpfer-Egli as Wellgunde, and Mme. Edna Thornton in the parts of Flosshilde and First Norn, were successful. The scenic effects were beautiful at times, and all the supreme power and richness of Wagner's wonderful score were brought out by Dr. Richter, who received quite an ovation when the curtain fell.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

On Monday, May 2, the Play, in Four Acts, by Hall Caine and Louis N. Parker, entitled "PETE."

The new version of the famous Manx novel has been very warmly received here, and each artist accorded a hearty welcome. Mr. Frederick Victor's Pete is a fine, manly performance, holding the audience firmly from start to finish. Miss Constance Bachner is a gentle and womanly Kate Cregeen, with all the necessary power in the great situations. Mr. Alfred Lugg is very good indeed as the gentlemanly scoundrel, Philip Christian; Mr. Maurice Yorke is good as Ross Christian; Mr. Ellis J. Preston presents a fine character sketch of Cæsar Cregeen; Mr. J. Lingard is good as Black Tom; Messrs. Will L. Clement (Jonaique Jelly), R. A. Robinson (Postman Kelly), Wenlock Brown (William), Frank Allen (Constance Niplightly), R. Sinclair (Dr. Mylechreest), Wilfred Edmunds (Lord-Lieutenant), Charles Arthur (Mayor), William Davies (Adam Quirk), Alfred Davidson (Johnny Dumbell), and Herbert Ponton (Clerk of the Court) were all successful in their efforts to make every part well acted. Miss Alys Eden is a bright and lovable Nancy; Miss May Wright is good as Grannie; Miss Amy Venimore is a capital Mary; Miss May Yardly as Meg is well placed; and Miss Lucy Raymond makes an excellent Anne. Scenery, dresses, and appointments leave nothing to be desired.

Visitors to the Crystal Palace during the past few weeks must have been agreeably surprised at the vast improvements made therein, and provided the weather is kind there is every reason to believe that this summer will be a record in the annals of the Palace, which, despite many difficulties, is still the great centre of amusement, and is, we hope, "good" for many a long year to come. Palace patrons should note that full information regarding the Festival of Empire, its Pageant, its concerts, &c., can be obtained from the daily programme, which is quite an interesting little guide. In connection with the Festival a short series of University lectures have been arranged, and on May 12, at 5.30, a lecture on "Early and Mediæval London" will be given, followed on May 19 by "Elizabethan and Later London," on May 26 by "Ancient India," on June 2 by "The New India," The Colonies, "England Across the Seas," on June 9 by "Its Beginnings," and on June 15 by "Its Expansion."

SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL.

AT HIS MAJESTY'S.

Sir Herbert Tree's fine theatre was full to capacity on the afternoon of April 29 to witness a "special bill" which gave us the last act of Macbeth, the dressing-room scene from The Clandestine Marriage, the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet, the screen scene from The School for Scandal, and a simple little recitation "Jim's Mother," by Mrs. Kendal. Conspicuous in the fashionable audience were a large number of Japanese ladies and gentlemen, who followed every item supplied with the keenest interest.

There were those present who were inclined to cavil at the introduction of the works of anyone else but the Bard at a Shakespearean Festival, but those were certainly not our Eastern visitors, who keenly followed the death struggle between Macbeth and Macduff, laughed unrestrainedly at the second childhood of Lord Ogleby, were as sympathetic as they well could be with Romeo and Juliet's love story, and marvelled at the treachery of Joseph Surface. They were always equally enthusiastic, whether Colman, Garrick, Sheridan, or Shakespeare was being played.

The programme was decidedly of great interest. The last act of Macbeth gave Miss Violet Vanbrugh, who appeared by permission of Mr. Herbert Sleath, a splendid chance in the sleep-walking scene. Miss Vanbrugh was very impressive, and her gestures convincing. One could have wished possibly that at times her intonation had not been so long drawn out and sonorous; but, apart from this, her interpretation of the part of the unfortunate Lady Macbeth was in every sense admirable. The fight between Macbeth (Mr. Arthur Bourchier) and Macduff (Mr. Cyril Keightley) was extremely vigorous and well rehearsed. Special mention must be made of Miss Marie Illington's acting as the gentlewoman attending on Lady Macbeth.

Next in order we saw Mr. Cyril Maude as Lord Ogleby in the dressing-room scene from The Clandestine Marriage. This is certainly one of the cleverest of this clever actor's studies in senility. He was recalled before the curtain no less than five times. It is but fair to record that this result was very largely due to the very excellent way in which Mr. Maude's lead was supported by his exceptionally clever company, which included Messrs. Fred Lewis, Sydney Paxton, John Harwood, and Miss Maidie Hope.

Miss Constance Collier and Mr. Henry Ainley appeared in the Balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet. Miss Collier made Juliet dreamy, languorous, and passionate. Mr. Ainley was very lover-like, and as nobody can speak Romeo's impassioned lines better than he, this particular performance can be put down perhaps as a most brilliant effort in an afternoon of brilliant efforts.

The Screen scene from The School for Scandal was a very spirited performance, in which Sir Herbert Tree, who played Sir Peter Teazle, was supported—and most efficiently supported—by the picked company who appeared in the comedy with him at His Majesty's not so very long ago. Sir Herbert's presentation of Sir Peter as a middle-aged man is as good as ever; Mr. Robert Loraine is a light-hearted, reckless Charles Surface; and Mr. Basil Gill a quite plausible Joseph; and Miss Marie Löhr's Lady Teazle is a charming conception cleverly carried out.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, in a short speech at the end of the afternoon, excused the omission of the scene from Othello on account of the influenza from which he had been suffering throughout the festival. Those who had seen his many performances during the "run" could hardly believe that he had been battling against illness, and yet such was the case.

At the fall of the curtain on The Merchant of Venice on Saturday evening, the last night of the Shakespeare Festival, there was a scene of unbounded enthusiasm, the audience cheering loudly and showing no disposition to depart. Eventually Sir Herbert Tree, in response to demands for a speech, said:—"This is our last night of our five weeks' Festival. It is my pleasant duty to tell you that it has been throughout most prosperous, and I think I may say that not a single hitch has occurred from beginning to end. That is an achievement to be proud of, and it is an achievement which is due to the loyal and whole-hearted co-operation of my fellow-workers. Firstly, I have to acknowledge the splendid help volunteered by my brother managers. It had always been my hope that this Festival should partake of something of a national character, which it could not do if restricted to my own individual efforts. To them one and all I offer my thanks and warm congratulations.

"We have been fortunate enough to see on this stage during the past five weeks nearly all those who are identified in the public mind with the presentation of Shakespeare's works. The splendid audiences we have had throughout have been an ample justification for the somewhat strenuous labours of the past five weeks. I cannot allow this occasion to pass without publicly expressing my thanks to the members of my staff who have so loyally supported us, and I would specially like to mention my stage-manager, Mr. Cecil King, and his coadjutor, Mr. Stanley Bell, also the head of the stage staff, Mr. Darer. They and the others on the stage have worked not only during the day, but through the night on many occasions.

"To the Press, who have so generously supported and encouraged our work, I tender my thanks. To those to whom it is not given to appreciate us I tender my sympathies.

"It is often said that our productions of Shakespeare are merely commercial appeals to a sensation-loving public. I modestly claim that we sincerely endeavour to present Shakespeare in such a way as we believe he would have approved. It is very gratifying to me that Shakespeare as we present him here is always sure of a hearty welcome at the hands of the public. But even if they were satisfied with what is called an adequate presentation, I, as the artist, should not be. I am the servant of the public, but I am the master of myself. It is sometimes said by pedants that Shakespeare himself desired only this adequate treatment of his plays; but these epicures of mediocrity forget one important factor—that it was Shakespeare's love of the spectacular that caused the Globe Theatre to be burned down by the firing of the guns in Henry VIII. This brings me to my future plans. It is this very play, Henry VIII., that we shall give you in the autumn. It will be produced in a reprehensibly Shakespearean manner. I am happy to be able to make the further announcement that I hope to have the artistic co-operation in this production of my brother manager and friend, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, in the character of Henry VIII., and that of his gifted wife, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, in the part of Queen Catherine. The part of Cardinal Wolsey will be played by myself.

"As you are aware, next week, with my company, I enter upon a tour in the provinces, and during my absence the theatre will be occupied by my friend, Mr. Beecham, to whose season of light opera here I wish the greatest success. His distinguished enterprise at Covent Garden is evidence of the spirit in which he will conduct his season here.

"Among other plays which I hope may be given after Henry VIII. in this theatre in the near future is a play by Mr. Zangwill which deals in an ethical spirit with world politics. Also a play by my friend Mr. Louis N. Parker—a pageant play; also a play by a young writer who has already made his mark as an English poet, Mr. Alfred Noyes; and a play which I have just secured, Typhoon, by an Hungarian author, of which the characters are mainly Japanese resident in Europe.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I cannot withdraw without thanking you for having been still my friends. I consider myself fortunate indeed in having been permitted for so long to work for the art which I love in the city in which I was born."

AT STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

On Thursday, April 28, in continuation of the Stratford-on-Avon Festival, Mr. Benson presented the Historical Drama,

"RICHARD II."

King Richard II. .....Mr. F. R. Benson
John of Gaunt .....Mr. Alfred Brydone
Edmund of Langley ....Mr. Edward Harrison
Henry of Bolingbroke..Mr. Murray Carrington
Duke of Aumerle .....Mr. J. P. Wilson
Thomas Mowbray .....Mr. Eric Maxon
Bushey .....Mr. John Howell
Bagot .....Mr. F. M. Conroy
Earl of Northumberland..Mr. Guy B. Rathbone
Henry Percy .....Mr. Alfred Wild
Lord Willoughby .....Mr. Trevor Roller
Bishop of Carlisle ....Mr. J. Moffat Johnston
Sir Pierce of Exton ....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Groom .....Mr. M. A. Lacker
Gaoler .....Mr. F. M. Conroy
First Murderer .....Mr. Walter Plinge
Bolingbroke's Herald .....Mr. John Lauder
Mowbray's Herald .....Mr. M. W. Elder
First Gardener .....Mr. Harry Caine
Second Gardener .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Mowbray's Page .....Miss Leah Hanman
Bolingbroke's Page .....Miss A. P. Nicholson
Queen to King Richard ..Miss Nora Lancaster
Duchess of Gloucester ..Miss Marion Foreman
First Lady .....Miss Winifred Durie
Second Lady .....Miss Elinor Elder
Singer .....Miss Marion Foreman

The play was staged and costumed with Mr. Benson's usual care and accuracy, and he himself was at his happiest in giving expression to the dreamy, vacillating, incompetent, but lovable character of the ill-starred monarch. Mr. Alfred Brydone was an incisive and impressive John of Gaunt, and Miss Nora Lancaster a gracious and tender Queen. Mr. Murray Carrington, though hardly physically endowed for the part of Bolingbroke, played his part with consistency and artistic finish; and Mr. Moffat Johnstone was effective as the Bishop of Carlisle. Mr. Alfred Wild gave us an interesting Hotspur; Miss Marion Foreman as the Duchess of Gloucester, Mr. Eric Maxon as Mowbray, Mr. J. P. Wilson as Aumerle, and Mr. Edward Harrison as the Duke of York, were all conspicuous for fine acting; and the remainder of the parts were all efficiently and harmoniously filled.

On Friday evening, April 29, Mr. Benson submitted the second part of

"HENRY IV."

King Henry IV. .....Mr. Alfred Brydone
Henry, Prince of Wales .....Mr. Eric Maxon
Thomas, Duke of Clarence..Miss A. P. Nicholson
John, Prince of Lancaster ..Mr. Alfred Wild
Humphrey, Prince of Gloucester..Mr. F. Denny
Earl of Warwick .....Mr. Nigel Barrie
Earl of Westmoreland .....Mr. J. Charlton
Gower .....Mr. Harold Meltzer
Sir William Gascoigne..Mr. Murray Carrington
Servant .....Mr. Walter Plinge
Sir John Falstaff .....Mr. H. O. Nicholson
His Page .....Miss Leah Hanman
Bardolph .....Mr. Guy B. Rathbone
Pistol .....Mr. J. Moffat Johnston
Poins .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Shallow .....Mr. Harry Caine
Silence .....Mr. J. P. Wilson
Davy .....Mr. John Howell
Mouldy .....Mr. Frank Conroy
Shadow .....Mr. J. Fraser Outram
Wart .....Mr. E. Coplestone
Feeble .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Bullcalf .....Mr. Edward Harrison
Fang .....Mr. J. Dennys
Snare .....Mr. Trevor Roller
Hostess .....Miss Elinor Aicken
Doll Tear-sheet .....Mrs. F. R. Benson

Mr. Alfred Brydone presented a wonderful picture of the distraught and sleepless king, come to his crown by devious ways, anxious that his son should wear it by surer title and with better ease. Mr. Eric Maxon excelled himself as the gay and handsome Prince, throwing behind him his dissolute past as he inherited the royal responsibility; and was truly kingly on his reconciliation with Gascoigne. Mr. Murray Carrington was a grave and dignified Lord Chief Justice. Mr. H. O. Nicholson's Falstaff improves upon acquaintance, and rose to real pathos as he finds his hopes of wealth and honour under the new king dashed to the ground; and Mrs. Benson played Doll Tear-sheet with verve and abandon. But the great successes of the evening fell to some of the younger members of the company. Mr. Harry Caine acquitted himself excellently of the most important part—that of Shallow—yet entrusted to him; Mr. W. W. Caithness, weak in the flesh but willing in the spirit, gave as a fine character sketch of Feeble; Mr. John Howell deserved his praise as "Marry, a good varlet"; and Miss Leah Hanman put a lot of animation into "that upright rabbit," the page. The remainder of the parts were admirably sustained.

On Saturday afternoon, April 30, Mr. Benson presented

"HENRY V."

King Henry V. .....Mr. F. R. Benson
Duke of Bedford .....Mr. Harold Meltzer
Duke of Gloucester .....Mr. Nigel Barrie
Duke of Exeter .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Earl of Westmorland .....Mr. H. Elder

A Camp Follower .....Miss Marion Foreman
A Camp Follower .....Miss Hanman
Isabel, Queen of France ..Miss Winifred Durie
Katherine .....Miss Nora Lancaster
Alice .....Miss Eleanor Elder
Hostess .....Miss Elinor Aickin

Of Shakespeare's historical plays there is none in which high and stirring sentiment can in unworthy hands descend so easily to bathos. Mr. Benson and his company steered a safe course between the Scylla of overstrained melodrama and the Charybdis of a great opportunity missed. The blare of war rang through these moving pages of English and French history, and never a false note was struck. Mr. Benson's Henry V. is almost beyond praise; it is the finest jewel in his histrionic casket. Whether in his anxiety to avoid needless "waste of brief mortality," or in his stirring appeal "Once more unto the breach," or in his dignified answer to the Dauphin's insulting present of tennis balls, or in his halting suit to Katherine, he never overstrained his part, he never did discredit to the dignity of the text. The play was throughout magnificently staged, and thanks to judicious and discriminate cuts the final curtain fell within three hours of the start. Mr. Alfred Brydone as the dotard King of France, playing cards with the Court Fool whilst his kingdom was tottering about his ears, afforded a pathetic figure, occasionally waking for a brief moment from his lethargy to shout defiance; and then relapsing into the follies of his second infancy. Mr. Murray Carrington in the first scene effectively doubled the parts of a grave but militant Archbishop and the gay and dissolute Dauphin, toying with his mistresses and prating of his horse on the eve of battle. Mr. Guy Rathbone realised his opportunities as the Constable of France struggling against adversity, the one manly figure in a dissolute court and camp, who recognised—till too late—the prowess of his adversaries. Mr. John Howell was a stalwart and simple Gower, and Mr. Moffat Johnston a valiant and punctilious Fluellen. Miss Elinor Aickin fulfilled the purpose of her part in announcing, with genuine pathos, the passing of Falstaff, "babbling o' green fields." The lighter elements in the play serve as an admirable foil to its sterner purposes. The trio of swashbucklers, Bardolph, Nym, and Pistol, were picturesquely represented by Messrs. J. P. Wilson, H. O. Nicholson, and Eric Maxon; and Miss Leah Hanman as their camp boy was blithe and impish as her rôle demanded. Miss Nora Lancaster was prettily ingenuous as Katherine, and all the other "persons of the drama" gave adequate support. As is Mr. Benson's wont, the battle scene is given as a motionless tableau instead of as an unconvincing melée; and the scene in the French camp on the eve of Agincourt affords an artistic setting to a dance full of grace and vivacity by Miss Hanman.

On Saturday evening, April 30, Mr. Benson and his company, with the aid of Mr. Otho Stuart and Miss Genevieve Ward, presented

"RICHARD III."

King Edward VI. .....Mr. Edward Harrison
King Edward IV. .....Mr. Guy B. Rathbone
Edward, Prince of Wales..Miss A. P. Nicholson
Richard, Duke of York ....Miss Leah Hanman
George, Duke of Clarence ....Mr. Otho Stuart
Richard, Duke of Gloucester..Mr. F. R. Benson
Henry, Earl of Richmond ....Mr. Eric Maxon
Duke of Buckingham..Mr. J. Moffat Johnston
Duke of Norfolk .....Mr. Charlton
Earl of Surrey .....Mr. Frazer Outram
Earl Rivers .....Mr. F. Conroy
Earl of Oxford .....Mr. N. Barrie
Lord Hastings .....Mr. Harry Caine
Lord Stanley .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Sir Richard Ratcliff .....Mr. Frank Conroy
Sir James Tyrrell .....Mr. Guy B. Rathbone
Sir William Catesby .....Mr. Alfred Wild
Sir James Blount .....Mr. H. Meltzer
Sir Robert Brackenbury .....Mr. J. Howell
Lord Mayor of London .....Mr. Nigel Barry
First Murderer .....Mr. A. Wild
Second Murderer .....Mr. H. O. Nicholson
Elizabeth .....Miss Violet Farebrother
Duchess of York .....Miss Elinor Aickin
Lady Anne .....Mrs. F. R. Benson
Queen Margaret .....Miss Genevieve Ward

Better to explain the play, the first act was preceded by Scene 6, Act 5, of Henry VI., Part 3.

The grim figure of Richard Crookback, "the slave of nature and the son of hell," "the troubler of a poor world's peace," was portrayed with masterly finish and subtlety by Mr. Benson. Moody, restless, ambitious, "hating idle pleasures," this conscious and consummate villain, deliberate, unrepentant, masterful, Machiavellian—on his own confession "subtle, false, and treacherous"—strides with ungainly gait through scene after scene towards the goal of his desires, the crown, stalking "Pell-mell, If not to heaven then to hell," striking down with remorseless hand every barrier in his route. Of all Shakespeare's villains there is none more skilfully delineated by Mr. Benson, as uncle, brother, nephews, courtiers, one by one, fall at his gruesome will "into the blind cave of eternal night." Truly he says, "There is no creature loves me, and if I die no soul shall grieve me."

Mr. Guy Rathbone is a pathetic Edward IV. anxious to see the world at peace before he dies—a weak soul full of sorrow. Mr. J. Moffat Johnston as the Duke of Buckingham is an obedient accomplice to Mr. Benson's Richard, till even he will go no further in the career of crime. Miss Genevieve Ward received an enthusiastic welcome to Stratford in her part of Queen Margaret, a haggard, soured sibyl, hissing forth, Cassandra-like, denunciation and warnings of impending fate, and she and her tragic sisters in despair, Miss Violet Farebrother and Miss Elinor Aickin, are truly "poor breathing orators of miseries."

The whole play is so dominated by Richard that the minor characters have few opportunities. Mr. Eric Maxon makes a gallant appearance towards the end of the tragedy as Nemesis in the shape of Henry Earl of Richmond, to realise Queen Margaret's prophecy anent Richard that "Bloody thou art and bloody will be thine end." Mr. Otho Stuart gives us an interesting picture of the Duke of Clarence, Miss Hanman and Miss Nicholson are pretty boys as the Princes going to their fate, and all the other parts are in good hands, loyally subordinate, as Shakespeare doubtless intended, to the great arch villain.

On Monday afternoon, May 2, Mr. Benson Revived

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING."

Don Pedro .....Mr. Murray Carrington
Don John .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Claudio .....Mr. Eric Maxon
Benedick .....Mr. Robert Loraine
Leonato.....Mr. Alfred Brydone
Antonio .....Mr. Alfred Wild
Borachio .....Mr. J. Moffat Johnston
Conrad .....Mr. J. Howell
Friar Francis .....Mr. Guy B. Rathbone
A Sexton .....Mr. Nigel Barrie
Dogberry .....Mr. H. O. Nicholson
Verges .....Mr. Harry Caine
Seacole .....Mr. W. Fraser Outram
Hero .....Miss Nora Lancaster
Beatrice .....Miss Violet Vanbrugh
Ursula .....Miss Marion Foreman
Margaret .....Miss Winifred Durie
Boy.....Miss Molly Terraine

Advantage was taken of Miss Vanbrugh's engagement at Birmingham, in The Woman in the Case, to secure her co-operation in the Stratford Festival, and Mr. Robert Loraine came specially from London to take his old part of Benedick. Much Ado is a product of Shakespeare's second, and riper, period of activity, and it is impossible to treat it either as tragedy or as pure comedy. In it, as Hazlitt says, "the ludicrous blends with the tender," and it is with that conception that Mr. Benson's company approach the play. It hardly needs to be said that Miss Vanbrugh was a very charming Beatrice, quick of wit, lively of intelligence, gay in exterior, wilful in action; but always tender at heart. Mr. Loraine gave an acceptable and popular rendering of Benedick, and with Miss Vanbrugh was many times recalled before the curtain. Mr. Eric Maxon's part of Claudio suited his capacity for the gallant and romantic, and Mr. Murray Carrington was equally at home as the Prince of Aragon. Miss Nora Lancaster achieved conspicuous success as Hero; of all the many parts she is playing in this Festival, this performance will probably stand out as her chief triumph. Mr. Nicholson's Dogberry and Mr. Harry Caine's Verges were thoroughly in harmony with the Shakespearean tradition; and the other parts were all well filled.

On Monday evening, May 2, Mr. Benson Revived

"CORIOLANUS."

Of all Shakespeare's plays this is probably the most difficult with which to grip the sympathies of a popular audience. There is hardly a lovable character in it. It is a play without a hero, without a heroine, without a thoroughly vicious villain, and even without a conscious clown. Its interest depends on its successful treatment as a moving picture of Roman life and manners about 500 years B.C., and there is little evidence in the play that Shakespeare had specially informed himself in that branch of study. So that Mr. Benson is thrown back on the opportunities Coriolanus affords for a display of real genius in the realistic presentation of a stage mob, and in that direction Mr. Benson had established a reputation almost before we heard of Mr. Granville Barker. Alike in Act I., Scene 1, in Act II., Scenes 1 and 4, in Act III., Scene 1, and in Act IV., Scene 3, the populace is real, vivid, vibrant, pulsating, entirely convincing.

Mr. Benson as Coriolanus gives us a puzzling study, despising "the many-headed multitude," contemptuous of their unwashed faces and neglected teeth, scornful of the tribunes, "the tongues of the common worth," and disdaining all the arts by which statesmen enlist the sympathy of the people. "He would not flatter Neptune for his trident." He would have sympathised with the late Lord Salisbury's dictum that what the people really wanted was a circus instead of a parish council, and yet, like Lord Salisbury, he was a patriot, and many were ready to speak well of him had be been a little more human. Had Rome been perpetually at war, his indomitable bravery and his skill in generalship would have hid out of sight his instinctive aloofness from "the common herd." But he was out of place in a democratic state. All this Mr. Benson suggests to us. Where he finds it difficult to make Shakespeare convincing is in the departure of Coriolanus, on his defeat at the polls, to the camp of his city's enemies. However, in a rôle with which Kemble and Kean have wrestled, Mr. Benson at least succeeded in investing his part with constant interest. Mr. Moffat Johnston put the flavour of Tower-hill (and the Marble Arch on Sundays) into the character of Sicinius Velutus, and Mr. Murray Carrington was a properly sour and jealous Junius Brutus. Mr. H. O. Nicholson presented the only male part of any kindliness or sympathy; his Menenius was dignified, at times pathetic, shrewd in his criticisms of the foibles of the age. A prime feature of the play is Miss Genevieve Ward's Volumnia, in vain counselling her son to dissemble his aversion for the outward forms of democratic government, but successful in her fine pleading on behalf of Rome in the last act. All the other members of the company worked hard and well to realise the spirit and atmosphere of the narrative, and the play, despite its unsympathetic nature, evoked real enthusiasm from the audience.

On Tuesday afternoon, May 3, there was a great reunion of Old Bensonians on the stage of the Memorial Theatre, and the theatre itself was packed to the ceiling. A selection was the first scene of the fourth act of

"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

Shylock .....Mr. F. R. Benson

Starveling .....Mr. H. O. Nicholson

Then came the first and second acts of

"THE TAMING OF THE SHREW."

Petruchio .....Mr. F. R. Benson
Baptista .....Mr. Alfred Brydone
Lucentio .....Mr. Cyril Keightley
Hortensio .....Mr. Roper Sykes
Tranio .....Mr. Stanley Howlett
Gremio .....Mr. H. O. Nicholson
Grumio .....Mr. Nigel Playfair
Biondello .....Mr. E. Lyall Swete
Major-domo .....Mr. H. Jalland
Bianca .....Miss Olive Noble
Katherina .....Mrs. F. R. Benson

Where all are "stars" it would be invidious to single out individuals for special praise. On these occasions noblesse oblige, and when artists of the calibre of Mr. William Haviland and Mme. Agnes Nicholls are loyally content to figure as "Guests, Servants, &c.," the vocabulary of laudation would soon be exhausted. Suffice to say that one and all were gathered together as old comrades of Mr. F. R. Benson, and that their efforts were received with great enthusiasm, those old Bensonians who had, like Mr. Warburton, Mr. Cyril Keightley, and Miss Olive Noble, been members of the company as recently as last year, coming in for a specially hearty recognition.

At the final fall of the curtain the company were joined on the stage by Miss Ellen Terry and Miss Marion Terry. In response to repeated calls, Mr. Benson made a short speech. He said he felt indeed a proud and happy man on that occasion. He was especially grateful to Mr. Otho Stuart, by whose generosity the whole party was being conveyed to and from London; to Mr. Lyall Swete, for his action in organising the party, and to all his old colleagues for their true-hearted comradeship in coming so far to rally round him once again. The lesson of the reunion was one of love and good fellowship, and he was grateful to his very kind old friends at Stratford for affording the opportunity.

Mr. Otho Stuart, in expressing the delight of all the company on being reunited with their old chief once again, announced that he had received many letters and telegrams of apology for enforced absence. One of the scoundrels—(laughter)—had wired: "Would I were fluffing with you. Love to the old crocks. Deepest sympathy with the audience."

Company and audience then joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," after which Mme. Agnes Nicholls led the National Anthem. The Old Bensonians left by special train for London at 4.50. Hundreds of Stratfordians gathered at the station to give them a parting cheer, and to express the hope to see them all back again next year.

On Tuesday evening, May 3, and on Wednesday afternoon, May 4, Mr. Benson's company repeated their performance of Two Gentlemen of Verona, noticed in our last issue.

On Wednesday Evening, May 4, the Play presented was

"JULIUS CÆSAR."

Julius Cæsar .....Mr. Guy B. Rathbone
Octavius Cæsar .....Mr. John Howell
Marcus Antonius .....Mr. F. R. Benson
Popilius Lena .....Mr. F. Conroy
Artemidorus .....Mr. J. Howell
Marcus Brutus .....Mr. Otho Stuart
Cassius .....Mr. Eric Maxon
Casca .....Mr. H. O. Nicholson
Trebonius .....Mr. Alfred Wild
Metellus Cimber .....Mr. W. W. Caithness
Decius Brutus .....Mr. J. Moffat Johnston
Varro .....Mr. Harold Meltzer
Claudius .....Mr. Alfred Wild
First Citizen .....Mr. Harry Caine
Second Citizen .....Mr. Frank Conroy
Third Citizen .....Mr. James Turnbull
Pindarus .....Mr. J. Moffat Johnston
Cæsar's Servant .....Miss A. P. Nicholson
Lucius .....Miss Leah Hanman
Calphurnia .....Miss Nora Lancaster
Portia .....Mrs. F. R. Benson

If Coriolanus is a play without a hero, so Julius Cæsar might be said to be a drama with four heroes, for at least it contains four great and almost even parts. And when these are sustained by such a quartette as Messrs. Guy Rathbone, Eric Maxon, Otho Stuart, and F. R. Benson, what wonder that a crowded house received the play with great enthusiasm. As in Coriolanus, too, the stage crowds were excellent in their naturalness.

Mr. Benson's Marc Antony is one of his best performances. Noble and impressive in the Senate scene, his great speech, "Lend me your ears," utterly belied his modest disclaimer that "I am no orator as Brutus is." Mr. Guy Rathbone showed us a hard, strong, cold Cæsar, "constant as the northern star" in his refusal to reopen the case of Publius Cimber. Mr. Eric Maxon, in the earlier scenes realised to the full Cæsar's saying that "Yon Cassius hath a lean and hungry look," and cleverly brought out the envious, plausible, scheming, and splenetic character of the conspiring Senator, attaining almost to nobility in the closing act. Mr. Otho Stuart as "the noblest Roman of them all," Marcus Brutus, loving the name of honour more than he feared death, was a very fine study, and suited his part to perfection. Mr. Moffat Johnston ably doubled the parts of the specious Decius and the swarthy Pindarus; as did Mr. Alfred Wild the Senator Trebonius and the servitor Claudius. Miss Leah Hanman as Lucius gave us another proof of her amazing versatility; and all the other members of this admirable company played their parts well, and seemed Romans to the manner born.

OLD BENSONIANS AT STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

The high esteem in which Mr. F. R. Benson is held by former members of his theatrical companies was illustrated yesterday (Tuesday) in a remarkable manner at a matinée at the Shakespearean Festival, Stratford-on-Avon, when scenes were given from The Merchant of Venice, A Midsummer Night's Dream, and The Taming of the Shrew, by a large party of "Old Bensonians," which included the following popular theatrical celebrities:—Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Miss Jessie Bateman, Miss Frances Dillon, Miss Elsie Chester, Miss Olive Noble, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Helen Haye, Miss Jean McKinlay, Miss Frances Wetherall, Miss Leah Hanman, Miss Elizabeth Kirby, Mr. Otho Stuart, Mr. Lyall Swete, Mr. Henry Ainley, Mr. H. R. Hignett, Mr. Chas. Quartermaine, Mr. W. Haviland, Mr. A. E. Warburton, Mr. Alfred Brydone, Mr. Cyril Keightley, Mr. J. B. Fagan, Mr. Henry Vibart, and Mr. Charles Bibby.

Mr. Otho Stuart, the organiser of the matinée, is indebted to the various managements who granted permission for the artists to appear at Stratford-on-Avon.

A special train for the accommodation of the party left Paddington at 9.30 a.m., and reached Stratford-on-Avon at 11.25 a.m. The return train left Stratford-on-Avon at 4.55 p.m., and reached Paddington at 7 p.m. Luncheon and dinner were served en route. The following was the menu of the dinner:—

HORS D'ŒUVRES.

SOUP.

Consommé Excelsior.

"Do as adversaries do in law, Strive mightily, but eat and drink as friends."
—Taming of the Shrew.

FISH.

Fillets of Sole, Chevreuse.

"Eat it up all, if thou lov'st me."—Taming of the Shrew.

ENTRÉE.

Sweetbread Financière.

"After many ceremonies done, he calls for wine."—Taming of the Shrew.

JOINT.

Roast Lamb. Mint Sauce.

"What is this? Mutton?"—Taming of the Shrew.

"The meat was well if you were so contented."—Taming of the Shrew.

ROAST.

Roast Duckling.
New Potatoes and Peas.
Asparagus. Sauce Mousseline.

"A dish that I do love to feed upon."—Taming of the Shrew.

SWEETS.

Pears Melba.

"Feed him with apricocks and dewberries."—Midsummer Night's Dream.

CHEESE AND SALAD.

"Will you give thanks or else shall I?"—Taming of the Shrew.

To render it possible for this matinée performance to be given at Stratford-on-Avon and for many of the artists to perform in London at night, it was necessary that there should be not only strict punctuality of trains, but that the whole of the arrangements should be carefully planned and efficiently carried out, and this was most successfully done by Mr. Otho Stuart and the Great Western Railway Company.

The Great Western route to Stratford-on-Avon will be considerably shortened by the opening for passenger traffic in July of the company's new line to Birmingham and the North.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

In the case of Leveaux v. Caine in the King's Bench Division on Thursday, in order to establish the fact that there had been a production of the play for copyright purposes, Mr. Eldon Bankes, K.C., read to his Lordship a record which was contained in "Plays of the Month," a list of produced plays which appear in The Era newspaper, the official organ of the dramatic profession. The record was as follows:—"Jan, the Icelander; or, Home, Sweet Home, produced for copyright purposes at the Grand Theatre, West Hartlepool, on Saturday, Nov. 24, 1900."

We regret to record the death of Mr. Barrington Foote, who died at Clapham, on the 20th ult., at the early age of thirty-one. He was the son of the celebrated baritone, Barrington Foote, grandson of General Foote (who passed away last year), and nephew of Colonel Barrington Foote. The deceased actor's first engagement was with Mr. William Greet's Sign of the Cross company, with which he remained three years. He was with Mr. George Alexander in The Prisoner of Zenda, Rupert of Hentzau, The Ambassador, The Tree of Knowledge, and other plays, and served under Mr. Frank Curzon in The Wisdom of Folly and Mrs. Willoughby's Kiss. He created the part of David Copperfield in Little Em'ly at the Adelphi; played the Imp in H. V. Esmond's When We Were Twenty-One, and understudied Hugh Ardale in Iris with Mr. Bourchier at the Garrick. Under Mr. Weedon Grossmith's management he appeared in The Night of the Party, and also figured in many other plays, including The Golden Age and The Skeleton in the Cupboard.

At the time of his death Mr. Foote, who had developed symptoms of rapid consumption, was playing Sexton Blake in Hush Money, it being his second tour with that company. He played this part until March 19, when he had to give up and return to town owing to the advanced state of his illness, thus having literally "died in harness." During the past five years he has been well-known upon the music hall stage, in his own famous duelling sketch, The End of a Story, which, with Miss Diane D'Orsay, he played in almost every music hall of note in London and the provinces. The Fight for Honour, The Duke, and The Deception of Kits and others of his sketches. Mr. Foote was buried at Streatham Cemetery on the 22nd ult.

There is a charming portrait, hung on the line in Gallery II. of the present Royal Academy Exhibition, of one of the youngest members of the "peerage of the stage"—Olivia, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Forbes-Robertson. The painter, Mr. Edmond Brock, is to be congratulated on a work which captivates the beholder by its sweet simplicity and truth. The child looks down upon one from the wall with big, blue, thoughtful eyes; she is dressed in a little white smock, white socks, and blue shoes. From her hand dangles a well-beloved doll, and other toys are sketched lightly upon the floor.

The annual meeting of the Rehearsal Club will (by kind permission of Mr. George Alexander) be held at the St. James's Theatre on Thursday afternoon next, at three o'clock. The chair will be taken by Miss Fanny Brough, and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein has graciously promised to be present. The meeting will be addressed by Miss Constance Collier, Miss Compton, Miss Lilian Braithwaite, the Countess of Bective, the Bishop of Kensington, Mr. H. B. Irving, Mr. Lyn Harding, and Mr. Charles Quartermaine. Tickets of admission may be obtained on application by letter of the honorary treasurer, Mrs. Mayne, 101, Queen's Gate, S.W.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier will preside at the Hotel Cecil on the 22nd inst., when the New Vagabond Club will entertain Mr. James Welch in commemoration of the great success of When Knights Were Bold. Mr. Carl Hentschel is one of the vice-chairmen.

Mr. Martin Harvey's week at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, concluding last Saturday night was one of the most successful the popular actor has ever played in the city, crowds having to be turned away each evening. To-night Mr. Harvey concludes another prosperous stay at Portsmouth, and on Monday opens the concluding week of his tour at Oxford, where prior to the performance of The World and His Wife on Wednesday evening Miss N. de Silva will appear in her original rôle in An Idyll of Seven Dials.

Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, we learn from New York, is to be married this summer to Mr. Swinburne Hale, a young Wall-street lawyer. Fortunately, Miss Forbes-Robertson, who joined the New Theatre at the beginning of the season, will not abandon the stage. Miss Forbes-Robertson is an ardent Suffragette, and it was one of her speeches that attracted the attention of Mr. Hale, who sought an introduction to the young actress, with the felicitous result now announced.

At the Shaftesbury Theatre, at a special matinée to be given by permission of Mr. Robert Courtneidge, on Tuesday, The Cheerful Knave, a new comedy, in three acts, by Keble Howard, will be produced, with a cast including Miss Marie Illington, Miss Christine Silver, Miss Lydia Rachel, Miss Isabel Merson, Miss Agnes Thomas, Mr. Leslie Faber, Mr. Henry Kitts, Mr. W. Lemmon Warde, Mr. J. Napper, and Mr. George Elton. The scene is laid at Castle Bacchus, a mansion in the depths of Warwickshire.

Mr. H. B. Irving's appearance in an English version of L'Enquête at the Queen's will take place some time this month, the promised revival of Robert Macaire forming part of the bill. The version used will be that done by Fechter in 1861. The rights of this version are the property of Mr. Fred Terry, who has very kindly transferred them pro tem. to Mr. Irving.

Mr. Henry Joseph Loveday, of Daisy Cottage, Trafalgar-road, Strawberry Hill, manager to Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum since 1878, and after Irving's death to Mr. Martin Harvey, and formerly leader of the orchestra at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, who died on March 29, aged seventy-one years, has left estate valued at £2,328 gross, with net personalty £2,177 13s. 10d.

We congratulate Miss Julia Neilson on her recovery from her recent illness, and on the pleasure she must have derived from witnessing Miss Phillida Terson's delightful performance as Vio'a in Twelfth Night, at His Majesty's Theatre, on Saturday afternoon last. Mr. Fred Terry is very hopeful of the future of his clever daughter, and intends to give her an opportunity of appearing in such parts as Rosalind, Beatrice, Ophelia, Juliet, and Desdemona, himself impersonating Touchstone, Benedick, Hamlet, Mercutio, and perhaps Iago. The performances of both father and daughter in these parts will be intensely interesting.

The greatest interest was manifested in the appearance of "Smith," comedian, who was cast to play at the Strand Theatre on Saturday night Rolandyl, the assessor of taxes, Mr. C. H. Workman's original part in Two Merry Monarchs. "Smith," it may at once be stated, scored an undoubted success, but it is idle to pretend that he is not an actor of tried ability. In fact, he is that fine comedian, Mr. Philip Smith, who for so long has played Edmund Payne parts on tour.

The fifth annual dinner of the Peter Pan Golf Club took place at the Trocadero on Sunday last. It was a very great success and one of the most enjoyable evenings imaginable. Nearly all the members of the company were present, also many old "lost boys" and pirates, and a number of guests, including Lord George Wellesley, a young peer who takes a great interest in the drama. Miss Pauline Chase, an exceedingly gracious chairwoman, presented the many handsome trophies won on the links. Mr. Charles Frohman's trophy was won by Mr. Baskcomb, Mr. Barrie's by Mr. Silward, Miss Chase's by Miss Robinson, Mr. Dion Boucicault's by Mr. Ernest Hollom, Miss Trevelyan's by Miss Margaret Fraser, Mr. Walter Pearce's by Master H. Hollom (the youngest of the "Darlings"), and the father of the Darling family, Mr. Walter Pearce, won Mr. William Ogg's trophy. There were also many others.

The menu was most amusing, the courses being described by quotations from the play. There was much excitement caused by the speculations as to what "Had he a tail, Captain?" or "I won't go to bed" might be. The dinner finished up with a "Now I feel like a snooze," but as a matter of fact everyone seemed particularly wide awake. There were several excellent speeches, among the speakers being Mr. Frederick Annerley, the present Captain Hook and the secretary of the Golf Club; Mr. Loring Fernie, who made a success as Hook some three years ago, and who spoke of the honour and joy it was to have been associated with so beautiful and fantastic a play as Peter Pan; Miss Sybil Carlisle, who, when called upon to speak, said she hadn't "run away the day she was born," but she certainly wished she had.

Mr. Walter Pearce, in a witty little speech, proposed the health of "The Ladies," and ended up with a new version of the Pirates' song:—

"Yeo ho—yeo ho, the ladies dear,
Let's drink to them in this,
And, if they love their 'Darling' well,
He'll give them all a kiss."

After dinner there was an excellent entertainment, a splendid programme having been provided. The most enjoyable items were Mr. Albert Whelan's inimitable songs, a charming dance by Miss Chase, a clever "doll" song and dance by Miss Nellie Bowman, and the Helen and Modus scenes from The Hunchback, which were delightfully played by Miss Ella Erskine and Mr. Walter Pearce. There was universal regret when, owing to the laws of our land, a most successful evening had to come to an end.

The Incorporated Stage Society will open its eleventh season at the Aldwych Theatre on Sunday with a comedy, in three acts, by Ludwig Thoma, translated by H. A. Hertz and Frederick Whelen, and entitled Champions of Morality. The cast will include Mr. Jules Shaw, Mr. Clifton Alderson, Mr. Kenyon Musgrave, Miss Von Appen, Miss Marianne Caldwell, Miss Rosamund Mayne Young, Mr. Frank Esmond, Miss Annie Hill, Mr. A. S. Homewood, Mrs. Theodore Wright, Miss Adah Barton, Mr. Leon M. Lion, Mr. Alfred Bristowe, Mr. Leonard Shepherd, Miss Sarah Brooke, Mr. Frank Ridley, and Mr. Leon Quartermaine. The place is Emileburg, the capital of the Duchy of Gerolstein, and the second act takes place at the Central Police Offices there. Thoma, a Bavarian, is one of the best-known humorists in Germany, a contributor to Jugend and Simplicissimus, and the author of numerous essays and tales, chiefly treating of peasant life, and of several comedies, the best-known of which are Die Lokalbahn and Moral.

At the "one-act play" matinée, which will be given at the Court Theatre on Monday, the 23rd inst., there will be presented two new pieces, A Likely Story and Lord of the Harvest, by Laurence Housman, and a third by Miss Rose Mathews called The Smack. Miss Sydney Fairbrother, Miss Decima Moore, Miss Margaret Bussé, Miss Bessie Hatton, Miss Aimée de Burgh, Miss Christine Rayner, and Messrs. Leon Quartermaine, Laurence Leyton, and Robert Farquharson will be in the casts, and Miss Irene and Miss Annie S. Spong will contribute some Greek and Irish songs with appropriate dances.

Mr. William Gillette has finished a new three-act comedy, to be called Mrs. Electricity, and Mr. Charles Frohman hopes to produce it at one of his West-End theatres next season, after its first performance at the Park Theatre, Boston, on Sept. 25, with Miss Marie Doro in the leading part. In the May of next year Mr. Gillette will make his reappearance in England at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, where he will play for a month, afterwards acting in Paris and Berlin.

Students of the Academy of Dramatic Art gave a performance of Zola's Thérèse Raquin at Terry's Theatre on Monday afternoon. Miss Enid Rose appeared in the title-rôle, and displayed intelligence and skill that went far to justify the high hopes we have previously expressed with regard to her future. Mr. Harold Holland as Laurent also gave excellent promise; and other creditable performances were those of Grivot by Mr. Richard Carfax, Camille by Mr. Valentine Penna, and Mme. Raquin, by Miss Dorothy Bowden.

Miss Pauline Chase, who plays the name-part in Peter Pan, left Waterloo, London, on Wednesday morning on a flying visit to New York, where for a few hours she will sell at the Actors' Fund Fair the autograph portraits of Sir John Hare, Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Arthur Pinero, Mr. H. B. Irving, Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr. J. M. Barrie, Mr. Alfred Sutro, Mr. Joseph Coyne, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mesdames Melba, Tetrazzini, and Réjane, and Misses Ellen Terry, Gertie Millar, Edna May, Gertrude Elliott, and Irene Vanbrugh.

A startling announcement has again been secured for the Theatrical Garden Party, at the Royal Botanic Gardens, on June 28. Mr. Cyril Maude will once more provide the chief item of the histrionic programme, which will take the form of "an entirely new and entrancing psychophysicode in the form of a tragicomipastoral or realistic idyll of modern life, in four acts, specially written by Mr. Leo Trevor." Mr. John Harwood will be responsible for the actual production.

Mr. Geo. Bull, the well-known Press manager of the Shaftesbury Theatre, has invented, registered, and in every way fully protected a remarkable advertising device, which will doubtless be seen in the West End streets shortly. It can be adapted to the requirements of any artist, but is more especially suitable to the comedian who has accustomed the public to a special facial make-up. The picture of the face only is reproduced in colours on a double-crown poster, and by a simple little contrivance the eyes are made to squint, to turn up, to recede, and to bulge out. In fact, every movement of the sandwich-man carrying such a poster occasions a new kind of stare. The effect is startling in the extreme, and one has simply got to look. The first theatre or comedian to secure a monopoly of Mr. Bull's patent will have acquired the best publicity device at present in the market.

Mr. Wentworth Croke has just had specially painted at his Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, studios by Mr. T. Holmes, for his tour of East Lynne, a very beautiful prologue set, which the company is now touring.

The Committee of the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre is organising branch committees in important districts and towns to further the interests of the movement and to raise local contributions. The campaign has met with much success, and during the last few weeks important meetings have been held. At Richmond, by permission of the Thames Valley Shakespeare Society, active efforts in support of the local fund were promised. A most successful meeting at Mrs. Saxton Noble's, Kent House, Knightsbridge, was well attended, addresses being given by Sir Herbert Tree and Mr. Comyns Carr. At Sheffield the Lord Mayor, Earl Fitzwilliam, has accepted the presidency, and in the autumn active work is to be begun by the local executive. Leeds University promises substantial help, as the Principal and several Professors are on the Committee.

The inaugural meeting of the Woolwich Committee, the Mayor and ex-Mayor actively assisting, has also been held, Mr. W. Gannon, Principal of the Woolwich Polytechnic, being the secretary. The Mayor presided at the inaugural meeting at Wimbledon, where great enthusiasm was manifested. A newly-constituted committee at Edinburgh has started the work well, the Marquess of Linlithgow having accepted the presidency, and Sir Robert Cranston will serve as chairman of the local executive. At Newcastle-on-Tyne a good meeting was also held, Alderman Sir H. Newton in the chair, the executive committee and officers being appointed. The Duke of Beaufort is the president at Bristol, and a good start has been made.

Arrangements for the Fancy Dress Ball on June 27 at the Royal Albert Hall are progressing rapidly, and the grand tier boxes are all sold. Tickets can only be obtained from the members of the Committee, or from Mr. G. Sherwood Foster, 4, Whitehall House, Charing Cross. Dances from the plays will be arranged by various ladies, the following having already promised:—Lady Jekyll, The Tempest; Mrs. George Cornwallis West, Twelfth Night; Lady Salisbury and the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttleton, Much Ado About Nothing; Lady Paget, A Midsummer Night's Dream; and Lady Wemyss, King Henry VIII.

Owing to the very elaborate nature of the production of The Piper (the prize play) at Stratford-upon-Avon, Mr. F. R. Benson was obliged to postpone the first performance from Thursday last to Wednesday afternoon next, the 11th. The greatest interest is being displayed by the townsfolk and visitors in the production of the new play, the subject of which is, of course, the Pied Piper of Hamelin, but treated in an entirely new manner. Mr. Benson himself will be the Piper, and Miss Marion Terry will appear as Veronika.

The final of the D'Oyly Carte Golf Handicap was played on Friday, the 29th ult., over the Meyrick Park Links, Bournemouth. After an interesting struggle Cyril Flamsteed (received 19) beat H. A. Lytton (scratch) by 3 up and 2 to play.

Mr. Forbes-Robertson sent the following telegram received from Toronto to Messrs. George Tyler and Wentworth Croke, Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, respecting Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's play, in three acts, The Dawn of a To morrow, which was produced at the Shakespeare on Monday:—"Heartiest wishes to-night. Please commend my wife and myself to Liverpool playgoers."

Miss Fanny Brough expressed hearty and sincere sympathy with the movement when on Thursday she opened the Women's Press, a shop and publication department for the Women's Social and Political Union, in the Charing Cross-road. In her profession, Miss Brough observed, women were doing their best, but owing to the flagrant publicity given to their work they could not be too careful of what they did and how they did it. There was too much advertisement about it. Referring to the Anti-Suffrage League, she said they were all grieved about such an extraordinary and unwomanly action. She could not understand women working against women.

A few days previous to the Asche-Brayton production of As You Like It at the Criterion Theatre, Sydney, Mr. George Relph, the Orlando, whilst rehearsing the wrestle, had the misfortune to break a small bone of his wrist. He was, nevertheless, able to appear on the night of production, and news to hand speaks highly of his acting of the part.

Miss Grace Harlington (Mrs. F. R. Gwyn-Richardson) is, we regret to learn, undergoing an operation at Jessop's Hospital, Sheffield. During her convalescence she will be very pleased to hear from all friends.

The Ben Greet Players, after appearing in The Tempest and A Midsummer Night's Dream, closed their ten-weeks' engagement at the Garden Theatre on the 23rd ult., and journeyed to Philadelphia, where they opened at the Adelphi Theatre.

Mr. Herbert Sleath, at the close of the present tenancy, will take over the lease of the Garrick Theatre, and will commence operations with Mr. George Tyler's production of The Dawn of To-Morrow.

Mme. Melba has returned to London to take part in the grand season at Covent Garden, where, before her departure for Australia, in 1908, at the close of the opera season, she sang for twenty consecutive seasons. Prior to her reappearance in opera Mme. Melba will sing at a concert at the Albert Hall this afternoon.

Mr. George Tyler will give the first performance in London of The Dawn of a To-morrow—which was produced at Liverpool on Monday night with immense success—at the Garrick Theatre on Thursday.

Princess Christian and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein were present at the performance Die Walkure at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Max Beerbohm, the dramatic critic, was married on Thursday to Miss Florence Kahn, the American actress. The first week of the honeymoon will be spent in the country, after which Mr. and Mrs. Beerbohm will go abroad.

Mr. Ernest Pope took his benefit at the Theatre Royal, Lincoln, on Wednesday, when the inhabitants of the town presented him with a handsome silver tray. In making the presentation on behalf of the donors, Mr. Payne Seddon congratulated his partner "upon the present season having been the most successful in the existence of the Lincoln Theatre, and upon the spontaneous and handsome proof that he had earned the regard of the public amongst whom he lived, having, to use the most appropriate quotation he could think of, with all due reverence, 'Done his duty in that state of life which it pleased God to call him.'" Mrs. Pope was also presented with a gold bracelet from the patrons of the theatre.

Mr. Thomas Beecham's season of opera comique opens at His Majesty's on Monday with Tales of Hoffman. An interesting engagement is that of Mlle. Mignon Nevada, the eighteen year old daughter of Mme. Emma Nevada, the famous prima-donna. Mlle. Nevada has a high flexible soprano, and achieved an immediate success on her début at the Constanza, Rome, where she appeared as Rosina in The Barber of Seville, and this opera has been specially included in the autumn programme for her. An English singer, Miss Lydia O'Bree, will also make her début in England during the season.

Encouraging reports were submitted on Wednesday at a meeting of the shareholders of the Glasgow Repertory Theatre, over which ex-Deacon Convener Macdonald presided. That of Mr. Alfred Wareing, the managing-director, showed a steady improvement since the commencement of the venture, the present season in particular being very much better than the two preceding ones. The chairman pointed out that £867 of additional capital had been subscribed to carry on the enterprise after May 28, when the present season ends; but he pointed out there still remained 1,133 shares to be taken up before the directors would be justified in leasing the theatre for another year.

In response to the appeal of the chairman, the meeting at once subscribed additional capital, and resolved to do all in its power to further the interests of the undertaking. Mr. Wareing submitted a scheme for running the theatre all the year round, with the exception of the month of July, producing during the summer such plays as One Summer's Day, The Adventure of Lady Ursula, The Tyranny of Tears, and When We Were Twenty-one. The autumn programme will include new plays by John Galsworthy and Neil Munro.

Mr. Cyril Maude will produce on Tuesday afternoon in front of The Toymaker of Nuremberg at the Playhouse a short wordless play, called The Broken Pitcher.

Miss Ethel Irving will take Dame Nature from the Garrick Theatre to Terry's on Saturday next, when a special matinée of the successful play will be given.

At the Theatre Royal, Ilkeston, this week, a great attraction is the appearance of Miss Maude Moy Murray, who gives a series of beautiful aerial dances with marvellous effects, and her aeroplane flight is nightly received with great enthusiasm. This novel act should find its way to the West End.

Mr. Oswald Lingard, who made such a success on the original tours of The Breed of the Treshams and The Bondman, has been engaged, through the agency of Harry Ward and Co., for the stock season at the Pavilion Theatre, E., opening on May 16 as Private Mason in Tommy Atkins.

Owing to the great success of Miss Grace Lester's sketch A Ruined Life, Mr. Hugh Montgomery has been compelled to refuse several summer offers for stock, &c., in order to continue with it. Mr. Wentworth Croke has engaged Miss Marie Harcourt for The Girl of My Heart, and both have been retained for a forty-two weeks' tour from August by Mr. Percy Williams.

"On and after Monday, May 23, dramas twice nightly," is the announcement made by Moss' Empires, Ltd., regarding the Bordesley Palace Theatre, Birmingham. This innovation follows variety performances, melodramas, musical comedy, and pantomime.

The Playhouse was lent by Mr. Cyril Maude on Monday for a matinée in aid of the Church of England Homes for Waifs and Strays. Princess Christian, accompanied by Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, was among a distinguished audience. An attractive entertainment was supplied by artists who gave their services. The organising secretary, in proposing a vote of thanks to all concerned, announced that the matinée had resulted in a clear profit of £350.

Miss Dora Pass, who was taken suddenly ill at the Prince of Wales, Salford, has been out of the cast of A Woman's Past some three weeks. We are pleased to learn she is resuming work this week.

Mr. Edwin Brett and Miss Emmeline Orford have just returned from Australia, after an absence of over two years, having fulfilled a most successful engagement with Messrs. Denton, Bode, and McKenzie's comic opera company. They speak in glowing terms of the appreciation and enthusiasm of the Australian audiences, and have arrived home with many trophies and tributes of our Colonial cousins' generosity. They are particularly proud of the fact that they were the principal comedian and soubrette in the Australian record pantomime (Cinderella season, 1908-9), which ran for eight months in Melbourne and Sydney alone.

Miss Sophie Harriss, who was beginning to despair of ever finding a worthy successor to The Prince of Pilsen, during her recent round of the principal Continental theatres, has hit upon a musical comedy containing a part after her own heart, and is hard at work completing the necessary preliminary formalities for its production at the earliest possible date.

The full cast of Mr. Keble Howard's new three-act comedy, The Cheerful Knave, which is to be produced at the Shaftesbury Theatre on Tuesday afternoon next, consists of Miss Marie Illington, Miss Christine Silver, Miss Lydia Rachel, Miss Isabel Merson, Miss Agnes Thomas, Mr. Leslie Faber, Mr. Henry Kitts, Mr. Lemmon Warde, Mr. J. Napper, and Mr. George Elton. The scene is laid at Castle Bacchus, a mansion in Warwickshire, and the three acts occur during an afternoon in August, the same night, and the next morning. It may be added that a copy of Mr. Keble Howard's new six-shilling novel, founded on the play, will be presented to every purchaser of a reserved seat.

We regret to learn that, owing to a breakdown in health, Mr. Keith Fraser has had to relinquish the part of Napoleon in A Royal Divorce.

Miss Florence Kahn, of Tennessee, the wife of Mr. Max Beerbohm, the critic, who is half-brother to Sir Herbert Tree, is best known for her performances of such parts as Mrs. Elvested in Hedda Gabler, Irene in When We Dead Awaken, Rose in Sudermann's Battle of the Butterflies, the Countess Zicka in Diplomacy, and the wayward heroine of Ibsen's Doll's House. Miss Kahn was for some years leading lady with Mr. Richard Mansfield.

At the Kingston Police-court on Thursday Antoine Paillasson, whose address was given at the Savoy Hotel, chauffeur to Mme. Réjane, the celebrated French actress, was summoned for exceeding the twenty miles an hour speed limit along the Portsmouth road at Kingston Hill on April 22. Mme. Réjane was in the car at the time. According to the police evidence the car covered a measured distance at the rate of 27½ miles an hour. The defendant, through an interpreter, said he had only been in the country a short time, and was unaware of the regulations. He did not think he was driving at a greater speed than seventeen or eighteen miles an hour. The Bench imposed a fine of £1, with 8s. 6d. costs.

Gratifying success has attended the transference to the Grand Theatre, Oldham, of Mr. Richard Flanagan's recent revival of Twelfth Night at the Prince's, Manchester. When the curtain was rung down on Saturday night there was loud applause, and, in response to an emphatic demand, Miss Margaret Halstan (the Viola) came forward and, like other members of the company, was presented with a handsome bouquet, for which she warmly thanked her admirers. Miss Halstan, in compliance with a demand for a speech, said she and the other members of the company had enjoyed themselves very well during the fortnight they had been in Oldham.

Mr. Ernest Dottridge, the popular manager of the theatre, to whose enterprise and ability local playgoers were indebted for the production, in the course of a neat little speech, said that although they opened up somewhat badly, he was very glad to tell them they had done double the business in the last week, and that, on the whole, they had a fairly successful time. He warmly thanked those who visited the theatre for their unstinted appreciation of the artists' efforts. He had, Mr. Dottridge added amid applause, been able to arrange with Mr. Flanagan to transfer the revival in Manchester next season in its entirety to Oldham.

Miss Sophie Lingwood concludes to-night her spring tour of Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. Miss Lingwood has been starring as Mrs. Wigge, making a great success in this fine part, which combines pathos with real comedy.

Mr. Fred Morgan has been re-engaged by Mr. Robert Arthur as heavy leading man for the Kennington stock season this year.

Miss Marjorie Clive (Mrs. Sydney Alport) is for the second time to enter into the holy bonds of matrimony, and will be married on June 4 to Mr. Vaughan Dryden. Mr. Dryden is one of the editors of the Globe, and is responsible, among other literary work, for that diverting column "By the Way" which graces the pages of our old-established contemporary.

Miss Winifred Pearson, who is playing Claire Foster in The Woman in the Case, has been re-engaged by Miss Annie Hughes for her old part of Vivian Morrison, the adventuress, in Miss Tommy.

Mr. Charles Frohman had secured the English rights in Le Costaud des Epinettes—the Apache piece, which was recently produced at the Paris Vaudeville—before its production in the Gay City; and Mr. Cosmo Hamilton has already completed a version, which is to be seen before long in London.

Mr. Edward J. George, whose continued success in the part of Jaikes in The Silver King, which he has played 6,000 times, is recorded in our "provincial" columns, has celebrated his seventieth birthday by signing a contract to appear in the part for another long period.

Mme. Susanna Cole, A.R.A.M. (Mrs. William Offord), the octogenarian vocalist and colleague of the late Mme. Jenny Lind-Goldsmith, has been elected to an out-pension at Huggens' College, Northfleet, Kent. The value of the pension is £52 per annum, and a residence was also placed at Mme. Cole's disposal, which she declined, as she preferred to remain in London. We offer our congratulations to the distinguished cantatrice, and sincerely hope that her life may be prolonged for many a day to enjoy her well-deserved pension.

The King's Theatre, Greenock, closes to-night for the usual summer vacation, reopening for the autumn season in August. Under the experienced management of Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright, who were enabled to secure excellent companies, the season has been a successful one. They are now booking for the autumn and spring, and have already completed some first-class engagements.

The anniversary performance of The Arcadians at the Shaftesbury Theatre on the 28th ult., enabled Mr. Robert Courtneidge to hand over a cheque for £330 to the Fresh Air Fund.

Mr. George Munro, at the conclusion of his engagement at Her Majesty's, Carlisle, not only arranged for an early return visit, but has placed the future booking of his tours with Mr. Thos. Courtice, the manager of the theatre. At practically every house visited Mr. Munro has arranged to return with his excellent company, including Miss Doris V. Horrocks.

The Rehearsal Company will present two new one-act plays on Thursday, May 12, at 2.30, at the Rehearsal Theatre, The Bishop's Fortune, by Benson Plinge, and Love is Passing, by Mrs. Angelo Savi. Act II. of Robertson's School will be given by request. The casts will include Misses May Saker, Evelyn Vanderyll, Marjorie Hodges, Letty Paxton, Irene Delisse, Evelyn Grey, Adah Dick, Edith Carter, and Eva Balfour; and Messrs. Montague Mazeran, Osborn Adair, Keith Shepherd, Victor Wiltshire, and Clive Currie. Miss Brenda Gayne and Mr. Joseph Schofield will provide incidental music.

The vexed question of payment for rehearsals was introduced into a case at Bloomsbury County Court on Monday, when a professional vocalist, named Tom Parry, sued Mr. Thomas Quinlan, concert agent, of Regent-street, W., for wages which, he said, were due to him as a chorus singer at Covent Garden Opera House, claiming two weeks' salary in lieu of notice. Solicitor for the defence submitted that the plaintiff had dismissed himself owing to his refusal to attend rehearsals, which was a part of his contract. The plaintiff was engaged as a chorister in connection with a syndicate producing important operas, some of which had not previously been presented in this country. It would be impossible to carry on such business if any members of the chorus thought they could take upon themselves to stay away from rehearsal just whenever they pleased.

Plaintiff, who conducted his own case, said he thought he was entitled to payment for attending all rehearsals. "Whoever heard of such a thing?" retorted Judge Bacon. "What do you think would become of these operas if people took it upon themselves to absent themselves from rehearsal?" Plaintiff urged that his point was that he was wrongfully dismissed.

In delivering judgment his Honour pointed out that the terms of the contract were that the plaintiff should undertake to sing at all performances during the season, conform to all rules, and attend all rehearsals, and that any infringement of rules should be subject to a fine. He did not think it was unreasonable that the plaintiff should be expected to attend all rehearsals. No operatic venture could be successfully carried out if there did not exist power on the part of the management to enforce certain rules. The plaintiff did not only fail to attend rehearsal, but stated that he did not intend to do so. Such conduct as that rendered a chorus singer a most unsatisfactory person. The judge finally decided in favour of the plaintiff to the extent of £2, with certain costs.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Mrs. Kendal on Faces.

MRS. KENDAL, interviewed by the Chronicle on "Our Faces: What We Can Make of Them," said:—"A great man has said somewhere that if we could make ourselves we should all be handsome and other women ugly. As it is, God makes us, and that is best. Speaking as an actress, I would say that physique sets its limits to what we may be. Age sets its limits too. There comes a time when an actress must look into her glass and say, 'Farewell, Juliet.' Portia she may claim for a few years yet. A manager with a leading lady of sixteen, who has a tip-tilted nose, rosebud mouth, and innocent blue or brown eyes, may cast her for Lady Macbeth, and support his choice by the theory that King Duncan was lured to the castle by her youthful beauty and fascination.

"BUT that does not make her that woman who says, 'Had he not resembled my father in his sleep, I'd have done it.' Or could utter such words as 'I have given suck and know how tender 'tis to love the babe that milk me.' Lady Macbeth belongs to the woman in the forties.

"'How do you like the "roaring forties," Mrs. Kendal?' a gentleman said to me on one of our voyages. Well, I have my very strong opinion about those 'roaring forties'—the period at which I believe someone has said woman ought to be put into a lethal-chamber. The actress comes into her kingdom then so far as nearly all the great characters of tragedy and the drama are concerned. She knows life.

"NEVER think that a woman can really make make herself appear younger than she is, either on or off the stage. The powers of the make-up are greatly exaggerated. An actor may take the most elaborate pains, and in two minutes his voice and personality will reveal him. I never painted much. Emotion and exertion usually made me quite red enough. I made-up 'au naturel'—that is, just accentuating my eyebrows and eye-lashes.

"TRYING to cheat Nature and other people by tying something round your head at night and strapping up to get rid of the fat under the chin—and all that sort of thing, too—is all pure delusion. If I see a woman painted (the horror of it!) in the daytime, I feel inclined to take a spray of lilies of the valley to her. 'Look at this,' I would say, and then, holding it close to her—'see the form, the perfect colour of the leaf and bud—how fragrant, how delicious! He who made this was a Colourist.'

"I BELIEVE that the limitations of feature—for histrionic parts—and of age at all times must be accepted. But never forgetting this—that it is we who write there, in our faces, the good and bad in us. That can be read. I look into a woman's eyes, on or off the stage, and can tell by them if she be good and pure. The eyes can't deceive. The mouth can be controlled. You may be the most consummate humbug, but the eye is so close to the brain it cannot lie. Oh, the revelation in the eyes! Think of the flash of red and yellow in the lioness's. I feel I should know a murderess by her eye. I don't think, though, that I have ever seen one. But I am quite sure the sinister look of Cain was his 'mark.'"

Madame Melba Locked Up.

"MME. MELBA," says the Mail, "has some anecdotes to tell of her recent tour in Australia. 'When I arrived in Melbourne,' she said, 'it had been arranged that a female choir of some 1,500 voices should greet me; but, unfortunately, the crowd was so dense that I could not hear the choir. In fact, the crush at the railway station was so great that the police had to lock me up in the telephone room.'

A Sad Bouquet.

"THERE was a pathetic incident at this stage. A little girl of ten had been deputed to present the prima donna with a bouquet, and she was attired in her best white muslin frock for the occasion. Mme. Melba, shut up in the telephone room, patiently awaiting the dispersal of the crowd, was disturbed by the weeping of a child in evident distress. An official was sent out to investigate, and a bedraggled child in a tattered frock was ushered in, holding forth in forlorn fashion a bunch of melancholy stalks—all that remained of the bouquet she had hoped to present to Mme. Melba.

An Elevated Audience.

"ON another occasion, at Rockhampton, the house was 'sold out' long before Mme. Melba arrived, but a crowd of several hundred people congregated outside and, finding a ladder, mounted to the roof in order to hear her through the skylight. The caretaker, discovering the ladder against the building, removed it, and the crowd on the roof had to spend the night in that uncomfortable position.

A Big Debt.

"'ONE of the prettiest compliments I have ever had paid to me,' said Mme. Melba, 'was at one of the smaller Australian towns—Mount Morgan by name. Two little boys were unable to gain admission to the hall, and I let them come in and sit behind the orchestra. At the end of the concert I told them that they owed me a guinea apiece. The elder of the two rose to his feet, saluted, and said, "Madam, we owe you much more than that." Don't you think that was a great compliment?' said Mme. Melba."

No More Stage Jews.

MR. PERCY G. WILLIAMS has promised the Rev. Joseph Silverman, a prominent New York rabbi, not to allow any more offensive caricatures of Jews in his theatres. The rabbi said in a recent address that the stage Irishman had been banished from the vaudeville stage, and the so-called Hebrew comedians ought to be similarly treated. Dilating on this subject he said: "The invidious effect of ridicule is hard to overcome It is a great weapon in the hands of clever and unscrupulous men. The character of Barnabas, by Christopher Marlowe, was an insolent misrepresentation, and Shakespeare's Shylock was but an imitation of Marlowe's Barnabas. Because it was more cleverly drawn it is more pernicious It was a prostitution of Shakespeare's talent. He played to the gallery.

"THE character of Shylock as portrayed by Shakespeare was a reversal of the real character of the historical personage he set out to picture. He made Shylock demand the pound of flesh to win the plaudits of the audience, and in doing so violated all the canons of truth and justice. It is against public policy that The Merchant of Venice should be read in the public schools. Among the English writers Carlyle, Thackeray, and Dickens were particular offenders in their misrepresentations of the Jew. It was done to curry favour with their readers.

"THE gross caricature of the Jew as he appears in some of the magazines, in some of the newspapers, and on the stage, is an injustice to the Jewish people. The stage Jew is a stench in our nostrils, a disgrace to the country, an insult to the Jew, and a discredit to the stage. He is merely used to cater to prejudice and to the box office receipts. The aim of the stage should be to uplift, refine, and educate—to hold up a mirror which will reflect the truth, not a trick mirror which reflects a monstrosity. Certain yellow journals on occasion indulge in frivolous references and fine insinuations against the Jew which deserve the contempt and derision of all right-minded people."

THE QUEEN'S.

On Saturday, April 30, Revival of the Drama, Adapted by Dion Boucicault, from the play by Casimir Delavigne, entitled

"LOUIS XI."

Louis XI.	MR. H. B. IRVING
The Dauphin	MISS DORA BARTON
Duc de Nemours	MR. EILLE NORWOOD
Philip de Comines	MR. CHARLES ALLAN
Jacques Coitier	MR. TOM REYNOLDS
Tristan L'Ermite	MR. FRANK TYARS
Oliver le Dain	MR. ARTHUR CURTIS
François de Paule	MR. HENRY VIBART
Cardinal d'Alby	MR. CHAS. A. STAITE
Count de Dreux	MR. STUART MUSGROVE
Monseigneur de Lude	MR. H. ROBINSON
Count de Dunois	MR. C. TREVOR ROPER
Montjoie	MR. ALEX. SCOTT-GATTY
Toison D'or	MR. A. SYNGE
Marcel	MR. CLIFFORD BOWN
Richard	MR. J. PATRIC CURWEN
Officer of the Royal Guard	MR. W. H. GRAHAM
King's Attendant	MR. ROLAND PERTUIS
Martha	MISS ROSINA FILIPPI
Marie de Comines	MISS DOROTHEA BAIRD

There were few parts in which the personal gifts of the late Sir Henry Irving served him better than in that of Louis XI., and there are not many in which Mr. H. B. Irving, who inherits so many of his father's advantages, shows to greater advantage. The Irving type of figure and feature is so well suited to the impersonation of the French King, whose strikingly contrasted qualities make him everlastingly memorable, that the part would seem to have been written for Mr. H. B. Irving and his celebrated parent. It is impossible to remember every detail of the production of Louis XI. by Sir Henry in the seventies; but it is equally difficult not to be struck by the wonderful resemblance between Mr. Irving's reading and that of Sir Henry. At times this resemblance is almost startling in its vividness. It is probable, however, that at many points Mr. Irving has reconsidered details and altered ideas, for he is by no means a servile copyist of his sire. Mr. Irving's performance is, at any rate, a very fine one; and one hardly knows which to admire most—the quiet, intense characterisation of the earlier acts, the magnificently powerful outburst of rage and terror after Louis's narrow escape from assassination, or the great death scene, which Mr. Irving, if we mistake not, has somewhat curtailed in length, making the conclusion more close, condensed, and dramatic. He has excellent support. Mr. Frank Tyars's bold and vigorous style is exactly suited to the portrayal of the stern ruffian Tristran L'Ermite; and a very clever and well-calculated impersonation of Olivier le Dain is supplied by Mr. Arthur Curtis. Miss Dora Barton makes a tender and modest, yet bold and royal Dauphin; and Miss Dorothea Baird plays Marie de Comines with earnest expression and delicate sentiment. Mr. Eille Norwood's Duc de Nemours is full of fire and vigour, and he acts the part with commendable energy; and Mr. Henry Vibart is a magnificent François de Paule. Mr. Charles Allan plays Philip de Comines with the authority, dignity, and weight which only ripe experience and thorough training can create, and looks the character capitally; and Mr. Tom Reynolds does full justice to the blunt honesty of Jacques Coitier, delivering his speeches with sturdy strength and manly spirit. Mr. Chas. A. Staite gives a capable and creditable embodiment of the Cardinal d'Alby; and Mr. Stuart Musgrove's Count de Dreux is an excellent piece of work, Mr. H. Robinson being quite efficient as Monseigneur de Lude, and Mr. C. Trevor-Roper doing well as the Count de Dunois. Mr. Alex. Scott-Gatty's Montjoie is effective and adequate; and Mr. A. Synge supplies a satisfactory rendering of Toison d'Or. Special praise is deserved by that always able and agreeable actress, Miss Rosina Filippi, whose Martha is quite worthy of her reputation; and Mr. Clifford Bown and Mr. J. Patric Curwen are acceptable as Marcel and Richard, Mr. W. H. Graham and Mr. Roland Pertuis giving careful performances as the Officer of the Royal Guard and the King's Attendant. The drama is dressed and mounted with the care and liberality which Mr. Irving always expends on his productions. He was called before the curtain again and again at the conclusion, and took the opportunity of announcing that at an early date, in addition to L'Enquête, the piece taken over from Mr. George Alexander, he—Mr. Irving—would give a revival of Robert Macaire, which he hoped to make as amusing as possible.

On Wednesday Afternoon, May 4, Revival of "HAMLET."

Claudius	MR. FRANK TYARS
Hamlet	MR. H. B. IRVING
Polonius	MR. CHARLES ALLAN
Laertes	MR. ARTHUR HOLMES-GORE
Horatio	MR. EILLE NORWOOD
Osric	MR. STUART MUSGROVE
Rosencrantz	MR. STANLEY HOWLETT
Guildenstern	MR. J. PATRIC CURWEN
Marcellus	MR. H. LAWRENCE LEYTON
Bernardo	MR. KING FORDHAM
Francisco	MR. ROLAND PERTUIS
Reynaldo	MR. W. GRAHAM
First Player	MR. FRANK COCHRANE
Second Player	MR. ALEX. SCOTT-GATTY
Priest	MR. H. R. COOKE
First Gravedigger	MR. TOM REYNOLDS
Second Gravedigger	MR. ARTHUR CURTIS
Ghost of Hamlet's Father	MR. HENRY VIBART
Gertrude	MISS ESME BERINGER
Ophelia	MISS DOROTHEA BAIRD
Player Queen	MISS DORA BARTON

A concession to a generally expressed desire has been made by Mr. H. B. Irving in his revival for a series of matinées at the Queen's of Hamlet, and a house well filled in the popular parts accorded hearty support on Wednesday. That the educational opportunities thus afforded were taken advantage of was proved by the presence among the audience of a large number of children, who were enabled to enjoy the beauties of Shakespeare's sublime verse allied to acting of the most eloquent description. Mr. Irving's Hamlet is, up to the present, the crowning achievement of a career marked by unfailing brilliancy. The part suits his personality more than any other in the wide range of his répertoire, and, by its subtlety, its elocutionary skill, its almost morbid melancholy, and its infinite variety, fascinates and thrills. If there is one scene more than another that dwells vividly in the memory it is that of the play, when the young Prince grovels on the floor, awaiting with feverish impatience for some sign of his uncle's guilt, until he springs to his feet with a ferocity that sends the monarch fleeing in terror from the room. One recalls with pleasure, too, Hamlet's interview with his mother, in which the mental anguish of the young Prince is indicated by faltering tones and emotional accents. Mr. Irving's Hamlet is as finished a study of the arduous rôle as can be furnished by the contemporary stage, and many recalls awaited the fall of each curtain.

A triumph is also achieved by Miss Dorothea Baird, whose gentle and submissive Ophelia of the earlier acts hardly prepares the spectator for the frenzy of the later. Sweet sadness and dreary despair are pictured in the "mad" scene when Ophelia's plaintive accents give a true sense of the utter desolation that chills the heart of the demented girl. The scene exercised an irresistible effect, and secured the actress a special call.

The cast of the present revival differs in some particulars from that of the recent Festival performance at His Majesty's, when Mr. Frank Tyars was unable through illness to play the part of the King. Mr. Tyars is now restored to health, and gives a robust performance of the unscrupulous King, majestic in mien but unrelenting in villainy. Mr. Charles Allan has succeeded to the part of Polonius, of which he gives a whimsical rendering, betraying by many clever touches the vanity and conceit of the old man.

Miss Esmé Beringer repeats her assumption of the Queen which won merited eulogium on the recent performance at His Majesty's. Her portrayal is an artistic and impressive one, and marks her out as a real Shakespearean tragedienne. Miss Dora Barton invests the Player Queen with commendable clearness of voice and regal appearance; and Mr. Frank Cochrane is excellent as the First Player.

The rich tones of Mr. Henry Vibart's voice vibrate powerfully in the speeches of the Ghost, whose momentous utterances are delivered with admirably judged emphasis. Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore is as virile and outspoken a Laertes as could be wished; and Mr. Eille Norwood again makes a comely figure of Horatio, and displays dramatic skill in a consistent rendering of the part. Rosencrantz and Guildenstein have courtly exponents in Mr. Stanley Howlett and Mr. J. Patric Curwen; and Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton and Mr. King Fordham effectively realise Marcellus and Bernardo. Mr. Tom Reynolds's exposition of the First Gravedigger's quaint philosophy, somewhat curtailed from the original, is distinctly droll; Mr. H. R. Cooke expresses himself with commendable clearness as the Priest; and as Osric Mr. Stuart Musgrove is praiseworthy. The special matinées of Hamlet are to be continued on Wednesdays, the 11th and 18th

ECCENTRIC CLUB CONCERT.

The Eccentric Club held its Ladies' Annual Concert at the Connaught Rooms this year. The festival is always looked forward to with much pleasure, and last Tuesday's proved no exception to the rule. The genial Mr. Richard Warner received the artists to lunch in the Crown Room, where Mr. Jack Harrison, Mr. William White, Mr. S. Pallant, and other of the stewards made the time pass merrily enough. It is somewhat difficult to make distinctions in such a long array of talent as that which appeared at the concert which followed. Miss Florence Venning sang a charming ballad, with violin accompaniment. Miss Rachael Walker delighted everyone by her remarkably fine rendering of an operatic selection. It is sufficient merely to mention the names of artists like Mr. Arhtur Prince, the ventriloquist, and Mr. Horace Golden, the conjurer, to indicate how the ladies enjoyed their entertainments. Pretty Miss Ruby Wilson contributed a song; imitations by Mr. J. J. Dallas and Mr. Gilbert Girard were much appreciated; a very beautiful child, Miss Norah Roylance, danced with much grace; Miss Elsie Southgate played the violin with depth of feeling, her technique being admirable; Mr. Walter Walters talked about his eyeglass; and Mr. Tom Clare's song "When the cow died" created roars of laughter. The Hon. Mrs. Stuart Anderson sang, Miss Gertrude Shrivington was warmly applauded, Miss Gladys Archbutt gave an Irish song, Miss Eily Beadell rendered "Pretty bird" pleasingly, Miss Clara Hubbard supplied a clever skit on the art of acting and showed fine dramatic force, and Miss Muriel Harding did some powerful imitations, that of Madame Jane Hading being very clever. Mr. Chas. Wreford, Mr. Sam Spira, Mr. Nelson Keys, Mr. Norman London, Miss Olive Fox, Miss Mary Wynne Hulm, and others contributed largely to an excellent entertainment.

Mr. Norfolk Megone's orchestra performed in the balcony of the lofty Connaught Room, which provided excellent accommodation; and the tables, banked with beautiful bouquets for the artists, looked sweet and refreshing.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council meeting held on May 3, at 32, Regent-street. Present: Mr. Clarence Derwent (in the chair), Messrs. Cyril Cattley, Fred Morland, Edward Morgan, F. J. Arlton, Chris Walker, Langford Reed, C. Hayden Coffin, Robson Paige, F. H. de Quincey, C. F. Collings, Murri Moncrieff, Miss Joan Pereira, Miss Rose Cazalet, and Mr. D. Young, secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The secretary presented a statement showing receipts from all sources to date, also an approximate list of outstanding payments due and the financial status of the Association up to April 30. The Council thanked the secretary for his clear statement, which was very satisfactory.

The following circular was ordered to be sent to all members whose subscriptions were outstanding:—"The Council of the Actors' Association beg to inform you that your subscription for the current year is still unpaid. The Association having informed you already of this fact, you are requested to note that this is the final reminder. Members who have not paid their subscriptions, or at least two quarters, by May 31 will be struck off the books, and not permitted to use the rooms of the Association."

The Finance Committee's report was submitted by Mr. F. J. Arlton, and adopted. The secretary reported four engagements through the Agency.

With reference to a circular from the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre, the secretary was directed to write to the chairman of that committee stating that so long as the Council of the A.A. had no official representative on the National Theatre Committee they must decline to have anything to do with the matter.

In reply to an entry in the Suggestion Book, the secretary was instructed to display a notice to the effect that no member will be allowed to retain the use of The Era or other paper longer than ten minutes after being requested for its use by any member.

Elections: Louise Melville and Campbell Cargill. Nominations: Lyonel Watts and Leon Quartermaine.

NEW THEATRICAL WATERING-PLACE.

In an article which recently appeared in the local and county Press regarding Blyth, Northumberland, the suitability of the place as a "booking" for touring proprietors and managers is explained. Last year its coal exportation alone amounted to 4,063,251 tons, and to keep pace with its continual and rapid rise of export the Commissioners have spent something like £1,000,000 in deepening the river, making dock accommodation, erecting greater and more numerous coal staithes and quays, and in protecting the harbour. In the space of a few months a big fish industry has been created, which has brought to Blyth about 1,000 girls and between 500 and 600 men, and double that number are expected before the end of this month. Up to the present 18,000 loads of timber have been landed, an increase of no less than 10,000 loads over the previous twelve months. The plans of Lord Ridley, the landowner, include a sea-wall and esplanade along the Links, a pleasure pier, and a new Grand Avenue from Newsham Station to the Links. This avenue is to be 100ft. wide along the first half of the distance, and is to open out to the magnificent width of 250ft. on to the seashore. All these facts point to the conclusion that Blyth is a good paying theatrical place, and will be more than good in the near future.

THE Prince and Princess of Wales and Princes Edward and Albert witnessed the performance of The Merchant of Venice at His Majesty's Theatre on the evening of the 29th ult.

"HELENA'S PATH."

Comedy, in Three Acts, by Anthony Hope and Cosmo Gordon Lennox, Produced at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday, May 3.

The Marchesa di San Servolo	MISS IRENE VANBRUGH
Lady Norah Mountliffey	MISS MARY JERROLD
Miss Gilletson	MISS MARY BARTON

Helena's Path is a very pretty, bright, pleasant, vivacious, and agreeable entertainment of the stage. The story is slight, but it is not felt that it is too thin for the dialogue until near the conclusion, where a certain tendency to over-elaboration and an exaggeration of fantasy caused a feeling of strain, and on Tuesday drew some rude comments from persons in the gallery. It was, no doubt, a breach of good manners for a "god" to remark "and so say all of us!" at the end of the reading of a manifesto from one of the lovers to the other; but the authors had themselves partly to thank for the interruption. Up to that point the piece had been very favourably received, and if they can modify the "solemn-ridiculous" spirit which does undoubtedly pervade this part of the play, it will be even more certain to be repeated with success.

The Marchesa di San Servolo, a most gracious and fascinating lady, has bought the beautiful Nab Grange Estate, and we see her there with her solicitor, her companion, Miss Gilletson, her female friend, Lady Norah Mountliffey, and her military admirer, Colonel Wenman. But there is a crumpled leaf on her bed of roses. Through her garden runs a right of way, a footpath which has been used for years by the local population. The Marchesa determines to close it, barricades the gate with furze, has a large padlock affixed, and erects a notice-board stating that the garden is "Private." Her neighbour, Lord Lynborough, an adventurous "original," who has travelled in foreign parts, and is a lover of women, has been accustomed to use the path on his way to bathe, and he writes protesting against the Marchesa's high-handed proceedings. She replies in a hostile spirit, and the two parties, as her lawyer says, "join issue." Lord Lynborough has the padlock carefully removed, and sends it to the Marchesa by messenger. He then presents himself at the gate, and when Lady Norah tries to prevent his entrance by standing inside and refusing to move, he jumps over her head, and thus places himself in the garden. A stalwart retainer of the Marchesa's is ordered to arrest his progress; but his lordship throws him off his guard, pushes him down on the ground, and, having overcome all obstacles, goes calmly on his way to the bathing-place.

In the second act, on the village cricket-ground at Fillby, the parties continue their contest. Lord Lynborough, by insidious courtesy and by the temptations of a luxurious luncheon-tent, wins Miss Gilletson and the Colonel to his side, and the Marchesa, by her personal fascinations, detaches from their allegiance Lynborough's antiquarian chum, Leonard Stabb, and his secretary. Meanwhile, love has sprung up in the hearts of Lynborough and the Marchesa, neither of whom, however, will give in, though he certainly has right on his side. In the last act, he sends to her a mock-heroic document, in which he proposes to come and see her personally. When he arrives, he kneels at her feet, and finally, after pourparlers, takes her in his arms and kisses her.

The atmosphere of the play was pleasantly supplied by some delightful scenery, the Garden set for the first and third acts being especially charming, and the acting was excellent. Miss Irene Vanbrugh has seldom seemed more bewitching than she did at the Duke of York's on Tuesday in the part of the Marchesa di San Servolo. Exquisitely dressed, she endowed the character with irresistible feminity, and played the part in a piquant, yet tender, style which cast a spell over the audience, and almost completely obscured the slightness of the "story." Miss Mary Jerrold as the lively, witty, and smartly sensible Lady Norah Mountliffey acted with a crisp vivacity and a merry animation which deserved warm praise; and Mr. Charles Bryant was enabled by his physical advantages to present a very real and plausible portraiture of the adventurous Lord Lynborough, acting throughout with ease and ability. Mr. Charles Maude did admirable work as Roger Wilbraham; and Mr. Arthur Whitby gave a quaint and humorous reading of the rôle of Leonard Stabb. Mr. O. P. Heggie was entirely effective as Mr. Stillford; and a quaint, well-controlled, and very natural performance was supplied by Mr. Frederick Lloyd as Colonel Wenman, Mr. Leslie Carter being distinctly humorous as John Goodenough, and Mr. Whitford Kane contributing a clever sketch of low comedy as Mr. Peters. Mr. C. E. Vernon made the small part of Green stand out by bold and firm treatment; and Mr. W. Williams and Mr. E. Sidney were seen to advantage as a Photographer and a Yokel, Mr. Harold Chapin being efficient as a Footman. Miss Mary Barton played Miss Gilletson with much tact and thoughtfulness, the diffidence and anxiety of the companion, and her struggle between inclination and customary rule being quite cleverly indicated. The earlier acts of Helena's Path were evidently enjoyed, and all that the piece needs is a little closing up and condensation in the approach to what everyone sees from the first is the inevitable end. The new piece is preceded by The Twelve Pound Look, in which Mr. Edmund Gwenn and Miss Mary Barton repeat their previous successes; and Miss Hilda Trevelyan gives a very clever and quite original rendering of the rôle of Kate, previously performed by Miss Lena Ashwell.

Knight Thoughts.

"THE ARCADIANS" appears to be running as strongly in New York as in London, and Mr. Percival Knight, who is playing the part of the lugubrious jockey who never wins a race is referred to in one of the New York journals in the following lines, which smack of "Father O'Flynn":—

"Percival Knight, there's a delicate quality
Shown in the gravity of your frivolity,
Shown in a lack of the obvious jollity,
Making comedians mournfully trite.
Many the jesters that sadden and weary us,
But, with your manner impassive and serious,
Nose that is vinous and voice that is beeryous,
Percival, you are a joy and delight.
Percival, when you us
Touch with your tenuous,
Quiet, unstrenuous,
'Merry and b-r-right'
Manner, we say to you,
'Briton, good-day to you,
Whoop! and hooray!' to you,
Percival Knight!"

AN extra matinée will be given on Whit Monday of Mr. Frederick Melville's successful play The Bad Girl of the Family, which is still drawing crowds to the Aldwych.

When a play has started by being a French philosophical satire, has been transformed into a Parisian dramatic success, and, finally, has become a rousing comedy with a predominant part for the principal performer, it is not necessary to catalogue it too carefully. We have simply to take it for what it is worth at present; and certainly Mr. Paul M. Potter's workmanlike adaptation of M. Emile Fabre's version of Balzac's Ménage de Garçon fulfilled all the functions of amusement up to the end of its third act. The infatuation of an old man for a pretty woman young enough to be his daughter is always effectively comic on the stage, and this is the leading motive of Parasites. Old Jean Jacques Rouget has taken to himself as mistress and housekeeper a handsome young peasant, Flora Brazier, and she has obtained complete command over him. The old man's avarice, however, is at war with his infatuation with Flora, and she has to work hard in order to get him even to consider the notion of making over to her his personal property. This once attained, Flora intends to run away to Paris with a good-looking young officer, Commandant Max Gilet, who frequents Rouget's house. When affairs are in this state, Madame Bridau, Rouget's sister, comes to Issoudun and asks him to advance a sum of money to help her son, Colonel Philippe Bridau, who is in prison awaiting his trial for an alleged conspiracy against the Government. On being refused, Madame Bridau reproaches her brother with his subjection to Flora, and alludes to the latter's intrigue with Gilet. Flora, however, asserts her influence on old Rouget, and by feminine wiles, furious protestations, and hysterics, makes him promise to have nothing to do with his relatives. The latter are entirely defeated, and Max and Flora are triumphant, when, at the end of the first act, Colonel Philippe Bridau, who has been acquitted on the charge of conspiracy, arrives on the scene. He is a Napoleonic swashbuckler, all vigour, audacity, acuteness, and bluster, and he demands to see his uncle.

It now becomes a duel of wits between Flora and Philippe, and the contest is very brisk and spirited. In order to soften Rouget, Flora, at the advice of Max, pretends to run away to Bourges, where Rouget's notary lives, so that the old man may follow her and be induced to make the desired arrangement as to his personal property. But she has reckoned without Philippe, who explains to his uncle the character and intentions of Flora, and informs him of her relations with Gilet. Philippe also extracts from Rouget information as to the extent to which his uncle's senile credulity has already gone, and obtains possession of a will leaving Flora everything. He meets every move of her's and Max's with a clever counter-stroke, and at the end of the second act remains master of the situation.

It is evident to Max that his audacious enemy must be "removed," and this Max proposes to do by a duel. Philippe has given out—quite falsely—that his sword-arm has grown weak, and Max thinks that if he can manage so that he shall be the insulted party, he may get the choice of weapons, and select swords

In the third act old Rouget has conceived a bitter hatred for Max, and implores Philippe to kill him, which Bridau is quite ready to do. Some of the exiled Napoleon's old officers are the guests of Rouget; and, as they are carousing, Bridau enters, and is introduced. He is warmly received as a martyr to the cause; but Max, at the first opportunity, picks a quarrel with him. Philippe is quite ready to take offence, and insults Gilet unmistakably. A duel is arranged, Max having the choice of weapons. Flora, who fears for her lover, tries all her tricks to soften and delude Philippe, who lets her exercise her most seductive fascinations, and then laughs at her..

The last act strikes a weak and unexpected note. Flora, whose hatred for Philippe is now intense, encourages Max's faithful servant Ors' Anto to assassinate Bridau as he is approaching in a fog. A shot is heard, and Philippe enters, making the dry remark that "there is a man outside who requires attention." And then he turns Flora out of doors, and sits down to dinner with his uncle and his mother.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier is an adept in the art of finding parts which suit him exactly, and we can imagine him revelling in that of Colonel Philippe Bridau in Parasites. The play up to the end of the third act brims over with incident and energy, and Mr. Bourchier dominates the action in his inimitable "bluff" and his quaint and almost impish drollery. His performance as the comic "swaggerer" is one which it is impossible to forget, and amusing to remember. Miss Constance Collier enacts Flora Brazier with rare zest and ability, the sharp, sly, yet active and ardent character of the adventuress, her tricks and grimaces, and her occasional earnestness and sincerity being admirably expressed. Mr. A. E. George gives a marvellously realistic representation of amorous old age as Jean Jacques Rouget. His make-up, attitudes, and voice are excellent, and his analysis of the character is exceedingly acute. Mr. Norman Trevor is exactly fitted for the part of Max. He presents a faithful picture of the mixture of soldier and parasite, and plays the part with much subtlety and spirit. Mr. Acton Bond has few opportunities as Joseph Bridau, but in a little episode connected with some pictures he acts with all the necessary ease and ability; and Mr. Drelincourt Odlum is excellent as the harassed corn dealer, Borniche. The invited officers are nicely distinguished by Messrs. Bertram Forsyth, Frederic Sargent, Frank Atherley, and George Bealby; and Mr. Oscar Adye is effectively earnest and intense as Ors' Anto, Mr. Dallas Cairnes being smart and brisk as Kouski. Miss Marie Linden plays Madame Bridau distinctly and decidedly, and Miss Rose Dupré is acceptable and amusing as La Vedie. The piece was well produced by Mr. Gustav Von Seyfertitz, of the Empire Theatre, New York, and Miss Collier's pretty dresses were made by Lucile, Ltd.

MR. W. PAYNE SEDDON'S tenure of the Theatre Royal, Loughborough, was wound up on the evening of the 29th ult. by a complimentary benefit to him. J. M. Barrie's charming little play The Professor's Love Story being cleverly rendered before a good house. The cast included Mr. and Mrs. W. Payne Seddon as Henders and Lucy White respectively, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pope as Professor Goodwille and Effie, ably supported by a number of local amateurs. The piece was stage-managed by Mr. T. M. Green, and the special scenery introduced was very effective. At the close of the play Mr. Payne Seddon came before the curtain and made a capital speech appropriate to the occasion.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, April 27.—The revival of Caste at the Empire Theatre last Monday has aroused more interest than many a new production. The newspapers have devoted columns to the history of this fine old play and the performance at the Empire. It is forty-three years ago this very month that it was first produced at the Prince of Wales's Theatre. The Americans snapped it up immediately, and it was done here at the Broadway Theatre in the following August. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence and Mrs. G. H. Gilbert were members of the company. The last notable revival of the play in this city occurred at the Knickerbocker Theatre on January 18, 1897, when Mr. John Hare (as he was then) and the Garrick Theatre company visited America. Mr. Hare was Eccles; Mr. Frank Gilmore, George D'Alroy; Mr. Frederic Kerr, Hawtree; Mr. Gilbert Hare, Sam Gerridge; Miss Susie Vaughan, the Marquise; Miss Mona K. Oram, Esther; and Miss May Harvey, Polly. Three members of the company now appearing at the Empire Theatre took part in the important revival of Caste at the Haymarket Theatre in 1902, namely, Miss Marie Tempest, Mr. Julian Royce, and Mr. Browne. In the present revival Mr. Browne not only appears as Sam Gerridge, but is responsible for the stage-management, and his work in both directions has received well-deserved praise.

Mr. G. P. Huntley as Eccles was a revelation, as he had been seen previously in musical comedy only. As the lazy, drunken, and loquacious old man he was splendid. As the witty and light-hearted Polly, Miss Tempest was a constant delight. What a favourite she is on this side of the water! Mr. Julian Royce was a capital Hawtree, and Mr. Edwin Arden was very good as the lisping D'Alroy. Miss Elsie Ferguson scored a distinct success as Esther, and Miss Maud Milton was an excellent Marquise. The audience was large and enthusiastic. One newspaper says the revival ought to run till next September, and another remarks that if this is a "cup-and-saucer comedy" the public would like a whole set of dishes of the same sort.

Mme. Nazimova opened the theatre that bears her name on the 18th inst., appearing as Rita Allmers in the first performance here in English of Ibsen's Little Eyolf. New playhouses have been springing up in such profusion in this city of late that one more opening attracts little more than ordinary attention. Nazimova's Thirty-ninth-street Theatre, to give the house its full title, is almost next door to Maxine Elliott's Theatre, and directly opposite the side entrance of the Casino. The Shuberts book the attractions for all three of them. The new theatre is one of the smallest playhouses in the city, having a seating capacity of less than 700. The exterior of the building is in the style of the Italian Renaissance. The interior decorations are in the Louis XVI. style, with ornamentations in plaster relief work, the colour scheme being old rose, with antique gold bronze decorations. The building is completely detached, as all theatres erected in this city have to be under the new building and fire laws. The older theatres have no side courts opening directly into the street. The little theatre has a very cosy and tasteful appearance.

Mme. Nazimova gave a highly intelligent and effective portrayal of the Ibsen heroine, who is so strangely jealous of her own child that her husband even accuses her of wishing that little Eyolf were dead. Early in the first act the crippled boy falls from a wharf and is drowned, and the rest of the play is made up of lamentation and remorse. Little Eyolf is supposed to be "lured" into the water by the Rat Wife, a mysterious beldame who in early life lured men by means of her beauty. As the audience sees her she is an old hag who rids houses of rats by luring them into the water with the aid of a dog. Miss Gertrude Berkeley's embodiment of this repulsive creature was sufficiently realistic and vivid to cause a general shudder. Miss Ida Conquest acted Asta Allmers in a sympathetic and womanly way, and made a very good impression. Mr. Brandon Tynan as Alfred Allmers and Mr. Robert T. Haines as the engineer Borgheim played their parts well. Master George Tobin was clever as little Eyolf.

"Molly May," a comic opera in three acts, by Walter Browne and Julian Edwards, has been well received at the Hackett Theatre. Miss Grace La Rue, from the vaudeville houses, is the "star," and Mr. James E. Sullivan, the "polite lunatic" of The Bells of New York, is the chief comedian. Mr. Sydney Grant, another vaudeville favourite, plays Jack Willoughby, a clubman, and makes a big hit. As a singer and dancer he is decidedly clever. There are more than twenty numbers, and the most popular of these are "I only drink for friendship's sake, but I have a lot of friends," "A baby grand," "Clap hands," and "Molly May," an entrancing waltz that runs through the opera. The story is all about an old gentleman and his son-in-law, who attend a ball and become involved in a flirtation with Molly May, which leads to all sorts of humorous complications. Miss La Rue is very popular, and deservedly so, for she sings and dances delightfully and wears the sort of costumes that the ladies describe as "perfect dreams."

"The Spendthrift," a play in four acts, by Porter Emerson Browne, was produced at the Hudson Theatre on the 11th inst. Frances Ward, who brings her husband to ruin by her extravagance, is the spendthrift of the title. Richard Ward is very much in love with his wife, and lets her have her own way in everything. When she learns that he needs twenty thousand dollars to save him from bankruptcy she procures the money. Richard supposes that she has obtained it from a rich aunt, but he learns that it came from a man named Thorne, who never gave anything without receiving something in return. In spite of his wife's denials and Thorne's corroboration of her statements, Richard believes the worst of her. She leaves him, but he discovers his mistake and a reconciliation follows. The play is cleverly acted, the company having been well chosen. Mr. Edmund Breese plays Richard Ward in his forceful and incisive way, and adds one more to his series of successful characterisations. The dialogue is witty and provokes much laughter.

Miss Olga Nethersole began an engagement at the Academy of Music, New York, on the 18th ult., appearing in Sapho. As the heroine of Daudet's novel, adapted for the stage by the late Clyde Fitch, Miss Nethersole invariably plays to large and appreciative audiences. She has acted the part nearly two thousand times, and her portrayal is so powerful that it leaves a lasting impression. Miss Nethersole was ably supported by Miss Charlotte Tittell, Miss Alice Gordon, Messrs. Harrison Hunter, O. B. Clarence (Cesaire Gaussin), Albert Perry, and Hamilton Mott. Four plays from her répertoire, Carmen, Camille, The Writing on the Wall, and The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, are the offerings for this week.

Miss Pauline Chase has taken to America with her a number of "golliwogs" made by "Gladys." These dolls are caricatures of well-known actors and actresses modelled in lamp-shade paper, and those that accompany the popular Peter Pan include such favourites as Harry Lauder, Marie Lloyd, George Robey, Gertie Millar, Vesta Tilley, Joseph Coyne, Maud Allan, Violet Vanbrugh (as the Woman in the Case). Happy Fanny Fields, Chantecler, and last, but not least, Miss Chase herself, as Peter. Similar dolls, representing the principal characters in Our Miss Gibbs and The Dollar Princess, may be seen in the smoking saloon of the Gaiety Theatre and the foyer of Daly's.

Miss Nannie Goldman and company are presenting the farcical comedy, Not Before the Missus, at the Theatre Royal, Margate. Mr. William Holles as Bunstone and Miss Nannie Goldman as Jane have been remarkably successful in their respective rôles. Miss Ruth Wallace has also given a vigorous presentment of the part of Matilda Hanbury, and efficient support has been given by the other members of the company, especially Miss Pollie Walton as Mrs. Constance Bunstone, Miss Helene Dale as Julia and Miss Edith Bruce as Bessie (Bunstone's daughters), Mr. Leonard K. Mansford as Augustus Whistler, Mr. Francis James as Vandyke Brown, and Messrs. Fred Cooke, W. P. Boyle, Toby Jones, and G. Winchester in the remaining characters in the cast.

Mr. Henry Arthur Jones, lecturing on Wednesday night at the galleries of the Royal Society of British Artists, at a conversazione in connection with the Ethological Society, on "The Delineation of Character in Drama," ventured to affirm that a play to be permanently successful—to have a three-weeks' hold upon any theatre-going public that was, or ever would be, in existence—must always have a definite connected series of doings, and not an indefinite unconnected series of sayings. Let them pour as many ideas as they pleased into the play; let them open their treasures of philosophy and ram their moral ideas down the throats of the public; but let them do all this implicitly, and, as it were, unconsciously, behind a carefully planned scheme of action. If they could not do this let them put their ideas and their philosophy into a pamphlet.

There is a rather good story of an American actor going the rounds just now, and which concerns a hitherto unpublished incident which took place at the finish of the dress rehearsal of his play, which was successfully produced in the provinces a short time ago. This particular actor, whom we will call Mr. Z., came to this country with a terrible idea of the character of the average British stage hand. His fellow actor-managers in the States had "kidded" him that our stage men took a frantic delight in spoiling situations and scenes, and that the only way to get them to be friendly was to provide them with an unlimited allowance of beer. Mr. Z. determined to go one better than that. During rehearsals he charmed every stage hand, flyman, and limelight man with the courteous way in which he gave instructions. Early in the proceedings he notified them all that they had done so well that he intended to give them each and every one two days' extra salary. The men were delighted, and vowed they had "never had such a guv'nor." The dress rehearsal took place before "Press and friends only," and as an additional inducement to the stage staff refreshment was supplied in generous quantities. Everything went splendidly and without a hitch until the final lines were spoken and the curtain should have descended. Somebody impatiently whispered "Curtain" to the S.M., who was ringing his bell furiously. A shout of "Curtain" to the flies brought no response, and those in the auditorium tittered. Determined to be courteous to the last, Mr. Z. said: "May we have the curtain, please?" In response a loud snore was heard. On the S.M. going aloft, he found all the men up there asleep. "Well, you see," explained the head man later, "the guv'nor's such a jolly good sort, and we drank his health so much that——!"

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. HERBERT FORD.

Educated privately in London and at Bedford Grammar School, Mr. Herbert Ford left at a very early age to join his brother on a cattle ranch in Colorado, U.S.A. After two years' rough life in the West, he returned and entered his father's (an architect) office for three months. He organised a small company, playing workmen's clubs and institutes, and eventually accepted an engagement to tour as Levison in East Lynne. Then followed Our Flat and Bootles' Baby, after which he returned to town, and again took up club work with Mlle. Gratienne, which he regards as the most valuable experience of his early career, for he played over one hundred parts of every description in a little over a year, including rôles in Peril, The New Magdalen, Adrienne Lecouvreur, Esther Sandraz, Ruy Blas, and Barnes of New York. He then appeared in the Independent Theatre Society's productions, notably The Duchess of Malfi. A short tour with Miss Maude Millett in a triple bill was followed by a spring tour with Miss Fortescue with répertoire The School for Scandal, The Honourable Herbert, Comedy and Tragedy, Pygmalion and Galatea, She Stoops to Conquer, &c. Then began a long association with Mr. Frank Curzon in Tom, Dick, and Harry, during which Mr. Ford played every part possible, and incidentally in many curtain-raisers. Afterwards came a tour of Truthful James, followed by a most valuable comedy experience in Mr. Edward Terry's répertoire, playing in Sweet Lavender, An Innocent Abroad, Weak Woman, &c. During this engagement Mr. Ford had the honour of appearing twice before the King (then Prince of Wales). Forsaking comedy for a time, Mr. Ford played De Coucou in The Grip of Iron for a tour, afterwards essaying management with a melodrama of his own writing, The Mask of Death. This was not a success, and an engagement followed to play the heavy part in How London Lives. Then the late Willie Edouin engaged him to play in Qwong Hi and Our Flat for a short season, after which he created the light comedy part in The Wild Rabbit. Quite an unusual engagement followed this, Mr. George Edwardes selecting him to play Lawrance

MR. HERBERT FORD.

d'Orsay's part in The Runaway Girl, the only musical comedy in which Mr. Ford has ever played. The revival of How London Lives brought him to the Princess's Theatre, with the late Charles Warner as the star. Then came a short suburban tour of Drink and It's Never too Late to Mend, followed by an engagement at the old Strand Theatre, during the runs of Facing the Music, The Mysterious Mr. Bugle, and In the Soup. Many parts in curtain-raisers fell to Mr. Ford's share during this engagement. Then a year of "odds and ends" found him playing in The Liars, The Case of Rebellious Susan, Caste, A Marriage of Convenience, Aunt Jack, and Sunshine and Rain, leading to his engagement by the late Austin Melford for the part of Wilfred Denver (The Silver King), which Mr. Ford played during thirteen tours. Alternating with this were engagements by Mr. Fred Melville in The Beast and the Beauty, a stock season of Our Boys, The Moneyspinner, Caste, A Pair of Spectacles, Uncle; also a year's music-hall engagement, to create Tom in Three of a Kind. After The Silver King Mr. Ford was engaged to play a suburban tour as Olaf in The Prince and the Beggar Maid. A summer tour followed, to star in Captain Swift and The Idler, then a short music-hall engagement in Phillips Oppenheim's sketch, The Money Spider, while rehearsing for Hugh Coleman in Idols, the summer being again filled in at the music hall, producing his own playlet, Nerve. Mr. Ford has recently concluded a tour of The Explorer, playing Mr. Waller's part.

The funeral of the late eminent dramatist M. Björnstjerne Björnson was attended by the King and Queen of Norway. King Edward was represented by the British Minister. The orchestra of the National Theatre played Grieg's funeral march, after which the officiating clergyman spoke of Norway as M. Björnson's mother, and referred to the sincere love which existed between the author and his country.

The new City Theatre, in East Fourteenth-street, New York, was opened on the 18th ult., with Miss Anna Held in Smith and Englander's musical comedy Miss Innocence as the initial attraction. This new playhouse has a main floor almost as large as that of the Academy of Music, and three large balconies. It is directly opposite the latter house, and will undoubtedly succeed to its patronage when it eschews the drama and turns to moving pictures for its staple attraction. The architecture of the new theatre is in the style of the French Renaissance. The seating capacity is 2,500. The colour scheme of the auditorium is in rose and olive green, with the ceiling in lighter tints of rose, decorated with old gold. The house follows the modern style of theatre construction, the arrangement of the seats resembling the shape of an open fan. The owners of the City Theatre are Messrs. Timothy D. Sullivan, George J. Kraus, and William Fox.

Miss Ana Held has announced her determination not to appear on the stage again for at least two years. In 1912, her husband, Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld, expects to open his theatre, the Folies Bergère, with a genuine Parisian revue, such as has never been seen in New York. To an interviewer Miss Held said: "For the present, at least, I am tired of stage life. I am sick of its artificialities, and I want to be natural while I am still young. My intention is so well fixed that I have just refused a very big offer to play in vaudeville. I am not as rich as John D. Rockefeller, but I have a little money, and I want a rest. My work has begun to tell upon me. I have had to be so vivacious!"

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

The next meeting of the Theatrical Sports Committee will be held on Thursday, May 12, at 6 o'clock prompt, in the office, 29, Wellington-street, Strand. Mr. James Carew (chairman) has arranged to be present. All those who wish to submit suggestions regarding the arrangements or the programme of events for the consideration of the committee should send them in writing to the hon. secretary in time for this meeting.

A general meeting of the members of the Operators' Association was held on Tuesday, at 10.30 a.m., at 29, Wellington-street, Strand, Mr. A. Malcolm (president) in the chair. There was a good attendance of members. A number of new members were elected, and the question of a minimum rate of pay for each class of business was further considered. Several offers of halls for Sunday shows were reported.

The Amalgamated Musicians' Union is taking up a strong attitude on the Sunday entertainment question, and, in view of its very largely-increased membership in London, its action will have considerable effect. The entrance fee for membership of the London Branch has been increased to £1 1s. The following resolution is being submitted to the vote of the members of the Union:—

"That, in order to safeguard those engaged in the entertainment profession from a compulsory seven day's week, and to strengthen the hands of the Sunday Defence Committee, consisting of the Variety Artists' Federation, the Amalgamated Musicians' Union, and the National Association of Theatrical Employees, no member of the A.M.U. shall be allowed to take part in Sunday concerts, except those given by the National Sunday League, the Queen's Hall Sunday Concert Society, the Royal Albert Hall Sunday Concert Society, the Beecham Orchestra, or any society affiliated to the Sunday Defence Committee."

The Sunday Defence Committee have prepared a pamphlet for publication, giving full particulars of its aims and objects. This will be distributed free to members of the profession, and, as the matter is of the greatest importance to actors, artists, musicians, operators, and employees generally, the committee hope that all concerned will obtain a copy of this pamphlet and carefully consider its contents. Copies may be obtained from Mr. Wm. Johnson, hon. secretary, 29, Wellington-street, Strand, London, W.C.

The staff of the Colosseum Theatre, Oldham, were successful in finishing second in the competition promoted by the Oldham F.C., winning silver watches. The close of the game saw them beaten by seventeen points to nothing.

A caution to neglectful servants was given at the Marylebone Children's Court on Monday, when Mrs. James Hearn, wife of the popular actor, residing at 46, Alexandra-road, South Hampstead, summoned her former nursemaid for neglecting, abandoning, and exposing her thirteen-month-old baby girl, Beatrice, in a manner likely to cause the child unnecessary suffering or injury to health. The prosecution stated that Mrs. Hearn had three children, aged thirteen months, three years, and four years. On the evening of April 16, Mr. and Mrs. Hearn went out together, leaving the three children at home with the defendant, the housemaid, and the cook. Their intention was to dine out, but Mrs. Hearn afterwards decided to return home after dinner, and on arriving about 8.30 she was astonished to discover that all the servants had gone out, leaving the children entirely unprotected.

Candles, lamps, and gas-jets were alight in the house, and serious accidents might have happened had the children got up, which they might well have done, as there had been a thunderstorm. As it was, the baby was crying in the nursemaid's bedroom, but fortunately nothing serious occurred. The nursemaid was expressly left in charge of the baby, but nothing more was seen of her until after she had been served with a summons. While not desiring to press the case vindictively, Mrs. Hearn regarded the matter as being very important, and thought it was one that ought to be brought before the Court.

Defendant said she understood from the housemaid that Mrs. Hearn would return about eight o'clock, and as they were all very miserable they decided to go, and left the house at eight o'clock. Mr. Paul Taylor told her that her conduct showed a very inadequate consciousness of her duty as a nurse to the children committed to her care. She had been guilty of a serious moral delinquency, and as a warning to other nursemaids he fined her 40s.

Miss Florence Tyrrell's company is appearing in The Woman in the Case at the Theatre Royal, Worthing. Miss Tyrrell as Claire Foster shares the honours with Miss Beth Elliot in the rôle of Margaret Rolfe. Each has a part of infinite possibilities and strong characterisation, to which full justice is done. Mr. W. T. Elworthy as Thompson is admirably suited; Mr. Cecil Newton plays the part of Julian Rolfe with admirable restraint; Miss Ethel Lodge provides a delightful touch of comedy as Mrs. Hughes; and the other parts are capably filled by Mr. Sidney Porter (Jimmy O'Neil), Mr. Bruce Lindley (Louis Klauffsky), Mr. Geo. Owen (Walters), Mr. Stuart Clother (Inspector Williams), Miss Gwynfa Lewins (Elsie Brewster), Miss Lillian Perrott (Dora Miller), and Miss Eily Wilson (Louise Mane).

In Vol. III. of "The Drama" an account of the origin of Oliver Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer is given, in which a jest is ascribed to a Mr. Grummet, of Lincolnshire, as practised on a commercial traveller. In Otridge's splendid edition of his works, the scene is laid in the town of Ardagh in Ireland, and in the Supplement to the Gentleman's Magazine, Vol. XC., the subject of the comedy is attributed to a circumstance of the poet's own life as follows:—Some friend had given the young poet a present of a guinea, on his going from his mother's residence in the town of Ballymahon to a school in Edgeworth's Town, where it appears he finished his education, of which he received the rudiments from the Rev. Mr. Hughes, vicar of the parish of Ballymahon. He had diverted himself on the way, the whole day, by viewing the gentlemen's seats on the road until nightfall, when he found himself a mile or two out of his direct road, in the middle of the street of Ardagh. Here he inquired for the best house in the place, meaning an inn; but being wilfully misunderstood by a wag, a fencing-master of the name of Kelly, who boasted of having been the instructor of the celebrated Marquis of Granby, he was directed to the large old-fashioned residence of Sir Ralph Fetherstone, the landlord of the town, where he was shown into the parlour, when he found the hospitable master of the house sitting by a good fire. His mistake was immediately perceived by Sir Ralph, who, being a man of humour, and well acquainted with the poet's family, encouraged him in the deception. Goldsmith ordered a good supper, invited his host and the family to partake of it, treated them with a bottle or two of wine, and at going to bed ordered a hot cake to be prepared for his breakfast; nor was it till his departure, when he called for the bill, that he discovered, that, while he imagined he was at an inn, he had been hospitably entertained in a private family of the first rank in the country.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

SYDNEY, March 29.—Mr. J. C. Williamson produced Puccini's opera Madame Butterfly at the Theatre Royal on the 26th. Signor Roberto Hazon, reimported for the occasion, conducted, and an enormous house listened and watched. The one-act play was well known here, having been acted by Miss Ethel Knight Mollison (now Mrs. Alderman T. H. Kelly) to open the rebuilt Her Majesty's Theatre. Mlle. Bel Sorel was the present Cho Cho San, and her piquant characteristics and clear-cut voice suited the part of the naval officer's betrayed plaything. Mr. John Zerga, a pronouncedly Italian singer, was the Lieutenant Pinkerton. Signor Antonio Zanelli acted and sang the part of the kind-hearted American Consul admirably. Miss Rosina Buckmann, albeit Suzuki's music was lowered to suit the "star's" range, sang her portion delightfully, and made one wish to hear her as the Geisha wife. Miss Fanny Bauer had little to sing and less to do as Mrs. Pinkerton.

Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton, under the management of Sir Rupert Clarke and Mr. Clyde Meynell, changed their bill to As You Like It.

"Aladdin" at Her Majesty's is filling the J. C. Williamson treasury, and delighting the many thousands now in the city for the Royal Agricultural Easter Show.

At the Palace Messrs. Allan Hamilton and Max Maxwell have a fine company, playing Woman and Wine, headed by Miss Beatrice Day, who plays the heroine, May Andrews, as Miss Beatrice Day plays every part given to her. Miss Jenny Pollock is the adventuress, Marcelle Rigadout, and her duel with Miss Vera Kernee (La Colombe) is one of the features of the performance. Mr. Max Maxwell is the hero, Dick Seymour, a pronounced success; and Mr. Arthur Styan enthralls the audience with his strong delineation of Caliban. Mr. Charles Brown has a good time making fun as Professor Sawter. The aggressive widow, Janet Marlow, has Miss Muriel Dale to care for her peculiarities.

The Tivoli has Mr. Harry Rickards' biggest card in the not-to-be-fettered Houdini. His performance is as amazing as it is costly, and the booking to see him eclipses all Tivoli records. To describe Houdini and his work would be to insult your readers, who must all have seen him many a time and oft. The Wille Brothers, Olga Grey, Maud Fanning, Lily Langtry, the Two Prices, the Three Mascottes, Ted Kalman, Les Warton, George Sorlie, Tom Dawson, Hilda Lane (the fine soprano), Dorothy Fottils, and Brown and Robinson are some of Mr. Rickards' big list of fine performers at the Tivoli.

Wirth's Circus opened on Easter Eve in Prince Alfred Park. Master Welby Cooke, bearer of an honoured name in equestrian circles when Hengler reigned supreme, is an attractive rider. Every item in a long ring and menagerie programme is of high order, and the audiences are large.

The manager of a Vienna municipal theatre has received a play in thirty-five acts and a prologue, the author promising to call and explain the beauties of his work. It is stated that the manager has sought refuge in flight.

Dr. John Warriner, in his inaugural address at the opening of the new term course on the training of teachers at the Trinity College of Music, lectured on "The curse of the musical profession." He said that it was doubtful how far the organisation of specialists benefited art, though the process might be necessary for the protection of the individual. Professional etiquette should be founded on ethics and not on selfishness; the basis should be the common good and not that of individuals. The ignorance, apathy, and indifference of the general public was often made an excuse for a low standard of aim on the part of the teacher or artist, but such a policy in the long run defeated itself.

There were many curses of the musical profession, but the worst lay in the professionalising and degrading of art, and in the members of it acting unfairly and ungenerously towards each other. Public taste had improved very considerably during the past twenty years, and it must be their aim to improve it still further. At the same time they must not lose sight of the fact that they must, to a large extent, give the public the kind of music that it wanted, and not merely what they thought it should have. A fatal mistake made by many English people was that of selling the customer what they thought he ought to have rather than what he wanted.

Mr. Sidney Lee, in a lecture entitled "Shakespeare's Conception of Tragedy," before the Elizabethan Literary Society at Toynbee Hall on Wednesday, dealt entirely with Othello. He said the deep impression that Othello had made on the popular mind was proved by its many contributions to popular speech. In point of construction it was the very best of the tragedies. Every incident had an immediate bearing on the main issue and there was no halting in the action. The progress was in regular order, nicely balanced, and held one spell-bound from end to end. The play had the advantage over Hamlet that it dealt with a subject not remote from common experience, in the hero's distrust of his wife's fidelity; but for artistic purposes and to avoid the pitfall of being too realistic the scene was laid on unfamiliar ground in Cyprus, while the hero was a Moor, and Desdemona was the daughter of a Venetian Senator. The story would have been insupportable without a touch of romance. Otherwise the personages were such as might be met with in ordinary life, but no two characters ever excited pity in quite the same degree as Othello and Desdemona.

The master-touch was seen in the way Iago wove his spider's web out of the very good nature of his victims, and in his gradual shaking and ultimate shattering of Othello's peace of mind. Othello's was a nature that neither passion nor the fortunes of war could shake. He was not naturally jealous, and probably he was not versed in the ways of women. He was a man of action, but he had a good stock of ordinary prudence. To understand how such a man could be led to entertain suspicion it was necessary to understand Iago, who injected the jealous sentiment like an irritant poison. Iago was a perfect piece of intellectual cynicism, though apparently a bluff and humorous young officer. It was notable, however, that in all his witticisms there was a touch of malignity. The lecturer proceeded to discuss the other personalities of the tragedy, which, he said in conclusion, was a real page of human life, on which the only comment could be "Oh, the pity of it."

Miss Geraldine Farrar, of Grand Opera fame, on Tuesday afternoon sang to 1,000 convicts in the Georgia State Penitentiary, Atlanta. They had learned that Miss Farrar, together with Caruso, Scotti, and Madame Gadski, would be giving a week of grand opera in the State capital, and invited Miss Farrar to appear before them.

The soprano at once agreed, and drove to the prison, where she found the convicts, amongst whom were Mr. C. W. Morse and five other bankers once prominent in the business world, gathered in the large auditorium. Miss Farrar played her own accompaniments on the piano. Her songs included "Annie Laurie," "Coming through the rye," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River," and "Home Sweet Home."

The Value of Resiliency in Motor Tyres.

Just as speed in a car levels the hills and demonstrates valuable reserves of power, so resiliency in tyres smooths out the roads and effects incalculable economies at every mile.

The George French Troupe of cyclists and the Snow Family of skaters are creating something of a sensation in Northampton this week with their two clever shows, and are drawing crowds of delighted people to the Opera House nightly.

Miss May de Launey and her company played Caste at the Theatre Royal, Worthing, on Monday and Wednesday, the house being well filled on each occasion. Miss de Launey charmed her audience with her vivacity as Polly Eccles, and Esther found a most capable exponent in Miss Beatrice Whitney; the rôle of the Marquise de St. Maur being enacted by Miss Caroline Fenton; Eccles was exceedingly well played by Mr. Stanley Lathbury; Mr. Marcus Draper was successful as the Hon. George D'Alroy; Mr. Cecil Collins made a good-natured Captain Hawtrey; and Mr. Edgar Payne found favour in the rôle of Sam Gerridge. On Tuesday a new one-act tragedy, entitled The Law of the Zingali, from the pen of a local writer, was presented, and a notice of the production will be found in another column. In addition, the audience were treated to a delightful interpretation of the amusing play 'Op o' My Thumb and the farce Turn Him Out. For the remainder of the week the boards of the theatre are occupied by Miss Fyfe Alexander's company in A Sense of Humour.

For Sustaining the Voice.
Invaluable for ACTORS and SINGERS.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS
Gentlemen,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), Marie Roze Mapleson.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1910.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Now that the Actors' Association has comfortably settled down in its new premises in Regent Street, Piccadilly, it is interesting to recall the circumstances of its origination. The leading spirit was Mr. ROBERT COURTNEIDGE, whose recent generosity to the Fresh Air Fund has won so much well-deserved recognition. In the speech which Mr. COURTNEIDGE made at a meeting at the Victoria Hotel, Manchester, on Feb. 1, 1891, he explained that the proposed Association would be formed "for the removal of abuses and the amicable adjustment of commercial relations between managers and actors." Amongst those who wrote eagerly supporting the movement were the late Mr. CHARLES WARNER, Mr. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, Mr. FRANK COOPER, the late WILLIAM TERRISS, and Miss SUSIE VAUGHAN. Sir—then Mr.—A. W. PINERO wrote: "I am in sympathy with any measure which may be adopted to suppress the cruel bogus manager, and the framing of explicit and equitable agreements between actors and managers; and the consequent abolition of vague and obsolete provisions in such agreements also seem to me to be useful work. But I cannot help expressing a hope that no combination will be formed which has for its purpose the setting of actor against manager. Certainly I could not support a movement with such a tendency." Mr. COURTNEIDGE, in conclusion, combated the idea that there was any idea on the part of the promoters to strike. A motion that an Actors' Association should be formed on the basis of the four resolutions already passed dealing with the bogus manager, the insanitary dressing-room, and the principle of arbitration, was proposed by Mr. F. R. BENSON, seconded by Mr. BRODIE, and carried; and the Actors' Association was formed.

In a chat the other day with the earnest and energetic secretary of the Association, Mr. DUNCAN YOUNG, that gentleman informed us that—now that the Association has entirely returned to the right path, and has abandoned the regrettable errors into which it was temporarily led by evil counsellors—the Society is in a more satisfactory state than ever. The artistic temperament is always imaginative and impressionable. It is inclined, in the warmth of its heart and under the influence of eloquent argument, to believe in all sorts of short cuts to a millennium. But there is this to be said for it: as soon as it is convinced that it has been mistaken it reverts to common sense with absolute conviction. The thorough way in which, at its last election, it purged itself of its idealogues and impossiblists showed this most conclusively. The prosperity of the Actors' Association, in its reformed state, is a pleasing contrast to the fate of the unhappy Actors' Union, which, founded in March, 1907, and registered in October, 1907, as a trade union, is apparently, to all intents and purposes, extinct.

The Actors' Association was partly established to combat bogus management; and it is now busily engaged in doing so. The difficulties which it finds are those which The Era has always experienced in trying to "tackle" these gentry. In times past, when bogus management in its worst sense was much more prevalent than at present, we again and again refused advertisements from "bogus" managers, only to have them sent in later under different names. This Protean faculty of the theatrical swindler makes it very difficult to deal with him. Actors and actresses may be warned against Mr. SMITH as a "bogus" manager; but the warning is useless when he turns up as Mr. JONES, anxious to engage another company. Publishing likenesses does no good. A manager, who cannot exactly be termed a "bogus" one—for he paid his company regularly for a long period before his débâcle—has, we are credibly informed, shaved his moustache, dyed his hair, and completely altered his identity. The "bogus" manager is, indeed, as slippery as an eel.

Only one means of identification remains, the handwriting; and here the Association has adopted an excellent expedient. It files the letters of proved "bogus" managers and posts their names in its rooms, so that all who enter them may fix on their minds the "fist" of the offender. It is hardly possible for him to alter his handwriting continually, and fortunately these people do not usually indulge in the luxury of a typewriter. But, besides this, the Association keeps steadily on the track of the "bogus" manager, and makes it difficult for him to "bob up serenely" after having swindled one set of victims, in order to secure another batch.

It is satisfactory to know that, thanks no doubt to the vigilance of the Association, the "bogus" manager is gradually being stamped out. It is unfair to describe as "bogus" the too sanguine organiser of a provincial company, who by an unexpected run of bad luck, or some fatal misfortune such as illness in his company, &c., is compelled to part with his artists while they are in his debt. The old-fashioned "bogus" manager never meant to pay his company. He lived by engaging innocent novices, stage-struck incompetents, and "bogus" actors; and he never expected to make more than just sufficient to render it worth his while to leave his victims in the lurch. Of course, according to strictly logical argument, a manager ought never to embark on a tour without having at his back capital enough to provide for all imaginable mishaps and misfortunes, including strikes, "heat waves," and irresistible counter-attractions; but the theatrical business has always been a speculative one; and, in most cases, the members take risks, when they are obliged to, with their eyes open, and do not complain when the game goes against them. But there are still occasional instances of heartless dishonesty and vile trickery which should be punished with all possible severity. The difficulty, as Mr. YOUNG tells us, is to "catch your hare," and thus the Actors' Association finds plenty of work. Its members may rest assured that their interests are attended to by their council in this, as in other respects, with unflagging energy.

THE ARRIVAL OF "SMITH."

"Smith" is in London. Not Smith major, minor, minimus, or maximus, but simply plain "Smith." There is no doubt about it. He has arrived, and, unlike that bright exhalation in the evening spoken of by the late Cardinal Wolsey, he will become a permanent star. Indeed, he is by way of beating Halley's comet in the race for notoriety. As a mere matter of record, we may mention that Smith took up the part of Rolandyl, postmaster-general and assessor of taxes in the pretty and effective musical comedy Two Merry Monarchs, which was transferred on Saturday evening from the Savoy to the Strand—without Mr. C. H. Workman, the originator of the part. Who found Smith? It was the use of bold advertisement to which we may attribute his rapid run into the zone of popularity. We are told that he was chosen from a hundred others for the part which he is now playing.

If we were to enlarge on the dramatic deeds of the many distinguished actors who have given distinction to the name, from "Obi" Smith to Albert Smith, we might prove quite easily the immense versatility possessed by this most ancient and honoured family, and the latest member of it is certainly well charged with ability. The part of Rolandyl enables him to show his real grit as a comedian, and he is well endowed in every respect for the rôle. He is never lacking in comic business, and his droll expressiveness and capital elocution are at once passports to favour. He is not a mere imitator, and while brisk and alert, he is content to play his part as it is set down for him. He has a fine turn for eccentricity in his dancing, and his rendering of "What's the good of calling on a man when he's out?" is genuinely droll. In a word, "Smith" is a great success, and "Philip" is his front name.

Mr. Lennox Pawle's Utops has gained in whimsicality since the first night, and he is particularly good in the number "I'm one of the boys." He is indeed a jocund monarch. Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., as King Paul of Esperanto, with a penchant for shady conduct, has added many little touches of humour to his impersonation; and Mr. Leslie Stiles makes a bright and breezy Helvanoise. Mr. Hayden Coffin has taken the place of Mr. Roland Cunningham as Prince Charmis, returning to the musical comedy stage in a character to which he does complete justice. He is well served in the ballad "The love of my life." Of the brightness of Miss Daisy Le Hay as Princess Cynthia we have before spoken; and though the impersonation has gained in freedom, it is one of supreme delicacy and charm. Miss Alma Barber's Iris, too, has gained in animation and grace; and the speeches of the public agitator Caroline lose nothing of their force or spirit in the keeping of Miss Lily Mills. Mr. Neville George is responsible for a clever study of the ancient Mandamus, Lord Chief Justice of Utopia; Mr. Francis Pater puts plenty of character into his sketch of the head flunkey at the Palace; Mr. Alfred Vigay as Prince Frederick is eloquent in his every gesture. The ladies-in-waiting make a pretty sextette. They are Miss Aileen Peel, Miss Ella Daincourt, Miss Josset Elis, Miss Joan Adair, Miss Betty Heaps, Miss Adeline Waterlow. The piece has been beautifully produced by Mr. Austin Hurgon, the manager, whose experiment of converting the Strand Theatre into a house of the musical comedy type, at popular prices, has our heartiest wishes for its success. It is an excellent idea, and if Mr. Hurgon can only maintain the standard he set last Saturday night his success is assured. With five-shilling stalls, and other prices in proportion, to say nothing about the capital entertainment provided, the fortunes of the elegant house should turn. Mr. Hurgon has a courteous acting-manager in Mr. Bernard L. Braithwaite.

"NEW HUMOUR AND OLD COMEDY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I shall be much obliged if you will allow me space enough to point out one or two trifling errors in your report of my paper on "New Humour and Old Comedy." Apart from certain patent printer's errors, you have not indicated the lacunas, which makes the matter read rather inconsequently at times. Towards the end of the second column, "Our modern dramatists do not impress me with that passionate sense of impulse" refers to the methods of Balzac alluded to by me in an omitted passage, and not to the paragraph which immediately precedes it in your report. Apologising for troubling you,—Yours faithfully, EDWARD COMPTON.

The power of the Press, magnified beyond all reason, is the motive force of The Red Herring, with the production of which the Play Actors' concluded their season on Sunday. The last has not, in this instance, proved the best, for the piece was found to be a series of shallow situations, none of which could boast the merit of originality, while the dialogue, intended to be smartly sarcastic, only occasionally succeeded.

The leading character is perhaps the best drawn if only he could be made possible. He is an intellectual genius, prepared to set the world right, from Prime Minister to police, named Casimir de Mont-Lussac, a member of the French Embassy. In such circumstances it is only mildly surprising that his uncle, the Marquis of Cottersdale, and Prime Minister of England, should come to him for aid in an extremity. We gathered that a treaty affecting some West African territory was to be signed within four days, but that an article was in preparation for an influential newspaper, which would stir up opposition and destroy the possibility of peace. The marquis wants his nephew to use his influence to prevent the appearance of the article, and the latter does so by manufacturing a counter sensation that puts the West African affair into the shade. The methods by which the end is reached are complicated. Unknown to her husband, Miriam, the marquis's young and handsome wife, has visited Casimir to ask him to allow her to negotiate at his house with a pair of blackmailers, who hold compromising letters affecting her brother, to whom she is devoted. By the exercise of approved Sherlock Holmes methods, Casimir obtains the letters; but, in revenge, the discomfited blackmailer plants the seed of jealousy in the Marquis's breast by informing him of Miriam's visit to Casimir. There is a scene between the Marquis and his wife, and Miriam leaves him in anger.

Meanwhile, Casimir has arranged to elope with the Hon. Evelyn St. Elvyn, the Marquis's ward in Chancery, her guardian withholding his consent to the marriage because he conceives it his duty to find her a husband of higher rank. Miriam has taken refuge at a bungalow in Cotterzdale Park, which is to form the headquarters for the elopement, and thither Casimir persuades the Marquis to go in order to make friends with his wife. No sooner does he enter than he is pounced upon by Casimir and his friend, a reporter for the Asmodean News Agency, and left bound to a chair, while furniture is strewn about the room in a way that gives every evidence of a burglary. Having thus engineered the desired counter-sensation, Casimir goes blithely off to his wedding, and the Asmodean reporter sees that the news appears in the morning papers, to the utter extinction of the West African business. The political trouble is thus averted, the Marquis and his wife are reconciled in a conventional way, and Casimir pockets a £50 note as the result of a bet with his uncle over his marriage with Evelyn.

The talents of an excellent cast were sparingly employed in the piece, and the very cleverness of the acting made the weakness of the play more apparent. Mr. Leon Quartermaine displayed highly agreeable light comedy gifts to advantage, but the self-satisfied smile which accompanied every observation became somewhat oppressive. Most of the other characters were simply pawns in a dramatic game of chess, with Casimir as the player. The Marquis of Cottersdale had to submit himself entirely to his nephew and few opportunities were thus given to Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton to display his skill, but he succeeded in looking the Cabinet Minister to the life. A handsome Marchioness, exquisitely gowned, was found in Miss Mary Forbes, whose emotional voice was invaluable in the brief scene where husband and wife are parted. Miss Georgette de Serville, also elegantly arrayed, was very natural in her love-making as Casimir's betrothed, and the vivacity of Miss Esmé Hubbard had only meagre opportunities in the part of a young but eccentric Irish widow. Mr. Jackson Wilcox made a typical American hustler of James Adderley Canfield, the reporter; and as a love-stricken Major, prepared to go to the ends of the earth for the Irish widow, Mr. Cecil Kinnaird acted ably. Mr. Arnold Lucy supplied a clever study of Charles Suffick, a would-be blackmailer, whose pale, ferret-like face and shifty glances, added to the effect of a finished impersonation. Expert sketches of character were also furnished by Mr. Alec F. Thompson, who created much laughter as a weird little Scotchman; by Mr. Benedick Butler, a keen and resourceful manservant; by Miss Beatrice Chester, a stately parlourmaid; and by Mr. Hugh B. Tabberer, a smart inspector of police. A highly enthusiastic audience gave the author a hearty call, but there was no response.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The inaugural lecture of the new term course for the training of teachers was given by Dr. J. Warriner at Trinity College on Wednesday afternoon, the subject being "The Curse of the Musical Profession." After referring to the close professions of Law, Medicine, and the Army, Navy, and Church, Dr. Warriner said there were at the present day many important musical societies and guilds, but in music nothing like the strict professional etiquette of law or medicine. A doctor would not think of taking up a case in charge of another medical man, but musicians, on the other hand, often took the pupils of other professors away, and even accepted lower terms. The lecturer referred to music being taught at 4d. and 6d. a lesson, but said in spite of such things the general standard of music was much higher. Only a few years ago the Tannhäuser overture was said to be unplayable, and yet at the present day it was often performed even by amateurs. One great fault of the English was trying to make a customer buy what the shopkeeper wished and not the customer, and this applied to our young composers, who produced dull, worthless compositions, and then complained they would not sell. Dr. Warriner advised all students to read Sir Charles Santley's clever work on "Cant," and ponder on the writer's remarks on the lack of earnestness so often displayed by students. "The ignorance, apathy, and indifference of the general public is often made an excuse for a low standard of aim on the part of a teacher, but such a policy defeats itself." "The curse of the musical profession lay in professionalising and degrading art and acting unfairly to others." Dr. Warriner gave several instances, and suggested some remedies which he thought would be of benefit to musical art generally.

THE HALL CAINE CASE.

Mr. Hall Caine was the defendant in an action, the hearing of which commenced before Mr. Justice Channell and a special jury, in the King's Bench Division, on Tuesday. Mr. Montague Vivian Leveaux, the well-known theatrical manager, as plaintiff, claimed the specific performance of an agreement in writing, dated July 23, 1908, for the granting by defendant to him and Mr. Derwent Hall Caine (defendant's son) of the sole and exclusive rights of production in a play originally called Home, Sweet Home; or, Jan, the Icelander, and later on The Unwritten Law. The agreement provided that the full manuscript should be handed over by Nov. 1, 1908, but this was not done. The contract was admitted, but ill-health was pleaded as a justification of the breach. In the first instance, Mr. Derwent Hall Caine was joined as plaintiff, but on his father's application he was struck out on the ground that he was a minor.

COUNSEL'S OPENING.

The plaintiff was represented by Mr. Lush, K.C., and Mr. Colam (instructed by J. H. Mote and Son). Mr. Eldon Bankes, K.C., and Mr. McCardie (instructed by Langton and Passmore) appeared for the defendant.

Mr. Lush, in opening the case, said the complaint Mr. Leveaux made, put shortly, was this: That he entered into a contract with Mr. Hall Caine under which the latter was to deliver to Mr. Leveaux the play on which Mr. Hall Caine had been engaged; and the complaint was that Mr. Hall Caine failed to deliver the play; that he broke his contract; and then by Mr. Leveaux had suffered very heavy loss. It was not disputed that the contract was made, but the excuse which Mr. Hall Caine set up for non-fulfilment was that the contract was subject to the implied condition that his health and ability to work should continue. He said that in August of 1908 and afterwards he became seriously ill through nervous exhaustion and insomnia, and was unable to work on the play. Mr. Hall Caine's contention was that by illness he became excused from the consequences of non-fulfilment. The question of fact for the jury to consider was whether Mr. Hall Caine was so seriously ill that it became impossible for him to carry out his contract.

In June or July of 1908 Mr. Hall Caine's son Derwent, who was a very great friend of Mr. Leveaux, went to see Mr. Leveaux, and told him he had a play of his father's. He explained what the idea of the play was, and suggested that Mr. Leveaux should arrange with him to take the play on tour through the provinces on the terms that Mr. Leveaux was to do all the financing and that the profits of the tour should be divided—Mr. Leveaux to get two-thirds and Mr. Derwent the other third. Mr. Derwent further explained that there was a part in the play which he wished to take himself, and it was arranged—provided, of course, that in Mr. Leveaux's opinion the part was suitable to Mr. Derwent—that Mr. Derwent should take that particular part at a certain salary—he thought £10 a week. On the other hand, it was arranged that Mr. Leveaux should be entitled to debit the profits before the distribution, with the sum of £10 per week to cover the costs of managing the play for the first and second tours in any season, and £5 per week for later tours. Early in July of 1908 Mr. Leveaux received a letter from Mr. Derwent Hall Caine, who wrote from Greeba Castle:—

"I have discussed the terms of the new play with my father, and the following is his view of what, under the circumstances, would be a fair scale of royalties. On receipts up to £200, 5 per cent.; above £200 and up to £400, 7½ per cent. straight; above £400, 10 per cent. straight.

"I may mention that in the case of The Christian, The Bondman, and The Prodigal Son, royalties rose as high as 20 per cent. in a sliding scale beginning at 5 per cent.

"You will therefore see that these terms are easy, and that the scale given above will enable us to win largely on the high receipts."

Shortly afterwards, added counsel, the agreement in question was entered into between Mr. Leveaux and Mr. Derwent Hall Caine on the one part, and Mr. Hall Caine on the other. It recited that Mr. Hall Caine was the author and owner of a new play, at that time entitled Home, Sweet Home; or, Jan, the Icelander, and that he gave the managers—as Mr. Leveaux and Mr. Derwent were called—the sole and exclusive rights of production in the United Kingdom, Ireland, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man. The agreement continued:—

"In consideration of the above the managers agree to pay to the author on the gross weekly receipts up to £200 per week, 5 per cent.; given the weekly receips, £400, then 10 per cent. thereof. These terms are for all towns except 'fit-up' towns, for which the managers shall pay to the author 2½ per cent.

"The author agrees to hand to the managers the full manuscript of the play by Nov. 1, 1908, which condition shall be of the essence of the contract."

Mr. Hall Caine undertook to hand over the full manuscript by Nov. 1, 1908. Mr. Leveaux at once began to busy himself in making the necessary arrangements for the tour.

Later on there were delays, and eventually Mr. Hall Caine wrote from St. Moritz:—

"It is with the greatest regret that I am compelled to tell you that owing to the failure of my health, beginning in November, and the necessity of leaving home in the hope of recruiting my strength, I now find myself unable to fulfil to date the conditions of the agreement we entered into in relation to The Unwritten Law.

"I am sorry to say that at the present moment I am quite unfit to complete the play, and that any attempt to do so would probably result in injuring the work and therefore imperil its success with you as touring manager.

"Under these circumstances I feel compelled to ask you to allow me to postpone its production in the provinces until my health is sufficiently recovered."

MR. LEVEAUX'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. M. V. Leveaux, in giving evidence, said he had one or two dates (bookings) arranged for February. Witness discussed with Mr. Hall Caine as to the suitability of Mr. Derwent taking a prominent part. They were both anxious that he should do so. He understood that at the end of November Mr. Hall Caine was going to St. Moritz to complete the play and the story of The White Prophet.

Witness said that if the play were to be brought out in February it was necessary the contracts should be completed. Mr. Hall Caine told him the play was going to be produced in London in the spring by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree. When witness first discussed the play with Mr. Derwent he thought it was complete. Some time afterwards Mr. Derwent handed him two incomplete plays, which he said would give witness an idea of the story. He had not been sued for damages in regard to the contracts he had made.

Onestioned about the profits he would have made if he had succeeded in running the play, witness said he proposed to have three companies running—one in the North, another South, and a fit-up company. In the big towns his takings would have been £393 a week. His working expenses he had put down at £75, to which had to be added the author's fees of £30 per week. On the basis of previous plays by Mr. Hall Caine he estimated that he would be able to command 60 per cent. of the takings. That would give him £237, leaving, after deducting expenses, £132 profit. With the three companies he estimated the profit at £330. If he ran the three companies for forty-eight weeks the total would be £15,840. In the second year, assuming he only did one-half as well, the profit would be £7,920, and in the third year, if he only did half as well again, the profit would be £3,960, giving a total for three years of £27,620. He had not included £10 per week he was to have as manager.

MR. LESLIE MORTON IN THE BOX.

Mr. Leslie Morton, theatrical manager, said he was at the present time financially interested in five plays which were at present touring the country. It was not his experience that 1909 was a bad year. He could not recall one of Mr. Hall Caine's plays which had been a failure in the country, and his experience was that there was this peculiar feature with regard to Mr. Hall Caine's plays, and that was that the return visits were often better than the first. At the Theatre Royal in Dublin The Prodigal Son was played to £522 on Sept. 10, 1906, and on Nov. 25, 1907, The Christian played to £406. The Bondman had attracted £342 at Bournemouth and £288 at Southampton, where The Christian had been played to £274. He had no reason to doubt that if this play had been produced it would have been successful. He considered that it was quite reasonable to conclude that there would have been a profit on the play of £5,000.

MR. MULHOLLAND'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. J. B. Mulholland, proprietor of the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, and chairman of the Marlborough Theatre, Ltd., stated that, having regard to Mr. Hall Caine's reputation as a dramatist, he had no doubt that the play would have been a success. He considered the plaintiff's claim of £5,000 was a reasonable figure for the profits of the period in question.

Mr. Arthur Bertram, theatrical business manager, stated that a claim of £395 per week on a play written by Mr. Hall Caine was reasonable.

This concluded the case for the plaintiff.

Mr. Bankes, having opened the case for the defendant, the case was adjourned.

On Wednesday, Mr. Hall Caine, who was suffering from illness, went into the witness-box, and gave evidence at length.

Mr. Lush remarked to Mr. Caine in cross-examination: I have no doubt you realise that the contract states you were the author and owner of a new play?—Yes.

Was there a play?—There was not a play, and the fact escaped my observation at the moment, as did also the other fact that my son, a minor, was made a party to the contract.

Has there never been a play written by you on the subject?—Not to my knowledge.

Mr. Derwent Hall Caine, the son of defendant, said he had chosen the profession of an actor. In July, 1908, he came across a short story written by his father. He was pleased with it, and wanted to act a part in a play that might be based on it. He had an interview with Mr. Leveaux, whom he knew, and told him that he had found in the pigeon-holes at his father's house the rough draft of a story that his father had given as a lecture in America, and he said he thought it might be written into a fine play. He suggested he might play the leading part of Jan. Plaintiff agreed that a successful play might be produced. After the agreement was signed he handed to Mr. Leveaux a couple of the acts and discussed proposed alterations. He gave the plaintiff clearly to understand that the play was not written, and that was the reason why an interval, until November, was allowed.

Miss Wood, for five years secretary to Mr. Hall Caine, stated that plaintiff received two rough acts of the play, which were made before the contract.

Mr. Wentworth Croke, in giving evidence, said he had half-a-dozen companies touring the provinces at the present time, most of them appearing in Mr. Hall Caine's plays. He would sooner take a London failure on tour than a piece which had not been produced in town. The year 1909 was absolutely the worst year for touring companies that he had ever experienced, but the spring of the present year was the "limit." He attributed this to the General Election and the opening of skating rinks and cinematograph shows. The expenses in connection with a tour with one of Mr. Hall Caine's plays were very heavy. His expenses in conection with The Bondman averaged £180 or £185 per week. The Prodigal Son was the cheapest, the figure in that case being about £120. The Christian came in between the two. The amounts he had given included the author's fees and everything. The Christian was supposed to be an enormously successful play, and yet in the autumn of 1909 he never touched £300 any night. At the Shakespeare Theatre, at Liverpool, in the autumn of 1909, The Christian attracted about £1,800 for the week.

The hearing was again adjourned.

The Case Arranged.

On Thursday Mr. Hall Caine, being recalled, stated that he had discovered that a copyright performance of Jan the Icelander; or, Home, Sweet Home, took place at the Grand Theatre, West Hartlepool, on Nov. 24, 1900.

There was, in fact, a play in existence on July 23, after all?—There was a skeleton play, no doubt—a play in that sense only, but a play which could be described as being prepared for rehearsal there certainly was not.

But was it or was it not a play within the description in this contract of July 23? It would be sufficient so to justify me in saying I was the "owner and author of the play."

I want to know what has become of that play?—I have not the slightest idea, but I feel sure it must be at my home in the Isle of Man; and if his lordship thinks that the document is necessary, and has to adjourn the case for the purpose of its production, my secretary can be sent over to search for it.

His Lordship: Now your memory has been refreshed, do you now think that when the contract was sent to you for signature you had it in your memory that there had already been a copyright performance?

Witness: I do, and that it may have since passed out of my memory.

His Lordship: Of course, this accounts for your signing the document, a matter which had very much puzzled me.

Eventually it was announced it had been arranged between the parties that a juror should be withdrawn, that Mr. Hall Caine should complete the play, and that the agreement should be carried out with certain modifications.

His Lordship: I was just going to say that after the very expensive advertisement of the last three days there seems to be a possibility that Mr Leveaux may get some of those very large profits we have heard about.

AN OLD "FIRST-NIGHTER."

Major Charles Enthoven, R.E., and but recently appointed Chief Parks Officer of the London County Council, left his legion of theatrical friends on the longest of all furloughs, a victim to pneumonia. The death, at the premature age of forty-three, occurred at his London residence, 97, Cadogan-gardens, on Saturday last. Miss Enthoven has always been deeply interested in the theatre, and has many friends among the theatrical profession, among whom are Ellen Terry, Sarah Bernhardt, Salvini, Jane Hading, Mme. Bartel, Maeterlinck, and most of the well-known actors and actresses on the London stage. Miss Enthoven's collection of theatrical programmes is the best and most comprehensive in England, dating back to 1726, and including some rare, if not quite unique, bills of the period of Garrick, Miss Cibber, and Peg Woffington. But a week or so ago Miss Enthoven, little dreaming of the irreparable loss she was so soon to sustain, attended the Lal Brough auction sale at Sotheby's. Miss Enthoven will shortly publish a theatrical book, the chief interest in which will be an exhaustive description of her world-famed playbill collection.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Miss Cecilia Loftus, who comes to the Coliseum on Monday, has added Mme. Réjane and other well-known artists to her repertory of imitations, and she will also present an entertaining monologue.

The next Alhambra ballet will treat of the history of dress from an early period. There will be many beautiful creations, ancient and modern, the latter including le dernier cri from Paris.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales and suite were present at the Palace Theatre on Tuesday night, and witnessed the whole of the performance, including the wonderful Russian dancers. The Prince of Wales was also present at the Palace last Saturday week, so that His Royal Highness has paid two visits to this popular house within ten days.

At the Hippodrome on Monday the name of Yvette Guilbert will add lustre to an already brilliant programme. It is understood that Mme. Guilbert will introduce one or two new songs, and that she will repeat her delicious rendering of the song "Mary was a Housemaid," also sung very cleverly by Miss Claire Romaine. Next week will be the last of Mme. Réjane's season.

Mr. Rutland Barrington will appear at the Tivoli on Monday in a new sketch, The Judge and the Lady. This will be found to have no connection with Trial by Jury, in which his lordship on the bench is so anxious for a flirtation with the fair plaintiff—at least he was when Mr. Barrington appeared as the arbiter of the musical breach of promise proceedings at the Ellen Terry Jubilee Matinée.

At the conclusion of her highly successful engagement in the States, Miss Adeline Genée comes to England for her marriage. The ceremony is to take place on Saturday, June 11, at All Saints' Church, Margaret-street, W., at two o'clock, and the bridegroom is Mr. Frank S. N. Isitt. After the wedding the Duke and Duchess of Newcastle will give a reception to a large number of guests at the Hyde Park Hotel.

A special matinée will be given at the Oxford on Thursday, May 26, in aid of the University College Hospital's Appeal, for which £10,000 is required immediately, otherwse a hundred beds must close. A strong list of theatrical and variety artists is promised, and it is hoped that a large sum will be handed over to this deserving charity. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Rosebery, and other notabilities have kindly given their patronage.

The rumour that one of London's best known variety theatres may, next season, be converted into an up-to-date opera house has been again revived; Mr. Beecham's future plans for the production of opera probably accounting for the widespread belief with which the statement has been received. As there is no official corroboration of the story it is obviously indiscreet to disclose the name of the variety house.

Mr. G. H. Elliott has been revisiting Bristol, the scene of his pantomime triumphs in the rôle of Chocolate in Mr. Chute's pantomime at the Prince's Theatre. At the Palace, the popular coon has attracted enormous houses, and the enthusiasm was so great at the second house on Tuesday that the Bristol favourite had to appear time after time in front of the tableau curtains. He is singing with great success a new song, "Mr. Owl," which was given for the first time at the Ardwick Empire.

No fewer than three platforms were requisitioned on Saturday morning last at Euston when the Mauretania's passengers slid out at intervals of five minutes in three trains for Liverpool, and a contingent of Londoners were present to bid farewell to Mr. Louis Dreyfus, of the great Anglo-American music publishing house of T. B. Harms and Francis, Day, and Hunter, who had been sojourning in England's capital on business and pleasure bent. Among the people present to see him off were Mr. and Mrs. David Day, Mr. Charles Wilmott, Mr. John Abbott, Mr. Hermann E. Darewski, and Mr. Edgar Bateman.

Mlle. Lydia Kyasht, one of the daintiest artists Russia has lent to England, appeared at the Empire on Thursday in a series of "dance idylls," which immediately captured the house. The first was a phantasy, "The Princess and the Slave," the music for which was taken from Luigini, Grieg, Thomé, and Rubinstein. In this Mlle. Kyasht was supported by M. Adolf Bolm. Subsequently she appeared as a Bacchante in a carnival dance, finishing up with a Valse Idyll to Weber's music. This was perhaps the most successful of all, and the Victorian ballet dresses worn by the ballerine were particularly delightful.

Miss Lottie Collins, whose death, at the early age of forty-two, is announced in another column, was one of the finest dancers that ever stepped in shoe leather or clogs. She could put poetry into an ordinary jig, and she was so finished in her art, that before her great hit in "Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay" in Cinderella at the Gaiety she was secured just for a solo dance in the production of Monte Cristo, Jun. At that time both the legitimate and lesser stages were crowded with dancers, and Lottie Collins was second to none. Her meteoric rise in popularity came through her original treatment of a number which in other hands would probably have gone without a hand. It was a case of the singer making the song.

It is not often that a popular music-hall song is deliberately parodied by a great poet. Such a fate, however, befell "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay," the song that did so much for the fame of Lottie Collins. John Davidson became obsessed with its haunting melody, and he thought the tune was worthy of a resetting, so he supplied new verses, and the revised version of "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" may be found in Davidson's "Ballads and Songs." Another favourite of the halls which Mr. Davidson though it worth while to rewrite was "After the Ball."

Mr. Benjm. Cooper writes to the Daily News of the origin of "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay." He says: "I have made this branch of study somewhat of a hobby, and, in my own mind, I have no doubt whatever the tune is an adaptation of one of the Jubilee songs sung by the Jubilee Singers, who came from the States thirty years ago. The song is called 'I've been Redeemed,' and the refrain is the chorus of 'Ta-ra-ra.' There are thousands of volumes of their songs in this country, and students of music can verify this for themselves."

A fully-equipped model of a dirigible airship was exhibited as one of the "turns" in the programme of the London Hippodrome on Monday afternoon. The airship, a cigar-shaped balloon of silk, carries car, motor, and propellors, and in its flight through the theatre it had all its movements controlled by its inventor, Mr. Raymond Phillips, by means of wireless electricity installed on the stage. The balloon, about 12ft. long, sails very gracefully from the stage round the auditorium. While turning in mid-air, the inventor released two birds, for which, in warfare, dynamite could be substituted. We understand that Mr. Phillips intends to sell his rights in the invention to the Government

The Alhambra Music Hall, Sandgate, is now under the sole management of Mr. T. Holt. It will re-open on Whitsun Monday.

Mr. Sydney B. Stringer has been appointed manager of the King's Theatre, Gateshead, in succession to Councillor Harold Arnold, who goes to the Tynemouth Palace. Mr. Stringer was for some time at the Palace, Sunderland.

Beattie and Babs, having completed a most successful three months' engagement at Folies Bergère, Paris, are taking two weeks' rest at breezy New Brighton, previous to opening their Whitsun engagement at the Oxford and Canterbury.

Captain Permane, of Teddy Bear fame, has an enforced holiday next week, through the fire at Poole's Myriorama at Clay Cross on April 23. The whole of the Myriorama was destroyed, the damage being about £3,000. Permane had part of his "props." destroyed, and his circus mat has to go to the factory to be repaired.

A large building in Sauchiehall-street, Glasgow, presently occupied by Messrs. R. Wylie Hill and Co., cabinet-makers, &c., has been purchased by a syndicate, who intend to adapt the premises to suit the purposes of an electric theatre and numerous other attractions, including an international exhibition, with stalls, side-shows, and amusements of all kinds.

The Monckтons (Fred and Lillie) wish to heartily thank Mr. Ernest Bridgen, the popular and esteemed manager of the Empire, South Shields, for the collection received by them from his many matinée patrons on Wednesday afternoon last.

Mr. Bridgen very kindly made an appeal from the stage previous to the performance of their comedy sketch Two in a Flat. In his usual courteous manner, he asked for help to make good the entire loss of wardrobe, band-parts, and properties sustained by these artists in the recent disastrous fire at the Borough Theatre, North Shields. With hearty cheers the audience most liberally responded.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bancroft (Miss Emmie Ames) have had a whole sheaf of telegrams and letters of congratulation on the birth of a son. The new arrival must be credited to another Mr. and Mrs. H. Bancroft of the theatres. Miss Emmie Ames has been scoring brilliantly in London during the last six weeks.

At a meeting of the Lodge of Glasgow St. Mungo, No. 27, on Wednesday evening, Bro. Joseph Arbuckle, R.W.M., manager of the Scottish Zoo, referred to the strenuous work done for the lodge by Bro. George Neil, I.P.M., in many capacities, more particularly as Master of the Lodge, and on behalf of the brethren presented him with a solid tea and coffee service to mark their appreciation.

The notice in our last week's issue of Little Constance Montague's recent performance at the Playhouse has brought that diminutive dance prodigy several offers, a very flattering one coming from the Winter Gardens, New Brighton, which, of course, she is unable to accept on account of her age. Her mistress, Miss Cora Katti Lanner, is naturally much gratified at the success of her small pupil.

The Empire Theatre, Sheffield, had a large and representative audience on Thursday, the 29th ult., when the Moody-Manners Opera Company gave a matinée performance (under the direction of Mr. Charles Manners) of the new spectacular opera, Samson and Delilah. The principals, chorus, and ballet numbered 130, and the orchestra was increased to forty-five performers. The performance was a great success.

An accident happened during an acrobatic performance at the second "house" at the Exeter Hippodrome on Thursday evening, April 28. The victim was Mr. J. F. Hayes, aged thirty-four, and staying temporarily at 36, Howell-road. He and a colleague, named Merritt, take part in a turn under the title of the world's champion bounding trampolinists. They are clever performers, swinging and somersaulting in mid-air with daring skill. While thus engaged Hayes had the misfortune to injure one of his knees.

He was taken off the stage and examined by Dr. Pereira, who was called in, and who advised his removal to the Royal Devon and Exeter Hospital, whither he was conveyed on the police ambulance by Sergt. Wreford and P.C. Russell. Dr. Lilley made a further investigation at the institution, but could find no signs of a broken bone, Hayes was detained, and the knee was examined under the X-rays, the ligaments being badly strained. Hayes is, however, progressing very favourably.

The Hippodrome Palace of Varieties, Hastings, a sumptuous modern music hall, of freehold tenure, situated on the main esplanade, is to be sold by auction at the Mart, Tokenhouse-yard, on Friday, May 27 next, at two o'clock precisely, by Messrs. Marler and Marler. The house is capable of holding 1,500 persons, and its equipment is on the most up-to-date lines, with spacious promenades and large open-air loggia overlooking the sea. Particulars may be obtained of the auctioneers, 176, Sloane-street, S.W.

Graham has been a most successful feature of the revue at the Paris Olympia, where the English music hall of 1875 and 1910, as presented by this fine character-actor and "human marionette," has created immense interest. They always appreciate clever Britishers in la ville lumière; and in the same way the Americans do not lag behind; for we hear that Graham, who has been booked solid until 1912 by Marinelli, has been engaged by the great Lafayette as a special feature in his combination.

Peter Adair, the well-known music hall and circus athlete, and one of England's greatest road walkers, has challenged Edward Payson Weston, America's greatest road walker, to a thousand-mile walk, as Weston is willing to walk any man in the world his own age (seventy). Adair is in his sixty-ninth year. Peter started a walk from Manchester to London last Tuesday, and travelled via Wilmslow, Congleton, Crewe, Stafford, Penkridge, Wolverhampton, and Dudley, and arrived at Birmingham on Thursday at 6 p.m., and will reach London this Saturday.

A presentation was made on Saturday last at the King's Theatre, Gateshead, to Councillor Harold Arnold, who leaves the hall to take up a similar appointment at the Tynemouth Palace. On behalf of the staff, Mr. Alf Clare handed over a massive gold guard and seal, and in doing so spoke of the many kindnesses which the staff had received at the hands of Mr. Arnold, and their regrets that he was leaving them, and assuring him of their good wishes for his future welfare. Mr. Arnold responded feelingly, saying that he had never had under him a more able and willing staff, and that he would always retain a happy memory of his managerial days at the King's.

Mr. Harry Tate, whose penchant for novelties connected with the latest sporting crazes is so pronounced, will on Whit Monday produce at the Oxford the skit on the most recent fad, viz., Flying.

Mr. Wal Pink is the author, and the volatile and versatile Tate will introduce the last word in aviation—"Veri ot Taterplane." To those who are conversant with his Motoring, Fishing, Gardening, &c. (and who is not?), Flying would appear to offer a huge slice of fun. A special scene representing an aerial shed has been painted by Syd Cook, and the music has been composed by Brae Banks.

Blondel and Co., a new American turn of which report speaks very highly, will appear at the Tivoli on Monday in a farcical skit entitled The Lost Boy.

Mr. Henry Kemble, who returned from Australia a few weeks ago, secured while there a novelty musical comedy sketch, entitled The Gay Countess, which he intends producing shortly.

Mr. Harry Nation has launched a new enterprise, having taken over that well-known hostelry the Blue-eyed Maid, Borough, S.E., where he will be pleased to meet old and new friends. Everything of the best.

France and Stewart produced their new and original sketch, The Little Puritan, at the Palace, Leicester, last week. It met with instantaneous success, and promises to be as popular with audiences as The 100 to 1 Chance.

Selbo, the famous juggler, who has thrice appeared before Royalty, has been retained for a further four weeks at the Palace, Shaftesbury-avenue, and is re-engaged to return in 1911. Thanks to Pacey's Agency.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, on Wednesday next at 4 p.m. All members in town are invited to be present.

Mr. Wm. Bailey, jun., son of the other Bill Bailey, the popular manager of the Metropolitan, has just composed a Chantecler waltz, the dedication of which has been accepted by the poet Edmond Rostand, the author of the Chantecler play and of Cyrano de Bergerac.

"The Midnight London Express" is paying a return visit this week to Sadler's Wells. The last scene, the loop line of a country railway station, is certainly one of the most intensely exciting scenes we have ever witnessed, and would make the fortune of any sketch. The audiences were held spellbound.

Mr. Wentworth Croke is about to make an excursion into the music halls by producing a sketch version of East Lynne at the Olympia, Shoreditch, on June 20. This half-hour's version of the famous play will be presented by an exceptionally strong company and mounted in a handsome manner.

Mr. Leonard Robson who has managed and played principal parts with Mrs. Lewis Waller for so long, will shortly be seen in a new romantic sketch, written on an episode in the French Revolution by George Sheldon, whose successful sketch, Before the Dawn, is now in its second year of tour.

Miss Lola Lee is again in the bill next week at the London Hippodrome, where her dancing continues to attract the attention it deserves, and the applause which the young artist receives at each performance gives ample proof that the revival of this most graceful of all styles of dancing is highly appreciated.

Miss Florrie Forde leaves town on Monday for the Queen's, Leeds, where she is certain of a great reception after playing in such a successful pantomime at the Theatre Royal last season. Her new songs, "'Tis a faded picture," "Rip Van Winkle," and "Flanagan," have been creating a furore at the Hippodromes, Poplar and Woolwich, this week.

La Belle Alva, in her new dance scena, The Gipsy Peasant Girl, is having gratifying receptions this week at the Tivoli, where she has introduced some entirely different dances in her pretty scena since she played at the London Pavilion a few weeks ago. She scores a big hit with her clever French toe dance, and the barefoot sand dance also is received with marked appreciation.

The Elliott-Savonas, in their beautiful and impressive act, The Palace of Orpheus, finished at Birmingham on Saturday their fourth tour of the Moss-Stoll bookings; and have been receiving the highest encomiums for their grand playing of high-class selections. They are the fortunate originators of an act that can be booked in any country in any building; for fine music appeals with a universal language, and can never be out of place in a people's entertainment.

The M.H.A.R.A. committee held their 667th meeting Wednesday, when the following were present:—Messrs. Harry Blake (in the chair), Chas. Coborn, Lieut. Albini, T. C. Callaghan, J. Miller Northern, J. H. Milburn, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). With regard to the proposed new Glasgow offices, it was finally resolved to leave the matter over till next week.

It is proposed to hold a conference with the representatives of the Ocean Insurance Company at an early date. The weekly statement, showing an increase of forty-five new members, and receipts of £55 11s., was passed. The treasurer's report for the last six months was also submitted. This report shows 1,156 new members and 3,144 renewals for the period, as again 1,208 new members and 3,254 renewals for the corresponding period last year. Cash in hand, £45; current account, £243 19s. 10d.; deposit account, £167 7s. 4d.; reserve account, £545 17s. 3d.; total funds, £1,002 4s. 5d.

Mr. C. Blyth Pratt presided over a genial gathering of the b-hoys at the Vaudeville Club's smoking concert on Sunday evening. Thanks to the completeness of the arrangements of Manager T. H. Case a capital programme was got through. Among the contributors were Arthur Aldridge, Humphrey Bishop, Noel Fleming, Bob Fearns, Story Gofton, Walter Hast, Ted Honeyman, Eli Hudson, Harrison Latimer, Leipzig, Clifford Morgan, Dave O'Toole, Arthur Reece, Frederick Ross, Gurney Russell, Scott Russell, Vardon, Perry and Wilber, Walter Walters, Elliston Webb, Charles Wreford, and the Club Trio.

At the Bloomsbury County Court on Wednesday, Judge Bacon had before him the action of Mr. Tom Leamore against Mr. Frank Macnaghten to recover the sum of £30. Mr. C. F. Appleton, solicitor for the plaintiff, mentioned that the amount claimed had been paid, but he applied for proper costs to be allowed, as the amount had not been paid with an allowance of five clear days. A contract between the plaintiff and the defendant had been broken by the defendant. Judge Bacon: Have you given notice to the other side?—Mr. Appleton said a representative of Messrs. Blackwell, solicitors, was present. Judge Bacon: You have had all you have asked for?—Mr. Appleton: The money should have been paid within five days. The cheque came on Friday. The cheque is dated Thursday, the 28th. Judge Bacon: That is not five clear days. You must have the costs.

The next committee meeting of the Music Hall Home will be held on Thursday next, at 12 noon, at the Empire, Camberwell.

La Milo since her acquittal has had so many letters and telegrams of congratulation and sympathy that she finds it quite impossible to reply to them personally. She trusts that her friends in and out of the profession will understand and accept this intimation of her heartfelt thanks.

Mrs. John Lawson, who opens at His Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, with her triple bill of one-act playlets, will be well supported by a first-class cast for each. Mme. Florence Burns, Mr. Robert Foster Hine, and Miss Mildred Gibbs will sing during the evening between each playlet.

When Master Cliff Diamond made his first appearance at the Canterbury over a year ago, we predicted a bright future for him, and he has been kept busy ever since he began. The marked improvement he continues to make justifies the confidence of numerous managers who have wisely secured his services until the end of 1911.

The death is announced of Mr. Wilmot Edson, who was at one time with Mr. Hugh J. Didcott. When quite a youth he was "in front" at the Trocadero, at one time under the control of the deceased agent. He was suddenly taken ill at Bargoed, which town he was visiting with a combination company. His condition becoming serious, he was removed to Merthyr Hospital, where he died. He was buried at Cefn Cemetery, Merthyr.

At the Hippodrome, Poplar, on May 9, and during the week, Mr. Albert Wyndham announces his last performance in the East End of London of his popular Shakespearean sketch Prince Arthur; or, The Days of King John, in consequence of the production of the sequel to the above, Magna Charta, which will be duly announced. This will deal, so far as history relates, with the usurping King and the death of Prince Arthur.

Both M. Paulhan and Mr. Grahame-White visited the Alhambra Theatre on the evening of Friday, the 29th ult., to see the animated pictures of their flights. By telephone Mr. Grahame-White invited M. and Mme. Paulhan to come and share a box with him, his mother, and sister. The invitation was gladly accepted, and Mr. Grahame-White sent his motor-car to the Hyde Park Hotel to bring his guests. M. Paulhan was introduced to Mrs. Grahame-White.

Side by side the two flying men sat in the box, unperceived by the audience, until the lights went down. The lamps in the box were kept burning, so that everyone in the house could see the two men clearly. The whole theatre resounded with cheers. Men stood up in the stalls and called for "three times three" for the aviators, and again for cheers for Mme. Paulhan and Mrs. Grahame-White. Then there were cries for a speech.

As the host of the evening Mr. Grahame-White spoke first. "I can only repeat," he said, "that the better man won. It is an honour to be beaten by the finest aviator of all—M. Paulhan." Speaking in French, M. Paulhan said: "I had hoped that we should both reach Manchester together. It was the bad luck of wind and weather which beat my friend."

Fred S. Howard, the young artist entertainer, who is now on a successful provincial tour with his novel interlude London Life, has just completed a series of large water-colour drawings, representing scenes in the hunting-field and incidents of the old coaching days, which will be shortly published. It can be truly said that Mr. Howard was born in the profession, his father and mother being well-known performers and proprietors of pictorial entertainments.

After a varied career in the legitimate, during which he played many parts, from little Willie in East Lynne to Tony in My Sweetheart, Mr. Howard turned his attention to art and literary work, contributing to some of the principal magazines and illustrated papers. By a curious coincidence he was associated at the same time with two of the most costly enterprises of the day, the Tribune and the Crown. As to the merits of his new act on the halls, contracts extending to 1913 tell their own story.

The late Mr. J. H. Callan, who was recently cut off suddenly in the prime of life, leaving a widow with eight young children, not one of whom is capable of earning a livelihood, was an able and popular vocalist, and ever ready to give his services in any charitable cause. That his fellow-vocalists have rallied to the support of his family in their sad tribulation is evidenced by the fact that, in addition to the City Musical Union and "Ye Blarers" Musical Society, some ninety ladies and gentlemen are giving their services as artists.

The most attractive concert will be held in the King's Hall, Holborn Restaurant, on Thursday next, at 8 p.m., and the Hon. Sir Joseph Walton, a Judge of the King's Bench Division, has kindly consented to preside. Tickets, price 2s. 6d. and 1s. each, can be obtained from the Orpheus Music Stores, Moorgate Station Arcade, E.C., and a numerous committee resident in North and Central London. Donations can be sent to the hon. treasurer, Mr. E. P. Refferty, 5, Willoughby-road, Hornsey, N., and the hon. secretary, Mr. B. G. Laws, 21, Nelson-road, Stroud Green, N., would be pleased to answer any inquiries.

Miss Melinda May, secretary of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., on behalf of the committee of the above, begs most gratefully to thank the following: Mrs. Thorburn, Edinburgh (donation), £1; Mr. Geo. Wal Manton (collection), 2s. 6d.; Mr. Bob Wilding, Glasgow (donation), 1s.; Miss Louie Davis (Ward and Davis), collecting, 16s. 6d.; Mr. Karl Kremo, gentleman's suit, per Miss Louie Davis; Mrs. Harry Randall, 10/-; Mr. C. Foot, 2s.; Miss Maggie Bowman, 1s.; Mr. Max Erard, 1s.; and smaller sums from other artists, amounting to 3s. 1d.; collected by Mrs. Charles Coborn, 17s. 1d. altogether; Miss Lottie Albert, twenty babies' new woollen vests; Miss Cissy Conyers, babies' clothing; Mr. Bob Wilding, gentleman's jacket and waistcoat; Miss Fox and Miss F. Fox (Teignmouth), useful clothing; parcel clothing, Anonymous, from Shepherd's Bush. The butcher's shop is not yet sold. Will anyone kindly make an offer for this handsome model?

The secretary of the Music Hall Home, Benj. Woodger, desires to acknowledge the following amounts:—Miss L. Baylas (Royal Victoria Hall), £1 1s.; Percy Ford (Empire, Camberwell), 6s. 6d.; Mrs. O'Brien ("Rule's," Malden-lane), 16s. 8d.; The Encore, Ltd., 10s. 6d.; F. H. Kolher (Joiner's Arms, Denmark-hill), 3s. 2d.; A. J. Carter (Palace of Varieties, Manchester), 6s.; Will A. Jackson (Palace and Hippodrome, Cardiff), 15s.; H. Yardley (Hippodrome, Southampton), £1 15s.; Geo. H. Marsh (Empire, Dublin), £1 5s. 8d.; Walter Hassan (Royal Hippodrome, Liverpool), £2 10s.; Henry C. Arnold (Lyric, Liverpool), 7s. 8d.; H. Wood (Tivoli Hotel, Barrow-in-Furness), 2s. 6d.; George Weldon (Hippo Picture Palace, Dewsbury), 16s.; Walter Norman (King's Theatre, Gainsborough), 5s. 6d.; and Dayton Family, 5s., being box collections to the Home Fund.

Mr. James Ross Elvio, of the L.V.O. Trio, has successfully passed the ballot for membership of the Terriers' Association.

Zalenki, the human spider, was initiated into the mysteries of the Order on Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier Martin Henderson, W.T., assisted by Terrier Tom Packer, P.W.T. Terrier Arthur Were officiated as organist.

Members of the Committee of the Terriers' Association are particularly requested to attend the Committee meeting on Friday next. Important business. All suggestions for the "Griff Suggestion Competition" must be forwarded to the Secretary on or before May 14, 1910.

Tickets (3s. each, ladies or gentlemen) for the "welcome home" banquet to Terrier Griff on Sunday, May 29, at the Hotel Boulogne, may be had on application to Arthur Were, Secretary of the Terriers' Association, 69, Kennington-road, S.E. The annual river outing is fixed for June 26.

A special general meeting of the Terriers' Association will be held on Sunday, June 5, to consider the advisability of revising certain rules.

We are given to understand that Miss Winnie Derson, daughter of Harry Anderson, the veteran comic singer, will be married on June 4 to Mr. A. G. Cuthbert.

Mr. Clifford Marle and Miss Josephine Colona, having secured the sole rights of Louis Cohen's charming sketch Nelson, are playing it with considerable success this week at Olympia, Shoreditch, and are rapidly filling immediate and future dates.

The 8½-inch artesian bore-hole well at the Palace Theatre, so successfully inaugurated through the enterprise of Mr. Alfred Butt, has been sunk to a depth of 371ft. below mean sea-level, or 451ft. below street-level. It is in good working order, and gives great satisfaction to the theatre authorities. Analysis has proved the water raised to be of first-rate quality, and it is in daily use throughout the building.

With only 12½ revolutions per minute—instead of 16, which the pump can readily accomplish—720 gallons per hour are raised into the highest tank upon the roof. The pump, by means of a float, is automatically brought into and put out of action, and thus the tanks are kept full. The cost of working results in a maximum charge of 6d. per 1,000 gallons, and an annual saving of at least £240 per annum will have been effected on the present charges of the Metropolitan Water Board.

The average rateable value of a London theatre is about £5,000 per annum. The average payment with the acknowledged rebate to the Metropolitan Water Board amounts to £200. The mean annual saving with a private water supply may be taken at £150. Of course in many instances it is far above this amount, for the mean includes not only West End, but East End and suburban places of amusement.

Each instance has to be gauged on its own merits, and, as an example of this, the fact stands out that in a recent example of a property reported on by the Metropolitan Private Water Supply Syndicate the annual saving has been proved to be a minimum of £1,770; and this is not the least, for at the motor garage at Kennington, where the annual payment to the Water Board amounted to £3,000, the artesian well supply has produced a saving of at least £2,500 a year, including the repayment of the sinking fund.

An original whimsical entertainment, "The Jollies," was produced on Saturday last at the Grand Theatre, Clorley. In addition to original features incorporated in the attractive entertainment, there is a striking novelty act by Frank Pickard and Marie West, known in the music-hall world as Pickard and West. Their gymnastic display is strikingly clever, and versatility is also exhibited in the comedy portion, the sterling character of the musical setting being likewise a noteworthy feature. "The Jollies," which is appropriate alike for al fresco or other attractions, was produced under the direction of Mr. Edgar Dereve.

Amongst those who have attended at the London Hippodrome this week are the Marquis and Marchioness of Downshire, Lady Wolverton, Earl Winterton, Viscount Cranborne, Lady Llangattock, the Hon. Sir Hedworth and the Hon. Lady Lambton, Sir Humphrey and Lady de Trafford, Lady Barrymore and Miss Helen Post, Mr. Montague Eliot, Lady Martin and Miss Ida Martin, Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Lord Headley, Mrs. Van Raalte, Mr. Claude Grahame-White and Mrs. and Miss Grahame-White, Mrs. William James, and Mr. Roger Wallace, K.C.

The genuine force and freshness of Mr. Charles Coborn's comedy enable that fine artist to make his mark at the London Pavilion, and it is pleasant to hear the laughter and applause greeting his turn. It must be more than gratifying, too, to "Charlie" to know that the British public appreciate the real comedian of the halls when he has good matter, and not only knows how to give his lines point, but is a master of character—Cockney or Gaelic, Dutch or Whitechapel. Coborn, the versatile, learned his business in the splendid school of experience, and every movement of his on the stage, every gesture, proclaims the finish of a perfect technique.

Mr. Alfred Butt will re-introduce to the Palace Theatre audiences next Monday that popular American artist, Miss Clarice Vance, in some new coon songs. According to Miss Vance, the accepted "coon singer" of this country is altogether wrong in method. In her own words Miss Vance states: "The coon singers I have heard over here are not singing the real thing at all. The coon is the laziest thing on earth. When he hears music at home in Kentucky, where I was born, he can't help dancing; but he is too tired to lift his feet off the ground. The real 'coon shuffle' is known to us as the 'buck step.' I have been studying coons from my childhood, and so I reckon I am a bit of an expert. Coons are really delightful people to study, so long as you don't believe what they tell you."

A hearty welcome was extended to Terriers Jack Barker and W. Burg upon their reappearance in the kennel on Sunday last, when a ladies' concert was held at the Three Stags Hotel, Terrier Martin Henderson, W.T., being in the chair, supported by Terrier Tom Packer, P.W.T. The following artists contributed to an enjoyable programme, arranged by Terrier Bert Marsden, the musical-director:—Miss Carlotta Lunn, "Skate, skate"; Miss Violet Murray, recital, "The Women of Mumble's Head"; Terrier Chas. Cornish, "The preacher and the bear"; Terrier Jack Barker, "Dutch Song"; Terrier Ernest D'Almaine, "Star of my life" and "Gather, gather, gather"; Terrier Tom Packer, "Hush! hush! hush!"; Terrier Harry Brown, "Winter Time"; Terrier George Cooper and Miss Cooper, "Alice, where art thou?"; Terrier Martin Henderson, concertina solo; Terrier Bert Marsden, "Why?" and "Thank you"; Messrs. Scott and Whalley, duet; Mr. Matt Bee, imitation of Mr. Harry Tate in Motoring; and Mr. Digby Worsley, parodies. Mr. J. Charles Moore was an efficient accompanist.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

THE capacious letter-box attached to Messrs. Francis and Day's Charing Cross-road establishment has had its resources severely taxed during the past few days owing to the number of inquiries for Miss Florrie Forde's successful new song "Flanagan," by Will Letters and C. W. Murphy. Miss Forde's excellent number, "'Tis a faded picture," is also going great guns, and its author and composer, Lester Barrett and Herman E. Darewski, are to be congratulated on a number which is pregnant with interest.

MR. FRED ELTON has had perforce to lay off for a night or two through throat trouble, but his great song anent the rubber boom, entitled "Tahiti," has taken London by storm already, and inquiries for copies are very much in evidence. Messrs. Barnes and Weston and Maurice Scott are to be heartily congratulated on a work fully in keeping with their other London rage, "I've got rings on my fingers." Both are published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

EDGAR BATEMAN and Henry F. Greenfield, whose duet, "Do you remember?—How can I forget?" for Mr. Wallis Arthur, and "The Great Invasion play" for Miss Maidie Scott, are remembered items, have been trying their hands on an alleged humorous song entitled "Has anyone found a girl?" The twain have sold it to Miss Florrie Forde, and Messrs. Francis and Day are publishing the same.

MISS FLORRIE GALLIMORE has made a sensational hit with her new chorus song, "Sammy played the saxophone," and a recent letter from the popular lady tells of its great and continuing vogue. It is a fine example of the collaboration of Charles Wilmott and Maurice Scott. Messrs. Francis and Day are the publishers.

GIVEN Mr. George H. Elliott and Alf. J. Lawrance and universal approbation is assured, and Messrs. Francis and Day do the rest. These three things synchronised a day or two since. The title of the song is "Mister Owl." No greater success has ever been chronicled—instantaneous and complete. Copies will be ready directly. Some novel scenic effects are advantageously employed during the song's progress.

MISS HILDA JACOBSEN has never been heard to greater advantage than in her new song, "I'm in love with you, dear Cigarette," which Messrs. Francis and Day have secured for publication. It is by F. W. Carter, Will E. Haines, and Donovan Meher. The popular lady's "Cairo," by Harry Staunton, Haines, and Meher, is in great demand, and is published by the same firm.

MR. HARRY BROWN is still making everybody happy with his new song, "Ma Mary." It is in the press, having been secured for publication by Messrs. Francis and Day.

A SONG entitled "I do love a dear old pal," from the practised pens of Gilbert Wells and Robert Gorman, has been acquired by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter for immediate publication.

FOR refined and delightful vocalisation and perfect enunciation Miss Madge Temple would be hard to beat, and when one has thrown in a pleasing stage presence the tout ensemble is hard to excel. At the London Pavilion—ever one of the most critical of audiences—Miss Temple has more than maintained her reputation. Her songs, "On the silvery sands" and "I'm looking for Mr. Wright," fit the lady like the proverbial glove, and both are published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

A SONG over the signature of E. W. Rogers always commands attention, and the author of "Following in father's footsteps" and "Skylark"—to mention two widely divergent specimens of his art—in his latest number, "Let's go to the church," has been splendidly aided and abetted by Charles Collins, who as a melodist is hard to beat. Messrs. Francis and Day are the publishers. Miss Ida Barr and Mr. Gus Harris are singing the number.

MR. WALTER MUNROE'S new song, "Patsy Brannigan," by Charles Collins and Fred Murray, will shortly see the light in published form, Messrs. Francis and Day having the number in the press.

MR. TOM COSTELLO has acquired from T. W. Connor, a writer of renown—who can forget his songs for Harry Randall, Herbert Campbell, and George Beauchamp?—a number entitled "The convict and the bird," and Messrs. Francis and Day have published it.

ALF. J. LAWRANCE, since removing to No 2 Arthur-street, has surpassed himself in the matter of production. No fewer than eight songs have during the past few days been published by him with Messrs. Price and Reynolds and B. Feldman and Co. His great "Owl" number for Mr. G. H. Elliott is said to be a revelation. Messrs. Francis and Day have secured that.

THAT refined artist Miss Winifred Hare has been singing with marked success a charming song entitled "My Island of Dream," in which Clifton Bingham's lyric—one in every way worthy of the favourite author's reputation—has been set to a melody by Edith Fortescue which is a thing of beauty. It has been issued by Messrs. Morley and Co. in no fewer than three keys.

"TELL 'EM THAT I'M YOUR UNCLE" is the title of a comedy chorus-song, written and composed by Messrs. A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott. And it promises to be another of the many big songs these famous writers have turned out. Mr. Fred Barnes is the sole singer.

"MY LANCASHIRE QUEEN" is the taking title of a new chorus-song now being sung with gratifying success on the Moss-Stoll tour by Miss Rhoda Paul. It will be featured in next year's pantomimes, and is from the pen of Herbert Shelley.

"THE NEW BUTLER."

Sketch, Produced at the Peckham Hippodrome on Monday, May 2.

The New Butler .....MR. JIMMY LAW
The Husband .....MR. COUTH GRIFFITH
The Wife .....MISS LULU LANGLEY

This is an unpretentious but amusing trifle, evidently designed as a setting for the acting, vocal, and instrumental abilities of Mr. Jimmy Law, who was for some years with the Strolling Players. The new butler, with his trained dog, gets a situation at the house of a gentleman whose wife has temporarily lost her reason, and is consequently subject to violent fits of passion. The unsuspecting young man soon becomes her victim, and some amusing knockabout business takes place. Ultimately she is cured of her complaint, but not before the new butler has been thrown downstairs and otherwise woefully damaged, his faithful dog and himself both appearing limping and covered in bandages. Mr. Jimmy Law was very humorous as the eccentric new butler, and his instrumental selection on the piano was excellent. Miss Lulu Langley played the wife with much spirit, her sleep-walking scene à la Lady Macbeth causing much laughter. Mr. Couth Griffith acted well and sang successfully as the husband, his rendering of "The Bedouin's love song" being loudly applauded.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE OXFORD.

Mr. Blyth Pratt as a caterer has the gift of intelligent anticipation, as one learns from the current programme, which is blessed by the production of a dainty Japanese scena which should become immensely popular during a season devoted to the development of the Jap-British entente cordiale. The first five scenes, some of the prettiest in the land of the chrysanthemum, lead up to a realisation of the quaint little shagi of O Hana San, whom we see taking tea and smoking a tiny pipe. Later, as a geisha she dances one of the "Miyako Odori," or Cherry dances and is joined by her company, who twirl parasols of different shades and coquet with quaint fans. The kimonos worn are beautiful, the one elaborately embroidered having a particularly rich appearance. The white sashes, it appears, are historical; at any rate, they are very pretty, and the whole production is as dainty as it is interesting. The big crowds nightly assembled at the Oxford give O Hana San and her company the heartiest of welcomes.

The Oxford, in fulfilment of its most cherished traditions, is presenting an athletic sensation—this time an all-British one; and we are bold enough to state that a more remarkable sensation than that sponsored by Mr. Archie Goodall has never been seen there. It is entitled "Walking the Hoop"—a modest description indeed for an act that requires nerves of steel and muscles of iron. The "circle" has a circumference of fifty feet, and like a human fly Goodall, with wonderful pluck and coolness, walks to the summit, and standing head downwards, commences a real labour of Hercules by supporting a very flexible contortionist while he locks his legs round his neck. Other feats are performed even more difficult from the point of view of endurance, and the final tour-de-force is reached when he "holds up" the contortionist and a more juvenile performer during their performance of a series of tricks. Then commences the descent, probably as difficult as the climb. Mr. Goodall, who is, of course, known as an "International Footballer," is enthusiastically cheered, but bears his honours modestly, as becomes a true sportsman. His success as an original athlete is well assured.

The spindle side of the company at the Oxford includes Miss Daisy Dormer, whose personality is most alluring. She chooses that very well-written number "The girl in the clogs and shawl," in which she gets a rousing reception. Miss Dormer's turn is all too short for her admirers, who are attracted by the little girl with the almost Oriental beauty, the charm of the true artist, and the real love of her profession. That immense favourite of Oxford audiences, Miss Gertie Gitana, has returned there to enchant her listeners with her singing of "Anna Gray," and her coon song with a quaint incidental dance. Gertie has to answer many recalls.

A fine quartet of comedians, Ernest Shand, Mark Sheridan, Phil Ray, and Wilkie Bard, sustain the high reputation of the house for the best comedy procurable on the variety stage; and laughter is at its loudest when the funny American, W. T. Ellwanger, presents the amusing farce Who Did It? which has been making London smile for some months now. Dale and O'Malley, so cleverly contrasted in styles, make even the most ancient of jokes go well; we see the Stella Troupe of dancers sporting gaily in bathing dresses in the waves of a cinematographic sea; and the absence of Miss May Moore Duprez on the night of our visit let in a very clever American trio, Vardon, Wilbur, and Perry, who will become very popular on this side. They play instruments with the tone and something of the appearance of large guitars, and they sing in delightfully harmonised strains. Mr. Fred Elton has been another absentee through indisposition. Other turns in the fine bill are Mr. Ted Waite, the spasmodic comedian; the Howards; Miss Yvonne Lamor; Miss Hanid Alexander, the clever little girl at the piano; and Mr. Oswald Williams, a smart magician. Mr. Leon Bassett directs an excellent band here.

EALING HIPPODROME.

This week, as usual, Mr. J. A. Molloy presents a well-selected variety programme to his patrons. Ventriloquism never fails to amuse, and Mr. David Poole's vocally endowed dummy is a remarkably good patterer, is sufficiently impudent, and in his song "My Pal" shines as a vocalist. Miss Kitty Upton sings her "Dear Old Bow Bells" with the charm she lends to all her songs. She only gave one number on Monday evening, and the house would have willingly had more of such good fare. The Hyde and Cody Trio dub their turn "eccentrics in insane tricks." They have a good "cut" for their scena representing the grounds of the new Grand Hotel. A pretty waitress is discovered who tells how that the customers who come for a day stay for a week, which, looking at the saucy soubrette who does the chattering, is not to be wondered at. Anon customers arrive in the funniest of motor-cars. Things now commence to hum. The new-comers are clever acrobats, their swinging leaps over the barriers at the garden being very neatly executed. Mr. Jay Laurier is a favourite here, his methods meeting with great favour, especially with the "goddesses," who never cease laughing at his comical faces, while the family diamonds to his fiancée, but delays the gift thereof to a later moment. News comes that her former associate in crime, Dick Trench, has escaped from prison. This is a strong part, and is excellently played by Mr. Graeme Campbell. At large, the villain seeks his unfortunate victim. At first she resists him, but on his threat to murder her lover she agrees to assist him in stealing the diamonds. Barbara Hurst (Miss Hester Newton) makes a last appeal to the scoundrel's better nature. Her lover, unseen, assists at the interview, the escaped convict is bought off, Lord Elton clasps the tortured girl to his breast, and all portends an early ringing of the marriage bells as the curtain falls. Mr. Will Johnson sings of "I am going to see," while the Bioscope shows some funny films. Mr. J. Malcolm Park's band renders the incidental music with excellent effect.

HAMMERSMITH PALACE.

At the head of a long bill here this week is Mr. Carl Hertz, the illusionist, assisted by Miss Emeline D'Alton, who is nightly meeting with his usual success. His tricks mystify the audience completely. Miss Carlotta de Yonson and company are presenting a Sexton Blake adventure entitled The Case of the Kidnapped King. The company is a capable one, the actor playing Sexton Blake being especially good. Another highly-popular turn is that of Miss Frances Letty, who sings "Come back to earth" with much point. She is fortunate, too, in having such excellent assistants as Miss Leonie Brewer and little Tommy Stanley, who in a step-dance with Miss Letty fairly bring down the house. Mr. James Sutton is the able accompanist for this item.

The Four Amaranths, lady acrobatic dancers, win hearty applause for their particularly clever contortionist while he locks his legs round his neck. Other feats are performed even more difficult from the point of view of endurance, and the final tour-de-force is reached when he "holds up" the contortionist and a more juvenile performer during their performance of a series of tricks. Then commences the descent, probably as difficult as the climb. Mr. Goodall, who is, of course, known as an "International Footballer," is enthusiastically cheered, but bears his honours modestly, as becomes a true sportsman. His success as an original athlete is well assured.

Bonnie Miss Venie Clements comes along with chanson and tale. As a raconteuse with her children tales she is inimitable; but in her song "Marie Louise" she shows that she is a dangerous rival to her other self. This is a song of the washing-tub, and is wedded to a tune that lingers long upon the ear. Every word of tale and song comes home, for pretty Miss Venie's diction is beautifully clear, and her turn is a real treat. Les Paolias produce a new athletic entertainment, At Home with a Modern Athlete. With the aid of his fair partner some remarkable lifting feats are shown, exhibiting great strength. Afterwards, in the nude, and with strong lighting effects, the athlete shows how it is done, and, looking at the development of his back, loin, and arm muscles, one ceases to wonder at the ease with which he accomplishes his excellent work.

Rameses, the Egyptian mystic, surrounds himself with an atmosphere of Oriental splendour. We see the Fire Goddess, consumed by flame, reappear unscorched from the midst of the audience, mysterious flowers produced from nowhere, while the Egyptian temple seems literally to vomit wonder upon wonder. Rameses, who is assisted by several damsels picturesquely dressed, has a good reception, and his numberless tricks of sleight-of-hand are triumphs of deception.

The Graeme Campbell company present Broken Fetters, by Geraldine Campbell. It is the tale of a girl who early in life has fallen into the power and become the tool of an unscrupulous villain, and who, withdrawn from his evil influence, becomes the fiancée of Lord Elton, Secretary to the British Embassy in Paris. The scene opens in Barbara Hurst's flat in Paris. Lord Elton (Mr. F. Joynsen Powell) has just exhibited his tale of the "cow and how Mary got the milk" made everyone roar.

Miss Dolly Harmer is exceedingly droll in her two contributions, first as a somewhat wide-awake hospital nurse, and anon as a lady who marries a policeman and imitates his dress and deportment most amusingly. Percy Murray and company provoke a continual stream of merriment in their comedy sketch The Wager, the acting of Mr. Murray himself (whose whiskers, however, leave room for improvement) as William, Mr. Fred Musto as Capt. Stewart, and Miss S. Butter as Molly leaving nothing to be desired, and keeping the ball of fun rolling merrily. Clifford Morgan is a vocal comedian with an exceptionally fine voice, and made up as a trooper, apparently of the 11th Hussars, as he would appear when performing stable work, sings with splendid effect, and in Rudyard Kipling's "Follow me" acts as well as he sings. Mr. Clifford Morgan makes an immediate and unmistakable success.

An illusionist of much originality, a neat worker of wonders, is Fred Wilkinson, who puzzles as much as he delights the audience with his apparently magical powers. Some of his tricks appear quite novel, and the whole may be described as one of the most attractive illusionist shows seen on these boards for many a day. Mr. Wilkinson is ably assisted by a pretty girl, Miss Ruby Mayor, who acts well up to her chief, and seems to enjoy rather than otherwise the many mysterious things she is called upon to do. Musically speaking, the "treat" of the evening is supplied by Miss Bessie Slaughter, whose magnificent contralto—or perhaps mezzo-soprano—voice, rich in quality and remarkable in compass, is heard to great advantage in "Love rules the world," beautifully rendered, and in Sullivan's ever-welcome "Lost chord." In this some of Miss Slaughter's lower notes are remarkably rich. Great amusement is created by Astley's American Circus. The various animals introduced—"Circus Girl," described as the fastest pony in the world, "Sloper," the unrideable mule, even the goat and the sheep engaged—perform as cleverly as high training can make them do, while the pony and mule may be regarded as the perfection of beauty. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, with some excellent pictures, wind up an admirable programme.

THE FORESTERS'.

One is always sure of a good dramatic sketch when visiting this cosy and capably-conducted establishment in the East End, and for this week Mr. Fred Maxwell and company are playing an interesting romantic episode entitled A Divorced Woman. The story deals with a certain adventuress, Stella Raby, who schemes, with success, to divorce Madame Sinclair, her object being to marry the husband, who is so horribly rich. While staying as guest with the Vernons Stella places Madame Sinclair in a compromising position with a lover of hers, at the same time acquainting the husband with the fact, and the couple are divorced. Fortunately, the truth leaks out, and the husband implores his wife to return home. Honours are due to Miss Margaret Watson for her clever acting of Stella Raby; and as the wronged wife Miss Minnie Sadler played delightfully throughout. Mr. Fred Maxwell as Mateo, a small part, was quite up to his usual high standard; and Mr. Leonard Harrison, Mr. Fred Bailey, and Winnie Goodwin sustained the smaller characters capably.

Miss Frances Letty, with Mr. James Sutton, America's brilliant ragtime pianist, little Tommy Stanley, and Miss Leonie Brewer, in The Grandee's Pavilion has surpassed all her previous efforts, for in this little scena she has ample opportunity of displaying her ability. Good music, good songs, and excellent dancing are embodied in this trifle, and the lady is ably assisted by Mr. Sutton at the piano, and Little Stanley, whose dancing is remarkable for one so young, his business during the song "Come back to earth" being especially good. At the conclusion of the act Miss Letty is recalled again and again.

Harry Webber causes laughter with his funny stories regarding his Yiddisher friends; Beale and Broadway are two smart young dancers; Mr. Albert Letine looks well as one of the weaker sex, the costly dresses worn being particularly tasteful. He has a couple of bright songs, and at the finish gives a smart dance which is greatly enjoyed. The Cumberlands, an exceptionally smart troupe of English cyclists, perform many daring acts, the strength of the senior partner being enormous. The comedy portion throughout is far above the average. Cadwell and Verne (Fred and Daisy) in a little scena, Early-Closing Day, depict the doings of a couple of shop assistants, and are bright and full of go. Other good items are the Lindos (vocalists and dancers), Miss Beatrice Lyndon (comedienne), and Perfection Pictures. The orchestra is ably conducted by Mr. Bert Pennell, the comfort of patrons being well cared for by the energetic resident-manager, Mr. Chas. Harvey.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

One of the best all-round variety programmes that has been offered to patrons at the Royal County Theatre is the verdict on this week's bill. Perhaps the most remarkable item in the bill is the performance of Cestria, "the comic juggler and acrobatic waiter," which is well worth travelling a long distance to see. In many of its particulars it is new to patrons of the riverside playhouse. Cestria manipulates dinner plates, balls, cardboard cubes, &c., with remarkable deftness, but each manipulation has a very different ending to the one expected, and one that generally leads to a laugh. His acrobatic performances that accompany the tricks are as remarkable as they are amusing, and give one the impression that the little man must be made of indiarubber. He is the only artist who has ever shown Kingstonians how to turn a somersault standing still from one foot on to the same foot. Dan Lyall, the "eccentric comedian," is also very good, his patter, full of grotesque allusions and comparisons, fairly bringing down the house.

Kennard, a magician, shows some remarkable tricks with cards, empty hats, and flower-pots, ending up with the production of two live rabbits and many artificial flowers from a receptacle where it was supposed they could not possibly be concealed. Miss Violet Romaine, who sings several songs, surprises her hearers by the fullness and power of a contralto voice that would atract notice in a musical play. A most cordial reception is being given to those two comedians Miss Gladys Warren and Mr. Arthur Carlton, who on former occasions had made themselves favourites in Kingston pantomime. Hayes and Watson give a capital exhibition of dancing; and the Lurraines, two young ladies, exhibit remarkable proficiency in playing a number of musical instruments. An extra turn by the Sisters Oswald consists of a dance in which the audience are amazed at the apparent facility with which the performers raise their legs on high until they find out that they are dummies. The sketch entitled Sir 'Erbert, by Mr. Barton White, is noticed in another column.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

Although no star of surpassing brilliance appears on the programme Mr. Pierre Cohen places before his patrons this week, it possesses one inestimable merit, and that is that the most captious of critics could not honestly point his finger to one weak spot in the dozen items of which it is composed. Maud Prenton is a comedienne with a pleasing presence, a good voice, and a capital style. Her rendering of "Come under the table, Mabel," at once ensures success, and in her suffragette song Miss Prenton proves herself to be a good actress as well as an agreeable singer. Jack Barker is an excellent vocalist with a decided talent for the better class of mimicry; his Dutch song, his laughing ditty, and his servant-girl imitation are all artistic. Miss Carrie Laurie's Juveniles, always popular at this house, are in capital form this week, and manage to secure some of the heartiest applause of the evening. A comedian of very considerable talent is Harry Bedford, whose amusing song, "It's bound to come in fashion by and by," is well received, while his weird rendering of a "Salome" song proves him to be an actor of much grotesque power.

Miss Dolly Harmer is exceedingly droll in her two contributions, first as a somewhat wide-awake hospital nurse, and anon as a lady who marries a policeman and imitates his dress and deportment most amusingly. Percy Murray and company provoke a continual stream of merriment in their comedy sketch The Wager, the acting of Mr. Murray himself (whose whiskers, however, leave room for improvement) as William, Mr. Fred Musto as Capt. Stewart, and Miss S. Butter as Molly leaving nothing to be desired, and keeping the ball of fun rolling merrily. Clifford Morgan is a vocal comedian with an exceptionally fine voice, and made up as a trooper, apparently of the 11th Hussars, as he would appear when performing stable work, sings with splendid effect, and in Rudyard Kipling's "Follow me" acts as well as he sings. Mr. Clifford Morgan makes an immediate and unmistakable success.

An illusionist of much originality, a neat worker of wonders, is Fred Wilkinson, who puzzles as much as he delights the audience with his apparently magical powers. Some of his tricks appear quite novel, and the whole may be described as one of the most attractive illusionist shows seen on these boards for many a day. Mr. Wilkinson is ably assisted by a pretty girl, Miss Ruby Mayor, who acts well up to her chief, and seems to enjoy rather than otherwise the many mysterious things she is called upon to do. Musically speaking, the "treat" of the evening is supplied by Miss Bessie Slaughter, whose magnificent contralto—or perhaps mezzo-soprano—voice, rich in quality and remarkable in compass, is heard to great advantage in "Love rules the world," beautifully rendered, and in Sullivan's ever-welcome "Lost chord." In this some of Miss Slaughter's lower notes are remarkably rich. Great amusement is created by Astley's American Circus. The various animals introduced—"Circus Girl," described as the fastest pony in the world, "Sloper," the unrideable mule, even the goat and the sheep engaged—perform as cleverly as high training can make them do, while the pony and mule may be regarded as the perfection of beauty. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, with some excellent pictures, wind up an admirable programme.

OWING to the striking success at the Palace Theatre of Mlle. Pavlova, M. Mordkin, and the clever company of Russian dancers, it has been decided to continue the series of Wednesday matinées, at which several numbers impossible in the ordinary evening programme will be submitted.

SONGS, WRITERS AND SINGERS.

Mr. G. H. Elliott, writing to Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. anent Edgar, Lawrance, and Gifford's "Moon, moon, moon," informs them that it is going bigger than ever this week at the Palace, Bristol. It certainly has great pantomime potentialities. At the Ardwick Empire last week Mr. Elliott was specially requested to sing "By the light of the silvery moon" (another Feldman publication), and on the Thursday night of that week it created a veritable furore. Mr. Elliott will feature both these numbers when he opens in town shortly.

Mr. Mark Sheridan, in addition to his "Beside the seaside" number, has found another Feldman "winner" in his latest comedy chorus song, by Will Letters, "We're miles away from home," and the genial comedian purposes working this "catchy" new number throughout his forthcoming provincial tour. Mr. Sheridan's latest hit will assuredly be in great demand for pantomime this year.

At the Granville, Walham Green, and Ealing this week, Miss Venie Clements has scored an instantaneous success with "Marie Louise," by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford, a number greatly to the liking of West-End auditors, at the Tivoli the previous week. It is published by Messrs. B. Feldman and Co., who have certainly found a rival in popularity to the same authors' "French bonnet," published by the same firm.

Mr. Fred Barnes, after a very big success at Wolverhampton with "I'd rather be by the fireside," by John A. Glover-Kind, is this week going "great guns" with the same number at the Olympia, Liverpool, where the chorus is sung again and again by his delighted hearers.

Miss Alice Kingsley, who is this week appearing at the Empire, Stratford, is about to feature the Feldman ballad, "Beautiful garden of roses," on the Stoll tour. She will also exhibit special slides illustrating various phases in the story.

Mr. Mark Sheridan, at the Olympia, Shoreditch, produced for the first time on Tuesday evening his satirical song "Hear what the crowd say as they come out," by John P. Harrington and John Neat. The witty lines were received with hilarity, and the finish of the song was the signal for tumultuous applause. Mr. Sheridan will make the number one of his principal provincial offerings, and introduce it up West on his return to town. He has also specially commissioned the same writers to equip him with a new number of a "cod" military nature, to produce on his forthcoming provincial tour.

The Sisters Bartholomew have made a pronounced success at the Palace, Halifax, with Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford's charming song "It's the Alpine dress you're wearing," surely one of the most taking numbers Feldman and Co. have ever issued. As a seaside number it has already been phenomenally successful.

Miss Edna Craggs has been achieving a most flattering success at the Palace, Kilmarnock, this week, with Chas. K. Harris's song of sentiment, "A little child shall lead them," one of the most effective ballads published by the firm of Feldman. This talented artist will shortly be featuring several other ballads issued by the same house.

EDINBURGH MARINE GARDENS.

This charming place of resort, which was so much appreciated by the Edinburgh public last summer, was opened for the present season on Saturday of last week. The day was an ideal one for the occasion; the weather was mild and genial, with a gentle breeze, which barely rippled the peaceful waters of the Forth. The opening ceremony was performed by Lord Provost Brown in the concert hall, which was filled to overflowing. His Lordship was accompanied to the platform by several of the magistrates of the city, and a touch of picturesqueness was given to the company by the presence of the city halberdiers. The Lord Provost in a short speech declared the gardens to be opened, and the company afterwards dispersed themselves among the grounds, and listened with pleasure to the admirable playing of H.M. Royal Horse Guards Blue, under the direction of the able conductor, Mr. Manuel Bilton. The usual amusements of scenic railway, figure eight railway, mountain slide, and river caves, afford diversion to the visitors; and there is a spacious skating rink for those who love the exercise. For the entertainment of visitors in wet weather, a large billiard saloon with six tables has been added to the other attractions. There is also an interesting exhibition in the form of a Somali village, showing native kraals, inhabited by a number of African warriors and their wives and children. Performances are given from time to time of javelin-throwing and other sports, which are supposed to represent the diversions of the natives in their own country.

A good concert party has been engaged for the opening week. Mr. Wilson James's vaudeville company, the Enterpeans, under the direction of Mr. Percy Watson, have given performances daily, and the programme is strengthened by the artistic singing of Mr. Robert Burnett, the well-known Scottish baritone; Mr. George Short, pianist; and Mr. Essler Kessen, a smart conjuror.

The general-manager of the Gardens is Mr. G. B. Smith, and the amusements are in the hands of Mr. J. C. Lumsden.

RICHMOND HIPPODROME.

Despite the countless attractions elsewhere, there is no appreciable falling-off in the audiences here, for whom the management cater both wisely and well.

Among the turns is Mr. Edward Ind, a refined and clever comedian, who sings quite cleverly of topical events, and is distinctly welcome. The Sprees—there are two of them—open fire with a quaint medley, entitled Twickenham Ferry, although this has little to do with the show; but the Sprees are a clever couple, and boast a répertoire that is both attractive and tuneful. Perhaps the best of their efforts is the dainty "Slumber Song" from Falka, which long ago charmed all London.

As a contrast to the light humour of the Sprees we have H. M. Paull's sketch, The Intruder, which is admirably represented by Miss Lucy Sibley, and seemed to please the audience amazingly. "Of girls, curls," and other items sings pert and pretty Ethel Beech. Quite early she wins the attention of the audience, and her methods are essentially smart, while her vocal range is quite remarkable. Ethel's success of the evening is, however, her quaint rendition of a sweetheart ditty, "Come around on Sunday." The audience cheered it to the echo. Scotland is capably represented by Mr. John Donald, evidently a worshipper at the shrine of Robbie Burns, and of whom he chants, recites, and generaly eulogises. John has a powerful voice, and it is heard to extreme advantage in "A Scottish Exile's Dream."

For a novelty in acrobatic acts the Three Genlins may lay claim without fear of contradiction. The trio work hard, and are indescribably funny The child is a genius in her way, and the whole act is deliriously amusing. A happy soul is Jack Hylton, who sings a ditty touching on the weaknesses of his neighbours. In a philosophical strain he confesses "He don't grumble—oh, dear, no." With a wonderful amount of energy The Three Dixons literally dance themselves into the hearts of the audience.

"THE FRAME."

Dramatic Episode, in One Scene, by Ronald Macdonald, Played at the Empress, Brixton, on Monday, May 2.

Anatole Montolieu .....Mr. H. A. Saintsbury
Celestine Lebas .....Miss Omar
Mme. Fanchette .....Miss Barbara Fenn

Several of the Play Actors' productions have already found acceptance in the professional market, and the latest to be accorded that distinction is The Frame, which was produced by the enterprising society alluded to on March 20 last. The Frame fits very well on the music-hall stage, and though the figurative rhapsodies of the chief character proved somewhat trying to the audience, the piece received an attentive hearing. We gave a full description of the story in a recent issue, and it only needs now to say that it concerns a Neapolitan artist, named Anatole Montolieu, who has sent his masterpiece "Death" to the Paris Académie, and is awaiting the verdict. To celebrate his birthday his mistress had, unknown to him, purchased a picture-frame on which the artist had set his heart, and hidden it in a cupboard in his room until the letter announcing his success shall have arrived. Anatole, who has drunk deeply, imagines that Celestine, who keeps strict guard over the cupboard, has hidden a rival artist, of whom he is madly jealous, and in a moment of fury stabs his mistress to the heart. At that moment the letter of acceptance arrives, and Anatole, realising his error, precipitates himself from the window into the street below.

The intensity of Mr. H. A. Saintsbury's acting as Anatole gripped the audience, and caused them to follow the piece with close attention. He depicted the debilitating effect of drink with eloquent expression and with wonderfully varied facial play. Miss Omar as the devoted Celestine well suggested the dog-like fidelity of the girl, even towards the man who has caused her death. A grimly humorous touch is obtained by the playing of a cornet outside, which rouses Anatole from his morning slumber and begins again at the moment when the tragedy of the piece is accomplished. Mr. Saintsbury won a success with the sketch, and there was a genuine ring about the cheers that at the close summoned the principals to the footlights.

A dramatic military sketch, Before the Dawn, played by Mr. George Sheldon and Mr. Rawson Buckley's company, has been an attractive item in the programme this week at the Hippodrome, Margate, and the characters, Col. Alwynne (Mr. Fredk. Levison), Major Stetson (Mr. F. Rawson Buckley), Dick Alwynne (Master Reggie Connor), and the Ramah (Mr. John Hampden), have been admirably portrayed. The Matthews Bros., coloured comedians and dancers; Ian Colquhoun, baritone, who sings splendidly; Lily Palmer, comedienne and dancer; the Reays, gymnasts; Little Victoria, juvenile comedienne and dancer; and Cash and Clare, comedians and dancers, also appear each evening with marked success.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

MR. TOM LLOYD.

The well-known comedian, Mr. Tom Lloyd, is a native of Manchester, and like many more of his brethren of the profession, started his career by singing at the free-and-easies in and around his native town. His successes encouraged him to further effort, and his position in the variety world to-day shows that his ambitions have been realised. His first music-hall engagement was at the Empire, Wigan, under the management of Mr. Royal Murray. Since then he has appeared at most of the principal music halls in the United Kingdom, and he has also toured with great success in South Africa. Recently he has been appearing on the Moss and Stoll circuit, and is booked with that firm till 1912. He has been fortunate in securing excellent songs, his latest being two numbers from the pen of that talented author and composer, Mr. Harry Castling, viz., "Votes for Women" and "The sausage and the saveloy."

MR. TOM LLOYD.

Like numerous others, Mr. Lloyd experienced many ups and downs before making headway. Some years ago, after fulfilling a week's engagement with a combination at Stockton-on-Tees, he received for his salary the handsome amount of 10s., and as the fare to his next town (Glasgow) was 16s., he was placed in a very awkward position. With the 10s. he booked as far as Berwick, and upon his arrival there appealed to a fellow-passenger to help him to continue his journey; but his friend for the time being appeared to become deaf and dumb. It was somewhat of a shock to the comedian when he was forced to leave a warm and comfortable carriage and transfer to a cold platform on the borders of Scotland at four o'clock on a winter's morning. There he had to remain for six hours, and was eventually allowed to complete his journey on the security of his "props."

Another curious experience befell Mr. Lloyd a few years ago when working a small music hall in Lancashire. He was surprised to learn that he was to be given a benefit on the Friday night without ever having been consulted in the matter. Special bills were distributed announcing a "complimentary benefit to Tom Lloyd, the great comedian, previous to his tour around the world." The benefit was a big success, but when Tom presented himself to the manager and asked for his share, he was told that he (Tom) was "too familiar." That ended his tour round the world.

"GARGE."

Mr. Bluff .....Mr. L. R. Cathie
Spigot .....Mr. Arthur Jackson
Chump .....Mr. Neild
Wurzel .....Mr. Bruce
Polly .....Miss Kinrose
Garge .....Mr. Robert Ganthony

A pleasant little sketch, Garge; or, The Yokel Millionaire boasts little in the way of plot, but it is quietly humorous and delightfully lifelike. Garge, the yokel, is told that his uncle in Australia has died and left him everything. "Everything" consists, inter alia, of £1,000,000 in solid gold, and Garge is delighted. He goes to London to see the sights, but finds that there he is a fish out of water. He returns to Buckhurst, and the whole play consists of his relation of his experiences in the capital. Mr. Robert Ganthony makes this molehill of a story into a veritable mountain of humour, and his descriptions to the village folk in native dialect are great. He has the country brogue, the gait of the yokel, and the clothes of a sporting millionaire, and with these three attributes contrives to shape a seemingly weak story into a sketch which convulses the onlookers with laughter. Mr. Cathie makes a typical country landlord; Spigot, the oldest inhabitant, is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Arthur Jackson, who illustrates that talkative old fellow to the life; and Mr. Neild as Chump, the postman, is very good. Miss Kinrose provides a pleasant contrast to the men, and looks sweet and charming as Polly, the landlord's daughter.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

VARIETY ARTISTS' FEDERATION.

SPECIAL GENERAL MEETING.

A special general meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation was held yesterday (Friday) at the Bedford Head Hotel, Maiden-lane, W.C., for the purpose of rescinding that part of Rule 21 which reads:

"From such levy the Executive Committee shall be empowered to pay necessary funeral expenses immediately, and in case of members accepted prior to Feb. 18, 1910, to pay any balance to the person nominated on the form provided for that purpose, or failing such nomination or production of a will, to the next-of-kin. In the case of new members, no death levy will be made unless a nomination form has been filled up."

Mr. W. H. Clemart was in the chair, and said the meeting was called with the purpose of putting everyone on the same footing with regard to the death levy. It was for those present to consider the three amendments that had been put upon the paper. The first one reads:

"From such levy the Executive Committee shall be empowered to pay necessary funeral expenses immediately, and to pay any balance to the person nominated on the form provided for that purpose, or, failing such nomination or production of a will, to the next-of-kin."

That amendment meant putting everyone on the same footing. Amendment No. 2 was a suggestion from Mr. Bartram, and read:

"From such levy the Executive Committee shall be empowered to pay necessary funeral expenses immediately, and failing the production of a nomination form executed by the member concerned, to pay any balance into the funds of the Variety Artists' Federation."

No. 3 is Mr. Austen Lenton's idea, and is the same as No. 2 with an addition, and reads:

"From such levy the Executive Committee shall be empowered to pay necessary funeral expenses immediately, and failing the production of a nomination form executed by the member concerned, to pay any balance into the funds of the Variety Artists' Federation. This rule to apply to each and every member in full benefit, and to come into operation on and after Oct. 31, 1910."

Miss Cecilia Macarte proposed, and Mr. Howard Warde seconded, that amendment No. 1 be adopted, This, on being put to the vote, was carried unanimously, and became the proposition.

The amendment to this, proposed by Mr. Bertram read No. 2 on the business paper. Mr. Bartram said they had considerable difficulty where no will had been made by one of their members, and they had had in some cases to take out letters of administration before they could pay the funeral money. Mr. Davis seconded Mr. Bartram's amendment. This amendment was put to the vote and was lost.

The third amendment was withdrawn by Mr. Austen Lenton.

The first amendment consequently is now embodied in Rule 21.

"FREDDIE'S FLAT."

Sketch, Produced at the Peckham Hippodrome on Monday, May 2.

Jack Foy .....Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm
Patricia Kileroney .....Miss Olive Tempest

This proved to be a merry and well-written duologue, giving us some fifteen minutes of continuous laughter. It should prove very popular at the halls. Patricia Kileroney, a comely bachelor girl, has been lent the use of his flat at 12, King Edward's Mansions, by her brother, who is away. By some mistake she enters the flat opposite, which is numbered 12a, and belongs to her brother's chum, Jack Foy. Bubbling over with girlish fun, being all alone and having nothing better to do, she puts on what she imagines to be her brother's garments, and much fancies herself in a shooting costume. Unfortunately, Jack Foy then enters, and as she does not like to compromise herself by stating she is a woman, Jack naturally believes her to be a man, and an amusing situation arises. Jack insists on his newly-found friend having a cigar and a whisky and soda, much to her discomfiture, and altogether the lady is in a most uncomfortable plight. At last certain articles of feminine attire which she has discarded and vainly tried to hide behind the sofa, are discovered, and the young man finds out that the intruder is a pretty girl, and his chum's sister. Ultimately the young lady says "Good-bye," and goes off to her brother's flat, making a promise to meet Jack on the morrow.

Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm's success in character parts at the West End houses is well known, and his Jack Foy was a natural and admirable piece of character acting. Miss Olive Tempest, a shapely and tall young lady, played with much cleverness as the hoyden Patricia Kileroney, making a handsome lad in her masculine attire.

Miss Lilian Durand, the dramatic soprano, supported by a company of well-known artists, opens on Monday next at the Camberwell Palace, presenting a spectacular scena with choir, organ, special scenery, and effects.

In consequence of fire, a sale by auction will take place at Messrs. Chadwick and Sons, 64, Long Acre, W.C., on Friday next, May 13, when the whole of the stock of the New Film Hiring Co., 97, St. Martin's-lane, will be sold without reserve. Upwards of 1,000 films of up-to-date subjects and in good condition are for disposal.

The chief attractions at the Hackney Empire on Monday are American, and the announcement of the return of Mr. R. G. Knowles, one of our greatest comedians, should draw big audiences at that popular house. He brings with him on his present visit a heap of new songs and new patter. Chas. T. Aldrich, the other Yank, is responsible for some of the quickest changes on record, introducing life-like impressions of David Garrick, Colonel Cody, Fagin the Jew, and others. He is not the least mirth-provoking as a tramp juggler, accompanied by a remarkable bulldog.

An order for an injunction against Mr. Will Evans, of the London Theatre of Varieties, Ltd., was made, on an application on behalf of the Hackney and Shepherd's Bush Palaces, Ltd., upon a motion for judgment before Mr. Justice Darling, on Saturday. The case made for the plaintiffs was that Mr. Evans, a variety artist, performed at the Olympia, Shoreditch, one of the defendant's theatres, in breach of an agreement not to appear at any place of amusement within two miles of the Hackney Palace of Varieties during the continuance of his engagement with the plaintiffs. The injunction was granted.

It must surely be unique for a male artist to receive floral tributes at a London music hall. Such was the gratifying experience of George Mozart recently at the second house at Shoreditch Olympia, when Rameses roses found their way back to the stage as a tribute to the popular comedian. Ramases, whose turn preceded Mozart's, had distributed some fine flowers and buttonholes to the audience. At the conclusion of Mozart's turn someone threw one of Rameses' roses to him. He picked it up and commenced to put it in his coat, when a shower of similar floral tributes were flung on the stage, literally at Mozart's feet. He seemed surprised and touched by so novel and pretty an appreciation, and, looking shyly round, he said: "Is there anything else to come?" Needless to say, his quip meets with great applause.

Sir Edward Moss went holiday-making in the East last year, and Lady Moss kept a diary. The result to-day is an extremely interesting record of fact, fancy, traveller's tales, and even trouble encountered, to be found within the white and gold covers of a book published this week by John Ouseley. Plentifully sprinkled throughout its large-type pages are dozens of snapshots—and excellent ones, too—of unique scenes in America, China, Japan, Ceylon, Egypt, and even Honolulu, all taken by Lady Moss herself.

From a careful perusal of "A Scamper," it is evident that Lady Moss has been at endless pains to give this literary effort a popular as well as a finished touch.

And so we get interspersed with good factive matter, well-known, of course, to the born globe-trotter, a wealth of anecdote of interest to all.

Naturally, the wife of one of the world's best entertainment-providers would be quick to comment on her first visit to a theatre in China. She was keenly critical of everything she saw, to the smallest detail. Lady Moss tells us that "the price of admission for Europeans was a dollar, and the house consisted of stalls, pit, a large circle, and a gallery at the back of the auditorium holding about twelve hundred people. The place was crowded—in fact, the management insisted on turning some natives out of their seats to make room for our party."

Sir Edward's comments on Chinese theatre management would be interesting at this juncture; but, like a wise man, he refrains.

"There was no scenery on the stage, or footlights, and the orchestra, consisting of tom-toms, various stringed instruments, and so on, sat at the back, behind the actors. A policeman patrolled the platform, evidently to keep order, for the audience seemed to have free access to the stage and its precincts. The stage-manager, who was also the property-master, and smoked a pipe continually, never left the stage, but remained in full view of the audience the whole time, arranging chairs, tables, and other accessories, which were supposed to represent mountains, trees, &c., according to the requirements of the scene. I cannot say that I was particularly struck with the charms of the leading lady, whose chief attraction seemed to be the smallness of her feet. Women, of course, are not allowed to act as a rule in China. But as Hong-Kong is under British rule, the prohibition is not in force there. Later, we saw male actors taking women's parts, and, for the purpose, I suppose, of giving 'verisimilitude to an otherwise bald and unconvincing' masquerade, they actually wore false small feet!"

Lady Moss got a gentle hint as to the smallness of this world of ours when she arrived at Miyojima, in Japan. At breakfast she ordered tea, and the waiter went straight to a sideboard, and took out a handful from a canister labelled "Lipton."

There is quite a pretty pen picture of Japan's Sacred Island, and the visit paid to it by the great variety magnate and his wife. "Everyone, I suppose," remarks her Ladyship, "pictures Japan as an ideally beautiful place, full of gorgeous colouring, with masses of bloom and flowers. Certainly this island fully realises the most extravagant ideas one may have entertained regarding the country. Apart altogether from this, the Sacred Island has a unique and peculiar character of its own. To start with, every living thing is sacred, even the crows, and no births or deaths are allowed to take place on its soil. There are no conveyances of any kind, and the sacred animals that live on the island are so tame that they feed out of one's hand. Although the Jap ladies have not yet started to ape the European fashions, they were extremely interested in my own garments. One man rushed up to me on one occasion with a baby in his arms, and rubbed it against my dress for several seconds. I was told this was to bring it luck."

In Yokohama Sir Edward took a snapshot of a Chinese tailor's sign, which read "T. F. Cock-Eye, Tailor." Lady Moss does not inform us whether her lord has added a frock-coat suit, duly hall-marked, to his wardrobe or not by this quaintly-named son of the shears.

Lady Moss tells how she met with a lady the proud owner of a hundred kimonos, and was extended a cordial invitation to view the garments. It is decidedly unkind of her ladyship to close the chapter abruptly directly she has recorded this fact.

At a place called Kozu Lady Moss had a unique experience. "To get any sort of a wash," she says, "we had to go to the public bath-room, and perform our ablutions in the presence of a number of interested spectators. I could not shake them off when I returned to my bedroom, for they were tremendously eager to see me do my hair, standing round and discussing my actions the whole time. This hair-dressing business, by the way, resolved itself into quite a difficult feat, for, there being no furniture of any kind, I had to prop my small hand-mirror against the bed, and, kneeling on the floor, complete my toilet as best I could. The mere man may not realise what this means, but I know I should have had the sympathy of any of my own sex in my predicament. Not that my husband was unsympathetic, but he was too much occupied with his own troubles to worry about mine, four mousmees insisting on staying in the room to watch him shave and dress. Nothing moved them, and he had to sumbit to this unrehearsed 'dress rehearsal' with as much grace as he could muster. They were like so many children buzzing about, full of the most intense curiosity and interest in everything we were doing."

It would scarcely be fair to quote at greater length from Lady Moss's delightful "Scamper," but we must ask her forgiveness for reprinting her allusion to a Jap honeymoon couple who boarded the train on which she and Sir Edward were, and who were being seen off by a crowd of friends: "The bride—a pretty blushing young thing—was clad in Japanese costume, but the bridegroom, whether in honour of the occasion or not, I cannot say, had got a complete European outfit, brand new, and most uncomfortable to look at. His coat, meant to be a frock coat, swept the floor behind him as he walked; his trousers were extremely ill-fitting; his waistcoat was bright violet with green spots; and his tie a vivid yellow. To add to his misery—and he certainly did look miserable—his brown leather boots were far too small for feet that were obviously unaccustomed to such luxuries, and so had, perforce, to be left unbuttoned. Like all his countrymen, he sat on the seat of the train in cobbler fashion, with his legs tucked under him, and in this Buddha-like attitude he presented, with his outré European clothing, quite the most comical figure I have ever seen."

A SENSATIONAL feature of this week's programme at the Empire, Manchester, is the wrestling of India's catch-as-catch-can champions, Gama, Imam Bux, Ahmed Buksh, and Gamu, all British subjects, who invite exciting contests nightly. Edw. Blondell and company are very entertaining in the American comedy success, The Lost Boy; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, gives a popular turn; Vanando's novelty ventriloquism is enjoyable; the Five Whiteleys are seen in their acrobatic wire-walking musical pot-pourri; Sanford and Lyons, comedians and simultaneous dancers, are, as usual, a big hit; and other pleasing turns are Onida Macdermott, the charming vocal actress; the Three Empire Girls, vocalists and dancers; C. J. Johnson, the Black Diamond; the Korries, in a novelty musical act; and Baby Boden, a clever juvenile comedienne and dancer.

DEATH OF LOTTIE COLLINS.

By the death of Lottie Collins the variety stage loses one of the most notable stars of the last years of the nineteenth century. In the 'nineties the famous comedienne reached the apogee of her popularity with the song and dance which took London and New York by storm. The frenzied activity, the fierce energy, the complete abandon of the whirl-dance which followed the verses of "Ta-ra-ra-Boomdeay" made an enormous hit, and probably laid the foundations of heart trouble, to which the popular artist succumbed on Sunday last, at the age 42.

Miss Lottie Collins was dedicated to the stage in early childhood, her father having been a member of one of the very early minstrel troupes. He was an accomplished step-dancer, but he entrusted the training of little Lottie to Charlie Buckingham, the husband of Mlle. Cerito, at one time a very popular dancer in America, and the father of the late Miss Patti Rosa. With Lottie were Lizzie and Marie, and the trio performed as the Sisters Collins. They used to appear with particular success at the Oxford, where they danced under the management of Mr. J. H. Jennings in a ballet arranged by Mr. Paul Valentine, entitled Skiptomania, and at Lusby's, where they found a very great friend in Mr. Charles Crowder, afterwards partner with Mr. G. Adney Payne. They performed in three pantomimes at the Pavilion, Mile End—where Ada Reeve had her early training—a theatre that has been a veritable nursery for stage talent. They played also at the old Oriental Theatre (now the Queen's Palace), Poplar, in Uncle Tom's Cabin. About the age of fifteen Lottie left the trio of sisters and appeared on her own.

On her first appearance at the Tivoli she sang "The whistling coon," and also at the London Pavilion. Through her sand and other dancing at the Syndicate houses she was named the Kate Vaughan of the music halls—a title of which she was very proud. Like other famous music-hall performers before her, the deceased lady became a member of the Gaiety company on the production of Richard Henry's burlesque melodrama of Monte Cristo, jun., in which she played the part of Mariette. The cast was quite a remarkable one. It included Nelly Farren, Fay Templeton, Agnes Delaporte, Jenny M'Nulty, Florence Beale, Sylvia Grey, Fred Leslie, E. J. Lonnen, Charlie Ross (another recruit from the halls), Windham Guise, George Honey, and George Stone.

The great event in her stage career was the production of "Ta-ra-ra-Boomdeay," which became the rage of England and America, and was introduced into burlesque, pantomime, and musical comedy at the theatres in both countries, becoming the vogue both on the greater and the lesser stage. The song was of American origin, and it may have been sung at camp meetings by devout negroes. Miss Collins's husband heard the song in the States, but its potentialities were not discovered until Lottie sang a specially adapted version of it by Mr. Richard C. Morton at a morning performance at the Tivoli, where it aroused immense enthusiasm, and was promptly reproduced in the evening. This was in 1891. The management of the Grand, Islington, secured Lottie for the part of Alice Fitzwarren, and also for the celebrated song and dance. At the finish of the Islington engagement, March, 1892, Miss Collins went to the Gaiety, and by permission of the Syndicate was allowed to brighten one of the scenes in Cinderellen with the famous number.

The deceased comedienne visited America again and again with her own companies, making one of her early successes in that country with The Circus Rider—a piece played in this country by Miss Cora Stuart under the title of The Fair Equestrienne—and touring later with the Lottie Collins' Troubadours. About 1895 she appeared at the Palace Theatre under the management of Mr. Charles Morton, and went on Feb. 12, 1896, to the Avenue Theatre to play the part of Dora in The New Barmaid, afterwards taking the title-rôle—Ethel Joy. The piece was transferred to the Opera-Comique in June.

It was in August, 1900, she went to Australia, under the management of Harry Rickards, and sang at the Tivoli, Sydney, for nine weeks. On the last night of her performance there she was presented with a handsome manicure set and dressing-case suite, which were handed across the footlights by several lady friends. The gift was inscribed:—"Presented to Miss Lottie Collins from a few admiring friends, Sydney, N.S.W. March 5, 1901. Of late the health of the deceased lady had prevented her appearance on the stage.

Miss Lottie Collins was twice married, her first husband being Mr. Stephen Cooney, a theatrical manager, who died at Saratoga in 1901. Her second marriage was with Mr. James W. Tate, the well-known composer and comedian at the piano. Of the deceased artist's sisters Lizzie is partner in the well-known music-hall combination, Athas and Collins. Miss José Collins, who is a well-known performer in the West-End halls, is a daughter of the deceased.

The remains of the deceased artist were interred at the Islington Cemetery, situated at East Finchley, on Thursday afternoon. All the way from her home in the Tufnell Park-road to the cemetery crowds of people watched the funeral procession pass. The chief mourners were Mr. James W. Tate (husband), who came especially from Belfast, where he was fulfilling an engagement, Miss Marie Collins and Miss Lizzie Collins (sisters), Miss Jose Collins, Miss Lucia Collins, Miss Ada Collins, Miss Marie Collins (daughters), Mr. Albert Collins (brother), Miss Elsie Athas (niece), Mr. Athas, Roma and Romani, Nina Cargill, Phillips, and others. The hearse was filled with beautiful wreaths from relatives and friends of the deceased singer. A tribute came from Miss Marie Lloyd and one from Miss Letty Lind. Another of the wreaths bore the following inscription: "I hope you are at rest—to my dear sister Lottie, form Marie." The grave was lined with evergreens, and on the coffin were inscribed the words: "Charlotte Louise Tate. Died May 1, 1910. Aged 42 years."

THE LATE LOTTIE COLLINS.

"AN UNINVITED GUEST."

A Comedy Sketch, Presented at the Granville Theatre of Varieties on Monday, May 2.

Mrs. Jenkins ..... MISS MARIE MURRAY
Mr. Jenkins ..... MR. FRANK ERNEST
Cabman ..... A. GROWLER
George Verdant Green ..... MR. FRED RAINS

Although the plot of this sketch is of a very slender character, there is, nevertheless, plenty of genuine humour in it, and at times it provoked much hearty laughter amongst the Walham Green variety goers. Owing to a misdirected letter, Mrs. Jenkins returns home to her flat, and is astonished to find in possession of it Mr. Green, who, through a misunderstanding, is in the wrong apartments. Before a satisfactory explanation can be arrived at Mr. Jenkins' voice is heard on the stairs. Having been to a friend's birthday party at the club, Mr. Jenkins is somewhat elevated, which gives his wife time to hastily garb the "uninvited guest" is some rather ludicrous feminine attire. The eventual exposure at last takes place, and with the satisfactory explanations that Mr. Green is able to furnish, amity once more reigns.

As Mrs. Jenkins Miss Mary Murray plays intelligently and well, and gave good effect to her lines; Mr. Frank Ernest enacted the bewildered husband in a capable way, and Mr. Fred Rains portrayed George Verdant Green admirably, his actions and make-up being decidedly humorous, and his eccentricities in female attire were devoid of any suggestiveness.

Other attractions in a well-arranged programme comprised Mr. Tom E. Leamore, in some of his successful ditties; Miss May B. Brilliant, a chic comedienne; Mr. Fritz Van Liston, a remarkable operatic siffleur and bird imitator; Miss Clara Reid and John Power, in an amusing playlet, The Chambermaid; Mr. Herbert Rule, the comedian with a finished style, who scored highly with his latest successes, "La La" and "Standing on the Quay," and Miss Venie Clements, with her cleverly delivered stories of baby life, and her pretty rendering of a simple yet withal effective song, "Molly Louise."

Great Scot, the Ladder King, thrilled all with his sensational balancing feats, and the Smart Set, including Miss Georgie Martin, were excellently received in their refined vocal drawing-room act. The band, under Mr. Frank Thomas's skilful direction, played their selections faultlessly, and Mr. Robert W. Duce is a courteous manager.

WARM thanks are due to Mr. Albert Bushell, who successfully organised the concert at the Gaiety Theatre, Birmingham, last Sunday evening in aid of the unfortunate football club.

MR. FRED BARNES is still scoring very heavily with the big song by Gloverkind, published by Messrs. Feldman and Co., entitled "I'd rather be beside the fireside." This song promises to be the alfresco favourite this year.

IN our notice last week of Fred Maxwell's company at the Bow Palace, we mentioned the good work done by little "Grace Warden." This part, we are informed by Mr. Fred Goodwin, has been taken since April 25 by Winnie Goodwin, who has just returned from a tour with Max Montesole's company, Pinkie and the Fairies, in which play for the last few weeks she took the part of Elf Twinkle.

"SIR 'ERBERT."

Arthur Corsellis, J.P. ..... MR. FRED MORGAN
Vera ..... MISS EMILY SPILLER
Smiler ..... MR. EDWIN BARWICK
Moucher Mike ..... MR. ARTHUR WILLIAMS

Forming the chief item in a varied programme, Mr. White's little sketch met with a most favourable reception when it was produced at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston, on Monday night and during the week, "Sir 'Erbert" is the playful patronymic of a tramp, and his introduction into the sketch is doubtless intended as an object-lesson to those whose misdirected sympathies lead them to squander much valuable charitable effort upon undesirable objects. A typical example of this class of person is Mrs. Vera Corsellis, the young wife of a Justice of the Peace, who has conceived the idea that there is no coat so ragged that it does not cover some virtues, and that this is more true of tramps than of any other class that has failed in the struggle for existence. And giving a practical application to her sympathies by relieving every tramp that calls at her house, the place quickly becomes known amongst the fraternity, through the agency of private marks chalked upon the front gate, with the result that the visits of mendicants—good, bad, and indifferent—are more numerous than Mr. Corsellis, who does not share his wife's fancy, appreciates. And it is in order to convince his wife of the error of her ways that he gets up the little story in which Sir 'Erbert plays so important a part. It appears that Smiler, his lugubrious butler, has a broken-down actor friend, nick-named Sir 'Erbert, who is great in "making up," and this person, unknown to Mrs. Corsellis, is invited to come to the house disguised as a tramp, where he is to be treated right royally, and given every opportunity of annexing whatever valuables he fancies, and, of course, restoring them when the loss is discovered and the lesson has had its effect.

On the appointed day the tramp appears at the luncheon hour, and to his apparent great surprise is invited into the house and offered a seat at the hospitable board. His antics, no less than his personal recollections at table, are of the most mirth-provoking character, and are immensely enjoyed by Mr. Corsellis and his butler, who are "in the know," though the lady is not altogether charmed with her visitor. During the meal Sir 'Erbert, as he is dubbed, improves the shining hour by stealthily annexing all the silver knives and forks within his reach, and then, gorged to repletion, he is left alone for a few moments, so that he might have an opportunity of stealing whatever else he fancied. Strong in her hobby, Mrs. Corsellis leaves behind her a valuable diamond necklace, and Mr. Corsellis added to the temptation by leaving his gold watch and chain beside it. These were the first articles that Sir 'Erbert pounced upon and secreted about his person.

Next he seized a silver clock; all the silver on the table, including the remainder of the knives and forks, the silver salvers, and the soup tureens and entree dishes, which he managed to hide into capacious pockets on the inside of his overcoat. Then, forcing open a desk, he found a pocket-book full of bank notes, a cheque book, a box of cigars, a box of cigarettes, and other articles, and, heavily loaded, he takes his departure. When Mr. and Mrs. Corsellis return to the room and discover their loss, the lady's grief may be imagined, but, when the lesson has had time to work, Mr. Corsellis hastens to assure her that all is right, and discloses the little plot he had prepared for her. But her joy and her husband's satisfaction are rudely changed to consternation when the butler enters the room and announces a telegram from the actor, stating that he had broken his leg and could not come, and the truth then flashes on them that the supposed amateur tramp was a real one after all.

The story is admirably conceived and constructed and for twenty minutes furnishes material for genuine and hearty laughter. It gives opportunity also for the display of some capital character acting by Mr. Arthur Williams and Mr. Edwin Barwick, who play the parts of Moucher Mike, the tramp, and Smiler, the butler, respectively. Mr. Williams gives a realistic picture of the ragged mendicant, that is punctuated by many little drolleries that never fail to provoke a laugh; and Mr. Barwick as the long-faced butler is equally successful. Mr. Fred Morgan makes a capital Arthur Corsellis; and a clever portraiture of Vera is given by Miss Emily Spiller.

LIFEBOAT SATURDAY FUND MATINEE.

Under the patronage of the Mayor of Islington (Councillor H. J. Clarke, J.P.) and Lord Charles Beresford, J.P., a matinée in aid of the Lifeboat Saturday Fund (Islington Branch) was given at Collins's Music Hall on Friday. The entertainment was organised by a strong local committee, with Ald. T. W. Saint as chairman, Councillor T. H. Dey as vice-chairman, and Councillor F. Hallam as hon. secretary. The use of the hall was kindly granted by Mr. H. A. Sprake, the proprietor. The attendance more than realised the expectations of the committee, and a substantial sum will be handed over to the Lifeboat Fund. The programme opened with the overture "A life on the ocean wave," by the orchestra, conducted by Mr Alf. Petersen, and the early turns included Miss May Glenister, who sang "Within your heart"; Miss Olive Young, male impersonator; Mather and Mayer, with song and dance; Miss Violet Essex, who sang with charm and expression; and the Sisters Glynn, banjoists and dancers. Mr. Robert Anthony gave "The lifeboat men" in capital style, and Miss Grace Rosaire, as an Irish colleen, was successful with "The old plaid shawl." Miss Janet Reeve was applauded for her rendering of "Only a penny," and her sisters, Mabel and Hester Reeve, scored in a duet, "Life's dream is o'er." Juvenile talent was well represented by Irene Velma, Maggie Roling, and Amy Amos. Other contributors were Tod Lowen, Hughes and Elliott, Claude Gardner, Maude Esmond, Chas. Dillon, Louis Seymour, Maisie Dene, Maude and Stafford, Jennie Claremont, Sid Turner, Clive and Clarke, Chas. Robinson, and Chas. Sloman. The stage-managers were Messrs. Will Conley, Will Clinch, and Joe Cohen, and the following artists acted as programme sellers: The Misses Ethel Eden, Jennie Alexander, Kitty Leon, Mabel Hester, Ruby and Janet Reeve, Olive Young, and Flora Mill. Mr. G. Ivor Sparke was the assistant-manager. Councillor T. H. Dey, on behalf of the committee, proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. H. A. Sprake, the proprietor of the hall, Councillor A. L. Williams, the manager, the artists, the orchestra, and staff, who had generously given their services. He said that the name of Sprake was quite a household word in Islington, for the late Mr. Herbert Sprake had always been foremost in the cause of charity, and his son was evidently following his excellent example.

Mr. H. E. Sprake, in response, said it had given him great pleasure to grant the use of the hall for the matinée. He was sure that the artists, the orchestra, and the staff would always be willing to give their services in a good cause.

AT the meeting of the Brighton Town Council on Thursday a resolution, submitted by the Aquarium Committee expressing the opinion that the time had now arrived for the provision of a permanent house for the municipal orchestra was approved by a large majority. The committee have now to submit a detailed scheme to the council.

MR. MACNAGHTEN APPEALS.

On Wednesday, in the case of Macnaghten v. the Proprietors of the Stage, before Lords Justices Vaughan Williams, Moulton, and Farwell, an application was made by the plaintiff for a new trial of the action heard before Mr. Justice Ridley and a special jury. The action was for damages for an alleged libel, and the substantial defence was that the article complained of, which appeared in the Stage, was fair comment on a matter of public interest.

Mr. Marshall Hall, K.C., and Mr. Martin O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. W. B. Blackwell and Co.) appeared in support of the appeal; Mr. Lush, K.C., and Mr. Charles Doughty (instructed by Messrs. Woodham Smith and Borradaile) for the defendants.

The plaintiff, who had about twenty-seven music halls, in 1907 agreed with Messrs. Scott and Brodie that they should produce a sketch, entitled The Drummer of the 76th, at a series of music halls, beginning at Bow on Dec. 9, 1907, and going to, among other places, Sadler's Wells Music Hall, where they were due on Dec. 23. On Nov. 27 the plaintiff was convicted at a police-court for permitting two stage plays to be performed at the Surrey Music Hall, and his manager found that if the Scott and Brodie sketch were to be produced at Sadler's Wells Music Hall further proceedings would result. The plaintiff's manager asked Messrs. Scott and Brodie to take their company to Southampton, and perform there instead of at Sadler's Wells, but this was refused, and they sued the plaintiff for £25, the sum which would have been payable for appearance at Sadler's Wells. The county court judge held in favour of the plaintiffs, but the Divisional Court reversed that decision, holding that the main defence, namely, that the production of a stage play at Sadler's Wells Music Hall was illegal, was a good defence to the claim.

On May 28, 1908, the defendants, in commenting on the result of Messrs. Scott and Brodie's action in the county court—the case had not then been heard by the Divisional Court—published in the Stage the article which constituted the alleged libel. In the course of the article it was said:—"The Macnaghten management, which appears with unenviable frequency in the law courts, sought to evade a contract on the ground that within the knowledge of both parties the contract was illegal, as Sadler's Wells was unlicensed for stage plays. . . . Mr. Macnaghten was not content to abide by the merits of the case, but relied on the discreditable defence just referred to. We say discreditable because, in our opinion, it goes behind the contract, and breaks the faith that lies in a man's word. . . . Mr. Macnaghten, with his own undertaking before him, tries to skulk out of it . . . in order to cover up a fault on his own side. . . . Sketch artists cannot afford to take the risks involved in a contract that an unscrupulous manager may repudiate at any moment. It is not advisable to take it where a man is cynically indifferent enough to try to prove in court that his bond is worth nothing, and that his word behind the bond is a delusion and a snare." At the trial Mr. Justice Ridley held that the defence of fair comment was a good defence. In his opinion there was nothing to be left to the jury, and judgment accordingly was entered for the defendants. A stay of execution was, however, granted, pending an appeal to this court.

After hearing arguments, Lord Justice Vaughan Williams said: We are all of one mind—that the case was improperly withdrawn from the jury.

Mr. Lush.—Then it is useless my arguing the case further if there is to be a new trial.

Mr. Hall.—I ask for the costs of this appeal in any event.

Lord Justice Vaughan Williams.—Yes; the usual order.

MR. CHARLES COBORN has arranged with Mr. Fred Baugh to appear at several of the London Macnaghten halls, commencing on the 16th inst.

THE Wednesday picture matinée performances, in which trial turns are introduced, and which were inaugurated by Mr. Ernest Bridgen, manager of the Empire Palace Theatre, South Shields, are proving very successful and drawing packed houses. Gratton and Delaine, who are appearing at the Empire Palace Theatre this week, were selected from one of these matinée trial performances, and are being well received.

THOMAS WILLIAM JESSHOPE, the discharged fireman charged with the murder of John Healey, stage-carpenter at the Camberwell Empire, on Easter Monday, was sentenced to death on Friday last week at the Old Bailey.

THE prisoner's mental condition was the defence offered, and Mr. Frank G. A. Hitchcock, of Broad-court-chambers, Bow-street, the solicitor for the condemned man, has, we are informed, obtained further evidence in support of the plea of temporary insanity, and the question of lodging an appeal or petitioning the Home Secretary is under consideration.

JOHN HOLTUM, the original Cammon King, is on the road "tenting" in California, and writes to us under date April 16:—"Although I will be sixty-five on Oct. 29, I am in sturdy health, bodily and mental. I hope and intend to visit old England—good old England!—to lecture and perform on my own accord. This little show started from Oakland, California, about six weeks ago; only one ordinary clown and a trick pony unable to do anything. I occupy the 50ft. 'Round-top' (or one half of the programme), lecturing in seven languages. This is an ideal day, a perfect summer day, about 85deg. I am looking at the Sierra Nevada Mountains covered with snow. In 1863 I visited the same spot by waggon, and am doing it again to-day for health and money. I enjoy camping life myself. Best wishes to all my admirers in days gone by in good old England. Kindly say that I am fully alive, and will return after this season if God spares me."

Manchester Industrial Exhibition.

Rusholme, where the Exhibition buildings and grounds are located, is the centre of a teeming population. We draw our readers' attention to the advertisement with regard to side shows in this week's issue.

Stockport May Fair.

As usual, this fair was supplied with all kinds of shows and other attractions. These included the exhibits of the local firm, J. Hibbert and Sons, their novelties being racing birds, jumping horses, and park swings. The principal shows were Captain Tom Payne's No. 2 bioscope and Layland's marionette theatre. The side-shows included Furniss's boxing booth and the freak show of the same proprietor, and Petana's school of athletes. The other riding machines at the fair were John Green's racing motors, Mitchell's careering cockerels, Walter Shaw's steam swings, and juvenile roundabouts by Phillips, Montgomery and Chaplain; Winchester ranges and shooting galleries by Humphrey, Booth, Starkie, and Burton; square and round houp-las by Humphries, Walker, Harrington, Thomas, Brennan, Clayton, and Chaplain; cokers and varieties by Wright, Smith, Stott, and Murphy.

Alton Fair.

This Hampshire fair was under the sole control of Mr. Matthews, the local showman, who provided a capital array of amusements, including steam circus, park swings, houp-la circles, shooting ranges, throwing games, toy and other stalls.

Notes from Wales.

Miss Ada Alexander's circus visited Neath on Friday, April 29, and presented an excellent programme. Maccan's Dogs go through a very clever performance; Kurio, the enigma and doctor's puzzle, proved very popular; the Bros. Zeena are a clever couple on the three horizontal bars; Mr. John Yelding is very smart in his acts on horseback; Mlle. Hettie very cleverly goes through her dashing bar and gate act; Hyett, the society juggler, is a strong attraction, and met with well-deserved applause; Lo-Lo and May go through a pleasing and graceful performance on the trapeze; the whole of the company successfully appear in The Brigands; most amusing are the sayings of Hairpin, Chicken, and Sleepy George, three excellent clowns, and worthy of notice; and Mr. J. Brains is a capable ring-master; and Mr. J. Yelding as equestrian director is well placed; Bess is a clever performing mare. The orchestra, under Mr. Corbett, contribute with some well selected music.

Helston Flora.

Wednesday, May 11, is fixed for the holding of the historical Flora Dance, which promises this year to be more attractive than ever. Messrs. Anderton and Rowland have already opened the great World's Carnival on the Lower-green with a greater amalgamation of amusements than in previous years, including their great picture palace and empire theatre of varieties, gondola switchback, shooting saloons, park swings, houp-las, &c. The chief attractions of the show following the new animated pictures shown, are the variety turns, headed by Miss Daisy Graham, with her marvellous troupe of educated cockatoos, ravens, and pigeons, also her performing dog, Nap. The Balzens, in their novel entertainment, "Japanese at Play," the ever-popular comedian, Charlie Bruno, in new songs, and the Frolics, society entertainers, all of which go to make the show a success. Messrs. Anderton and Rowland are reaping the benefit of bringing a good show down West by playing to crowded houses nightly, and maintaining the good name made by the late proprietor, Prof. Anderton.

REVIVAL OF ST. GEORGE'S FAIR, IPSWICH.

Following upon the interesting fair at Woodbridge, chronicled in our Showman World columns of last week, Mr. Charles Thurston, by arrangement with the Corporation of Ipswich, revived the old St. George's Pleasure Fair. This ancient fair has been in abeyance for many years past, owing to the fact that there was no fairground available for modern show concerns.

Like many another town, Ipswich some years ago neglected to provide adequately for the continuance of the fairs. The showmen were practically prevented by this means from maintaining the fair.

It is a noticeable sign of recent years, and an encouraging one, that corporations are beginning to realise the importance of providing adequate accommodation for shows and other entertainments on corporation-controlled fairgrounds

The St. George's Fair at Ipswich was revived under somewhat unfavourable conditions as regards the weather, and for that reason Mr. Charles Thurston's enterprise did not meet with the reward it so well deserved. However, we are confident that sufficient public support and appreciation were given him to encourage the hope that the fair may be persevered with, and that Mr. Thurston's enterprise will meet with the success it undoubtedly deserves.

The fair was well set out, under the able management of Mr. Thurston, and his business-manager, Mr. Norman. The centre of attraction was the cinema theatre, with its magnificent organ front and its beautiful completion of decoration both inside and out. The range of up-to-date pictures, submitted by Mr. Thurston, delighted the audiences that thronged the picture palace.

In the centre of the ground Thurston's superb set of racing motor-cars afforded much delight to the numerous patrons of the fair.

Prominent amongst the side shows was Lewis' serpent jungle, with the startling performance of Flora, the serpent queen and snake charmer. Shooting galleries, houp-là circles, and various throwing games were provided by Messrs. Westrop, Harris, Barnard, and other amusement caterers on this circuit.

The Norwich Press on the Showmen's Guild.

The East Anglian Daily Times, of Monday, May 2, has the following appreciation of the showmen at the fair, and their trade society:

"On Sunday afternoon a very interesting, not to say remarkable, religious service was held on the Fair Ground in Portman-road. It was conducted by the Rev. Thomas Horne, the now celebrated 'Showmen's Parson,' to whom the establishment of the Showmen's Guild is mainly due. This admirable institution—which is doing quite unique social and spiritual work all over the country, among a number of men and women who find it difficult to avail themselves of the ordinary ministrations of religion, or to indulge in the social amenities of those who have a fixed habitation—owes its existence as well as its present flourishing condition almost entirely to the Rev. Thomas Horne. He is a man of very remarkable individuality and force of character, and is, moreover, a singularly forcible, not to say dramatic preacher. His preliminary discourse and subsequent sermon secured the rapt attention of the very large gathering assembled in Mr. Charles Thurston's handsome and spacious Cinema Tent on the Fair Ground, and the whole proceedings were marked by an unconventionality and fervour which were extremely stimulating.

"Before the service, the Rev. T. Horne, who was supported on the platform by the Rev. W. H Kerr, Vicar of St. Peter's, explained the origin and objects of the Guild. Starting as a Trades Union over twenty years ago, with the object of protecting and vindicating the interests of showmen, which were threatened by proposed unduly restrictive legislation, Mr. Horne said that he was called by the prime movers to become the first hon. chaplain. He had accepted and retained that position ever since, and in the course of his duties he had travelled all over England and Wales, and, wherever possible, he had secured the appointment of hon. local chaplains. It was customary, where there was a show or fair, for the proprietor of the principal tent to lend it for the purpose of a church or chapel, and not only the showmen, their families, and employees were invited to attend service, but also the general public. Nobody was asked to pay, there was no collection—in fact, everyone could come and go without payment. The services were given in a tent or structure on the show-ground, because those concerned were usually working up to very late at night for the amusement of the public and for their own living, and they had also to work long after that in putting things away, attending to their financial business, and so on. They were, therefore, generally too tired to sally forth on the Sunday and attend service. If they could not go to church, the church must go to them. He had always had the hearty co-operation of the local clergy in the towns he had visited, and that day the Vicar of the parish in which was situated their showground was on the platform, and his church workers were also lending assistance.

"A short but extremely interesting service was then proceeded with, the prayers, as well as the hymns, being joined in with the utmost fervour and heartiness by all present. The hymns were sung to an orchestral accompaniment and harmonium, and an officer of the Church Army read a portion of the 14th chapter of the Gospel of St. John. The Rev. T. Horne selected as his text the verse from the Gospel read, 'Jesus said, I am the way, the truth, and the life.' It is not often one's lot to hear a preacher who is blessed with such a fine resonant voice, and such a dramatic, albeit natural and sincere style. His sermon was brief, but it was so fervent and really eloquent, that his hearers would gladly have listened to him at much greater length. He pointed out how God dwelt as much in that humble booth as in the mightiest cathedral raised by the genius, inspiration, and faith of man. With racy anecdote and vivid illustration he brought home to his hearers the necessity for simple faith, unworldliness, and unselfishness. At the conclusion of the service the Rev. W. H. Kerr pronounced the Benediction, and the general congregation dispersed. The Rev. T. Horne requested the showmen and their wives and children to remain, and proposed the Rev. W. H. Kerr, vicar of St. Peter's, as hon. local chaplain. This was carried by acclamation, and Mr. Kerr, in responding, expressed the delight with which he had attended the service that afternoon, and how greatly it had impressed him. He hoped whenever those present came to Ipswich they would renew their acquaintance with him, and regard him as their friend. The proceedings then terminated.

"The Rev. T. Horne has a very high opinion of the class among whom he so unselfishly lives and labours. He considers that they compare favourably with any industrial or trading class in the community, both as regards their domestic life and also general character and citizenship. They are, he maintains, honourable and upright in their dealings, and bad characters are the reverse of numerous among them. They are also, as a rule, well educated and intelligent. Speaking from the experience of a lifetime, he does not consider that the conditions of van-life have a deteriorating effect, but rather the reverse, and in all matters of decency and morality the people, whom he knows and loves, and who know and love him, stand well."

Progressive Showland.

Under the above heading the Woodbridge Reporter and Wickham Market Gazette has the following interesting article, which we gladly reproduce as showing the increasing esteem with which the itinerant showfolk are regarded in country places:

"The coming of the showmen at this season is as certain as that of spring. Pence are put by some weeks beforehand in anticipation of a ride on the motor track or for a sight of the living pictures. Watching, as I have done, the advance of shows and showland for some years past, both in and out of print, I cannot but be struck by the fact that Woodbridge is by no means behindhand. The name of Barker and Thurston is always certain to produce everything that modern and up-to-date ingenuity is capable of. When it is known that one machine alone runs into something like £3,000 (I refer to the motor track) and must be driven by electric power, all of which must be taken as additional expense, it may be readily understood what a gigantic enterprise is catering for the people's amusement.

"The Showmen's Guild of Great Britain, a society formed for the protection of all branches of the showmen's trade and having as well branches for the religious and educational side of the van dwellers' life, has done much to bring the modern showman before the general public. The fact that it is self-supporting and has its own chaplain besides being on a perfectly organised basis shows what can be done by a keen business-like body of men.

"The 'Showmen's Parson,' as the Rev. T. Horne is called, now gives up his whole life to following the fairs and conducting business meetings, to all of which the general public are invited. Battles have been fought and won with corporations over the desired removal of some of our ancient fairs, but showmen combined with the voice of the people, have carried the day.

"Each returning visit brings a novelty with it, and this year the 'Cake Walk' has attracted its crowds, more to look on than to walk on. Do we take money out of the town? Yes, but we also bring money in and we spend it ourselves as well. For it must be remembered that the showman's wife knows how to cater for a hungry husband and family.

"One word for the Church work on the fair grounds. In a very large number of towns of varying size services are held on the fair Sunday in one of the large bioscope theatres, and conducted by the showmen's chaplain or the honorary local chaplain. The keenest interest is evinced by the showmen who act as sidesmen and otherwise attend to the comfort of their brother showmen and the general public who as a rule attend these services in full force. There are still some fanatic souls who rage against the fair ground methods of catching the public eye. I take considerable pleasure in arguing with these people and take it the standard of thought is low who cannot give a toilworn mind the open air amusement so sorely needed

"May each recurring spring bring the people's friend and entertainer."

Guild Meeting at Norwich Fair.

A business conference of the Guild was held on Sunday afternoon in Thurston's show, immediately after the Guild service. Mr. Charles Thurston was voted to the chair, and in opening the meeting referred to the excellent work done by the Showmen's Trade Society.

He had always identified himself with trade defence and with every good movement to uplift the show business. He welcomed in the name of his fellow showmen the organising chaplain, and called upon him to deliver an address on the work of the Guild.

The Rev. T. Horne said that after the delightful gathering they had had, and the encouraging signs of public approval and support the Guild had received from the crowded congregation at the afternoon service, he did not propose to speak at any length.

He could not, however, neglect the opportunity now that he had practically every showman and show-woman on the fairground before him of explaining to them the work of the society, so well supported by their chairman and by most of the showpeople present.

Over twenty years ago, the Guild was organised to vindicate the character of the travelling showman, and to maintain his right to carry on his business without being hindered and penalised by restrictive class legislation.

Out of that movement other great and important enterprises had arisen; for example, the Parliamentary defence work, the opposition to oppresive bye-laws, and the religious and educational work of which their afternoon gathering had been so signal and successful an example.

At the end of last year, the Guild committee expressed the hope that there would be no further attempts to pass oppressive legislation through Parliament. That anticipation, however, was a little too optimistic; one corporation, the Urban District Council of Handsworth, near Birmingham, had introduced a private Bill containing restrictive and penalising clauses with regard to the show business.

Despite the fact that only last year the Corporation of Oldham had been condemned to pay the costs of the Showmen's Guild in opposing similar restrictive clauses, the Handsworth District Council persevered with their Bill. The Guild had been compelled in the defence of the show business, to lodge a petition against the Handsworth Bill, and to prepare their case in opposition to it.

Success of the Guild.

He was glad to be able to tell that meeting that their determination to oppose the Handsworth Bill had resulted in complete success. The District Council, because of their strenuous opposition, had consented, at the last minute almost, to withdraw the objectionable clauses, and to comply with the reasonable requests of their Society. This was altogether satisfactory, but he must remind them that such work, absolutely necessary and of the utmost importance to every amusement caterer in the country, was very expensive. Apart from the question of the arduous labour trade defence entailed—labour if the showmen had to pay for at its full value would more than double the cost of their trade defence work—the expense was always great.

He was quite sure that with the example of their chairman, and with the loyal support of other showmen on the Norwich circuit before them, that he need not say anything more with regard to impressing upon them the duty and the privilege of supporting with adequate means the work of trade defence.

Miss A. Welton, of Farlingay Hall, Woodbridge, hon. local Guild secretary, proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. T. Horne, and it was seconded by Mrs. Charles Thurston, and carried with acclamation. A similar compliment was paid to the chairman, and the meeting terminated.

The Guild chaplain was the special preacher at St. Peter's Church, Ipswich, in the morning, and at night at St. Mary's (the parish church), Woodbridge. The chaplain was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Welton at Farlingay Hall, Woodbridge.

What's in a Name?

Two Pounds. This sum will be paid for the best suggestion for a descriptive and distinctive name for a Cinematograph Theatre Company to apply to all its theatres, which are of the highest class and give continuous performances. Each reply will be numbered, and the first selected will receive the award. Reply to C. T. C., care of Ingram, Cree, and Co., Gamage Building, Holborn, London, E.C.

FILM GOSSIP.

The Unmasking of Herbert is the story of a lover's clever ruse, and how he conquered the aversion of his fair one's parents. It is issued by Pathé. Dauber, an artist, is madly in love with Norah, who returns his affection. Her parents are against the match, and when Herbert, a successful barrister, is introduced into the family, and also falls in love with Norah, they urge his suit upon her. Dauber confides his troubles to Julia, a lady friend, and she agrees to help him. Julia dispatches a note to Herbert, expressing her admiration for him, and asking him to call at her studio. When he does so she introduces him to some very Bohemian friends, and the whole party get jolly, and the highly-respectable Herbert is induced to don the costume of a Roman warrior. Just at that moment Norah and her parents, who have been summoned thither by a note, enter, and when they see their beloved Herbert their contempt is limitless. Dauber seizes the opportunity to ask for Norah's hand.

A Hepworth Novelty.

Electric theatres nowadays undoubtedly provide a very popular form of amusement. One of the few faults which can be found with modern moving pictures is that, although there is plenty of animation, it is all in dumb show, and one misses the music and words accompanying stage effects or the noises produced by the actions illustrated in so life-like a manner. To some extent it is possible to imitate quite well the starting of a train, the clattering of horses' hoofs, the firing of guns, or the smashing of glass, but much skill is needed to prevent the sound preceding the action which causes it, or lagging unduly behind it. When it comes, however, to accompanying a picture showing a band playing or a performer singing, with both music and words, the difficulty is greatly enhanced, and many attempts have been made to obtain synchronism between the moving-picture and the gramophone. It is possible, at very heavy cost, to obtain synchronism by means of electric motors driving the cinematograph projector and the gramophone respectively. Where initial cost is a consideration, or where no electric supply is available, both these systems are out of the question, and the Vivaphone synchroniser has therefore been designed by the Hepworth Manufacturing Company, of 15-17 Cecil-court, Charing Cross-road, W.C., as a cheap but extremely sensitive device for use under all conditions, and with every class of cinematograph apparatus and gramophone.

"The Woes of the Picture-Maker."

The latest Lux film depicts the woes of the picture-maker. We are shown the departure of the artists, a motley throng in their full war-paint, accompanied by the camera men. The journey has not progressed very far when the wheel comes off the carriage and the horse is injured. All attempts to repair the damage are fruitless, and the party have to drag the vehicle to its destination. At a suitable spot an attempt is made to begin the performance, but a runaway horse upsets all calculations, and the picture is spoiled. An adjournment is made for luncheon, after which the party seek a new rendezvous, and just as all is in readiness for the photographers the police come on the scene and demand to see permits. These not being forthcoming, the whole party are hauled off to the magistrate, and thus ends a day of excitement and adventure.

Cricks and Martin's Enterprise.

Messrs. Cricks and Martin announce that they are issuing a fine semi-topical film, entitled How Scroggins Found the Comet. Halley's Comet is, of course, due to appear on May 19, and the film will be released on May 14, in plenty of time for all showmen to include it in their programmes. The length is 550ft.

Grahame White's "Flight" on the Cinematograph.

Mr. Grahame White's flight on a biplane from London to Lichfield has been exhibited at many picture halls during the week. Messrs. Gaumont had special operators following Mr. White in motor-cars. The film depicts the start, the flight across country, and the damaged machine at Lichfield, and is very interesting and instructive.

New Addresses.

Messrs. Pathé Freres have acquired extensive new premises in Wardour-street, W. The Natural Colour Kinematograph Company, Limited, and Kineto, Limited, are also removing, and will occupy premises in Wardour-street adjoining those of Messrs. Pathé Frères.

Moving Picture Companies.

The last few weeks have seen the issue of a number of prospectuses of moving picture theatre companies, and there seems to be no diminution in the stream of capital which is being directed towards these enterprises. There are at present we believe, 500 Picture Palaces in London, and 2,000 in the provinces, and even yet there are countless people who have not seen a moving picture, and there are numerous towns and cities yet to be tapped. It is stated on good authority that between five and six millions of money are now invested in the moving picture industry.

Recent Registrations.

Among companies recently registered and formed to carry on this form of entertainment are the Burnley Entertainments, capital £3,000 in £1 shares; Manor Park Cinematograph Theatre, £4,725 in £1 ordinary and 1s. deferred shares; Victoria Development Syndicate, £20,000 in £1 shares; and the Dioptic Kinematograph Company, £12,500 in 10s. shares. The satisfactory experience of many of the existing companies is no doubt responsible for the steady growth in the number of new concerns. In the main the capitals are modest. It is probable that some six subsidiaries of Provincial Palaces (Limited) are to unite into one company in the course of the next two or three weeks.

An Operator's Expenses.

A well-equipped cinematograph company has men on the road all the year round. Whether it be in England, on the Continent, in America, or in the Far East, there is always something going on worth reproducing on a screen, and when topical events are not sufficiently numerous to keep the operators busy, a staff of actors and actresses supply the material for the pictures. Good light is indispensable for the taking of the photographs, and so, when winter invades Paris, remarks the Paris correspondent of the Globe, and the skies are dull and grey, the operator and a party of forty or fifty artists migrate to the South of France, to the mountains, or to the sun-lit coast of Biarritz, where the light is clear enough to enable the work to go on without interruption. Here are two items which indicate what it costs to satisfy the public's weakness for pictures: 1,100ft. of the highest form of stage representations known as art films—cost £800 to produce; and the expenses of one operator during a foreign trip amounted to £1,600.

"Byeways of Byron."

In consequence of the interest taken in the Byeways of Byron, and the large audiences attracted by this novel picture-play, the management of the Electric Palace, Marble Arch, has determined to continue its run. All other items of the programme are changed twice weekly, and include every topical event of importance. Mr. Gilbart-Smith's picture-play is given twice daily, at 3.15 and 4.45 p.m.

From Chapel to Picture Palace.

The old Surrey Chapel, which is situated in Blackfriars-road, was built in 1782, and was opened on June 8, 1783, the Rev. Rowland Hill preaching the first sermon. The chapel is, in its way, of considerable historic interest, for here it was that the first Sunday-school in London was held, while the Religious Tract Society and the Ragged School Union both held their inaugural meetings within its walls. The annual sermon of the London Missionary Society was also preached here, and it saw the birth of the first Chapel Benevolent Society. The building will shortly be opened as a Picture Palace.

Highgate Archway P.P.

Last week-end the new theatre at Upper Holloway, which will seat a thousand people, was formally opened. Another is to be built at the foot of Highgate Hill, facing the Archway Tavern. Building operations in connection with this picture palace are to be commenced at once, and the interior is to be constructed on the usual lavish scale and to have a seating capacity of a thousand. The company responsible have already palaces in active operation and earning dividends at the Marble Arch, Brixton, Lewisham, and Thornton Heath.

The Strand Theatre de Luxe.

This week's programme of pictures shown at the Theatre De Luxe, 65, Strand, W.C., has included: Miriam Maxine's Disappearance, Manufacturing of Plate Glasses, All's Well that Ends Well, From Storm to Sunshine, A Mistake, Bridget Serves the Tomatoes, A Father's Love, and Paulhan's Aerial Flight.

Ashton-in-Makerfield New Picture Palace.

Messrs. J. and W. Rylance, the proprietors of the New Era Animated Pictures, which have been so successful at the Central Hall, Pemberton, have embarked on a new hall at Ashton-in-Makerfield. The hall should prove a welcome addition to the public buildings in the town, and is equipped in up-to-date style. The interior dimensions are 65ft. by 35ft. Lighting is provided both by gas and electricity, and the hall, which will be heated throughout, will accommodate 500 in "tip-ups." In addition to the two front entrances, there are three exits on to a side street. The operating chamber is outside the main wall, thus complying with the requirements of the Cinematograph Act in the fullest possible manner. The work of erection has been carried out by Messrs. Rylance and Sons, Ltd., of Wigan, the architects being Messrs. Ormrod and Pomeroy, of Bolton. The hall was opened on Monday last.

Record Stay at Hull.

The stay of the Globe Animated Pictures at the Hull Circus has proved a record for any entertainment in that city. They have occupied the building for well over twelve months, and are likely to continue for some time yet. During the stay they have become extremely popular with Hull audiences, and under the management of Mr. E. Emerson there is no doubt that these pictures have become Hull's premier cinematograph exhibition.

Hulme (Manchester).

A pretty building has just been put up on the extreme western boundary of the city, and was opened on the 30th ult. Mr. Thomas Morrison, the proprietor and manager, has called it the Bijou Electric Theatre. It is in a densely populated district, and has been filled each time it has been opened. It has a very artistic proscenium front by Alberti, the well-known sculptors, of Manchester. The decoration is in yellow, green, and terra-cotta. The films shown are of very good quality.

RINKING GOSSIP.

The Improved Brampton.

MESSRS. BROWN BROS. inform us that the new rubber adjustment noticed at length in our issue of April 23 will only be fitted to the new King o' the Rink and not to the Duplex Girder model.

About Walter Stanton.

MR. WALTER STANTON, the enthusiastic hon. secretary of the Roller Department of the National Skating Association, is a skater of nineteen years' standing. Mr. Stanton and roller-skating first made each other's acquaintance at the Central Hall, Holborn, in 1891, and, though boxing ambitions tempted him for a short time, skating has always been "his true love." From the veteran, Mr. North, he received his first notions of correct figure-skating, with the result that he has passed not only the third and second class N.S.A. tests, English style, but the third and second class International. At the present moment he is the only man who has been successful in the second-class International. Twice has the Eastbourne challenge trophy for figure-skating come into Mr. Stanton's hands..

His Brilliant Exhibitions.

No one is more ready to afford information than Mr. Stanton on N.S.A. matters, to help in forming clubs, or explain in words and patient, practical demonstration any knotty figure or portion thereof which an enthusiastic tyro may be trying to master. Mr. Stanton regards properly formed clubs as the only means to regulate and keep the art and sport with us, and to counteract the carelessness of some rink-managers. Mr. Stanton is the winner of the 100 Guinea Richardson Challenge Cup for the Amateur Roller Figure Skating Championship of Great Britain in International Style, which was competed for at the Maida Vale Skating Rink on Wednesday, March 16. The total number of points he gained were 282, against his nearest opponent's 210. Mr. Stanton's brilliant exhibition was full of variety, his jump and finishing spin being especially noticeable.

Lunn Wins Rowley-Leeks Cup.

ON Saturday last the Wandsworth R.S.C. held a mile scratch race for the Rowley-Leeks challenge cup, presented to the club by G. F. Rowley, Esq. (president), and W. A. Leeks, Esq. (vice-president) The cup has to be won three times consecutively before becoming the property of a member. Fourteen members entered for the race, which was run off in four heats. The winners of the heats were:—Heat 1, S. Halsall, time 4min. 9 1-5sec.; heat 2, J. Hayward, time 4min. 25sec.; heat 3, H. L. Collins, time 4min. 25sec.; heat 4, J. F. Lunn, 4min. 17sec. Lunn took the lead in the final, and eventually won by half a lap, time 3min. 57 1-5sec. Result:—Lunn, 1; Collins, 2; Hayward, 3; Halsall, 4. The winner received a gold medal and the three runners-up silver ones. Mr. G. F. Rowley presented the prizes, Mr. L. Morley acted as starter, and Mr. A. W. Cox (hon. secretary) as timekeeper. To-night (Saturday) J. F. Lunn will try to create a club record for the mile. He will be paced by Mr. W. Doland (club handicapper) and Messrs. Sutton and Collins.

John Davidson at Bath.

VOTARIES of the rink at Bath are this week able to witness the marvellous skating of John Davidson at the Central Rink. The local manager, Mr. George C. Mansell, does all possible to make frequenters enjoy themselves at the daily sessions and that he fully succeeds is evident by the large attendances that are maintained.

Allie Moore at Bradford.

CONSIDERABLE interest was aroused in roller-skating circles last week by the appearance at the Hippodrome Rink, Barkerend-road, of Allie Moore, one of the foremost exponents of roller-skating before the public. Moore has now been in England over a year. His performance at the Hippodrome was chiefly of a sensational nature, including a barrel-jumping exhibition of particular difficulty, and also chair jumping, standing and skating jumps, wheelbarrow, table, and see saw feats, finishing with his greatest feat of all, a rush down an inclined plank, wheeling a barrow over a see-saw, and ending with a jump over seven chairs.

Blackheath Win Lancers Competition.

ON Monday last the Wandsworth Lancer Party met the Blackheath Lancer Party in a competition at the Central Hall Rink, Wandsworth. Some fine waltzing was seen, and after a very closely contested competition Blackheath were declared winners. These clubs have now met twice, each winning one contest.

Skating in Croydon.

MR. KENDRICK is still the courteous manager of Croydon's large and comfortable rink. Skating has fairly caught on in this town, and has certainly come to stay. Everyone of any importance dons the roller-skates, and visits Mr. Kendrick's establishment.

New Rink for Dunoon.

THE Dunoon Entertainment and Roller Skating Pavilion has been registered with a capital of £4,000 in £1 shares, to lease a piece of ground at the Castle Gardens, Dunoon, and to construct thereon an entertainment and roller skating pavilion.

Edinburgh Olympia's 10 p.c. Dividend.

THE directors of Olympia (Edinburgh), Ltd., after deciding to pay out of revenue the sum of £2,000, items of capital expenditure, in connection with the erection and equipment of the building, have declared an interim dividend for the half-year ended March 5 at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

Round the Glasgow Rinks.

THAT interest in rinking is in no way diminishing in Glasgow is evidenced by the large attendances which continue to be the rule at the West-End establishment, where the facilities afforded the enthusiast are of the best. The skating surface is in splendid order. The enterprise of the management of the Great Eastern Rink in providing their patrons with special nights is meeting with deserved success. Rinkers in Crossbill and district continue to bestow excellent patronage on the American Rink, Victoria-road. The hockey tournament organised by the management of the Ibrox Rink, which was held last week, proved a splendid attraction. The proprietors of the Dennistoun Rink seem to have a craze for novelties, and the idea is one that pays, as was evidenced at the gymkhana held last week, when the building was crowded in every part. At the Summertown-road rink, Govan, interest in the sport is as keen as ever.

Ordered to Abate Noise.

GLOUCESTER Olympia Skating Rink has been closed for a short while in order to effect the necessary alterations to deaden the noise caused by the skating. An injunction restraining them, and ordering them to abate the noise was granted in the High Court.

Fine Gloucester Carnival.

THERE was a brilliant gathering of skaters and spectators at the India-road Skating Rink on Thursday evening in last week, the occasion being a fancy dress carnival and confetti fight. Handsome prizes were awarded for the best costumes. The waltzing and two-step competitions were very exciting and difficult to judge, especially the latter, but the popularly endorsed verdict decided upon Miss E. and Mr. L. Dean (waltzing), and Miss Muriel and Mr. Ivor C. Jones (two-step). The judges were Messrs. H. R. Ford, W. Warner, jun., J. Brow, and W. K. Dawkins. Mr. W. Arnold, the manager, was responsible for all the arrangements connected with a highly-successful carnival.

Jas. F. Smith at Govan.

THE Summerton-road rink, Govan, is now under the management of Mr. Jas. F. Smith, who was connected with the King's Park Rink since its opening.

Alec Payne in the Potteries.

ALEC PAYNE'S previous visit to the Potteries district was twenty-five years ago. It was at the old Wooden Circus at Hanley, in "The Carnival on Ice," where Mr. Payne acted as principal solo skater. In this act he had not the perfect floor such as was at his disposal last week at the Tunstall Station-road rink. In place of maple wood, the floor for his performance was made of a few thin boards laid on the sawdust-covered ground. "As the old ones must give way to the new," Mr. Payne says that he is looking forward to seeing his 100 miles skating record being beaten. How it was that he came to accomplish this feat is best described in his own words. "I had beaten Joe Eden, of Leicester, in a ten-mile race, for £20 a-side, and my backers, Morey and Janet, commission agents, of London matched me for £100 aside against Fred Gould, of Leytonstone to race 100 miles, and I won." His average speed during the race, which was run on Sept. 11, 1883, was twelve miles per hour.

Leicester Items.

AT the Empress Rink, Mr. Court continues to receive the patronage of the best class of rinkers, and to promote entertaining attractions. On Tuesday evening the Belgrave Rink beat the Empress Rink by seven goals to one, Burgess scoring the whole of the goals for Belgrave. This week there is a grand pierrot tournament, a hockey match between the Boulevard and Empress Rinks, and a ladies' and gentlemen's beauty competition. A special feature of this rink is Moody's English military band, which discourses at all sessions selections of music that are most appropriate for rinking, being thoroughly up to date and played in a manner that adds much zest to the pastime. At the Boulevard Rink on Monday evening the Empress Rink beat the Boulevard by three goals to one at hockey. At the Belgrave Rink Mr. Cockram is well to the front with novel attractions. A skating gymkhana is arranged for, in which a number of events are included of all descriptions, which will terminate with a confetti battle. The mysterious Mr. Raffles will also be present.

Maida Vale Rink.

AT the Maida Vale Skating Palace on Saturday a presentation was made to Mr. Edward Lanthe, the assistant-manager, who left owing to ill-health. The presentation was given by the entire staff of 200, and was presented by Prof. Voorzanger, the bandmaster. The gift was a purse of money, and a gold-mounted walking stick given by the lady skate-fixers. Mr. R. F. J. Moore, the Press and advertising manager, succeeds Mr. Larthe as assistant-manager. This gentleman has been connected with rinks ever since the latest craze existed.

At Norbury.

THE Norbury Skating Rink, which has been so long under the direction of Mr. Spencer, is well patronised, and an enjoyable time can always be spent there.

Reading's New Rink Open.

In the presence of a large and influential gathering the Mayor of Reading (Mr. W. Frame) performed the opening ceremony at the Central Skating Rink in West-street on Monday afternoon. The promoters of the company have equipped a rink on which the exhilarating and delightful pastime of roller-skating may be pursued amid admirable surroundings. The surface available for skating is 5,400ft., and the floor is of rock maple, laid on a floor of deal and a bed of concrete, while between the maple and deal is a layer of felt to deaden the sound. The lofty building has a plentiful supply of light from a glass roof during the day, while when evening shadows fall it is illuminated by fourteen 400 candle-power Osram lamps suspended from the roof. Round the walls are electric light brackets, while should the lamps fail a supply of gas can be turned on immediately. In the elegant and commodious balcony—reached, by the way, by a wide carpeted staircase—comfortable chairs and attractive tables tempt the tired skater to linger over tea and other refreshments, while if he does not care to leave the floor the skater can refresh the inner man at a buffet. A fine exhibition of trick and fancy skating by Mr. Colin Gorman was given on the opening night, after which there was a heavy demand at the skate-room.

A Sheffield Project.

SEVERAL well-known speculators in Sheffield will shortly acquire the Royal Alexandra Skating Rink, Hawley-street, Sheffield, for important boxing contests. The only hall in Sheffield at the present time in which boxing contests are held is the New City Club, Carver-street.

Stockton Royal Rink.

FUN and frolic reigned supreme at the Royal Rink, Stockton, last Friday night, when a "Ladies' Night" was held. The entire management of the rink was taken over for the evening by a number of ladies, whose efforts met with great success. The duties of the manageress were carried out by Miss B. Stephenson, whilst Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Armstrong, and Miss Miller acted as floor M.C.'s. At the close a confetti battle was waged with great zest by the skaters.

Manager's Benefit at Stourbridge.

MR. H. F. WHARTON had a bumping benefit on Monday last. The occasion was a seaside and summer carnival, and the rink was thronged. The costumes were exceptionally smart, and there were twenty-two valuable prizes—two worth six guineas each. The feature of the evening was an exhibition of fancy and trick skating by Stanley King, and another was a May Day spectacle by some twenty-seven youngsters trained by Mr. Wharton. The whole evening went with a swing, and finished up at 12.30 with a confetti battle. Our correspondent, Mr. C. E. Evason, again won the first prize for the most original costume—this time "A Lighthouse." He also won the first prize at Smethwick on Wednesday for the most original costume with his "Alarm Clock." This makes fourteen prizes out of sixteen attempts this season.

Ton-y-Pandy "Grand National."

SINCE the advent of Mr. F. T. Studd as general-manager at Ton-y-pandy (Pavilion Rink), several improvements have been effected. On May 5 a novel seaside carnival was held, at which the most noteworthy items were the "Grand National" on skates, in which the obstacles were almost Aintree-like in their difficulty, and the ladies' balloon race. The evening concluded with a confetti battle.

Dolly Mitchell at West Hartlepool.

THIS exceptionally clever and charming little lady skater has been delighting the patrons of the Queen's Rink with an exhibition of trick and fancy skating which has been alliteratively described as "deft, daring, dainty, and delightful." From the moment Miss Mitchell took the floor she at once became the idol of the people. On Saturday Miss Mitchell was presented with a huge bouquet by the directors of the rink in appreciation of her services. This week she has been appearing at the Rugby rink.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring Gardens, Mr. Whitaker Thompson (Chairman) presiding.

THEATRE AND MUSIC HALL LICENCES.

The recommendations in the report of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee, brought up to the Council on April 19 and opposed on that date, and also on April 26, were not reached until 10 o'clock. The first of these recommendations had reference to the licences granted to theatres and to music halls. The Committee recommended that the reference to them should be discharged, and Mr. George Alexander had on the agenda an amendment, "that as the performance of stage-plays in buildings which are licensed for music and dancing only is illegal, the Council, when considering applications for music and dancing licences, will have regard to any evidence which may be submitted as to illegal production of stage-plays at places of entertainment licensed for music and dancing only."

As Mr. Alexander had left the hall, Mr. Greenwood, the chairman of the Theatres Committee, agreed to allow the recommendation to stand over until the next meeting.

CINEMATOGRAPH SHOWS—STANDING IN THE GANGWAYS.

The second paragraph of the Committee's report was then taken. It was as follows:—"On Feb. 1, 1910, we reported the conditions that had been attached to the licences granted under the Cinematograph Act, 1909. Except in one case, the licences granted for premises which are not licensed for music, &c., have been granted for short periods pending the completion of the works considered necessary to the premises. Since the issue of the licences the regulations made by the Secretary of State under the Act which are endorsed on the back of the licence have been revised and very considerably altered, and we therefore propose, instead of further extending the existing licences, to issue, as soon as possible, fresh licences containing the amended regulations. We think that advantage should be taken of the opportunity to add to the conditions imposed by the Council the regulation relating to standing in gangways which is enforced in all premises licensed for music, or music and dancing, or stage plays. We recommend—

"'That licences granted under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, in respect of premises which are not licensed for music, music and dancing, or stage plays, be subject to the following condition: That persons be not permitted to stand or sit in any of the intersecting gangways, and, if standing be permitted in the gangways at the sides and rear of the seating, sufficient room be left for persons to pass easily to and fro.'"

Mr. Thomas moved the following amendment:—"That all words after the word 'to' in line 2 be omitted, and the following words substituted therefor—'conditions as follows—(i) Persons must not be permitted to stand or sit in any part of the gangways; and (ii) overcrowding must not be permitted in any part of the premises.'"

He said that the object of his amendment was to restore the rule laid down by the last Progressive Council with regard to overcrowding in places of public amusement. This rule remained in force up to February last year, when it was altered, and persons were permitted to stand in the gangways if sufficient room were left for persons to pass easily to and fro. It was now proposed to apply this new rule to picture palace shows of all kinds, but he held that these places were not on all fours with theatres and music-halls. In the first place they were much more dangerous in case of fire. These places had become deservedly popular, and were greatly frequented by children. He had seen at least 100 children waiting outside one of these shows, and the Council could imagine what would happen in the case of an alarm of fire in a hall filled with children, and some standing in the gangways. The result would be disastrous. The small picture halls were often overcrowded; and in the public interest people ought not to be allowed to stand in the gangways. He hoped that the Chairman of the Theatres Committee would accept his amendment in the interests of the public and disregard the interests of the proprietors of these shows. The Council had popularised the theatres and music halls, &c., because the public believed they were as safe as they could be made, and if people got the idea that the Council were relaxing in any way their regulations, it might have disastrous results.

Mr. Lambert seconded the amendment. He thought that the real point was that in case of a panic the cinematograph theatres were very much more dangerous than ordinary theatres, and therefore greater care should be exercised in regulating such places. They could not be too careful in protecting the people assembled in places of entertainment.

Mr. Matthews said he intended to support the amendment, as the rule at present in force permitted standing in the gangways if room were left for persons to pass. Some people might pass easily, but bulky persons might have great difficulty. His contention was that there ought to be something more definite in the wording of the rule.

Mr. Walter Reynolds said he regretted that Mr. Thomas has imputed motives to the Committee, he having stated that the regulations had been made in the interests of the proprietors of places of amusement. The Committee were unanimous in favour of adopting the regulation in question. No one in that Council was more anxious regarding the safety of cinematograph exhibitions than he was, and he claimed to be the parent of the legislation the object of which was the protection of the public from fires in public buildings. But under the Council's regulations he was convinced there was at present no danger to the public from fire in cinematograph shows except where there was gross carelessness, and this would apply to any theatre. Being interrupted at this point Mr. Reynolds remarked: "When those clowns have done laughing I'll proceed."

Mr. May: Is it in order, Mr. Chairman, for any member to call another a clown?

The Chairman having intimated that he was not prepared to call upon Mr. Reynolds to withdraw the remark,

Mr. May said: I object to anyone calling me a clown. I claim your protection, Mr. Chairman. I was not one of those who interrupted the hon. member, and I submit that you should rule his remark out of order.

Mr. Reynolds: I did not mention any one by name, but if a member chooses to fit the cap on his own head let him wear it. If objection is taken to the word I'll say Merry Andrew instead. Continuing, Mr. Reynolds said it had been shown that a theatre of average size could be emptied in three minutes, and a cinematograph theatre could be emptied in about one minute. A number of the cinematograph theatre proprietors had applied for a dancing and music licence, and had therefore been granted those privileges which had been granted to ordinary theatres. Of course, in any case where an alarm of fire was raised there was danger, which nothing could prevent.

Mr. J. D. Gilbert, who had given notice of an amendment "that all words after the word 'gangways' be omitted," said he was prepared to withdraw it in favour of that of Mr. Thomas. He had always been opposed to permitting standing in theatres or music halls. When, on Feb. 9, 1909, the Committee recommended an alteration in the regulation with regard to standing in the gangways it was strongly opposed by members on that side of the chamber. He was prepared to admit that there was a difference between theatres and music halls, as people had been permitted to walk about in certain parts of the halls, so that it was difficult to apply the same regulations to both places of amusement. He was surprised that Mr. Reynolds should defend the Committee's recommendation, as he had always shown such a great interest in getting cinematograph shows placed under proper regulations. The London theatres and music halls were specially built for the purpose for which they were used, and had plenty of exits, but a great many of the cinematograph shows were in old buildings or shops which were never intended to be used as places of entertainment, and were without proper exits, &c. Another point was that these shows were generally given in the dark, while the ordinary music hall was well lighted while the entertainment was being given, so that the exit doors could be easily seen. He raised this question at a previous meeting, and the Chairman of the Theatres Committee agreed to take back the recommendation. He was sorry to find the same recommendation brought up again.

Mr. Jesson supported the recommendation because he wanted to see all the places of amusement in London placed on the same footing. The same conditions that applied to theatres and music halls should apply to picture palaces. With regard to the question of danger, he thought that the great test was how quickly could a place of amusement be cleared in case of fire or panic? By compliance with the Council's regulations as to exits, &c., a hall could be cleared in two or three minutes.

Mr. Greenwood said he was sorry he was unable to accept the amendment. He was glad, however, that Mr. Gilbert had withdrawn his amendment, because if it had been carried standing would have been permissible in the greater part of a theatre or hall. He could not accept the amendment for the simple reason that it would be practically unworkable. At the meeting on Feb. 9, 1909, the Council decided that the best way to deal with overcrowding was to adopt the regulation which it was now proposed to put in force in the case of cinematograph theatres—about 150 in number—which were not licensed for music and dancing. He thought that the same rule should apply to all the various places of amusement. He felt sure that no greater danger from fire or panic existed in the cinematograph palaces than existed in theatres and music halls. The most stringent regulations had been enforced, and great alterations had been made in the buildings used for cinematograph shows, while every precaution was taken to render the machinery perfectly safe. The provision of adequate gangways and exits was insisted upon, and the apparatus used was, in many cases, actually outside the building. And, moreover, the exhibitions were often in buildings of only one floor, without galleries or stairs. He thought that some members had been led astray by the use of the term gangway, which did not necessarily mean the narrow passages along which people passed, but applied to the spaces in the rear and at the sides. He could assure the Council that the Committee had given the greatest attention to this matter, and that the chief officer of the Fire Brigade had no anxiety as to the conditions regarding standing which were agreed to by the Council in February, 1909. The regulations had not been adopted with the idea of benefiting any particular class of people, and the shows were being worked with the very smallest risk of danger.

Mr. May said it seemed to him that the chairman of the Committee had done some special pleading in favour of the Committee's recommendation—not in the interests of public safety, but rather in the interests of the proprietors of the cinematograph halls. These halls were not nearly so capacious as the ordinary halls, their exits were often narrow, and they were mostly patronised by women and children. The entertainment was given in the dark, and if any serious mishap were to happen they would have great difficulty in justifying their regulations. Why they should disturb a rule that had worked well for many years he failed to understand. He submitted that the public interests should receive the first consideration, and not the interests of the owners of these shows. It was wrong for a question affecting the public safety to be made a party one.

Sir John McDougall considered that there should be some differences made where performances were given in the dark. Another point was that it was mainly children who went to these entertainments. Their duty was to care nothing about the interests of anyone except the public and to secure their safety as far as possible. If any disaster were to happen while standing was permitted in the gangways of places of entertainment the Council would be very severely blamed.

The Rev. Stewart Headlam said he wished to point out that in the biggest music halls the last turn was often an exhibition of cinematograph pictures, and they would therefore have to make special regulations with regard to gangways. He thought it was absurd not to allow standing.

The amendment was then put, and on a show of hands declared to be lost. The refusal of the Chairman to grant a division caused a scene of disorder, but eventually he gave way, and a division was taken, with the result that the amendment was lost, 42 voting in favour of it and 55 against.

The New Brighton Tower Gardens.

THE management have provided a most attractive programme in the pleasure park for the holiday season, commencing on May 14. The water chute has been made even more attractive than last season. "Laughterland," a new show, is bound to be a big draw. "The Museum of Tortures" will interest the student of ancient history. There will be balloon ascents in Whitsun week, and each night a big firework display. The band of the 4th West Lancs. Rifles will play daily in the gardens, and there will be dancing in the ballroom all day long, variety and cinematograph shows and popular concerts in the theatre and music-room. The end of Whitsun week will be marked by the twelfth annual brass band contest, when prizes to the value of £155 will be competed for.

Open-air Skating at Wandsworth.

A LARGE and comfortable open-air rink to be used during the summer will be opened at Central Hall, East-hill, Wandsworth, S.W., on Friday next. Patrons of this rink will have the advantage of not only skating in the open, but, should the day be dull, cold, or wet, of using the permanent rink adjacent. On and after Tuesday, May 17, the prices will be reduced to 6d., to include admission, hire of skates, or use of floor.

The Cinematograph Act.

JAMES WATT, of Langley Lodge, Bromley-road, Catford, was summoned at the instance of the London County Council for keeping a cinematograph theatre at the Victoria Hall, Archer-street, Notting Hill, without a licence. Mr. Simes supported the summons, and reminded the magistrate that under the Cinematograph Act, 1909, all cinematograph shows had to be licensed. In this case the defendant applied for and subsequently obtained a licence, but before the licence was actually granted he threw open the hall to the public. Mr. J. Bell Jackson, for the defendant, urged that it was purely a technical offence. The magistrate imposed a fine of 40s., with 2s. costs.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

SOUTHAMPTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—The D'Oyly Opera Company is receiving a right royal welcome. On Monday The Mikado was played to a large and enthusiastic audience. A very old local favourite is Mr. Henry A. Lytton, who as Ko Ko simply revels in his part; Mr. Fred Billington furnishes rich humour as Pooh Bah; and Mr. Leicester Tunks scores as The Mikado, a part which fits him like a glove. Mrs. Arthur Rousby (Yum Yum), Miss Beatrice Boarer (Pitti Sing), and Miss Marjorie Stone (Peep Bo) all sing and act delightfully, and Miss Louie Rene scored her usual big success as Katisha. Nanki Poo is in the capable hands of Mr. Henry Herbert, and the excellent chorus sing delightfully under the skilful direction of Mr. Francois Cellier. Iolanthe was given with complete success on Tuesday, and the other operas played during the week are The Gondoliers, Patience, and The Yeomen of the Guard.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—Mr. Leonard Boyne's company in Raffles is fulfilling an engagement here. Mr. Reginald Dance submits an admirable impersonation of the title-rôle, Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald is a piquant Lady Ethel, Mr. Harold West in the part of Harry Manders is commendable, the Earl of Amersteth has an entirely satisfactory exponent in Mr. Oswald Griffiths, Mr. Edward Irwin is successful as Curtis Bedford, Mr. Arthur Fitzgerald depicts Crowley creditably, Crawshay is capitally delineated by Mr. Dalziel Heron, Miss May Brooke gives a praiseworthy representation of Mrs. Vidal, and Miss Francis Titheradge is good as Gwendoline.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Mr. H. R. Smith's company is appearing in Two Little Vagabonds. The parts of Dick and Wally are delightfully performed by Miss Helen Grenville and Miss Ivy Millais; Miss Dorothy Milne submits a powerful portrayal of Marion Thornton; Miss Mabel Cooke is good as Barbara Scarth; George Thornton is ably delineated by Mr Frank Beresford; and Mr. Renand Lockwood is good as Capt. Darville. Mr. Dan Mining, Mr. Philip Beaufoy, and Mr. Frederick Archer all do good work as Bill Mullins, Dido Bounce, and the Cough Drop. Miss Maud Arnold is excellent in the character part of Biddy Mullins.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—Herbert Darnley's company, including Mr. Fred Kitchen, in the military comedy Private Potts receives a warm welcome. Mr. Kitchen's inimitable drollery as Private Potts evokes continuous laughter. He is well supported by Mrs. Herbert Darnley, Miss Jessie Crammond, Messrs. W. Wilbey, Jack Williams, and Harry Lappo. Fred Gration and Kathleen Delaine in a refined musical item Drawing Room Leisure are very successful; the great Vincent, table expert, is well received; Arthur Woodville, light comedian, scores and accomplishes some excellent dancing; good mimicry is displayed by Zethus; and the programme includes Frank and Free, comedy artists, and the Bioscope.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Of a strong bill of varieties Harwood's Juveniles are the special attraction; J. C. Scatter is a first-class Tyneside comedian; Les Rallis, "The Artist and his Monkey," are very clever; the Sisters Henderson are skilful instrumentalists; and Foley and Francis (comedians) and Marlo (a juggler) constitute the remainder of the programme.

PICTURE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Sleep.—The A.B. Picture Company's special subjects are The Lightweight Championship between Fred Welsh and Jack Daniels, Across the Ice Seas, The Diver's Wife, The Keeper of the Light, and The Cowboy's Narrow Escape.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Leader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Mr. Carlton Wallace's company with A Thief in the Night is here. Mr. Stanley Bedwell in the difficult part of Alan Escombe displays much power; Michael Pagani is the worker of evil, and has an exponent of ability in Mr. Leyton Cancellor; Mr. Hugh Wallace does well as Lord Romilly; as Joan Escombe Miss Mary Pemberton's acting is most effective, her charming appearance adding greatly to the effect of the representation; and Miss Beatrice Homer is to be praised for her clear enunciation and otherwise admirable rendering of the part of Sonia Cleeve. Little Joan is nicely played by Miss Prudence Ayrton.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—The Royal Tokio Troupe introduce some novel features into their always excellent programme. Abel and Welsh are a couple of eccentric performers; Jack Smiles produces those signs of merriment wholesale; Fred S. Howard is clever in black and white; Smith and Johnson are good; and Tony Black is a capital dancer.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Her Life in London is pleasing large audiences. Mr. Stanley Carlton sympathetically impersonates the character of the Rev. Allen Gordon; as Grutton Gale Mr. Claude Aymond is thoroughly effective; Mr. Templeton has a capable representative in Mr. C. Franklyn; and Mr. W. Vernon is decidedly funny as Percy Plunker, excellently supported by Miss R. B. Douglas as Dolly. Miss Ruby Maude acts charmingly as Astra Bell; Sarah Shafto and Mrs. Glendale are admirably played by Miss Evelyn M. Walton and Miss Jenny Bostock; whilst Miss C. Medwyn acts cleverly as Madge Rendall.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Ted Karno and company in a pantomime sketch, Hotel de Quick, are the chief attraction, and provide an abundance of fun; the Five Musical Tritons are clever vocalists and instrumentalists; Stewart and Morgan in their vocal speciality, "Leaving Ireland," are highly successful; Walter Emerson, comedian, is amusing; Welda and Wynne display ability as juggl'ers and sand-dancers; Maude Vera is a delightful vocalist; and Jack Rae is a smart juggling gymnast.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—CASTLE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Mr. Charles Harrington's combination is presenting Uncle Tom's Cabin. The negro chorus is a first-class one, and the scenery and effects are very attractive. Mr. J. H. Boehm plays admirably the rôle of Uncle Tom; Mr. Charles Harrington is excellent as Mr. St. Clair; and Mr. Tom Bowron fills the part of the infamous Legree extremely well. Merry plantation songs and dances receive loud applause.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—Blake and Amber, clever burlesque artists, head the bill; Thora, an expert ventriloquist, gave an excellent sketch in The Lady and the Page; the Bentleys give a delightful musical act; Goodall and Knox are funny; Chris Baker is a popular comedian, as is also Joe Humphreys; Marie Kay is a charming comedienne and a dainty dancer; Newman and Knight are clever comedy jugglers; and Les Supriskis are marvellous lady gymnasts.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley present their company in the drama Her Secret Lover. Miss Laura Walker makes a capital Ivy Seymour, and Mr. Arthur St. John scores a great success as Gilbert Seymour. Other principal rôles are cleverly sustained by Miss Flora Leslie, Miss Lynn Darlington, Mr. Walter H. Willson, and Mr. Alfred Stretton. The play is well staged.

STOKE-ON-TRENT. — Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—Perfection in animal training is fully exemplified in the exhibition given by Theesen's balancing dogs; a novel and interesting equilibristic act is presented by the Zanfrellas; the Vaudeville Trio are smart and well-trained dancers; Captain Ellis and son are accomplished cornettists. Also here are Mildred Bryan, the Brothers Hannaway, and Nora Desmond, with picture songs. The pictures are exceptionally fine.

STOURBRIDGE. — Alhambra Theatre and Variety Hall.—General-Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—The M.M.'s head the bill here with their Chinese scena, entitled The Maid and the Mandarin; Miss Ivy Proudfoot is a turn much appreciated; the Kendricks give a most amusing act; the Two Manites, with their Fun in a Tea-garden, show a smart comedy juggling act. The pictures are above the average and complete a first-class show.

SUNDERLAND.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Messrs. O. Silverstone and H. Wright's company is playing here this week in The Nihilist, before crowded audiences. Miss Florrie Kelsey gives a fine portrayal of Princess Olga; Miss Edna Clare plays with dramatic effect as Alexina Orloff; and Miss Minnie Halstan does well in the juvenile rôle of Little Alexina. Mr. George Mitchell does good work as Ivan Nowasky; as also do Messrs. Cowell Clark (Karl Orloff), and J. Brunelle Harvey (Father Gourko). Mr. O. Silverstone in the rôle of Prince Alexander proves himself to be a stage villain of high order; and Mr. C. N. Buckland is good as Pierlree. The lighter vein is in the excellent hands of Mr. O. Silverstone (Katrina) and Mr. Henry Wright (Bobbie).

Empire Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Foremost on a good programme here this week are the Five Musical Marvels, in a vocal and instrumental mélange; La Freya submits a pleasant spectacular turn; D'Arc's marionettes cause great amusement; Will Beanland, comedian, keeps his audience in a capital humour; Jack Lumley gives a clever and amusing performance; Phil Parsons has an encouraging reception for his humour; Alice Maple is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and King and Queenie cause intense amusement with their diverting comedy act, The Butler and the Cook.

Avenue Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—A capital programme is drawing large audiences here. Hayman and Houten, comedians and dancers, are scoring a success with their cross-talk, songs, and dancing; T. W. Barrett, comedian, is receiving encores nightly; Arthur Wynn, with his dexterous manipulation of the bicycle, is also a favourite. Pictures are up to the usual high order.

SWINDON.—Empire Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—The Bondman, as presented by Mr. Wentworth Croke's company, is proving a great draw. A powerful portrayal of Jason is submitted by Mr. Philip Darien; Mr. Stanley Harrison's conception of Michael Sunlocks is excellent; Mr. Wilfred Beckwith is an admirable Adam Fairbrother; Mr. W. H. Rotheram provides clever studies of Grandfather and Father Ferrati; Doctor Boni finds a capable exponent in Mr. Fred J. Walker; Mr. Alfred Fisher is well placed as Governor Testa; Miss Madge Lanerton makes a pleasing Mrs. Fairbrother; Miss Emelie Mayhew is a satisfactory Christian Anne; and Miss Violet Macaree's skilful rendering of Greeba evokes the sympathy of all.

County Electric Pavilion.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur E. Melborne.—The film of the Great Western Railway Works and town of Swindon continues to interest the public, and other pictures included in the programme are Isabella of Aragon, Ticket of Leave Man, Spirit of the Sword, Message of an Arrow, and a good supply of comics.

TODMORDEN.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst. — Miss Florence Baines is presenting Miss Madge Grey in Miss Lancashire, Ltd., which opened on Monday to a crowded house. Miss Grey is the life and soul of the piece as the Lancashire Lass; Miss Isa Stelle charmingly portrays the rôle of Eva Lancashire; Miss Mabelle Clinton is a graceful Bertha; Mr. Sydney Dench, jun., skilfully enacts the rôle of Harry Higgins; John Higgins is capably delineated by Mr. Ralph Whinery; Mr. Alan Servington makes an excellent Moses Goldberg; and Mr. L. Meadows gives a well-studied impersonation of John Henry Thompson.

Olympia Picture Palace.—Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Chas. Tyers.—Big houses still continue to visit this place of amusement. There is a capital series of films, and Mr. F. Gilmartin is greatly appreciated in his two illustrated songs.

TON-Y-PANDY. — Royal.—General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—Mr. F. Granville's No. 1 company is this week playing The Better Land. Mr. Douglas Watson gives a manly exposition of Philip Radcliffe; as Hubert Radcliffe a success is scored by Mr. Leonard Booker; Mr. H. Cremer is well placed as George Grant; Mr. Frank Daleno makes the most of Tom Tadpole; Miss M. Trevosper is a sympathetic Doris Radcliffe; and Miss Madge Trevelyan a successful Mercedes. Polly Perkins at the hands of Miss K. Terris receives ample justice; and Miss B. Moody plays well as Aunt Jemima.

Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; General-Manager, Mr. E. Harper.—Miss Marie Jones pays a welcome return visit; the La Faille Troupe are clever Risley artists; R. T. Chinn, concertinist, is well received; as also are Chant and Chant, and Bob Morgan, a local baritone, in illustrated songs.

Empire.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter Wright.—The Woodwards, in their cycle-balancing act, create a sensation; the Gondolier Glee Singers meet with a hearty reception; and so does Monty Walker. Kendrick and Laura present a smart and eccentric dancing act; Rosie Bartlett is a clever male impersonator; Marguerita does a graceful trapeze act; and Will Rhodes is a droll comedian.

TORQUAY.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is paying a first visit here in Brewster's Millions. In the principal character of Monty Brewster Mr. Percy Hutchison keeps the house continually amused from beginning to end; Miss Cicely Stuckey admirably filled the rôle of Peggy; and Miss Lillias Earle made a charming Mrs. Dan de Mille. The part of Miss Armstrong was capably taken by Miss Pauline Straus; Miss M. Seton appeared with success as Trixie Clayton; Mr. Robert Forsyth created a good impression as Mr. Grant; and Messrs. Gordon Ash, A. Andrews, Henry Hampson, and Aubrey Mather were also much in evidence. Mr. Frank Hill was decidedly quaint as Rawles.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Welton Dale; Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—Mr. Ernest Norris's company, in The Education of Elizabeth, has proved one of the best comedy combinations which has visited here. Mr. Norris himself as the inane Reggie gives a very clever character study, while Miss May Norris as Elizabeth is equally successful in portraying his entirely opposite temperament of Elizabeth before and after education; Mr. Royce Milton is excellent in the rôle of the fiancé, while Miss Georgette Thierry gives quite the requisite bravura interpretation of Blanche. Mr. Harold Wagner is effective in the sinister rôle of Whitby, and Miss Helene Forest gives a very sympathetic rendering of Lucy Middleton. Other minor parts are meritoriously filled by Mr. Wilton Leonard as the manservant; Mr. Hugh Peel, the French waiter; Mr. C. Holt, the Gendarme; and Miss Una Erle as the third chorus girl. The piece is preceded by clever Dickens' impersonations by Mr. Harold Wagner.

The Great Hall.—On Tuesday Miss E. Gould produced a Greek ballet, Pandora's Box, invented and arranged by herself, in which all the parts were played by her pupils, who also gave a display of art dancing. The action of the ballet follows the familiar Greek legend, and Miss E. Gould ably took the part of Pandora, with Miss E. Andrews as Epimetheus. A series of clever Arabian, Japanese, and French dances were given by Miss May Gould.

WAKEFIELD. — Opera House. — Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—An Unwedded Wife is being played by Mr. Will Casey's company. Mr. Gilbert Elvin gives an able impersonation of John Hawthorne; Mr. E. St. Claire Forbes cleverly portrays the villainies of Philip Blackstone; good comedy is introduced by Mr. Will Casey as Napoleon Boomer, and Miss Annie Mitchell as Caraway Crumpet; Mr. Arthur Cheeves proved a capital Frank Armstrong; Miss Chrissie Dunbar gains the heartiest approval for her sympathetic rendering as Marion; Miss Ethel Spence is admirable as Elsie Langham; and Little Doris Sorsby displays ability in a juvenile part.

New Empire.—Proprietor, Sherwood and Co.; Manager, Mr. S. H. Laycock.—The Great Raymond is attracting packed houses, and his wonderful illusions receive well-merited approbation; the Five Victors are expert dancers; Morris and Moore are a capital pair of comedians; Les Grossi contribute the Vampire Dance in weird and excellent style; Luella Cross is a dainty comedienne and dancer; Ryde and Beeman, eccentric comedians, cause much laughter; and Horace Jones, comedian, has a good reception.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Mr. James Willard and company, in a thrilling sketch The Devil's Box of Bricks, score an undoubted success; the Selwyns, vocalists and dancers, are smart; Rozel, gymnast, gives a fine performance; Mr. Charles F. Best, comedian, is a success; and Mr. Barney Murphy, comedian and mimic, and Mr. Fred Horsfall, vocalist, are well received.

WARRINGTON. — Royal Court.—Proprietor, Mr. Joseph Beecham; General-Manager, Mr. A. M. Loader.—The Village Blacksmith, presented by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company, is reappearing here, and the work of Mr. Sam Livesey as John Strong, Miss Maggie Edwards as Kate Strong, and Mr. J. Carter as Captain Leo is as popular as ever.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—Another remarkable cycling turn is seen here this week, and the trick riding of the Villons is very fine. There is also a spicy fund of humour associated with their work which makes it very entertaining. Francini, Ollems, and Page again score a big success with their juggling, acrobatic, and comedy turn; Farr and Farland are smart patterers and their business is quite original. Walter Aubrey is a smart dancer; and the Sages score well in a vaudeville turn. Lizzie Daniels is a dainty comedienne and dancer; and George Brookes makes himself popular with good songs.

Royal.—Proprietors, the Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Jack Waters.—The Kebbels (Nora and Edie), as duettists and dancers, have won the hearts of all; Tom E. Deane is a smart comedian; and the Sisters Saxony score as dancers. Newcombe and Sullivan are rare knockabouts; and the pictures are again a special feature.

WATFORD.—Palace Theatre.—So'e Responsible Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Mason; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Wright.—J. W. Rickaby constitutes the star turn of an excellent programme, which also includes Miss Lily Rosebury; Master Pan, "the Juvenile Swell"; Miss Nellie Coleman, described as "the Only Female Comedian"; Victor Travers, a more than usually clever coon comedian; Ross and Lewin; and Bonnie Goodwin.

WEST BROMWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale; Lessee, Mr. Montague Beaudyn.—Mr. Beaudyn is producing A Collier's Daughter, a romantic play dealing with the life of a Yorkshire girl, by David Muskerry. Miss Irene Munroe as Bess is a fine study, full of charm and vivacity; while Mr. Beaudyn admirably portrays Dick Silver. Mr. Chas. D. Pitt is good as Jasper Bargrave; Mr. Francis Cavanah as John Digby, the collier, also does his work well; Miss Maude Hastings as Irene Gallimore and Miss Phyllis Rae as Lady Kathleen Hartland are good, the other parts being in capable hands.

New Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Colin, sen.—In addition to excellent up-to-date pictures capital turns are provided by Lorna Lomond, a very pleasing contralto; the MacGregors, clever comedy entertainers; Empress, a skilful lady of mystery; the Czar troupe of Russian dancers, whose work is very striking; Maud Hughes, a young lady with a fine soprano voice; Snowden and Alexander, in a comedy sketch; and the Martials Trio, whose balancing feats are really sensational.

WEXFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. E. P. Ronan.—Mr. George Mallin's pantomime Aladdin met with a rousing reception on its return visit, and the theatre, which has recently undergone extensive alterations and improvements, looked very cosy and comfortable. The scheme of decoration has been well conceived, and reflects great credit on the management and on the local artists who were entrusted with the work of carrying it into effect. Miss Lena Lewis made a dashing Aladdin, her songs and dances being thoroughly enjoyed; Miss Lily Richardson quickly gained the favour of the audience by her graceful impersonation of the rôle of the Princess, and her several numbers were loudly encored; Miss Nance Howard as the Genie of the Ring was well suited to the part; and Miss L. Danesbury as Zoo Cho looked and acted well. Mr. George Mallin kept the house in a roar by his antics as Widow Twankey; Mr. Clifford Spencer, an excellent comedian, extracted all the fun possible from the rôle of Abanazar; Mr. Rickard V. Howard was a great favourite as Chi-Chi, and had to repeat several of his songs; while Mr. Herbert Lemley as the Emperor, La Hung Chu, was very amusing. The minor parts were in capable hands, and the chorus was efficient, while the band, under the direction of Mr. J. Mortimer, left nothing to be desired.

WEYMOUTH. — Pavilion Theatre. — Manager, Mr. W. R. Wallis.—Fanny and the Servant Problem is staged here, with an excellent company. Miss Beatrice Moreau is a perfectly natural and charming Fanny, and Mr. Horace Lingard is exceptionally good as the old retainer. The Misses Rita Spink and Miriam Holt are admirable as the maiden aunts; Mr. Roland Hope's Dr. Freebody is a finished piece of acting; Mr. A. S. Jackson is capital as George Newte, and Mr. Russell Davis gives an admirable study of Lord Bantock; Miss Fay as Susannah Bennett, the housekeeper, does full justice to the part.

WHITEHAVEN. — New Theatre Royal. — Proprietor, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jacques.—Mr. Walter Steele's company is here in the drama A Fast Life. Mr. F. Garratt as Sir Oliver Franklin submits a creditable performance; as John Dixon Mr. W. Steele is excellent; and Mr. J. Cummins is good as Crawford. Mr. B. Warwick as Goldberg and Mr. Willie Barrat as Tommy Burke are both prominent in their respective characters; and Miss Beatrice Hone is a pleasing Lady Franklin. Miss Maud Ryder is lively as Juliana; and Miss Lilian Ross makes the most of Mrs. Dixon.

WIDNES.—Alexandra Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Burton.—Yukio Tani holds premier place in an excellent variety programme; his demonstration with another ju-jitsu champion, Adam King, is exceptionally clever and interesting. Local competitions are prominent features of the entertainment. Shawlene provides a turn of exceptional interest, and his whistling qualifications are displayed to full advantage. The Marblesque Trio, in some classical poses, are well received, and other excellent turns are provided by the Eltons, comedy acrobats; Three Tivoli Girls, coon vocalists and speciality dancers; Miss Elsie Gray, male impersonator; Miss Victoria Cross, Scotch comedienne; Mr. Yorke Stephen, baritone vocalist; and Mr. George Gallagher, Irish comedian.

Co-operative Hall.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—The Four Musical Scoreys top the programme, and introduce several amusing and novel instruments; Mr. Bert Anderson is a magician and conjurer of excellent quality. Other turns are provided by Mr. Witt Gesta and Miss Wynn Hoe, farmyard mimic and dancer respectively; and Mr. Tom Garland, ventriloquist. The pictures are exceptionally good. The Lie, a dramatic and pathetic film, being the best.

Empire Hall.—Proprietors, Messrs. Caldwell Bros.; Manager, Mr. G. C. Ford.—Excellent turns are presented by the Kathleen O'Hanlon Trio, musical, vocal, and terpsichorean artists; Mr. Frank Solesby, comedian; and the Albano Girls, musicians and dancers. The pictures are par excellence, and include The Cup Final between Newcastle and Barnsley.

WIGAN.—Royal Court Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's company is here in For Wife and Kingdom. Miss Hettie Zillwood makes a charming Grand Duchess Marie; Miss M. R. Frame is eminently successful as Camille; Mr. Reginald T Fox is a powerful Captain Maxmillian; Mr. A. Guyon is conspicuous as Baron Maurice; Mr. F. Sutherland acts in a capable manner as General Nestolde; and Mr. Henry Smythe as Paul and Mr. C. H. Gallier as Sergeant Offenbeck impersonate their respective parts with credit.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The premier position here is occupied by Mephisto, who mystifies the audience with his tricks; a sketch, The Wrong 'Uns, is well presented by Mr. James Hare and company; the Cromwells deserve special mention for their juggling exhibition; Lucy Lynd scores with her patter and songs; Eileen and May, in their musical and dancing act, find much favour; Nellie Brierley, the pit-brow soprano, has a capital reception; and other interesting turns include Milton Heyes, entertainer; Ariana, and Rowlands and Ford, comedians.

WISHAW, N.B. — Pavilion.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. Rene Clayton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Nimse.—Bennet and Martell in their amusing speciality, The Shipwrecked Mariner, top the bill; Zenany Bros., in an expert acrobatic act. A Night at the Club, are a popular turn; Ess and Hoey, Canadian ski and skate dancers, are clever in the extreme; J. A. Cassels, Scotch comedian, is a big favourite; Musical Silvo is clever and entertaining as an exponent of musical glasses and the silvochimes; and capital films are shown on the Bioscope.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Edwin Leslie; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Ball.—Excellent fare is provided by Miss Hilda Beverley's company with A Destroyer of Men, and crowded houses are the rule. Premier honours are due to Miss Hilda Beverley for her excellent assumption of the rôle of Olga Mishla. At times she holds the audience completely spellbound by the intensity of her acting. Mr. Herbert Pearson works hard, appearing with much success as Karl Mishla, Herr Runz, and the hunchback Uno; Mr. Stephen Langton furnishes a powerful impersonation of Count Starevitch; Mr. James Jarrett acts with intelligence and vigour as Michael Mishla; Mr. Jack Armitage doubles the parts of Fedor Strellitzke and Paul Starevitch, in both of which he displays ability; Mr. Edward Keith makes a humorous Coco Tatehoski; Mr. Arthur Swain is good as Colonel Linicvitch; Miss Mary Brammer gives an artistic rendering of Vida Ravel; and Miss Dorothy Hildebrande is full of life and go as Nina Pattacake.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—A strong bill here is headed by the Jackson Family in a musical entertainment of an unusually high standard; Josh Dixon, an eccentric comedian with a style peculiarly his own, scores heavily; Harry Russell and company cause roars of laughter in their sketch, Milk Oh! the Two Walonells, under the cloak of excellent fooling, display remarkable agility in a triple bar act; Maxey and Pete are clever trick and comedy cyclists; Jessica Brooke is a dainty comedian with a taking manner; Grogey does well as a Sussex yokel and in an impersonation of an old soldier; and Lily Belle is a smart little barefoot dancer.

WREXHAM.—Empire Music Hall.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. J. Scott.—At the top of the bill is that eccentric comedian Will Saunders, who keeps the house in roars of laughter, and equally a favourite is May Vincent, whose catchy choruses hit the taste of the audience to a nicety. Among the most noticeable of the pictures are a new dramatic film A Plucky Little Girl, Two Comrades, The Seventh Day, and A Persistent Suitor.

YORK.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Mr. Hamilton Stewart's company in The Mummy and the Humming Bird is appearing with a large amount of success. Mr. Stewart gives a wonderfully realistic impersonation of Lord Lumley; Miss W. Bruce-Joy is a graceful and winning Lady Lumley; to Mr. L. Mannering is entrusted the objectionable rôle of the Humming Bird, in which, however, he appears with perfect success; and Mr. Lancelot Lowder is in every way excellent as Guiseppe. The mounting is first class.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—Everything is up to date at this popular establishment, the film being full of novelty. The Two Friends is a pathetic scena, and The Converts and the Mad Woman of the Ruined Castle are full of life; Sisters Gaye are expert comediennes and dancers.

Victoria Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—Seymour and Curtis, in their musical speciality, are well received. Of the pictures the most popular are A Sailor's Crime, Judith, and A Scene in Japan.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brook.—A remarkably strong company is led by that charming comedienne, Hetty King, who, on her first visit, has attained remarkable success. She is wonderfully clever. Canard, the man on time, is deservedly applauded; Tom Drew causes amusement by his quaintness; the Crisps produce a sensational dancing act, which goes well; Donna Morgan, of elegant appearance, sings with delightful charm; and Les Atans are aptly named dental gymnasts. Winona and King are expert rifle shots; and a most amusing sketch, entitled Her Husband, is given, in which Ernest Long, a versatile comedian, is seen to advantage.

THEN AND NOW.

In the palmy days of music halls—writes Mr. Fred Bowyer—there was no curtain, not the barest suggestion of scenery, scarcely a platform. The music hall forty years ago was a much simpler, homelier place. Space did not matter; you sat about at tables and drank at your ease from pewter pots as fashion then demanded. It was a great honour to drink with the "chairman," the president of the assembly, an honour to which only a regular guest could aspire. The performers did not rush on for a "turn" at a flicker of a number dial, but were announced with solemn majesty by the autocratic chairman, after he had rapped silence with his mallet. It was more of a friendly smoking-room concert than a show.

At the old Canterbury, the performers all used to line up on the platform, and sing a rattling opening chorus, while the audience applauded with pewters and sticks and boots with unrestrained ardour. It was the same sort of thing as the Christy Minstrels, and the comic man used to take the side, just as the "corner man."

Make-up was scarcely ever attempted. A song stood or fell on its own merits and the skill of the singer. The "great" Vance, who introduced the "howling swell" to the halls, used to swagger about the platform dropping silk handkerchiefs to show his illimitable wealth. The comic man would wear a little bijou hat on the back of his head, but that was all. The impression of reckless prodigality, moreover, in the "great" Vance was rather damped when his little page followed him picking up the priceless handkerchiefs. There was no drop-curtain then.

One of the first halls was the New Music Hall in Hungerford Market, afterwards known as Gatti's (Arches). There you heard a wonderful collection of the English ballads, such as to-day you might chance to hear at the Queen's Hall. Younger readers may think it strange that half a century ago such classics as "The Blue Bells of Scotland" and "The Last Rose of Summer" were sung at the music hall; that the Shakespearean lyrics were still regarded as national songs and performed on the nightly programme to an enthusiastic music-hall audience.

The old music-hall song had one advantage over the modern, which might easily be remedied. As a rule, they were set to any old well-known tune, so that there was no tricky air to be mastered before a song came into favour. A man wrote a song, say, "A Trip to Brighton." He took no trouble about the music, but just wrote in "To the air of 'An old cork leg,'" and the job was done.

Salaries have been revolutionised since the early days. When the new Canterbury was opened thirty years ago George Leybourne, the Robey of the day, was offered the princely salary of £20 a week. At that time the Canterbury was the chief hall in London. All the town travelled over the water to see the ballet, and the Great Vance, Arthur Roberts, Nelly Power, and Phyllis Broughton were the stars of the day.

Now, when most artists have a motor, it is curious to recall that Leybourne was presented by Bill Holland, of the Canterbury, with a carriage and pair, on the express understanding that he drove about in it "by way of advertisement."

But great as has been the change in the fortunes of the artists, it has even been greater with kind friends in front. From being a resort for men the variety theatre nowadays is for the family, and especially for the women of the family. The modern luxurious conditions and the decrease of drink are among the causes of the modern music hall growing in favour with women of every class, and none exist now to which a man will not feel perfectly secure in escorting his relatives of the other sex. The reasons given by a well-educated woman recently for her obvious pleasure in vaudeville were significant. "Some years since I used not to go, not because other people didn't go, but because, judging from what I saw in the announcements, I knew I should only be bored. Now, however, I am sure of an excellent evening's entertainment. I can have a ballet if I want it, good singing, a short play, excellent dancing, and plenty of fun—a little of it vulgar sometimes, perhaps. Also, I can pick up some really good 'tips' on new fashions—some of the American and French mimics bring delightful frocks with them—and then one needn't stay any longer than one wants to." But the curious thing is that women do sit the whole programme through. They come early and stay to the end. When he is alone a man will dine and stroll to the club, and then drop in in time for his favourite turn. But when he brings his wife he has to come early and leave only when she has had enough, which is generally after the bioscope.

Without doubt, the most popular "turn" with lady patrons at all the halls is dancing, whether classical, French, or fantastic. The Russian dancers who were recently at the Coliseum had a great vogue amongst women, and many returned again and again to see them. Their beauty, their inimitable grace, their exquisite costumes—modest as well as beautiful—won them a chorus of praise from all classes. One well-known American hostess secured them for her party, and built a large temporary stage on the terrace of her house.

"To the presence of women in increased numbers," writes a well-known society woman, "may be ascribed in some measure the enormous vogue of the thirty-minutes' 'sketch.' As the most ardent theatregoers the sex appreciate the opportunity of seeing their favourite hero or heroine, and obtaining their emotions in tabloid form. A feminine influence may also be traced in the refinement of the woman entertainer, and in such a detail as the dress of gymnasts and wire-walkers. Formerly the conventional costume consisted of flesh-coloured tights and a spangled garment, with sometimes the addition of a ballet skirt in the case of the woman. But all this is now changed, and these turns—always favourites with every section of the house—have increased in charm as in difficulty. It is hard to imagine anything more beautiful of their kind than the feats of a quartet recently performing at the Alhambra. A delightful costume, consisting of white satin breeches, white silk shirts, and white powdered wigs, was worn by a Continental troupe of acrobats in their graceful act at the Coliseum. Gracefulness, beauty of dress, and extreme skill are characteristics of most of the entertainments of this class. The popularity of such turns is undeniable."

SPECIAL NOTE.—NO DEPUTIES WILL BE ACCEPTED AT REHEARSALS.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. T. GERALD MORTON, Empire Palace, Leeds.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

[On next Friday the Postal Arrangements are such that our Correspondents are requested to post one day earlier than usual all reports intended for our next issue (May 21).]

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—This is what may be truthfully declared as a thrillsome week at His Majesty's, Mrs. John Lawson and a very able company presenting a triple bill that ought to satisfy the most inveterate seeker after sensation. The three pieces presented are The Devil's Sunday, A Bride for a Living, and The Woman and the Apple, all of which are exploited for all they are worth. Supporting Mrs. Lawson are Mr. Cohen Owen, Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh, Mr. H. E. Herbert, and Mr. Sam Springson. Between the pieces songs are capably rendered by Mme. Florence Burns, Miss Mildred Gibbs, and Mr. Robert Foster-Hine.

PALACE THEATRE. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Gallagher.—The Schichti Marionettes top the bill; other turns being supplied by Leolin, Indian club expert; Nellie Farrell, Irish comedienne; Rose and Calvert, in their Captain Kettle scena; Ada Fawn, comedy and burlesque actress; Bi-Bo-Bi, eccentric musician; Rastus and Banks, clever coloured entertainers; and Harry Herbert, comedian.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is paying a return visit with A Broken Heart. Mr. Foxwell as the hero, John Barnard, displays considerable dramatic power; Mr. A. C. Holmes ably depicts the part of Stephen Rayiton; and Mr. Charles Vivian plays Gash Gills with exceptional skill. Mr. Henry Carlisle as the village curate, the Rev. Mr. Staunton, is all that could be desired; and Tony Tibbets has a mirth-provoking exponent in Mr. Newton Pearce. Miss Sheila Walsh's acting as Mary Barnard is full of grace and tenderness; Miss Mamie Thorpe is a charming Grace Fanshaw; and Miss Nancy Mitchell deserves praise as Sally Travner. Miss Louise Millward makes the most of her opportunities as Mrs. Barnard; and Little May finds a capable representative in Miss Daisy Rochefort.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Miss Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots are scoring a success in a delightful scena, Gipsy Revels; Abel and Welsh provide a capital eccentric acrobatic turn; and Frank Weaver is a coloured sand-dancer who makes himself popular. The Almas are extraordinary equilibrists; the Sisters Cora are smart duettists and dancers; and Amy Russell, vocalist, is heard to much advantage. Susie and Protti are expert whirlwind dancers; Charles Pastor is a successful comedian; and the Bioscope completes a varied programme.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Gladwin.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's talented company are giving a capital interpretation of The Bondman. Mr. Philip Darien gives an artistic conception of Jason, his physique, voice, and mannerisms being ideal. Mr. Stanley Harrison, who is renewing the acquaintance of the Royal patrons, contributes a talented portrayal of Michael Sunlocks; and in the dual rôle of Grandfather and Father Ferrati Mr. W. H. Rotheram is decidedly good. Miss Violet Macree provide an excellent conception of Greeba, her characterisation of the different phases of that difficult rôle stamping her as a talented actress. The staging reflects credit on Mr. Reginald A. Hunt, the visiting stage-manager, and on the resident staff, the sulphur mines scenes being very realistic.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—The revisit of the musical drama Miss Lancashire, Limited, to the Theatre Royal is taking well. Mary Ellen Thompson, the laughing Lancashire lass, is this time sustained by Miss Madge Grey; Miss Mabelle Clinton does well as Bertha; and Miss Isa Steel as Eva Lancashire is also very effective. Mr. H. B. Peppin is an amusing John Higgins; Mr. Sinclair Holden is a smart Harry; and Mr. Lonnen Meadows as John Henry Thompson is the good-hearted yet fiery-tempered old man to the life. Mr. Allan Servington as Moses aids greatly to the success.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem—This week the Raynor company of dramatic artists is here with Moths, Black Sheep, and The Idler. Mr. Raynor's Lord Jura, in Moths, is a favourite character study; Miss Cecilia Dare as the Duchess de Sonnaz is powerful; Miss Dora Dench makes a deeply-interesting Vere Herbert; and Miss Frances Waring a worldly-minded Lady Dolly. Miss Hilda Blanche's Fuschia Leach is amusing; Mr. Clinton Baddeley makes a remorseless Zouroff; Mr. Conrad Heywood a courageous Correze; and Mr. Milton C. Curtis a sufficiently forceful Duke of Mull. Mr. Ed. Ashworth is also good as Boris.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—The Georgian Troupe of vocalists and instrumentalists (twelve in number) appear in a high-class musical programme, interspersed with a dancing scena and rendezvous. The animated pictures conclude.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, The Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—This week's animated photos at the Palace are fully up to date. The Passing Shadow is a very striking film, and of thrilling interest is The Love of Lady Irma. The variety artist is the versatile comedian, Tim Carlyle, who sings comic ditties in quite an original style.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—"The-World-in-Motion" entertainment is still a big draw. The special variety turn here is a young lady vocalist of prepossessing appearance and a fine voice. She sang "Always look on the sunny side" and "The camp-fires are gleaming."

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope. — The principal dramatic pictures here this week are The Two Orphan Girls, The Bonesetter's Daughter, and Maggie's Dolly. A Journey through the Middle of the Earth is a smart coloured trick picture; the comic element is represented by The Lamp and Burglary by Airship. Mr. Arthur Betts, comedian, and Sizaire, chorus vocalist, provide acceptable turns.

PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. Matt Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Dent.—The star picture in this week's admirable selection here is a most absorbing series dealing with Dr. Nikola and his exploits. Mr. A. Gordon, vocalist, is making his first appearance here, and meeting with success. The Scarlet Band, under Mr. Guest's able direction, is still a popular feature.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Messrs. Hinton and Green's company in Her Fatal Marriage are playing to good houses. The various parts are ably sustained by Mr. Jerrold Heather, Miss Hilda Shirley, Mr. Colin Heather, Mr. G. Mortimer Hancock, Mr. Sam Edwards, Mr. Gerald Bryne, Mr. P. M. Wright, Mr. Tod Squires, Miss Winifred Rutland, and Miss Laura Wright. The scenery is good and all the parts are well dressed.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Smithson.—Topping a strong bill, fully appreciated by big houses, are Barnes and West, who give a fine turn. Natalia and Diana are charming lady gymnasts; the Pasquali Brothers are clever tumblers; Queenie May, the prize packet, is very good; Mlle. Bartenelli has a novel act in "The Golden Column"; Selby and Myers are droll comedians; Baddow is a pleasing ventriloquist; Will Penn, a capital comedian; Les Andres appear in a terpsichorean act; and the Palacescope throws good pictures.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—The Royal Canadian Picture Company still draws packed houses.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company is here in A Beautiful Fiend. Miss Sidney Crowe invests the title-rôle with much force and all the requisite callousness; and Mr. Herbert Skardon is a manly Major Ivan Paulovitch. Miss Netta Mitchell is a gentle and winning Nadine Strogoff; and Messrs. Hugh Carmichael (Count Fedor Karateff), Howard Hardy (Sergius Strogoff), Charles Higgins (Trolski), and Henry (Captain Hardy) appear to great advantage; while Mr. Bert Woodin provides many humorous moments as Christopher Crackles.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls are the premier turn here, and their excellent entertainment is much appreciated; Howe and Ardie combine some really smart gymnastic tricks with capital humour; Gertie Mason is a pleasing comedienne; the Evalos in a gymnastic and juggling display are good; Dorman Morgan renders her songs in good style; Mr. "E.'s" descriptive picture songs are much enjoyed; Morelli and More give a novel musical turn, and are clever dancers; Vernon's Bioscope depicts interesting pictures.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge. — Newman's British Empire Picture and Variety Co. are proving more popular than ever, capital business being the result.

BARRY DOCK.—VINT'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden.—Topping the bill here are the Wagners, in a speciality; Salida and Vone (old favourites here) gives a refined show; and the pictures are of the usual high standard.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Closed this week, reopening on Monday.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—The Andos, a sextette of Japs, who thrill the audience with their daring and graceful feats, are here; welcome return engagements are being fulfilled by the Ten Dixie Girls, in their popular vocal and terpsichorean scena, "The Silver Coons," and the Kirbys, who supply merriment in songs and comedy business; Mona Garrick shows high dramatic talent in scenes from several modern plays; the Maro Duo, in their triple-bar act, combine both cleverness and laughter; George Lawrence is one of the best light comedians on the road; and the pure, natural alto voice of Alfred Long is heard to advantage in "Tatters" and "I sing thee songs of Araby." The pictures include an educational film of great interest in Wild Birds in Their Haunts.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Miss Florence Tyrrell's company is presenting The Woman in the Case. Miss Tyrrell herself plays the title-rôle with much power; Miss Beth Elliott gives a clever portrayal of the wife, Margaret Rolfe; Mr. Cecil Newton plays convincingly as Julian Rolfe; Mr. W. T. Elworthy impersonates the Lawyer with the necessary astuteness; Miss Ethel Lodge renders an amusing sketch of the talkative Mrs. Hughes; and the other parts are all in capable hands.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—Mr. Frank Weathersby's company opened here on Monday with the three-act comedy, The Best People. In the rôle of Lady Emsworth Miss Irene Lavington was completely successful; and much praise must be accorded Miss Roberta Pulleyne for her delightful interpretation of the Hon. Mrs. Bayle. The rôle of Lord Emsworth fits Mr. H. Elliott-Ball like the proverbial glove, and he was thoroughly convincing; and Mr. Pennington-Gush is entitled to high commendation for his able impersonation of the Hon. Gerald Bayle. Mr. Arthur Dennis as Lord Wynlea was all that could be desired; and Mr. Hal Charlton was excellent as Mr. James Spofforth. Mr. Leslie Bennett as Jackson completed the capable cast. Cinders, by Lily Tinsley, forms a most acceptable curtain-raiser, the rôles of Amelia Ann and Jack Warrener being effectively presented by Miss Viola March and Mr. Hal Charlton.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—The attraction here is The Mockery of Marriage, presented by Mr. W. Graham Arthur's company. Miss Mabel Liston acts with consummate skill as Alva Kenyon; and the rôle of Dick Kenyon is cleverly presented by Mr. W. Graham Arthurs. Mr. Fitzroy Wharton acts naturally as Jack Stanley; and Miss C. Middleton appears to the utmost advantage as Rose Verham. Much humour is introduced into the piece by Miss Kate Hughes and Mr. David Phillips, who create the heartiest laughter in their respective rôles of Mary Ann Barnicoat and Toby Wright. Mr. Lowe furnishes a powerful impersonation of Seth Pearse; and Mr. J. Barker handles the part of Joseph Verham with considerable skill. Miss Priscilla Barnard is admirable as Nellie Kenyon; and other rôles are ably sustained by Messrs. G. Brown, J. E. McCann, and Roland Devonport.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading attraction here is Consul, and this extraordinary ape performs some remarkable feats. Mr. Ryder Sloane's songs, especially "The Watchman," are popular; and "The Trip to Coontown," in which many real negroes appear, is one of the features of the programme. The Three Prestons create much mirth with their comical act, The Village of Shiftem; and Emerson and Baldwin are clever juggling comedians with some novel effects. Miss Elsie Kerry, a charming vocalist, made a big hit on Monday with her Irish songs; and also in the bill are Smith and Johnston, coloured vocalists; Mr. Will Nosam, vocalist; and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The leading feature of this week's bill is the romantic scena, The Romanys, ably presented by Gordon and St. Croix's company, which includes the charming actress, Miss Beatrice Edwards. Miss Millie Payne is a talented eccentric comedienne, with capital songs and original methods. Siems is a marvellous coin and card manipulator; and the Yokels afford much pleasure with their novel scena, Harvest Home. The cornet soloist and mimic, Zethus, gains a gratifying reception; and also here are Mr. Dan Hendy, acrobatic comedian; and the bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—Some beautiful films exhibited here include The Mexican's Faith, In the Nick of Time, and The Skipper's Yarn. Also appearing are Denby and Dent, in their smart comedy act; and Mr. J. A. Cassels, a droll Scotch comedian.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Some capital films include Jean Valjean Old Sleuth, Cupid and the Motor Boat, &c. Mr. Tom Wheatley, the ventriloquial coon, gains a favourable reception.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME. — Lessee, Mr. Edwin G. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—The artists appearing here include the Lizzette troupe of lady acrobats and dancers; Fremel and Fremel, comedy duo; and Molly Augarde. Among some fine pictures shown by the Hippograph are White Sea Fisheries, Barnsley v. Newcastle, and The Aeroplanist's Secret.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—A condensed version of the drama Temptation, supported by Nora Carton and Beatrice Selwyn's company, fills the theatre twice nightly. Miss Carton is seen at her best as Hilda Dundonald; Miss Selwyn gives a powerful rendering of the unpopular rôle of Ivra Blight, the adventuress; Hubert Thorne is excellently played by Mr. Norman A. Overton; and the Sir Charles Tremaine of Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle is a most meritorious impersonation. The comedy element is capitally supplied by Mr. Frank Ayrton as Bob Saunders, and by Miss Madge Seymour as Araminta. Remaining parts were well filled, and the production has created a very favourable impression here.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Keating.—Billy Merson, a comedian with an excellent reputation in this town, heads a capital company. Violet Lloyd and Horace Lane, in their farcical musical comedy, Trixie, have made a decided hit; and Mr. James Willard and his very able company are appearing in the dramatic episode, The Ace of Hearts, with pronounced success. Fanny Dent and Harry Dent, clever burlesque artists, are an acquisition; Miss Nancy Thornton, a charming and accomplished comedienne, is a general favourite; and Mr. Phil Bransby, coster comedian, Poole and Maguire, vocal comedians; Miss Venie Clements, comedienne and dancer, and Brown's Royal Bioscope, complete.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Mr. Percy Norman's company in A Woman Worth Winning is an undoubted attraction here. Played twice each evening, excellent business is done, and Mr. Karl Kerso is prominent with a spirited performance of General Borinski. Fergus Lavinski is finely represented by Mr. A. B. Mackay; Miss Lillie Lewis is an admirable Roma Pauloff; and the cast generally is most efficient.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—Mr. Stuart Alexander's So-and-So's company, in a smart comedy and operatic entertainment, furnish a most attractive programme here.

BIRMINGHAM.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnstone.—The King's death has undoubtedly affected the attendances this week, but, taken on the whole, Tom Jones, the bright comic opera, is being well supported. It is capitally played by Mr. Mouillot's company. The piece is full of happy numbers, songs, and choruses, and the picturesque dresses are greatly admired. As Sophia Miss Dorothy Castles is charming. She plays well throughout, and sings delightfully; Mr. Cyril Thompson, in the title-rôle, is seen to advantage; as Honour, Miss Clara Marsden is a bright, cheerful actress, and plays a prominent part in the success of the piece, and the comedy element is considerably strengthened by the clever antics of Mr. E. Statham Staples as Benjamin Partridge. Warm praise is also due to Mr. Fred Seymour and Miss Edith Jeffries.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—The Sorrows of Satan, by Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company, is being thoroughly enjoyed by large audiences. Mr. Hinton gives a striking impersonation of the exacting rôle of Prince Lucio, and Mr. Green as Geoffrey Tempest is very convincing; Miss Leila Zillwood is excellent as Lady Sybil Elton, and a sympathetic delineation of the character of Mavis Clare is given by Miss Mabel Coleman. Other rôles are in capable hands.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Mr. Douglas Bruce's company is presenting the sensational detective drama, The Female Swindler, and gives a vigorous and striking interpretation. Miss Olive Warne scores a triumph in the title-rôle, and Mr. Henry Lonsdale as Jack Coulton, the criminal investigator, gives a true representation of the character. Miss Irene Atchinson is clever as May Andrews, the heroine, and Mr. W. T. Riley as Geoffrey Warden, alias Captain Stanton, makes a capital villain. Mr. Fred de Vere (Billy Binks) and Miss Gertie Henderson (Mary Ann Mee) provide plenty of merriment, and the other characters are capably sustained.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Mr. John F. Preston's No. 1 Company is presenting Rogues of the Turf, and the production is well received. Mr. Preston is a popular figure as Joe Flaxman, the trainer, and Miss Mabelle F. Barlow in the difficult character of the Duchess acts with great ability; Miss Ethel Rainforth gives a charming portrayal of Nellie Flaxman, and Miss Marie Brian as Phyllis Wurzel is a vivacious artist; Mr. W. Howard Barlow gives a good interpretation of the heavy character of Captain Clifton, and Mr. Fred Laurence and Mr. Tom Phillips also play an important part in the story; Mr. Horace Custine is successful as Sammy Flaxman, and Mr. Edward Ray makes a good impression as Arthur Somerton.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Manager, Mr. F. Martin Morris. — Mr. Frank Lindo is scoring a great success in Love, the Conqueror, a drama written by himself. He takes the part of Brian Norval, and whilst he is on the stage there is no flagging interest. Miss Marion Wakeford as Mistress Beatrice Mortimer proves an excellent counterfoil; Miss Nellie Benson is clever as Dame Norval; and Miss Helene Thompson and Mr. Bert Dench are together responsible for a good deal of refreshing humour. Mr. Norton Shields plays strongly as Captain Rupert Armadale, and other prominent characters are taken by Mr. E. G. Crowther, Mr. S. Dench, and Mr. L. Lawrence.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Miss Ethel Griffies' company is enjoying great popularity with lovers of good melodrama. This week the production is Gipsy Jack, an attractive story of the adventures of a gipsy youth who became a baronet. The title-rôle is in the capable hands of Mr. Haldane Dalton, who makes the most of his many opportunities; Miss Nellie Thorne Hallam is well suited as May Harvey, and great praise is due to Miss Yoxa Summer, in the character of Dorothy Dexter; Mr. Victor Gardom is at home in the part of Gerald Skinner, the villain, and is well supported by Mr. Willis Collins; Mr. Norman Tracy is successful as the Rev. Francis Harvey, and the other characters are well portrayed.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—Jack Lorimer, the Scotch comedian, heads a good all-round programme with new and effective numbers; dusky May Henderson is an expert mirth-maker and a big favourite; H. C. Wells is truly a "funny man with a funny voice"; Woodhouse and Wells have up-to-date songs and gags; the Bensons are smart entertainers in their musical comedy act, The Page and the Maid; Elsa Bruce and Arthur Hemsley are highly diverting in their act, Fun in a Music Shop; Yamamoto and Miss Koyoshi give a demonstration of remarkable equilibristic feats; Stella Stahl is a pleasing comedienne, and Recco is a smart burlesque acrobat. Interesting Proclamation scenes are shown on the Bioscope.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—Considerable interest is being evinced in the appearance of Mlle. Irma Lorraine, who gives a fine statuary and living picture exhibition, assisted by Marjah, late principal dancer to the deposed Sultan of Turkey, and Mlle. Leony; much amusement is afforded by the comedy cycling feats of Campbell and Barber; there is an abundance of genuine fun in the act of Messrs. W. Mitchell and J. C. Cain, who appear as "The Frenchman and the Ostler Fellow"; Burt Sheppard submits "Potted Poetry"; Miss Alice Pierce is a big attraction, her animated impressions of star performers winning for her hearty applause; Miss Hilda Jacobson is an accomplished vocalist; Carl Howard is very mirth-provoking, and Charles Vincent is a bright comedian.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Harry Tate's No. 1 Company is to the fore in the laughable sketch Motoring, and the artists engaged are responsible for a first-class performance. Hodgson and Lowther's company are very amusing in the piece Barmaids, and Les Rappos, society entertainers, appear in several clever tricks; the Spanish Goldini troupe provide a novel carpet-spinning entertainment; Vere and Neldon are a popular couple; Sydney Bach is an entertaining Welsh artist; Queenie Morris is a dainty comedienne; Frank Harwood is a favourite light comedian, and the Gaietoscope contributes up-to-date pictures.

HIPPODROME. — Managers, Messrs. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—Little Tich is here, and crowded audiences are enjoying the clever little laughter-maker's latest business. He is as droll as ever, and his burlesque "Queen of the Fairies" is a real scream. Sinclair and Whiteford are responsible for a pleasing entertainment, and another excellent musical turn is provided by Simms and Simms; a strong man who performs wonderful feats is Bertisch; the Narow Brothers are clever athletes; Tom Gott has some exceedingly funny Yorkshire dialect songs; and others who contribute to a strong programme are Olive Conroy, Dorothy Sephton, Chorley and Connor, and The Tintos.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—The Royal Tokio troupe of Japanese artists are the principal contributors to an excellent programme. Their balancing feats on a three-length ladder arouse great enthusiasm; A Daughter of Pleasure is cleverly presented by J. G. Grahame and Zerlina Harrington, and Austin Rudd's topical songs and sketches meet with popular approval. The Corcorans are accomplished musicians and quick-change artists, and Lindsay and Hart contribute a fund of pleasing Scottish humour. Beattie Foster is a popular low comedienne; R. C. Note sings acceptable songs; Wallace Whitney is a smart character comedian, and the Sarony Sisters are applauded for wooden shoe and whirlwind dancing.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—Each evening, Saturday excepted, Mr. Jeffs is giving an appropriate illustrated memoir of his late Majesty, King Edward VII., illustrating the principal events in the life of the late Sovereign, and giving excellent photographs of other prominent members of the Royal family. A grand historical reproduction of the Arrest of the Duchess du Berry, illustrating a story of the reign of Louis Phillippe, attracts much attention, and there are numerous other new pictures, including clever humorous productions. Mr. Frank Clarke is well received in vocal selections from an excellent répertoire.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—A varied programme of animated pictures contains many subjects of topical interest. The chief features which meet with public approval are entitled A Duel in Mid-air, Anarchists Abroad, Faded Lilies, and The Innkeeper's Daughter. The comic subjects also play a prominent part in the entertainment. The contributors to the vaudeville portion of the programme are Ida Idris, in her "Mary Jane" speciality; Arthur Wyre, tenor vocalist; and Valledo, gymnast.

QUEEN'S HALL.—Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—An entirely new list of topical pictures arouses keen interest. The dramatic subjects are well chosen, and much ingenuity is diplayed in the humorous films. The entertainment is enhanced by variety turns contributed by clever artists.

BINGLEY HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. George Stanley.—There is no falling off in the attendances each day at the popular Trades Exhibition, and all sections of the exhibits, including trades, manufactures, and machinery in motion, come in for inspection, whilst the numerous side shows receive excellent patronage. Scoma's orchestra has been delighting crowds of interested sightseers.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—EDEN THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs R. Addison, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—The boards are occupied here this week by Mr. H. Armitage's company in The Greater Love. Mr. Campbell Goldsmid is a powerful Paul Penfold; Mr. William Clayton is just the Jack May required; Mr. Algernon J. Hicks plays Andrew Isted in a painstaking manner; and Mr. Henry Nunn is certainly in his right place as Rev. Arthur Warren. Humour is evinced in the rôles depicted by Mr. Harry Wren (Constable Drayton), Miss Ethel Russell (Sarah Higgs), and Mr. Arles Conway (Ned Stubbs). Miss Marion Fawcett is a delightful Mrs. May; and Miss Violet Thorold a good Mary May.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—The Cumberlands, in their acrobatic cycling turn, are enthusiastically received; Bob Winter is a popular comedian; and J. G. Aitken, who is of the "Scotch" type, enjoys similar popularity. Clarke and Mostal are excellent comedians and dancers; and Sadie Bizet a charming comedienne. Austen Temple, who is assisted by Irene Vincent, provides a clever turn of trickery; and the Ekdras also contribute to a good bill. The Hippodrome films are interesting.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. Jno. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Leonard Boyne's company is playing Raffles here this week with considerable success. The title-rôle is carefully handled by Mr. Reginald Dance; and Mr. Harold West assumes with great credit his original part of Bunny. Mr. Edward Irwin gives a faithful portrayal of Detective Bedford; and Mr. Dalziel Heron ably depicts Crawshay, the burglar. Miss May Brooke displays unquestionable ability as Mrs. Vidal; whilst Miss Frances Titheradge acts in a winsome and ladylike manner the part of Gwendoline Conran. Playing the Game is the title of an interesting curtain-raiser, which ventures on a forecast of a test match in 1913 between England and Australia.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Harrop.—Mrs. Mark Kinghorne and company are here this week with Mother-in-Law. Mr. Fred Kaye has a part that suits him completely in Major McTurtle; and Miss Nellie Christie does well as Mrs. McTurtle. Mr. Alfred Hemming as Pounceby and Mrs. Kinghorne as Mrs. Pounceby likewise merit commendation.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Hetty King tops this week's bill, and her efforts are loudly applauded; the Stowe Bros. give a really wonderful equilibristic exhibition; and the Waldrons bring down the house with their comedy act. Herbert La Martine does some eccentric dances; Tom E. Finglass sings coon songs; Emily Delmere is a pleasing comedienne; the Cape Girls contribute songs and dances; Wilman is a master musician; Gladys and Alber appear in a comedy mélange; and new star pictures are shown by Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is this week presenting A Wrecker of Men. Miss Ruth Zillwood is deserving of praise for her portrayal of Risca Mallison, and in the dual part of Ezekial Izaacs and Karnaphus Mr. Edward A. Brooke is distinctly successful. The other characters are in able hands.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—A good bill is placed before the patrons here, comprising Bella and Bijou, society entertainers; Prof. Norton, expert magician; Newman and Knight, in a comedy juggling act; J. P. Ling, comedian and mimic; Lady Mansell and Juveniles in their comedy speciality, entitled A Concert Rehearsal; the Violas (White Mahatmas) in their mental telepathy; the Crown Trio, speciality vocalists; Hugo and Smit, comedy acrobats and knockabout single-bar performers; Harry Luck, eccentric comedian; Jennie Johns, comedienne, and the Four Royal Scots, in a novel musical act.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME, LTD.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—The Six Bros Luck are here in their comedy sketch H.M.S. Perhaps. Other turns on the bill are Ruby Norton, comedienne; the Haverleys, song illustrators; Josh Dixon, comedian; the Boys of England, in barrack-room ballads; Belle Sylvia, contralto; Stevens and Bennior, burlesque comedians; Ted Karno and company in a funny pantomimical sketch Hotel de Quick; and the Hippodrome Pictures.

BOOTLE.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Joint-Managers, Mr. Bobbie Allandale and Mr. Ludwig Blattner; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. Lionel Cole.—The chief attraction is Harry Tate's No. 1 company, in the farcical sketch Fishing, which is well staged and extremely amusing, the audience being kept in a continual roar of laughter. Bernard's Big and Little Quartet of American comedy harmonisers contribute a pleasing entertainment; the Sylvester Trio give a clever exhibition of speciality dancing; Mr. Bob King is a mimic of no mean ability; and other successful items are contributed by La Vie, Miss Lila Vesta, and Miss Mollie Edwardes.

On their garments not a blemish,

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—The London Cinematograph Co. are presenting interesting pictures, including Pauthan's Flight to Manchester, Race for a Bride, Pine-apple Industry, Spirit of the Sword, Teak-wood Industry, Rags and Old Iron, and President Roosevelt in France.

BRADFORD. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—The third visit of Messrs. Platt and Towers' company in Mr. Bernard Shaw's delightful play You Never Can Tell is again affording pleasure to Mr. Hart's patrons. Mr. J. Edward Pearce reappears in his admirable impersonation of the sour-tempered Fergus Crampton, but with this exception the company is changed. Miss Edith Hunter is the Mrs. Clandon, and she fills the part with skill and determination; Miss Winifred Beech submits a clever study of Gloria Clandon; the mischievous Dolly Clandon is a bright impersonation by Miss Ida Southern; as Philip Clandon Mr. Geoffrey Wilkinson is very entertaining; the solicitor McComas is amusingly represented by Mr. J. Allan Jeayes; the ruthless K.C. Bohun Mr. Bellenden Clarke portrays capitally; Mr. Claude Haviland's acting as the discreet, reserved, and conscientious old waiter, William, is admirable; Mr. Graham Colmer is a convincing Valentine; and Miss Sylvia Dawson embodies the Parlourmaid well.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—The May pantomime The Forty Thieves is staged here for the second week, and the juveniles who sustain the principal parts are exceedingly popular, hearty applause from large audiences greeting their efforts.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—With a piquancy and dash essentially Parisian, Mlle. Liane D'Eve submits a series of original chansons and transformations which are artistic, "chic," and finished in execution; Maidie Scott displays exceptional powers as a versatile comedienne in well-sustained character impersonations; Ben Albert's comedy is screamingly funny; Dacey and Lewis do some clever acrobatic work in their singing and dancing act; the knockabout comedy and clever feats of the funny Brothers Redmond elicit laughter and applause; Tom Stuart evinces a keen sense of humour in his character-sketches and mimicry; the Lyric Quartette's harmony is good and prettily illustrated; Gladys Mavius, comedienne, dances exceedingly well; the Twelve Manchester Mites sing and dance cleverly in their pretty little scena; and there are some fine pictures of the Royal Proclamation.

The Palace.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Bardoff, "the Russian strong boy," is doing some very wonderful feats of strength here. The Risley act by the Three Alskarnos is clever and very humorous; Jeff Martin with success presents "The Sport of One Hundred Years," with photos of prize-ring celebrities; the Brothers Webb, musical clowns, are on a welcome return visit; and the Camplins, with musical comedy; George Acre, comedian; Beatrice Allen, comedienne; the Bartholomew Girls; and the Palace Perfection Pictures make up a fine programme.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Mr. D'Arcy's Costume Concert Party, "The Gipsies and their Jester," opened in the Grand Pavilion on Monday. The company is under the direction of Mr. Will Gane, and the programme was a most entertaining one from start to finish. Mr. Norfolk Megone and his fine Municipal Orchestra are giving their promenade concerts in the newly-decorated Floral Pavilion, the vocalist this week being Miss Ida Farrar, a very charming contralto. The animated pictures in the Royal Victoria Rooms are a great attraction.

New Spa and Gardens.—Managing-Director, Mr. Harry Tunbridge; Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—The Sabots, under the direction of Mr. Walter Walters, opened here on Monday, and were accorded a hearty reception; Miss C. Stroud Wilson's songs were charmingly rendered; and Miss Winnie Browning's songs and dances were cleverly given. Mr. Harry Runing is a versatile comedian; Mr. Sydney Warwick delights with his songs; and Mr. Walters' humorous items are remarkably clever delineations of the "Johnnie" character.

BRIGHOUSE.—Albert Theatre.—Proprietors, The Albert Theatre Co., Ltd.; Lessee and Manager, Mr Martin Manley.—Mr. Sydney Arnold's stick season commenced here on Monday with Sapho. As Jean Gaussin Mr. Sydney Arnold gave an excellent performance; Henri Dechelette was played with vigour by Mr. Eric Vayne; Flamont had a capital exponent in Mr. Walter Henty; Uncle Cesaire was well represented by Mr. John Hignett; Hettama was ably embodied by Mr. V. Shannon, as was Caoudal by Mr. D. Lennard; the title-part was played by Miss Florence Russell, who gave a finished and artistic performance, though taking up the part at twenty-four hours' notice; Irene was cleverly depicted by Miss Madge Severn; and Miss B. Steele was good as Alice Doree. The remaining rôles were all in good hands.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is here this week with For Love and the King. Mr. Mill submits a masterly impersonation of Gerald Meredith; Miss Rosalind Tate merits warm praise for her charming enactment of Edith Meredith; Miss Joan Ellis imparts much sympathy to her embodiment of Natila; Mr. F. K. Wicksteed is an admirable Prince Uros Dragomir; Mr. Alfred Maurice is highly effective as Michael Obrenovic; Mr. Oscar Power makes an amusing Carl Oppenheim; Mr. Cyprian H. Matthews is well placed as Vladimir Obrenovic; and able support is given by Miss Kitty Melville (Grazia) and Miss Laura Munro (Princess Milania). The play is finely staged and mounted.

Alhambra.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Miss Madge Morley and company win hearty applause for their admirable representation of His Master's Wife; Verne and Green are clever and diverting comedy acrobats; the Countess Bekoffska, the lightning flower painter, achieves much success; the Hon. St. Vincent Ellesmere, baritone vocalist, is warmly received; Norman Scortt, assisted by Alice Garvis, submits a very pretty flag act; Dora Daly is a charming comedienne; the Melroses are pleasing in the comedy duologue The New Page; Henriette and Selina are artistic vocal and instrumental entertainers; Sylvine and Florina are skilful equilibrists; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting.

Barrasford's Hippodrome. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—Lamberti, an accomplished pianist and violinist, is enthusiastically applauded for his clever impersonations of celebrated musicians; the Brothers Griffiths evoke hearty laughter with their burlesque duelling and comic wrestling match; Mildred Deveres and Tom Tarrise are very effective in their Vampire Dance; Ed. E. Ford, a very humorous comedian, is delightfully entertaining; Carrie Laurie's clever juveniles sing and dance themselves into great favour; Paul Barnes is very happy in his funny stories and quaint songs; Geo. S. Melvin is a pleasing Scotch comedian and dancer; the Society Quartet are capital vocalists and dancers; Honors and Le Prince are eccentric acrobats; and other turns are ably given by Watson and Naylor, comedians and dancers; and Marion Armitage, comedienne.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company is here this week with The Private Secretary. Mr. Geoffrey Guise is very entertaining as the Rev. Robert Spalding; Mr. W. Hargreaves presents a clever character study as the peppery Mr. Cattermole; Mr. Frederick Tyrrell acquits himself admirably as Gibson, the tailor; Mr. Francis Trevor's Mr. Marsland, Mr. Sam Wilkinson's Harry Marsland, and Mr. Arthur Claremont's Douglas Cattermole are well played; Mrs. Alfred Davis as Miss Ashford and Miss Cicely Wade as Mrs. Stead merit praise; and pleasing support is rendered by Miss Elsie Blythe and Miss Aimee Gratton Clyndes.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Mann; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—Messrs. Daniel and Franks' company is here this week with the farcical comedy Jane. Miss Dorrie Roberts gives a clever and delightful impersonation of Jane; Mr. Arthur Gibbons is distinctly successful as the butler, William; Mr. Roland Daniel merits unstinted praise for his enactment of the much-perplexed Charley Shackleton; Mr. Theodore Kelly displays admirable acting as the trustee, Mr. Kershaw; Miss Victoria Wray-Holmes is a pleasing Mrs. Chadwick; and able support is given by Miss Kitty Crichton, Miss Mabel Campbell, Mr. Perceval Madgewick, and Mr. A. E. Mann.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—An excellent series of pictures is exhibited here this week. The Proclamation of King George V. is a splendid picture; A Victim of Bridge presents a powerful story, full of exciting incidents; A Sailor's Crime and The Brothers are strongly dramatic; Pretty Flowers is a beautifully coloured picture; The Clown and His Donkey is a clever trick film; and great amusement is afforded by All's Well that Ends Well, The Last of the Dandies, and A Race for a Bride. Mr. Osland Denner contributes baritone songs in artistic style.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Brewster's Millions is capitally staged, and well played by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Mr. Hutchison gives an excellent study of Monty Brewster. He is both energetic and entertaining, and interest in the play never flags while he is on the stage. Miss Cicely Stuckey and Miss Lilias Earle do excellently in their respective parts of Margaret Grey and Mrs. Dan de Mille; and the remaining parts are very carefully played.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Messrs. F. Marriott Watson and James Ussher's company is here with Only a Little Boy. Miss Florence E. Florence acts with subdued power in a clever exposition of June Pennington; Mr. Oswald Douglas plays in manly style as Steve Kingdom; Mr. F. Marriott-Watson presents a fine character study of the brutal loafer, Jim Bragstone; Miss Dot Forde and Miss Hettie Senior do excellently as Billie Bragstone and "Tag-Rag" O'Flinn; Miss Flo Norman supplies a good study of the drunken Mona O'Flinn; Mr. Elton Morgan and Miss Mabel Harland are effective as Mr. and Mrs. Pennington; Mr. Aubrey Winn and Miss Mary Ainslie make the most of the parts of Sir Philip Meynell and Lady Meynell; and the comic rôles of Deborah Pennington, Joshua Snell, and Daniel Dust are capitally undertaken by Miss Amy Rudd, Mr. Cecil Raymond, and Mr. J. Abbott. The play is staged in picturesque style.

Palace.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The Elliott-Savonas head the programme with their exceptionally fine musical act, entitled The Palace of Orpheus; Joe Reichen's dog show is interesting, the animals all evincing perfection of training; Senorita Eloina presents a graceful and skilful act on the trapeze; Mlle. Florence is successful with illustrated songs; Maestro and Mlle. Oretta are smart equilibrists and jugglers; Harry Cotton, comedian, is successful; Allan and Austin entertain with cross-talk and simultaneous dancing; and interesting animated pictures conclude.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Lew Lake and company amuse with their two comic sketches, The Bloomsbury Burglars and My Pal Jerry; the Luzellas score with their acrobatic, gymnastic, and wire act; the Six Buster Browns are successful with their American vaudeville singing and dancing turn; Lallie Brooke, "an old-fashioned girl," amuses with her skits on former styles of ladies' dress; Box and Mars are smart comedy knockabouts; Eric and Nora entertain with their novel musical act; and Dorothy Gould is a pleasing vocal comedienne. As an extra turn a lad sings with much taste in falsetto; and animated pictures conclude.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Mr. Arthur Leigh's capital company is presenting Lucky Durham, and receiving the heartiest appreciation. The dawdling young waster, Reggie, is perfectly represented by Mr. Leigh, and Mr. Edmund Kennedy as John Durham is very good. Miss Florence Tressilian makes a delightful Helen Vallerton, and Miss Bonsor as Mrs. Durham gives a sweet portrayal. Scenery and effects are excellent.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Sandy McNab and company, in the sketch The Egyptian Mummy, arouse screams of laughter, and Atlas and Collins, in burlesque drama, are another pair of mirth-providers. A good acrobatic turn is given by the Three Bros. Huxter, whilst Cummin and Seaham, in funny acrobatics, are very clever. Matrimonial troubles are humorously portrayed by the Eustances, and Little René is a very clever girl juggler. Kitty Kearns, comedienne, is pleasant in song, and Setting Back the Time is illustrated by the Empire Theatrescope.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—Williams' Eight Jubilee Coloured Singers give vocal selections, concerted and solo, of a very high order, and Francini Olloms and his page are brilliant in acrobatics, zylophone, and concertina solos; the Miltons perform many difficult feats on roller skates, including funny falls, and Lennard and Vereker are up to date with illustrated songs; the Sages dance very cleverly, whilst Thiessens demonstrates the smartness of his dogs; Pete and Minnee Lee introduce some good Scottish comic element; George Brooks, comedian, is good, and Lizzie Daniels, comedienne, is successful.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — New Theatre and Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. De Hague Body.—Mr. Haldane Crichton's company, with The Cingalee, is the attraction here. Miss Isa Bowman adds to her reputation by a bright and pleasing impersonation of Nanoya; Miss Flossie Greensmith is clever and entertaining as Peggy Sabine; and Miss Ray Anderson, a capable actress and vocalist, is enthusiastically received in the rôle of Lady Patricia Vane. The idiocyncrasies of Chambuddy Ram are most amusingly portrayed by Mr. Hylton Warde; extremely droll are Mr. Frank Lennard (Boobhamba) and Mr. Grafton Williams (Sir Peter Loftus). Mr. Frank Barclay and Mr. Herbert Franklyn also render valuable aid.

BURY (Lancs.).—Royal, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. McPherson.—The Glossop-Harris Shakespearean Company is paying its first visit to this town, and opened on Monday with an admirable representation of Twelfth Night. Mr. Frank Cellier gave a finished and artistic performance of Malvolio; Mr. H. P. Owen struck quite the right note in his Sir Toby Belch, and was ably seconded by Mr. Vernon O. Crabtree as Sir Andrew Aguecheek and Jordan Phillott as Fabian; Orsino was cleverly played by Mr. J. H. Irvine; and the same may be said of Mr. Arthur Seaton as Antonio. Murray Kinnell is to be complimented on his Sebastian; and Mr. James Mason was good as Feste. Miss Glossop-Harris proved a delightful Viola, all the effective points of the part being cleverly handled; Miss Ino Cameron as Maria and Miss Madge Spencer as Olivia were excellent. Romeo and Juliet, Merry Wives of Windsor, and Hamlet are also in the week's bill. The staging and mounting leave nothing to be desired. On Tuesday evening Mr. Otto C. Culling, the popular general-manager for the Northern Theatres Company, took his annual benefit, and the house was packed from floor to ceiling. A monster bill was provided, including J. P. Ling, Jennie Johns, Glossop-Harris company in Screen scene from School for Scandal, and other professional and amateur turns.

Circus of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. McPherson.—Pictures are still the chief attraction, and are relieved by two excellent variety turns—Violet Romaine, a vocalist possessing a beautiful voice, and Richard Finberg, in his clever and artistic character studies.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baker.—A good all-round bill includes Baby Wolff, in imitations of famous actresses; the Four Mayos, in burlesque skating scene; Dan Weldon, vocalist; Luther's Dogs, in a scena, At the Football Match; Zera and Zema, equilibrists; Johnson and Hart, jugglers and hoop-rollers; Harry Marlow, in catchy songs; Die and Dox, musical experts; and Mr. Louis Taylor's company, in a dramatic episode entitled The Adder's Tooth.

CARDIFF. — New Theatre. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—A pleasant return visit after a considerable absence is being paid thnis week by The Prisoner of Zenda. Miss Marie Polini gives a delightful impersonation of the Princess Flavia; Mr. Mark Blow plays the King effectively; Mr. Julian Cross is the bluff and honest Colonel Sapt to the life; Mr. William J. Stack is an efficient Fritz Von Tarlenheim; and Mr. George A. Brandram as the Black Elphberg Michael plays cleverly throughout. Mr. Wrenham Ryott is natural as Captain Hentzau; Mr. J. O. Cuthbertson as Detchard is worthy of praise; Mr. Eric G. Merrie as Bertram Bertrand could scarcely be improved upon; Miss Agnes Verity in the rôle of Antoinette de Mauban shows exceptional ability.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert J. Taylor. — Sam Mayo makes a most successful appearance here; Miss Ray Wallace, the charming and delightful mimic, again proves eminently entertaining; Drummed Out is once again presented by A. C. Lilly and company; Harry Friskey, the unique American comedy juggler, is undoubtedly well worthy of the prominent position accorded to him on the bill; Wyndham and Kitty gain much appreciation for their wonderful wire-jumping act; and others who contribute are Dot Hardy, the quaint character comedienne; Orpheus, "the master of melody"; the Sisters Caselli, expert dancers and high kickers; and Chas. Santon, a vocal phenomenon. The Bioscope completes.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Cambrian Theatres, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. E. Clay.—Hush Money is the title of the drama put forward by the management this week. The plot centres around the popular detective of fiction, Sexton Blake, and this character is most successfully impersonated by Mr. Horace Denton. Mr. Ernest E. Imeson has a prominent part to portray as John Shard; while Mr. J. H. Darnley is equally well placed as Lord Walgrave. Mr. Harry Hartley is particularly good in an impersonation of Tinker, Miss Agnes Paulton working well with him in the comedy rôle of Euphemia. Miss Theresa Osborne makes a graceful and skilful exponent of the principal lady's part of Lady Muriel.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson.—Premier position is taken this week by Harry Roxbury's production The Cowboy Millionaire, which is proving an excellent draw; Mr. Tubby Edlin shows himself an artist of undoubted ability; a quaint comedy couple are Ross and Grayson; Bobbie Burns is a clever Scotch comedian with eccentric dancing; and others on the bill are Paul Collard, pianist and mimic; John Macauley, a popular vocalist; Joe Cookson, ventriloquial cartoonist, Gracie Hunt, dainty chorus comedienne; and the ever-pleasing Bioscope.

CARLISLE.—The Palace.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—George D'Albert, a clever comedian with a bright and breezy style, tops the bill. Leonard Charburn's Young Stars contribute a capital song-scena, entitled A Picnic Up the River; a versatile comedienne, dainty, and with good style, is Kitty Clinton; smart comic patter is provided by Harley and Melton; a musical act by the Hersey Family is one of the most popular items of the programme; and clever grotesque and legitimate juggling by the Seddons and some really fine pictures complete a much-appreciated entertainment.

CASTLEFORD.—Queen's Theatre of Varieties. —Proprietors, The Castleford Queen's Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Chas. H. Beanland and William H. Emerson.—An attractive programme here is headed by Tan Kwai and his troupe of Chinese jugglers, acrobats, &c.; Bennett and Martell have a laughable sketch in The Lunatics; as an extra turn a new sketch was produced here for the first time on Monday, entitled Finger of Fate, by Austin W. Hine. The sketch is very neatly presented by Mr. Nelson Ward as Malcolm Vane, Miss Emily Pickles as Evaline Vane, and Mr. J. W. Mower as an ex-convict wrongfully imprisoned, and an attentive audience showed much appreciation. Ivy Gallard, a vocalist with a winning style, gains applause for some neat dancing; E. W. Selman, comedian, in a laughable scena, "When I'm Dreaming," provides a capital entertainment; the Emsons (Rita and Kitty) are greeted with much applause for their dainty dancing; Master George Doonan pleases with song and dance; and pictures by the Loyal Dominion Co. close the evening's entertainment.

CHATHAM.—Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—The Three Merrills, trick cyclists, astonish all by their daring and dexterity; Hayman and Franklin, Hebrew comedians, are adding to their established popularity in "The Gossipers" and "Sport Goldstein"; the gods take up the chorus of Johnny Cecil's song "Put me a girl inside"; the Brothers Lavelle are nimble comedy acrobats; Daisy Stratton is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; the Brothers Gerrard and Charles Rivers score with their patter; and Lacey's Erascope has an interesting film in The Horrors of a Strike.

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. George Humphries.—A great treat is furnished by a visit by Mr. Bransby Williams, who delights his audiences with impersonations of various Dickens characters, and as an example of his versatility convulses them by a clever representation of an old-time penny showman. The Phydoras merit their title of eccentric musicians; Miss Molly Maguire makes an admirable Irish "bhoy"; the Eight Elves win all hearts with music, song, and dance; and the programme also includes Rose Gaston, comedienne; Tom Lee, a light comedian with taking style; and Maxwell and Frances, in a flirtation vocal comedy scena.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Topping an excellent variety bill are the Bellong Bros., who give a daring display of cycle and equilibristic feats; May Poulton scores a success as a comedienne; Tom Reed provokes much mirth with new comedy business; and Ethel Brailsford is a vocalist of distinct merit. McEwan and Pollard present a clever and well-acted old comedy costume sketch, entitled Duval Outdone; Atlas and Miss Vulcana, the society athletes, astound and charm the audience with their graceful feats of strength; Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

CHORLTON - CUM - HARDY. — Chorlton Theatre and Winter Gardens, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Walter Stott; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fredk. J. Reece.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company began a six-nights' engagement here on Monday, when Sapho was presented. In the title-rôle Miss Ada Abbott displayed considerable ability; Mr. Edward Ouston gave a laudable reading of Jean Gaussin; Mr. John Drake was decisive as Dechelette; Mr. Stephen Crossley, in the part of Flamant, was impressive; Mr. John Lester, as Caoudal, delivered his lines effectively; Mr. Edwin Keene gave a capital rendering of Uncle Cesaire; Mr. W. H. Davis-Brown's Hettema was ludicrously funny; Mr. Weedon Ross drew a convincing picture of the frailties of Old Legrand; Miss Ethel Tinsley as Aunt Divonne, and Miss Marjorie Tennant as Nichette, were the cause of much merriment, the latter singing agreeably; Miss Florence North made a demure Lucy; and Miss Gladys Armice a sufficiently ill-tempered Joseph. Staging and dresses deserve mention. The Man of Her Choice and Trilby are also in the bill for the week.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—The Great Rapoli is the leading turn, and his juggling extremely smart and versatile; the dramatic episode, A Society Sinner, enacted by Miss Marion Forestier and Messrs. Tom Forestier and Dick Harcourt, proved an absorbing item; Nita Crystal and Geoffrey Saville, in "Jack's Jacket," indulge in up-to-date topical jokes and witticisms; Zeta Russell makes a good impression with some very classy dancing; Andie Burns dances in good style; Miss Burley and partner executes some very good varieties; Maudie Laurel does well with her acrobatic dancing; and Hilda Desmond and Mabel Diss shine in the vocal scena "Roses."

Hippodrome.—Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The top item is Paradise Alley, a miniature musical comedy, from which plenty of fun is evolved; Little Sophie, a phenomenal child artist, gives a really clever performance; Le Hurst, ventriloquist, proves very acceptable; the Three Whites give a fine exhibition of ball-punching; Mildred Parr does well with songs at the piano; Fred Costin appears to advantage as an eccentric comedian; Hans and Lux work hard as cross-talk comedians; and Laura Maxted appears as a vocalist.

CONSETT.—New Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. Ernest Dottridge, with a good vaudeville company, is here. Harwood's Juveniles top the bill with a pretty song scena, entitled Christmas Eve; Jimmy Thomas, comedian, is a success; Zelda, instrumentalist, is clever; and the Girl Pierrots are well received. Les Rallis have a funny sketch, entitled The Artist and Monkey. Animated pictures conclude.

CORK.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—Mr. Walter Howard's company in The Midnight Wedding opened a week's engagement here on Monday. Mr. Alfred Paumier as Paul Valmar proves himself a finished actor; Miss Lilian Hallowes as Princess Von Strelsburg (the heroine) gives an impressive and appealing portrayal of the rôle; the villain (Capt. Von Scarsbruck) of Mr. A. E. Winnington Barnes is an artistic study; Mr. John Nesbit is an excellent Crown Prince; Mr. Charles Whitelock as Lieut. Von Strelsburg fills the part well; Mr. James E. Page as Sergt. Max, Mr. St. George Frere as Corpl. Otto, and Mr. Algie Spalding as Private Bobo give a comic rendering of their respective parts; and Miss Jessica Black as Katie is vivacious.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Thos. F. O'Brien.—Caryl Wilbur in his comedy 61, Prospect-street gives a clever and refined performance; Kartelli, a wire-walker, gives a daring turn; Percy's Premier Juveniles in songs and dances are most entertaining; the Avrignys, a troupe of Japanese jugglers and equilibrists, provide a pleasing performance; Sam Dalton, comedian, renders some good songs; Lilian Travellie, comedienne, sings a couple of pleasing songs; and Lucy Coventry, eccentric dancer, pleases. The Palascope Pictures are the newest and best.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Messrs. Geo. A. de Gray and Harry Masterman's company is here this week in The Angel of His Dreams, by Mr. George A. de Gray. The author, in his interpretation of the Rev. Christian Estaile, meets with the success he deserves; Miss Effie Bartlett well sustains the trying character of Hilda Revelle; Miss Edna Earl is seen to advantage as Milly St. Austell; Little Doris Brereton as Lulu is very pleasing.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Stage-Manager, Mr. Wright.—The Coventry Amateur Operatic Society are performing Iolanthe every night this week.

Empire.—A first-class programme is provided for this week.—The Six Brothers Luck present a highly amusing pantomime entitled Lift-ems, Ltd.; the Vagabonds, vocal comedy quartette, are very good; Nellie Wallace, the eccentric comedienne, captivates the house with her drolleries; the Chandon Trio of gymnasts, do some daring feats; the Warsaw Bros. give a comedy musical act; and other artists are Maudie Ford, comedienne, Joe Conway, burlesque comedian, and Fred Lyndon, eccentric.

CROYDON.—Empire Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. E. Jay.—The Five Wishes is being rendered here by Edward Lewis and company; Manson and West are good in the duologue, Telling the Tale; Fred Russell is a smart ventriloquist; T. B. Vaughan and John Lawson's company is well received in The Bo'sun's Mate; Dan Thomas is an inimitable comedian; Nellie Lunelle is a clever soubrette and dancer; Herbert Clifton's exquisite voice is heard to advantage; Emily Millard, vocalist, is applauded; Daisy Yates is an entertaining comedienne; George Gilbey is a diverting comedian; and the bioscope pictures are up to date.

Electric Theatre.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Richards.—The animated pictures here are doing well. The variety of subjects seem inexhaustible, and are specially selected to entertain and cause laughter. They are very steady and clear, and the sloping floor enables them to be seen from any part of the house.

Queen's Hall.—A very good programme of bioscope pictures is submitted here, and the large number of visitors are amply catered for.

DARWEN.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; Manager, Mr. D. P. Cooper.—Harry Calden and company are still here this week, presenting the condensed drama Hurrah Boys, Hurrah! in which Mr. Harry Calden and Mr. H. Buxton are conspicuous. Andy Fagan is a good comedian and dancer; and the Musical Mills, instrumentalists, are appreciated. Excellent pictures include The Gambler's Fate.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre.—Sole Owner and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Denley.—Mr. Edwardes has been fortunate enough to secure George Robey to open the variety season here; and that inimitable comedian maintains his reputation by drawing bumper houses. Chung Ling Hee and company, jugglers and magicians, submit a turn remarkable alike for novelty and skill; the Birkenhead Family, in a capital song scena, Her Boy's Birthday, gain unstinted applause; the Ted Moxon trio of comedy acrobats are smart all-round entertainers; Mlle. Tudora's highly trained ponies are thoroughly enjoyed; the Dancing Paceys are tuneful singers and clever ragtime steppers; Dan Filmer is a droll comedian; and Harriet Rose, with catchy chorus songs, makes herself distinctly popular. The bioscope with humorous films concludes.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes.—Variety gives place to drama at the above house, and this week Mr. T. E. Barnes and company present The Drama of Life. The principal characters are ably sustained by Mr. H. Graham Woods as Harry Beech, Mr. Archie Helsby as Walter Beech, who makes an accomplished villain; Miss Pattie Hastings as Harry's wife; Miss Beatrice Hudson, a lodging-house keeper; Mr. Marshal Meade, "in the pay of Walter"; Mr. Vernon Daly as Davy Crane; Mr. George B. Davis, a detective; and other parts are allotted to Mr. Geo. Bryne and Miss Betty Chetwyn. The necessary humour is provided by Mr. Sidney C. Cranston and Miss Alice Oliver. The piece is admirably presented, and reflects credit on all concerned.

DEVONPORT. — Hippodrome. — Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—A highly-amusing sketch, The Christening, by Alick Lauder and company, keeps the audience in roars of laughter; Isabel Mavis is responsible for a skilful and highly-accomplished musical entertainment, a noticeable feature being piano-playing with the elbows and one hand; Lillie Soutter as a comedienne is a strong attraction; and Victor Niblo, with his wonderful talking birds, Coo-Coo and Laura, presents a most interesting entertainment, the birds speaking three languages. Alec Kendall's wonderful stock of droll yarns are, as on former occasions, received with roars of laughter, and the Lyric Mummers are heard to great advantage in some vocal numbers, whilst the comedy side of the turn is excellent.

Metropole Theatre.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—The attraction this week is The Shadow of a Crime, a play most aptly described as of intense human interest, from the pen of Nita Rae. Mr. Robert Harland's company are responsible for the production.

DEWSBURY. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. Jas. Bell's company opened her on Monday in The Idol of Paris. Miss Annie Bell as Flare-Flare is seen to great advantage; Mr. Cyril Austin-Lee impersonates the villain, Philip d'Esterre, with exceptional ability; Mr. Alfred Grenville submits an excellent study of Victor Cashelle; Mr. C. St. John Medley is well placed as the solicitor, Gustave Langlois; Mr. Gordon Robey depicts Prince Sergius Zeresky in good style; Miss Frances Bruce is to be congratulated on her very able portrayal of Mme. Sancterre; Mr. Alfred Harvey cleverly enacts the part of Bracqueth; and Mr. H. Vivian Thomas as Tatave and Miss Annie Megson as Ann provide much amusement. The play is excellently staged.

Empire.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler.—Radford and Valentine keep the house in a continuous roar of laughter with their funniosities and comedy juggling; Abbas performs some exceedingly clever feats on the tight wire; wonderful harmony is produced from novel instruments by the Four Jumels in a very attractive musical scena; Cliff Dacre, a very fine baritone vocalist, is popular; Gus Hindell scores a great success in his song scena, "Boys will be boys"; Elton and Elma are screamingly funny in their knockabout triple bar act; the ventriloquial sketch of Tommy Clifford is much enjoyed; Stevens and Brett, burlesque entertainers, introduce some good patter and dancing into their act; Little Ena Corelli is a clever and dainty song and dance artist; and excellent pictures are shown on the Palascope.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Weldon.—At the head of a bright and entertaining programme are Briff, Braff, and Broff, who perform the latest feats in the way of acrobatics, the funny and clever antics of the comical waiter evoking screams of laughter. The Lovelaces are heard to advantage in some sweet songs, beautifully illustrated with lantern slides; Drury and Lane, contribute capital dancing; Harry Cove makes a decided hit as a versatile vocalist; Lillie Hales, comedienne and dancer, is accorded a very hearty reception; Teddy Day is a funny comedian, and goes well; and an excellent series of pictures include a fine film of The Cyclists of Belgium.

DONCASTER.—New Grand Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—A real treat was provided here on Monday in the presentation by the Lyceum Tours of Hall Caine's Pete. Every unit is an artist bristling with qualifications, and the deeply sympathetic and emotional parts were effectively and beautifully negotiated. Mr. Austen Milroy achieves success in the title-rôle; Mr. Alfred Gray's treatment of the part of Philip Christian is conspicuously clever; in his delineation of Ross Christian Mr. Edward Fletcher attacks a number of difficult situations with skill; Cæsar Cregeen is effectively portrayed by Mr. Frank Stone; Miss V. Malcolm Barnett as Kate Cregeen proves herself to be an actress of great ability.

DUBLIN.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree's company opened here on Wednesday night with The Merchant of Venice. For Thursday The O'Flynn was announced; for Friday Trilby and The Man Who Was; and to-night The Merchant of Venice.

Queen's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—This week the theatre is occupied by a local company of amateurs in Les Cloches de Corneville and La Fille de Madame Angot.

Gaiety Theatre. — Managing - Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—The boards are occupied here this week by Mr. Henry Miller's company, in The Servant in the House. Miss Laurie Flockton is pleasing and vivacious in the rôle of Mary; Mr. Walter Gay is very sound in his study of the Vicar, and as the Bishop Mr. Ernest H. Paterson is very good. Miss Nellie Hodson acts admirably as the Vicar's wife, and Mr. Matthew Boulton as Manson and Mr. Harry Parker as the cast-off brother fill their parts with credit.

Empire Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Marsh.—The Abdullah

Glenroy Troupe of dancers, Naughton and Gold, Marie Coates, comedienne and dancer, Croist Trio, in their scena "From the Time of the Crusaders," and Mozzetto are also here.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here:—The Two Extremes, comedians and patterers; F. Wilson Forest, comedian and monologist; Alice Leigh, soprano vocalist; Little Bert Allen, favourite comedian; Sylvester Stuart, coon impersonator.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—Mr. J. Forbes Knowles' company, in Her Marriage Vow, is playing to good houses. The play is nicely mounted, the Highhead Railway Crossing scene being highly realistic. Mr. J. Forbes Knowles invests the rôle of the hero with clear enunciation and histrionic ability; Miss Violet Lytton's Kate Walters is an excellent piece of acting; Mr. Edward Avinal submits a sound performance as the rascally Gilbert Carlton, his accomplice in villainy, Hester Norton, being capably undertaken by Miss Nellie Shirley; Daffy Dan is represented with much ability by Mr. Harry Momber; Mr. Wm. Burgess acts well and with restraint as William Walters; Miss Nancy Lawrence infuses a deal of life and movement into her interpretation of Maggie Clare, her scenes with Larry Leary, amusingly played by Mr. Richard Nugent, being exhilarating in the extreme. Mr. Chauncy Morris and Miss Nellie Waddington, as Eben Chubb and Almira, are responsible for some thoroughly amusing comedy business; Mr. H. Keith creditably enacts the part of the depraved signalman, Jim Burke; and Mr. J. Turnbull is a satisfactory Jenks.

KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—At the head of a capital bill is Mark Sheridan, who is paying his first visit here; he has been accorded a magnificent reception, his gags and sallies keeping the house in fits of unrestrained merriment; Margit and Lener, in their eccentric act, Wet Paint, are amusing and clever; Rose and Challoner present their witty and racy comedy sketch, The Porter and the Singer; Nellie Wigley gets a rousing reception; Sisters Edwardes win hearty applause for their neat and versatile act; Billy Rex proves very entertaining; Vetter Bros., in their gymnastic act, The Page's Recreation, show clever work on the trapeze and rope. The Kingscope has the latest pictures.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—Several fine films include a thrilling picture, Girls of the Range, which depicts two sisters' exciting experiences with the outlaws in the rough Western cattle country. Among others shown are The Empty Cradle, Ranson's Folly, A Hero in Spite of Himself, and The Fence on Bar y Ranch.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. W. Austin.—The picture programme here this week is an excellent one, and good houses are the rule.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—A most attractive programme is headed by W. Ellis and company in The Sleepwalker, which creates a continuous yell. The Bros. Ethairien are capital fun-makers; the Musical Bentleys are loudly applauded; the Bros. St. Clair prove favourites with a clever exhibition of trick cycling; the equilibristic and acrobatic feats of the Two Adras are well appreciated; Dan Pedley, comedian, gets a good share of applause; and the Spadonis are expert dancers. The Cathedoscope shows the Cup Final at Everton.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Miss Fyfe Alexander and her company are appearing here this week in A Sense of Humour. Miss Helen Holmes is an interesting Lady Hutton; Miss Fyfe Alexander does very capable work as Mrs. Hay; and Miss Violet Oakley is a clever and natural lady's maid, Stanner. Mr. Frank Wolsey is an excellent Sir William; Mrs. James Hartop works hard and well as Captain Archibald; and Mr. Henry le Grand makes much fun out of the part of Meakin. The Call of Birth precedes.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Under the direction of Mr. Robert Macdonald a capital company is appearing here in The Gay Gordons. The clever work of Mr. Frank Lincoln as Angus Graeme deserves the highest praise; Mr. Edwin Dodds, too, is a smart and versatile Nervy Nat; Mr. W. H. Desmond provides plenty of laughter as Edmund; Mr. Bernard Vaughan is a happy, refined Andrew Quainton; Mr. Gordon Allison a most appropriate John Smith; and other parts are well filled. Miss May Yates is a petite and fascinating Peggy; Miss Dorothy Grasdorf is a charming Victoria; Miss Ada Mellon a sympathetic and womanly Janet McLeod; Miss Edie Martin as Charlotte keeps the fun going strongly; and Miss Tessa D'Alberti, Miss Norah Guinness and Miss Eva Rosslyn help ably as Janet, Lady Graeme, and Lady Millicent.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here this week is Miss Queenie Leighton, very popular in all her songs; Mr. Johnny Holland, supported by Miss Rita Warne and Mr. E. W. Edmonds, plays the sketch The Boatbuilder very brightly; the Creedons give a very skilful and smart exhibition of juggling and ball-punching; Mr. Chas. Leo is an expert dancer and comedian; Mr. Andy Gimmell is a very effective Scotch comedian; Snowball and Dolia are well qualified dancers; Miss Ethel Donna sings and dances very pleasingly; and new films are shown.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company is here with The Sin of Her Childhood. Mr. Guy Hastings as the Rev. Allen Gray gives an artistic performance; Mr. Frank Liston, in the character of Capt. John Thornton, is responsible for a very capable piece of character acting; Stephen Haysel has a capital representative in Mr. Cecil Mannering; Mr. Hugh Brady as Barney O'Reilly proves himself a first-class comedian; Miss Maud Warburton as Mary Haysel thoroughly merits the applause with which her efforts are rewarded; Miss Polly Denville as Lizzie Muggins causes much laughter; Miss Lissa Young as Hannah Spry acts effectively. The play is excellently mounted and dressed.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—The interest aroused by a visit of the Cavaliere F. Castellano's Italian Grand Opera Company has been evidenced by large and enthusiastic audiences. Opening on Monday with Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci, Signor Folco achieved the highest success, both as singer and actor, in the rôle of Turiddu, and artistic singing marked the renderings of Santuzza, Lola, and Alfio, by Signor Protti, Signora Rocco, and Signor Vail. In Pagliacci Signor Siroli's Canio was an outstanding performance, well supported both by Signor Modesti as Tonio, Signor Vail as Silvio, and Signor Barterra as Aniecchino, with Signorina Bianchi as Nedda. On Tuesday Rigoletto gave Signor Modesti an opportunity of charming his hearers by his singing in the part of the Jester; Signor Siroli was conspicuous as the Duke of Mantua; and Signorina Bianchi appeared with distinction as Gilda; while Signora Rocco's Magdalen and Signor Massia's Sparafucile were excellent impersonations. Signor Wehils conducted all the above works with great ability. Faust was presented on Wednesday, the cast including Signor Folco, Signor Vail, Signora Protti, and Signora Massia in the principal rôles. The ever-popular Il Trovatore filled the bill on Thursday, and Lucia di Lammermoor on Friday, with Carmen set down for Saturday, completed the week's list of attractions.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Sir Francis Burnand has done better work than Mrs. Ponderbury's Past, which Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is playing here this week. The comedy betrays its French origin; but it wears well, and the members of the company enact it in merry fashion. Mr. Geo. Mudie as the henpecked Ponderbury is extremely diverting in his simulation of somnambulism, and he is admirably supported by Miss Celia Gordon as the Lucretian, Mrs. Ponderbury, a capital study; by Miss Florence Wix, a bright and vivacious Stella; by Mr. Stewart Dawson, a spirited Mervyn Thorpe; and by Miss Florence Wellesley, a graceful Ethel. Mr. Percy Bell, an actor of all-round excellence, is notably good as the elderly butler; and smaller parts are capably played by Mr. Gilbert Clark as Hyacinth Grayling, Mr. George Child as Captain John Rumford, R.N., and by Miss Jessica Thorne as Lady Baring. The comedy is preceded by the farce Chalk and Cheese, and both pieces are well mounted.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Armand Mascard.—Miss Dora Lind, who heads the bill here, gives in her representation of "The Duchess of Devonshire," by Gainsborough, and other poses, an attractive turn, which is enhanced by appropriate songs and effective settings. The production is carried through by Mr. Richard Frank, a blind artist. Mr. Chas. M. Daly's company presents a mirth-provoking farce entitled I Must Have It, in which Mr. Daly himself is conspicuously successful. Mr. Ernie Myers, a clever patter comedian, provides a very clever turn; Miss Marie Jones, assisted by Mr. Ernest Munro, submits a smart quick-change act, in which she plays seven distinct characters; Mr. Cyrus Dare, in his vocal and instrumental selections proves himself to be a capable musician; and other artists whose singing is meriotrious are Miss Lily Lonsdale, Mr. Will McIvor (an admirable vocalist), and the Forde Trio, who are also good instrumentalists. The Zenary Bros. are dashing acrobats, and the King's Bioscope shows several interesting Parisian scenes.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Mr. Fred Kitchen as Private Potts in Mr. Herbert Darnley's comedy production of that name is the chief attraction this week, the audience being kept in convulsive laughter all through the three scenes of this very amusing sketch. Good support is given by Mrs. Herbert Darnley, Miss Jessie Cramond, and Messrs. W. Wilbey, Jack Williams, Harry Lappo, and a company of over fifty performers. Another pleasing comedian turn is supplied by Charles R. Whittle, whose quiet method is much to be commended, his song "Come and have a drink with me" fairly bringing down the house. Leo Tell gives a humorous display of cleverness in imitating the sounds of motors, horses, and many musical instruments; the Avolos show some novelties as acrobats and somersault-throwing; and the Carmos also introduce something new in feats of balancing and strength. Sylvia Du Barry makes a very acceptable appearance as a vocalist in a song-scena entitled Andalusia; Phil Parsons increases his popularity as a light comedian; and Lillie Lassah wins favour as a comedienne and dancer. An interesting series of Bioscope films include the London to Manchester Aeroplane Flight and The Proclaiming of King George V.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—An up-to-date series of pictures shows Paulhan's London to Manchester flight, and Winter Sports at St. Moritz is a very pretty and interesting film. The Converts is a strongly dramatic subject, while The Wrong Man evokes roars of laughter.

PRINGLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—The programme here includes several striking pictures, excellent examples of varied subjects being found in The Thread of Destiny, Rogues of the Turf, and A Slippery Dog. Lillian, "the human encyclopædia," gives a very mystifying performance.

MARINE GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Smith.—The weather during the early days of this week has been rather adverse to open-air amusements, especially in the evenings; but the Gardens have been well patronised, and entertainments such as the rink and other indoor attractions have drawn large crowds. The death of King Edward VII. has necessitated the return of the Royal Horse Guards (Blue) band to London, and the band of the 5th Royal Scots, under the leadership of Mr. J. A. Bunch, has been engaged, and gives selections daily. In the concert hall the Gems, who are under the direction of Mr. Wallace Kennedy, provide admirable programmes of vocal and instrumental music.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company opened here on Monday in The Arcadians. Mr. Gus Oxley as James Smith brings out to their fullest extent the humorous possibilities of the part; Peter Doody, as depicted by Mr. Roy Sydney, is another mirth-making character; Miss Madge Haines is a big success as Mrs. Smith; Mr. Roy Lorraine an excellent Jack Meadows; Miss Mysie Devine sings with charm as Eileen Cavanagh; Miss Marion Edwardes as Sombra is a vocalist of exceptional merit; Miss Katie Yates as Chryses is particularly fascinating; and as Time Mr. Berkeley Davis is very acceptable. Mr. Frank Henry is a picturesque Astrophel, and Mr. W. Dawson and Miss Daisy Bindley are good as Strephon and Damœtas.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy; Musical Director, Mr. Dudley Powell.—Chas. Harvey and company, who are at the top of an attractive bill, appear in the farcical absurdity The Broken Statue, a clever little sketch; the Bros. Obo are comedians with infectious laughing propensities; Bert Weston is another mirth-maker; Gibbon and Bell appear in a clever acrobatic dancing speciality; the Lannons are dancers of considerable merit; Lily Edwards possesses charm and ability; Norman Osborne appears in an up-to-date ventriloquial turn; Dorothy Dundas is a graceful comedienne; and the Hippodrome pictures are also among the attractions.

FLEETWOOD. — EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Miss Marie Dagmar is presenting her powerful company here in The Tyrant, and good houses are the rule. In Angelo, the tyrant, Mr. Roy Fortescue has a part worthy of his abilities, and right well he acquits himself; Miss Marie Robson as Tisbe is excellent in a part requiring histrionic powers of a high order; Mr. Percy Follias as Homodei, the avenger, is decidedly clever; and Mr. Edward E. Lewis as Rudolf is a hero of the highest quality. Lady Catherine has a most capable exponent in Miss Jean Scott; the part of Eddie is very well portrayed by Miss Lallah Shelton; and Miss Emmie Burns, Miss Katie Lever, Mr. T. Ashmore, Mr. Wilson Summers, Mr. Fred Luard, and Mr. Stanley Whyte are all good. The mounting is excellent, and Mr. Charles E. Warne is the capable acting-manager.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—A Lyceum success is the attraction here this week, and a well-filled house witnessed the performance of Walter Howard's romantic love story The Prince and the Beggar Maid on Monday night. The play is well staged by a capable company under the direction of Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard. Mr. Ernest H. G. Cox distinguished himself by a fine portraiture of Prince Olaf of Sylvania, his manly bearing and spirited style securing admiration; Monica, Princess of Illyria, is enacted with great emotional power by Miss Stella Campbell, who elicits the fullest sympathy; Mr. Alfred Goddard as the revengeful Prince Hildred of Sylvania is quite successful; as the crippled Prince Michael Mr. Victor Rae furnishes an effective performance; Mr. W. S. Hardy acts in a convincing manner as Colonel Wellenberg; Mr. Oswald Waller provides a masterly study of Colonel Schwartz; Messrs. Frank Rawlings and E. Strange give able support as Captain Harsburg and Lieut. Felsburg; and Mr. Herbert Burton is a pleasant Captain Hector. Lieut. Carl Stromberg is in the capable hands of Mr. J. H. Vyvyan. Miss Elmie Kemp, the possessor of a sweet voice, acts the character of Camiola ably, and Miss Mona Hall is quite good as Viola. The scenery and uniforms deserve praise.

THE LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Military Mummers, a capable and artistic company of vaudeville entertainers, are providing an attractive and varied bill of fare. Miss Enid Cutler captivates the audience with her taking manner, and is loudly applauded for her songs and dancing; Miss Rosa Mellish, a delightful singer, makes herself eminently popular; Mr. Alex. B. Gilbert in his humorous songs evokes much merriment; Mr. Archie Scott, a pleasing comedian, sings well; and Mr. Will Avis is greatly appreciated for his clever shadowgraphy and sleight-of-hand.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The United County Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Licensee, Councillor Harold Arnold; Local Manager, Mr. Sydney B. Stringer.—Fergusson and Mack, eccentric comedians, are stars here this week; Milke Cray, with his well-trained dog "Dooley," introduces much humour into his juggling business; the Darntons (Cicily and Gladys) are entertaining duettists; Ida Barr sings two capital songs effectively; Ethel Stephenson, a contralto of merit, gets much praise; Fred Hallam is an amusing comedian; Neville Delmar is a smart and alert comedian; and the Kingscope provides an enjoyable item.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Dixon.—Mr. Chas. Harrington's company is here in Uncle Tom's Cabin. A striking impersonation of Uncle Tom is supplied by Mr. J. H. Boehm; Mr. Chas. Harrington is an effective St. Clair; Legree is rendered sufficiently repulsive by Mr. Tom Bowron; Mr. David Blair is seen to advantage as George Harris; Miss Ethel Vernon faithfully portrays Ophelia; Miss Annie Watson is a vivacious Topsy; Cassie is well looked after by Miss Hettie Johnson, and Little Eva is cleverly embodied by Miss Gem Lloyd.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy O. Humphreys.—The latest musical comedy to reach here is The Merry Peasant, and despite the gloom hanging over theatrical affairs at present, Mr. Courtice Pounds and his clever company were received by a fairly good house. In the principal rôle Mr. Courtice Pounds charmed the audience with his tuneful rendering of the various numbers in the part, and the vocal honours were shared by Miss Madge Vincent as Freda; Mr. Ernest J. Langford was intensely funny as the amorous policeman, and his eccentric dancing was much enjoyed; Mr. Percy Carr acted and sang well as Stefan, and Mr. Frank Wilson was a dramatically strong Vincent; Miss Gwladys Gay made the most of the shrewish Annamird; little Mary Glynne played her part well as Rosalie, and danced neatly; Mr. Wm. Hindson as the Mayor, Mr. Sidney Johnstone as Lieut. Grumow, Mr. Horace Dawson as the Count, and Misses Tina Martini, Amy Preston, and Molly Preston completed a clever cast.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Mr. Arthur Phillips is here this week with The Merchant of Venice, in which he has made such a favourable impression with his powerful acting as Shylock; Miss Amy Brandon Thomas as Portia gives a performance of much charm and vivacity; as Antonio, Mr. James Berry bears himself with fine dignity; the Bassanio of Mr. C. Harcourt Williams is another pleasing impersonation; Salanio, Salarino, and Gratiano are played on good robust lines by Messrs. E. Stuart Vinden, Richard Fielding, and Herbert Dansey; a dashing Lorenzo is seen in Mr. Scott Sunderland; and clever studies are the Tubal of Mr. Verril and the Launcelot of Mr. Ross Shore. The parts of Nerissa (Miss Dora Hole) and Jessica (Miss Christie Laws) are gracefully filled; Mr. Leslie Palmer takes the rôle of Prince of Morocco with admirable effect; and Mr. Cyril Vernon makes an impressive Duke of Venice.

ROYALTY.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Wareing.—For the second week Prunella; or Love in a Dutch Garden successfully provides the entertainment. Mr. Melton Rosmer as the Pierrot and Mr. M. R. Morand as Scaramel stand out in bold relief; a rare conception of the innocent Prunella is presented by Miss Ethel Evans; Messrs. Lawrence Hanray, Walter Roy, and Norman M'Keown are good, their gloomy though interesting dialogue being interrupted from time to time by the Gardener's Boy, Mr. George Tawde, who is decidedly quaint and amusing; Miss Alice Mansfield, Mrs. Arthur Milton, Miss Elspeth Dudgeon, Miss Irene Rooke, and Miss Lola Duncan portray cleverly the rôles of Queer, Prim, Prude, Privacy, and Quaint. Prunella was followed by the capital one-act play by J. M. Barrie entitled The Twelve Pound Look.

GRAND.—District-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Chas. L. Sealy.—The stock company here is presenting during this week Master and Man, in which Mr. George Roberts gives a vigorous delineation of the hero, Jack Walton; Mr. Fred Terris is responsible for a telling portrayal of Humpy Logan; and Miss Agnes Defoe makes a pleasing Hester Thornbury; Miss Maud Mallise is Kezia Lightfoot gives a good impersonation; Miss Sadie Neville does well as Lettie Lightfoot; Mr. R. B. Drysdale makes a respectable-looking Ironmaster; Mr. W. G. Robb is excellent as the wronged workman, Jim Burleigh; and tension is relieved by the lively comedy of Mr. Charles Danvers as Tom Honeywood, and Mr. Cecil Renton as St. Jones; the two showmen are graphically represented by Mr. B. Napier and Mr. Clark Keith; and their reluctant apprentice has a charming representative in Miss Pearla Gardiner.

METROPOLE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—The "Met" patrons have excellent fare provided for them in the pathetic drama As Your Hair Grows Whiter, played by Mr. Herbert Fuller and company. The hero, the Rev. John Albery, is admirably played by Mr. Hubert Helliwell; Miss Agnes Collier is a sympathetic Alice Walters; the droll play of Mr. Herbert Fuller as Timothy Slough "catches on"; and Miss Lily Fuller acts with spirit as Diana Vanderbout; the villainous propensities of Jake Stoneley are ably emphasised by Mr. Cuthbert Taylor; and Mr. R. Nelme Grasswell as Farmer Walters and Miss Lilian Burns as Mrs. Walters act their parts creditably.

EMPIRE.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—The weird and gruesome Vampire Dance of Alice Eis and Bert French occupies the leading place on the bill, and proves interesting if not attractive to Empire patrons. The clever sketch Cupid's Arms, as given by J. C. Piddock and Frank Danby, is extremely well done, music and dialogue being alike smart, while the acting of the two principals is thoroughly enjoyed. Winifred Ward's studies of young men are neat and take well; the Dandies give an enjoyable musical mélange; Andy McLeod as a raconteur and instrumentalist has made a hit here before, and is equally successful this visit; Bertha Wonder's step dancing is as neat as ever; A Ba-Be presents her post card album poses, and Frank Cass scores both as a comedian and a vocalist; the acrobatic and wire-walking feats of the Five Whiteleys are smartly carried through, and the Bioscope, showing the Manchester aviation flights, completes a varied and attractive programme.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest R. Foster.—Nowhere does Miss Clarice Mayne receive a heartier welcome than in Glasgow, and as this clever comedienne comes with a budget of new songs, in addition to a few former favourites, and is assisted by Mr. Jas. W. Tate at the piano, her reception is more cordial than ever. An excellent musical turn, the Zigeuner Quartette, is here for the first time, and judging by the enthusiasm they have created, are certain to become frequent visitors; Hal Forde as a light comedian has rapidly and deservedly come to the front, and the star honours are shared by that old favourite Joe O'Gorman, whose songs and patter take well; the Ellimans are well received for their vocal and instrumental items; Baby Vi Davis is a smart young comedienne; the cycling turn of Bert Woodward is exceedingly neat; and the acrobatic feats of the Sisters Grovini are wonderfully well done. The orchestra, under Mr. Howard W. Galpin, is always an additional attraction here.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—The attraction this week is the return visit of Mr. John Lawson. Humanity is again the production, and once more Mr. Lawson in his original part, the Jew, is seen to great advantage; his work is capital, and praise must be given to his talented company. A very taking little episode is Rags and Tatters, given by the Calcotts, whose instrumental work is of a high order; Les Marsumas as trick cyclists introduce comedy; the La Dor troupe of acrobats get through a lot of daring and clever work; Marie and Lona are well received in their original juggling acrobatic act; J. K. Macfarlane, Scotch comedian, sings in his own pawky manner; Vera Saunders is a comedienne with a good voice; Ethel Edwardes, chorus vocalist, takes well, and the Palacescope film this week, The Engineer's Romance, is dramatic.

COLISEUM.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—The programme is headed by Whit Cunliffe, the popular comedian. Another pleasing performance is that of Charles Mildare; and the artistic impersonations of stageland favourites by Miss Muriel Harding are also favourably received; Tysoe Smith's Eighteen Lancashire Singers render several part songs with fine spirit, and are heartily applauded. Other notable turns include Frank Fort, a clever patter comedian, the Lyons Trio, comedians and dancers; Julia Kent and company in the old-time comedy Pistols for Three; Johnny Fuller, slack wire artist and dancer; and Frank Hartley, juggler.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—The religious picture-story, The Life of Moses (Part V.) is followed with evident appreciation. Other serious films are The Romans, and a pathetic one is The Little Patriot. The two variety turns are Billy Davis, eccentric comedian, and Ella Gold, comedienne and dancer. The talking and singing picture Looking for a Sweetheart is greatly appreciated.

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—The Cashlings, military comedy duo and dancers, occupy the principal position here; Bob Campbell is an amusing one-legged dancer; Madge Yorke, a clever wooden shoe dancer; Bob Ross, Scotch comedian, contributes a special piping and dancing item; James Franks is successful as a vocalist and dancer; and the Bioscope is specially entertaining.

HENGLER'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Albert Hengler; Manager, Mr. Harry Milne.—The films are both of the comedy and dramatic order, amongst them being The Squaw's Revenge, The Loveless Home, The Countess's Revenge, The Theatre Pass, and many others. The Auxetophone is responsible for fine musical selections; William McNally, the Dulcimer King, has a hearty reception.

GLOUCESTER. — PALACE. — Lessee, Mr. Will Smithson; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Variety is the fare this week, and the bill is headed by that clever troupe of acrobatic comedians, the Boissets, who present their well-known sketch, The Bricklayers. The Whitworth Trio are a smart trio of trick cyclists, and Lazern is a remarkably dexterous sleight-of-hand performer; Mather and Mayer are good comedy entertainers; Miss Lottie Leighton is a talented soubrette and dancer; the Frohmans present a really good musical act; Messrs. Kyd and Kyd are amusing patter comedians; and the Palacescope concludes.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Hainsworth.—This week an exceptionally strong programme is submitted here. Harrison Brothers, comedians and dancers, score heavily; Lucretia and Josephine, burlesque artists, also make a hit; Alf. Grady, comedian, is equally successful; and the Monarchscope films are of a varied and interesting nature.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale.—Mr. Charles Gibbon is presenting a special selected company in Alone in London. Miss Nellie Clyde gives a charming portrayal of Nan; Mr. Charles Gibbon plays well as Walter Burnaby; Mr. Vernon Shaw makes a dignified Mr. Burnaby; Mr. Russell Norries gives a clever character sketch of John Biddlecombe; Mr. J. W. Wilkinson is very amusing as Jenknison; Mr. Wallace Dunlop is good as Spriggins; Miss Irene Stanhope is excellent as Ruth Clifton; Little Hetty Hornaby as Little Paul is a very clever child actress; Mr. Frank Caffrey and Miss Carrie Young cause a lot of fun as Charles Johnson and Liz Jenkinson; and Miss Laurie O'Neil is very good as Tom Chickweed.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—The pictures shown are fully up to the high standard established here. The principal film is The Mexican's Faith, a powerful drama full of strong situations. The Message of the Arrow is another thrilling picture; Brothers is particularly touching; The Ranger and the Girl and The Witch's Ballad both prove interesting; and much laughter is occasioned by Coco and the Earthquake, They Would Roller Skate, and Too Many Admirers.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The Sorrows of Satan is being presented by Miss Lois Esmond's company. Mr. Edward Neville plays Prince Lucio with suitable mystic suggestion; Mr. Jack McGaig is equally good as Geoffrey Tempest; Miss Rosie Neville represents Lady Sybil Elton with much feeling; and others who may be mentioned are Miss Dorothy Dewhurst as Mavis Clare, Miss Lois Esmond as Diana Chesney, and Mr. Frank Wheatley as Lord Lynton.

THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—A most attractive display of juggling with and balancing heavy and uncommon articles is given by Brinn, in his speciality, "Pastimes on a Battleship"; a condensed version of the popular Irish drama The Colleen Bawn is excellently played by Henry Herne and company; Rex Fox gives a unique combination of wire-walking and ventriloquism; Lydia Neilson and her quintette of boys and girls appear in a bright musical and dancing act; and other good turns are contributed by Dolly and Madge McCalla, comediennes and dancers; Walter Emmerson, a tall and amusing comedian; and Gwennie Hast, a pleasing dancer.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Are You a Mason? is paying a return visit. Mr. W. Lockhart is excellent as Amos Bloodgood; Mr. H. L. Tracey is a success as Frank Perry; Mr. A. Selwyn is good as George Fisher; Mr. B. J. Hinge takes the part of John Halton with credit; Mr. G. Blyth gives a good portrayal of Ernest Morrison; Mr. S. Arthur's Hamilton Travers is excellent; Miss Agnes Maude's Mrs. Bloodgood is praiseworthy; as Eva, Lulu, and Annie, Miss G. Denbigh-Russel, Miss R. de L'Estrade, and Miss Babe Stuart all do well.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Les Arabellas, wire artists, provide a turn in which a daring and agile young lady gives a remarkable exhibition of wire-walking and dancing; Dan Lipton's company prove a big success in Songland, an elaborate vocal scena; the Burdettier Brothers are two clever hand-balancers; Vesta Nixon is an accomplished dancer; the Merrions, comedy entertainers, the Dancing Gilberts, and the Palace pictures complete.

HAMILTON, N.B. — HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr Rene Clayton.—Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, comedy and trick cyclists, are topping the bill; the Norman and Leonard Trio, in a musical episode with an old-world air, entitled Ye Squire's Dance, are excellent; Margaret Ruby and Ernest Laws are pleasing in a vocal comedy turn; Denars Brothers, a pair of exceptionally clever juveniles, appear in an equilibristic act; Chummie La Mara sings a couple of songs in finished style; Dolly Barrie and Jaun Wood Comedy Duo are popular; La Belle Lumiere is seen in Le Fairy Gotto act; and George Baker and Lilian Balfe, together with the Bioscope, conclude.

HANLEY. — ROYAL. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone.—The visit of The Dollar Princess is proving a magnet. Mr. George Edwardes's company is a very strong one, and the various situations and numbers win alternate cheers and laughter. Miss Madeline Seymour is a fascinating Olga; Miss Norah Barry as Alice plays charmingly and sings tastefully; Miss Peggy Primrose as Daisy does full justice to the part; Mr. W. H. Rawlins as Bulger causes great hilarity; Mr. Alex Worcester as Freddy Fairfax looks well and sings successfully; Mr. Leslie Holland is well suited as Harry; Mr. J. C. Neville as Dick is decidedly good; Mr. S. Lyndon as John, Earl of Quorn, plays successfully; and dresses, scenery, and chorus are admirable. Mr. S. Vousden conducts.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—Van Biene's Baby, a capitally-written sketch and excellently played, is the star turn here. In it Mr. Auguste Van Biene introduces three capital 'cello numbers, which bring down the house. Tom and Eileen Melbourne are very well received; Carlotta Levey, in new songs, wins much favour; the Brothers O'Brien, in a horizontal bar act, are loudly recalled; Payne's Wanderers, in a caravan scena, are an original troupe; Frank Couch, patter comedian, is a hit; the Four Sisters Netherlands, singers and barefoot dancers, are loudly applauded; August, September, and May, comedians, are favourably received, and the Grand pictures are clever. Business is very good.

KING'S.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Managers, Captain F. Shaw and Mr. C. Hazlewood.—Excellent business is again done. The chief pictures are The Plot that Failed, Grahame White's Flight, The Course of True Love, In the Nick of Time, and several humorous films. Doris Snowdon, comedienne, appears.

Moore are good clog-dancers; and Luella Cross contributes a song. Little Sunbeam goes well, and the Four Victors complete.

The Kursaal.—Manager, Mr. J. E. Wilshire; Musical-director, Mr. Julian Clifford.—Monday night was set apart for a special memorial concert for King Edward. The artists for the week are Miss Nellie Ganthony and Mr. George Carncross. Miss Alice Verlet is announced for a special concert on Saturday.

HARTLEPOOL.—Empress.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Maxsted.—Excellent films are being shown this week. The one depicting A Sister's Sacrifice is exceptionally fine. There are other amusing and interesting pictures.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—Mr. H. Armitage's company is presenting With Edged Tools, which proves a thrilling production. Mr. Hamilton Deane as the hero, Jack Meredith, gives the character power and dignity; Sir John Meredith (his father) is a most able impersonation by Mr. J. D. Geddes; Mr. Charles Hartopp intelligently sustains the character of Guy Oscard; as the thoroughgoing and impressive miscreant Victor Durnovo Mr. Charles Barrett is very effective; Mr. Graham Pockett is an admirable comedian, and quite distinguishes himself in the part of Maurice Gordon; as Millicent Cheyne Miss Marguerite Cellier gives a most intelligent performance; Alice Maude is an ideal representative of Lady Cantourne; Marie Leonhard is delightfully natural in the character of Jocelyn Gordon; and Miss Edith Anton-Laing shows artistic skill in the dual parts of Marie and Lady Herries.

Pier Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—An interesting and varied entertainment is opened by a laughable sketch, Turned Up Again, which creates great fun as represented by Mr. J. D. Hunter and his clever little combination of artists, including Charles Hawker and the Misses Eva Bayley, Blanche Bayley, and Vera Dudley; Mr. Fred Beck sings in humorous fashion; the George French Troupe of trick cyclists give a clever display; an elaborate draped scena of a novel description is shown by Les Minnets; Mr. Alix Lukos in a series of character studies is popular; Miss Kathleen Cogan, comedienne and dancer, is greeted with encouraging applause; and a skating carnival by the Snow Family is an artistic as well as a laughter-provoking performance.

HEREFORD.—Garrick Theatre.—Director, Mr. T. Sidoli; Manager, Mr. Wm. Brown.—A very enjoyable programme of pictures is given here. The Gold Prospector, The Poacher's Revenge, and The Bargee's Daughter are followed with rapt attention, the humorous films causing loud laughter.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING. — Gaiety. — Proprietors, Messrs. Hall and Ainsley.—Mr. Fred J. Webb's company is appearing with success in For Old Time's Sake. Excellent readings of their respective parts are given by Mr. Fred J. Webb (Rupert Sidney), Mr. J. C. Carlyle (Paul Sidney), Mr. W. Pallister Acock (Dr. Heathcote), Mr. Tom J. Taylor (Jimmy Jeppe), Mr. H. C. Lanceley (an outcast), and Mr. Edwin Beverley (Wallace Rivington). Miss Mamie Stanton as Phyllis, Miss Marie Robertson as Polly Pearson, Miss Marie Danvers-Smith as Sareta Berkley, and Miss Agnes Gagan as Mrs. Hale were also well received on Monday night by a full house.

Picture Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—Crowded houses are appreciating the interesting and enjoyable programme, features of which are Cupid and the Motor-boat, Bear Hunt in the Rockies, The Keeper of the Light, and The Adventuress.

HUDDERSFIELD.—Hippodrome Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The top of the bill is provided by Conn and Conrad, two daring trapeze artists. The Royal Delomes, two expert clog dancers; Miss Mabelle May, comedienne; Bert Byrne, comedian; Miss Victoria Dagmar and assistant, in a horizontal bar act; the Boccaccios, three amusing and finished musicians; and J. W. Hall, the favourite comedian, with new songs and patter, complete.

Palace.—Paul Mill's well-known refined troupe of entertainers are appearing here with their usual success in a well-arranged vocal medley. Bert Maddison, comedian; Harry Raymond and his charming little daughter Ivy, who sing and dance with acceptance; Miss Monie Mine, comedienne; Will H. Fox, in his well-known entertainment at the piano; Sergt. Brennan, an expert in diabolo manipulation; Fred Maitland and company in sketch; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucas, in some finely-acted scenes from Dickens' works, with the pictures, complete the bill.

HULL. — Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. F. Maler.—The Cingalee is the attraction at this house this week, and, notwithstanding the national sorrow, good business is being done. As Chamhuddy Ram Mr. J. Crichton's dry droll manner affords the audience ample amusement; to the Nanoya of Miss Mollie Woolstenholme charm is added by her effective voice; and the Peggy Sabine of Miss Ida Ernest is an interesting study. The rich baritone voice of Mr Arthur Cartwright is much appreciated, as well as the reading of the rôle of the Hon. Harry Vereker.

Alexandra Theatre.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—The Old Home is a drama built upon lines that are such as to prove attractive to the patrons of this playhouse. The leading rôles are well sustained, and credit must be accorded Miss Violet Ingram for her reading of Hazel Dean. The dissolute Lord Avondale was faithfully presented by Mr. Horatio Sinclair; Mr. Fred Connynghame sustained with success the rôle of Sam Adams; and Mr. Chas. Franmore painted a good picture of the old fisherman. The remainder filled their rôles effectively.

HYDE.—Empire and Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Central Theatres and Franco-British Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percy Silver.—Scottie's combination of dramatic and variety artists hold possession this week. The most notable items in an entertaining bill are the sketches Napoleon at Waterloo, and The Cry of the Children. Mr. Scott Alexander sustains the leading part in both pieces, and his representations of widely disimilar characters prove his versatility. Others who figure prominently are Freda and Frank, Steve Knoto, Sanday and Ramsey, W. Warren, the Merries, Ivy Cornwallis.

ILKESTON. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Leigh.—The place of honour is held this week by Shirley Liggins and company of coloured artists in a vocal absurdity, entitled A Twilight Serenade; Cissie Esdaile wins favour as a comedienne; and Foley and Francis, patter comedians, score. Sergeant Munford, wire performer, has a good reception; Nellie Denver, the little magnet; and Maud May Murray, in electric dances, are here for another week owing to their success; and Ada Tilley, Harold Wagner and company, in A Call to Arms, and Mark Hall, comedian, are also in the bill.

IPSWICH.—Lyceum Theatre.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company, on its annual visit, opened on Monday with The Merry Wives of Windsor. Falstaff was played by Mr. Henry Herbert, Ford by Mr. Robert Atkins, Page by Mr. Cyril Sworder, Dr. Caius by Mr. Andrew Leigh, and Mr. John Cavins was Sir Hugh Evans. Slender was presented by Mr. H. S. Cohen. The Merry Wives were delineated by Miss Gladys Vanderzee and Miss Kate Turner, and Miss Dorothy Radford was sweet Anne Page. Mrs. Quickly was in the hands of Miss Betty Ward. The répertoire includes Twelfth Night, The Taming of the Shrew, Tempest, King Lear, Macbeth, and As You Like It.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Mooney and Holbein, a "pair of Vaudevillians," head the bill with a popular versatile performance; the Daunton Shaw troupe, trick cyclists, are paying a return visit; the Rhoda Bros. are clever gymnasts; and Miss Florence is a capable mimic. Larry Lewis, an old favourite, has a flattering welcome; the Bros. Dean are clever dancers; Will Garvey is an amusing comedian; and Violet Stockelle contributes some catchy songs. The Bioscope concludes.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. H. Lionel Locke.—A variety company is well received, and includes the Eltons, the well-known bar performers, who score quite a success; Mr. Tom Child, the noted Yorkshire tenor, who receives numerous encores; Shrillo, an excellent siffleur; the Boston Twins, a capable pair of comedians; May St. Hilda, in a novel scena, The Studio; Sid Bedford and company, in a screaming farcical comedy, entitled The Second Mrs. Chester, which causes no end of amusement; and M. Mlle. Sara's Marblesque Trio, in a clever statuary turn.

JERSEY.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—Albany Ward's electric pictures are both interesting and instructive. The film A Trip Through a French Metal Works and the magnificent coloured production Cagliostro are simply grand. The wonderful Mahatma as queen of second sight, assisted by Professor C. H. Steen, rivets the attention of the audience; Miss Cissy Gordon, vocalist, kept the audience in good spirits with her smart repartee and songs.

KEIGHLEY. — The Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—Carlton, the great card manipulator, is meeting with well-deserved success here; the breezy style of Karr and Kooney, comedians in red, is very refreshing; Jack Hylton, comedian, is a great favourite; Miss Ada Oxley and company create much amusement in a Yorkshire sketch, Peggy; the gymnastic turn of the Fitzroys is much appreciated; a good item is provided by the Threo Hilberts, bouncing experts; and the performance concludes with the sensational illusion The Mysterious Cross.

LANCASTER.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—Why Smith Left Home is presented by Mr. Eric H. Albury and a capable company. As John Smith Mr. Vernon Sansbury is very good, and Miss Gladys Lloyd as his wife gives an excellent portrayal. Mr. Charles Clarke and Mr. Lawrence J. Lawrence as the General and Major respectively are capital, and Mr. Eric H. Albury is a host in himself as the Count. Miss Ethel Dunbar works hard as Julia, the maid, singing nicely, and Miss Maude Shelton is amusing as the Cook. Other parts are well filled.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Longden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. John Halifax.—During the earlier part of the week Messrs. Murray King and Clarke's company appeared here in The Catch of the Season. Mr. Murray King, in the rôle of the Duke of St. Jermyns, proved himself a comedian of unusual brilliancy, whilst as Angela Crystal Miss Gladys Guy played with much freshness and charm; Mr. Ardene Linden gave an effective delineation of Sir John Crystal; Mr. Charles C. Ommaney was commendable as Lord Dundreary, and Master Willie West was exceedingly clever as Bucket. Mr. Maxwell Stewart displayed a well-cultivated tenor voice in the character of Capt. Rushpool, whilst the parts of Lady Crystal, the Duchess of St. Jermyns, and Lady Caterham were well sustained by Miss Mildred Cottell, Miss Irene Carrington, and Miss Evelyn Shelley. The piece was admirably staged, and the effective chorus and augmented orchestra were under the direction of Mr. Wilson G. Dibble.

LEEDS.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company is appearing here in Diana of Dobson's. Miss Eleanor Delaporte plays the title part in a convincing manner, and Mr. Leslie Rea as Captain Bretherton gives an artistic representation. The self-made draper is excellently embodied by Mr. A. A. Harris; Miss Hilda Franck sustains the rôle of Mrs. Cantelupe in an easy, unaffected manner. That of Mrs. Whyte-Fraser is ably played by Miss Mary Crewes. The old woman is represented by Miss Mary Ault, and in a like manner Mr. Leslie Crowther is natural as the constable. The play is preceded by Out West.

Royal Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—The Face at the Window is here. Mr. W. A. Haughton Macaulay and Mr. Arthur Chisholm undertake two leading characters with success; Miss Clare O'Sullivan and Miss Constance Genabyn represent female personages; and Miss Nita Imeson and Mr. John A. Stimson appear in amusing rôles.

The Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—Miss Evie Greene charms everyone by her delightful vocalism here, and also submits an excellent recitation; Pipifax and Paulo in Humpsti-Bumsti are smart acrobatic comedians; Marie Kendall has several rollicking songs; Tom Moore is a character vocalist of much ability; and Ted E. Box does some tuneful whistling. Other good turns are those of Rosie Ashton, who is a good sketcher, The Brennans, and Steve McCarthy.

Barrasford's Hippodrome. —General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Jake Friedman is topping the bill here in his amusing sketch Happy Holland; the Seven Bramusas do a clever musical act; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon-Wilde, in a shadowgraph act, are highly popular; and Arthur Aldridge proves himself a fine tenor vocalist. Comedians well to the fore are Harry Nelson and George Campbell, and other favourites include Fred Hastings, Tiny and Mite, and the Three Carlews.

The Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Morny Cash proves himself very popular in three smartly-rendered songs; Mona Vivian mimics various music hall celebrities and also shines as a dancer; the Michael Bros. are smart hand-balancers; Miss Alice Golding is a very popular singer of chorus songs; and other favourites are Harry Hayton, Yost and York, and Manek Shah

The Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Florrie Forde, a favourite, is here with several new numbers; the Cecilians are very able lady instrumentalists; Clarke and Hayden take well in a comedy act; and other good turns are those of Will Netta's Singing Jockeys, Felix and Fisher in a clever gymnastic creation, the Sisters Wingrove, dainty vocalists and dancers, and Marlow, juggler.

LEEK.—Grand Theatre and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. James Bibby.—Miss Violet Osmond's company occupy the boards in the musical comedy The New Barmaid. Miss Madge Prior ably sustains the title-rôle, Miss Vera Grafton gives a fine portrayal of "the Old Barmaid," Miss De Terry is good as Lady Moulton, Miss Beatrice Erle plays the Lady Journalist to perfection, Miss Murielle Mascot as Mabel is praiseworthy, Mr. J. Burlington Rigg as Captain Loveday acts with conspicuous ability, and humour is well supplied by Mr. Alex. Loftus as Bertie White and Mr. L. C. Hughes as William White. The comedy is well staged, and the music, dancing, and singing good.

LEICESTER.—On Saturday evening last, owing to the death of the King, the Royal Opera House, the Theatre Royal, the Palace Theatre, the Pavilion Theatre, the Empire Picture Palace, the Empress Picture Palace, the Empress Rink, the Boulevard Rink, and the Belgrave Rink remained closed as a mark of respect.

Royal Opera House.—Business-Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—A delightful performance of Alice in Wonderland is being given by Steadman's versatile company. The leading part of Alice is played by little Ivy Sawyer in a pleasing and captivating manner. Excellent support is given by Mr. Dan Leno, jun., Mr. Tom Graves, Mr. Franklyn Vernon, Miss Doris Walker, and Mr. Roland Henry. The staging and dressing leave nothing to be desired.

Theatre Royal.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—This week's attraction is provided by Mr. Harry Tilbury's company, who presented on the first four nights of the week His Dishonoured Wife, and for the closing two nights My Native Land is underlined. The various parts are capitally performed, the company including Mr. Harry Tilbury and Miss Belle Tilbury.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—England's leading male impersonator, Miss Vesta Tilley, is the big attraction here. She is being accorded her usual magnificent reception, and has to sing four songs. At the other end is La Pia, in a series of pure art dances, enhanced by beautiful electrical effects. Les Marco Belli are thoroughly entertaining comedy conjurors; Stanley and Greenop are past masters in the art of banjo playing; Lupino Lane is a first-rate comedian, storyteller, and dancer; the Sisters Julian are attractive duettists and clever dancers; Jennie Hartley is a vivacious comedienne and smart dancer; Nicklin Williams, a townsman, is seen and heard to great advantage in his song-scena, which is well staged; and the Bioscope shows the recent flight from London to Manchester.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—The leading turn is supplied by the Zanfrellas, remarkably smart novelty equilibrists, whose clever act is done on a pedestal 8in. in diameter and 8ft. high. John R. Poole presents the Cairo Trio of instrumentalists in a versatile show, which is effectively staged; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leonard are first-rate sketch artists who create plenty of merriment; and other entertaining turns are contributed by the Sisters Maynard, duettists and dancers; Violet Rivers, comedienne; Clive Catley, light comedian; and Jack Pardoe in wire-walking, bending, and tumbling. The Bioscope is again to the fore with a Trip to the Deep Sea Fisheries, Grahame-White's Flight to Manchester, and Bleary Oh; or, The Village Aviator

Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles R. Craig.—The two prominent pictures are Resurrection and The Detective's Son, which are supported by other excellent films. Charles Relph, a very popular and entertaining vocal comedian, is on another of his numerous visits, and goes as well as ever

LEIGH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Tolfree and Slingsby; Manager, Mr. W. H. Leo King.—Miss Grace Warner and company opened here on Monday with The Scarlet Clue. Mr. Geo. Gordon displays considerable skill and ability in his representation of Michael Stanton; Mr. Frank Esmonde cleverly portrays the dual rôle of Jack and Harry Esmond; Mr. Frank Hertu is well placed as Edward Croker; Miss L. Palmer enacts Elsie Dane in a praiseworthy manner; Miss Grace Warner as Sal Scarlet gives a sympathetic and able reading of a difficult rôle; the comedy is well looked after by Mr. Louis Nanton as Bill the Rotter and Miss Estha Dean as Musette; and Mr. Roy Rhind admirably portrays Crazy Jim.

Grand Theatre and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Secretary and Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Woolstencroft.—At the head of an excellent bill of fare are the Ten Loonies in a musical sketch, Dotty, and their humour is irresistible. The Crisps are deserving of great praise for the clean and clever scena The Little Deputy; the Carney Bros. vocalism is greatly enjoyed; Mal Vern makes a big hit with his laughing songs; the Hyde and Cody Trio of eccentric comedians provide an excellent comedy turn; the Mars Trio are loudly applauded for a sensational gymnastic act; Watson and McQue, comedy duo, are very smart; and Carmen Barrie, comedienne, and the Hipposcope pictures complete.

LEITH.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Mr. Lewis Gilbert, in his own romantic play A Daughter of the Sea, makes an excellent character study of the octogenarian scoundrel Mark Glensdale; and Miss Florrie Green's impersonation of Sunshine is cordially applauded. The part of the young hero, Ken Morland, is acceptably played by Mr. Roy Denman; Mr. Ashmore Vincent makes the most of the weak Dan Glensdale; as also does Mr. Carl Caigna with the rôle of the short-lived profligate Sir Maxwell Brentwood; and hale and breezy renderings of a retired sea captain and a coastguard are given by Mr. Cole Aspinall and Mr. Cyril Craven. Mr. J. O. Monkhouse is to be credited with a good portrait of Billy, the village idiot, who provides, with the Mollie of Miss Allyce Wyllyams, the broader fun of the piece, to which Mr. J. W. Gonne as a flunkey and Mr. John Meadows as a drunkard also contribute.

LINCOLN.—Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Pope.—Mr. Alexander Leighton's company is offering local patrons their first taste of Havana. Miss Hebe Bliss as Consuelo sings brilliantly and acts charmingly, while Miss Winnie Browne, a warm favourite in Lincoln, scores with her dashing performance of Anita, her burlesque of the Merry Widow and Chanticler being very amusing. Mr. Reginald Edwards is a mercurial Yacht's Boy, and Mr. William Pringle as the lugubrious Nix contributes endless amusement. Mr. Savill Foster sings well as Villiers, and Mr. J. Biron Ridout scores as Charteris, while Mr. Charles Boulting gets a lot of capital out of the part of the conspirator Diego. Mr. Lauri Aster as Bombito, Mr. Cyril K. Percival as Adolf, and Miss Edith Barwell as Isabelita are also highly successful, and Mr. J. H. Yorke conducts an excellent chorus.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. E. Dobney.—Simeon the Seer, a mechanical head of amazing powers, is mystifying local audiences greatly; Florence and Rose Showell, duettists, sing very tastefully; the Sims, as an extra turn, are dainty dancers; and Canard, "the man on time," has a novel comedy contortionist act. George Golburn (comedian), Lisbon and Baker (extemporists), and Connie Rubia (comedienne) win great favour, and the Adolf Beck film provides an enthralling item.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company in The Arcadians pay a welcome return visit, which is to last a fortnight. Mr. Walter Passmore is Simplicitas, and it is needless to record that he keeps his audience in shouts of laughter; Mr. Oliver J. Round repeats his screamingly funny picture of the doleful Peter Doody, and seems, if anything, more comical than ever; Mr. Harold E. Pearce fits the part of Jack Meadows to a nicety, singing and acting in able fashion; Miss Billie Sinclair is a sweet Eileen Cavanagh, acquitting herself admirably and singing delightfully; Miss Veronica Brady makes a most amusing Mrs. Smith; Miss Ethel Erskine earns considerable favour for her Sombra, singing melodiously; and Miss Mabel Munro makes a talented Chrysea. The mounting and dresses are excellent.

Shakespeare Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Here this week we are having a thoroughly appreciated visit of Miss Horniman's company with Candida, The Silver Box, and Widowers' Houses, along with the curtain-raisers Woman's Rights and Makeshifts. In the first-named on Monday evening Mr. Henry Austin was the Rev. James Morrell, a character which he handled with fine tact and discretion; Mr. B. Iden Payne fully realised the intentions of the difficult part of Marchbanks; Mr. Francis Hope as Mr. Burgess afforded great satisfaction, his character-sketch of the coarse individual being thoroughly enjoyed; Miss Ada King showed her high talents as an actress with an able portrayal of Prosperine; Miss Darragh was a homely and natural Candida, playing with artistic ease; and Mr. J. V. Bryant proved a successful Rev. Mr. Mill.

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—Here this week we are having Mrs. Frank Bateman's company with The Way Women Love, Sapho, and Camille, which have attracted large audiences. Opening on Monday with the first-named, Mrs. Bateman was seen to much advantage as Verene Alabra, which she presented in a markedly strong manner; the rôle of Violet Tremaine found in Miss Camille Treherne a capable exponent; Miss Amy Manfree filled the part of Lottie Gray with every satisfaction; as Leslie Lammon Mr. Harry Aynsleigh was prominent; Mr. Percy Shaw caused endless laughter with his Dick Palmer; Mr. Fred W. Goddard handled the character of Captain Tremaine with much discretion; and others who lent valuable assistance were Messrs. George Herbert (John Barryford), Will White (Ben Barcombe), Herbert Barrs (José Alaros), and Miss Sadie Underhill (Frank). The pieces were staged in excellent manner.

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—A Woman's Past is the attraction, the company presenting it being that of Messrs. Clifford Hamilton and Charles Locke. Prominent is Miss Dora Pass, whose portrayal of Bessie finds general approval, and is greeted with loud applause; Mr. Percy Dawsone cleverly undertakes the rôle of David Heath; Mr. Charles Locke is excellent as Frank Dellannoy; Mr. H. Ryeland-Leigh makes the most of Uriah Craven; and creditable work also comes from Messrs. A. Hamilton Warden, Tom Chapman, and the Misses Laura Bitterne, Mabel Northam, Cherry Veheyne, and Phyllis Elton.

Kelly's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—Messrs. Barnard and Eden are presenting here Shall We Forgive Her? which is receiving considerable patronage, the play being put on in good style and well handled. Mr. Charles K. Francis proves eminently successful as the missionary, Paul Elsworthy; Mr. Burton Yaldwyn makes an impressive vagabond with his Neil Garth; as Oliver West Mr. Ernest Rivary plays with much power; Mr. Richad Webb is to be commended for his James Stapleton; Miss Cicile Anson gives a most pathetic rendering of the part of Grace West; and among others who are prominent may be mentioned Mr. Arthur E. Holland (Reggie Walton) and Miss Gracie Emery (Nellie West).

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners. — The main attraction here is Serene Nord, described as "the diving Venus." The artist gives a most interesting display of complicated forms of diving, in graceful manner, and finishes with a daring high dive. Tom Hearn, "the laziest juggler on earth," is as funny as ever, and gets a big round of applause; Alexandra Dagmar, with her new songs and breezy stories, pleases immensely; Dick Tubb proves an exceedingly amusing comedian; the efforts of Rauschle in his impersonations of "Makers of History" prove exceedingly interesting; a refined vocal and dancing act comes from the Eight Empire Girls; Ouida Macdermott has some popular songs; Billy Hobbs, the nimble nigger, is very droll; and Alice Kingsley, possessed of a pleasing contralto voice, renders several numbers in good style.

Royal Hippodrome. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hasan.—Top of the bill are Alan Holt and company, with the excellent dramatic episode, A Society Woman, which is witnessed with close interest; the exhibition of trick cycling shown by the Verona Troupe calls forth loud applause; Adams and Ward, acrobatic comedians, keep their audience in a good humour; Tennyson and Wallis are a couple of diverting patterers and capital dancers; some smart work as acrobats is gone through by the Juanitos Troupe; Robb Wilton, an old favourite, is as amusing as ever; the Oakes Duo have a clever musical speciality; Flo Cecil sings and dances to the general satisfaction; a merry farce, Mistakes Will Happen, is given by Phœbe Mercer and company; and Rolando Martin, comedian, also appears.

Royal Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The stock dramatic company here is giving Those Bells of the Sleigh, an adaptation of "Le Juif Polonais," by Horace Allen. The principal rôles are undertaken by Messrs. Sydney Grant (Matheus), Harry Tresham (Christian), Miss Lena Nazeby (Catherine), and E. D. Allen (the Jew). Brown's Bioscope shows Held for Ransom.

Olympia. — District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Frank and Jen Latona are here delighting everybody with their particularly smart musical act; Hagedorn's Grotto is a charming and artistic spectacle; Tom Leamore has a rousing reception for his funny songs and eccentricities; a clever and humorous turn comes from the Three Van Dammes, acrobats and tumblers; Margaret Parker and company present a neat interlude, Lucky Jim, which proves immensely pleasing; the Serenaders have an artistic vocal scena, Old Venice; Little Ganty is as funny as ever; as comedians and dancers Kerr and Koe earn rounds of applause; Pip Powell and Katie Vesey afford every satisfaction with their musical comedy duologue, "A Perfect Woman"; and Jessie Buckle delights with her singing and dancing.

Pavilion.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter. — Great laughter follows the work of Fred Karno's company in Perkins, M.P., with Albert Bruno in the title-rôle; Ernest Rees convulses his audience with amusing songs and stories; Jordan and Harvey, Hebrew comedians, please; an artistic musical speciality act is provided by the great Virto, assisted by his talented daughter Venita; La Belle Duchess presents her smart animal performers; Smith and Gibbs go through a quiet but quaint athletic turn; the Litz Bros. earn much favour for their trick and comedy cycling; Olive and Owen are a couple of droll comedians; and Fanny Humber as an instrumentalist, vocalist, and dancer, affords satisfaction.

LLANDUDNO.—Prince's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arnold Macara.—Metz and Metz top a good bill here, and their efforts are warmly applauded; Victoria Cross contributes some good Scotch songs; Ford Williams has a capital voice; Willie Warton mystifies the audiences with some clever conjuring; Hyam Merry is a quaint comedian; and Grenville and Williams complete.

Pier Pavilion.—Secretary, Mr. Sam Hughes.—The augmented orchestra, under the personal supervision of Mr. Arthur W. Payne, F.R.C.M., commence to-day, when Mme. Conly and Charles Tree will be the vocalists.

LLANELLY.—Royalty.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Resident-Manageress, Miss Alice Rocheforte.—Mr. Oswald Craig's company in When it was Dark is meeting with much success. Mr. Wordsley Hulse gives a good portrayal of Constantine Schwabe; Mr. Craig takes the part of Basil Gortre exceptionally well; as Harold Spence Mr. Chas. H. Baker is very good, as is also Mr. Edward Valentine as Sir Robert Llewelyn. Miss Lilian Herries is most successful as Gertrude Hunt, and Miss Rosalie Nottrelle is charming as Helena. Miss Madeline Grand and Mr. Sidney Claydon as Charlie Gadfly and Gracie Goldeye do extremely well, and Mr. W. Manfre is very good as Mr. Byars.

LOUGHBOROUGH. — Temperance Hall. — Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Evanson.—Continued success attends the "World in Motion" entertainments. The pictures this week include The Pine Ridge Feud, a dramatic story of a Western American vendetta, and A Sister's Sacrifice, with some good comedy subjects. Mr. George Russell, comedian, and The Levans, song illustrators, provide variety.

LOWESTOFT.—Marina.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—Following a run of drama we have a refreshing change this week in the musical comedy Lucky Liza, and the bright singing and dancing (by the Jesmond Trio) make up a most enjoyable entertainment. Mr. Dickie Clare—who is well remembered here in pantomime—works cleverly in his various disguises and character-sketches, and is admirably supported by Miss Vesta Brownie, who gives a bright and vivacious piece of acting, singing and dancing in the name-part. Mr. Leonard Maitland affords much amusement as Paul, and Mme. Constance Bellamy appears in excellent voice in her allotted numbers.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. W. Alvar.—A capital variety bill includes The Great Airship Flight amongst the pictorial subjects. Enjoyable turns are afforded by Will Black (the eccentric Scot), R. S. Williams (musical tramp), and D. W. Watson (cornet and post-horn soloist).

MACCLESFIELD.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—The St. Louis Animated Picture Company opened here on Monday for a short season. The films shown are admirable, especially worthy of mention being The Life of Moses, In Little Italy, Sins of the Father, Rag Merchant's Wedding, and Short-Sighted Sportsman. The vaudeville element is sustained by Mr. Tom Norman, comedian, his songs being well received.

MAIDSTONE.—Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—The bill here is headed by the well-known Selbinis, who, in their remarkably smart cycling act, rouse the audiences to enthusiasm; Robins and Collier put on a very amusing sketch, entitled Miss Bacon's Easter Egg; Miss Belle Green is a humorous entertainer at the piano; Joe Archer and Ted Cowan do well with their songs and drollery; Miss Elsie Ellis and Miss Lily Esplin, comediennes, are also good; and the electric pictures prove attractive.

MANCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and company are appearing here this week in a répertoire of Ibsen's plays. A Doll's House was given on Monday with complete success, Miss Octavia Kenmore being particularly good as Nora Helmer, and Mr. Leigh Lovel quite at home as Torvald; while among others, Mr. Arthur Rodney played with distinction as Nils Krogstadt. The other plays are When We Dead Awaken (and the fourth act of Brand), and Hedda Gabler.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Charley's Aunt is the attraction here. Mr. Brandon Thomas and his company render the old favourite with all the accustomed spirit and fun, and there is not a dull moment throughout. Mr. Stanley Cooke retains his part of Babberley, and Miss Bertha Wilson plays Ela Delahay very nicely, the rôle of Colonel Chesney being still in the hands of the author. It is preceded by A Highland Legacy, a one-act piece from the same pen.

Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—The fare here this week is Widowers' Houses, preceded by Mr. Basil Dean's short play Marriages are Made in Heaven. The chief feature of interest in Monday's performance of the first-named play was Mr. Edward Landor's rendering of the part of Lickcheese, by way of deputy for Mr. B. Iden Payne, who is particularly good in this rôle. Mr. Landor's assumption was excellent. Mr. Charles Bibby repeated his fine impersonation of Cokane; Miss Edyth Goodall gave a virile rendering of Blanche; Mr. Montague Elphinstone made a capital Waiter; and Mr. Stanley Drewitt proved an acceptable Sartorius; while Mr. Basil Dean played Dr. Trench in his usual easy style. Miss Louise Holbrook was good as the Parlourmaid; and Mr. Athol Johnstone as the Porter completed an excellent cast.

Royal Osborne Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott's company are here in Her Path of Sorrow, an effective drama by Mrs. F. G. Kimberley. Mr. Charles Draycott as the heroic Richard Burfield is admirably placed; and equally happy in her part is Mrs. Draycott as Pauline Ferrara. Mr. Frank Eaglesfield is sufficiently villainous as Guy Lowther; and as a warning to girls the betrayed and deserted Nellie Rayne is strongly presented by Miss Fay Garnet-Vayne. Lighter interest is well supplied by Mr. Will Hook as Tommy Onions, Miss Nellie Freeland as Mlle. Lucille, and Miss Daisy Carlton as Polly Green.

Queen's Park Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—A good programme here is headed by the popular comedians Cullen and Carthy, supplemented by Little Culey; Diana Hope and Monty Bayly are also prominent in their dramatic episode The Altar of Duty; and another excellent turn is that of Dave Carter, the well-known Irish tenor. Enjoyable items are added by Mlle. De Louvois and company in living picture groups; Dolly and Elsie, dainty duettists and dancers; A. H. Drinkwater, light comedian; the Eight Tennessee Coloured Guards, in their American scena; Golden and Chance, in a novel act; and Cara Magda, lady gymnast.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Harry Foxwell's company is once more delighting local audiences by their performances of the homely and popular drama, Mother, by Sheila Walsh. Mr. J. O. Stewart as Duncan and Miss Grace Jones as Nellie are the principals in a thoroughly competent cast.

Grand Junction Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and his company of Shakespearean players resume their circuit of local theatres here this week. Hamlet, The Merchant of Venice, and The Taming of the Shrew are in the programme for the first half of the week. The plays are well interpreted and admirably staged.

King's Theatre, Longsight.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr James R. Trippett.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company are again this week entertaining local audiences in répertoire. Monday's play was *Plot and the prince of ventriloquists, tops the bill here; while in the second place of honour are Jack and Evelyn, in their latest comedy creations. Edward Lauri, May Beatty, and company appear successfully in The Lady Bandit; Tim O'Connor, comedian, is very well received; and other good turns are the Three Orleans, vocalists and dancers; the Ten Genis, in a clever Risley act; S. W. Wyndham, comedian; Jack Marks, juvenile Hebrew comedian; and Daisy James, the popular London comedienne.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes.—Florrie Gallimore is the popular top turn here this week; and Herbert Dickeson and company, supported by Miss Violet Gwyn-Lytton, present a successful musical comedy, A Fair Exchange. Good turns are added by Dower and Denville, in a speciality act; Lulu Langley, comedienne; Lona de Paiva, operatic vocalist; Sam Williams, comedian; Josie Delaine, comedienne and dancer; and the Vanderbilts, comedy duo.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—Cheebert's Chinese Troupe top the bill this week, and are very clever and well received; Jan Rudenyi and company, in The Power of Music, is also a strong item; Ernesto gives a good juggling and equilibristic act; Harry Conlin, comedian, is smart and enjoyable; Harrigan and Holt are funny as the Inspector and the Policeman; and other good turns are Alf. Brookes, patter comedian; the Seven Wulfrunas, comedy acrobats; the Days, wonderful exponents of second sight; and Baby Myrtle Grove, the Pierrot.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—Here for a second week are the Royal Strolers, including those capable artists, Madeline Rossiter, comedienne; G. W. Desmond, light comedian; Gilbert Fernie, entertainer; Nellie Seymour James, soprano; Dorothy Belmore, at the piano; Jack Austin, tenor; and Frank Halpin, basso.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—Excellent new films are again shown this week. Full houses twice nightly and at matinées are the result. A Fickle Girl, A Lady's Train, Foolshead Wants to Know Is He Mad, The Judge and The Girl, Poor Pa Pays, Rival Alpine Guides, A Vile Plot, and Mr. Giddes' Revenge are among the pictures this week.

MANSFIELD. — GRAND.—Managing-Director, Capt. C. Clayton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. Clayton.—Messrs. Henry Chattel and Jack Denton's company is appearing in Through the Divorce Court. Mr. Robert Purdie gives a strong portrayal of Lord Penarth; Mr. Henry C. Cooper is effective as Mendoza; Mr. John Campling is good as Di Valdiz; Mr. Jack Denton is excellent in the humorous part of Algy Fitzmaurice; Mr. E. W. Thomas deals successfully with Peter Pettigrew; and Mr. Harry Colbeck scores as Rafferty. Miss Hettie Chattell gives a sympathetic rendering of Lady Penarth, playing with great pathos and feeling; little Constance Dagmar is a winning Sybil Penarth; Miss Edith Cruikshanks presents a successful character study of Lady Hilda Fitzmaurice; Miss Patty Groves is praiseworthy as Rachel; and Miss Nellie Sheffield capably presents the part of Dinah. The scenery and effects are adequate.

MARGATE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. E. Michael; General-Manager, Mr. F. Weathersby.—The Scapegrace has been here this week. The part of Bill Burke is played with great dramatic effect by Mr. John Levy, and other characters in his company are sustained with success by Messrs. F. Dudley, W. A. Buckstone, H. F. Cresswell, Larry Clements, J. Ballard, T. Chapman, J. Willoughby, Misses Maude Lambert, Beatrice Weston, Nellie Lambert, and Maude Western.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the South of England Hippodromes, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Mayall.—Heading the programme this week is the clever Wolowsky Troupe of Russian troubadors and expert whirlwind dancers. Their entertainment is a striking one, and includes their tuneful orchestra of twelve performers with national instruments. Tom Franks, ventriloquist, does an amusing turn, and other contributions to an interesting programme include Madge Brownie, a dainty comedy artiste; Lylie Read, comedienne, the Sisters Wayland, duettists and dancers; the Two Walonels, in their comedy bar act; and George Grogie, comedian.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—Mrs. Morton Powell presents How Girls Are Brought to Ruin, a drama brimful of incident. Chief characters are ably sustained by Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne as Jessie Burton, Mrs. Morton Powell as Winnie Waters, Mr. Harry Scott as Harry Hailing, and Mr. Edward M. Heanley as Philip Edge.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The bill includes Cole and Rags, comedy jugglers; Charles Sewell and Sara Dudley, in the sparklet The Sun Bath; Lawson and Dell, comedy duo and dancers; Cooper's Mannikins; Joey Sterling, comedian; and Dorothy Dene, comedienne. The high standard of the pictures is maintained.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. H. Smith.—Mr. Chas. Carte is this week presenting A Noble Brother. Mr. Chas. Carte plays with rare dramatic skill as Jerry, the tramp; Mr. Henry Childs plays well as Jack Elsworth; a vigorous impersonation of Henry Travers is given by Mr. Frank Carlile; Mr. Sydney Gordon makes the most of the part of Colonel Leigh; Miss K. Birchley plays with charm and sympathy as Nana Leigh; Mrs. Leigh is ably impersonated by Miss Alice Ballard; and Miss Amy Le Gras is a pleasing Rosie.

NEW PICTURE HALL.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Leading pictures in a capital programme this week are Sugar-Cane Industry, The Man Hunt, An Outlaw's Sacrifice, and humorous pictures.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. C. W. Standing's small but well-chosen company is presenting The Marriage of Kitty, in which Miss Myra Swan, a local lady, makes her first professional appearance. Her interpretation of Kitty is deserving of high praise. Miss Winifred Pearson as Madame de Semiano is distinctly clever, and the rôle of Sir Reginald Belsize is admirably filled by Mr. C. W. Standing. The comedy is preceded by The Man in the Street.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Imeson.—The Outcast of the Family, as played by Mr. F. Wybert Clive's company, meets with a hearty welcome. As Stephen Barry, the village blacksmith, Mr. Herbert Bentone is deservedly well received, and the other characters are in competent hands. The drama is well staged.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Mr. Will Lytton and company appear with success in an Egyptian musical comedietta; Hanvarr and Miss Annie Lee, in The Golfer and the Maid, give a refined and clever show; Half a Dollar is admirably and funnily played by Haines and Borthwick; the Northcotes, operatic duettists, Miss Maud Vera, comedienne, Harry Vardon, ventriloquist, Peter Bermingham, Scotch comedian, and the Empire pictures complete the programme.

NELSON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. C. Horner; Manager, Mr. Porter.—Variety holds sway here this week, a capital bill being presented. The top star is supplied by Mikado, the mind-reading dog; Miss Marie Lord, comedienne, is greatly appreciated for her refined singing; and other contributors are those of Fritz Von Liston, siffleur and mimic, who impersonates with much skill the principal characters in Chantecler; Miss Gracie Bard, chorus comedienne; Worth and Worth, in their comedy sketch, Hunting; Paul Pry, comedian; Mlle. Marvelle, with her educated cockatoos, macaws, and magpie pigeons; and Ascott and Dewey, in an interesting ballooning scena.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson.—An excellent programme is headed by the Four Phillipi Bros., who, in their amusing sketch, Sergeant Fearnought and His Raw Recruits, introduce some clever acrobatic feats; Les Supriskins are lady gymnasts of more than ordinary ability; and capital turns are also supplied by Hall and Wilson, championship cyclists, the former going through many difficult tricks on rollers; Will Atom and company, in a farcical absurdity, entitled Wiggles; the Martons, in comedy duologue; and Molly Seymour, comedienne and violinist. Other contributors are Purvis and Partner, in a screaming comedy, The Postman's Knock, and Ida Dorrie, a dainty soubrette.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee and Manager, Messrs. Jones and Douglass.—Delightful comedies are being thoroughly appreciated by large audiences. A Country Mouse, splendidly staged and capitally acted by Mr. J. E. Watson's company, was well received, and the farcical comedy The New Boy caused roars of laughter. As a first piece An Afternoon Call is played.

PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, The New Brighton Pier Co.; Secretary, Mr. E. W. Kampion.—A vaudeville programme is presented here by the Brownies, a smart concert party; the Child Trio, two girls and a boy, talented instrumentalists; Elliot and Lane; also Hayes and Waller, dancing experts. The Pier orchestra plays several selections.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—The Follies are here this week. The first part of the programme, consisting of solos and concerted numbers, proves exceptionally delightful. The trio "Down by the Wangaroo," by Gwennie Mars, Douglas Maclaren, and Dan Everard, is charmingly rendered; whilst a tuneful number, "In my garden of roses," is effectively sung by Miss Effie Cook. Mr. Lewis Sydney is happy in a characteristically clever pianoforte sketch; and many other attractive items are submitted, including a series of entertaining quartettes, "Port," "Cider," and "Rum." In the second portion Pelissier succeeds to the utmost in his laughable potted plays, Henry of Navarre, Fires of Fate, and The King of Cadonia.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Messrs. Horace Lingard and Arthur Shelton's company opened here on Monday with Fanny and the Servant Problem. Miss Beatrice Moreau in the title-part plays with credit. She has much dramatic skill, and has a happy style. As Martin Bennet Mr. Horace Lingard is irresistible, and his acting is responsible for much merriment; Mr. Russell Davis enacts Lord Bantock remarkably well; Miss Baring submits an excellent character study of Susannah Bennet; Miss Coldridge and Miss Mabyn Fay are to be congratulated on their acting of the two aunts; the rôle of George Newte is admirably played by Mr A. E. Jackson; and other parts are in the capable hands of Mr. Roland Hope, Mr. A. Lightowler, Miss Phyllis Brent, and Miss Hilda Lane.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Mr. Horace Stanley and company in The 10.30 Down Express is here. Mr. T. Arthur Plummer played with care and ability the part of Jack O'Malley; Bessie Leigh was portrayed with great power and sympathy by Miss Cora Linda; Mr Fred Wilberforce as James Inderwick performed very creditably; Mr. Horace Stanley as Sam Waggstaffe extracted plenty of humour from the rôle and was ably assisted by Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Potts; Mr. T. B. Brabazon gave a thoroughly convincing study of Cuthbert Leigh. Mr. Evan Roland as Seth Coombes acquitted himself satisfactorily; and Mr. Edwin Clarke as Hunt ley Mason was worthy of praise.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Responsible Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—The Play Productions Company present A Heart's Desire, under the direction of Messrs Elliman.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Major Gallagher; Assisting-Manager, Mr. Percy A. Wilde.—The eccentricities of the Brothers Egbert, the happy dustmen, are more than ever a source of amusement; the performance of Miss Juliette's educated sea lions is popular; Clarissa Talbot and Albert Pearce combine comedy and excellent vocal ability; Drew and Alders succeed in arousing hearty laughter with their comical act The Coastguards; Lena Verdi does remarkably well in song and mimicry; and Amy Marsden finds many admirers. Walker and May earn a flattering reception with their Darktown ditties and excellent dancing. The Bioscope pictures complete an entertaining programme.

NORTHAMPTON. — TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr. G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrews' Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—Shakespeare's play Twelfth Night makes a very picturesque film subject, and is deservedly applauded. Pokahunta is a Red Indian story, and The Cowboy's Narrow Escape is also a thriller; No Smoking, and Pity the Blind are good comics. Miss Margaret Payne sings two good songs, "One sweet rose" and "Meet me to-night in dreamland."

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle-Edwards.—Amongst the principal films are The Leper of Aosta, Barbeine, and The Alpine Chasseurs. Foolshead learning to somersault is one of the best of comics. Miss Gertie Francis is the pianiste.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Miss Winifred Chalmers's company is presenting Miss Plaster of Paris here, which has had an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Charles Tolcher as Numskull Nubbs gives a most amusing impersonation; Mr. Harry Ed. Ray as Alexander, the waiter, keeps the house in roars of laughter; Mr. Wilfred E. Brandon makes a capital Tom Flubbs; and Mr. Sid Dean is smart as Mrs. Nubbs. As Eliza Plaster Miss Celestine Brandon makes a great hit; and Miss Chalmers proves an effective Medea Hamilton. Specialities are successfully introduced by the Three Berlin Belles, dancers, Miss Celestine Brandon, and the Sisters Holman, duettists and dancers.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—A good bill of fare has drawn large audiences. Billy Richardson, black-faced comedian, gives a clever and amusing performance; the Three Sisters Duggan, song and dance artists, receive well-merited approbation; Maud Tuch, comedienne, has made a hit; the Brothers Armstrong prove themselves popular comedians; and a capital series of films meet with much appreciation.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Closed for the week.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Mr. Joe Peterman and Mr. George Ricketts present The Belle of the Orient, in which Messrs. George Ricketts, Chas. Hylton, Walter Williams, and Miss Rosali Jacobi appear; the Lafaille Troupe of gymnasts and equilibrists display much ability; Arthur Croxon is a first-class mimetic comedian; Fred Herbert is a great favourite; Moon and Morris receive much applause for their unique dancing; Sergt. Bert Powell scores as an illusionist; the Rosses are expert dancers; and May B. Brilliant proves a chic comedienne.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Compton Comedy Company is attracting large audiences. On Monday evening Davy Garrick was presented, and the title-rôle was sustained by Mr. Edward Compton in his own inimitable manner. Mr. Henry Crocker filled the part of the Alderman with distinction; and Mr. Frank Royde presented an admirable study of the Hon. Tom. Messrs. Gordon, Austin, and Marquand left nothing to be desired; and Mr. Laurence Meade as the servant and Mr. Frank Snell both did good work. As Violet Miss Kathleen Leigh looked very sweet and acted charmingly; while Misses Hassell and Stevens acquitted themselves efficiently. She Stoops to Conquer, The Road to Ruin, The School for Scandal, Used Up, and The Rivals are also in the week's bill.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company is presenting Can a Woman be Good? In the leading rôle Miss Blanche St. Albans uses her highly-developed powers to excellent advantage, and is ably assisted by Mr. J. Millane as Manuel Errington. In the villain's part Mr. Harry C. Robinson demonstrates his possession of histrionic abilities of no mean order; and Miss Florence Hunt as Naomi Merrick adds no little to the success of the presentation. Mr. J. Leicester Jackson and Mr. Ernest St. John work hard; and Misses Mabel Rose and Norah Melton are deserving of commendation. The production reflects great credit upon all concerned.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—Harry Tate, in his droll sketch Fishing, divides honours with Jack Pleasants, whose unique manner of being funny has much to commend it; at the other end of the programme Nelson Jackson holds his own in his well-known refined and pleasing style; Ryan and Hall present their acrobatics in an eccentric fashion that compels loud and prolonged laughter; and Cumminger and Colonna dance themselves into favour. Addie Dorina's quick changes are remarkable; and the imitations of the "stars" by D'Arc's Marionettes are wonderful. Les Salas demonstrate their possession of marvellous voices; and King's College Boys present an enjoyable turn. The usual Bioscope pictures are this week of exceptional interest.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—An Oriental turn, set in eastern splendour, is that of the Mirza-Golem Troupe, an act at once gorgeous and interesting and possessing distinctly novel features; Mr. J. Wright Aitken and his company in the dramatic sketch The Battle of Life do good work, and achieve excellent results; Nellie Dallwood is a comedienne and dancer of merit; and Albert St. Clair has remarkable vocal gifts. The Two Mackays create much mirth; and the Richards Trio in their acrobatic act are smart and funny. The Four Sidney Girls dance and sing satisfactorily; and an acrobatic turn that goes with a snap is that of the Three Orros. Chris. Baker creates laughter; and the Bioscope pictures of Paulhan's flight are highly interesting.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—Mr. E. H. Knight's company is here with The Lighthouse Robbery. Mr. Percy Beresford plays the hero, Tom Manley, with success; Mr. J. Summerville is powerful as James Hammond; Mr. S. Fortescue is a satisfactory William Farren; Mr. J. Cameron makes the most of his opportunities as David Morris; Mr. Rupert Talbot as Sam Kidder successfully handles the light part of the play; Miss Hilda Baynton as Rosa Prescott is a charming heroine; Miss Clarice Jenner is a vivacious Ruth Manley; Miss Alice Dent acquits herself well as Mrs. Manley; and Baby Freda secures much applause for the clever manner in which she fills the pathetic rôle of Little Nellie.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—This theatre was closed last Saturday owing to the King's death, and remained so till Thursday, when Mr. Martin Harvey opened with The Only Way. Mr. Harvey was announced to fill a week's engagement here, but preferred not to open for the first three nights out of respect to the late King.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart's company is giving a creditable presentment of Secrets. Mr. Harry Parr gives a robust portrayal of Lieut. Herbert Markham. Mr. Frederick Biron makes the most of the Caliph; and Mr. Harry Leyton does good work as Hon. Cecil Cholmondeley; Mr. Edwin Firth shows experience and skill as Ibrahim; and Mr. E. Holland Day is a success as Kara. As Peter Wilkins, Mr. Karl Edwards is again to the fore, and scores an undoubted success; Miss Katie Norris is full of life and energy as Winnie Wilkins; Miss Viva Rogerson is well suited in every way as Kasicki; and Miss Mabel Parker makes a good Theresa Meleda. Miss Elma C. Turner imbues Imalia Meleda with all the sympathy and grace which is naturally at her command.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—There is being presented here this week by Mr. Wilson Howard and company Under the Iron Heel. As Rene de Maupassant Mr. Wilson Howard gives a sound performance; Mr. J. W. Richards as Otto Marx displays ability in a powerful rôle; Mr. John Talford submits a faithful embodiment of Father Mirbeau; a capital enactment of Major Schomberg is supplied by Mr. Dennis Clyde; Mr. Carl Vallender sustains well the comedy part of Schultz; Mr. Austin H. Longford gives an admirable interepretation of Sergeant Bleucher; and capital renderings of Michaelolnet and Colonel Muller are given by Mr. Gerald Smythe and Mr. R. Merring respectively. Miss Carlotta Anson plays with charm and ability the part of Germaine; an excellent exponent of Mme. Gouffe is found in Miss J. Douglas Hicks; and Miss Marie Angus furnishes a delightful portraiture of the boy part, Andre.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—Lily Morris, the popular comedienne, is proving a decided draw; a sensational turn is provided by the Tom Davis Trio, whose motor-cycling on a suspended track is of a daring nature; the Austral Trio delight with a refined and versatile act, entitled A Musical Evening; Bruce Green, comedian, is entertaining; the Werds Brothers display ability in their acrobatic exhibition; Walter Wade scores as a comedian; Alf. Guest and Dorothy Newlyn contribute a pleasing and enjoyable turn; Les Wartanas provide an excellent juggling speciality; and the Bioscope this week, besides other pictures, depicts the London to Manchester aviation flight.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; General-Manager, Mr. Edgar Harper; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—An attractive programme is headed by the Brooklyn Comedy Four in harmony and humour. Little Hackenschmidt (the boy wrestler) creates much interest by his challenges to local wrestlers; a clever lightning club throwing act is contributed by the Zanonis; Mi Narom proves herself to be a most versatile comedienne; and up-to-date pictures shown.

WORKMEN'S HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. Salway.—Life of Moses (Part V.), Death of Brigand Chief, and Lady's Maid are included in a fine picture programme. The Four Watsons are versatile artists.

PERTH.—PERTH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The Gallimore Trio take premier place in a capital programme this week; Persugal is a smart ventriloquist; Hargadon and Cole give an entertaining musical comedy sketch; and the Brothers Long are capital dancers. A fine series of pictures include The Ranchman's Rival.

PETERBOROUGH.—HIPPODROME.— Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—The principal attraction is the marvellous display of hoop-spinning given by Everhart, the world-famous hoop expert; Minola Hurst and her Miniature Marvels are a complete success; George James is a pleasing comedian; Signor Torti, Italian tenor, is possessed of a very fine voice; the Six Manchester Lads create much enthusiasm by their excellent dancing; Doris Lane is a delightful singer and dancer; Alice Hughes and company provoke endless laughter with their comedy sketch Star of the Bazaar; and the Karnoscope concludes with new pictures.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Mr. Norman V. Norman's talented company opened a week's engagement on Monday, when The Marriage of Kitty was presented. As Sir Reginald Belsize Mr. Norman proves himself to be a capital exponent of light comedy; Miss Beatrice Wilson does brilliantly as Kitty; Miss Goolding is quite at home as the excitable Mme. de Lemiano; and Mr. Lock Whitaker acts the family lawyer, John Towers, firmly. On Wednesday David Garrick was staged.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—A fantastic scena by Princess D'Aryata is the chief attraction here, the four scenes being characterised by some splendid dancing and brilliant effects; Thora, a ventriloquist disguised as a lady, deserves the applause bestowed; Dort and Leonard are responsible for some first-rate tumbling; Agnes Tina, a mimic of tender years, is successful; the Zosquarus are amusing burlesque artists and dancers; Beresford, a local bluejacket, performs some clever conjuring feats and smoke drawings; and Syd Walker is a comedian of ability.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Ronna Shanara's miniature Thibet Mountain Deer Goats head the programme with a clever performance; Corrix presents a pleasing turn as an herculean equilibrist, being ably assisted by an expert juggler; Wyllie as a tramp musician delights his audience; and other turns are Tiny Arnold, comedienne; Kitty Bell, comedienne and dancer; Florrie Ellis, character vocalist; and Snowball and Mac, in a comedy sketch Hunting. The Alexscope depicts An Apish Trick and Golf Mania.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE.—Sole Owners, Messrs. Trenchard and Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Willie Trenchard.—A Life for a Life is performed here by Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company. Mr. Edward G. Ashby is good as Don Leon Fernandez, Mr. Hugh Travers is a capable Pedro Li Calci; and Mr. W. H. Carr a capital John Evelyn. Mr. Harold Kinton scores as Bunker Ben; Mr. Geo. Daiper is an admirable Kit Oswald; Mr. Fred Yarnold is a funny Tim M'Carthy; Miss Jennie Clare plays as Nancy; Miss Lallah Davis Eulalie, Miss Winnie Warden Venetta, and Miss Dorothy Riddell gives an able rendering of Kate Evelyn.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd., Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Bonnie Goodwin's Apollo Piccaninnies, under the direction of Miss Lillie Vine, top the bill here. Ray and Lingard present an amusing comical duologue, The First of April; Madge Beresford's chorus songs are quite the rage; the Estor Trio are marvellous equilibrists; the San Remo Girls are good speciality dancers; Arthur J. Hill gives a wonderful Liliputian act; Gracie Grahame repeats her successes here, winning the hearts of all; and the Bioscope projects excellent pictures.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—This house resounded on Monday night to the merry music of The Mikado, by the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. On Tuesday a thoroughly enthusiastic audience applauded The Gondoliers, and welcomed two old favourites in Mr. Henry A. Lytton as the Duke of Plaza Toro and Mr. F. Billington as the Grand Inquisitor, both comedians investing their impersonations with the raciest humour. Mrs. Arthur Rousbey's beautiful soprano voice was heard to great advantage as Gianetta, while Tessa had a fascinating exponent in Miss Beatrice Boarer; Miss Louie Rene was quite at home as the stately Duchess, Miss Mabel Graham scoring as Casilda; both Messrs. Leicester Tunks and Henry Herbert as the gondoliers, Guiseppe and Marco, were most successful, Mr. Sydney Granville doing well as Luiz. The powerful chorus sang with precision and effect, under the direction of Mr. François Cellier. The Yeomen of the Guard, H.M.S. Pinafore, Trial by Jury, and Patience are billed for the rest of the week.

PRINCE'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—The Sinner, an exciting melodrama, presented by Mr. Wilson Benge and company, is the attraction. The outstanding feature of the performance is the fine acting of Mr. Wilson Benge, who enacts Monk Stretton in a vigorous manner. All the other parts are in capable hands, and the play is well staged.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Captain E. H. Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The chief item on the programme is a tabloid musical comedy, presented by Arthur Watson and Flo Stanley, entitled The Prince of the Dandies. The Empire Girls, by their charming and graceful dancing, and Arthur Watson, by his humorous rendering of the part of Sprouts, ensure the success of this miniature comedy. Harris Coonie's wonderful exhibition of wooden-shoe dancing excites the admiration of the audience; Merton and Rydon provide much mirth by their humorous songs and amusing antics; Will Norrie possesses a fine tenor voice, and his rendering of "Thora" is much applauded; Edie King gives a clever exposition of various national dances; the Bros. Curran contribute an amusing fistic act; Dancit fully sustains her title of "Queen of the clog"; the Four Pawels are knockabout acrobats; Payne's Bio-Photoscope exhibits a film of the race through the air from London to Manchester.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Happy Fanny Fields apparently infects the audience with her own merry humour, and is enthusiastically applauded; Arthur Lennard's songs are pleasing; Joe Peterman and Geo. Ricketts, supported by a numerous company, amuse with Slaterstein's, Ltd.; Max Waldon is an exceptionally clever female impersonator; Irish songs have a melodious exponent in Walter Munroe; Lily Palmer sings and dances; and the Gilberts are at home on the wire, their Camp scene being picturesque.

KING'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—Mr. Peter Davey presents Cock-a-Doodle-Doo, his skit on Chantecler, the stage being arranged as a farmyard with a chicken run, in which the birds, represented by Misses M. Sadie, Nellie James, and Theodore Roosterfeld, the cock, by Mr. W. Lazard, disport themselves; an exhibition of canine intelligence is given by Richard Braatz in the dog drama, The Burglar's Fate; Paul Conchas excites attention by his handling of heavy shells, a torpedo, and cannon-balls; music and singing have exponents in the Three Comedy Chanters; a sensational acrobatic display is provided by the Five Havanas; the Sisters Karlteson are seen to advantage as gymnasts and contortionists; and other notable turns are Harry Taft, comedian and whistler; A. W. Scott, coon delineator; and W. G. Wesley, comedian.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Exors. of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—W. W. Kelly's London company in A Royal Divorce is, as usual, doing good business this week. Mr. Frederick Moyes gives an excellent presentation of Napoleon; Miss Violet Ellicott gives a most pathetic portrayal of the Empress Josephine; Miss Winnie Tempest as Marie Louise proves herself an accomplished actress; Mr. J. H. Roberts is exceedingly good as Talleyrand; and Mr. Charles Stirling as Marquis de Beaumont and Mr. Ernest Plumpton as General Augereau are capable in their respective parts. Mr. George Hudson as Grimaud is a welcome mirth-provider. A word of praise is due to Miss Dorothy Garth for her dainty rendition of Stephanie.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Harry Ford is making a huge hit here this week, and is, if possible, more popular than ever; Robb Rossi is a tenor vocalist far above the average, and meets with vociferous applause and encores nightly—a really good artist; Miss Millie Engler and company in Geo. R. Sims's farcical episode Beauty and the Burglar are excellent, Miss Louie Tinsley as Polly being a low comedienne of the first water; Hanson and Hartley, vaudeville artists, contribute a pleasing turn; Four Hawkers, in glees, songs, and dances, are decidedly original; Ronald George is an exceedingly clever instrumentalist; Pichel and Scale contribute an eccentric comedy acrobatic act; Les Lanas (Kitty and Ada), vocalists and speciality dancers, are a pleasing turn; and the Two Hillands, in a musical acrobatic and dancing absurdity, are most amusing.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Clarkson.—Mr. Stanley Carlton's company in Her Life in London is this week's attraction. Mr. Stanley Carlton is decidedly well suited to the part of Rev. Allen Gordon; Mr. Claude Aymond is equally good in a totally different way as the villainous burglar; and the comedy parts are in good hands, Mr. W. Vernon as Percy Plunker, supported by Miss R. B. Douglas as Dolly making the utmost of their respective parts. Miss Constance Medwyn displays much ability as Madge Rundall, and as Astra Bell Miss Ruby Maude is entitled to the highest praise.

RAMSGATE.—MARINA THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—The animated pictures exhibited here each evening continue to be of a most attractive character. They cover all kinds of subjects—topical, dramatic, humorous. A very clever act is supplied by Sydney Brandon, whose dramatic impersonations of characters from famous books and plays are first-rate features of a thoroughly good programme.

ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Charles Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—An excellent show of animated pictures has been given at the Palace this week, interspersed with pleasing varieties. Trillo, a clever ventriloquist, gives thoroughly popular turns, as do also Dean and Watson (sketch artists, who contribute an item, entitled Tit-Bits), and Miss Rosie Beech, who sings in capital style.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—Mr. Fred Granville's company is appearing this week in the domestic drama The Better Land. The principal characters of Philip Radcliffe and his wife Doris are sustained with much power by Mr. Douglas Watson and Miss Marguerite Trevosper. The part of Hubert Radcliffe is characteristically taken by Mr. Leonard Booker; Harry and Tessa are cleverly impersonated by Miss Gertie Moody and Miss Elsie Jones; and other parts are ably sustained by Messrs. Hill Cremer, Fred Richards, Paul Milne, J. F. Hughes, Miss Madge Trevelyan, Miss Kitty Terriss, and Miss Bella Moody.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco; Stage-Manager, Mr. A. Burridge.—The Betsons, comedy cyclists, give a clever performance; the Korries make a welcome reappearance in an original musical act; Mlle. Ottino, an expert lady conjurer, gives a very acceptable turn; and Annie Heath is a pleasing comedienne. The chief attraction of the evening is undoubtedly that of Rousby's company in Greater London, which is divided into three scenes depicting the White City, An Incident (the Tourist's Dream) in the National Gallery, and A Grand Panoramic View of Mighty London in 1910, seen from the roof garden of a West End hotel. A series of extremely clever dioramic and mechanical effects are introduced, including beautiful illuminations and coloured cascade effects, the flip-flap and air-ships in the White City, a volcano eruption, and a most realistic representation of a torrential storm, followed by a glorious sunset and bright moonlight night in the last scene. Crawford and Johnson, Creole instrumentalists and dancers, give a good turn; the Smythsons appear with success in a comedietta, Our Suite; Happy Attwood gives a droll performance; the Garricks, musical quartette, are well received; and some good pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

WEST'S PICTURE PALACE.—The films shown here this week include Hearts are Trumps, The Girls of the Range, Where Teak Wood Grows, and His Hundredth Birthday.

BIO. PICTURE LAND.—A capital series of animated pictures are being projected here.

ROTHERHAM.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. R. Hollands.—Zona Vevey del

Vernon, who has often given pleasure at this house, gets much applause for her songs, including "Emblems." Louie Tracy, smart male impersonator, also is a great favourite; Charles Lilburn keeps the house in roars with his songs and patter. The programme, which is an excellent one, also includes turns by Leslie Race, vocal comedian; E. J. Sheldon, comedian; T. E. Johnstone, topical character vocalist; J. H. Ellis, comedian; Lucy Gillett, a clever young juggler; and Williams and Warden, comedians.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—The Enemy of Woman drew a good house on Monday, when Mr. Stuart Lomath ably sustained the hero, Captain Jack Merritt. The erring wife Marian was impressively portrayed by Miss Rosa Mervyn. Villainy was well represented by Mr. Arthur E. Pringle as Major Stevens and Miss Amy MacNeil as Beatrice Trant. Mr. Launcelot Usher created much laughter with his Digby Trant; the boys Teddy and Frankie had excellent exponents in Miss Ethel F. Greene and Miss Dorothy Booth. Miss Ellen Owen (Kitty Crumpet), Mr. Jack Miller (Richard Manley), Mr. Victor G. Vayne (Watty Cooper), Mr. Geo. Wells (William Gibbe), and Mr. A. Jennison (Joe Stubbins) also gave satisfactory support.

Opera House and Assembly Rooms, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—The Regent New Animated Pictures this week pack every house, and include a pathetic story, entitled Brothers, Poor Pa Pays Again, Caught in His Own Trap, The Message of an Arrow, His Last Deal, The Carmen's Dream; with songs by Mr. Tom Sherlock.

Central Hall (Blackfriars Road).—Proprietors, Messrs. Matt Raymond Company; Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—The Raymond pictures include The Ticket-of-Leave Man, Seeing the Real Thing, Foolshead Rinking, Poor Pa Pays, Brothers, Winning of Father, The Girl and the Judge, and also songs by Mr. A. H. Gilbert.

New Central Hall (Pendleton).—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Whiteley; Manager, Mr. Gilbert Bruce.—This week's pictures include The Last Cartridge, Banana Skins, Cinematographed, The Idyll of the Doctor, The Fatal Sneeze, Invisibility, The Coiners, &c.

SCARBOROUGH.—The Aquarium.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. Kitchingman; Assistant Manager, Mr. H. Bench.—Haley's Garden Girls top the bill and prove highly entertaining; the Rangers are clever trick cyclists; Alfred Wellesley and company appear in an amusing sketch, Uncle's Courtship. Charles Rowan is a good comedian; and the efforts of F. V. St. Clair are greatly appreciated. Minnie D'Aubyn is a pleasing chorus vocalist; and Fox and Melville are successful song illustrators. Some interesting pictures are shown.

The New Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—Mephisto occupies premier position here, and is very popular; Dene and Dixon are successful in the sketch The New Page Boy; the Donatos are clever one-legged acrobats; Tom and Neil are responsible for a very amusing wrestling act; J. Milton Hayes is well received; the Four Scoreys appear in a musical mélange, and also introduce Palmyra, the elastic lady, who is exceptionally clever; and a good musical and ventriloquial act is provided by Al and Lal. Other good turns are given by Amy Bellwood, comedienne; the Milsted Bell Trio, in the sketch Three Sharps in a Flat; and David Fuller, baritone vocalist.

The Spa.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. H. Chambers.—The vocalists for the week are Miss Rachel James (soprano) and Mr. Sam Hempsall (tenor). Excellent programmes are submitted by Baroness Von Eckardstein's private band, Conductor Mr. C. H. Allan.

SEACOMBE.—King's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company presents For Wife and Kingdom. Mr. Frank Sutherland is a forceful and determined General Von Nestolde; Mr. Reginald T. Fox scores well as Captain Maximillian Lubeck; Mr. Charles H. Gallier gives a vigorous performance of Sergeant Oppenbeck; and the villain, Baron Maurice Breslaw, is skilfully enacted by Mr. Albert Guyon. The comic element is chiefly in the hands of Mr. Fred Osmond as Karl Ludhaye, who proves himself fully equal to the task. The performance of Miss Hettie Zillwood as the Grand Duchess Marie is convincing; Miss Margaret R. Frame is a satisfactory Camille; and Miss Audrey Canning an amusing Ottillie Schwartz; Miss Alice Buckland doing well as Nita Constadt.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. A. C. Harrison; Manager, Mr. Wallace Childs.—An exceptional treat is provided here this week by the appearance of Messrs. Shiel Porter and Garth's répertoire company. The Money Spinner was presented on Monday to a delighted audience. Mr. Garth was clever as Lord Kingussie; Harold Boycott found a capable exponent in Mr. Vane; Mr. McCulloch gave a sterling portrayal of Baron Croodle; as Jules Faubert Mr. Bickell submitted a finished reading of the part; Miss Ella Thornton won high encomiums as Millicent; and Dorinda was made a captivating character by Miss Coleman.

SHEERNESS.—Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham.—Appearing here are Relwyskow, the royal wrestler; Elsie Lloyd, comedienne; Leo and Jerry, ventriloquist; Clarice Sefton, comedienne and dancer; Allan Hanbury, comedian; Jessie Star, Scotch comedienne; Elmore and Evens, in original burlesque drama; Frank Morrel, comedian and dancer; and Stalman and Russell company, in his latest success, Borrowed Plumes.

SHEFFIELD. — Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—On Monday Our Miss Gibbs was played for the first time in Sheffield by Mr. George Edwardes's No. 1 company. Mr. George Gregory was responsible for many mirthful moments as the quaintly humorous Mr. Timothy Gibbs; Mr. H. V. Crofton made a smart and well-groomed Lord Eynsford; Mr. Campbell Bishop an alert solicitor as Mr. Beavis; Mr. Lionel Mackinder an amusing Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint; the Earl of St. Ives was represented with characteristic savoir faire by Mr. Miles Clifton; Mr. Ernest Mahar was successful as Mr. Toplady; and Mr. Robert Nainby did well in the part of Slithers. As the piquant Miss Gibbs Miss Alice Pollard was the incarnation of girlish naïveté and feminine charm; Miss Marie Wilson was first-rate as the Lady Elizabeth Thanet; and the Duchess of Minster as portrayed by Miss Grace Wixon was a clever portrait of a familiar aristocratic type. The graceful pas seul of Miss Florence Phillips was enthusiastically encored; and Mr. Harold Lonsdale's careful conductorship conduced to the general success.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey-Aldred.—The Love that Women Desire was acted here on Monday, under the direction of Mr. Ernest E. Norris's company, and proved exactly to the taste of the drama-loving of the Royal habitués. Leading characters were carefully played by Miss Hastings Walton, Miss Ada Tilley, Miss Laura Hope, Miss Georgette Thierry, Miss Una Rule, Mr. Royce Milton, Mr. Tom Kelly, Mr. Edward Beddy, and Mr. Ernest E. Norris. The play was most effectively mounted.

Alexandra Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—The King's Romance, a romantic play, full of interest, colour, and movement, was received with loud applause here on Monday. The members of Miss Mary Austin's company all acted with convincing earnestness. Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds made a typical hero of romance as the brilliant young King of Venantia, and he had a worthy consort in Miss Mary Austen, whose beauty and grace made her Vera Nevazzie a charming and sympathetic impersonation. Mr. George E. Porteous was a bold and picturesque Michael Vocurat; Miss Ethel Vinroy as Lizette was full of vivacity; and well-played characters were Mr. Henry Earlesmere's Baron Cavonia, Mr. W. Manning's Count Bavanta, Mr. Ernest Edward's Bartoi, Mr. G. L. Hasting's Curé, Miss Belle Power's Mme. Pomeroy, Mr. Geo. Tott's Pomeroy, and Mr. Frank Eastley's Gerantaigne.

Empire Palace.—The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar. — Mr. Fred Karno's new comic skit Jimmy the Fearless; or, The Penny Dreadful Hero's Dream, was presented on Monday, and the comical incidents burlesquing the Dick Darcall type caused roars of laughter. Some good scenery was provided, including a realistic mountain set. La Freya's graceful figure was displayed artistically in several classical poses; Mr. Ernie Mayne made the welkin ring with laughter and applause; the talented and amusing American frivolists, Miss Marie Stoddart and Mr. Grant Gardner, made a great hit; Miss Lottie Govell danced in a smart manner; the Kratons did a clever hoop act; and others engaged are Knowles and Barrett, Vanando, a humorous ventriloquist, &c. Good pictures of the Royal Proclamation and scenes in London proved full of topical interest.

The Hippodrome. — The Barrasford Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—Mr. R. A. Roberts is appearing to large houses in his thrilling and Stevensonesque protean melodrama, Cruel Coppinger. Acting and scenery are alike artistic. Yetta is a graceful and expert wire performer; Belrose and De Vellin are good duettists; the Sisters Brenton are popular in song and dance; and Mr. Fred Land, comic vocalist, Miss Bessie Heins, serio-comic vocalist, the great Teu-Ka Troupe of Japanese illusionists cause general wonderment, and Mr. Rearoff's well-trained horse is heartily applauded. Local and London scenes during the Proclamation are received with sympathetic cheers.

SMETHWICK. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Was She to Blame? this well-written drama from the skilled hand of Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, is drawing excellent audiences to the above house. The authoress, as Mrs. Kate Roselle, fully realises the opportunities of the part; Mr. Roland Henry, as William Clark, keeps the interest well sustained; Miss Ellen Beverley treats the part of Mary Norman in an effective manner; Miss Nancy Roberts is good as the heroine; Miss Florence Steyne is responsible for a capital bit of characterisation; Mr. George Keens is a manly Captain George Courteney; Mr. Henry Rutland, an excellent clergyman; Mr. Clavering Craig as Frank Roselle, alias Franklyn Harcourt, is all that a stage villain should be; and much amusement is caused by Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., as Timothy Swales, and Miss Nita Owen as Sarah Swales.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. — Empire Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—The Arcadians is being played here by a powerful company, including Mr. Chas. A. Stephenson, who, in the dual rôle of James Smith and Simplicitas, proves himself an accomplished comedian; Mr. Alfred Beers as Peter Doodey, the jockey, creates roars of laughter; Miss Gertrude Aylward as Mrs. Smith impersonates a difficult character perfectly; and the remaining characters are well sustained.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Southend Hippodrome, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis de Burgh.—An excellent all-round company includes Joe Elvin and company, in a comedy sketch The Rocket; Victor Courtneidge, light comedian; Ada Martine, comedienne; the Cromwells, jugglers; Joe Belmont, comedian; Chas. Bankes, humorist; and Rosie Lloyd, comedienne.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Conlson.—Messrs. O. Silverston and H. Wright's company is here in The Nihilist. Mr. Geo. Mitchell makes an heroic Ivan; the part of Prince Alexander is invested with the necessary amount of villainy by Mr. O. Silverstone; Mr. J. Brunelle Harvey is good as Father Gourko; and the same may be said of Mr. C. Newton Buckland as Pierttree Petoff and Mr. Cowell Clark as Karl Orloff. Miss Florry Kelsey submits an excellent portrayal of Princess Olga; Miss Edna Clare is good as Alexina Orloff; and Little Alexina is ably depicted by little Minnie Halstan. The comedy is ably supplied by Mr. Henry Wright as Bobbie Smart and Mrs. O. Silverstone as Katrina Zindoff.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, The South Shields Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—Harry Roxbury and company in a musical absurdity On the Track have an excellent reception; the Bros. Bright, athletes, do some wonderful hand-balancing, &c.; Spry and Monti in The Song Writer and Soubrette are very amusing and deservedly applauded; Waul Langtry, dialect comedian, is popular; Les Tripellos submit a clever musical act, introducing little Ralph Goodliffe, Signor Trepello, saxophone soloist, and Miss Elsie Clair, 'cello soloist; and the programme also includes Carl and Carr in an interlude My Long-lost Brother, Fred Lincoln, comic, and the Bioscope.

SPENNYMOOR.—Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Miss Olga Andre and her company give a good representation of The Great Awakening. Mr. Tom Arkinstall undertakes the part of Guy Logan ably; and in that of the hero Mr. Wood is seen to advantage. Mr. Arthur Wimpenny as James Selby performs well; and Mr. Charles H. Mortimer is very good as Captain Harry Lambart. The success of the piece is the powerful work of Miss Olga Andre, an actress of a high order, as Lola Selby. Miss Florence Zillwood gives a careful study of the rôle of Molly Merton; and Miss Hetty Farrell as Selina Worte creates much amusement.

Picture Palace.—Manager, Mr. Arthur Sleep.—W. Adams heads the bill here, and comes in for much favour by his songs and patter; the pictures, by the A.B. Company, are interesting.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company pay a return visit this week with The Village Blacksmith. Mr. Sam Livesey is an ideal Blacksmith, and the impersonation at his hands gains strength and realism; Captain Leo is excellently portrayed by Mr. Joseph Carter; while Lucas Marler is in the capable rendering of Mr. Edwin Maydew. Mr. Fred Hanning is greatly applauded as Billy Twigg; and admirable character sketches are given by Mr. Thomas E. Marshall as Jeremiah Parkins and Mrs. F. C. Livesey as Sal. Miss Cissie Le Grande is very good as Ruth Parkins. Miss Maggie Edwards's sympathetic acting as Kate Strong gains her much appreciation.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—Albert and Edmunds' company is exceedingly amusing in the big production, The Tower of London; Marie Braymen has a rousing reception; and the same may be said of Osborne and Brooks. Marguerite Ismay and her Girls are pretty and dainty singers and dancers; McBride and Logie are clever acrobats; and Maxey and Pete do some smart cycle tricks. Dolly Ross sings well; and Flake White's cartoons are good. Cliff Dixo provided a capital turn.

STOCKPORT. — Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Another Man's Wife, a domestic drama of much interest and capably presented by Mr. Fred Granville's company has been an excellent attraction here. Mr. Alfred D. Adams gives an impressive impersonation of Carlos De Vorgas; Mr. Stephen B. Scanlan's acting is powerful as Paul Bornstaff; Gilbert Eardley is admirably portrayed by Mr. Geoffrey Sutherland; and Mr. Leonard Marshall amusingly fills the part of Andy Brommer. Miss Ruby Loucraine acts with deep pathos and feeling as Lucie De Vorgas; thoroughly capable is Miss Lillian Radbourne as Inez De Castro; whilst Maisie Matterson has a pleasing representative in Miss Lily Griffin.

Empire.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Mr. Herbert E. Terry and company in a Canadian sketch, entitled Wanted, are the chief attractions here this week, and have interested large audiences; Barnard's Mannikins, in The Coon Revelry, are genuinely entertaining; Phono is a clever and amusing mimic; Walter Barrett, baritone, sings ably; Ella Olga, in songs at the piano, is a pleasing vocalist; Maie Rello sings and dances delightfully; and Fred Shephard, comedy vocalist, is received with much favour.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES. — Grand Theatre. — Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The Midnight Mail is here. Mr. John F. Traynor is capital as Harry Steyne; Miss Trissie Humphreys is an admirable Mary Steyne; and others deserving of mention are Mr. F. S. Strickland, Mr. H. W. Hatchman, Miss Mildred Carr, and Miss Jeannie Weston.

Castle Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Mr. Tom Watt presents his company in the popular play East Lynne here. Miss Laura Hansen does well in the part of Lady Isabel; Miss Ida Heron plays Barbara Hare with ability; Mr. Rayson-Cousens is responsible for a good portrayal of Archibald Carlyle; and Mr. Joe Rowland is a popular P.C. Bullock.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—The Columbia Comedy Trio head the bill here in a musical absurdity; the Gordonetts are clever trapeze performers; Elroy, the Armless Wonder, does remarkable things with his feet; Steve Bartle is good as a concertina soloist; Elise Malpass is a clever child mimic and dancer; Alf. Chester presents a clever comedy act; Harold Heath is a popular coon singer and dancer; and De Lilo and Metz are marvellous contortionists and jugglers.

SUNDERLAND.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey's company is here this week in Rollicking Rory. Mr. Chalmers Mackey in the title-rôle gives an excellent Irish character study. Mr. Chalmers Mackey does meritorious work as Mrs. Ashleigh, as also does Miss Connie Meadows as Rosie Callagan. Miss Kathleen Emmett and Miss Jeanette Lyons do well as Peggy O'Moore and Widow O'Donohoe. Mr. Edward Warden in the rôle of Stephen Darcy proves himself a capable exponent of villainy; and Mr. Charles M. Julian is capital in the part of Capt. Ashleigh. The efforts of Messrs. Lawrence Sullivan (Shaun Brady) and Claude Seaton (Sergeant Gallagan) receive high appreciation.

Avenue Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—A good and varied programme is being submitted here. Young Ashcroft, comedian and dancer, is having an encouraging reception; the Maynards, comedy duo, are also entertaining with their song and patter; Pattie Burton is a vocalist of a high order; and two good films are Saved from the Tide and The Leper.

Empire Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Heading a good programme this week is Chanti, the quick-change artist. Wish Wynne, versatile comedienne, created a furore with her captivating manner, and was compelled to respond to two encores; the Jackley Trio of acrobats were also given an enthusiastic reception; Wood, Wells, and Wilkin rendered some ballads in fine style; Graham and Barron, comedians and simultaneous dancers, were warmly applauded for their clever exhibition; Drum and Major were highly entertaining in their comedy scena The Broker's Man; the Two St. Johns, comedians, contributed some clever and original dancing; and Alec and Fred Gratton and Kathleen Delaine were highly successful in their musical comedy item.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, Hamilton's Picture and Variety Co.—Large audiences are being attracted by a well-diversified programme here this week. Sahib Gustaf Fasols, the Indian Fakir, causes great consternation with his weird performance, and is having a warm welcome. Madame Holt's Juvenile Follies are also creating a sensation.

SWINDON.—Empire Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Large audiences greet Mr. George Edwardes' company in The Merry Widow.—The title-rôle is charmingly occupied by Miss Mary Ridley, her singing and dancing being delightful. Mr. Robert Needham is highly successful as Prince Danilo; Mr. H. Sinclair Cotter keeps the house amused as Baron Popoff; Jolidon is finely rendered by Mr. Ronald Pomeroy; Mr. Harry Emeric makes a capital Nisch, and, with Miss Neste Laurel as Frou-Frou, is conspicuous for excellent dancing; Mr. Cecil Warwick does remarkably well as General Novakovitch; and Natalie is pleasingly portrayed by Miss Mabel Hope.

County Electric Pavilion. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur E. Melborne.—The films this week include The Empty Cradle, The Man, A Race for a Bride, Field-Marshal Villars, and Grahame-White's Flight to Manchester.

TODMORDEN.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst.—Mr. Carr Loates's company in At the World's Mercy opened on Monday to a good house. Mr. Fred Muntz bears himself bravely as Captain Frank Manly; Mr. Carr Loates and Mr. F. W. Graham handle the parts of the villainous Jabez Barber and Morriss Goldstein realistically. Charley Smart is effectively played by Mr. Will H. Irving; Miss Cissie Milford capably undertakes the double rôle of Skittles and Kitty Knott; Miss Maggie Hobart's rendition of Alice Lloyd is marked by much grace; and as Dot Miss Livander Jackaway is very good.

Olympia Picture Palace.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Chas. Tyers.—A good programme is being appreciated by big houses. The film most appreciated is a very clear one, showing the Cup Final, Everton v. Barnsley. Other good pictures are the Cloister's Touch and In the Nick of Time. Mr. F. Gilmartin sings illustrated songs successfully.

TON-Y-PANDY. — Royal. — General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—Mr. Junius Booth and company are here. In the first half of the week Way Out West was presented. Mr. J. Booth was eminently praiseworthy as Jack Hamlin; as Col. Starbottle Mr. C. Delavanti was well placed; and Mr. Norman Radford did well as Judge Alpheus. The part of Pequita was in the safe hands of Miss Lilian Deere; Miss A. West was good as Helen Masterton; and Miss Lela Scarlett scored as Arethusa Byers. For the second half Monte Cristo was staged.

Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Will Stone.—Wisper heads a good programme here in great style; Hunter and Moris also do very well; the Heriot Trio are commendable; Beattie Bloom is a sparkling comedienne; and Baby Watkins also does well. The leading films are The Indian and The Engineer's Daughter.

Empire.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter Wright.—Peter Gotz is proving a great draw here; Irve Hayman and company are good in a sketch Christmas Eve; Miss Rayford is a clever dancer; Linn and Darius score heavily, as also do the Four Panamas; and Ernest Tilbury also achieves success.

TORQUAY.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Mr. Edward Ranier's company in A Son's Devotion is occupying the boards here this week. Mr. W. O. Rossiter does very well as Sir John Wilton; Mr. Edward Ranier capably sustains the rôle of Eric Farnham; Mr. Edmond Sydney is seen to advantage as Capt. Rutland; the part of Sergt. O'Mailly is made very amusing by Mr. George Turner; and Miss Phyllis Hume looks well as Drummer Knight. Miss Maud Haywood makes a pathetic Mrs. Farnham; and Miss Gertrude Harrison acts with power as Esther Farnham. The Bank Robbery is played as a curtain-raiser.

WAKEFIELD. — Opera House. — Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr. James E. Lewis's company is appearing here in the musical play The Welsh Maid. Mr. Victor Cannon gives an excellent delineation as Carodori Howell; Mr. Laurie H. Stuart distinguishes himself as Jack Francis; Mr. Herbert de Ville ably portrays the villainies of James Seymour; Mr. William Penn is responsible for much humour as Dafyd Thomas; Miss Zeta Murdoch as Jenny Jones acts with delightful sweetness and sings admirably; Miss Madge Raymond as Sally Davis does well; Miss Theresa Spencer is a clever Mrs. Jones; and Miss Josephine Allbutt, vocalist, and the Celtic Troupe, are smart dancers.

New Empire.—Porprietors, Sherwood and Co.; Manager, Mr. S. H. Laycock.—Miss Minnie Kaufmann scores a big success with her clever trick cycling act; Chinko delights with fine juggling; R. Beauchamp, comedian, creates plenty of merriment with patter and songs; Leo Fields is a versatile comedian; W. H. Downs, coloured vocalist, has a good reception; Roxborough and Bright, comedy duo, provide a most acceptable vocal and dancing act; and Jack and Willie, coloured equilibrists, perform clever feats.

Hippodrome.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Dr. Walford Bodie and company are drawing packed houses on a first visit. Dr. Bodie's electrical demonstrations and hypnotic performance met with great approbation; Bella Skene is a dashing comedienne; Billy Walters provides a capital ventriloquial act; Mr. G. W. Walker, Scottish vocalist, sings well; and La Belle Electra, the electric marvel; Dolly Dobson, vocalist and dancer; Tom Gold, comedian; Jack Diamond, trick dancer; and W. H. Williams, eccentric comedian, ably contribute.

WARRINGTON. — Royal Court.—Proprietor, Mr. Joseph Beecham; General-Manager, Mr. A. M. Loader.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is here in a popular version of East Lynne. Miss Muriel Marsden supplies a careful interpretation of Lady Isabel; Miss Dorothy Clifton is a charming Barbara; and restrained humour marks Miss Mary Hardacre's portrayal of Cornelia Carlyle. Miss Doris Zola is well placed as Little Willie; Mr. Leonard Yorke as Archibald Carlyle is excellent; and all the remorseless nature of Francis Levison is well developed by Mr. F. Finch Smiles. Mr. Charles E. Dering is a dignified Lord Mountsevern; and Mr. Thomas Barry as Justice Hare and Mr. John Blake as Richard Hare do good work. The staging is effective.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—The Olympian Team of cyclists are here, and their football match is quite a novel turn. The competition promoted for local aspirants of the wheel is very amusing. Arnold Richardson and company score in the sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-Law; Will Douglas's troupe of Jolly Bakers are capital in the risley act The Bakers' Beano; Eddie Stidder and Gwen. Dunbar are smart entertainers; Colin Mail is a smart comedian; Eva Compton wins favour with good songs; and Mildred Bryan delights all with her vocalisation. The pictures are good.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, The Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Manager, Mr. J. Waters.—J. H. Darley and company, including the smart juvenile Wee Monty Moore, have a capital sketch, the last-named being a rare comedian; W. H. Deacon's illustrated songs are much enjoyed; Blair and Albu are rare comedians and dancers; Mostol plays several instruments in good style; and Miss Vera Clifford renders several ballads in pleasing style. The pictures are much enjoyed.

WEST BROMWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. R. Nightingale; Lessee, Mr. Montague Beaudyn.—An interesting domestic drama is being presented by Mr. Beaudyn this week in The Dear Homeland, by David Muskerry, in which Miss Irene Munroe appears with much success as Judith Tremaine. Miss Phyllis Rae has a dual rôle, which she well fills; and Miss Maude Hastings is very capable as Doreen Trevelyn, Mr. Chas. D. Pitt having a part well suited to him as Roy Trevelyn, and Mr. Arthur Britton as Duncan Tremaine being also distinctly good.

New Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Colin, sen.; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ted Leamar.—Ted E. Nolan is a clever and amusing comedian, with some capital songs; Ivy Francis is a remarkable child vocalist and dancer who should go a long way; Wat Tyler is a character vocalist whose efforts meet with much success; and Hart and Ashby, smart comedians and dancers, and Flo Hilton, a male impersonator of more than usual ability, filling a bill which also includes pictures.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Grand.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fred Granville.—A treat that is being well appreciated is the engagement this week of Mr. Ian Robertson and his company in The Passing of the Third Floor Back, in which Mr. Ian Robertson undertakes the rôle of the wanderer. As 'Stasia, the slavey, Miss Parsons submits some capital character work; Miss Thomas as Mrs. Sharp and Miss Wills as Miss Kite are excellent; and a decided success is achieved by Miss Everest as Vivian. Mr. Woodall-Birdo is impressive in the character of Christopher Penny. The piece is preceded by a cleverly-written playlet, entitled Come Here.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. F. Thompson.—Sympathy for the dead King Edward VII. was shown by closing this place on Saturday and loyalty to the new King George V. by beginning each performance on Monday with the National Anthem. The programme for the week is one of all-round excellence. Anna Chandler, an American comedienne, finds many admirers; the dramatic episode Wrong 'Uns is well played by James Hare and company; Gladys Hooley captivates all with her violin solos; The Golfer and the Caddy is the title of an original and amusing act by Victor and Louis; May Mars in her vivacious style enjoys popularity; and J. A. Wilson and his dog Towser and Pat Rafferty are also in the bill.

Palace.—Manager, Mr. W. Ball; Lecturer, Mr. V. Verney.—Black's Pictures continue to be especially good. Variety is added to the programme by George Bernard, actor-vocalist, and Bell and Dryden, whose funny business keeps the audience thoroughly amused.

WHITEHAVEN.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—Mr. Arthur Lee-Mitchell's company is appearing here in the drama In the Shadow of Night. Mr. Forbes Carrington is good as John Allington; and Mr. L. Williams is well cast as his son Gordon. Mr. H. Emmerson makes a typical farmer of James Woodstock; and a good character sketch is that of Mr. W. Hayward as Grudgewell, a poacher. Miss Irene Arundel is a pleasing Violet Kingston; and Miss Kitty Roze is well suited to the part of Mollie Woodstock.

WIGAN.—Royal Court Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—His Real Wife is being presented here by Mr. T. Edward Ward's company. The character of Rose Avondale is extremely well portrayed by Miss Ward; Miss Cissie Gandell causes endless laughter as Betty Tuttlebee; and is ably assisted by Mr. T. Edward Ward as Simon Bletherall. Mr. Clifford Rean deserves special mention for his impersonation of Herbert Barton; Randal Meredith is in the capable hands of Mr. Bernard Elliott; and Mr. C. W. Spencer as General Barton sustains the part with considerable success.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Herbert Darnley and company cause much hilarity in the sketch John Jay Jun.; The Brigands of Tarragona is also an amusing production; the tricks of Li Chang Hi, the Chinese magician, are particularly interesting; Peter Rhodes, the singing collier, has a rousing reception; Barney Armstrong, assisted by Kelly, score with their droll songs and sayings; Lily Tottles sings and dances herself into favour; J. D. Maclaine and Jessie Mac sing well together; and others who contribute are Jack Russell, entertainer; and Milton and Horton, who are skilful horizontal bar performers.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Edwin Leslie; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Bell.—Mr. J. W. Cordiner's company is paying a return visit with that hardy perennial Dare-Devil Dorothy, which has lost none of its old attractiveness. Mr. George Fox essays the part of the hero, Captain George Fielding, and his soliderly bearing, combined with a capital baritone voice, make him very popular; Mr. Robert Gilbert, as Captain Edward Dudley, is a really good villain, being careful to avoid too boisterous declamation; the little Mr. Edward Aldworth has to do as Hawkins is done remarkably well; Mr. Deane Cliffe, as Featherstone Haugh, and Mr. H. Troutbeck as Smith cause amusement; Mr. James Salter as Silas Crump and Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith contribute in no small degree to the general success; Miss Kathleen Stewart is effective as Ruth Montrose; whilst Miss Gertrude de Lacy, in the title-part is all that could be desired. Clever dances are introduced by the Misses Lillie and Iris Elviedo, and the augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Harry Richardson.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—The farcical absurdity Something for Nothing is proving a big attraction. Most of its success is due to Mr. Fred Conquest's inimitable character study as the moneylender Grabbit, but he has the advantage of being supported by an excellent company. Jack Sheridan is irresistibly funny; Regan and Ryan prove very popular as comedians, patterers, and dancers; Johnson and De Vere, trick cyclists, provide a novel and clever turn; Ian Colquhoun, baritone, wins applause for his ballad singing; Daisy Morrell scores heavily in coon songs; and a clever and artistic gymnastic act is provided by the Three Borella Brothers.

Picture Palace.—Proprietors, The London and Provincial Electric Theatres; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hickman.—Intense interest is taken in the films shown depicting the Proclamation of King George V., which are witnessed by large audiences. The other pictures are quite up to the usual high standard of excellence.

WORCESTER. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Evans.—A return visit of The Merry Widow is drawing crowded houses. Mr. Geo. Edwardes' company is a most capable one, and the farcical comedy is superbly dressed and staged. Miss Phyllis Le Grand is captivating in the title-rôle; and Mr. Fred Leslie is a delightfully breezy Prince. They are equally good as vocalists and dancers. Miss Ada Thomas is a fascinating Natalie; and Mr. Ripley Evans is well suited as Jolidon. Mr. Edward D'Arcy as Baron Popoff and Mr. Clifford Leyler as Novokovitch are highly amusing; and Mr. Fred Fowler contributes his full share of the fun as Nisch. He and Miss Katie May as Frou-Frou contribute some excellent dances. Mr. Adrian Beaumont is a comical waiter. There is a numerous and well-balanced chorus and an augmented orchestra.

WORTHING. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold.—Monday evening saw Don staged here for the first time, and the clever comedy was exceptionally well received by an audience of fairly good dimensions. It was presented by one of the companies controlled by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison, the former successfully portraying the part of Mrs. Bonnington. Mr. Gordon Bailey was in excellent humour as Stephen Bonnington; and Mr. Charles Harley gave an excellent character study of Albert Thompsett. An admirable delineation of the part of General Sinclair was given by Mr. Charles Tyrel; whilst the kindly Canon found an excellent exponent in Mr. Arthur Willoughby. The rôles of Mrs. Sinclair and her daughter Ann were in the capable hands of Miss Ethel Royale and Miss Viola Garland respectively; and Miss Violet Harley in a sympathetic manner played the part of Eliza Thompsett. The cast was completed by Miss Dorothy Gordon. A most entertaining curtain-raiser, entitled Her Dearest Friend, preceded the comedy. The Catch of the Season came on Thursday.

WREXHAM.—Empire Music Hall.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. J. Scott.—The great attraction here is supplied by the Leopold Zeglers, who as acrobats and sensational somersault throwers are of wide renown; another turn which commands the favourable attention and applause of the audiences is supplied by Fredrico and Edgaro, clever comedy knockabouts and hand-balancers. The pictures include A Mother's Fault, The Merry Widow, and Uncle's Legacy. Mlle. Nanoni, soprano vocalist, is a pleasing addition to the programme.

YNYSHIR.—Workmen's Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Some comical pictures are given here; and Miss May McPherson, as usual, delights with illustrated songs. The accompanist is Mr. Frank Kingsley.

YORK.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, May 8, the Play, entitled
"THE SILVER KING."

That a drama, after constant touring for over a quarter of a century, should still have power to attract large audiences, points conclusively to the greatness of Messrs. Henry Arthur Jones and Henry Herman's human and interesting play. To see the crowded house on Monday evening at the King's listening spellbound to all the clever lines, and attentively watching the cleverly constructed situations, was well worth a visit. Every familiar line told and every incident was warmly applauded. Deserving tribute must be paid to the capability of Messrs. Polini and Melford's company. Mr. Fred D. Daviss succeeds to the part of Wilfred Denver, and proves a worthy exponent, his acting being quite equal to the calls made upon him. Mr. Edward J. George's rendering of Daniel Jaikes needs no recommendation; it remains, as it has always been, a perfect piece of acting. As Captain Herbert Skinner ("Spider") Mr. A. H. Rooke gives a splendid representation of the cool, gentlemanly villain; Mr. Ralf Leon is a smart Henry Corket; and Elijah Coombe is amusingly played by Mr. Arthur Wright. Cripps finds an adequate performer in Mr. Fred May; and Mr. W. Leslie Ellis is sufficiently painstaking as Geoffrey Ware. Mr. A. Hornby Warburton is the sharp and incisive Samuel Baxter, detective; and Frank Selwyn is deftly played by Mr. Charles Birch. Mr. Percy Store's presentation of Mr. Parkyn is distinctly humorous; and Mr. John Randall raises laughter as Gaffer Pottle. Tubbs is well portrayed by Mr. Leslie Parker; and Mr. Charles Grant's deep voice amply serves for the Railway Inspector. Cissie and Ned Denver are cleverly impersonated by Miss Hilda Bateman and Master Eric Dene. Most sympathetic, and displaying much artistic ability, Miss Mildred Surrey wins approbation in the part of Nellie Denver; Miss Mary Glanbrank is successful as Olive Skinner; and Miss Mabel Gardiner causes smiles as Mrs. Gamage. Tabitha Durden is well characterised by Miss Augusta Harriss; and Miss Margaret Rooke makes a pretty waitress, Susie. The scenery is quite adequate.

THE MARLBOROUGH.
On Monday, May 9, the Comedy entitled
"A MESSAGE FROM MARS."

Large audiences have witnessed the performances of A Message from Mars here this week, and the play, with its novel surroundings, although seen here on several occasions previously, has again been extolled and voted most interesting. The outstanding and commanding character in the play is, of course, that of Horace Parker, and Mr. F. Vernon Travers, an actor of power and merited popularity, has every opportunity of displaying his abilities, and his success is most emphatic. Mr. William H. Brougham presents with fine effect the Messenger from Mars and Mr. Norman Clark submits a really fine impersonation of the Tramp. Mr. Cecil Kerr distinguishes himself as Arthur Dicey, and Mr. Percy Tyler (Dr. Chapman), Mr. Eustace French (Sir E. Vivian), Mr. Howard Leslie (Mr. Fergusson), and Mr. Danelle Greene (Policeman) also deserve mention for their valuable services. Miss Rose Helene is a fascinating Minnie Templar, and her artistic portrayal, although she was obviously suffering with a bad cold, compelled great admiration. There was real earnestness in Miss Aubrey Ashton's acting as Miss Parker, and Miss Mary Buckstone displayed finished acting as Mrs. Clarence. Miss Ray Denton as Bella merits praise, and the numerous other parts are in fairly satisfactory hands. Nothing but praise can be written with regard to the stage-management of Mr. Percy Tyler, assisted by Mr. Howard Leslie, the mounting of the piece, which is somewhat elaborate in its proportions, being carried out with masterful effectiveness.

THE CORONET.
On Wednesday, May 11, the Drama, entitled
"THE WOMAN IN THE CASE."

Owing to the lamentable loss suffered by the nation in the death of King Edward VII. this theatre was closed till Wednesday, when it reopened with Mr. Herbert Sleath's clever West End company in Clyde Fitch's play The Woman in the Case, with practically the same cast as at the Garrick and New Theatres during its successful London season last year. As "the woman who did," Claire Foster, Miss Violet Vanbrugh supplies an alternately terrible, sordid, and pitiful picture of the degraded and revengeful courtesan. Miss Vanbrugh has lost none of her power and personality, and presents a most thrilling embodiment of consistent wickedness. Miss Ellis Jeffreys as Margaret Rolfe supplies the foil to the adventuress, and by her sweetness and sympathy endears herself to the audience. The part of Julian is played with admirable restraint and much nervous force by Mr. Herbert Sleath. The part of the solicitor Thompson is rendered with admirable feeling and delicacy by Mr. William F. Grant. Mr. Fred Benton as Louis Klaufferty still continues to provoke amusement by his loudly-advertised desire for someone to "put him amongst the girls," and brings out forcibly all the vulgar characteristics of the part. Mr. William Kershaw as Jimmy O'Neil brings the part into pleasant prominence. Miss Mary Griffiths as Mrs. Hughes and Misses Gwendolin Wren, Eileen Orby, and Cicely Gray are all well in the picture.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.
On Monday, May 9, the Farcical Play, by F. Anstey, entitled
"THE BRASS BOTTLE."

Intense amusement and hearty laughter have ruled throughout the week at the Kennington Theatre, where the long run of Mr. F. Anstey's farcical play, The Brass Bottle, which commenced at the Vaudeville, has been in a manner continued. The original company and production have been transferred by arrangement with Mr. Gaston Mayer, and the result has been that those who were unable to see the play in the Strand have had it brought nearer to their doors. Although The Brass Bottle relies considerably upon highly ingenious mechanical effects—which were worked at the Kennington with as much success as if they had been in progress there for months—it is undoubtedly one of the best farces that has seen the limelight for many years. And it is played by the present company in exactly the right spirit, one that allows no slackening, but rushes through at break-neck speed, as should always be done with a farce. Chief honours are taken by Mr. Lawrence Grossmith as the volatile, rattling, architect, who releases the Djinn from the receptacle in which he has been confined for countless centuries. Mr. Grossmith, by his clever acting, would sufficiently indicate the family to which he belongs if he went under another name. Mr. Holman Clark's Djinn is another excellent piece of characterisation, and he almost makes one believe in the existence of this venerable person. The Spencer Pringle of Mr. Rudge Harding is exactly on the author's lines, and he showed with much skill the discomfiture of this priggish person in the last act, when all but he and the architect have, by the Djinn's magic, forgotten the wonderful events that followed the opening of the brass bottle. The Professor, who is turned into a one-eyed mule, and his wife were admirably portrayed by Mr. Percy Marshall and Miss Lena Halliday, while their daughter had an able and charming representative in Miss Viva Birkett. Miss Mary Brough has repeated her very humorous performance of the landlady, whose tippling husband was cleverly played by Mr. Harry Norton. Mr. Luigi Lablache as Samuel Wackerbath was very funny when commanded by the Djinn to crawl on "all fours." Another good word must be given for the clever manner in which the various scenic and other changes were managed; some, indeed, reminded one of Mr. Maskelyne's entertainment, so cleverly were they worked.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.
On Monday, May 9, the Drama, entitled
"THE COAL KING."

In spite of the general depression occasioned by the national mourning, there was a good house assembled to witness the performance by Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's company of that well-known drama The Coal King, which presents so vivid a picture of life in the great Lancashire coalfield. The scenes depicting the mine are well done, that showing it after the explosion being most impressive. As the Coal King Sir Reginald Hartford, Mr. A. W. Norman is a distinct success, imparting the necessary touches of dignity and kindness to the part; Mr. Henry Deane makes a handsome and manly hero as the mine manager Tom Roberts, the idol of his men; Mr. Robert Funkner is powerful as the despicable villain Walter Hartford; Mr. Sam Roberts, a humorist, keeps the house in a constant roar in his impersonation of the would-be P.C. Jim Williams. He receives excellent support from Miss Effie D. Crawford, who plays well as Araminta Green, the saucy parlourmaid; Mr. Frank Dalton makes a good study of the part of the sub-manager, Dick Shirley; Miss Winifred Love is a pretty and engaging heroine; and Miss Dennis Duncan does well in the character of Mad Ann.

FULHAM THEATRE.
On Monday, May 9, the Play, in Four Acts, by Justin Huntly McCarthy, entitled,
"THE PROUD PRINCE."

Those who like romantic plays, with a dash of love and fighting, did well to visit Fulham and see The Proud Prince. There is an excellent company, under the stage-direction of Mr. Ernest Carpenter, who did ample justice to that romantic play. Mr. E. Vassall Vaughan takes the title-rôle, the proud Robert of Sicily. Mr. Vaughan made such a handsome and princely figure as the king that one grudged the time during which he had to appear as the Fool. Nor is that all, for he is a fine actor, and scored a distinct success. Mr. Clifton Boyne also was a smart and dashing representative of Hildebrand; Mr. Ernest Douglas was most impressive as the Archangel, and delivered his fine speeches under the limelight with great effect; Mr. Terence O'Brien played Théron with a quiet dignity and tenderness quite in keeping with the part; Mr. Frank Ward's impersonation of the fool Diogenes was powerful and full of passion; and Mr. E. Stidwell was good as the priest Hieronymus. Mr. R. Leigh Ellis was a noble figure as Sigurd; and Mr. Charles Boult was a properly-dignified Archbishop. The fair Perpetua was admirably played by Miss Eileen Kerin, a clever young actress, who will make her mark; Miss Vashti Wynne was a most captivating and seductive Lysabetta, and could hardly be bettered in that exacting rôle. The dresses were unusually fine, and the scenery was excellent, particularly the first set. Mr. George Martin acts as stage-manager, and Mr. Arthur Roby presided over the music.

DALSTON THEATRE.
On Monday, May 9, the Play, by Charles Darrell, entitled,
"WHAT A MAN MADE HER."

Miss Renee Glendower and company have been presenting this week, at the Dalston Theatre, the society play, What a Man Made Her, which is remarkably well acted. The business and stage-manager is Mr. J. D. Lindsay-Ellis, who also enacts the part of Lord Taporley. The hero, Dr. Mark Haven, represented by Mr. J. M. Olivert, has a rough time of it in the course of the story, but he comes out remarkably well as an actor; Mr. George Arthur as Rupert Wogan Danescombe, sixteenth Earl of Saxon Royal, is a representative heavy villain; Mr. Martin Alwyne is effective as Sir Ernest Cavendish; the audience is supplied with a full share of fun by Mr. Fred Acton in the character of Lewis Emmanuel Gunnerstein, a rich moneylender, who is an excellent type of humorous Jew; Gunnerstein's daughter Deborah, as played by Miss Tessa Myers, becomes a decidedly interesting character. Society women are represented by Miss F. Russell Spiers as the Dowager Countess of Saxon Royal and by Miss Stella Carmichael as Lady Thora Danescombe, her daughter. Others in the cast include Mr. Carl Bailey, Miss V. Thomas, and Miss K. Murgatroyd, while Miss Renee Glendower herself undertakes the somewhat trying part of Janet McAllister, an artist's model, whose love of gambling leads her into serious difficulty, but at the same time renders her a decidedly interesting and sympathetic character so far as the story is concerned.

THE BRIXTON.
On Monday, May 9, the Drama, entitled
"PETE."

The announcement of the performance of this highly successful drama drew a large house on Monday evening, and good audiences have been present throughout the week. Messrs. Smith and Carpenter's company gave a spirited rendering, and, each part being well played by competent artists, aided by beautiful scenery and effects, local playgoers have been warm in their enthusiasm. With the play produced under the personal direction of Mr. R. H. Smith, the staging left nothing to be desired. Mr. Frederick Victor realises capitally the sturdy, manly character of Pete; and depicted with skill the love and affection for erring Kate Cregeen. In this part Miss Constance Bachner was very good; sweet and womanly throughout, she rose to fine acting in the pathetic situations of the play. Mr. Alfred Lugg proved himself a smart actor as the villain, Philip Christian; while as his relative, Ross Christian, Mr. Maurice Yorke does useful work. A noteworthy character-study is presented by Mr. Ellis J. Preston of the miserly Cæsar Cregeen; Mr. J. Lingard makes a good Black Tom; and Mr. Herbert Ponton is effective as Clerk of the Court. Mr. R. Sinclair does justice as Dr. Mylechreest; and Mr. Wilfred Edmunds likewise as the Lord-Lieutenant. Mr. Will L. Clement plays capitally the part of Jonaique Jelly. The other male parts in Messrs. Louis Parker and Hall Caine's play were most effectively sustained. Miss Alys Eden is delightful as Nancy; Miss May Wright admirable as Grannie; Miss Amy Venimore a pleasing Mary; Miss May Yardly very useful as Meg; and Miss Lucy Raymond makes a capital Anne. The Bank Holiday attraction is The Scales of Justice.

NEW LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, May 9, the Drama entitled
"THE WORLD, THE FLESH, AND THE DEVIL."

Mr. Cowen is presenting here this week the sensational play, by "Lesser Columbus," entitled The World, the Flesh, and the Devil. The fine and dramatic scenes which characterise the piece, and the good staging deserve warm praise. Mr. Henry Doughty as Nicholas Brophy is a most thorough and effective heavy lead. The part requires hard work, and is sustained throughout with ease, the interpretation attaining a high standard of excellence in the final scene where Brophy obeys the summons of his master the Devil, the appearance of the latter forming a strong stage effect. The part of Gertrude Grant is played by Miss Dora Hammersley with spirit and fire, her acting as the betrayed girl in Rupert Dyke's flat showing her aptitude to appreciate rightly the scope the scene affords for her abilities. Her performance in the scene when the discovery is made that she is the daughter of the very man who has aided in her ruin brings the house down. Mr. Will Smith is excellent in his rendering of Rupert Dyke. His make-up is perfect; he is to the life the drink-sodden, shifty, debased tool of the scoundrel, and his final revolt against the man who has murdered his wife, betrayed his daughter, and fostered his vices to serve his own ends is a climax of intense realism. A necessary and welcome touch of comedy is ably supplied by Mr. Will Harman as Mr. Johnson. He never fails to elicit a laugh from the audience, his duologue with Miss Florence Vickers as Mrs. Jenkins being an amusing exhibition of a henpecked husband and nagging wife. A pretty and spirited Beatrice Cuthbert is Miss Doris Whyte, and Mr. Eardley-Howard as Robert Hall makes the most of his part. The minor rôles are well interpreted, Miss Ethel Deane deserving praise for her impersonation of the suffragette.

BROADWAY THEATRE.
On Monday, May 9, the Musical Play, entitled
"THE GEISHA."

Mr. Fred Moulton's company is the attraction here this week with The Geisha, billed for five nights and a matinée, and The Greek Slave for Friday. The Geisha had a most cordial reception. All the well-known numbers were excellently rendered and warmly applauded. The scenery and costumes leave nothing to be desired, and the chorus is tuneful and numerous. Miss Aimée Grey is charming as O Mimosa San; Miss Renée Real is a delightful Juliette; Miss Adela Crispin as the pleasant English girl Molly Seamore exactly realises the character; Miss Mary Morrison is an ideal Lady Constance Wynn; Miss Belle Murray is very good as O Kinkoto San; and Miss Clarice Eldon is a vivacious O Hana San. Mr. Edward Carlton is a clever and amusing Wun-Hi; Mr. Lionel Braham is excellent as the Marquis Imari; Mr. Sam Lockridge is very good as Dick Cuningham; Mr. W. Johnstone Douglas is a capital Reginald Fairfax; Mr. Harry Reynolds is commendable as Takamine; and Mr. Herbert Uzulli is well cast as Captain Katana. Mr. F. Chevalier le Grand is the able musical-director.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, May 9, the Farcical Comedy entitled
"WHERE IS WILLIAM?"

That extremely amusing farcical comedy, "Where is William?" written by Mr. Charles Windermere, who essays the principal rôle, is being presented here this week. Cleverly contrived situations abound throughout the play, and roars of laughter are evoked. The cast is admirably chosen, and all working well together secure most successful results.

Mr. Charles Windermere plays the part of the retired and knighted grocer, Sir William Gregory, in extremely humorous fashion, and his witty sayings and ludicrous attitudes are the source of considerable merriment. He has a very hearty reception. Sir William's double, William Jolly, the butler, is very ably undertaken by Mr. Rule Pyott, who presents a very diverting study of the character, and scores highly. Mr. Edmund Hollick merits commendation for a good representation of Harry, and is very happily suited; General Rubub, a cantankerous old retired officer, is vigorously characterised by Mr. Leslie Norman, who is the recipient of emphatic expressions of approbation; Mr. Fred Lake supplies a fitting delineation of the burglar, Joe Budge; and the part of the policeman is capably performed by Mr. Albert Plant. Miss Belle Donaldson submits an admirable portrait of Lady Gregory; Miss Clare Manifield makes a charming and dainty Phyllis Patterson, and achieves distinction; Miss May Rosine gives a good account of herself as Emily, the cook; and Miss Zoe Davis provides much amusement as Eliza. The comedy is preceded by a comedietta entitled Clause No. 6, also written by Mr. Charles Windermere, in which Mr. Robert Urquart and Miss Clare Manifield appear as Charlie Spotter and Dorothy Meadows respectively.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.
On Monday, May 9, the Comic Opera
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

This week's attraction is that evergreen comic opera Les Cloches de Corneville, presented by Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. John Hart's company, and although, being the principal house of entertainment in the eastern suburbs, the patronage is nightly curtailed owing to the prevalent national mourning, the piece is received by those present with all its wonted cordiality. As Germaine Miss Vera Dorian sings delightfully, and acts throughout with charm and expression; Miss Gurney Delaporte is a vivacious and girlish Serpolette, and wins much favour vocally; long familiarity with the part of Gaspard in no way diminishes the merit of Mr. E. St. Alban's delineation of the old miser, which is as powerful as heretofore; Mr. Augustus Cramer is a buoyant and breezy Marquis de Corneville, and his songs go wonderfully well; as Grenicheaux Mr. Wensley Russell is in excellent voice; Mr. Mark Lester (a local pantomime favourite) makes a decided hit with his unctuously droll impersonation of the Bailie; and Mr. Alfred Selby is an alert and amusing Gobo. In less prominent rôles Miss Lucy Kipling, Miss Florence Hardy, Miss Ethel Clifford, Miss Alice Hornsby, and Miss Mabel Ross appear to advantage; and a special word of praise must be bestowed upon the very tuneful chorus.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.
On Monday, May 9, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Tom Craven, entitled
"WHEN A LASS LOVES."

There are all the essentials in When a Lass Loves for a popular drama. Mr. Reginald Stephens has a good appearance and acts convincingly as Dr. Allan Crass; as Bertram Bridge, a sneak and blackguard of the lowest type, Mr. P. Ramsay Foreman adopts a suitable cynical style, but speaks his lines without variety; Mr. Louis Palgrave is decidedly entertaining as the ubiquitous office boy Slack; and Mr. George F. Ide is also very amusing as the stage-struck solicitor's clerk Stapleton. Mr. Frank Storey plays Caleb Crass appropriately, and Mr. Harry Newman makes the most of his opportunities as Anthony Greig. Miss Josephine Middleton displays much ability as the plucky Constance Lane; Miss Rita Trekella portrays the utterly callous Cynthia Bridge with admirable restraint; and Miss Ella Dixon does well as Nina May.

Comedy and Realism.

"THERE were some amusing incidents," says the Liverpool Courier, "at an amateur performance of Othello, given recently in Liverpool. Amongst the properties provided was a tree trunk, upon which one of the actors was intended to be seated during the delivery of a soliloquy. When the actor sat down, however, he found the tree was not quite convenient, and quite oblivious of the fact that the tree was supposed to be rooted, he coolly moved it into a better position. Another actor in the same performance had to make a tragic entrance with a message. As he rushed on, however, with his 'My lord——' his flowing cloak caught in the doorway, and pulled him up sharply. He went back and released the garment, only to be twice served in the same way. The third time his ejaculation was not 'My lord,' but something not in the play. If realism were wanting in parts of the performance, however, there was too much of it in the tragic scene in which Desdemona is smothered by the Moor. The Moor did his work not wisely but too well, so well that it was necessary to apply restoratives to Desdemona. This was realism with a vengeance."

By permission of Mr. Albert Leigh, manager of the Theatre Royal, Ilkeston, the proceeds from the first performance on Monday evening at that house are to be devoted to the National Lifeboat Fund.

"THOMAS MUSKERRY."

Drama of Irish Life, in Three Acts, by Padraic Colum, Produced at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, on Thursday, May 5.

An Old Man ..... MR. J. M. KERRIGAN

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Thomas Muskerry is one of those pictures of the sorrows and vices of poor folk which appeal with poignancy to the coarse and the cultured. Thomas Muskerry is an elderly widower, the master of the Garrisowen Workhouse. Albert Crilly, his grandson, a weak-minded youth, whom Muskerry has taken temporarily into his office, finds out that Corvey, a dealer—an influential personage who is mentioned, but not seen—has delivered only fifty tons of coals out of a hundredton contract, obtaining, through the failing powers of Muskerry, a receipt for the larger amount. Should the guardians become possessed of this knowledge before Muskerry resigns, it will lead to his summary dismissal with loss of pension. Crilly's mother, Muskerry's daughter, a scheming creature, who keeps a small grocer's shop, suggests that Muskerry shall resign, take his pension before the mistake is discovered, and come to live with her. This the old man eventually agrees to do.

In the second act, Corvey, after inducing young Crilly to back a bill for £300, leaves him in the lurch, and the local bank deducts the amount due from the £400 which the Crillys have there on current account. A certain James Scollard has been appointed workhouse master in succession to Muskerry. He is about to marry Anna Crilly, whose dowry consists of £80, left her by her grandmother, but long in the possession of her father or mother. (It was with the object of her future son-in-law obtaining the mastership that Mrs. Crilly induced her father to resign.) Muskerry asks Mrs. Crilly for £50 that he may refund to the guardians the amount of the public loss through Corvey's roguery, but what with the loss over the bill and Anna's dowry, she has no money left. Muskerry leaves his daughter's house for ever, and goes to the workhouse to make confession to the guardians. In their presence, he is seized with an apoplectic fit, and is carried to the infirm ward.

Muskerry, on his recovery from his fit, wants to leave the workhouse and live alone, but this does not suit Mrs. Crilly, who is afraid of the tongues of the neighbours. She points out to Scollard that he cannot allow the old man to leave the workhouse without the doctor's authority. The wardmaster turns him out of the select room, and tells him to make his bed among the paupers in the common infirm ward; and, heartbroken and alone, old Tom Muskerry dies.

Mr. Arthur Sinclair's Thomas Muskerry was a very fine performance, full of the deepest pathos, and impressive by its simple truth and depth of feeling; Miss Sara Allgood showed subtle skill and keen intelligence in her performance as Mrs. Crilly; and Mr. Eric Gorman was excellent as the son Albert. Mr. J. M. Kerrigan as Crofton Crilly and an Old Man was both humorous and characteristic, and was always effective and original. Thomas Muskerry had an enthusiastic reception.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council meeting held on Tuesday, May 10, at 32, Regent-street. Present: Mr. Clarence Derwent in the chair, Mr. W. H. Mote, hon. solicitor, Messrs. Cyril Cattley, F. Morland, Langford Reed, F. J. Arlton, C. Hayden Coffin, F. H. De Quincey, Leonard Shepherd, Murri Moncrieff, Miss Rose Cazalet, Miss Beatrice Chester, Miss Vita Spencer, and Mr. D. Young, secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Resolutions of condolence with the King, Queen, and Queen-Mother, which were here passed, appear elsewhere.

The Secretary was instructed to thank Mr. Vedrenne for his letter, and to say that the Council will be glad to give any assistance possible to the Society of West End Theatre Managers when they take action with reference to bogus management. The Finance Committee's report was read by Mr. Arlton and adopted. Mr. Cattley suggested the enlarging of the Finance Committee, in view of the inability of so many of the members constituting that committee to attend, and the matter was referred to the Finance Committee to report on at the next meeting.

The Hon. Solicitor reported progress in two legal matters and recovery of money for a member.

The Secretary was instructed to see that a notice was placed on the board to the effect that the rooms of the Association would be closed on Whit-Monday, and also on the day of the funeral of the late King Edward VII., the 20th inst.

Mr. Arlton moved that a board, upon which members could display disengaged cards at a charge of 3d. each, should be placed in the rooms of the Association, and it was agreed that 100 cards should be printed, and a charge of 3d. per week should be made for the cards, which would be enclosed in a glass case and arranged alphabetically.

Election, Eileen Maritza Desmond; reinstatement, Charles Medwin; nominations, Blanche Ripley and Ethel Hodgkins.

"MR. H. B. IRVING'S announcement that one of his next productions at the Queen's Theatre will be Robert Macaire recalls," says the Pall Mall Mall Gazette, "the fact that this was one of the parts his father played, not only at the Lyceum, but in his earlier days at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, where he appeared as the devil-may-care rascal of the famous old play on Feb. 18, 1865. The greatest of all Robert Macaires was the French actor, Frédéric Lemaître. His performance has thus been described by that admirable critic, G. H. Lewes:—'The colossal buffoonery of the conception carried you at once into the region of hyperbole and Aristophanic fun which soared beyond the range of criticism. It disgusted and subdued you at once. In every sense of the word it was a creation. A common melodrama without novelty or point became in his hands a grandiose symbolical caricature. The costume in itself was a magnificent effrontery. It struck the keynote; and as the piece proceeded all was felt to be in harmony with that picture of ideal blackguardism. For the peculiarity of Robert Macaire is the union of a certain ideal grace and bonhomie with the most degraded ruffianism and hardness. . . . If he danced, it was not until he had first pulled on a pair of hyperbolically tattered kid gloves; and while waltzing with incomparable elegance he could not resist picking the pocket of his fair partner. . . . You laughed at his impudence; you admired his ease and readiness, and yet you would have killed him like a rat. He was jovial, graceful, false, and cruel.'"

ON Wednesday afternoon and evening, at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, the Aldbourne Village Players were presented by Mr. Charles McEvoy in The Village Wedding, a cottage drama in four acts by Mr. McEvoy. The performances were curious and entertaining, being a repetition of those which took place recently at the Aldbourne Village Theatre under Mr. McEvoy's initiative and direction.

THE STRATFORD FESTIVAL.

Lady Teazle ..... MRS. F. R. BENSON
Mrs. Candour ..... MISS ELINOR AICKEN
Maria ..... MISS NORA LANCASTER

After a fortnight of Shakespeare, with only one exception in favour of Beaumont and Fletcher, it was an agreeable change both to actors and audience to turn from battle, murder, and sudden death to the period of powder, patch, and periwig, and it gave a welcome opportunity to several of the younger members of the company to display their talents. From Mrs. Benson and Mr. H. O. Nicholson we were not disappointed in expecting very fine and finished portraits of Lady and Sir Peter Teazle; and Messrs. Murray Carrington and Eric Maxon gave us admirably contrasted studies of the brothers Surface. Mr. F. R. Benson was capital as Crabtree. Miss Nora Lancaster and Miss Aicken were alike excellent in their respective rôles; Miss Marion Foreman as Lady Sneerwell had her first real opportunity during the festival, and achieved a complete success; Mr. W. W. Caithness cleverly delineated the crawly and obsequious Snake; and Mr. Edward Harrison was a blunt and jovial Sir Oliver. Mr. Moffat Johnston's Old Rowley stood out well as a simple, good-hearted fellow in a world of "coiners of scandal and clippers of reputation"; and Mr. Harry Caine assumed in turn and without difficulty the utterly varied rôles of the elegant gallant, Sir Benjamin Backbite and Moses, the low-comedy financial agent. The play was well staged, well dressed, well acted—an almost flawless performance of a delightful and evergreen comedy.

On Friday Evening, May 6, Mr. Benson presented
"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

Portia ..... MISS ELLEN TERRY
Nerissa ..... MISS VIOLET FAREBROTHER
Jessica ..... MISS WINIFRED DURIE

Prior to the raising of the curtain the whole audience joined in singing "God Save the King." The main feature of this performance was the return of Miss Ellen Terry to her world-famed rôle of Portia. She played it with all the old grace and charm, just as no one else in the world could play it. Mr. James Carew's Shylock was an agreeable surprise, almost an innovation. The Jew, in his conception, was not an old man, not a day too old to be the father of a Jessica looking about seventeen. Mr. Carew speaks his lines in a silvery voice, musically, rapidly, volubly, nervously, just as one might hear the Hebrew-Spanish spoken in the streets of Salonica to-day. His Shylock has a distinctly Oriental appearance, and is a simple, natural, unaffected, sad, almost wistful Jew. There is nothing grotesque about his make-up. He is neither a Fagin nor a Cloches de Corneville miser. He is in the vigour of middle age. In short, Shylock, as presented by Mr. Carew, is an entirely natural and convincing picture. Mr. Otho Stuart's Bassanio was a graceful and easy performance, as was Mr. Murray Carrington's dignified Antonio. Miss Winifred Durie is by nature suited to the part of Jessica, and played it with charm and style. Equally delightful was Miss Farebrother's Nerissa; and all the other parts were in trained and capable hands. Miss Ellen Terry had a tremendous ovation at the close of the play, and was the recipient of an avalanche of floral tributes.

NEW BUILDINGS AT WHITLEY BAY.

This rising North-country seaside resort, so long without a theatre proper, is at length to be supplied with two handsome and commodious theatres, both opening to-night.

The Coliseum, situate in the Arcade, is right in the centre of the township, and is in an excellent position for the convenience of the residents. It is capable of seating 3,000 people, and thoroughly up to date in its equipment. Although no attempt has been made with any imposing façade, the main structure is substantially built of brick, with numerous entrances and emergency exits. The interior of the auditorium will accommodate: Orchestra stalls, 180; circle and side balconies, 700; and a large pit to seat about 2,000. The orchestra will provide ample room for a good dozen of musicians. The seating is principally "tip-up" chairs, handsomely upholstered. The scheme of colour-decoration pervading is pink and cream. The roof is ornamentally panelled, lofty, and well ventilated. There are also two comfortable boxes at the side of the proscenium opening, which will each seat ten persons. The stage has an opening of 30ft., with a depth of 25ft. Excellent dressing-rooms are provided for the artists, and private rooms are set apart for a resident caretaker.

There is a special operating chamber for cinematograph exhibitions, which is walled off from the auditorium, thus minimising danger from fire to the audience. The lighting is by electric chandeliers and standards, the fittings being in ornamental brass. The building has been erected and completed according to the plans approved of and passed by the local authority, and permission was given at the last local Petty Sessions for a temporary licence for music, dancing, and cinematograph, pending a later application for a full theatrical licence.

The "Spanish City," that has proved such a huge success during the past few seasons, under its new title of "The Whitley Pleasure Gardens, Ltd.," with a capital of £30,000, also will be formally opened to-day. The undertaking evidently has the approval of the local authority, as the chairman (County Alderman Robert Mason), of the Whitley and Monkseaton Urban District Council, is announced to inaugurate the proceedings, when he will be supported by the other councillors in a body, who, doubtless in response to the directors' invitation to honour the occasion, recognising the draw that this scheme of entertainment will be to further increase the visiting-list to the popular watering-place, and also to the strong local following and personality of the popular alderman, are attending.

It is surprising the amount of work that has been got through by the contractors, Messrs. Davidson and Millar, who have carried out the original plans, as laid down in the prospectus, to the letter. There is now an expansive frontal elevation facing the links and promenade, that is at once attractive and impressive, whilst the effect from seaward is extremely striking.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

THE death of King Edward has cast a temporary gloom over the play-going public, and the closing of the theatres, and the consequent loss to managers and employees, would have added to the sadness. The late King would have been the last to wish his death to be the cause of distress and disaster; and the King, in ordering the re-opening of the theatres, has acted in the true spirit of his beloved sire.

SIR CHARLES WYNDHAM arrived in town on Saturday last, after his very successful American tour. He and Miss Mary Moore, who is completing her rest cure at Folkestone, will commence their season at the Criterion early in April with a revival of The Case of Rebellious Susan.

WE are pleased to learn that Lady Bancroft, who for some time past has been ill at Sandgate, is making steady progress towards recovery.

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER has entered into partnership with Mr. Herbert Sleath, and will join that gentleman as lessee and manager of the Garrick Theatre for the period of Mr. Sleath's twenty-one years lease. The theatre will henceforth be under their joint control, and they will sublet it to suitable tenants. In the autumn Mr. Bourchier and Miss Vanbrugh appear in Sir Herbert Tree's revival of Henry VIII. at His Majesty's.

SIR A. W. PINERO, who is recuperating at Bath, has been making himself acquainted with the theatrical associations of Bath. Under the guidance of Mr. J. F. Meehan, he has also been making a "personally conducted" tour of the city.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY will conclude at the New Theatre, Oxford, to-night his spring tour of the provinces, which has been one of continuous success. The chief feature was, of course, the revival of Richard III. at Dublin, which was produced under circumstances of the highest theatrical, literary, and social interest, and the few performances that it has been possible to give since have proved to Mr. Harvey that his revival of the tragedy was wisely undertaken, and that it bids fair to be a permanent success as an item of his repertory.

MR. CHARLES FROHMAN will present Miss Elizabeth Baker's four-act play, Chains, at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday next. The cast will include Mr. Dennis Eadie, Mr. Frederick Lloyd, Mr. Arthur Whitby, Mr. Donald Calthrop, Mr. Edmund Gwenn, Mr. Hubert Harben, Mr. Lewis Casson, Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Miss Sybil Thorndike, Miss Florence Haydon, and Miss Dorothy Minto. The piece will be produced by Mr. Dion Boucicault.

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE'S play, The Fires of Fate, will be performed at the Adelphi Theatre in a series of matinées on Mondays and Fridays, commencing about the 23rd inst. Mr. J. D. Beveridge will again play the Rev. Samuel Roden, and Mr. Ben Webster as Colonel Egerton, Mr. Spencer Trevor as Mr. Browne, Mr. Alec F. Thompson as Mr. Brodie, and Miss Agnes Thomas as Miss Adams will resume their original rôles. Mr. Bassett Roe as Dr. Roden, Mr. Gerald Mirrielees as M. Fardet, Mr. A. S. Homewood as Abdullah, and Miss Dorothea Desmond as Mrs. Belmont will be newcomers to the cast.

MISS MARIE TEMPEST will not reappear on the London stage until May next year, as she has determined to have a second season in America, where she has been immensely successful.

THE last act of Parasites at the Globe has been remodelled, much to the advantage of the piece. At this theatre a comedietta entitled A Suffragette, by Cuthbert Morley, will shortly be put on in front of Parasites. The characters include two women and a burglar.

MR. AND MRS. LAURENCE IRVING will arrive in England to-day, after a successful season in New York. On August Bank Holiday Mr. Irving will begin a short provincial tour in Birmingham.

MR. HERBERT TRENCH has arranged to give a special matinée of Maeterlinck's charming fairy play The Blue Bird at the Haymarket Theatre on Whit-Monday, at 2.30 p.m.

MR. W. W. KELLY has received the following letter from one of his patrons at Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool. The amount mentioned has been forwarded to the Actors' Benevolent Fund:—"3, Wellington-field, Sefton Park, Liverpool, May 8, 1910. The Proprietor, Kelly's Theatre, Paradise-street. Dear Sir,—I understand that it is proposed to return the money, if desired, for seats booked for your performance last night, but I shall be obliged if you will kindly, in my own case, pay the same to the secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, i.e., 10s. 6d. for the box as per ticket herewith. I would take this opportunity of expreseing my sympathy with yourself and all other members of your profession for the serious financial loss entailed by the sad event recorded yesterday.—I am, Dear Sir, yours faithfully, ARTHUR C. AUDEN."

MR. QUINLAN, Mr. Thomas Beecham's operatic agent, has returned from a tour in Italy and France. He has secured for Mr. Beecham the services of Miss Mignon Nevada, the young daughter of Mme. Emma Nevada, who has been trained by her mother, and made a successful début as Rosina at the Constanzi, Rome, and since then has met with success in Barcelona, Madrid, and Milan.

MR. QUINLAN has also arranged for two vocal recitals by Mr. Charles Gilibert, the well-known baritone, whose first recital is announced to take place at the Bechstein Hall on the 20th inst.

GARRICK VILLA, Hampton-on-Thames, until recently the country house of Sir Clifton Robinson, the tramway king, which was for many years the residence of the great actor, is to be sold by auction at The Mart, on June 8, the islet, Garrick Ait, being included in the sale. Garrick Villa for years past has been the headquarters of Molesey Regatta.

AERIAL advertisement has a certain connection with A Message from Mars, and this week North Londoners have been made familiar with the visit to the Marlborough Theatre of Mr. Ganthony's famous play by means of aeroplane-kites soaring high in the air and also by a huge balloon hovering over the theatre, while a fleet of free small balloons have been daily released from the roof and flown over wide area. An ascent of a dirigible airship is being arranged for to-day by Mr. Douglas Eley, Mr. Mouillot's manager of the company.

DURING the illness of Miss Ida Molesworth the part of Julie Alardy in The Little Damozel on tour has been played by Miss Eva Stuart. This charming young actress has made a decided hit in the part, displaying great histrionic ability, and has certainly a future before her.

MR. EDWARD COMPTON was discovered on the stage of the Grand Theatre, Leeds, on Friday evening, before the performance of Used Up, surrounded by his company. Stepping to the footlights, Mr. Compton, speaking with great feeling, said, "Ladies and Gentlemen,—The news to-night from Buckingham Palace is of so grave a character that the greatest anxiety for our beloved Monarch prevails over the civilised world. The issue lies with a 'greater Power than we can contradict,' but we are all loyal subjects here in Leeds, and I ask you to join with me in singing with voice and heart 'God save the King.'" The whole audience then rose and, led by Mr. Compton, sang the National Anthem with great fervour.

MR. W. W. KELLY, of the New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead, and Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool, has decided to run a season of twice-nightly dramas at the former house during the summer months. The new move was inaugurated last Monday week, and was an instantaneous success. On Monday he will stage Mrs. Morton Powell's play Brought to Ruin, in which the authoress will be supported by Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne, Mr. Harry Scott, and Mr. Edward M. Heanley. The succeeding attraction will be His Real Wife. The Village Blacksmith will be the Whit-Week entertainment at Kelly's Liverpool.

THE Thomas Beecham Opera Comique season at His Majesty's opened with Tales of Hoffmann on Thursday. At to-day's matinée Hansel and Gretel will be performed with the following cast:—Hansel, Miss Ruth Vincent; Gretel, Miss Muriel Terry; Witch, Miss Carrie Tubb; Sandman, Miss Carmen Hill; Dewman, Miss Betty Booker; Mother, Miss Christine D'Almaine; Father, Mr. Harry Dearth. This evening Sir Charles Stanford's Shamus O'Brien will be given with the undermentioned cast:—Shamus, Mr. Albert Archdeacon; Father O'Flynn Mr. Robert Radford; Mike, Mr. Joseph O'Mara Captain, Mr. John Bardsley; Nora, Miss Edith Evans; Kitty, Miss Caroline Hatchard; Banshee, Miss Carrie Tubb; Sergeant Cox, Mr. R. Scrope Quentin.

THE number of visitors who yearly make pilgrimage to Shakespeare's birthplace continues to increase. The trustees and guardians, at their annual meeting on the 6th inst., welcomed for the first time a new colleague in the person of Lord Curzon of Kedleston, recently elected a life trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sir Theodore Martin. Mr. Sidney Lee presided, and the attendance included the Earl of Warwick the Marquis of Hertford, Lord Redesdale, Mr. Lionel Cust, and Mr. F. R. Benson.

THE Chairman said, in spite of the dismal weather of the past season, the total number of last year's visitors, 43,510, exceeded the previous year's record by 4,616, and only fell behind their topmost figures, 44,213, which were reached in the year 1907, by 703. He hoped that their average attendance, which seemed now to have settled down to a point well above 40,000 persons, would before long rise to 50,000.

THE committee recommended that the trustees should ask the Government to place the Public Record Office in a position by an increased grant of public money to calendar and index those papers among the national archives which were most likely to throw new light on Shakespeare's career and work. It had just been announced, however, that the Prime Minister was about to appoint a committee of inquiry, and the trustees had been invited to submit suggestions as to the terms of reference. The whole working and organisation of the Public Record Office was to come under survey.

THE Chairman then moved the adoption of the report. Lord Curzon, in seconding the motion, said when anyone who knew anything about Shakespeare came to Stratford-on-Avon he saw in the room in which Shakespeare was born, in the streets in which he walked, in the surrounding country scenery which influenced his phraseology, and his whole outlook on life, something which gave him greater width of knowledge, greater depth of comprehension, greater sympathy with the Master whom they all revered. What, of course, they would like to know was more of Shakespeare as a man and as a man of letters. Every single discovery that had been made, every addition to their knowledge that had been acquired, had added sharpness to the identity and the individuality of Shakespeare as a man, a poet, a consummate genius, and had justified them in regarding with supreme contempt the fantastic imaginings which had been allowed to collect around his name.

THE report was adopted, and among the other business transacted was the appointment of a committee consisting of Lord Redesdale, Mr. Sidney Lee, and Mr. Cust to represent the views of the trustees regarding the terms of reference for the inquiry into the working of the Public Record Office.

MR. JUAN BUONAPARTE, whose remarkable likeness to the great Napoleon confirms his claim to be a direct descendant of that famous personage, will produce at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, May 30th, a Napoleonic drama entitled The Man of Fate. The new piece is in four acts, and is from the pen of Richard A. Greene. Mr. Buonaparte, it may be mentioned, has recently figured in the music halls in a sketch by George R. Sims entitled Buonaparte's Boy.

FRIENDS of the well-known Australian tenor and character actor Mr. William Walshe will be sorry to learn that he is at present ill in Charing Cross Hospital.

MISS BEATRICE FORBES-ROBERTSON, the niece of Mr. Forbes-Robertson, who is to be married early in the summer to Mr. Swinburne Hale, made her first appearance at the Criterion Theatre in 1900 as Winifred in Mamma, and was afterwards very successful on the English stage. She has been in America only two or three years. Her father is Mr. Ian Forbes-Robertson, and her grandfather on the mother's side was Joseph Knight, critic and editor of Notes and Queries. In New York she has played in The Morals of Marcus and The Mollusc, and this season she joined the New Theatre company.

BUILDING operations have already been begun on the site of the Borough Theatre, North Shields, which, it will remembered, was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, and we learn that it is the intention of the proprietors (Messrs. Black Brothers) to erect a handsome, up-to-date theatre, with a holding capacity for upwards of three thousand persons, and with stage accommodation for the heaviest productions touring. Mr. Weir, of Howdon-on-Tyne, who successfully carried out the alterations at the Tynemouth Palace last year, is the contractor, and Mr. Steinlet, of North Shields, the architect. It is expected that the new place of amusement will be ready for opening on August Bank Holiday.

THE Actors' Fair in New York was opened on Monday by President Taft, who was escorted round the fair by a dozen of the most popular actresses, including Miss Marie Tempest and Miss Billie Burke. The promoters expect to raise £50,000 for a professional pension fund, and the utmost enthusiasm is being shown in the cause by artists and public alike.

PRESIDENT TAFT delivered a sympathetic little speech, amid cheers, at the opening of the fair. "I should be wanting in personal gratitude," he said, "if I did not seize this opportunity to come here and give my thanks to the profession to which I personally owe so much. I do not like to compare you either with lawyers or politicians. (Laughter.) There is one respect, though, in which we are alike. The money we make seems to come easy and go easy. (Laughter.) You are different from lawyers and politicians in that out of the generosity of your hearts you take care of those who have played their parts in your profession, and have reached a time when they are dependent upon others. There is nothing I know of in a nerve-straining life that equals the relaxation of a good play well mounted and well played, and you put all human kind under an obligation by holding the mirror up to nature."

A FLYING visit from England was paid by Miss Pauline Chase, the popular Peter Pan, who sold by auction photographs of professional and political celebrities. Mr. Roosevelt was knocked down at $150, and portraits of Mr. J. M. Barrie, Miss Ellen Terry, Mme. Melba, Sir Herbert Tree, and other English favourites fetched good prices. Miss Chase only stayed in America some sixteen hours, and sailed for this country on Wednesday morning. In the autumn she again crosses the Atlantic, having been selected by Mr. Frohman for the title-rôle in Our Miss Gibbs when it is produced in the States. Mr. Fred Wright, jun., will then be Cousin Timothy.

MISS BABS STUART, we regret to learn, was taken seriously ill on Wednesday of last week, and has not been able to resume her part of Annie Bloodgood in Are You a Mason? The rôle is at present being played by Miss Claire Townshend.

AT the Theatre Royal, Albert Hall, on the afternoon of the 31st inst. two new plays will be produced. One of them, a farcical comedy in three acts, entitled Uncle Robert's Airship, will be preceded by a sketch called Between the Soup and the Savoury, both pieces being by Miss G. E. Jennings. Mrs. Adrian Ross, Miss Margaret Fraser, and Mr. Harold Chapin will be in the cast of Uncle Robert's Airship.

THE Stage Society have postponed the production of Ludwig Thoma's play Champions of Morality at the Aldwych until Sunday, the 22nd inst.

MISS MAIE HOEY will appear as Paupukeewis in Sivori Levey's Hiawatha to be given at the Emily Harris's Home, Alfred-place, Tottenham Court-road, on Sunday, the 22nd inst.

MR. S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, who has received a commission from Sir Herbert Tree to write the music for Mr. Alfred Noyes's new play at His Majesty's Theatre, will conduct the Norfolk (Connecticut) Festival, and sailed on Saturday for America. The choice of works was arrived at by vote, and Verdi's Requiem and Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's Hiawatha headed the list. Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has written an orchestral rhapsody on negro melodies, which will be performed for the first time at the festival.

MR. FRED BULMER informs us that he has entered into an arrangement with Miss Marie Dagmar to take over the very successful play The Tyrant. It is Mr. Bulmer's intention to keep the drama up to its usual high standard, several of the present company being retained. The tour commences next autumn.

THE fiftieth performance of Two Merry Monarchs took place on Thursday night at the Strand Theatre, where the presentation of musical comedy at popular prices is proving attractive. A special matinée will be given on Monday.

OWING to the indisposition of Mr. Leonard Boyne last week, the part of Sir Lucius O'Trigger in The Rivals was played by Mr. Reginald Dane.

MISS JOAN HARCOURT (daughter of the late Sidney Harcourt) has just concluded a two years' engagement in the Far East under the Bandmann management. Amy Brown in The Englishman's Home, Tiny Mornington in The Walls of Jericho, Viola Hood in The Flag Lieutenant, Maria in The School for Scandal, and Jessica in The Merchant of Venice are a few of the parts in which Miss Harcourt has appeared with distinct success.

MR. CECIL BROOKING, who has played the Governor of the Prison in Justice, the Lieutenant in The Man of Destiny, Cecil Graham in Lady Windermere's Fan, and many other parts at the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, since Christmas, has been released by the courtesy of Mr. Alfred Wareing to take up the rôle of Matthew Barron (Dolly's father) in Dolly Reforming Herself on Mr. Silvanus Dauncey's forthcoming tour of that piece. Afterwards Mr. Brooking goes to Mr. Percy Hutchison to play Dallas Baker in Smith for the autumn.

THE forthcoming French theatrical season will include a series of representations of some of Shakespeare's plays by German actors at the Théâtre Réjane. The company of the Deutsches Theater of Berlin is to appear in A Midsummer Night's Dream, The Merchant of Venice, and Hamlet, and to give representations of Ghosts, Oscar Wilde's Salome, and Goethe's Faust.

MISS EDITH COLE (Mrs. W. W. Kelly) has been engaged by Mr. August Van Biene to appear for a special week, commencing Monday next as the Duchess in The Broken Melody at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester.

STATEMENTS which have been made to the effect that a director of the Orchestral Publishing Company went to Paris and that a special meeting of the administrative council of the French Society (meaning the Société des Auteurs, Compositeurs, et Editeurs de Musique) was called to meet him, and that a reciprocal alliance was formed which gave to all British composers who are members or who should become members of the British Society of Composers the rights enjoyed by all French composers, having been brought to the notice of the council of administration of the Société des Auteurs, Compositeurs, et Editeurs de Musique, the council has authorised its British representative, Mr. Pierre Sarpy, of 32, Shaftesbury-avenue, W., to officially deny that anything in the shape of an alliance has been made by the Société with the British Society of Composers, or that any director of the Orchestral Publishing Company has been authorised by the Council to represent it or to collect fees on its behalf, and further, Mr. Sarpy is instructed to state that he is, as he has been for some years past, the sole representative of the Société in this country.

MR. ERNEST POPE, the highly popular resident-manager of the Theatre Royal, Lincoln, took a complimentary benefit on Wednesday week, when the cosy house was crowded to overflowing. The Professor's Love Story, by J. M. Barrie, was staged, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pope appearing respectively as the Professor and Effie, while Mr. and Mrs. W. Payne Seddon also played, the former being Henders and the latter Lucy White. The play was admirably staged and mounted, and aroused tumultuous applause.

AT the close Mr. Ernest Pope gratefully thanked his patrons for their support, and announced that the receipts had been double what they were the previous season. He promised an adherence to the policy during this season, which has proved so successful in the past. He was leaving the stage when Dr. Bone, a local practitioner, stepped forward and asked Mr. Pope's acceptance of a massive and handsome silver salver, subscribed for by considerably over a hundred patrons of the house, while to Mrs. Pope was handed a very beautiful gold curb bangle. There were speeches by Mr. W. Payne Seddon and others, and the curtain eventually fell amid loud cheers for the lessees.

THE holidays will bring a busy time for Mr. Frank Weathersby, who, in addition to his agency, will have five companies playing Whit Week, comprising The Best People, Oh, Susannah! Two Little Drummer Boys, and two companies of Facing the Music. He is filling in his spare time by organising a summer stock comedy company for the Opera House, Torquay.

MR. WALTER GAY, who finishes an engagement with The Servant in the House on May 21, has been re-engaged for the leading business at the Kennington Theatre during Mr. Robert Arthur's stock season, and opens on May 30. Mr. Gay has not yet settled his autumn work.

AT the Theatre Royal, Ilkeston, on Monday, a crowded house assembled for the benefit of the Lifeboat Fund. To mark the occasion Miss Maude May Murray, who was re-engaged by Mr. Leigh for this week, produced some beautiful new effects.

MR. FRED BARNARDO, late business manager for Mr. Lester Collingwood at the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham, has joined Mr. Frank Lindo as business representative.

AT a meeting of the Birmingham Theatrical Charity Sports Committee held on Tuesday evening at the Woolpack Hotel, the following resolution was passed:—"As a token of respect for our late King, and as a mark of sympathy with the Royal Family in their bereavement, it is resolved that the sports be postponed from Whit Tuesday until Saturday, June 11.

A NEW comedietta, called Make-Believe, by E. C. Rackstraw and W. Muskerry, will be produced for the first time at the Theatre Royal, Margate, on Monday next.

WE are requested to state that the private view of the collection of antique furniture and works of art of the late Sir Wm. Q. Orchardson, R.A., at 13, Portland-place, to be sold by auction by Messrs. Gillows on the 24th inst. and three following days, will take place on Thursday, May 19, instead of Friday, May 20 (as originally announced), owing to the funeral of his late Majesty on the latter date.

MR. HENRY LUDLOW, who has lately concluded the second tour playing Arnold Faringay (Mr. Dawson Milward's) part in Mr. Geo. Alexander's company, The Builder of Bridges, has been engaged by Mr. Auguste Van Biene for a special week at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester, to play his old part General Ivanoff, in The Broken Melody. Mr. Ludlow has enacted the rôle throughout the British Isles and Australasia, and has also visited South Africa with this money-making play.

THE Theatre Royal, Edmonton, reopens on Monday under entirely new management, the sole lessees and managers being the Van Biene Theatres Co., and the resident-general-manager Mr. Edward Van Biene. The theatre, which has a double licence, will be run as a drama house at popular prices.

MR. W. V. GARROD'S company, in A Country Girl in London, in the autumn will include Messrs. Chas. Halling, Wm. Bradford, J. Sutton-Pateman, Seymour Perry, Fred Wilberforce, and Frank Dallas; Misses Ethel Crawford, Alice Clarke, and Maude Merrick. The Prodigal Parson company will embrace Messrs. Ernest Vaughan, Owen Remonde, Carthage Caldcleugh, Roland A. Bridge, and Mr. Garrod (in the title-rôle); Misses Madge Douglas, Mollie Shine, Celia Barnard, and Bertha Kingston.

WE record with regret the death of Miss Maud Hayden, who passed away at Paignton on Tuesday at the early age of thirty-eight. Miss Hayden began her professional career at the Rotunda, Liverpool, a quarter of a century ago, playing Paul in The Octoroon. Stock seasons, extending over some years, followed, and subsequently she toured as juvenile lead with Miss Deering in A Woman's Vengeance. She was the original Maud Charteris in the version of Mr. Barnes of New York, produced by Yorke Stephens and Rutland Barrington, called To the Death. Engagements with the late Captain Pomeroy Gilbert, John Tully, J. F. Preston, Lester Collingwood, and many other prominent provincial managers were also fulfilled, and she figured in principal parts in pantomime in Liverpool. In 1891 she married Mr. Frank Heath Saunders, and during the past years she was obliged through ill-health practically to relinquish her profession. The deceased actress was an enthusiastic supporter of the Theatrical Ladies' Guild and was one of the first subscribers to the Actors' Orphanage Fund.

REGINALD SHEARWOOD, of Montpelier-road, Kentish Town, was charged on Monday, in the Children's Court, Bow-street, with stealing a watch and chain, worth £5, belonging to Mr. Leslie Stiles, an actor engaged at the Strand Theatre. On Tuesday last week the prisoner applied for admission to the Grotto Boys' Home, Paddington-street. It was found that he then had in his possession a lady's gold watch and chain, a gentleman's watch and chain, and a purse containing 15s. Upon being questioned by the superintendent, he admitted that he had stolen one of the watches from the Strand Theatre. He was taken there by the superintendent, and the gentleman's watch and chain found upon him were identified by Mr. Stiles as his property. They had been taken from his dressing-room during the performance on the Monday night. Shearwood was given into custody, and told Detective-sergeant Collins that he had stolen the lady's watch and chain and the purse from a public-house near Charing Cross-road, but on going into that neighbourhood with the officer, he said he was unable to find the place. Detective-sergeant Collins said that in March last the prisoner was bound over at Peterborough after committing a theft at the Hippodrome there. The prisoner was remanded.

THE attractions at the Theatrical Garden Party in aid of the Actors' Orphanage Fund, which will take place at the Botanic Gardens on June 28, are very numerous. As already stated, Mr. Cyril Maude will "present" a "melodrama in real life," by Leo Trevor, called The Pick of Oakham; or, The Girl with the Bad Habit. Mr. John Harwood will be the producer.

To the usual hat-trimming competition will be added a hair-dressing competition by actors and actresses. Both will be under the direction of Miss Phyllis Broughton. A costume display of the various methods of combat will be given by well-known actors, and will include examples from Troilus and Cressida, Richard III., Hamlet, and The Three Musketeers — Cardinal's Guards v. the Three Musketeers and D'Artagnan—quarterstaff, rapier and dagger, cloak and dagger, and rapier and lanthorn. This display will be directed by Mr. F. R. Benson, Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks, and Professor W. Mortlake Mann.

OTHER attractions will be a cricket match, under the direction of Miss Vane Featherston; a golf putting competition; Jarley's Waxworks, provided by a company headed by Miss Jessie Bateman; and the Royal Palladium, with an entertainment contributed principally by variety artists. Miss May Warley will direct "The World's Picture Palace," in connection with which pictures taken in the grounds showing the progress of the garden party will be shown at short intervals on the screen. In the Anglo-American Shooting Gallery competitions will be arranged by Miss Alexandra Carlisle, Miss Lily Elsie, Miss Gertie Millar, Mr. Henry Ainley, Mr. Joseph Coyne, Mr. C. M. Hallard, and Mr. Guy Standing; and Mr. Gerald Du Maurier and Mr. George Grossmith will be seen in characteristic entertainments.

A DOLL, in a costume similar to that worn by Miss Irene Vanburgh in Trelawny of the Wells, dressed by the actress herself, will be sold by auction; Miss Compton and Mrs. L. Gay, assisted by many well-known actresses, will sell signed photographs and picture postcards; Miss Winifred Emery, Miss Evelyn Millard, and Mrs. A. E. Mangles will preside in the Ice Cream Tent; Miss Lena Ashwell and Miss Eva Moore will look after the Lake Tea Chalet; and Miss Lilian Braithwaite will control the Strawberry-and-Cream Tent.

OTHERS who have promised to assist are Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, Miss Carlotta Addison, Mr. Allan Aynesworth, Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, Mr. George Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, Miss Ada Blanche, Rev. Arthur Brinckman, Miss Fanny Brough, Mrs. C. L. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Coltson, Miss Constance Collier, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Compton, Miss Evelyn D'Alroy, Mr. Kenneth Douglas, Mr. H. V. Esmond, Mr. Maurice Farkoa, Miss Helen Ferrers, Mr. Basil Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Harvey, Mr. Frederick Harrison, Mr. Charles Hawtrey, Miss Constance Hyem, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Irving, Miss Ethel Irving, Mr. Alfred Lester, Mr. W. Locke, Miss Marie Löhr, Mr. C. M. Lowne, Miss Gertrude Kingston, Mr. Chas. Maude, Miss Mary Moore, Mr. A. E. Matthews, Mr. Norman McKinnel, Mr. Walter Passmore, Mr. H. G. Pélissier, Mr. Arthur Playfair, Mrs. Raleigh, Mr. Dan Rolyat, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Sims, Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terry, Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Fred Terry, Miss Ellaline Terriss, Sir H. Beerbohm Tree, Miss Lottie Venne, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Willard, Mr. C. H. Workman, Mr. Huntley Wright, and Mrs. Fred Wright.

MR. DANIEL V. ARTHUR, in conjunction with the Shuberts, is going to build a new theatre in Forty-eighth-street, New York, near Broadway, to be opened in the early winter by his wife, Miss Marie Cahill. He announces that Mr. Weedon Grossmith will visit America next season and appear under his management in Mr. Preedy and the Countess. Mr. Grossmith was in New York in 1902, and it is safe to say that no one who saw him then has forgotten his Mr. Crosbie in The Night of the Party.

THE first season of the New Theatre, New York, came to an end on the 30th ult., Beethoven being the closing attraction. After extensive alterations in the auditorium, which have been previously described, the theatre will reopen in October with Maeterlinck's fairy play The Blue Bird. The season began on Nov. 8, and lasted twenty-five weeks. Of the twelve plays presented, four were classical and eight modern. The list of these, with the number of performances, is as follows:—Antony and Cleopatra, 17; The Cottage in the Air, 9; Strife, 17; The Nigger, 24; The School for Scandal, 29; a one-act curtain-raiser called Liz, the Mother, 1; Don, 15; Twelfth Night, 21; The Witch, 10; the fourth act of Ibsen's Brand, 8; Sister Beatrice, 10; The Winter's Tale, 7; and Beethoven, 26.

THE Belasco Theatre, in West Forty-second-street, New York, built by Oscar Hammerstein, was originally called the Theatre Republic. Mr. Belasco named it after himself when it passed into his hands, and when his other theatre, in West Forty-fourth-street, was built from his own plans he called it the Stuyvesant. Now it is announced that the former house is to be called the Republic once more, and the Stuyvesant is to be known as the Belasco.

MISS OLGA NETHERSOLE will appear in another American play in the near future, following her success in The Writing on the Wall. In the meantime she has announced that her next venture will be La Samaritaine, by Rostand. Miss Nethersole is undecided about returning to America next season. She intends to visit the capitals of Europe and Egypt, as well as Buenos Aires and Rio Janeiro. Then she has been asked to make a tour of Australia, a country she has not visited for sixteen years.

MISS ELSIE LESLIE, who as a child made herself famous in the title-rôle of Little Lord Fauntleroy, reappeared on the stage recently in the part of Rose Lane in Alias Jimmy Valentine, now running at Wallack's Theatre, New York. Miss Leslie is Mrs. Jefferson Winter in private life, being the daughter-in-law of the distinguished American essayist and critic, Mr. William Winter.

AT the Clerkenwell Police-court, on Monday, Major Wilson, a commercial traveller, of Cricketfield-road, Lower Clapton, was charged with stealing from the cloak-room of the Marlborough Theatre a £5 note, the property of James Barron; also with stealing from the office of the theatre a gold pencil-case and other articles, value £10, the property of John Herriot. James Barron, giving an address at Crouch End, said that he went to the Marlborough Theatre, and left his overcoat in the cloak-room. When he had it back, after the performance, he missed a case which contained the note. Mr. Herriot, the manager of the theatre, said that he missed a pencil-case, a diamond pin, a silver match-box, and a gold watch. They had been in a drawer in his office desk at the theatre. Detective-sergeant Powell said he told the prisoner that he had information that he changed the £5 note, and asked him for an explanation. The prisoner had a vesta-box in his possession, which was afterwards identified. The case was remanded.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

King Edward and Irving.

THE late King Edward, in his younger days, was very fond of paying a visit behind the scenes. The following interesting description of one of these visits occurs in Mr. Bram Stoker's reminiscences of Henry Irving: "One night—it was Oct. 18 (1880)—the Prince of Wales came behind the scenes, as he was interested in the working of the play (The Corsican Brothers). It was known he was coming, and though the stage hands had been told that they were not supposed to know that he was present, they all had their Sunday clothes on. It was the first time his Royal Highness had been 'behind' in Irving's management; and he seemed very interested in all he saw. King Edward VII. has, and has always had, a wonderful memory. That night he told Irving how Charles Kean had set the scenes, the rights and lefts being different from the present setting; how Kean had rested on a log in a particular place; and so forth. Some of our older stage men, who had been at the Princess's in Kean's time, bore it out afterwards that he was correct in each detail. That night the men worked as never before; they were determined to let the Prince see what could, under the stimulating influence of his presence, be done at the Lyceum, of which they were all very proud. That night the tableau curtains remained down (during the preparation of the Opera House scene) only thirty seconds—the record time."

Royalty at Islington.

MISS EMILY SOLDENE, in her amusing book of recollections, gives a description of a visit in the winter of 1872 to the old Philharmonic Theatre: "In 1872 the Prince went to the Cattle Show. Over the pen of the prize pigs hung a framed picture. When his Royal Highness was through with the pigs, he took in the picture. 'What is that?' he inquired. 'That, sir, is the portrait of Miss Soldene as Drogan in Geneviève de Brabant, now being played at the Philharmonic Theatre.' 'And where is the Philharmonic Theatre?' inquired the Prince. 'Near the Angel, your Royal Highness.' His Royal Highness smiled. 'A very good position indeed,' said he. A day or two after came an order from Mitchell's for a Royal box. That was a great night at the 'Phil.' A large box and retiring-room were specially fitted up, and Mr. Morton provided some wonderful cigars for the occasion. His Royal Highness came and was treated with the greatest respect and consideration by his Majesty's lieges of Islington. When he left the theatre after the performance the corridor was, of course, crammed, but the audience ranged themselves. There was no crowding, or pushing, or policemen, and a broad path was kept for the Prince by the People."

Cunning of Fence.

"THE last time King Edward came to my theatre," said Mme. Bernhardt to a Daily News interviewer on Thursday, "was when I was playing Les Bouffons. After the performance the King and Queen Alexandra came to my dressing-room, and were very charming. Suddenly King Edward said to me: 'You showed on the stage just now a perfect knowledge of weapons. Do you think you could disarm me as easily?' I replied that I thought not. Then the King proposed to hold an assault-at-arms there in my room. I don't mind telling you that that was not by any means the same thing as on the stage."

IN MEMORIAM.

Sleep, gracious Sovereign! Sleep at last is best
For King as peasant: sleeping in the glow
Of deeds most truly royal, we bow low
To them and thee. God give thee perfect rest!

Thy task fulfill'd—Peace folding East and West,
Dovelike and smiling, 'neath her wings of snow—
Well may a King lay down his crown who so
Leaves realm and subjects so supremely blest!

Thy reign was much, yet is its lesson more;
And this, Evangel-like, shall live and sway—
An essence indestructible—a core
Of splendour in thy memory! So shall say
All men: "His glory was the love he bore
Unto his people; he shall rule alway!"

F. H. DE QUINCEY.

Actors' Association, Regent-street, W.

Albeit great love surely wrapped him round—
A faithful love won from a people great—
Serene and easeful Death came with no sound,
Called him, and made a nation desolate.
A nation grieves for him, for he was such
As had the heart and kindness overmuch
Of one who knew his people and their need.

AN APT QUOTATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Do you not think the following is in keeping with our great loss?—

"Hung be the heavens with black: yield day to night.
Comets, importing change of time and states,
Brandish your fiery tresses in the sky,
And with them scourge the bad revolting stars
That have consented to King Edward's* death."
—Richard III.

—Yours faithfully,

JOHN HASTINGS BATSON.

*I use "King Edward's" in place of "King Henry's."

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.

Mr. Chas. I. Coltson, the secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, has sent the following letters to Queen Alexandra and the King:—

Actors' Benevolent Fund,
8, Adam-street, Adelphi, W.C.

To the Queen Alexandra's Most Excellent Majesty.

MADAM,—

I am desired by the Council and officers of the Actors' Benevolent Fund to convey to your most gracious Majesty their inexpressibly deep sympathy in the terrible loss your Majesty has sustained in the death of your beloved husband, our deeply lamented and much loved Sovereign, King Edward. That God may grant your Majesty strength to bear up against such a heavy blow is the earnest prayer of the Council and officers of this Fund.

I remain,
Madam,
Your Majesty's most obedient servant,
CHAS. I. COLTSON.

Actors' Benevolent Fund,
8, Adam-street, Adelphi, W.C.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

SIRE,—

I am desired by the Council and officers of the Actors' Benevolent Fund to respectfully tender to your gracious Majesty their deep sympathy in the irreparable loss your Majesty has sustained in the death of your beloved father, our deeply lamented and much loved Sovereign, King Edward VII. I am also desired to express to your Majesty the ever most loyal devotion of the Council and officers of the Fund.

I remain,
With most profound respect,
Sire,
Your Majesty's most obedient servant,
CHAS. I. COLTSON.

DEATH OF KING EDWARD.

A PATRON OF THE DRAMA.

By the death of King Edward the stage and amusement professions lose a firm friend and patron, whose life-long kindness and courtesy can never be forgotten. Added to the general grief was the sad thought of how many in the profession would suffer by the gloom cast over society by his demise. Filled with the kindly forethought and consideration for the welfare of his subjects which characterised the late King, his Majesty George V. on Monday took steps to minimise, as far as possible, the distress, and commanded the Lord Chamberlain to publish the following message:

Knowing so well the feelings of my beloved Father, I am sure that it would be contrary to his wishes if there were any interruption in the enjoyment of the Public during the Whitsuntide Holidays. I therefore hope that the general mourning will not prevent my people from taking the usual advantages of the various opportunities afforded them for rest, relaxation, and amusement in the coming days.

Sir Herbert Tree as the President of the Theatrical Managers' Association, and Mr. George Alexander, as President of the West-End Managers' Association, on Monday received the following communication:

The Lord Chamberlain has received the King's orders to the effect that in view of the number of people who would be thrown out of employment by a prolonged closing of the theatres his Majesty wishes that the theatres should be opened, except on the day of his late Majesty's funeral.

Sir Herbert and Mr. Alexander sent the following reply to the Lord Chamberlain:

My Lord,—We have to inform you that the document you communicated to us this afternoon, to the effect that his Majesty the King wishes that the theatres should be opened except on the day of his late Majesty's funeral, was communicated to the London managers. We need hardly say how deeply this gracious and thoughtful act of his Majesty is appreciated by them and by all the theatres throughout the country. We desire to assure your lordship the managers as a body intended, as a voluntary act of loyalty, to close their theatres until after the funeral of our late beloved Sovereign. May we ask you to convey to his Majesty our deep appreciation of his kind consideration. The West End theatres will reopen from next Wednesday.

A meeting of the Society of West-End Theatre Managers was held on Monday afternoon to make arrangements to reopen the theatres in accordance with the expressed wishes of the King.

At a meeting of the Theatrical Managers' Association, representing about 350 theatres in the United Kingdom, which was held at His Majesty's Theatre on Saturday morning, with Sir Herbert Tree in the chair, the following resolution was carried unanimously: "That the Association of Theatrical Managers, representing three hundred and fifty theatres in the United Kingdom, humbly desire to express their deep sorrow at the loss of their beloved Sovereign, and beg to be allowed to tender most respectfully their sympathy to her Majesty Queen Alexandra, to their Majesties the King and Queen, and to the members of the Royal Family."

The Theatres Alliance have sent the following letter:

To the Right Honourable
Lord Knollys, G.C.V.O.,
Buckingham Palace.

My Lord,—At the monthly meeting of the members of the Theatres Alliance (which represents all the London suburban and a number of provincial theatres) held yesterday, I was instructed to express the sincere and respectful sympathy of all the members with her Majesty Queen Alexandra, their Majesties the King and Queen, and the other members of the Royal Family in their personal bereavement, and their deep feelings of sorrow at the great national loss sustained by the death of his Majesty King Edward.

I was also instructed to request that you would be good enough to offer to his Majesty King George the loyal duty and affectionate homage of the members, and their respectful thanks for his kind and sympathetic interest in the welfare of those connected with the theatrical profession.

I have the honour to be your lordship's most obedient servant,

(Signed) J. MOVERLEY SHARP,
May 11, 1910. Hon. Sec.

At the meeting of the Actors' Association on Tuesday the Council confirmed the action of Mr. Derwent in having sent, on Friday, the 6th inst., the following telegram to his late Majesty King Edward VII.: "The actors and actresses of the United Kingdom have heard with the utmost regret of your Majesty's unhappy illness, and unite in wishing your Majesty a speedy return to health. The Council of the Actors' Association." The following reply was received: "The King sends sincere thanks for message of good wishes.—Knollys." It was decided that this communication should be framed and placed in the rooms of the association.

The following resolutions were read by the Chairman and passed in silence by the Council—all standing: "That this Council of the Actors' Association, on behalf of the actors and actresses of the United Kingdom, desire to tender to their most gracious Majesties King George and Queen Mary, their humble expressions of sympathy on the occasion of the death of their late beloved Sovereign King Edward VII. The Council desire to humbly offer their sincere and loyal condolences to their Majesties in this great affliction."

To the Queen-Mother Alexandra: "That the Council of the Actors' Association, on behalf of the actors and actresses of the United Kingdom, desire to tender to your Majesty their humble expressions of sympathy on the occasion of the death of their late beloved Sovereign King Edward VII. With heartfelt sorrow the Council tender their sincere and loyal condolences, united with the hope that Divine Providence will help your Majesty, and all who revere and cherish the memory of our most Gracious King, to bear the heavy load of affliction with fortitude and resignation."

The Secretary was instructed to have the letters engrossed.

The resolution was moved by Mr. Moriand, seconded by Mr. Arlton, and agreed to unanimously: "That this Council of the Actors' Association, on behalf of the actors and actresses of the United Kingdom, humbly desire to express their gratitude to his most gracious Majesty King George V. for his thoughtful consideration in desiring that the theatres should be reopened with as little delay as possible."

At His Majesty's Theatre on Thursday, when Mr. Thomas Beecham's postponed season opened with the first performance, in English, of Offenbach's Tales of Hoffman, the front of the circles and the boxes were hung with purple.

At Covent Garden on Thursday night the first performance since the news of the national bereavement was published consisted of the revival, for the first time this season, of Samson et Delilah. The Royal box was, of course, empty. It was not draped with black. Nearly all the ladies present wore black, and jewels were abandoned.

Owing to the death of his Majesty the King, the Actresses' Franchise League matinée musicale, fixed for Tuesday, has been postponed till Tuesday, the 24th.

In consequence of the death of his Majesty King Edward, the matinée for the Keats-Shelley Memorial House in Rome, which was to have been given at the Haymarket Theatre on June 10th, is postponed till next year.

An incident which took place at the Gaiety Theatre, Birmingham, on Monday evening, afforded a striking illustration of the deep impression which was made on the heart of the people by the death of King Edward. As the curtain was rung down at the close of the performance, the band played the National Anthem, and the reverently-standing audience fixed their gaze on the white screen, where hitherto each night had been displayed a portrait of his late Majesty. "The New King" was the expectant phrase upon everybody's lips, and a thrill went through the house as a picture of his Majesty George V. appeared.

In Stratford-on-Avon King Edward's death was known about half-past twelve on Saturday morning. Most of the decorations, including the fifty wreaths and national flags along Bridge-street had been removed before breakfast time, and the few flags that remained floated half-mast high. Before retiring to rest Mr. Benson held a council and resolved to abandon the festival. In the morning he called together his artists and generously offered them half salaries in consideration of their remaining at Stratford and rehearsing. Mr. Benson will have another season there towards the end of July, when the prize play, The Piper, will be produced. Mr. Otho Stuart decided to postpone also the presentation of the cheque, to contain which he has had made a simple oblong silver casket on legs, with a head of Shakespeare carved on the top. The Corporation postponed to the same season the conferring of the freedom of the town on Mr. Benson.

"The Prince of Wales and the Comédie Française" is the title of an article in the Paris Gaulois, written by M. Frédéric Febvre, who, writing of the late King when Prince of Wales, says:

"One evening at the foyer of the Comédie Française, as his Royal Highness was talking to Sarah, to Croizette, and to me, while his friends were standing some way off, what was not my bewilderment to see a stranger go up in a familiar manner to his Royal Highness and ask him, with incredible impertinence, what he thought of the play. Without showing the slightest surprise, the Prince turned to him and answered with a gracious smile, 'I do not think I have spoken to you.'

"Here is another souvenir. When his Royal Highness was so good as to applaud me at the Royalty, and when I apologised for receiving him under conditions so inappropriate, he replied, with a kindly smile, 'That does not matter, my dear Febvre, you will make up for it in the Rue Richelieu.' Then, a few days after my retirement, the Comédie started for London to give a series of performances at Drury Lane, under the direction of M. Grau and Sir Augustus Harris. On July 1, when I no longer belonged to the Théâtre Français, the Prince of Wales had the goodness to grant me a private audience, during which his Royal Highness gave me a very valuable souvenir."

M. Febvre adds: "His Royal Highness, of whom I retain a grateful memory, always honoured me with peculiar kindness, which rendered me his respectful servant, but nothing authorised me to make any pretension to such a title. I loved the Prince of Wales for his kindness, his courteous simplicity, and I am proud that I have not been a stranger to the admirable Sovereign whom I mourn from the bottom of my heart."

The Theatre, Norwich, where during last week Mr. F. R. Benson was giving a Shakespearean Festival, was closed on Saturday, as also were the Hippodrome and other places of amusement, in consequence of the national calamity.

MISS HORNIMAN PROTESTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—When I heard that the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, was open on Saturday, May 7, I was both disgusted and angry that the good example of the other theatres had not been followed. Unless proper regret is shown in the Press by the directors my subsidy to the National Theatre Society will cease immediately, instead of continuing until next November.—Yours faithfully,

A. E. F. HORNIMAN.

Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, May 11, 1910

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

At a meeting of the committee held on Wednesday evening of the General Staff Branch, N.A.T.E., London, a resolution was adopted expressing its great regret at the death of his Majesty King Edward VII., and its respectful and loyal sympathy with the Royal Family, and that the committee wishes to express its appreciation of the kindly consideration shown to theatrical employees by his Majesty King George in his announcement regarding the reopening of the theatres. The committee felt that all sections of employees would have suffered had the theatres been closed as long as was originally intended. They recognise that the Managers' Association were only anxious to show their respect, and that many of its members might have paid full wages to all their employees in the circumstances.

The Sunday entertainments in picture theatres and music halls, involving as they do at present seven days' work upon the employees engaged on Sundays, is causing communications to be addressed by men in various localities to their representative on the L.C.C., and already attention has been drawn to the matter by one member of the Council acting on behalf of some of his constituents.

The attention of musicians and others connected with theatres, music halls, and picture palaces is drawn to the advertisement appearing in the "Musicians' Wants" column. Publicity is there given to the decision of the A.M.U. The resolution mentioned in this column last week has been carried by the vote of the members of the Musicians' Union, and this, considered in connection with the action of the Sunday Defence Committee, may be understood to mean that very drastic action may arise if the present state of affairs continues much longer.

The Strand Magazine is publishing samples of the art of the British working man, and among these is a reproduction of a water-colour painting by Mr. Matthew Mooney, now employed at the Strand Palace, but formerly employed as the timekeeper at Drury Lane Theatre. Mr. Mooney is a son-in-law of Mr. Taylor, master carpenter at the Scala Theatre, himself an amateur painter who, it will be remembered, has presented several oil paintings as a prize at the Theatrical Sports. Mr. Mooney was formerly valet to Cardinal Vaughan, and has also seen much of the world in the service of the Royal Mail Steamship Co.

Mr. Wm. Milne, a carpenter employed at the Shepherd's Bush Exhibition, and at the New Theatre in the evening, met with an accident last Saturday, and is now in St. Thomas's Hospital suffering from a broken arm.

At a meeting of the Cinematograph Operators' Association Committee, held on Tuesday at the office, 29, Wellington-street, Strand, Mr. A. Malcolm, president, in the chair, a number of applications for membership were granted. In view of the number of applicants for certificates issued by the Association it was considered desirable to hold examinations quarterly. A new departure as to the examination was also considered. The committee having been informed that there are several joint committees formed by the L.C.C. in connection with several trades to deal with matters of educational interest to these trades, and consisting of representatives of the Employers' Associations, the Trade Union, and the L.C.C., it was felt that this system was one the Association might consider as a means of securing examinations, and to issue certificates to operators that would command the support of licensing authorities and employers.

The terms of a Bill, mentioned in the journal published by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, and under the consideration of the local authority for the city of Baltimore, was considered, and as it is on the lines of the legislation desired by the Operators' Association in this country the following extracts may be of general interest:—

The Bill is to be known as the "Moving Picture Machine Operators' Law." "Whereas, in most professions in which responsibility as to damages to persons or property is involved, the custom prevailing or the law of the State of Maryland requires all persons having or wishing to assume such responsibility to be examined by skilled and competent examiners, said professions being in part those of attorney, physicians, dentists, plumbers, engineers, horseshoers, and others: and

"Whereas, There is more danger to life and property from explosions caused by the carelessness and incompetency of moving picture operators: and

"Whereas, Heretofore no provision has been made by law requiring moving picture operators to undergo an examination before being allowed to pursue their avocation: and

"Whereas, It is deemed a fit and proper subject of legislative action, with a view to the proper protection of life and property, that a law be enacted by which none but persons who are skilled in the avocation of moving picture machines or electrical apparatus should be allowed to pursue that calling, and to that end a board of examining picture machine operators should be created whose duty it shall be to examine moving picture machine operators desiring to follow that trade and give such as may possess the proper requisites a proper certificate of proficiency."

The Bill defines the term "moving picture operators" as including any person engaged in the operation of electrical moving picture machines or electrical projecting apparatus, install, erect, or repair any lighting fixture, devices, and the necessary wiring in connection with same, in a theatre, moving picture parlour, or hall, where employed as a moving picture machine operator. The Board is to consist of three persons, one from the Board of Fire Underwriters' Association, one master electrician, to represent the Building Inspector's office, and one operator.

All operators engaged in the city of Baltimore must within sixty days from May 1, 1910, comply with the provision of the Act. A fee of ten dollars is charged for a licence, renewable each year for a further fee of five dollars.

The Board has power ". . . to suspend or revoke the licence of any operator who is negligent or operates any moving picture or electrical apparatus in a dangerous or improper manner so as to be dangerous to the safety of life or property." No licence or renewal of same shall be assignable or transferable. The Board are to give five days' public notice of the time and place of each examination.

The Association will probably take steps to have a Bill of a similar nature introduced into the House of Commons.

Mr. T. Pounds, the vice-chairman of the Middlesbrough Theatres Sick Benefit Society, being about to leave the district, the members, at their meeting last Sunday, presented him with a travelling bag and umbrella, and to Mrs. Pounds a satchel, as mementos of services rendered to the Society. Mrs. T. Fletcher, the treasurer, made the presentation, and conveyed the good wishes of the members for their future prosperity.

ANNUAL THEATRICAL SPORTS.

A meeting of the committee formed to organise these sports was held on Thursday evening at 29, Wellington-street, Strand. Mr. James Carew, the chairman of the committee this year, presided. Among those present were Mr. A. P. Horne (deputy chairman), St. James's Theatre; Mr. J. Cullen, Mr. C. T. Cory, Mr. Philip Sheridan, Mr. H. J. Kemp, Mr. Philip Raphael, Mr. J. Atterton, Mr. C. Thorogood, Mr. Ed. Stow, Mr. A. Malcolm, Mr. J. Hunt, and Mr. Wm. Johnson, hon. secretary.

Mr. J. Cullen, on behalf of the old members of the committee, cordially welcomed Mr. James Carew and Mr. Horne, and expressed the satisfaction of the committee in having their co-operation.

Mr. Carew in reply said it had given him much pleasure to accept the position. The Chairman evinced a keen interest in the proceedings, and made some valuable suggestions, as did Mr. A. P. Horne. It was obvious that every effort will be made to ensure a better result this year. It was decided to invite several well-known gentlemen to join the committee. The Secretary reported that the Stamford Bridge Ground had been secured for Tuesday, July 5, at a charge of £9 9s. It was agreed that a letter, over the signature of the Chairman, should be sent to all business managers and others connected with theatres and music halls to secure the appointment of a member of the staff to act in the house as a representative of the Sports Committee, to receive entries, sell tickets, distribute printed matter and notices from the committee.

Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, of The Era, has again kindly consented to act as Hon. Treasurer, and to collect prizes and donations for these sports.

It was decided to have 500 double crown posters, 500 window cards, 10,000 handbills containing list of events and other information, 10,000 gummed notices of the date and place of the Sports, 1,000 entry forms, &c. The Chairman undertook to invite a distinguished actress to distribute the prizes on the day, and to communicate with the past and probable donors of a prize or donation to the prize fund. It was decided to engage from the A.M.U. a band, as formerly, for the day of the sports.

The list of events was approved as follows:—

100 Yards Running Handicap.
100 Yards Veterans' Running Handicap. For men over 50 years of age.
Quarter-mile Running Handicap.
Half-mile Running Handicap.
50 Yards Blindfold Race.
Quarter-mile Obstacle Race.
120 Yards Obstacle Sack Race.
Four Lap Relay Race. Open to three men from any Theatre or Music Hall (eligible to compete)—one to run, one to walk, and one to cycle. For Challenge Trophy presented by Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, and Medals.
One Mile Walking Handicap.
One Mile Cycling Handicap.
Five Miles Cycling Championship. If more than 15 enter, the best 15 may be selected. For the Championship Shield presented by Sir Thomas Dewar, M.P. To be won three times in succession.
Tug-of-War Competition. For The Era Challenge Shield and 10 Medals. Open to teams of five men from any Theatre of Music Hall. One reserve man allowed to be entered with the team. Weight of team limited to 60 stone. Two teams from one house allowed.
100 Yards Boys' Running Handicap. Sons under 12 years of age of employees eligible to compete.
50 Yards Boot Race.
Ladies' Race—50 Yards Egg and Spoon Race.

The entries will close on Tuesday, June 14.

Anyone who will assist the committee are cordially invited to do so, and to communicate with the Hon. Secretary, Mr. Wm. Johnson, 29, Wellington-street, Strand.

At the Baths Pavilion, Whitley Bay, the films are interestingly diversified. The star variety turn is Sabino, the musical marvel.

Judgment was given Mr. W. D. Nixon, in the King's Bench Division last week, who claimed damages against Messrs. Crawford and Wilkins for wrongful dismissal. Mr. Nixon was awarded £50.

At the Pavilion, Wishaw, N.B., Maud Mortimer is at the top of the bill, and is a big favourite; Ruhart, comedy parodist, is also popular. Marie Dreams, the girl baritone vocalist, goes well; Percy D'Alton, comedy and eccentric dancer, is decidedly clever; Montes and Welma have a clever and dainty jumping act; and the Bioscope concludes an excellent programme.

The star turn at the Alhambra Theatre and Palace of Varieties, Stourbridge, is Lockhart's Elephants, who are quite child-like in their docility, and admirably trained; Marie Narivona is a first-class comedienne; Mappin and Webb give a capital vocal act; Ingram and Buckley score with Waiting for the Christening; and the Three Pirmans foot the bill with a first-class gymnastic act. The pictures include Cracksman at Work, Town Traveller's Revenge, and a Thrilling Rescue.

Miss Lilian Durand and company are meeting with great receptions this week at the Camberwell Palace. Their spectacular vocal scena, The Waif, is beautifully presented, the falling snow and the lighting effects being well done. Miss Durand impressively sings "Ora pro nobis," and the touching story is well enacted by the company to great effect. In the finale she is supported by the orchestra, choir, organ, and chimes, in a burst of melody that results in quite an enthusiastic reception, the tableau of angels being well conceived.

To Mr. William Mollison's success in The Touch of the Child is due the tempting invitation from Mr. Oswald Stoll to play the piece on the Moss-Stoll Circuit, commencing last week at the Hippodrome, Manchester, where the actor's success was instantaneous and assured. The calls were numerous, and Mr. Mollison was cheered each night most enthusiastically. He will be seen in The Touch of the Child at one of the West End halls very shortly. The verdict of the Manchester Press is a "great performance."

The outings of the year were inaugurated on Sunday, when the staffs, numbering 77, of the Grand and Royal Theatres, Hanley, held their eighth annual excursion, the party going by brake to Little Haywood. Arrangements had been ably made by Mr. Bert Wilbraham, stage manager of the Grand. Mr. A. Rand, manager of the Grand, was in charge of the party. Dinner was served at the Lamb and Flag Hotel, where an excellent menu was provided. After a stroll over Cannock Chase and through Lord Lichfield's grounds, which were in beautiful condition, the party returned home, reaching Hanley at 9.30. Cheers were heartily given for Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone (managing-director), Mr. A. Rand, and Mr. Wilbraham.

Children on the Stage—Managers, agents, entrepreneurs, and performers wishing to possess a copy of the "Complete Act" can do so by forwarding three stamps to the Publisher, The Era offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

The Question of Tights.

The question of the wearing of tights was recently agitated in two American Law Courts. Some time ago Miss Henrietta Lee secured a verdict against Messrs. Hurtig and Seamon of over four thousand dollars for breach of contract, alleging in her complaint that she was dismissed because she refused to wear tights. The managers appealed to the Appellate Division, which confirmed the judgment; but the Court of Appeals at Albany reversed the decision, and has ordered a new trial.

Sweet Reasonableness.

Judge Werner, who wrote the prevailing opinion, holds that the question of the reasonableness of the regulation as to costumes was the theory upon which the case should have been submitted to the jury. Judge Edward T. Bartlett, in a dissenting opinion, thinks the judgment should have been affirmed.

Short Skirts.

"It is quite apparent that the last sketch submitted to Miss Lee," said Judge Bartlett, referring to a sketch of a military costume in which she was supposed to appear in tights, "was intended to bring about a breach of contract. Hurtig had already learned from Miss Lee that she was unwilling to appear in public even when the skirt came only to the knees, and he has assented, as president of the defendants, to a modified costume where the skirt came to the boot tops. Without any further negotiations he sent her a sketch which she described as an insult—a sketch that was without a skirt—practically a costume entirely in tights, and one which she as a modest woman was unwilling to wear in public performances."

Hated a "Fake."

The second case came before the Supreme Court in the action of Florenz Ziegfeld, jun., against Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth, in the attempt to make permanent a temporary injunction which was granted some time ago restraining this couple from appearing under any other management but Mr. Ziegfeld's. Miss Bayes's defence was that she objected to wearing tights, and said she had never appeared in them and never would. Moreover, she objected to riding on a "fake" elephant's back. Other allegations entered into the case, such as the question of songs and the featuring clause. The Court reserved its decision.

Mme. Adah Payne, the Australian prima donna, late of Moody-Manners' principal opera company, is meeting with a hearty reception on her return visit to the Palace, Southampton, this week, for her excellent interpretation of Tosti's "Goodbye," also of "Your eyes have told me so," which bids fair to become a standard song.

GREEN ROOM LODGE.

More than fifty members of the Green Room Lodge assembled at the Imperial Restaurant, Regent-street, on the 6th inst, when Mr. Hubert Willis was installed as the eighth Master. The ceremony of inducting Mr. Willis was performed by the retiring Master, Mr. Charles Macdona, who delivered the various addresses very impressively. Mr. Hubert Willis appointed his officers as follows:—Messrs. Charles Macdona, I.P.M.; J. H. Ryley, S.W.; Blake Adams, J.W.; W. S. Penley, P.G. Treasurer, as Treasurer; Charles Cruikshanks, P.A.G. Std. B., Secretary; E. Vivian Reynolds, S.D.; Frank Vernon, J.D.; Fred Annerley, I.G.; W. P. Besley, Chaplain; W. Lestocq, P.A.G.D.C., D.C.; Sydney Lawrence, A.D.C.; J. W. Macdonald, Almoner; Arnold Lucy, Assistant Secretary; Douglas Gordon, J. Cooke Beresford, A. R. Raynor, and J. R. Crauford as first, second, third, and fourth Stewards (Mr. A. E. Raynor also being invested as Organist); and Mr. E. J. Nesbitt, Tyler, all of whom were in attendance, with the exception of the Treasurer, the Chaplain, and the fourth Steward, and were invested with the insignia of their respective offices. There were also present Messrs. Harry Nicholls, P.G. Std. B.; Akerman May, L.R.; and E. H. Bull, Past Masters of the Lodge; Messrs. James Fernandez, P.A.G.D.C.; James W. Mathews, P.A.G.D.C.; J. Percy Fitzgerald, P.G. Std. B.; Leslie Carter, H. Nye Chart, Thalberg Corbett, A. E. George, Hubert Harben, Frank Harding, Lyn Harding, Edward Jones, Cyril Keightley, Luigi Lablache, P.M., L.R.; Walter Maxwell, Robert Minster, Lionel Rignold, P.M., L.R.; and D. J. Williams, members of the Lodge; and the following Visiting brethren:—

Messrs. Edward Terry, P.G. Treasurer of England; Henry Times, P.D.G.D.C.; Arthur R. Owst, P.P.J.G.D.; W. P. Metchim; A. Stenning; W. H. Dickson; Lionel Carson; H. Wooldridge; H. Bawn, W. J. Harvey, P.M., L.R.; J. Powell, P.M., 2,127; W. J. C. Swift, I.P.M.; Tom Clare, W.M., 3,016; Herbert Chenery, P.M., 1,319; Arthur T. Chamberlain, I.P.M., 862; and Robert Horton, P.M., 2,244.

The secretary, after the formal business had been despatched, announced that Messrs. Vincent Erne and George Lestocq had been nominated as candidates for admission to the privileges of the fraternity.

Apologies for non-attendance, &c., were received from Messrs. Henry Ainley (Rev.) W. P. Besley (the Chaplain), J. D. Beveridge, P.M., L.R., Alfred Brydone, John Cabourn, Lytton Grey, Percy Nash, W. S. Penley, P.G.T. (the Treasurer), Herbert Shelley, Fred Terry, and Spencer Trevor, also from several Grand Officers who are honorary members of the Lodge.

At the banquet which followed, after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been honoured, Mr. Edward Terry responded for "The Grand Officers, Present and Past," Messrs. Arthur T. Chamberlain and W. J. Harvey for "The Visitors," Mr. Harry Nicholls for "The Past Masters," and Mr. J. H. Ryley for "The Officers of the Lodge." The toast of the evening, "The Worshipful Master," which was proposed by Mr. Charles Macdona, was received with enthusiasm, and was neatly responded to by Mr. Hubert Willis, who proposed the health of his immediate predecessor, Mr. Macdona, and presented him with a handsome P.M.'s jewel from the brethren, as a token of their appreciation of his unflagging and successful efforts to maintain the traditions of the Lodge.

A most agreeable entertainment which followed the dinner was provided by Miss Annie Bartle, Miss Florence Venning, Miss Olive Fox, Miss Marguerite von Bibra, and Mr. Franklin Clive, Mr. T. Sterndale Bennett, Mr. Arthur Helmore, Mr. Walter Churcher, and Mr. Tom Clare, the entertainment being under the direction of the last-named.

The Gaiety Theatre, Dundee, has closed for the summer vacation.

A slight error occurred in our notice of Shall We Forgive Her? at the Theatre Royal, Woolwich, last week, the name of the impersonator of Oliver West being given as Ernest Rivarez. The correct spelling is Rivarz.

The Lyric Theatre, Liverpool, will reopen on Monday next with drama twice nightly, a newly-formed company having decided to abandon variety business. Smoking will be allowed. Mr. Henry C. Arnold will be managing-director.

At the Redditch Public Hall Miss Maggie Morton's company opened on the 6th and 7th with the ever-popular military play Two Little Drummer Boys, which met with a big success. The company gave a good account of themselves.

Mr. Albert A. Strong's admirable book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which is published at this office, has now reached a third edition, which contains many important additions and improvements. An exhaustive notice will appear next week.

Mr. Fred Bauer (late of the Grand Theatre, Hanley, &c.) has been confined to his bed in that town for the last six weeks, suffering from an internal complaint, and has had to cancel several engagements. The doctors anticipate that their patient will be about again in a few weeks' time.

Following on a season of pictures, the Gaiety, Musselburgh, made a return to drama on Thursday with a visit of Mr. A. W. B. Kingston and company. Last week's bill was composed of East Lynne, The Ticket-of-Leave Man, and The Silver King. The opening attraction this week was Arrah-na-Pogue, in which Mr. Kingston played Shaun the Post. He was ably supported by Messrs. J. M. Richardson and Tom Mortimer as Beamish McCoul and Colonel O'Grady, and Misses Madge F. Young and Maud McNally as Fanny Power and Arrah. Mr. Teddy Mooney as Michael Feeney was excellent. During the week the following pieces will be staged: The Black Lady of Inveresk, Love and Revenge, Rollicking Barney, Old Edinburgh, and The Face at the Window.

The following paragraph is supplied by a Brooklyn agent:—"Probably the first case of profit-sharing between employer and employees in the theatrical business will take place at the end of the season in the Columbia Burlesque Company, now at the Star Theatre, Brooklyn. When the season opened Mr. J. Herbert Mack, the proprietor, agreed to divide 10 per cent. of the profits of the year equally among the members if the organisation remained intact, and if each would strive to maintain the excellence of the performance. In thirty-two weeks there has not been an absentee, and not a fine has been inflicted for a breach of discipline, and a goodly sum will be divided among the fifty men and women of the organisation."

Dolly Mitchell at Rugby.

On Monday and during the week before thousands of spectators Dolly Mitchell has been giving most delightful exhibitions of fancy and trick skating. Miss Mitchell carries a most extensive wardrobe, which is the admiration of all. Miss Mitchell leaves Rugby with a contract for a return visit. Next week she appears at the Winter Gardens, Cheltenham.

Skating Rink Burned Down.

The Alexandra Skating Rink, situated near the Bramall-lane football ground, Sheffield, was demolished by fire last week. Allie Moore was trying a new trick of skating through fire during the night after the rink was closed. Petrol was placed on the wooden floor and set fire to. Moore was severely burned, but the conflagration did not break out until several hours after this performance. The damage is estimated at £4,000.

MARK SHERIDAN has just produced a new song, entitled "Fancy meeting you in the Isle of Man!" written and composed by William Hargreaves, which promises to be the hit of the year. The publishing rights have been secured by Von Tilzers.

MISS PANSY MONTAGUE (professionally known as "La Milo") last week sued Messrs. White, Chatton, and Co., who carry on business as the Old Times Furnishing Company, for the recovery of furniture which she had stored with the fendendants. The defendants alleged that the furniture was that of Mr. Ferdinand Eggena, and, alternatively, if they were the goods of the plaintiff they claimed for storage.

THE Lord Chief Justice said the defendants had no right to detain the goods after Miss Montague wrote for them, offering to pay the warehouse charges. He very much regretted that any respectable firm should have thought fit to suggest that they were entitled to hold the goods as against the debt of Eggena. He would order the goods to be returned to the plaintiff, who should pay whatever sum was agreed in respect to the storage. Judgment was entered for the plaintiff, with costs.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, MAY 14, 1910.

THE LATE KING EDWARD.

By the time these lines appear in print the first intense grief of the nation for the death of the late KING EDWARD will have given way to the sorrowful resignation which is so much more lasting. By none will his loss be mourned longer and more deeply than by the theatrical and variety professions. The late King was, all his life, a firm friend of the drama and of amusement in all its forms. In this he resembled his mother, Queen VICTORIA, who loved a merry farce and was a warm admirer of SHAKESPEARE. Every Christmas for ten years CHARLES KEAN directed the celebrated Yuletide theatricals at Windsor Castle. In 1850 MACREADY took part in them, playing Brutus in Julius Cæsar to KEAN'S Antony and WALLACK'S Cassius. There was no Puritanism in the way in which the late King was brought up. When just over four years of age he enjoyed his first theatrical entertainment, going with his father and mother and his eldest sister to ASTLEY'S Amphitheatre in the Westminster Bridge-road. On the night of the visit of the Royal babes the entertainment included The Elephants of the Pagoda and a highly-popular spectacle called The Rajah of Nagpore, in which the celebrated Mr. BATTY, proprietor of the theatre, appeared with "his wondrous Arabian mare Beda."

The Prince's introduction to the drama proper was at Windsor Castle on Jan. 4, 1849, at the age of eight, when the programme consisted of DION BOUCICAULT'S Used Up, in which CHARLES MATTHEWS played Sir Charles Coldstream, and Box and Cox, in which BUCKSTONE, HARLEY, and Mrs. STANLEY appeared. The Royal children soon made an attempt at amateur acting. In January, 1852, some scenes from RACINE'S Athalie were presented in private with the following cast:

Abner	Prince of Wales (aged 11).
Athalie	Princess Royal (aged 12).
Josabeth	H. Seymour (aged 10).
Joad	Princess Alice (aged 10).
Levite	C. Phipps (aged 9).
Levite	H. Seymour (aged 10).
Zacharia	Princess Louise (aged 5).
Salomith	F. Seymour.
Joas	Prince Alfred (aged 8½).
Agar	Princess Helena (aged 7).

The young Prince of WALES took lessons in elocution from GEORGE BARTLEY, a well-known actor. An important and entirely elevating part of the theatrical education of the late King when Prince of WALES was the Shakespearean productions to which we have alluded. A colour-print of CHARLES KEAN'S production at Windsor Castle of The Merchant of Venice, in 1848, shows the then Prince of WALES sitting on the steps of the daïs at his father, Prince ALBERT'S, feet. The Royal children also arranged some tableaux vivants suggested by THOMSON'S "Seasons." These tableaux were presented in honour of the fourteenth anniversary of the wedding of Queen VICTORIA, and to the Prince of WALES was allotted the rôle of Winter. He appeared, wrote the Baroness BUNSEN, who was present, "in a white beard and a cloak with icicles (or what looked like such), and the Princess LOUISE, warmly clothed, seemed watching the fire; the Prince also recited well a passage altered from THOMSON."

As Prince of WALES, King EDWARD was a warm friend of the drama. M. SARCEY, in an account of the visit of SARAH BERNHARDT to the Gaiety Theatre in the spring of 1880, tells the following anecdote: "The Prince came the other night to pay his compliments to Mdlle. BERNHARDT. He was accompanied by the King of GREECE, whom he presented to the actress. 'My brother-in-law,' he said. Mdlle. BERNHARDT bowed, and remained tête-à-tête with the King. She called him 'Monsieur' all the time, and talked right and left in her usual cavalier style. But time pressed, and she had to return to her dressing-room. 'Well,' said her colleagues, 'what do you think of the King of GREECE?' 'What king?' she asked. 'The king to whom you have just been talking,' they answered. On this she ran off to the Prince of WALES. 'Ah, Prince,' she exclaimed, 'it was treachery not to tell me that it was the King of GREECE.' 'But I told you it was my brother-in-law,' said the Prince. 'Your brother-in-law,' replied Mdlle. BERNHARDT; 'but how was I to know? He might have been a tallow merchant.'"

It was not surprising, perhaps, that the late King as Prince of WALES should have been fond of theatres; but ALBERT EDWARD'S love of the drama lasted all his life. In 1909, among the thirteen plays witnessed by His Majesty were An Englishman's Home, The Earth, L'Assommoir, Henry of Navarre, The Dancing Girl, The Woman in the Case, The Wreckers, and The Whip. The command performances at Sandringham and Windsor in the late King's reign were numerous. The late Sir HENRY IRVING, Sir HERBERT TREE, Sir CHARLES WYNDHAM, Sir JOHN HARE, Mr. GEORGE ALEXANDER, Mr. MARTIN HARVEY, Mr. LEWIS WALLER, Mr. FORBES-ROBERTSON, Mr. ARTHUR BOURCHIER, Mr. CYRIL MAUDE, Mr. H. B. IRVING, Mr. CHARLES HAWTREY, Mr. SEYMOUR HICKS, and Mdlle. GENÉE—all were honoured by these welcome "commands" between 1902 and 1909.

KING EDWARD was a good judge of a play, and his judgment as to the prospects of a production were very sound and correct. Nor was he afraid to show his disgust when it was excited by an unworthy entertainment. Two years ago, when His Majesty was at Marienbad, he attended the theatre one night, and was so disgusted with the indecency of the piece presented that he walked out of the house in the middle of the performance. The King's judgment of plays was testified to by no less good a judge than M. COQUELIN aîné, who said: "My introduction to the Prince dates from the year when the Comédie Française emigrated to London during the evil days of the Commune. He would ask me not infrequently to pay him a visit in the Royal box and talk to me of dramatic art. He displayed in his conversation a remarkable knowledge of things theatrical and an uncommonly good judgment in the matter of plays and players."

As Prince of WALES and as King ALBERT EDWARD insisted that no announcement should be made beforehand to the Press or otherwise of his intention to be present at a theatre. On one important occasion, when he gave more than the customary few hours' notice of requiring the Royal box on a particular night, the actress-manageress sent out a circular announcing his intention. His Majesty caused a communication to be addressed to her to the effect that the order for the box was cancelled; but, with characteristic good nature, at the last moment he relented, and was present at the performance.

In connection with the above "command" performances at Windsor and Sandringham, the late King took a personal interest in the arrangements for the comfort of the actors. When the late Sir HENRY IRVING and his company played The Bells and The Merchant of Venice at Sandringham in 1889, Sir HENRY had arranged for supper for all the party in the train home. But King EDWARD—then Prince of WALES—would not, says Mr. BRAM STOKER, "hear of such a thing. He said that the players were his guests, and that they must eat in his house." And it was he who, when Prince of WALES, set the example to the leading hostesses of London of inviting leading members of the profession to their houses, and he always included some of them in his invitations to garden parties at Marlborough House.

KING EDWARD was fond of opera, and often went to Covent Garden. He listened attentively throughout the acts, rarely leaving before the end of the performance. At plays he showed consideration for the audience and actors, and was almost always in his seat in good time.

But it was in his personal relations with actors that KING EDWARD showed his love for the stage. Before he came to the throne he honoured every great actor and actress with his friendship. As Prince of WALES he would often go "behind the scenes" to express his approval. As King he sent for the actor or the actress to receive, in the Royal box, his recognition of their efforts. The late Sir HENRY IRVING, Sir SQUIRE BANCROFT, Sir CHARLES WYNDHAM, Sir HERBERT TREE, and Mr. GEORGE ALEXANDER had continual proofs of the late King's interest in their work. But we need not multiply instances of King EDWARD'S kindness to and sympathy with the dramatic profession.

The present King, though his naval duties have prevented him from being a frequent playgoer, is what is called "an excellent audience," and loves the theatre. King GEORGE has endeavoured to minimise the financial loss which will inevitably be the result of King EDWARD'S death by intimating his wish that the period of closing of theatres should be curtailed. In this he only imitates the kindly forethought and sympathetic consideration of the beloved monarch whose memory will always be held dear by the dramatic profession.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I hope to be able to express my view on the subject of a National Theatre later, but my general view is that such a theatre is desirable, and that it would be best secured by creating a dual theatre, properly endowed or supported, and publicly recognised, consisting of one large and one small theatre. It has come to be seen by Continental directors and critics that only by this dual theatre method can all kinds of plays be adequately presented. This method has accordingly, I believe, been followed in most of recent municipal theatres on the Continent.

The New Theatre in New York instantly proved too large for intimate modern comedy, and I believe that I am right in stating that plans for a new comedy theatre, on the roof of the New Theatre, have been prepared already.

Speaking for myself personally, and without any authority from the committee of the National Shakespeare Memorial, I consider that a properly endowed union of two existing theatres, one large, for spectacular effects and music; the other small, for intimate comedy or tragedy, would be at once the cheapest, most practical, and most efficient National Theatre that could be devised.

But I would guard myself by saying that it is useless to provide the shell unless you provide the personnel in such an institution. The success of a National Theatre depends above all upon persons, and also upon the cordial co-operation of artists and actors of England, and upon distinguished and experienced managers, such as Mr. Benson and others, whose names will readily occur.

Without a great deal of sympathy and active support of professional men of this stamp, the National Theatre project, with all its paraphernalia of committee men from thirteen Universities, and so on (largely modelled, I understand, upon the trust deed of the British Museum), may come to nothing.

At all events, I am sure that it is only upon the dual theatre basis that success is likely to be obtained in this National Theatre plan.—Yours faithfully,
HERBERT TRENCH.

HALL CAINE AND DRAMATIC COPYRIGHT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Evidence given by Mr. Hall Caine when defending a recent lawsuit strikingly illustrates the strong vitality of some of the many superstitions surrounding the subject of dramatic copyright.

According to the reports of the case Mr. Caine gave the Court this somewhat racy description of a so-called "copyright" performance:—"A skeleton play has to be prepared and deposited in the office of the Lord Chamberlain. I have done it countless times. Then all that is done to make the copyright performance valid is to print a bill, post it outside the theatre, make a prohibitive charge—generally of £1. The performance generally takes place in the early part of the day—generally at eight o'clock in the morning. One person pays his pound, the money passing over the counter, and then the actors walk through and read the parts put into their hands."

In the first place, the above process does not confer copyright at all; it has, in fact, nothing whatever to do with copyright. Its sole purpose is to enable a manager, not the author of the play, to procure the Lord Chamberlain's licence to perform the play on the stage. Copyright, or, more correctly, "performing right," exists the moment that an author has completed the MS. of his dramatic piece.

Mr. Caine went on to reveal his anxiety to have this hole-and-corner performance before the completion of the serial publication of his story. "Obviously," he said, "the dramatic copyright performance had to take place on the date of the conclusion of the story at the very latest." But why? Seemingly Mr. Caine does not know that others are free to dramatise any of his stories, even though he himself has prepared a dramatic version thereof, and this precious "copyright" performance has been given, the only proviso being that none of the actual dialogue invented by Mr. Caine may reappear in such plays.

A year ago the Court of Appeal laid it down that what Mr. Caine calls the "skeleton" of a play—presumably an original series of events, constituting the valuable part which draws, and holds the attention of, an audience—does not enjoy protection under the existing law. However absurd it may appear, it is the actual words spoken on the stage which are alone protected, and the "skeleton," &c., may be appropriated by anybody.

That an author so distinguished as Mr. Hall Caine should be found propagating such superstitions in a Court of Law, uncorrected by the learned Judge, and, apparently, aided and abetted by the learned counsel engaged, makes one despair of the advent of that long delayed legislation which shall give to authors complete protection for the original creations of their brains.—Yours faithfully,
W. GUNN GWENNET.

"THE WORLD, THE FLESH, AND THE DEVIL."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—The above dramatic company was booked to play at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, next week, but will not now do so, as I have cancelled the engagement. The reasons for my action need not be particularised, but as I acted on principle, and to please myself, the members of my company will receive their salaries just the same.—Your obedient servant, for and on behalf of Lesser Columbus, Ltd.,
L. COWEN,
Managing Director.

AT the Opera House Winter Gardens, Southport, The Mummy and the Humming Bird, presented by Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart's capable company, is paying a return visit. Mr. Stewart depicts Lord Lumley in a realistic and convincing manner; Miss Bruce-Joy invests the rôle of Lady Lumley with commendable skill and charm; the Humming Bird has a clever representative in Mr. Lewis Mannering; Giuseppe, the Italian, is well played by Mr. Lancelot Lowder; Miss Ethel Carlyle efficiently portrays Ruth Thornton; and Mr. Percy Marmont does well as Lord Ronald. The play is capitally mounted.

ONE of the latest improvements in hampers and baskets for theatrical travelling is in the locking. There is a double lock, and when the lid is closed it immediately locks at each end, and is unlocked by one key in the centre. There is also a new lid, which is made transverse, with sticks back to front, cannot be bent, and is unbreakable. The sole patentee, inventor, and maker is Mr. M. L. Hills.

Miss Barker ..... MISS T. KONRATH
Maria ..... MISS G. KNIGHT
Willis ..... MR. E. KERGAN

Decided gifts for comedy writing were revealed in the little play above named, which figured in an entertainment given on Wednesday evening last at the St. George's Parochial Hall, Westminster Bridge-road. Though founded on a familiar theme, the piece is treated in a fresh and diverting fashion, the fun lying in the fact that a young man, with a limited income, is called upon at a few minutes' notice to provide a substitute for his distinguished ancestor, Sir Herbert, whose suit of armour, last used in the fourteenth century, had been entrusted to his care by his wealthy aunt. In an access of impecuniosity the youth had sold the heirloom, and, when he receives the news of the intended visit of his aunt, has visions of being cut out of her will. In his extremity he induces Maria, the maid-of-all-work, to envelope herself in a sheet, and pose as the mail-clad figure, the aunt being informed on arrival that it has been cleaned and must be kept covered over for some days. In the course of her travels the aunt had been impressed by the tales of a spiritualist, who informed her that she could put her into communication with the long-defunct Sir Herbert. She had also interested herself in foreign suits of mail, and proceeds to point out the various ways in which they differ from those of the English, using the sheeted Maria as an object lesson. All goes well while the aunt contents herself with prodding with her umbrella the tea-tray which Maria holds in her hand in order to secure the necessary metallic sound; but when the visitor begins to poke her in the eyes, Maria's patience is exhausted, and she thrusts the sheet over the head of the aunt, who imagines that the spiritualist's prediction has been realised, and that Sir Herbert has returned to the terrestrial sphere. After indulging in a fit of hysterics, she is only to glad to leave the house, giving her nephew strict injunctions to get rid of the uncanny object without delay.

Much laughter was aroused by the little piece, due chiefly to the droll impersonation of a stolid and circumspect "slavey" given by Miss G. Knight, who made up excellently. Miss T. Konrath was a youthful maiden aunt, and fainted realistically. The two bachelor friends were smartly played by Mr. L. Hennings and Mr. A. Grant, the former displaying the commendable fault of speaking too deliberately. The sketch has any number of witty lines, and with a little condensing and smartening up might well be adapted for the purposes of the professional boards. No author's name was given on the programme, but it was announced from the stage that it was the work of Miss Irene Fox, and the enthusiastic calls were acknowledged by a young lady of some seventeen summers, who we understand is a pupil at the neighbouring Convent of Notre Dame.

MR. MANNERS AND MR. CROKE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—As I have got into very bad repute throughout the country for allowing my company to perform Mr. Hall Caine's play The Bondman at Swindon on Saturday evening last, I should be very much obliged if, in justice to myself, you would find room for the following brief correspondence. I may tell you that Mr. Pool, my manager for the company, telephoned from Swindon to my London office for instructions. Unfortunately, I was in Liverpool at the time, and he was told to telephone me there. This he did, and I gave him distinct instructions that the company were not under any circumstances to play. Therefore, imagine my surprise and disgust on returning to London on Monday to find that they had played. On hearing this, I sent the following letter to Mr. Manners, the proprietor of the Empire Theatre, Swindon:—

[COPY.]

DEAR MR. MANNERS,—On returning to my London office this morning from Liverpool I am more than surprised to find that you insisted on my company playing on Saturday night last, the night after the death of the King. My manager telephoned the office for instructions, and was of course told not to play. You have more to lose by this than I have, and I should think the Swindon population must be very disgusted at your opening the theatre on this night. Of course, this national calamity has been a very serious loss financially to both touring and resident-managers. I myself closed the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, and the Lyric Opera House, Hammersmith, and forbade any of my touring companies to play; therefore, imagine my surprise at finding The Bondman playing. I shall be glad to have your explanation by return of post.—Yours faithfully,
(Signed) WENTWORTH CROKE.

[COPY.]

DEAR MR. CROKE,—Yours to hand. Had I went entirely by my own personal feelings I should have been of the same opinion as yourself. I, however, took the advice of those interested in the town. They were of the opinion that if we announced that we were closing on the day of the King's funeral it would be sufficient. This seems to be borne out by the fact that on Sunday evening we had a concert here, with the Mayor being present, and had a packed house, as you will see by the newspaper cutting. We have also had two crowded houses to begin with this week. Perhaps there is a precedent for it in the fact that when the late Queen died the late Mr. Carpenter never closed either on the day of her death or on the evening of her funeral, which, to say the least, was distinctly disloyal.—Yours sincerely,
(Signed) A. MANNERS.
Empire Theatre, Swindon, May 11.

To which I have to-day replied as follows:—

[COPY.]

DEAR MR. MANNERS,—Yours received this morning is really no answer to mine, as you have quite evaded the question. The harm has been done and cannot be undone. You say that when the late Queen died the late Mr. Carpenter never closed either day, which, as you say, was distinctly disloyal. This, I think, applies to the present case, only more so, as the late King was the best friend the theatrical profession ever had, and the least that we theatrical managers could do would be to have closed our theatres on Saturday night last. In my opinion, any manager who allowed his theatre to be open on Saturday night last richly deserves to be boycotted by the town, and to be asked to resign should he be a member of the Theatrical Managers' Association.—Yours faithfully,
(Signed) WENTWORTH CROKE.
May 12.

I need hardly say that Mr. Hall Caine is as much upset and disgusted that the piece should have been performed on this night as I am myself.—Yours faithfully,
WENTWORTH CROKE.

MR. CHARLES MAJILTON'S company has performed Round the Clock at the Grand Opera House, Radcliffe, and on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday The Plumber, a screamingly comical American success. Mr. Majilton as Gadforth is amusing; Mr. Jim Bond as Bartle Burke is extremely funny; Mr. Hunter is good as Gee Gaw; Mr. Tom Carroll plays the lawyer with much success; Mr. W. Jecks as the cabman also deserves praise; Miss Nellie Clifford as Saprunella is very winsome and ladylike; and Miss Maddie Majilton is good as Bertie.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

To the many eloquent tributes to the great qualities of a great King, we need only add the simple words of a variety artist, who remarked to the writer: "What a splendid chap he was!" This expression of a sense of personal loss will be endorsed by everyone of the thousands of the profession who loved Edward the Peacemaker as a fine sportsman and a kindly gentleman.

King George the Fifth comes into a great heritage of loyalty and love; and amongst the most dignified expressions of that fealty and affection we may place the address of the Variety Artists' Federation, which reads as follows:

"We the Variety Artists' Federation, representing the Music Hall Artists of the United Kingdom, humbly desire your Gracious Majesty's acceptance of this our expression of deepest sympathy and regret at the loss which your Majesty, her Majesty Queen Mary, and Her Majesty Alexandra, the Queen Mother, have suffered by the death of his beloved Majesty King Edward; and to convey to you our heartfelt appreciation of your kindly consideration in the expression of your wish that the theatres should be opened except on the day of his late Majesty's funeral.—To his most gracious Majesty, King George V., Buckingham Palace, S.W."

It can never be forgotten by the profession that the late King, as soon as possible after the period of mourning for his mother had expired, gave official recognition to the music hall artist by a command to Dan Leno to appear at Sandringham on Nov. 26, 1901.

In our issue of Nov. 30, of that year, we made the following comment:—"It is significant of the Royal recognition of the importance of the variety profession as a factor in the amusements of the people that at the first command performance of his Majesty since the death of his beloved mother, he should invite the acknowledged head of the music-hall profession to entertain his guests.

"This gracious recognition no one has done more to obtain than Mr. Leno, and the congratulations that have poured in upon him, both from the members of the variety and acting professions, have filled him with pride and gratitude."

As Prince of Wales the late King saw most of the regular turns in town, in more or less private state, and the late "Jolly" John Nash used to tell a pleasant story of his experiences when he and Arthur Lloyd were invited to sing at a party at which the then Prince of Wales was a guest.

Nash, who was then at Weston's, afterwards the Royal, and now the Holborn Empire, danced on to the stage as "Racketty Jack," wearing his hat on the back of his head, and one of the guests called out to him to take his hat off. The laughing comic stopped, appealed to the Prince as "Mr. Chairman," and obtained a laughing order from his Royal Highness to sing his song exactly as he would have done it at a music hall.

Mr. Bransby Williams, Mr. Albert Chevalier, Mr. Harry Lauder, and Mr. Eugene Stratton were among other variety entertainers who received "commands" from his late Majesty. In The Performer Mr. Stratton tells the following anecdote, that is an eloquent tribute to the wonderful tact of the dead monarch:—"While waiting to do his show, 'Gene' had been chatting to Lord Knollys, and had told him several stories. Lord Knollys asked 'the dandy coloured coon' to tell them to the King, and together they proceeded to another room of the Palace, in which 'Gene was introduced to the King. Here he repeated the stories, and the King laughed heartily.

"When the opening of the entertainment was announced, his Majesty said to Stratton that he had been glad to meet him, and extended his hand to shake hands. 'Gene was, of course, blacked up, and, in conventional nigger-minstrel style handed the monarch his elbow, upon which the King asked the reason, and 'Gene explained that, his hands being blacked, his Majesty would soil his hands with the cork. King Edward asked how long 'Gene had been wearing cork, and was told 'Nearly every night for twenty years'; whereupon His Majesty grasped him by the hand and said, 'Well, if it has not hurt you in all that time, I am sure it cannot hurt me.'"

Mr. William Archer, the well-known critic and translator of Ibsen, has apologised to the Palace Theatre, the management of which served him with a writ for libel some time since. He writes: "With reference to the last paragraph of an article by me which appeared in the Nation for Dec. 25, 1909, I am glad to take this opportunity of correcting a wrong impression it seems to have made. I had no intention of conveying any reflection whatever on the management of the Palace Theatre, and was surprised to learn that the management thought my words capable of any such interpretation. I certainly saw no one in the audience whom the management should have kept out, or could have kept out, and in point of respectability the audience was unexceptionable. It seemed to me quite up to the standard of the audiences at the most popular West End theatres.

"My remarks expressed a purely personal point of view with regard to the wealthy amusement-seekers who frequent the more expensive seats at all West End theatres. If, in expressing this point of view, I inadvertently used terms that could reasonably be construed to the detriment of the Palace Theatre or its management, I regret and withdraw such terms; for I was, and am, satisfied that it is an excellently conducted establishment, and that, in fact, it holds a place equal to our best musical comedy theatres."

Among the artists presented by Mr. Joseph Wilson at the Tivoli on Whit Monday will be Wilkie Bard, Lilian Herlein, King and Benson, Victoria Monks, Cinquevalli, Harry Randall, and T. E. Dunville.

After a stay of over ten years at the London Hippodrome as producer, Frank Parker severs his connection with that theatre on May 21 next. During that decade Mr. Parker's name became almost a household word. Certainly on more than one occasion the thrilling spectacles for which he was responsible were the talk of London. The Redskins, The Flood, The Avalanche, Tally-Ho, The Sands of Dee, The Motor Chase, and The Volcano are perhaps the best-remembered of his many triumphs of stage ingenuity. During his term of office Mr. Parker rebuilt the Hippodrome stage to his own designs, and produced there no less than fifty-seven stage spectacles with trick scenery. He is now considering two important offers for Australia and America, and one British theatre magnate is also negotiating for his services.

"Captain Billy," which was originally produced as a first piece at the Savoy on Sept. 24, 1891, is to be reproduced at the Peckham Hippodrome on Whit Monday. It was written by the lamented Harry Greenbank, the author of so many fine lyrics for musical comedies, and Francois Cellier, the Savoy conductor. Mr. Helier Le Maistre, who originally played the title-rôle, has secured the rights of production from Mrs. D'Oyly Carte. In the original cast also were Miss Rosina Brandram as Widow Jackson and Miss Decima Moore as Polly, with Rudolph Lewis as Samuel Chunk.

A Leigh-on-Sea and Southend theatre train is to be instituted on the District Railway in June. It will leave Charing Cross Station at the foot of Villiers-street at 11.40 p.m., and arrive at Barking 12.10 a.m. in time to connect with the midnight express from Fenchurch-street.

Mr. Harry Burns and his wife (Miss Helen Charles) are now on their way back from New York on the Mauretania, which left New York on Wednesday.

Mr. Eric Victor was operated on at his London residence three weeks ago, and is now recovering rapidly in the balmy air of Paignton, South Devon, where he is commencing a five months' season with Mr. Fred Spencer at the Pavilion on the Green.

Miss Dorma Morgan, refined versatile comedienne, comes south next Monday to the Empire, Islington, with entirely new business, including her new song, "Verily, verily prudence," which has captivated her Yorkshire admirers.

We are asked to express, through our columns, the gratitude of the committee to the artists who so kindly gave their services at the Camberwell Empire matinée on Thursday, May 5, in aid of the fund for the sufferers through the tragedy at that house.

Miss Winifred Hare, who is now on her second visit to Johannesburg, is again delighting the inhabitants of the Rand with her charm and versatility at the local Empire. She has been absent from home since March, and returns to England and the Stoll tour on June 4.

Mrs. John Lawson has been playing to full houses at His Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, with her triplé bill of sketches, and has met with very flattering receptions all round. Next week this artist will be seen at Dundee, returning to town on May 23 to resume her variety engagements.

The annual dance of the Glasgow Pavilion was fixed for last Friday night, and at 11.30 that evening a merry party assembled to do honour to the occasion. Some time after midnight, however, the melancholy news of the death of King Edward reached Glasgow, and the Pavilion manager, Mr. Evan Good, at once stopped the proceedings, and the company dispersed, overwhelmed at the national calamity.

The United County Theatres, Ltd., have appointed Mr. Sydney Stringer to succeed Mr. Harold Arnold in the management of the King's Theatre, Gateshead, the latter gentleman having been appointed manager of the Tynemouth Palace. Mr. Stringer has had an extensive experience of theatrical business in London, Bristol, Aberdeen, Sunderland, Dundee, &c. Mr. John Morgan retains his position of assistant-manager.

The "Kilties" Band have been scoring a big success at the Southampton Hippodrome this week so big, in fact, that they have been specially retained on Whit Sunday to give a grand "In Memoriam" concert. Mr. T. P. J. Power, the manager of the band—who, by the way, were twice commanded by his late Majesty King Edward VII.—sent a telegram of condolence to Queen Alexandra on behalf of Canada's Concert Band, and received a message of sincere thanks from Lord Knollys.

Miss Bertha Stuart, the Scotch contralto, who can sing "Caller herrin'" so dramatically, has returned from Australia after a most successful engagement under the ægis of Mr. Harry Rickards. At one of her appearances Mme. Melba was an interested listener, and none applauded more heartily Miss Stuart's singing than the great Australian prima donna. A prolongation of her engagement in the land of the Commonwealth was offered to Miss Stuart by Mr. Rickards, but previous contracts precluded her acceptance.

Mr. Walter Norman, whose engagement as manager of the King's Theatre, Gainsborough, terminates on the 21st inst., owing to change of proprietorship, took his benefit at that house on Wednesday. The ready way in which Walter has always given his services to charitable and social events in the town during his management has made him very popular, and the old Moore and Burgess corner-man leaves behind him the recollection of a genial disposition and more than one good song.

The Hippodrome, Hastings, is to be submitted to public auction by Messrs. Marler and Marler at the Mart, Tokenhouse-yard, on the 27th. Although a variety theatre, it is practically equally usable for a stage playhouse, being a properly constructed theatre, with ample stage for dramatic productions. It is to be sold by order of the liquidators of the Law Guarantee Trust and Accident Society, and will therefore not be offered at any fancy reserve. It is a fine property of freehold tenure and fully licensed.

Mr. W. H. Melton, who for nineteen years has been connected with the Mexborough Prince of Wales's Theatre, for many years as manager, has severed his connection with that house, having taken over, as proprietor, the Garden-street Picture Hall, which has been thoroughly overhauled. He has been presented with a handsome gold-mounted umbrella, suitably inscribed, by the stage-staff and members of the orchestra. Mr. T. Hardiman handed over the present. The Picture Hall taken over by Mr. Melton has been renovated and brought up to date.

What was certainly one of the most successful charity matinées ever held in West Hartlepool was that recently arranged by Mr. Richard Thornton, the managing-director of the Empire Theatre. Mr. Geo. F. Thompson, the resident-manager, the artists, staff, and orchestra, all worked together to bring about this success, and, as a result, about £110 was handed over to the management of the Cameron Hospital in that town.

The artists who were appearing at the Empire during the week gave their services, and others travelled from neighbouring towns to take part. Most enjoyable turns were given by Auguste Van Biene (actor-musician), Jack Smiles (comedian), Holden's Mannikins, Graham and Barron (comedians and dancers), Dot Stephens (vocalist), Nellie Farrel (singer of Irish songs), Alexandra Dagmar (the popular comedienne), the Casselli Sisters (comediennes and legmania dancers), May B. Brilliant (comedienne and dancer), Albert Rogers (baritone vocalist), and Charburn's Juveniles, all were very highly appreciated.

Col. Rosson, J.P. (ex-Mayor), proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. R. Thornton, Mr. G. F. Thompson, the artists, orchestra, and staff, and this, on being seconded by Ald. R. Sargeant, J.P., was carried with enthusiasm. Alderman Sargeant suggested that the matinée be an annual event. Mr. Thompson, in reply, regretted the unavoidable absence of Mr. Thornton, but he had no doubt that Mr. Thornton would be most willing to make it an annual event. The £110, we might add, included a cheque from Happy Fanny Fields, who was unable to be present.

Mr. G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, after twelve years of continuous hard work, is taking a well-deserved holiday at Biarritz. His latest song "Mister Owl" is in great demand.

The Music Hall Ladies' Guild will hold a jumble sale in Room 63, Albion House, 61, New Oxford-street, on Tuesday, May 24, commencing at twelve o'clock. All are cordially invited. Please come, and bring as many friends as possible.

The installation of Brother Harry Bawn as W.M. of the Chelsea Lodge has been postponed until May 27, owing to the death of H.M. King Edward VII.

"Clothes and the woman" shortly describes the subject of the new ballet Femina, to be produced at the Alhambra on the 23rd inst. Dress on the stage is always interesting—even more so than undress.

"We are having a splendid trip up till now and perfect weather. Kind regards.—Yours faithfully, Mendel, the blind pianist, en route to Harry Rickards' Tivoli, Sydney."

Miss Lillie Langtry has quite fallen in love with Australia. She writes:—"Am in best of health and having a happy time. Hope to live here some day on my farm in Queensland."

The M.H.A.R.A. offices, both in London and the provinces, will be closed on Friday next, the date fixed for the funeral of the late King. Artists are particularly requested to note this, and to have their names placed on the vouchers not later than Thursday next.

At the monthly meeting of the Music-Hall Sick Fund on Wednesday there were present Messrs. Pat Carey (in the chair), A. E. Drew, S. White, H. Clifford, F. Boyce, and H. Jennings (trustee). The vacant post of treasurer was filled by the election of Mr. Pat Carey.

Owing to the death of the King, John Lawson has had to postpone his Grand Guignol season at the Royalty Theatre. The idea, however, will not be dropped, and we hope to see The Monkey's Paw put into the bill there, this episode by W. W. Jacobs being the finest produced by Mr. Lawson.

Mr. Frank Glenister, who has returned to the London Pavilion from his Continental trip, has booked several exceptional novelties, which will in due course grace the programme at the Piccadilly-circus house. During the absence of his chief Mr. William Cobbett has been officiating in front with unfailing courtesy.

Mr. Fred S. Jennings's company, in The Spirit of Music, the new romantic sketch, introducing Carl Junor, the great pianist, supported by a strong company, will be at the Holborn Empire next week. This number proved a huge draw at the Kilburn Empire, and is being rapidly booked up by Fred and Horace Reeves.

Miss Katie Lawrence, the famous singer of "The bicycle made for two," on Monday next will return to the scene of many triumphs, viz., Collins's, where she will renew her acquaintance with Islingtonians in a topical song "Don't you believe it," with up-to-date verses by Edgar Bateman, author of "The houses in between" and "A great big shame."

Through the indulgence of Director Norbeck the Royal Ohmys did not perform on Saturday last at the Norbeck Circus, Christianssand, owing to the death of our beloved King, thus proving their loyalty by forfeiting a day's salary. The Norwegian public have been in complete sympathy with the artists, whose self-sacrifice has been very favourably regarded.

Mr. Herbert Darnley was on Thursday, May 12, the recipient of a valuable presentation in the shape of a gold hunter watch and a gold combined soversign purse and match-box, on the occasion of his birthday, from Mrs. Herbert Darnley, the members of his Private Potts company, headed by Mr. Fred Kitchen, John Jay company (Mr. Chas. H. Bell), the managerial staff, headed by Mr. Cecil Morton York, and a few friends, including Messrs. Frank Parkes, W. J. Calder, Somers and Warner, Ernest Pyke, W. Thornton, B. Armstrong, David Williams, Mrs. C. M. York, and others. The presentation was made by Mr. York on behalf of the subscribers, and in a feeling speech Mr. Darnley spoke warmly of the regard shown him by his companies and other friends.

Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant will reopen St. George's Hall on Saturday, May 14, at 3 and 8 p.m., when they will present a special programme, including a series of animated photographs of notable events in his late Majesty's reign.

Sandy McNab has just finished the Barrasford tour, on which he has been drawing crowded houses.

Miss Louie Tracy, "the Dapper Dandy Boy," concludes to-night, at the Regent Theatre, Salford, a most successful nineteen weeks' provincial tour. Miss Tracy commences a short season in town on Monday next at the Palace, Camberwell.

The Smythsons have been scoring heavily this week at Reading Palace, with their revived big comedy number, Our Suite. They return to town on Monday, opening at the Empire, Holloway, with The Lie-Alarm.

At the conclusion of the usual meeting of the Terriers' Association upon Sunday last the "Dead March" in Saul was impressively rendered by Terrier Martin Henderson. The secretary was instructed to forward letters of condolence to His Majesty King George and Queen Alexandra.

Mr. James Ross Elvio was initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers Order on Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier Martin Henderson, W.T., assisted by Terrier Tom Packer, P.W.T. Terrier Arthur Were officiated as Organist. A hearty welcome was extended to Terriers Harry Wright, G. W. Smythson, and Russell Brandow upon their reappearance in the kennel. Messrs. Tom Melbourne and Wallace Kingston are candidates for membership of the Association and have successfully passed the ballot.

Tickts for the "Welcome Home" banquet to Terrier Griff may be had upon application to the secretary, Arthur Were. Terriers are reminded that their friends may attend this function. Tickets (ladies or gentlemen) 3s. each.

Terrier W. R. Dunkley has presented the Association with four new embroidered cloths for the tables, and Terrier Russell Brandow has promised to defray the cost of renovating the robes.

At the Royal Standard, Pimlico, Mr. T. S. Dickie's Whitsun programme is blessed by the sunny presence of Florrie Forde and Phil Ray; and the comic sketch That Brute Simmons will be presented by Geo. Elliston and company. The Four Figaros, the Five Hunters, Calile and Walker, Milner and Storey, the Sisters Silvere and comedy assistant, Marie Lord, the Bros. Gerard, Tom Royde, and others will also entertain.

The popular manager of the Paragon, Mr. Jack E. Cohen, was accorded a complimentary benefit, by kind permission of the directors, on Friday, May 6, which proved a great success. Amongst the many artists who kindly proffered their services were Marie Lloyd, Victoria Monks, Ella Retford, Ethel Loftus, Madge Temple, Bessie Slaughter, Florrie Forde, Lily Burnand, Jenny Alexander, Harvard Sextette, Haig and Novel, Nine Dainty Dots, Geoffreys and Benson, Wilfred Burnand, Rex Fox, Victor Widdicombe, Capt. Kettle, Russell Carr, Crosby and Walker, Dale and O'Malley, Dan Crawley, Chas. Coborn, Len Hall, Fred Karno's Six Little Burglars, and Chas. Austin, in Parker, P.C.

Much amusement was caused during the second scene of this sketch, in which Mr. Austin explained that, unfortunately, his own men were prevented from appearing, and that he had, therefore, been forced to get a scratch crowd, which he hoped the audience would excuse. The names of the deputies were then read out, and they all turned out to be well-known gentlemen connected with the profession. The amateur supers were P. C. Leon Zeitlin, Fred McAvoy, Walter Payne (South London), Arthur Hill (East Ham Palace), Chas. Beecham (Beecham and Wheeler), C. Abrahams (Coach and Horses), Young Josephs (light-weight boxing champion), and Jack E. Cohen.

Mr. Fred Baugh as a Fireman found it a little difficult to get the coat to meet round his slender form, and the little by-play that followed was heartily enjoyed. At the finale of the show a happy gathering was found in the cosy buffet, many old friends having popped in to offer congratulations to the beneficiare, who in a few well-chosen words thanked all those who had helped to make the occasion a grand success.

MISS A. M. ALLEN'S MARRIAGE.

There was a numerous congregation at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane-street, on Saturday afternoon, to witness the marriage of Miss Annie Maud Allen, daughter of Mr. Frank Allen, of Woodlawn, Kingston Vale, to Mr. Douglas Johnston, son of Mrs. Johnston, of Offley House, Surbiton Hill.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory charmeuse with tunic of minon de soie, trimmed with Duchesse lace (the gift of the bridegroom's mother), and pearl and bugle embroidery, full Court train of satin and tulle veil edged with Duchesse lace, worn over a wreath of orange blossom. Her ornaments were a diamond pendant and a diamond and sapphire brooch, and she carried a choice bouquet of white exotics and orange blossom. Miss Evelyn Johnston, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid, and she wore a dress of pale mauve satin veiled with ninon, and a large black straw hat, trimmed with white lace. She carried a bouquet of mauve and white lilac, and a silver chain bag, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. Gordon J. H. Bosworth accompanied the bridegroom as his best man. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. R. Gamble.

The reception which followed the service was held at the Hans Crescent Hotel, the guests including Sir Bryan and Lady Leighton, Sir Edward and Lady Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Straithie, Dr. and the Misses Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Stoll, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Slater, Mrs. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Butler, and about one hundred other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Johnston left later in the day for Cornwall for the honeymoon, the bride wearing a travelling dress of mauve cloth, and an absinthe straw hat covered with roses.

MISS A. M. ALLEN. MR. DOUGLAS JOHNSTON.

The University College Hospital matinée, which was announced to take place at the Oxford on May 26, has been postponed on account of the death of the King.

Mr. Leo Vint is announcing the opening of the Loughborough Theatre Royal as Vint's Electric Hippodrome on Whit-Monday, and has an attractive entertainment billed.

Released from the Imperial Opera Houses of St. Petersburg and Moscow, through the closing of the Russian season, practically the entire ballet, as arranged by Mr. Stoll during his visit to St. Petersburg last year, will invade London on Monday, dividing themselves into two groups, one appearing at the Coliseum, the other at the Hippodrome.

The incomparable dancer, Mlle. Karsavina, who, with Mlle. Baldina and Mons. Theodore Kosloff, the principal male dancer of St. Petersburg, created so much enthusiasm at the Coliseum last July, will reappear at that house with the full complement of dancers, in Giselle or La Sylphide. The music of this beautiful terpsichorean poem was written by Adolphe Adam, the composer of the opera Le Postillon de Longjumeau, and all the greatest Russian dancers have taken the title-rôle.

This ballet, originally produced in Paris in 1841, was chosen particularly to enable Mlle. Karsavina to display her marvellous talents. The story is enthralling in its tragic simplicity. A young girl, deceived by a nobleman, dies of a broken heart; and after her death is transformed into a fairy of dazzling beauty, who dances with frenzied abandon until she enthrals her sweetheart and passes with him in a mad whirlwind of ecstasy to the realms beyond.

Tschaikowsky's ballet divertisement Le Lac des Cygnes is the piece chosen for the Hippodrome, and will be interpreted by Mlle. Olga Preobrajensky, assisted by Mlle. Ludmilla Schollar and Georges Kyaksht, together with the other eighteen principal dancers from the St. Petersburg and Moscow Imperial Opera Houses. At these houses it is worthy of note that not one dancer is allowed to take part in the ballet unless she or he can take the respective principal parts at a moment's notice. So it is with the artists appearing on Monday.

"The Lake of the Swans" (Schwonensee) was first produced at Moscow in 1877, and the well-known musical critic in Moscow, Mr. Kachkine, then said that "Tschaikowsky's music had wonderful merits, and the more it is played the more the public will appreciate it."

A young Prince, Siegfried, is ordered by his mother to find a bride. When hunting, he sees a flock of wild swans in a beautiful lake, and discovers that these swans are young girls bewitched. In the day-time they are compelled to take the form of swans, but as the moon rises they regain their original form. Siegfried falls in love with the Queen. During her disenchantment she tells him that if ever he is false to her, she will be in the thrall of the evil magician for ever. He remains true, and they "live happily ever after."

Miss Melinda May (secretary), on behalf of the committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., begs most heartily to thank the following: Miss Nellie Wallace, 2s. 6d. (per Miss Harmer), Mr. W. Watts (collecting), 1s. 6d.; Mr. Chas. Deane (collecting), 1s. 6d.; Miss Ada Martina (collecting), 1s. 6d.; Miss Dolly Harmer (collecting), 2s. 6d.; Mr. Bob Wilding (Glasgow), donation 1s.; Mrs. George Smythson, babies' new clothing; Miss Val Gerald, useful parcel clothing; and Miss Mary McNeill (Edinburgh), useful clothing.

Presented by the Sisters Macarte a full croquet set for eight people, nearly new. Will anyone make an offer for the same? It is on view at the Guild Rooms. We have also some very handsome fancy-dress costumes for sale; can be seen any day. The model toy butcher's shop is still for sale, given by Mrs. Harry Vento. Friends of the charity are heartily welcome to tea and reception held every Wednesday from four to five o'clock. Funds, boots, and clothing are urgently needed. Will subscribers please make cheques and money orders payable to Music Hall Ladies Guild?

The 658th meeting of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Wednesday, Mr. Chas. Coborn presiding. Messrs. Arthur Rigby, Lieut. Albini, Harry Bancroft, Johnny Alexander, T. C. Callaghan, J. Miller Northern, Jack Crawley, J. H. Milburn, and C. Douglas Stuart were also present. After the preliminary routine business, the meeting rose in silence as a mark of respect to the late King. It was also decided to close all Association offices on Friday and to send a telegram of condolence, sympathy, and loyalty from the Association to the King.

The Secretary announced that a concession had been secured from the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway, who have agreed to issue single tickets at the principal towns on their line. The weekly statement showed an increase of twenty-one new members and receipts of £47 14s. It was decided to send out to ballot the names of Messrs. Chris Van Bern and Tom Packer, candidates for a vacancy on the Committee. The new Glasgow offices are to be at 36, Renfrew-street, and the tenancy will commence on May 30.

An exceptionally strong Palace Theatre programme has been prepared for Whitsun by Mr. Alfred Butt. Newcomers to the programme are Mr. Malcolm Scott, with his entertaining chatter; and Mr. Jack Lorimer, who was hailed in America recently as "Harry Lauder's only rival." Miss Clarice Vance, with her sunny smile and typical Southern coon songs, is with us once more with a budget of new songs. Other items are Mr. Albert Whelan, the entertaining whistler; Selbo, whose juggling has received so much favourable comment; the Palace Girls; and Miss Margaret Cooper. Mr. Butt will give a special matinée on Whitsun Monday at reduced prices.

The comedy duologue It, as produced and played at the Ealing Hippodrome on Monday evening by Lily and Antley, bristles with merry-making situations, and as a medium for laughter would be hard to beat. The "It" in the case is a henpecked husband, whose better half lords it over him right royally. He has been trying milk as a nerve and vigour producer, but is now advised to try whisky. The lady, bidding him to look well after the safety of the house, disappears to dress, and, as she does so, accidentally drops a note from an admirer, inviting her to accompany him to a ball.

The discovery of this note and continuous doses of the new stimulant transform the down-trodden one into a veritable demon of jealousy, and while the lady is completing her toilet he disguises himself as a fire-eating major. Returning to the room, and face to face with an apparent stranger who volleys reproaches at her, this up-to-date Katherine changes her song to another metre, and the erst domineering wife is made to hop, skip, and jump until, believing herself the victim of a lunatic, she collapses. The removal, however, of whiskers and moustache discloses the mere "It" as her subduer. The dual character of the submissive husband and the irate son of Mars were capitally rendered by Mr. Lily, who was excellently supported by Miss Antly. The little comedy was well received and should have a long life.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

HIS MAJESTY KING EDWARD VII. was ever interested in a song dealing with the Services, and more than one member of Messrs. Francis and Day's staff have been, on bygone occasions, gratified by receiving an intimation from the Private Secretary that the Monarch had accepted copies of songs submitted. Among the more recent songs thus honoured were "For King and Sireland," by "Edward Montagu," and "Bravo, Territorials!" by Chas. Wilmott and H. E. Darewski, jun. A patriotic song in vogue some years back, also published by the firm, met with a like honour, "The ship that belongs to a lady," which was accepted by the Monarch when Prince of Wales.

THE myriads of alfresco artists who have been eagerly watching and waiting for the advent of Messrs. Francis and Day's summer books, will be made happy by the announcement that the volumes are now ready. Never before, perhaps, in the history of the house has so fine a collection of the first songs of the day been collected together in two volumes. One contains a hundred coon, soubrette, and chorus numbers; the other a hundred humorous songs, the pick of the basket, including many of the eleventh hour acquisitions of the firm. As heretofore, they will be despatched to bonâ-fide applicants, who must state which volume is required, and sixpence for postage of each book must be enclosed with application. Thrice is he armed for the coming campaign who has these choice collections of ditties to hand, and the motto of the great house is "First come, first served." Verb. sap.

MR. GEORGE LASHWOOD'S new songs at the London Coliseum have been received with delight during the week, and Birmingham will on Bank Holiday doubtless endorse London's verdict. "There's another fellow looks like me" is a laughable number with an infectious chorus, and "Oh! blow the scenery on the railway!" apart from its comedy lines and tunefulness, is an item that is bound to be talked about, the wonderful effect of the express train at full speed, with the comedian singing the final chorus in his swaying brake-van, with its red tail light complete, forming a finale not easily forgotten. Fred W. Leigh's always-admired handiwork is apparent in both numbers, and Messrs. Francis and Day are the publishers of each.

THE remarkable vitality and longevity of a really good song was never better exemplified than on Monday night last, when at Willesden that splendid artist Mr. G. H. Elliott, the "Chocolate Coloured Coon," in great voice and form, received an ovation for his artistic rendering of Lester Barrett and Hermann E. Darewski's classic "I used to sigh for the silvery moon." In his final contribution, yet another of Messrs. Francis and Day's publications, Mr. Elliott again had his whole audience heart and soul with him, the item being "I want to go to Idaho," and A. J. Lawrance's melodious cadences caught and held the ear as ever has been their wont.

AT Leeds, at the Queen's, Miss Florrie Forde has nightly been the recipient of almost regal receptions, and has easily held her right to the style and title of the "world's greatest chorus singer." Her new songs, "'Tis a faded picture," "Rip van Winkle," and "Flanagan," form a trio that are unsurpassable in popular estimation, and Messrs. Francis and Day anticipate a large enquiry for the same. The popular lady returns to town on Monday.

MR. FRED ELTON, who, as he humorously expresses it, has "'struck 'ile' with his 'rubber boom' song," has in "Tahiti" one of the very best songs of the time, and his fine stage presence, firm and masterly command of the pianoforte keyboard, and powerful voice add distinction to a distinctive success. It is by the writers of that other great success "I've got rings on my fingers," F. J. Barnes, R. P. Weston, and Maurice Scott. It is published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

MISS QUEENIE LEIGHTON'S newest song "You don't want to linger any longer" is by J. P. Long. Messrs. Francis and Day are issuing it shortly.

A LAUGHABLE comic song, fully in keeping with that which is expected always from Mr. Harry Bedford, has been secured for publication by Mr. David Day's firm. It is named "It's bound to come in fashion by and bye," and is by Barnes and Weston.

LONDONERS will shortly have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Whit Cunliffe in a new song from the same pens as Mr. Harry Bedford's latest comic one, and the title is "It's got to be done!" Messrs. Francis and Day will produce it in sheet music form.

MESSRS. C. W. MURPHY AND WILL LETTERS have published with Messrs. Francis and Day three new songs, the titles of which are "She put a bunch of roses in her old straw hat," "Don't take me to the seaside," and "Will you no come back again?" The numbers will be very much in evidence at seaside resorts, as they will be worked by the members of Will Letters' own concert party when that fine combination open under the ægis of Messrs. Adeler and Sutton for the forthcoming season.

MR. MARK SHERIDAN'S newest comic song "Hear what the crowd say as they come out!" has been secured for publication by Messrs. Francis and Day. It is by J. P. Harrington and John Neat. The same house is also issuing Fred Murray's laughable song, entitled "Let's have a basin of soup."

A PRETTY song by George A. Stevens, with characteristic music by Henry E. Pether, has been put in hand by Mr. David Day's firm. It is called "Any little girl with ways like yours."

THE series of "Sixpenny Pops" inaugurated by Messrs. Francis and Day has been further extended recently by the addition of the following half-dozen songs:—"On the same place every time," Miss Vesta Victoria's laughable roller-skating song; "Sweet seventy-two," Mr. Arthur Lennard's fine number; "Sweet Caroline," Miss Gertie Gitana's tuneful ballad; and the three songs sung in Dan Lipton's Songland, and entitled "In my bouquet," "Take me back to Pompeii," and "At Gretna Green." The number of songs and pieces included in the "Sixpenny Pops" has thus reached to no fewer than 599.

ALREADY preliminary preparations are being made at Messrs. Francis and Day's two London establishments to handle the vast masses of printed matter that in a few weeks' time will be issued to an expectant music trade, who are awaiting with keen interest the firm's twenty-ninth Song Annual and twenty-ninth Dance Album.

HENRY A. MOORE, the well-known entertainer, has set to music a lyric by Frank Bentz, and the result is a pretty ballad of the popular type, entitled "There's a little ray of sunshine left for you." It has been sung during the week by Mr. Albert Chapman (late of the Carl Rosa company) at the Paragon with great success.

MISS EILY BRADELL writes to state that at the recent Eccentric Club concert she sang "The Irish Grass," by request, and not "Pretty Bird."

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE EMPIRE.

The present programme at the Empire is a strong and attractive one. The revised edition of Round the World, entitled East and West, opens the evening's entertainment admirably; and that amusing revue Hullo . . . London! has been embellished with many piquant and additional items. In the variety portion of the bill a decided success has been made by Mlle. Lydia Kyasht, a dancer of great expressiveness and skill. Her Dance Idyll, "The Princess and the Slave," is quite dramatic. The scene represents a glade in a forest, where a beautiful Princess is ardently wooed by a Slave, a chocolate-coloured athlete. She alternates between pity for the lover and distaste for his colour and appearance. When he is behind her, she hesitates. When she gazes upon his features, she revolts. This pantomime is interwoven with a great deal of terpsichorean movement, in which Mlle. Kyasht shows herself a mistress of her art. Her half-yielding to the strains of Luigini's music or to a variation by Greig or Thomé is most eloquent; but, at the conclusion, when she sinks upon a bank exhausted, to an air from Rubenstein, she still repels the swarthy suppliant. Miss Kyasht is ably assisted in this duo by M. Adolf Bolm, who is very earnest, active, and spirited as the Slave. A second part of their performance is a lively little Carnival dance, in which Mlle. Kyasht and M. Bolm appear in picturesque costumes. The concluding item is a Valse Idylle. When the curtain rises, we see groups of coryphées standing with bended heads, dressed in pink, and making charming masses of colour. From the centre of one of these groups rises Mlle. Kyasht, and does a very beautiful pas seul. Then she and M. Bolm scatter rose-leaves on the coryphées, making a pretty effect; and the sketch concludes with an artistic picture, and a fall of golden rain. The "Princess and the Slave" was produced by Mr. Bolm, the mise-en-scène being designed and supervised by Wilhelm, and the dresses being made by Miss Hastings. Wulff and Waldorf do some wonderful things on the horizontal-bar, and display extraordinary muscular power and activity; Cornalla and Edie's turn succeeds chiefly by the extravagant drolleries of the comic partner in the game; Little Roberto plays nicely on the xylophone; and Bacchas and Mealan do some smart and eccentric dancing. The Bioscope, with an exclusive series of films representing the Proclamation of George V., is a very interesting item of the entertainment. Mr. H. J. Hitchins and his able acting-manager, Mr. A. Aldin, have plenty to do in attending to their many patrons; and the fine orchestra, under Mr. Cuthbert Clarke's careful and clever direction, performs some very enjoyable items in first-rate style.

LONDON PAVILION.

Mr. Frank Glenister has reintroduced to his public at the London Pavilion Mr. Charles Coborn, who, after a lapse of years, seems to lack nothing in the way of versatility and freshness. We once again feel the magnetism of the singer of "The man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo" and "Two lovely black eyes." But the solemnity of the nation's sorrow has inspired Coborn the singer to become Coborn the author. Collaborating with Mr. Medley Barrett, he has written a plain song of praise of "Good King Edward, great Victoria's son," under the title of "That's why the British loved the King." The verses, in their simple, natural eloquence, appeal with irresistible effect to an audience deeply touched by the universal grief; and it is only at the end of the song that the enthusiasm breaks forth. The tribute to the late King—"heart and soul an Englishman"—does honour to singer and composer, and there should be a great vogue for the number, which is published by Francis, Day, and Hunter.

The so-called spirit paintings by Dr. Wilmar cause a good deal of speculation as to how it's done. Mr. P. T. Selbit, who presents this "riddle of the century," invites the attendance of two gentlemen on the stage as a committee. By them the canvases are examined, and the pictures that are desired to be produced are chosen by number—apparently haphazard. Two empty canvases are placed in a large frame, and on the night of our visit a beautiful figure of a girl by Greuze gradually filled the canvas, but for Landseer's celebrated picture, "On Guard," indicated by the second number chosen, the equally famous "Dignity and Impudence" was substituted. The mystery is cleverly worked.

The Smart Set, in their refined drawing-room act, introduce a clever little lady in a coon song. The same comedienne also burlesques the vocal aspirant who comes to have her voice tried. There are lively choruses, and the sentimental lady vocalist is particularly chic and attractive. Early in the evening Miss Bessie Butt rejoices in a lively middy impersonation; and Mr. Tom Joy's doleful views of life are voted quaint. That charming actress-vocalist, Miss Cressie Leonard, is successful in her comedy song; and Mr. Chris. Van Bern, who calls himself, quite appropriately, an eccentric monologist, is something much more than that. He patters without ceasing, while working with much cleverness a few conjuring tricks, and is quite equal to a sentimental solo, as well as a burlesque on the banjo. Miss Eileen Douglas, who is accompanied at the piano by Mr. Edgar Favells, sings "Why can't a girl be a soldier," and cuts a very attractive figure as "Dolly, the dairymaid," who, however, loses her bucolic freshness after a visit to the great metropolis. The man at the piano assists "Dolly" in her comedy, and the turn is certainly an attractive one. Mr. Harry Claff, assisted by Miss Alice Tremayne, adopts the conventional stage costume of Mephistopheles in his fantasy The Demon and the Fairy. Miss Tremayne plays with charming naïveté, and sings with real charm a pretty ballad. The devil is quite merry and bright in his prattle concerning topical events, and the final duet is loudly applauded. Mr. Gilbert Girard has much improved his animal and instrumental mimicry, which meets with much favour; Mr. Berte Coote is as droll as ever in the melodramatic farcelet A Lamb on Wall-street; and other turns on the bill are Mr. Charles Carr, dancer; the Sisters Allen, duettists; Mr. Fred Walmsley, comedian; Mr. James Fawn, comedian; the Borghettis; and Henry and Tyler, trick cyclists.

THE COLISEUM.

Miss Cecilia Loftus is sharing the honour of heading the bill at this magnificent house, to which she returns with new imitations and some favoured old ones. Among the latter we may mention Harry Lauder, which is distinguished by rare fidelity to inflexions of voice and intonation. Nothing could be more exact, either, than the reproduction of the mannerisms and voice of Miss Ada Reeve in "Sue," with its concluding dance. This is a very triumph of counterfeit. Among the imitations new to the writer is that of Mme. Clara Butt in her singing of Liddle's setting of the hymn "Abide with me." In this we get an impression of the deep tones of the great contralto and of her majestic singing. For her imitation of Caruso Miss Loftus uses a very fine gramophone record of a solo by the great tenor, reproducing his exact tones by the side of the instrument. The experiment—a curious one—is justified by its complete success, and Coliseum audiences are once more delighted at the immense versatility and cleverness of an artist who is quite unapproachable in her line.

A most interesting interlude of the current bill is

"PUNCHINELLO,"

A Comedy in One Act, Adapted from the French by Hubert Carter.

Punchinello ..... MR. HUBERT CARTER
Nanon ..... MRS. CALHAEM
Diderot ..... MR. C. CROKER KING
Elise ..... MISS LUCIE MILNER

This little piece has been altered somewhat since its production in 1903 at the Grand Theatre, Fulham; but in its main features it remains much the same. The scene is Diderot's study, where the famous author of "The Paradox" has for his protegée Elise, the niece of a rich and stony-hearted banker. Punchinello, the banker's boon companion, comes to gossip, and persuades Diderot to let his publisher wait while he tells him how his wealthy patron has offered to take him to Switzerland; but he could not tear himself away from his beloved Paris. The banker is, however, suddenly taken ill, and dying intestate, his niece Elise will come into a fortune. Diderot looks through the dead man's papers—left with him—and discovers a will in which the old worshipper of Mammon has left his huge fortune solely to the drunken Punchinello. No one knows of the will, but Diderot hesitates to destroy it, and snatches it from the hands of his housekeeper after giving it to her to light the fire. Punchinello returns much the worse for liquor, and utterly disgusts Diderot with his boastings of the vain uses to which he will put the money. But the distress of Elise touches him to the quick; his better nature asserts itself; and he tears up the document that makes of him a rich man. Mr. Hubert Carter as the careless, good-humoured rascal who wears the motley is a graceful, finished actor, whose clear elocution penetrates to every part of the vast auditorium. Mr. Croker King is a good exponent of the philosophic Diderot; Mrs. Calhaem is quite equal to emphasising the humour of the kindly Nanon; and Miss Lucie Milner is a pathetic Elise.

Loyal's dogs seem to have reached perfection as acrobats and jugglers. One white poodle on horseback catches rings over his nose, also a number of sugar-loaf hats; but is even a greater marvel when he somersaults from a spring board over a number of attendants. Amélie de L'Enclos sings a romance, in which she reaches the B in Alt; Lukushima's Japanese pictures are highly interesting; and the Four Regals give a fine exhibition of muscular strength.

Mr. George Lashwood, known as the "vaudeville Beau Brummel," returns to this house time after time with renewed success. He has a particularly novel number in "Blow the scenery on the railway," in which, as a railway guard, he muses comically on the spooning of a newly-married couple on a honeymoon journey. The scene is the railway station at Sloppy Town, with a fine bit of pastoral country in the distance. The appearance of rapid movement in the second scene is secured by the production of special cinematograph effects; and there is no shadow of doubt that the number is in for a long run. Other turns in the bill include Arthur Woodville, light comedian; the New Macs, comedians and dancers; and the sketch, Cook's Man, already noticed in these columns.

THE TIVOLI.

The national sorrow for the loss of a beloved King has naturally affected the attendances at the halls, but to the complete closing of the theatres on Monday was undoubtedly due the large audience to be found at the Tivoli on that evening. The current bill presented by Mr. Joe Wilson is blessed with two comic sketches, the first of British origin, the second of American. Mr. Rutland Barrington and company appear in number one, which is entitled

"THE JUDGE AND THE LADY."

Mrs. Butterfield ..... MISS TREVOR LLOYD
Olive Lucker ..... MISS HILDA SIMS
Fred Wyatt ..... MR. LAMBERT PLUMMER
Bates ..... MR. ERIC BRIDGEMAN
Judge Lucker ..... MR. RUTLAND BARRINGTON

Sir W. S. Gilbert in his work for the stage is no respecter of persons, especially of judges; but the author of the above trifle goes much further than the writer of Pinafore in loading with ridicule a member of the Judicial Bench. Judge Lucker is on circuit with his daughter and his confidential valet. As the song says, "Though his love is somewhat extensive, his past is really inoffensive." But Bates, who is getting his lordship's bath when the curtain rises, has knowledge of his master's little adventure some years ago at Liverpool, and readily defies that same master to get rid of him. Left for the night, the judge is disturbed by the arrival of Mrs. Butterfield, who has escaped from the country jail where she is incarcerated on a charge of bigamy, and comes to implore the judge not to condemn her. She is the heroine of the Liverpool escapade, and their mutual recognition is followed by an imperious demand that the judge—her old flame—shall let her off. As he is in his night attire, the situation for the judge becomes acute with the return of the judge's daughter, her fiancé, and Bates, and, hastily putting her on the couch, he covers over her and her baby. Mrs. Butterfield's claim to be Mrs. Lucker is endorsed by the judge for the purpose of fooling Bates, but his lordship does not count on becoming the father of the baby produced. Eventually it is discovered that Bates is the first husband of Mrs. Butterfield, and we may conclude that the bigamy charge is not proceeded with. Mr. Rutland Barrington cuts a comical figure in a bath-gown and slippers as the judge; Mr. Eric Bridgeman makes an alert and effective Bates; Mr. Lambert Plummer is a breezy Fred Wyatt; Miss Hilda Sims an attractive Olive Lucker; and Miss Trevor Lloyd an acidulated Mrs. Butterfield.

Mr. Edward Blondel in The Lost Boy plays a village zany, who comes on a visit to a fashionable lady living in good style in town. Comic cunning, clumsiness, and general stupidity are the qualities to be displayed by the comedian, who might, however, drop the prayer so unnecessarily introduced. A religious exercise of this description may at times add to the strength of a melodramatic situation, but in the sketch under notice it is quite unnecessary and out of place. Mr. Blondel is, however, genuinely humorous, and will undoubtedly become a favourite with the public. Miss Gladys Sears is announced as the American girl with many dialects, and justifies her description; Mr. Ernest Shand has a capital character in his "old tar"; and Mlle. Renée as an instrumentalist is equal to an obbligato on the ocarina, a posthorn galop, a selection on the cornet, and a saxophone solo, playing also a fantasia on a Brinsmead grand. A pretty woman and a most gifted performer.

The American contingent now in London has been increased by those clever and quaint dancers, Scott and Whaley, black eccentrics of the first water, who are cheered to the echo; Chirgwin introduces his bom-bass without a flourish of trumpets, and makes a good deal of fun; the Martinetts have a remarkable rag doll act, which has never been surpassed by any similar performance; and Miss Lillian Herlein, labelled the beautiful American songstress, sings operatic selections with culture and charm. The Alpine Singers and Dancers open their entertainment, "A Sunday Morning in the Alps," by singing "Ave Maria," and their harmonies, their jodelling, and their dancing make up a number that is very much applauded. Miss Victoria Monks and Mr. Phil Ray are old favourites here; and other turns include La Belle Alva, the gipsy peasant girl, who presents a particularly attractive turn; and Miss Lily Black. Ruffell's Bioscope shows the latest pictures.

HOLBORN EMPIRE.

Despite recent events and when one might well expect to see a slump in business, the Holborn Empire is still playing to capacity. There is a very good all-round bill headed by the Messrs. Jewel's "comedy-drama," entitled Change. In the first scene we get the interior of a tavern where an intoxicated mariner informs us that fifteen years before Skipper Chamney, as his ship was going down, entrusted to his care a box for his daughter, but the inebriated one lost it. Silas, the brother of the dead skipper, occupies adjacent Chamney's Castle, where a ghost appears with the greatest regularity once nightly. Silas is a miser, and has in some way become possessed of his dead brother's gold—the money that was intended for his niece. The girl, who resides at the inn, has a sailor lover, and that individual organises an expedition to lay the ghost, and in doing so goes through many laughable adventures, and, incidentally, recovers his sweetheart's lost fortune. Change is well acted, and is undoubtedly a fine exhibition of stage craft. Every article of furniture about the baronial apartment of the haunted castle transforms itself into some terrifying item. Chairs turn into giants, a table changes form, and the meal that was spread upon it becomes a skull. Transformations too numerous to recall are seen, and Silas himself, on leaving his bedroom at the top of the staircase, gets a bad shock. Demons spring out from all sides and pitchfork him into a blazing fire. It is an amazing illusion, well thought out—well carried out. Change will be pounced upon by all variety managers who want a real attraction.

Velanche's football dogs are splendidly trained, and a big laugh. They play the game with all the zest of humans, and certainly excel our race on the score of energy. Dale and O'Malley were in good form on the night of our visit. The dancing of the Four Ascots is magnificent, but there should be no need for them to sing. Like clockwork they rain a hurricane of beats on a kind of wooden mat. Their act is smart, well-dressed, briskly presented, and was very welcome.

Ella Shields is a great favourite at the Holborn. She gives two numbers, and the boys want more. She sings of an airship built for two, and also the kind of girl they like in the army. Arthur Reece did very well, too, with his new song, "Bachelor days, good-bye!" Manager Leslie Conroy—alert, affable, smiling always—has the Brothers Berg, Norman Telma, Harry Champion, the Carina Sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Meymott, Wild, Willie, and West, and Gladys Revell included in this bill. During the week a magnificent picture of the Royal Heralds proclaiming the accession of King George V., and also scenes outside Buckingham Palace, and incidents in the life of the late King Edward VII. have been shown by the bioscope.

THE SURREY.

Loyal music hall frequenters in the South have taken full advantage of the gracious intimation of the new Sovereign that his subjects should not deprive themselves of amusement on account of the national calamity, and the Surrey has been more than ever crowded. Mr. Roy Cochrane, the energetic manager, relies to a large extent on dramatic pieces, and mounts them with a liberality that can hardly fail to make them attractive. His latest production is that of Avenged, a sketch by Eva Elnes, in which a thrilling story is followed by a novel climax. It tells how an unscrupulous German captain and cardsharper lands at Dover, where he gets into his toils the brother of the women he uses as a decoy. The latter insists that her brother shall be spared, but the gambler, nevertheless, fleeces him of his money, and offers to return it to him plus a goodly sum if he will surrender some important dispatches. The young officer indignantly refuses, and in a quarrel that ensues is stabbed to the heart. His sister determines on revenge, and, seizing the knife, challenges the foreigner to a duel. A prolonged struggle takes place, and the woman is nearly overcome, when the searchlight of a man-of-war lying in the harbour shines through the window full into the eyes of the man, who staggers back before the dazzling glare, and thus falls an easy victim to his adversary. The excitement of the playlet was well maintained by Miss Edith Lewis and her company, Miss Lewis acting with power and eloquent expression. Mr. Frederic Monti made a gallant and typical British officer, and Mr. Harry Seymour gave a properly sinister portrayal of the German spy. The effects of the piece are skilfully gained, the powerful lights obtainable at the Surrey enabling the chief scene to be presented with thrilling results.

The other dramatic piece of the bill is A Divorced Woman, presented by Mr. Fred Maxwell and his company. Mr. Maxwell was among the first to show the way in which a sketch might be mounted on the music hall stage, and in his latest production nothing is spared in the direction of realism, and the culminating scene of a "doss-house," wherein the adventuress of the piece meets with her deserts at the hands of an infuriated mob of women is capitally done. Mr. Maxwell is a rare favourite at the Surrey, and has quite an ovation on his appearance in the part of an Italian who follows his unfaithful mistress to England and takes a deep revenge. It is a part somewhat out of Mr. Maxwell's line, but he is quite equal to it, and completely realises the passionate nature of the Italian, gripping the house with the intensity of his acting in the last fateful scene. Miss Margaret Watson, in whom we seem to recognise an actress who trod the boards of the Surrey in leading parts before it was given over to variety, plays the adventuress on the most approved lines, as she has ofttimes done before, and her hypocritical smile is quite irresistible. Miss Minnie Sadler wins sympathy for the persecuted wife, whose mistaken husband is creditably impersonated by Mr. Leonard Harrison. Mr. Fred Bailey is responsible for the part of a young doctor, and a juvenile flower-seller is prettily played by Miss Grace Warden.

From the varied bill of fare might be selected for particular praise the performance of the Banzai Troupe of Japanese, whose acrobatic, balancing, and risley feats are performed in finished style before a gorgeous scene typical of Eastern magnificence. Another popular turn is that of the Gordon Girls, who in many pretty dresses grace the platform of a railway station, and go through a number of entertaining songs and dances, with interludes of humour provided by a porter with a delicious Scottish accent. Mr. Guy Ryder, who has a pleasing voice, wins favour for some clever whistling. Mr. Albert Letine makes quite a comely figure in crinoline, and also appears as an up-to-date serio; and other contributors to the bill are Miss Beattie Lyndon, comedienne; Diamond and Hart, comedians; Little Cherub, comedienne; and Bessie Neilson, in illustrated songs, together with a varied series of pictures. Mr. Carl Hamlin leads the band with his accustomed ability.

THE BEDFORD.

In conformity with our usual experience, we find that Mr. B. P. Lucas has a varied and interesting programme on hand for the current week. Miss Dolly Elsworthy, who heads the bill, is presenting the sketch Nana, a petite drama, dealing with the life of an actress. Miss Elsworthy plays with her accustomed skill, and gives a fine delineation of the title-rôle. She has excellent support from Mr. Benson Northy.

Rosali Jacobi, so aptly described as a dainty singer of dainty songs, makes a decided hit with her two numbers. The first, "I've got to stop at home and mind the baby," is very lively, the chorus being soon taken up. The second, of the ballad type, is entitled "I wonder if you'd miss me," which the vocalist sings most charmingly. Miss Lottie Stone's Four Marzipans sing and dance with much success; Gwen Francis, a dainty comedienne, has a taking song, "You want a sweetheart," and her little dog plays his part well, adding much to her success. Will Brockton's number, "A parson and a man," is a strong card, and delights the audience. A novel turn is given by Miss Agnes Molteno, who sings a song at the piano, the story of which is illustrated by a series of living pictures, most tastefully arranged.

Those who love a thrilling sketch should be well satisfied with Mr. Leon Dubois' production, An Ape's Devotion, which is the story of a pet Simian who lays down its life to save that of a child. Mr. Leon Dubois gives a fine impersonation of the ape, his make-up being wonderful. His various antics very cleverly realise the movements and gait of a monkey. Tod Lowen, a diverting comedian, keeps his audience in continual merriment; Lydia and Amelys present some characteristic French dances, and finish off with the popular Danse d'Apaches, which is capitally executed. The Claymore Trio are very neat in their work, which consists of dancing and club-juggling at the same time; the Aza Boys also provide a bright turn with their dancing, which is of the highest order, and their success is most marked. Larry Peate and his fights with his conductor provide an amusing interlude. An extra turn was announced on Monday, that of Mike Eman, a Hebrew comedian, whose initial effort here was most successful. He has some good patter and diverting parodies. He is also to be congratulated on the absence of exaggeration, to which comedians of this type are somewhat addicted. Mr. Arthur Edwards, the genial manager, is, as usual, at his post making all welcome.

HOLLOWAY EMPIRE.

The inhabitants of Holloway and neighbourhood are well catered for at this handsome and commodious building, as a long succession of attractive programmes shows. This week many excellent and interesting turns figure in the bill. Mr. Fred Camp presides with great skill over the orchestra, and opens proceedings with a spirited rendering of Weber's overture "Oberon." One of the principal attractions is Will Evans, who first of all sings "Facts and figures," the humour of which is greatly enhanced by the comedian's droll delivery, followed by his up-to-date and amusing burlesque on the French play Chantecler, which is received with the heartiest laughter, the business throughout being screamingly funny.

Harry Marte scores with "White girl," and is seen to great advantage in his concluding dance, putting in a myriad of intricate steps with much skill; Mabel Sinclair, the premier lady ventriloquist, is very favourably received; and a refined vocal and instrumental act, contributed by the Channings, is rewarded with much applause. Esta Stella gets a good reception for her two songs, "I'm not at home to Charlie" and "The naval girls' brigade," and also scores with her neat and agile dancing.

The clever interlude of Heeley and Meeley, American knockabouts, is introduced by a comic entry from a loft that has considerable originality. Their performance is exceedingly smart, and the audience would fain have more of it. Acrobatism of the most eccentric kind runs riot throughout their performance, and the exertions of this clever duo bring down the house. A dancing novelty is introduced by La Berat, it being a unique and interesting performance, and welcome as a change from the ordinary items of a variety programme. La Berat's reception at the close was most cordial. The Gothams are responsible for plenty of harmonising vocalism, practical fun, dancing, &c., and are recalled again and again. Matthews and Cowper's sketch When the Clock Went Wrong added vastly to the gaiety of the audience; and great interest was centred in the up-to-date picture on the Bioscope of the proclamation of King George V. Mr. Bertie Ralland is the efficient acting-manager at this hall.

PUTNEY HIPPODROME.

In common with all places of amusement, this popular house has felt the effect of the recent national calamity, and on the occasion of our visit this week the attendance was poor in comparison with the usual state of affairs. The management, however, is extremely up to date, and among the Bioscope pictures that were of peculiar and pathetic interest were several showing the crowds in the vicinity of Buckingham Palace and in connection with the Proclamation of King George. Although there are no stars of outstanding brilliance this week, the company is of general excellence. Bert Errol gives an imitation of Miss Ruth Vincent in "Little Princess, look up," a popular number from Amasis, and subsequently sings "Il Bacio"; Cissie Lupino, a speciality dancer, has a great reception, obtaining the compliment of an encore; the Carlo Maie Trio, in a comedy acrobatic and wire act, Fun on the Lawn, provoke shouts of laughter with much that is new. Even the old business is well received. Webb, Branston and company, in a song-scena, The Battle Eve, display their fine voices to much advantage.

A sketch new to this house is presented by the Carlotta de Yonson company of players, including the famous pedigree bloodhound "Pedro." It is true "Pedro" has only a thinking part, but he fills it admirably. The sketch, entitled The Case of the Kidnapped King, is founded on one of the adventures of Sexton Blake, the detective, who is ably sustained by Mr. C. Douglas Carlisle; Messrs. Lee Gilbert, Geoffrey Lewis, Jas Duncan, J. Langford, and Chas. Carlisle give good support. Carlotta de Yonson takes the part of the Princess Ingra. The sketch is thoroughly well cast, well constructed, and the interest is well maintained. Other items on the programme are Baby Boden, Cole Cliffe, and Everard Denton.

WILLESDEN HIPPODROME.

A capital entertainment is submitted to the patrons of this comfortable hall this week, and, considering all things, the attendance is very satisfactory. G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, the leading attraction, scores a signal success with his three tuneful numbers—"I used to sigh for the silvery moon," "I want to go to Idaho," and "Moon, moon, moon." The choruses are taken up with enthusiasm by audiences, and his most artistic dancing is much appreciated.

Mr. Jack Fortescue, supported by a capable company, presents that well-known dramatic playlet The Gambler's Wife, which is inadvertently billed here as The Price of a Life. The villainous character of Culver Pierce is excellently sustained by Mr. Fortescue; the part of the gambler is undertaken with the greatest possible success by Mr. G. Casiello; and the smaller parts are well filled by Messrs. F. Vivian and C. Roe and Miss May Thomas. The sketch is greatly to the liking of the audience, and the company fully deserve the reception accorded it. Ted Waite, a comedian with an original style, keeps the house amused with his recital of the pessimistic view of life. A very entertaining ventriloquial show is that presented by Lydia Dreams with original ideas that cause much merriment. George and Tom Scholey score heavily in their comedy sketch Winning a Wager, the impersonation of a lady being very well done. Their two songs, "My maid of Mexico" and "Don't run after the men," both go very well. Cyclamina, as his name implies, presents an illuminated cycling speciality, which is greatly appreciated; Martinett and Wallace are responsible for a novel musical entertainment; Rita and Roma, the popular vocal duo, are heard to advantage in a musical number, "You naughty, naughty girl"; and Maggie Carr, Doris Warsaw, and Bert Brantford are also appearing. The Bioscope, with the portrayal of incidents connected with the life of our late King, brings the evening to a close. The orchestra is under the able leadership of Mr. H. Hatley, and Mr. L. F. Maloney, assisted by Mr. F. Durham, presides successfully over the destinies of the house.

WOOLWICH HIPPODROME.

There is no lack of variety in the programme submitted to the patrons of this hall for the current week, and, a good standard of merit being maintained, the management are in consequence reaping their reward in the shape of full houses. At the top of the bill are Leonard Mortimer and company, in a three-tableaux sketch, The Man of Forty Faces, the author being Mr. T. W. Hanshew, which includes a series of riddles solved by ex-criminal Hamilton Cleek. The one chosen this week is The Riddle of the Red Crowl, which portrays some exciting situations produced by the endeavours of Hamilton Cleek to discover a gang of thieves who have stolen some important State documents from the office of Baron Carjorac, in the French capital. The sketch—a bustling one—is very popular, and is accorded loud applause at the finale. Hamilton Cleek is judiciously essayed by Mr. Leonard Mortimer, whose handling of this most prominent character satisfies all requirements, and a hearty welcome is bestowed upon his efforts; Mr. D. J. Hennessey is good as the Baron De Carjorac; Mr. E. H. Templeton makes the most of his opportunities as the dumb Craston Meroote; Dollops is humorously rendered by Mr. Howe Brough; while Margot and Ailsa Lorne are capably undertaken by Miss Constance Elgin and Miss Ida Clifford respectively.

Reg. Bolton offers a laughable comedy scena, The Editor's Imp, and his patter and songs catch on, and to mention one, "Always," goes well, and he meets with a cordial reception; Batt and Lynn, deputising for Jock and Willie, are extremely amusing in their chatter, the imitations of a shop-walker and also assistant producing much hilarity. Their clever dancing display also affords much pleasure, and they are duly rewarded. Molly Moore, a dainty comedienne, is heard to advantage in the song "In the Isle of Wight." Her other songs and dances are greatly appreciated. The juggling waiter, Essman, gives a clever exhibition, his numerous balancing feats with plates, bottles, and lighted lamps being neatly and successfully executed; Vera Wooten is a charming and popular turn, and fetches the audience in the song "Never let your left know what your right hand's doing," and her other song, "I've locked the parlour door, and I'm sitting on the key," goes well. Her dancing also has strong claims on the popular favour.

Paul Pelham scores highly in his contributions of "Good-night" and a descriptive song, "Two little drummer-boys." Jennie Lynwood trills her ditties in a pleasing fashion; and Claude Gardiner, who is a deputy for Barney Armstrong, sings in good style "I'm going to meet my girl" and "I do want a girl, I do," which are greatly appreciated. Several interesting films on the Bioscope, depicting recent historic events that have occurred in the life of our late King Edward VII. are sympathically though patriotically received.

ILFORD HIPPODROME.

Under the tactful management of G. Wells, this popular outer-metropolitan hall continues to thrive in a very gratifying way, the increase in the audiences being quite a notable feature. The public, indeed, are responding well. An amusing sketch, which teems with funny situations, is Toplitsky; or, The End of the World. As Abraham Levy, a skinflint, Mr. Frank Bernard excels in a very diverting rendering of the Jew, who is a staunch disciple of the prophet Toplitsky; Sam, his son, is well played by Mr. Frank H. Dale; and the character of Esther, Sam's sweetheart, is in the capable hands of Miss Edith Martyn.

Miss Elsie Roby, an artist of considerable versatility, the original slavey at the piano, causes a great deal of hearty merriment, her droll impersonations of star performers being extremely funny and amusing. Harry Barford and company present a very emotional playlet Cottage or Palace. The company is a strong one, and includes the West End favourite, Mr. Albert Ward, who, in the character of Stephen Armitage, a fisherman, plays superbly. The other characters are well supported by the artists.

Miss Kitty Colyer is a very dainty and vivacious comedienne, and her song, "I'll be your gipsy man," was loudly applauded. Ventriloquism is capitally supplied by David Poole with his saucy shoeblack figure, and Harry Rogerson, the tired comedian, is as popular as ever with his novel tumbling turn. He is also very amusing with his imitation of the hero in a drama. The Five Jovers are extremely clever in their acrobatic gymnastic novelty, some of their feats, especially with the springboard, being really astounding in their execution. The Sisters Geretti come in for rounds of deserved applause for their clever aerial trapeze act, and the lightning rapidity with which they perform numerous tricks is wonderfully exciting. Taree, the musical Australian bushman, gives a novel performance on two toy instruments, namely, a harp and a mouth-organ. His playing of "Whistling Rufus" and various imitations of a bagpipe, a drum and fife band, &c., are very clever and pleasing. Miss Rosie Bartlett, as a male impersonator, has a hearty reception, and Miss Victoria Monks heads the bill. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope remains a strong feature of the programme.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

Mr. George Lashwood has during the past week been highly successful at the Coliseum with his finished rendering of Benjamin Hapgood Burt's naive comedy song, "Mister Pat O'Hare." The song recounts the adventures of a plausible Irishman, who induces the Sultan of Turkey to allow him to look round the latter's harem, on the pretext that the Hibernian's wife is hiding herself therein. Mr. Lashwood will also shortly exploit the same well-known American author's song "Sing, Kate, sing," with verses specially written for the English star by John P. Harrington. Both songs are published by Messrs. B. Feldman and Co.

In a telegram from Miss Ada Reeve is recorded the pleasing intelligence that Charles K. Harris's great American ballad "Nobody knows, nobody cares" is "enormously successful" with her at the Empire, Newcastle, where she is this week appearing. This is one of Feldman and Co.'s finest ballad publications.

A veritable triumph has been achieved by clever Miss Ella Shields at the Holborn Empire, where she is starring this week, and her two really great songs, "In the Army" (in which she asserts her decided preference for "the girl in black") and the simply irresistible chorus song, "Come by the drum in the big brass band," have been vociferously applauded by delighted auditors at every house. Both songs are written and composed by Mr. William Hargreaves, and are published by Messrs. B. Feldman and Co.

Miss Lilian Herlein, who is at the Tivoli, has just arranged with Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. to "feature" immediately at all her engagements their two publications, "Every girl loves a military man," by Harrington, Godfrey, and Powell, and "I wonder who's kissing her now," by Hough, Adams, and Howard, with both of which numbers Miss Herlein is confident she will "make good" in the near future.

Numerous inquiries are now reaching the Arthur-street firm about the ballad "The mirror of your eyes," by Damerell, Lane, and Neat. All ballad vocalists in search of a number decidedly out of the ordinary may be recommended to make early application to the publishers for permission to sing this certain "winner." Miss Joan Deering, the "Gainsborough girl," is specially featuring it on the Macnaghten tour.

A song which certainly should prove one of the biggest ballad successes of the year is the new number, by John P. Harrington and William Hargreaves, which Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. are publishing, and Mr. Charles King, of King and Benson, is producing at the Tivoli on Monday night, entitled "All in a day." The sentiment of the new ballad is eminently human, and the melody is quite out of the beaten track. We shall hear much of "All in a day" this season.

At the King's Theatre, Dundee, Mr. Mark Sheridan has been winning the suffrages of all auditors with his delightful rendering of "I do like to be beside the seaside," for which he has had yet another special scene painted. He is even more popular with this song at Dundee than he was at the Oxford and Tivoli recently. Another Feldman song with which Mr. Mark Sheridan will do well in the country is that catchy number, by Will Letters, "We're miles away from home."

At the London Pavilion during the current week dainty Miss Cressie Leonard has been received with acclaim in her rendering of "The green, green ribbon," by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford, and other Feldman numbers, and her success has been as marked as it has been deserved.

At the Camberwell Empire during the present week Miss Lena Pinaud has been successfully exploiting a prominent number from the Feldman house, entitled "Hello! little girl," by Mellor, Gifford, and Godfrey, and the admirable chorus is taken up with avidity in all parts of the auditorium.

Miss Alice Tremayne, who, in conjunction with Mr. Harry Claff, is so successful at the London Pavilion and Collins's nightly in that delightful sketch The Demon and the Fairy, still continues to achieve a great artistic success with her cultured rendering of the charming Feldman ballad "I wonder if it's true?"

At the County Theatre, Kingston, Miss Barbara Babington is received with acclaim for her piquant interpretation of the popular Feldman number "I wonder who's kissing her now," and she will, in addition, sing the beautiful ballad, published by the same firm, "Beautiful garden of roses," when she opens at the Grand, Clapham, on Monday next.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

A programme containing the name of Marie Lloyd would have no difficulty in attracting large audiences anywhere, so that it was with no surprise that we noticed every seat was occupied when the curtain went up at Shepherd's Bush the other evening. England's premier comedienne was in as fine form as ever, and sang four songs, widely differing in character, in a manner that fully sustained her deservedly great reputation. Marie Lloyd is a genuine artist, and one has only to listen to her sing a couple of songs, such as, for instance, "The lady from over the water" and "The costers' ball," to be compelled to recognise this. The change from Marie Lloyd in the first song—beautifully gowned in a fashionable pale blue costume—to the Marie Lloyd in the second is one in which the costume really plays only a comparatively insignificant part. More remarkable changes are those that take place in the voice, walk, gestures, and general demeanour of this talented burlesque actress and singer. After singing "The Costers' Ball" Miss Lloyd reverts somewhat to the style of her first song, and—again beautifully dressed, this time in black—sings a number the title of which was not obvious, the first line of each chorus, however, commencing with the query "Hot?" Responding to the enthusiastic applause, Miss Lloyd sings another character song—an extremely clever and amusing one—entitled "I'll live in hopes, if I dies in despair."

Helene Donald, a soprano with an excellent voice, sings a song called "Sweetheart days," which is illustrated by pictures thrown upon the screen; and Cull Pitt causes great amusement with a really clever entertainment, in which conjuring is a prominent item. Roma and Romani are responsible for a good turn, playing cleverly upon a variety of musical instruments; and O'Malley and Brown are rewarded with much laughter for their excellent work as comedians.

Mimicry is always entertaining, and George Newburn is amongst the best of mimics. This week, in addition to giving imitations of Mark Sheridan, Sam Mayo, Harry Lauder, and George Lashwood, he gives an imitation of George Formby which fairly brings the house down. Arthur Slater, "the whistling man in white," contributes a turn which gives much pleasure; and the Prince Milner Trio give a pot-pourri act of considerable merit and originality, introducing wire-walking, acrobatic tumbling and hoop-manipulating.

King and Benson prove as popular as ever with their musical burlesque, entitled Around the Town, their singing and humorous acting being of high quality. The Bioscope this week, in addition to depicting a comic story, is showing interesting pictures of the proclamation of King George V.

The management of the hall continues in the more than capable hands of Mr. Lewis Vincent, and he has an admirable assistant in Mr. Herbert Mack.

RINKING GOSSIP.

John Davidson's Doings.

JOHN DAVIDSON has this year performed at Earl's Court, and no less than seven suburbs of London. Among the towns he has been in England in his professional capacity are Bedford, Birmingham, Nottingham, Worcester, Sheffield, Carlisle, Rochdale, Bournemouth, Bristol, Cardiff, and also Belfast. His entertainment is entirely different from the regular routine taken up by other professional skaters, and includes several very difficult and dangerous performances. One of the features of his entertainment is the speed at which his tricks are executed. He started his skating on the ice, and has been all over Europe and in England, on artificial ice rinks at London and Brighton. When he has finished his present tour in England, Mr. Davidson intends going to Australia.

Allie Moore for Bournemouth.

THERE are some big attractions for Whitsuntide at the Westover Gardens Rink, Bournemouth. An engagement with Allie Moore has been arranged for the week commencing May 23. He will, therefore, be following very shortly after the starring engagement of Jessie Darling.

A Rink Romance.

AT the Garden Rink, Bridlington, Mr. Lawrence A. Williams, the genial manager, has been receiving the congratulations of the frequenters of this popular resort upon the manner in which he has contrived to "wheel" into the heart of the lady instructor, Miss A. M. Illingworth, and as it was "secretly" known that a wedding might be the outcome of their rinking instructions to each other, their friends had prepared themselves to attend at the marriage ceremony with motor-cars and a large supply of confetti. Mr. Williams, however, is very shy; so the couple went quietly off to church on the Sunday morning a week before their friends expected the event to take place, and were on duty on the Monday as if nothing had happened. The joke was much enjoyed, and in spite of being "had," their many friends joined in wishing them long life and happiness, and a hope that they may "rink" together through life on a "smooth floor."

A Rush for Instruction.

MR. HARRIS'S offer to instruct a hundred ladies in the art of waltzing, two-stepping, and square dancing at the Rupert-street Rink, Bristol, met with such success that another hundred were taught during the afternoons of the week just closing.

Brighton Skating Rinks.

A FEATURE of the English Skating Rinks at Brighton—the Grand Rink, West-street, and the Olympia, Church-street—is the sporting events. In this direction Mr. Reed and the management have made a new departure, by arranging a series of hockey matches between the lady teams representative of each rink. To give the events an added zest, handsome gold medals are offered for the team which wins the first three matches out of five.

Clacton Palace of Varieties.

IN a report to be submitted to a statutory meeting of the shareholders of the Clacton Palace of Varieties and Skating Rink, Ltd., at Clacton, the directors say that the takings have exceeded their expectations, and in view of the fact that these takings are spread over what is admittedly the worst period of the year so far as a seaside resort such as Clacton is concerned, the board regard the success which has been obtained as a most happy augury for the prosperity of the company during the ensuing summer season. The directors attribute much of the success which has been obtained to the fact that it has been their aim to offer the best possible entertainment at popular prices. The directors believe that the company will have a valuable revenue producer in the extensive palace grounds, and in view of the proved success of out-door rinks at other seaside resorts they intend to make the fullest use of these grounds by constructing a large open-air rink to accommodate about 1,000 skaters at a time.

Crewe Rink.

THERE was a record crowd at this popular little rink on Saturday last, on the occasion of a ladies' hockey match between the Ladies' Rink Hockey Club and the Tunstall Station-road Hockey Club, which, after an interesting game, resulted in a clever win for the Crewe ladies by four goals to nil. The goal scorers were: Miss Badger (2), Miss Allman (1), Miss Kitchen (1). This is the ninth match played by this clever team, and they have not yet been defeated. A two-step competition is announced for this week, the final of which will take place on Whit-Monday.

The Dundee Rinks.

OWING to the death of King Edward, the Gala Sports Week at the Olympia Skating Palace has been postponed until after the funeral. The date will be duly announced. At the Melrose Terrace Rink Mr. Alfred Ross, the new manager, has everything in fine working order. The floor is in the pink of condition.

Ilford to Keep Open All Summer.

THE grand fancy dress masked carnival, to celebrate the anniversary of the opening of this rink, was held on Friday of last week, and thanks to the splendid efforts of all concerned, the result was a stupendous success. There was a very large gathering of skaters in fancy costume, and the rink was quite an array of colour. It speaks volumes for the excellent management of Mr. Fred Leighton and his staff of assistants that everything went off without the slightest hitch. Numerous prizes were awarded for the most original, grotesque, and prettiest costumes of both ladies and gentlemen. In addition to the masked carnival, a very pretty Maypole performance was given by eighteen local boys and girls, in costumes representing various countries of the world. Mr. Leighton announces that the rink will be open throughout the summer.

Skating Rink for Long Eaton.

LAST week the Alexandra Skating Rink, just erected in Long Eaton, was formally opened by Mrs. F. W. R. Wallis, in the presence of a large attendance. The rink is built on the corner site of Broad-street and Albert-road, off the Sawley-road, and has a skating space of 150ft. by 70ft. The total space of the building is 170ft. by 100ft. The floor is of rock maple.

Maida Vale Rink.

MR. R. F. J. MOORE, the press and advertising manager of the Maida Vale Rink, has succeeded Mr. Larthe as assistant-manager there. He is thoroughly capable and competent for the post, and should prove a worthy acquisition to the managing staff. Although young, he has had considerable experience in the amusement world, having been connected with other rinks in a similar capacity. In 1905 he visited Australia (where he first started as a journalist), South Africa, and Spain, and his journalistic energies found full scope in several of the Colonial papers. On returning to England he again took up the profession, with which he has been connected ever since. His appointment should prove a popular and successful one.

Maidenhead Rinking.

THE Maidenhead Rink was closed last Saturday on account of the death of the King, but good business is being done this week. The building has been enlarged by providing additional accommodation for onlookers.

The Phillips Trio.

THE Phillips Roller Skating Trio of Manchester—Fred, Frank, and Doris, aged 17, 12, and 10 years respectively—appeared at the Pavilion Roller Rink, Prestbury-road, last week, and delighted the excellent crowds of spectators which assembled with their remarkably clever exhibitions of fancy and trick-roller skating. Considering that the trio have only been skating for ten months, and only turned professionals about two months ago, owing to being debarred from amateur competitions, anyone who saw the exhibition will agree that the skaters should have a successful career in the rinking world. Already they have appeared at a number of the leading rinks in the country. The wonderful tricks by Fred, especially on the pair of skates with only front rollers, were of a very clever character. The very graceful style of the girl skater was also greatly admired, and, on the whole, the exhibition was the best yet seen in Macclesfield.

Mansfield to Close for Summer.

THE closing of the Mansfield rink for the summer vacation has been postponed until May 21.

New Rink at Philadelphia.

IN the presence of a large and representative company, a handsome and commodious new skating rink was opened on Monday last. Later in the evening the skating arena was taxed to its utmost capacity, and the arrangements made by the management were of a perfect order. The new rink is in close proximity to the Gaiety Theatre, Houghton-le-Spring, cars passing frequently.

Keen on Hockey in Rhondda.

THE Rhondda Ladies' Hockey Team visited Tony-pandy rink, and met a representative gentlemen's team, and were defeated by three goals to one. The ladies had plenty of pluck, and must be congratulated on playing such an excellent game. The Porth ladies are very anxious to meet any ladies' team, and would esteem it a great favour if secretaries will communicate with their manager, Mr. Ernie Price, 11, John-street, Porth. On Tuesday last a hockey match took place between Mountain Ash and Porth, the home team (Porth) winning by two to nil. This match was the finest game that has been played here. The one mile challenge race issued by the Mountain Ash Hockey team to the Rhondda was held at the Porth rink on Tuesday last. Mr. Baker, of Penygraig, was the winner by nearly half a lap. In conversation with our representative, Mr. Rollason, the manager of the rink, outlined a scheme in connection with the rink which will gladden the hearts of the Rhondda rinkers. It will be announced very shortly.

MR. BRANSBY WILLIAMS IN DICKENS-LAND.

To fulfil a promise of some years' standing, Mr. Bransby Williams appeared this week at the Gaiety, Chatham, and presented a series of his Dickens impersonations to crowded and enthusiastic audiences. As was to be expected of so ardent a Dickensian, Mr. Williams made his professional visit to the heart of Dickens-land one of pleasure also by taking the opportunity of revisiting once more the numerous places of note associated with the works of the great novelist. Like a true Pickwickian, he not only stayed at the Bull Hotel, Rochester, but occupied the famous Pickwick bedroom therein. He found the old inn somewhat modernised, but was delighted to discover that Mr. Snell, the present proprietor, was doing all in his power to make the hotel worthy of the great associations it has with a great book of a great writer.

During his stay in Rochester Mr. Williams, accompanied by Mrs. Williams and their friend, Mr. B. W. Matz, the editor of the Dickensian, visited Gad's Hill Place, the Leather Bottle, Cobham, Chalk, Shorne, and, of course, all the historical places of interest in Rochester and Chatham. Of the latter, the one thing that interested him more than another was the Watts historic charity of the "Six Poor Travellers." Having gone all over the building during the morning, and learnt all that was to be known about it, he obtained permission to visit it again in the evening, in order to have a chat with the six poor travellers assembled for the night. And so, dressed in the costume of the Dickens period, he was admitted in the evening, and had audience of the men. Mr. Matz spoke a few words in introducing Mr. Williams, but found it almost unnecessary, as all knew him by name, and some had seen his performances. The men represented the following trades: Florist, cabinet-maker, gardener, labourer, and bricklayer; and, after a friendly chat, Mr. Williams entertained them with a recital from Dickens's books. Before leaving he presented each with a packet of tobacco and a sum of money to be added to the fourpence they would receive by right in the morning.

It was an interesting event, and carried the mind back to the day when Dickens himself did a similar action, which resulted in the publication of the Christmas story of "The Seven Poor Travellers," Dickens reckoning himself as the seventh.

On another day during his stay Mr. Williams went to Dover, but was terribly disappointed to learn that, beyond the sacred little spot in the Market Square there, nobody seemed to be interested in the Dickens association with the town. He also visited Canterbury and its Dickens houses. But in the cathedral the spots that riveted his attention most were those associated with Becket, which brought back to him vivid scenes of Irving's great impersonation.

On Thursday evening Mr. Williams was entertained to supper at the Bull Hotel by members of the local branch of the Dickens Fellowship.

MR. RICHARD MORTON, the writer of "Ta-ra-ra," has contributed to John Bull some account of its origin and development. Says he:—"It was Mr. Cooney who sent his wife, from America, a copy of a song called 'Ta-ra-ra-boum-der-é,' described as by Henry Sayer. It contained two verses only, and the melody did not indicate the famous "boom" which, with the clash of the drum and cymbals, was the feature of the production. Miss Collins showed me the song in its original immature state, and, with the genius of a true artist, pointed to the weak spot and told how she would remedy it. 'Write me some fresh verses,' she said; 'these American ones are no good—they never are!—and leave the dance to me.'

"I wrote the song of 'Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay,' as sung by Miss Collins, while we sat at the dinner-table, altering and adapting the lines of the American edition, and adding third and fourth verses of my own. One adapted verse and my two original verses formed the song that Miss Collins produced with electrical effect within seven days. It was one of the quickest 'studies' I have ever known.

"REGARDING the age and origin of the air of 'Ta-ra-ra,' I proved at the time in the columns of Truth that the melody was that of an old folk-song from the neighbourhood of the Balkans. Taken to America by emigrants, it became a kind of rough chorus in the nigger houses. The rest of the story I have now told here. I need only add that, in the days of the 'Boom,' Punch wrote my epitaph. I have not yet had occasion to use it."

MR. BEN WOODGER, Secretary, Music Hall Home, desires to thank the following for gifts as indicated:—Walter Norman, King's Theatre, Gainsborough, 5s. 6d.; the Dayton Family, 5s.; Geo. Weldon, Hippo. Picture Palace, Dewsbury, 16s.; Harry Smith, "The Old Bell," Wellington-street, Strand, 10s. 6d.; Henry C. Arnold, Lyric Theatre, Liverpool, 7s. 8d.; H. Wood, Tivoli Hotel, Barrow-in-Furness, 2s. 6d.; Walter Hassan, Royal Hippodrome, Liverpool, £2 10s.; Geo. Marsh, Empire, Dublin, £1 5s. 8d.; The Encore, Ltd., 10s. 6d.; Nelson Francis (Empress, Brixton), £2 10s.; Arthur R. Harrison (Hippodrome, Bolton), 8s. 6d.; also Jim Marco, of the Marco Twins, for presenting one of the inmates of the Music Hall Home with useful clothes, and Mr. Edwards, Montpelier, Walworth-road, for kindly taking a pence collecting box.

A NUMBER of collecting cards are still out, and the holders are asked to return them, with the amounts, to the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift. A committee meeting will be held June 2 at the Empire, Camberwell, at twelve noon.

MR. CHARLES URBAN has made the most complete arrangements for presenting at the Palace Theatre in due course scenes of the funeral of King Edward the Seventh, which should be gratifying news to thousands of loyal Britons who from various reasons will be precluded from witnessing the sad pageant of Friday next in actuality.

MR. WALTER NORMAN, manager of the King's Theatre, Gainsborough, and a popular Terrier, wired condolence to Queen Alexandra and King George V. on Saturday, and on Monday received the following telegraphic acknowledgments: "The King thanks you for your kind message of sympathy.—Equerry." "Queen Alexandra deeply appreciates your kind sympathy."

THE new fantaisie chorégraphique, designed by M. Adolf Bolm and executed by Mlle. Lydia Kyasht, the première danseuse of the Empire Theatre, in conjunction with M. Bolm, has proved in every way a further revelation of their art. "The Princess and the Slave" is particularly attractive with its "pas de fascination," and their "Valse de Fleurs" and "Valse Idylle," with the delightful early Victorian costumes, similar to those worn by Taglioni, has also been specially singled out by enthusiastic audiences at the Empire. Pictures showing the historic Proclamation of King George V. were exhibited on the screen at the Empire on Tuesday.

AT the Stoke-on-Trent Hippodrome Miss Jessie Danvers and company present with dramatic effect an incident of real life, entitled The Key. Zellini as a comedy juggler provokes amusement; Edwardes and Edwardes are smart in a musical speciality and dancing act; the Lancashire dialect contributions of Alice Craven are heartily received; and Norah Desmond has excellent slides for her picture songs. Also to be noted are Cavalli, Harry Martell, and the Perfection Pictures.

"THE DEADBEAT."

A New and Original Dramatic Episode of Western Life, by John Raynor, Produced at Sadler's Wells on Monday, May 9.

The Pard ..... MR. WEBSTER NORCOTT
The Scottie ..... MR. MAX COPLAND
The Long'un ..... MR. WEILAND FISCHER
The Broncho ..... MR. SCOTT ADIE
The Wife ..... MISS MAMIE RENDLE
The Baby ..... BY HIMSELF
The "Deadbeat" ..... MR. BERNARD MERVYN

In The Deadbeat, Mr. Bernard Mervyn has undoubtedly got a winner. It is human, it is natural, it is simple, and, well acted as it is, goes right to the heart. The "Deadbeat" and the Pard have dissolved partnership because a girl with whom both of them are in love has chosen the Pard. After their marriage, the "Deadbeat" has gone to the dogs, and has spent most of his time drinking in the bar of the Rest and be Thankful. In due time a son and heir comes to the Pard and his young wife, and after that the christening.

All the boys in the camp are invited, except the "Deadbeat," and whether by accident or design, he finds himself left out in the cold. This he takes very badly, and tells the miners who are taking presents for "the little Nib" that he intends to turn up too. And he keeps his word. Just as the revelry is about to start, in stalks the "Deadbeat" into the Pard's cabin, where one and all have been admiring the baby, safely tucked up in his cradle. He puts his hand into his pocket to take out the present he has brought for "the Kid," but the miners, thinking he intends to do the baby harm, cover him with their revolvers. The "Deadbeat" is broken-hearted at this treatment, and appeals to his former Pard to trust him. Whereupon the two shake hands, the miners are bidden to put up their "guns," and the "Deadbeat" draws from his pocket a big bag of gold—all that is left of the division when he and the other man had "dissolved"—and gives it to the little chap in the cradle. That he is not trusted by his fellow-men goes to his heart, and he leaves the cabin. There is the sound of a revolver shot——!

Mr. Bernard Mervyn may be heartily congratulated on his latest creation—the "Deadbeat." He is always forceful, manly, and gets everything to be got out of a part that fits him like a glove. The drolleries and the canny behaviour of Mr. Max Copland as Scottie are extremely good. In fact, the entire cast is an extremely capable one.

Johnny Hurley, a character coster comedian with a nice taking, quiet style, and a good voice, also in this programme, will be well appreciated wherever he goes. Cissie Carter's jodelling is extremely good, and Beale and Broadway are smart dancers.

Gus Harris is a Hebrew artist who sings of the promised land with all the fervour of the patriot he is. The scenery for this song is very fine. Mr. Harris rather forces his voice, and works very hard. His act is undoubtedly novel. The Dickens girl, Arabella Allen, was responsible for two character studies from the master: Uriah Heep and Little Nell's Grandfather. Very clever studies, both.

The Drury Lane comedians, Queen and Le Brun, were in good form, and tickled the ribs of their audience very frequently during their ten minutes' turn, and Josephine Crook sang two illustrated songs very nicely.

"LITTLE JOHNNIE JONES,"

Light Comedietta, Words by H. M. Vernon, Lyrics by Preston Wynee, Music by Frank Toms, Dances Arranged and Produced by Fred Farren, Musical-Director Mr. Ernee Woodville, Produced at the Tottenham Palace on Monday, May 9.

Little Johnnie Jones ..... MR. JOHN HUMPHRIES
Fannakapan ..... MR. CHARLES CAUTLEY
The Nightingale Queen-Mother ..... MISS BEATRICE GROSVENOR
Aurelia, Princess Royal ..... MISS MABEL DANBY
Righto ..... MR. CHARLES SEGUIN
Jinks ..... MR. P. PRESANO

There is not a dull moment of the thirty minutes that this sketch occupies the boards of the Tottenham Palace this week. The number is replete with merry and bright situations, songs, and dances, woven round a story which, if not particularly strong, is, nevertheless, sufficiently interesting to claim the immediate attention of its audience. Little Johnnie Jones is a nautical man with an ambition which soars very high. In short, he desires to become an aeronaut, and in an experimental trip with Mr. White, the flying machine takes a "John Gilpin" fit and bolts away with the pair to "lands beyond the seas." The erratic plane finds a resting-place in Do Do Land, an isle which has just lost its king. Legendary lore decrees that a white man shall reign some day over the natives, which, by the way, include as bonny a bevy of dusky maidens as ever De Rougemont could conjure up in his mind's eye. Whilst the Grand Vizier is announcing the decree from the throne the aeroplane drops from the skies, causing consternation and wonderment amongst the copper-coloured tribe. The great prediction has come to pass, and Little Johnnie Jones steps into the vacancy, and is duly proclaimed King of Do Do Land. How the girls love him! How they worship his milk-white skin and lily-white hands! How do they pet and pat him! All this goes on under the jealous eye of the Grand Vizier, who, but for the appearance of Johnnie Jones, would himself have become the king, according to the laws of Do Do Land. His male satellites, too, can see themselves usurped in the affections of the ladies by the little sailor, and together they conspire to burn him at the stake. Faggot on faggot is piled round their victim, but, ere the flaming brand is applied Princess Aurelia comes to the rescue, and severs the bonds which hold her white lover from the skies. Then a battle royal commences, and things look awkward for Little Johnnie Jones, until Jinks, of H.M.S. Destruction, puts in a timely appearance and makes things "happy ever after." Filling the title-rôle, Mr. John Humphries displays a rich fund of humour; Mr. Charles Cautley as the plotting Grand Vizier is awe-inspiring in his methods; and Miss Mabel Danby interprets Princess Aurelia in charming fashion.

THE QUEEN-MOTHER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—

"We are thy warriors, lady,
True to the Cross and thee;
The spirit of thy kindling words
On every heart shall be,"

These words, by Mrs. Hemans, naturally rise to the mind on reading the profoundly pathetic and moving appeal to the British nation of our revered Queen-Mother, Alexandra. Could it be given her to read the thoughts of those who have known her so long, and loved her so sincerely, it would relieve her own sorely-burdened heart, if any vestige of doubt as to the abiding hold which her goodness, charity, and untiring interest in her people's best interests have given her upon the heart of the entire nation. Amongst the names of the great ones who have adorned and beautified the high places of this wondrous Empire, surely will that of Alexandra fill a most prominent place! The heartfelt and sincere sympathies of all connected with the stage, in the prosperity upon which she has always bestowed a most sympathetic and encouraging recognition, will go freely out towards her as Queen, as widow, as mother, and as woman. That she may live long amongst us to continue the good and gracious work which has always been her delight is the earnest prayer of us all.—Yours truly,

CHARLES COBORN.

London Pavilion, W., May 12.

"FATE."

Dramatic Episode, in One Scene, by Gerald Wyatt, Produced at the Balham Hippodrome on Monday, May 9.

Frank Dawson ..... MR. JACK BYAM
Wang Toe ..... MR. ALFRED WIGLEY
Head Warder ..... MR. ALEC MARSH
Jack Caven ..... MR. GERALD WYATT

Sharing with Mr. Fred Russell premier place in the bill is a sketch called Fate, which does not attempt to deal in any academic manner with the problem suggested by the title, but provides a quarter of an hour of dramatic excitement, ending with a decided thrill. The booming of guns at the outset of the playlet denotes the escape from Dartmoor of a prisoner. He seeks refuge in the cottage of an explorer, who has become the possessor of a jewel taken from the Kimberley mines, and tells his tale to the startled inmate, showing how it is due to fate that he was wrongly convicted of murder and sentenced to penal servitude. The convict is bidden to go upstairs to bed, while his benefactor dozes in a chair. Then a bony arm steals through the window and unfastens the latch, and the gaunt figure of a Chinaman creeps into the room, stabs the sleeping man, and, securing the jewel, departs by the way he came. The convict, aroused by the murdered man's death shriek, returns to the room and withdraws the knife that is still embedded in his breast, just as the police authorities enter, and find in the weapon in the convict's hand convincing proof that he is the assassin—another instance of the inexorable "fate" that has dogged him throughout. The exciting incidents were effectively portrayed by Mr. Gerald Wyatt and company, Mr. Wyatt giving a dramatic rendering of the convict, and delivering a long, descriptive speech with eloquent expression. Mr. Jack Byam, an actor with a remarkably resonant voice, played sympathetically as the Explorer; and Mr. Alfred Wigley created a sensation by the realistic way in which he made the Chinaman accomplish his bloodthirsty deed. Mr. Alec Marsh was good as the Head Warder.

Humour is the chief recommendation of the other sketch which adorns Mr. E. W. Hancorne James's well-assorted bill. It is found in The Honeymoon Baby, the diverting incidents of which are thoroughly sustained by Mr. Cameron Matthews and his company. Mr. Fred Russell is the cause of many mirthful moments with his favourite "Coster Joe," who is as bright and perky as ever. Impressions of series are furnished by Miss Daisy Yates, who cleverly contrasts the singing by Miss Julia Mackay of "Say au revoir" with the impersonation of a jaunty "coster millionaire." Miss Yates also figures as an "up-to-date comedienne," in the course of which she sings a coon song, accompanying herself with a cleverly executed acrobatic dance.

The "light fantastic" is also indulged in by Mr. Dan Thomas, who adds to his "dame" song a burlesque of what is known as the classical dance, his antics in tights under the rays of the limelight causing a good deal of laughter. An old friend is seen in Captain Kettle, who this time figures in the capacity of the "king of coin manipulators," and varies his tricks with cards and coins with some amusing "patter." The Five X-Rays carry through with indefatigable spirit an "acrobatic cyclone of comedy"; excellent pictures of a train-ride through Canada are exhibited on the Bioscope; and other items of the programme are contributed by Stuart and Morris, comedy pair; the Two Vestas, clever juveniles and dancers; Maud and Sydney Wood, duettists and dancers; and Stanley Bart, comedian. The orchestra is skilfully led by Mr. Lawrie Owen.

SHOREDITCH EMPIRE.

A programme of interesting variety is being placed before the patrons of the above comfortable hall this week. A particularly pleasing feature of the performance is the appearance of Mr. Carter Livesey and Miss Lilian Roseberry in their successful sketch The Would-be Actors. It would be difficult to find a piece of its kind containing more genuine humour. Mr. Carter Livesey in the rôle of the country actor-manager is exceedingly funny; Miss Lilian Roseberry ably supports him as the heroine; and a more absurdly mild villain that Mr. Leo Minster could scarcely be imagined. The sketch, which goes with a swing from start to finish, is much appreciated. Miss Gladys Warren is a comedienne of no mean order; and Wyotti proves himself a skilful juggler of a jocular description, who does much of a highly-entertaining nature. Mr. Larry Peate has a good song in "I'll do you a little bit of good," out of which he creates a vast amount of merriment. He has a bet with the musical-director that he (the musical-director) will not sing the chorus by himself, but this gentleman is quite equal to the task, and sings the required chorus amidst much applause. Mr. Chas. Carr proves himself a smart vocalist and a particularly good dancer. His songs, "Gee! I wish I had a girl" and "I don't want your elegant motor-car," are rendered in a manner worthy of warm praise.

The Maid of Polaria, as presented by Miss Peggy Lennie and Mr. Walter Hast, was fully reported in our columns a short time ago, and it was then stated that their little piece should prove successful wherever performed. This prophecy was quite fulfilled here on Monday, when the scena went with unmistakable appreciation. Mr. Walter Hast uses his fine rich voice to advantage in his number "With you, sweetheart, with you"; and Miss Peggy Lennie sings with charm and skill "Come and catch me if you can." Mr. David Urquhart is a very satisfactory Antonio, the gondolier.

Mr. Arthur Leslie's quaintness successfully carries him through his songs. He impersonates Wilkie Bard and sings "Sneezes," and afterwards, as Mark Sheridan, contributes "The old days." In each case his voice and mannerisms are so well adapted that it would be difficult to tell him from the artist he imitates. Victor's Juveniles, a clever band of miniature vocalists, dancers, and mimics, give a fine display of their ability; Miss Kitty Colyer dances with considerable neatness and precision; Mr. Albert Le Fre has no difficulty whatever in arresting appreciative attention, his whole performance being the essence of humour throughout.

A playlet containing the genuine comedy element is found in A Man of Spirit, presented by Mr. Daley Cooper and Miss Mabel Lait. The story tells of a wife who has a liking for soldiers, and who imagines she would like a military husband with spirit, and one who would knock her about if necessary. Her husband overhears this, and determines to act according to her wishes, and dresses in an old uniform he has by him. However, his harsh manner does not quite appeal to the wife, who eventually comes to her senses. The sketch creates roars of laughter. The entertainment concludes with a display of the latest films by the Empire Bioscope. Mr. T. G. Richards is the energetic and courteous general-manager here, and the orchestra is under the able direction of Mr. Wm. McDonald.

MR. CHARLES COBORN produced at the London Pavilion last Monday a revised version of a song originally written by Mr. Medley Barrett, entitled "Why did the British love the King?" the wording of which Mr. Coborn has altered to accord with the present situation. The song, which was inserted by Mr. Glenister in the current programme, has met with most gratifying success, and Mr. Coborn will be pleased to give permission to other artists to sing it should they so desire. The music and words can be obtained from Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, 142, Charing Cross-road, W.C., who are the publishers of the original song.

Horncastle Fair.

THE centre of attraction at this fair was Hall and Procter's cinematograph theatre, and the same enterprising firm exhibited their fine sets of racing motor-cars. Both these concerns were deservedly well patronised. Amongst the other amusement caterers were Barwick, with houp-la circles, rifle ranges, park swings, and throwing games; Angus, with coker sheets, skittle alley, and Emmas; Bloomfield, with football penalty frames and rifle saloons; and a number of local traders with toys, stalls, and confectionary.

Recovery of Arthur Dashwood.

UNDER the skilful treatment of Dr. Mottram, of Smethwick, Birmingham, Mr. Arthur Dashwood has so far recovered that he has been able to resume his duties, and is now piloting W. Sedgewick's American menagerie through South Wales. It is to be hoped that the bracing mountain air of Wales will soon bring him back to robust health and strength. Mr. Dashwood is the oldest advance agent now on the road, and was for several years general-manager for Fletcher's Palace of Varieties, the first music hall in Swansea. His name is still kindly spoken of by music hall patrons of that town, and they will be glad to see him once again amongst them.

MR. DASHWOOD is a most popular man at the World's Fair, Agricultural Hall, London, where his duties take him every Christmas, and we trust he may be spared for many years to his ever-increasing circle of friends throughout the showman world.

Leicester May Fair.

OWING to the usual date of this fair clashing with Whitsun week, it was held this year a week earlier. The fair, despite the gloom cast over the whole nation by the King's death, was held with great acceptance, the fairground being thronged by crowds of people.

THERE is no doubt whatever that under less mournful circumstances the 1910 fair would have established a record. Mr. P. Collins provided one of the most attractive and varied aggregation of fairground novelties ever seen upon a British fairground.

CHIEF amongst the attractions were Collins's British circus, Collins's No. 2 "Wonderland" show, Collins's haunted castle, Collins's aeroplane, Collins's racing motor-cars, Collins's galloping horses, and Collins's bicycle track. E. Davies's steeplechasers and great airships; C. Relph's midget and giant girl show; Wortley's model colliery show; Lang's Teddy Bear jungle; Harry Cullis's school of boxers; Hart's sea-lions and seals; Mrs. Wortle's fine-art show; Huting's freak show and numerous side-show novelties; Miller's helter-skelter tower; Kent's juvenile horses; S. Bolesworth's bicycle track, and shooting galleries and ranges by Dodson, Humphries, and Parkin; a long avenue of houp-la circles, provided by Powell, Lang, Bolesworth Bros., and other caterers; and throwing games in splendid array by Warwick, Campfield, Wood, Parkin, Hayes, Humphries, Clayton, Young, Beach, Stokes, Holt, Myles, Hadfield, and Houldsworth; and gingerbread stalls by Langton, Lovett, Goodnight, Lewis, Stokes, Westrop, and others. There were also avenues of stalls, toy bazaars, and fairground varieties, the whole providing the perfection of open-air amusements for the people.

Leicester Pleasure Fair.

OUR Leicester correspondent writes:—Mr. P. Collins is to be congratulated on the manner in which he has succeeded in maintaining for the people of Leicester their time-honoured pleasure fairs in May and October, which at one time seemed threatened with total extinction, which would have been a calamity, as these fairs are looked forward to by many thousands in the borough and county and in the neighbouring towns, special trains bringing many thousands of visitors to the town. Leicester people have nothing but praise for the enterprise displayed by Mr. P. Collins. The weather cannot be said to have been altogether ideal, but we have experienced much worse on many festivals of this kind.

THE ground is situated on the Ross's Walk, leading from the Belgrave Road, and presented an animated appearance on Thursday, May 5, when it opened. An attraction seen for the first time on any fair-ground, and the first aeroplane seen in Leicester, was the special engagement of Leo Merode, with his Blériot monoplane of 25 horse-power. Leo Merode is the first music-hall artist in England to fly an aeroplane, the only other known being Houdini, who has one abroad. Leo Merode is well-known as Le Diabelo, who will be remembered for his remarkably sensational performance of Looping the Loop. The fair terminated on Tuesday evening.

Manchester White City Reopening.

SATURDAY last was set for the beginning of the fourth season at Manchester's White City, but the sudden bereavement visited upon the country caused a postponement of the event until Monday, at which time all the usual ceremonies were gone through with, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather and the general uncertainty as to amusements the opening was in all respects a most successful and enjoyable one, and one that gives every promise that it presages the best season in the history of this the most popular of Northern resorts. Army regulations prohibit bands of the line from playing until at least the funeral of King Edward has been held, hence the band of H.M. Royal Artillery were compelled to cancel their engagement for the first week of the season, and their place has been filled by Stephens' Military Band, and most splendidly have they filled the breach. All the rides and shows of last season have been retained, and a number of good additions have been made to the list. Great improvements have also been made in the gardens, where Mr. Paul, the specialist in floriculture of the Royal Botanical Society, has made many of the waste spaces of the White City to blossom in all the glory of spring flowers. Numerous new walks, lounges, and resting-places have been placed about the grounds, and the bandstand has been erected in one corner of the lake, and is entirely surrounded by water, with all the shores of the lake seated with chairs and benches, and most of them under shelter in case weather conditions require it. The policy of last season by which the ballroom, the skating rink, and nearly all the big riding devices and shows are given over free to the use of the visitors is again in force, and is proving as popular as when first introduced. This policy could not be followed were the concessions in the White City as in other pleasure parks; but here Mr. Calvin Brown, the proprietor of the White City, is also the owner of all these shows, &c., and his idea of an inclusive gate charge can be made without reference to what others may think. Strange as it may appear, it is a fact that every concession not owned by Mr. Brown enjoyed much better receipts last season after the inclusive gate was inaugurated than before, and all independent concessionaires are strongly in favour of its continuance this season. During Whit Week a number of special features will be seen at the White City, and Manchester people who cannot afford to go away for the holidays will be entertained at home. On the day of the King's funeral, which is really the best money day in the year in Lancashire, all Manchester outdoor amusements will be in operation, and at the White City a special programme of music has been arranged, and during the hour of the funeral memorial music and the Dead March will be played, to be followed by the National Anthem, in which all the staff and visitors will join in singing. A change in the lighting of the White City has been made, and now alternate red, white, and blue electric lights sparkle and twinkle all about the grounds.

Salisbury.

BARTLETT'S Fun City opened for a short season on the Gaol Ground, and are meeting with a large share of patronage. In addition to the galloping horses are swing-boats, shooting saloons, throwing games, stalls, two houp-la circles, which are much patronised, and a host of minor attractions. They have a fine electric installation, which is much admired. Will showmen, &c., kindly note this site is now available for their use, is centrally situated, and has recently been fitted up with sanitary arrangements? For terms, apply to 56, Devizes-road. Circus and menagerie proprietors please note this.

Notes from Wales.

WE have it on very good authority that the veteran Welsh showman Mr. Walter Haggar has acquired a valuable site in Llanelly, whereon he intends to build a permanent picture hall at once. Mr. Haggar is very popular in the Llanelly district. He, many years ago, was the owner of a portable theatre that used to visit the tinplate town and do well.

THE Llanelly May Fair was, as usual, well attended, Messrs. Hy. Studt and Son having two of their largest machines on the ground. Messrs. Haggar's No. 2 Bioscope Show was here also, with the latest films, as well as a large variety of houp-las, shooters, and cokernut chics by the Messrs. North, Mr. Jarvis, Mr. W. Roberts, Mr. James Day, and others.

THE LATE KING AND SHOWMEN.

The spontaneous grief of the nation at the loss of King Edward VII. found full expression amongst his loyal subjects of the fairground at Leicester on Sunday last.

As previously announced in these columns, the annual meeting of the Showmen's Guild for the Midland Circuit took place in P. Collins' cinematograph theatre on the fairground, Leicester.

As with all other organisations and societies in the Empire, the business of the moment was completely swallowed up in the overwhelming consternation and grief caused by the sudden death of the beloved King.

It is no figure of speech to say that the annals of the British monarchy provide no record of a king more in touch with all the concerns of his people than King Edward of Blessed Memory.

From his earliest days down to the end of his life he was a man who identified himself fully with the amusements as well as with the serious concerns of his people.

There are innumerable instances of the keen interest he took in shows and showmen, and there are many showmen to-day who will remember with pride the occasions upon which His Majesty's interest and gracious condescension was shown in the hearty way in which he patronised the shows and amusements at the fair.

This, however, is not the moment to record these instances of his appreciation of show life; they were but a manifestation of that complete identity and comradeship with his people that so notably marked his genial and cosmopolitan character.

The Showmen Join in the National Grief.

The president of the Showmen's Guild, Mr. Patrick Collins, presided over the meeting, and he was supported by the Rev. T. Horne, Guild Chaplain, and Mr. T. Watson Wright (Guild solicitor), Messrs. E. Davies, F. Stevenson, R. Scott, C. Shaw, H. Cullis, W. Harris, T. Dobson, C. Relph, W. Cook, C. Bliss, W. H. Hadfield, H. Powell, Bolesworth Brothers, Jones, Jeffries, Wood, Miles, Mrs. R. Yelding, Mrs. R. Parkin, Mrs. Crockett, Miss Etherdo, Miss Transfield, and many others.

The President of the Guild moved the following resolution:—"That this meeting of the Showmen of the United Kingdom is deeply grieved and greatly shocked at the irreparable loss sustained by the whole nation by the death of our beloved and noble King, and tenders its heartfelt condolences to Her Majesty Queen Alexandra and the rest of the Royal Family, and humbly assures our Sovereign Lord King George that he has no more loyal subjects than the showmen of the Empire."

Under the stress of manifest emotion, Mr. Collins briefly referred to the grief the whole nation was now suffering—a grief that, he felt sure, was fully shared by every travelling showman. He had many sweet memories of the personal interest taken by their beloved late King in the shows and in the amusements that the showmen provided for the people.

In the respect of the popular amusements of the people the late King not only patronised them, but thoroughly enjoyed them. It was with the utmost sense of reverent admiration that he ventured to claim for the late King the distinction of having always been from his youth upwards a friend and patron of the travelling showpeople.

Death had come suddenly, and the grief of the nation was heartfelt and real, but the world demanded not only respect and reverence for its dead but also regard for the living.

The resolution he had submitted conveyed the heartfelt sympathy of every showman and showwoman for the bereaved Queen-Mother. That was a sympathy that touched the very well-springs of human life. At the same time they had as loyal subjects to remember that the death of King Edward had laid a burden of tremendous responsibility upon the King that the nation now was proclaiming with ardent loyalty and earnest prayer that he would be blessed and sustained in the great work of kingship. He called upon Mr. Watson Wright to second the resolution.

Mr. T. Watson Wright said there could be no doubting the sincere and unanimous grief of all the peoples in the great British Empire, over which their late King had ruled with such signal success and beneficence. Of all the Kings of England it was the especial glory of King Edward VII. to be acclaimed as "The Peacemaker."

The resolution expressed their heartfelt sympathy with the widowed Queen, and it also expressed their unswerving loyalty to the Throne and to its new occupant in the person of King George V. He claimed for the showpeople that they were as loyal in their attachment to the Throne and to the person of the King as any other class in the community.

It had ever been his proud boast that the showmen of the Empire were loyal subjects of the King, and it was no mere figure of speech when in the resolution before them they assured King George of their loyalty and attachment to the Throne.

From the bottom of his heart he supported the expression of sympathy to the widowed Queen, and the expressions of their condolence and loyalty to the Royal Family.

The Guild Chaplain on the Nation's Grief.

In speaking to the resolution, he referred in touching terms to the grief the whole nation experienced when the news came with its awful suddenness of the King's death. It seemed impossible that one who had filled so large a space in public life, one who had identified himself so closely with every aspect of human life, would no more be seen in his accustomed place as the father, the friend, and the leader of his people.

Death, the great messenger of God, knocked without distinction at the gate of the King's palace as well as at the door of the poor man's cottage.

The poor man dying by the roadside, the King, surrounded by everything that love could provide, were just as much under the compulsion of the summons of God, for death is the great leveller of all men and of all things.

He would ask them only to regard that intensely human—intensely common—but, oh, so truly pathetic sight, the widow sorrowing over her dead. Here was the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin.

All the pageantry, all the pomp and circumstance of State, were swallowed up in that heartrending picture of our common humanity—sorrow for the dead.

The grief-stricken nation tendered to the bereaved Queen and all those near and dear to her—each in their measure bereaved and grief-stricken—its reverent, its tender and loving sympathy.

It was not, he ventured to say, the right moment to attempt any proper appreciation of the life-work of their beloved and lost King. But this he ventured to state: above all the characteristics of the late monarch there was one trait of his character pre-eminently conspicuous, it was its humanness. He was in every sense of the word a man. A man amongst men, with a great grasp of human affairs, tact that never failed to say the right thing at the right moment, and to do the right thing in the best possible way; a man yet always a King amongst men.

It is for this great loss that the nation grieves, and amongst those who will miss him the most must be reckoned the travelling showpeople. Many, many times did the late King display a keen, a kindly and sympathetic interest in the concerns of showland.

They joined, therefore, first of all in tendering their heartfelt sympathy to the Queen-Mother in her irreparable loss and bereavement, to Their Majesties the King and Queen and the rest of the Royal Family, and they sincerely hoped that the God of all comfort would be with them in this hour of darkest sorrow.

The words of the resolution were then read and passed in profound silence, the audience standing. The Chaplain was requested to send a telegram of condolence to the Royal Family expressing the grief of the showmen of the United Kingdom at the national loss.

Guild Committee and Enrollment of Members.

A meeting of the Committee of the Showmen's Guild was held, but only necessary business was despatched and members enrolled.

Guild Subscriptions, 1910.

The Guild Service at Night.

Collins' cinematograph theatre was filled at night by showmen, their friends, and the general public. The Guild service, conducted throughout by the Rev. T. Horne, Guild Chaplain, took the form (as at all other churches throughout the Empire) of a commemoration of the late beloved King. The Guild Chaplain in his sermon, after dwelling upon the events of the great Festival of Ascension-tide, pointed out how even that great festival—the crowning of the King of Kings, had its connection with the kingdoms of this world. That our Ascended Lord enthroned in heaven was King of Kings and Lord of Lords, whose kingdom would ultimately include all earthly dominions, principalities, and powers.

The King whom they now mourned so deeply derived his authority in its highest aspect from the Kingdom of God. He referred in touching terms to the grief-stricken Royal Family, and claimed that the heart of the nation was in fullest sympathy with the bereaved Royal Family.

At the end of the service the Chaplain used one of the collects from the Burial Service, and after the Benediction the congregation joined in singing one verse of the National Anthem.

The Showmen's Expression of Sympathy.

The following are the terms of the telegram sent by the Showmen's Guild to the Royal Family:—"The Showmen of the United Kingdom through their representatives in meeting assembled, most humbly tender to Your Majesties, to Her Majesty Queen Alexandra, and the Royal Family, their profound sympathy and most heartfelt condolences in the hour of bereavement. His late Majesty King Edward endeared himself to all his loving subjects, but to none more than the showmen of the Empire.—PATRICK COLLINS, President Showmen's Guild of Great Britain, Guild Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C. May 10."

His Most Gracious Majesty King George, through his private secretary, has sent the following reply to the address of condolence given above:—

"To Patrick Collins, president. The King sincerely thanks the showmen of the United Kingdom for their telegram of sympathy with their Majesties and the Royal Family in their great bereavement. May 11, Buckingham Palace."

We are quite sure that every showman in the Empire will appreciate this gracious answer of the King and the Royal Family to their humble and loyal subjects in showland.

P. Collins' Royal English Circus.

WE made special reference at Easter to Mr. Collins's enterprise in sending out a circus to travel the British fairs. It was our privilege at Leicester Fair to see the circus in full swing—to notice the completeness of the enterprise, and especially to notice the splendid talent secured for the touring season by Mr. Collins. Some of the greatest names in the circus world of Great Britain appear on the programme, and the proud title "The Royal English Circus" is fully borne out by the fact that the company contained members of the oldest circus families in the world, such as the Yeldings, the Scotts, the Crocketts, the Austins, the Vokes, the Transfields, the Stephensons, and others.

THE circus is run on lines that recall the palmy days of the British circus at our fairs. There is a good band, and the outside parade of both horses and performers is a marked feature of the enterprise.

THE director and manager for Mr. Collins is Mr. Frank Stephenson, the ringmaster is Mr. H. Stephenson, and the leader of the band is Mr. J. Hurst.

THE programme of over twenty excellent numbers includes Messrs. Robert Scott and Robert Yelding, in their great double jockey act; the Brothers Lysando, balancers and acrobats; Mme. Montero, in the High School and Menage act; Miss Jennae Etherdo, on the slack and tight wire; Mme. Lena, on the rolling globe; Miss Transfield, serpentine dancer on horseback; Miss Flora, equestrienne; M. Platter, comedy juggler; the Spangeletti's Troupe of performing dogs and baboons; Mlle. Sylvesto, contortionist and flexible marvel; Harry Stephenson, the champion jockey act rider of the world; and the following splendid company of clowns and ring humorists: Funny Crockett, Rumbo Austin, Ned Vokes, Funny Stepho, the Brothers Reno, and Auguste's Shadows, Happy and Otto.

WE were more than delighted with the excellent performance, vindicating our opinion that the British circus, run on up-to-date lines, will draw the public as much to-day as ever in the past. We congratulate every member of the company, and, above all, Mr. P. Collins, for affording the British public such excellent entertainment at popular prices at the fair.

A Showman's Palace.

A BEAUTIFUL and spacious caravan which is claiming much admiration in Cardiff at present has been designed and manufactured by the Bute Steam Joinery Co. (Ltd.), of Dumballs-road, Cardiff, to the order of Mr. Sidney White, showman, of Tin-street, Cardiff. With woodwork of mahogany and cypress panels, the caravan is so constructed that in case of any damage being sustained any panel or piece of framing can be easily removed and replaced without disturbing in any way the general structure of the van. The principal measurements of this up-to-date and well-upholstered vehicle are: Length 24ft., width 7ft. 9in., and height to crown 7ft. 3in. It consists of a living room, bedroom, store and tank-room, and lavatory. The outside is elegantly polished, representing light relief round panels, with mouldings picked out in gold, whilst the interior is polished a rich mahogany. The furniture and fittings of the doors, &c., are in antique copper colour to match. The windows are glazed with bevelled plate-glass, with brilliant cut relief work and monogram of owner worked in the centre. The fanlights are of blue-coloured glass, with brilliant cut star in centre. In the living-room is fitted a most compact range for cooking and heating, this being of bright steel and enamel, with coils for hot-water circulation. The van is lighted throughout with electricity. Surmounted by a circular-shaped roof, this is covered on the outside with 16-gauge zinc and asbestos, and on the inside with mahogany rails and light-coloured panelling. Ventilation is provided by fanlights, and these are ingeniously constructed to prevent draughts, whilst at the same time giving thorough ventilation to the various rooms. The interior of the van is fitted up in a most up-to-date, compact, and luxurious manner, the space being so well utilised as to secure the maximum of comfort. The van was designed by and manufactured under the supervision of the works foreman (Mr. Turner).

FILM GOSSIP.

"A Victim of Bridge."

THIS is the title of an extremely good Edison film. The young wife of a well-to-do Wall-street man is a victim of Bridge, and piled up losses which she dared not tell him. On the night when the winners have made especially strong demand for payment her husband brings home a little gift, a bottle of peculiar imported perfume. She has previously sent out her maid to pawn her jewellery, and is horrified to learn that the amount it brings falls short of what is required. Later, the maid puts some of the new perfume on the handkerchief of her mistress. When dinner is over the card-sharpers invite her to join in the game. Again she loses. She is driven to desperation at their demands and threats of disclosure. Entering the music-room, she discovers that a valuable diamond pin on the shoulder of the lady at the piano is loose and about to fall. Pretending to pat her hostess on the shoulder, she covers the loosened pin with her handkerchief and takes it away. Later the loss is discovered. A maid is suspected, and arrested. Through the odour of the peculiar perfume the husband concludes that his wife is guilty, as he knows more of her losses than she suspects. Quietly he holds out his hand in wordless demand to his wife. Hesitating a moment, she places the handkerchief containing the jewel in his hand. He seizes the opportunity, and slips the jewel into a crevice in a nearby chair. During the search which the officer makes the jewel is found. When they return to their own home the crisis is faced. He believes he cannot forgive her. She packs up her belongings to leave, but he stops her, tears up her confession, and folds her in his protecting embrace.

Fuller's N.Z. Enterprises.

OF the six theatres or halls devoted to public entertainments in Wellington, New Zealand, four are utilised exclusively for the display of kinematograph pictures—King's Theatre, His Majesty's Theatre, the Town Hall, and St. Thomas's Hall—and in each case standing room is at a premium. It is calculated that approximately 6,000 people spend the evening between eight o'clock and ten o'clock gazing at animated pictures, whilst about another 2,500 go to see Peter Pan and Fullers' Vaudeville Company (at the Theatre Royal). Messrs. John Fuller and Sons have no fewer than ten shows going in New Zealand—three in Dunedin, two in Christchurch, three in Wellington (Theatre Royal, Town Hall, and His Majesty's Theatre), one in Auckland, and one in Invercargill.

Maskelyne and Devant's Enterprise.

MESSRS. MASKELYNE AND DEVANT will re-open St. George's Hall to-day (Saturday) at three and eight p.m., when they will present a special programme, including a series of animated photographs of notable events in King Edward's reign.

Provincial Cinematograph Theatres.

PROVINCIAL CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRES, LTD., has been formed to erect first-class cinematograph theatres in Belfast, Birmingham, Bradford, Bristol, Dublin, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Nottingham, Portsmouth, and Sheffield. The prospectus states that the directors have taken great pains to procure the finest sites in all these cities. A careful census has been taken of passing traffic, and sites have been chosen upon the returns obtained as to the number of foot passengers, either shoppers and visitors in the daytime or amusement-seekers at night. The Dublin theatre has been opened for one month, and the receipts, after allowing for a share of central expenses, depreciation, and reserve fund, have resulted in a profit at the rate of 50 per cent. per annum. The theatres will be perfect examples of comfort and convenience, and will be superior to anything of the kind hitherto attempted in the provinces. The company is opening fourteen theatres, with an average seating capacity for 650 persons. Assuming that the theatres are only filled one and a half times out of a possible eight performances each day, the gross annual takings, on the basis of six days per week, will amount to £122,850, the expenses from all sources are estimated at £54,600, leaving a balance of £68,250, or sufficient to pay a dividend of 50 per cent. upon the total capital of the company.

Pictures of the Week.

AMONG the new pictures which have been introduced into the programmes at the London picture theatres this week are several thrilling dramas. In Saved from the Tide the heroine is shown galloping along the seashore to rescue her lover, lying senseless on the sands, at the mercy of the incoming tide. She saves him, and the villains who left him to die meet with their just fate. There is a moral in Gold is Not All, where tragedy enters the mansion of the rich while happiness abides in the cottage of the poor. Mamma's Angel Child is a humorous film. The angel child is shown in the manner of youth playing alarming practical jokes on dignified relatives, but never shaking his mother's faith in his unblemished goodness. Her faith is justified, for the last scene shows him grown up, preparing his next Sunday's sermon in his study.

Sunday Bioscope Shows.

WHEN the Bermondsey Bioscope Company, of 48, Mark-lane, E.C., were summoned at Tower Bridge Police-court on Wednesday for giving an exhibition on Sunday, Feb. 27, at the London Bridge Picture Palace, in contravention of a licence granted by the L.C.C. under the Cinematograph Act, it was contended for the defence that the L.C.C. were wrong. Mr. C. Stanley Thomas, for the defendants, said that the Cinematograph Act was passed with a view to the public safety, and the L.C.C. had no power to go beyond the scope of the Act. Mr. Cecil Chapman, the magistrate, said he was inclined to the view that the L.C.C. were wrong in including in their licence a condition which was outside the scope of the Act. Mr. Cecil Chapman reserved his decision.

Kensington Picture Palace.

Strand Theatre de Luxe.

Ayr Picture Palace.

THE Gaiety Theatre being closed, the Picture Palace is, in consequence, the only continuous pleasure resort here at present, and full houses are the order. For the opening part of this week the leading pictures are: The Highlanders' Defiance, a tale of the South African War; A Western Maid; and Winnipeg, the Wheat Centre of the World. For the latter part of the week: Aviation at Los Angeles, and Romolus, the Founder of Rome, are the chief films.

New Cardiff Picture Theatre.

NEGOTIATIONS are practically complete for acquiring premises between Windsor-place and Charles-street, Cardiff, for the purposes of a cinematograph theatre by a London syndicate.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring Gardens, Mr. Whitaker Thompson (chairman) presiding.

SKATING RINKS.

Recommendations of the Theatres and Music-Halls Committee were approved with reference to a drawing submitted by Mr. B. Crewe, showing alterations proposed to be made to the main entrance, and the conversion of the tea-room on the ground floor into lavatories and cloak-rooms, at the Hammersmith Skating Rink, Brook Green-road. Also with reference to drawings submitted by Mr. W. R. Phillips, showing a re-arrangement of the sanitary accommodation and of the exit leading into Lisson Grove, at the skating rink, Lisson-grove, Marylebone.

The provisional licence for music granted on Nov. 26, 1909, for the Chelsea Skating Rink was confirmed, also the provisional licence granted on Nov. 26 for the Sydenham and Forest Hill Skating Rink.

CINEMATOGRAPH CHAMBERS.

The Council approved of cinematograph chambers proposed to be constructed in the dress circle saloon at the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington-road; also a cinematograph chamber proposed to be constructed at the Finsbury Park Empire.

ISLINGTON PALACE.

The Council approved a drawing submitted by Mr. J. Jeffrey showing how it is proposed to comply with a requirement made by the Council for the improvements of the exits leading to Barford-street and Berners-road from the Islington Palace.

NEW CINEMATOGRAPH HALL.

There was a cry of "Opposed" when a recommendation was submitted by the committee with reference to a drawing submitted by Mr. G. Duckworth, showing a cinematograph hall proposed to be erected in Lower Clapton-road. It is intended to apply for a music licence for the premises, which will have accommodation for about 840 persons; and the committee stated that, subject to certain conditions being complied with, the premises appeared to be suitable for the purpose for which the licence is desired.

PROPOSED RINK.

The Council on Oct. 19, 1909, approved drawings of a skating-rink, which it was proposed to erect in Queen-street and Great Church-lane, Hammersmith. The Council's approval was subject to a condition, inter alia, that the work of erecting the rink be commenced within six months from the date of the approval. The work was not commenced within the specified time, but we are informed that it is intended to commence the work shortly, and an application has now been made for the renewal of the Council's approval. The committee recommended that, provided that the works shown on the four drawings submitted by Messrs. Charles Heathcote and Sons, on July 21, 1909, with regard to a roller-skating rink proposed to be erected in Queen-street and Great Church-lane, Hammersmith, be commenced within six months, the Council will be prepared to grant a certificate to the owner of such building, on being satisfied that the premises have been completed in accordance with the drawings referred to, and that certain stated conditions have been complied with.

Agreed to.

ESTIMATES—THEATRES AND MUSIC HALLS.

The Council proceeded with the consideration, for the purpose of voting expenditure, of the annual estimates of expenditure on capital and on rate and revenue accounts for the financial year 1910-11. The Theatres and Music Halls Committee's estimates were as follows:—Theatres and music halls—surveying (salaries and wages, &c.), £2,415; music and dancing licences—printing and incidental expenses, £195; cinematograph licences—printing and incidental expenses, £50; total, £2,660.

ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT.

The consideration of the recommendation of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee with reference to music and dancing and stage-plays licences, and to which Mr. George Alexander has given notice of an amendment, was again postponed with the consent of the Council.

The Bard on the Bioscope.

TALK about Potting Plays! Why, cinematographing Shakespeare is a thousand times more complicated. It takes over twelve hours to photograph a play that will ultimately be shown to the public in twelve minutes. Of course, scenery has to be arranged, costumes changed, and points discussed. But to reproduce six of Shakespeare's plays on the bioscope over four and a half miles of film have to be used, and over seventy people have to be hard at work for a fortnight. When you realise that sixteen pictures are recorded per second by the machine, thus producing nearly 1,000 per minute, you begin to regard it with the awe and reverence it deserves. And the total result can be seen in under two hours!

Making a Newspaper.

A FEATURE of the Home Exhibition in Manchester is the cinematograph display in the lecture hall. The films show every stage in the production of a great newspaper—the receipt of the news in the office, the editorial department, the setting up of the type on the "lino" machine, the formation of the matrices and the stereotyping of the pages for the gigantic printing machines, and, finally, the piles of printed and folded papers coming from the machines at wonderful speed. The display has proved intensely interesting to all who have seen it. The pictures are being shown five times daily.

THE Northampton Picture Palace, of which the proprietors are Messrs. J. F. Bentley, and the general manager Mr. J. W. Borrowman, was opened on Monday. It is being run at popular prices, on the two-houses-a-night principle, with a change of pictures twice a week. The opening subjects were: The Heroine of Mafeking and The Sentinel's Romance, good dramatic films; Cologne to Bengen, a fine succession of views on the Rhine; and plenty of comics, including Incorrigible Mary and A Seaside Flirtation.

C.D.L. and the Royal Family.

THE Executive Committee of the Cinematograph Defence League held a special meeting in their board-room last Saturday morning, and resolved that the following telegrams of sympathy be sent to His Majesty King George V. and also to H.M. Queen Alexandra:—"The Cinematograph Defence League tender to your Majesty an expression of their deep and sincere sympathy on the terrible loss we have all sustained. May the Almighty in His mercy comfort you and your Consort, together with all the Royal Family, in your hour of sorrow." To Her Majesty Queen Alexandra: "The Cinematograph Defence League tender to your Majesty an expression of their deep and sincere sympathy on the terrible loss we all have sustained. May the Almighty in His mercy comfort you, together with all the Royal Family, in your hour of sorrow."

IN reply the following telegrams have been received:—"Buckingham Palace. The King thanks you for your kind expression of sympathy." "Buckingham Palace. Queen Alexandra sends her sincere thanks for your kind expressions of sympathy in her sorrow." The Executive Committee instructed the secretary to send to every member of the League a telegram worded as follows:—"Committee advise closing Saturday, Sunday, and day of funeral. This action is general."

"CINEMATOGRAPH BILL, 1909." Price 1d., by post 2d. Address, THE PUBLISHERS, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THE CALLAN BENEFIT CONCERT.

The Hon. Frank Russell, K.C., took the chair on Thursday night last at the King's Hall, Holborn Restaurant, on the occasion of the Bohemian Concert given on behalf of the widow and family of the late Mr. J. H. Callan, who, whilst apparently in excellent health, died suddenly on March 6 last. The widow is left unprovided for, with eight young children to support, not one of whom is capable of earning a livelihood. Mr. Callan was an able and popular vocalist, ever ready in his love for the art to give his services in any good and charitable cause. As a mark of respect to his memory, and as a means of helping his widow in her present distressing circumstances, many of his friends and admirers identified themselves with this concert scheme, with the result that the benefit was a big financial success.

The great King's Hall was, long before eight o'clock, crowded in every nook and corner, and it became apparent that an overflow concert must be held. Accordingly, the Throne Room was hastily requisitioned, and the supply of artists being plentiful, two simultaneous concerts were given with the greatest success.

Ninety artists were down on the programme, and by far the greater number appeared at one or other of the entertainments, among them being Mesdames Nellie Beare, Lillie Cass, Kate Cherry, Carrie Crisp, Rosa Dallow, Emilie Hayes, Alice Motterway, Grace M. Powell, Gladys Robinson, Lilian Smith, Hettie Stammer, Melanie Castel, Bertha Gelder, Esther Franklin, Hope Jackson, Hannah Jones, Locke, Naci Talbot, Ala Wilson, Edith Eatherley, Lilah Estelle, Katie Graham, Ida la Rondo, Mollie Seymour, and Edith Ward; Messrs. Vivian Bennetts, Selwyn Davies, James Davis, Herbert Emlyn, Cynlais Gibbs, Walter Grace, Frank Hobbs, Sidwell Jones, Wallace Jones, Hector Lightfoot, Samuel Masters, Charles Morton, John Probert, Stanley Ridout, Herbert Thompson, Elliston Webb, Frederick Addison, Albert Carpenter, Thomas Crook, J. L. Haddon, W. J. Haswell, Graham Smart, David Smith, Hamilton Spencer, Clay Thomas, Carl Brandt, Alick Capener, Conrad Formes, Adolph Fowler, W. R. Gregory, Edward Halland, Thomas Powley, Egbert Roberts, W. L. Allen, Will Ballard, Will Bentley, Arthur Chapman, Arthur Clarke, Will Edwards, Bert Griffin, J. H. Lansley, Bert Meredith, George O'Hagan, Will Randall, Fred Reynolds, Wilfred Stracey, Edward Sydney, Wally White, Fred Willett, Fred Wilson, Frank Wood, Charles Young, Charles F. Frood, H. Nowell, Norman Grant, Charles E. Nott, Reginald Prince, David Blascheck, Arthur Foxon, Charles Pond, Percival Reed, George Miles, and Garnet Chandler; and the Ariel Quartette, the Harmony Glee Singers, and the "M.A." Quartette.

The pianists and accompanists during the evening were Miss Edith Baldry, A.T.C.L., Mr. Jack Brittain, Mr. W. R. Edwards, Miss Maggie Godsmark, Mr. Vernon Grant, Mr. Albert Jordon, Mr. Ralph Norris, Mr. G. H. Pownall, Miss Marguerite Probert, and Mr. H. Smith-Webster. Messrs. Selwyn Davies, Adolph Fowler, W. J. Haswell, and the honorary secretary, Mr. B. G. Laws, acted as musical directors.

Mountain Ash Flannel and Pleasure Fair.

THE amusements were provided by John Studt, who exhibited the picture palace and the Gordon-Bennett set of racing motor-cars, and Messrs. Freeman, Gorman, and other caterers, with hoopla circles, shooting galleries, throwing games, and variety stalls.

Guild Meeting in the West of England.

THE next important meeting of the Showmen's Guild will be at Redruth Fair, on Sunday next—Whit-Sunday—at 3.30 in the afternoon. The place of meeting will be Hancock's Show, on the fair-ground, and there will be the usual Guild service in the evening.

White City, Old Trafford.

THE opening of this beautiful amusement park for the fourth summer season should have taken place on Saturday, the 7th inst., but was postponed until the 9th, in consequence of the death of his Majesty King Edward. Although the weather was inclement and the general bereavement affects all classes, the attendance has been excellent, and all the riding devices (water-chute, figure eight, &c.) have been in full swing. Fireworks by Joseph Wells, of Earl's Court, are to be displayed every Wednesday and Saturday evening during the season, and last season similar displays were much appreciated.

LINN AND DARIUS are meeting with great success on their provincial tour, this being their fifth week. They return to town for a London season, opening at the Hippodrome, Poplar, June 6, with an entirely new and up-to-date scena.

AFTER a successful operation under the care of Dr. Murray, Mr. George Fox, advance agent, is getting strong again, and will soon be able to commence work. He desires to thank those friends who have sent him cheerful and welcome letters during his long illness.

THE latest quotations for music hall shares are as follow:—Alhambra, 1⅞; Empire (15s. pd.), 12; Empire (10s. pd.), 1½; London Pavilion (5), 3½; London Pavilion Pref. (5), 5½; Metropolitan, 2; Moss Empires (5), 4½; Oxford (5), 7; Palace Theatre (9s. pd.), 1⅛; Tivoli, New (5), 6½.

"LIFE IN THE DESERT OF SAHARA" is the very latest "Kinemacolor" subject to be presented in animation and the actual tints of Nature to Palace Theatre audiences, and for richness of local colouring and artistic portrayal of Arab life and incident the pictures are remarkable. In ten minutes the spectator sees the events of months—camel caravans crossing the great Desert, tourists in the garden of Allah, negro and Bedouin musicians, a negro bride being taken from her native village, the Kaid and his caravaneers, &c.

MR. J. COATES LOCKHART, the tenor soloist, who is singing "Nearer my God to Thee" on Sunday, and whose vocal efforts have been so rapturously received throughout the week at the Southampton Hippodrome, appeared at the old Prince of Wales' Theatre (now the Hippodrome) as Grenicheux in the late Mr. William Hogarth's Les Cloches de Corneville Co. exactly twelve years ago. It is an interesting reminiscence, and Mr. Lockhart, who has been a great globe-trotter, and made rapid strides in his profession since his first appearance in Southampton, in 1898, has met many old friends during the week.

LAST week Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Lucas paid their fourth visit to the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth, being the star attraction for the week. Each evening they gave different selections from the works of Dickens. On the Thursday they gave the whole evening to characters from the "Pickwick Papers." These were so successful that they were asked to repeat them on Saturday. At the conclusion of their engagement they were complimented by Mr. Dan Godfrey, who offered them a return engagement at an increase of salary. This week the happily associated pair are again scoring an emphatic success at Huddersfield. They commence next week their fourth Moss and Stoll tour at the Hippodrome, Manchester, with scenes between Mr. Pickwick and Sam Weller, also between Mr. Pickwick and Mrs. Bardell, the characters of Sam Weller and Mrs. Bardell being played by Mrs. Lucas.

MISS NORA CARTON'S CO.
Autumn Tour with Russell Vaun's Latest Dramatic Success, "TEMPTATION." Staged, played and advertised.
Read what the Press says this week at W. W. Kelly's Beautiful Birkenhead Theatre. Birkenhead Advertiser, Wednesday, May 11, 1910.
NEW THEATRE ROYAL.
Monday and last evenings this popular house of amusement was filled with large and appreciative audiences, who thoroughly enjoyed the piece staged. The attraction in question was the new and thrilling drama by Russell Vaun (part author of "The Great Awakening"), entitled "Temptation." On no previous occasion has this production been to Birkenhead before, and that the management made a happy choice in booking it cannot be disputed for a single moment, the audiences showing their approbation in no stinted manner. Of the piece itself one cannot speak in too eulogistic terms. The plot is a most enthralling one, and deals with the story of a true woman's love and a designing and unscrupulous adventuress, while every single character is taken by artists of real ability. The scenic effects are in every sense of the word admirable, while the costumes are also of a very attractive character. As Hilda Dundonald, Miss Nora Carton is really admirable, and received widespread admiration at the hands of the auditors, and it can be said, and said with confidence, that a better, more enjoyable, and finer staged play it has not been our privilege to witness for some time. There is not a single weak character in the whole of the cast.
Please refer W. W. Kelly, Esq., re Company, Play, and Productions.

Musicians to Note that the following Resolution was passed at the last meeting of the London Branch of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union:—

"That in order to safeguard those engaged in the entertainment profession from a compulsory seven days' week, and to strengthen the hands of the Sunday Defence Committee, consisting of the Variety Artists' Federation, the Amalgamated Musicians' Union, and the National Association of Theatrical Employees, no member of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union shall be allowed to take part in Sunday entertainments given in any London Theatre, Music Hall, or Picture Palace, except those given by the National Sunday League, the Queen's Hall Sunday Concert Society, the Royal Albert Hall Sunday Concerts, the Beecham Orchestra, or any society affiliated to the Sunday Defence Committee."

The Committee hope that all Musicians, for their own sakes, will support their action in this matter.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. T. GERALD MORTON, Empire Palace, Leeds.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW,

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS—

THE PERFORMER, May 12, 1910.
THE ARTIST'S LEGAL HANDBOOK.
We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly-improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up-to-date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made, and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong, on "Dramatic and Musical Law," may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be PROPRIETOR, MANAGER, or ARTIST, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.

THE MUSIC HALL, May 12, 1910.
Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable treatise on "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at the offices of "The Era," has reached a third edition. This includes the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States, also all the important decisions of the Courts, since the last edition, on which the compiler has been able to lay hands. As Mr. Strong remarks, "There is probably no more fruitful source of litigation than the ordinary theatrical contract." If the work under notice achieved no other object than to impress this fact on the parties concerned, it would still be worth its weight in gold.

Third Edition. Price 5/- Post free 5/4.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERAMAN.—POOLE'S PICTURE PALACE (GRAND THEATRE).—Lessee, Mr. John R. Poole; Manager, Mr. Robert Tebbitt.—Henri Bekker, comedy conjurer, assisted by Miss Maie, provokes great mirth; Jimmy Shields, the one-legged comedian and dancer, has a fine reception for his latest success, "The old collier's story"; C. E. Stelling and his funny dog "Kiswaski" are popular; and the standard of bioscope pictures is maintained.

ABERDARE.—NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Victor Rowe; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alfred Reid.—Burns and Bentley, an artistic dancing team, top the bill. Lottie Leyton, comedienne and clog dancer, is well received; Lona, in her musical speciality act, deserves great praise; the Lavelle Brothers, comedy acrobats, create roars of laughter; and excellent pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

ABERTILLERY. — THEATRE METROPOLE.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here presenting A Broken Heart. The principal parts are in the able hands of Mr. Harry Foxwell as John Barnard, Mr. C. Holmes as Stephen Dalton, Mr. H. Carlisle, and Miss S. Walsh as Mary Barnard.

PAVILION.—A series of animated pictures are on show at the Pavilion; the principal being Fishing in the North Sea and The Cripple's Revenge.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company in His Real Wife is attracting excellent houses here. Mr J. W. Evelyn sustains with much merit the part of the old farmer, Martin Avondale; Mr. Clifford Rean achieves a success with his clever representation of Herbert Barton; and Randall Meredith finds a able exponent in Mr. Bernard Elliott; Mr. C. W. Spencer acquits himself admirably as General Barton; Mr. Charles Yorke satisfactorily fills the rôle of Colombe; and Mr. Walter Walmesley presents an amusing study of Alf Snickers. Mr. T. Edward Ward creates a good deal of hilarity as Simon Bletherell; and worthy support is given by Miss Clarrie Yandell as Betty. Miss Ward delights everybody with her strong and sympathetic acting as Rose Avondale; Miss Gabrille Ramero makes a deep impression with her admirable portrayal of Lady Sybil; and Miss Celia Howard is seen to advantage as Mrs. Creele.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—The Waldrons, who are the outstanding turn here, appear with great success in the farcical absurdity The Silly Burglar; McBride and Logie, the Canadian lumbermen, in an eccentric acrobatic novelty turn, arouse enthusiasm; Benson and Rose, in a highly diverting duologue, prove entertaining; and the Westbrooks, in a dancing scena, take equally well; the Keppells provide a most enjoyable turn, which is much applauded; Elsie Kerry is a charming comedienne; Maxie and Pete are mirth-provoking comedy cyclists; and Cliff Dixon, swell comedian, also appears.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—After a short spell of the "legitimate," variety has again become the order, a good programme being presented as the Whit Week attraction. Alice Hoodless tops the bill with a number of tableaux, which are highly appreciated; Berg Brothers are a capital turn as cyclist comedians, the ladder and one wheel act being especially clever; the Frohmanns as musical entertainers are decidedly good; Edgar Forrest's comedy company in a farcical interlude, My Friend the Enemy, are amusing; Kydd and Kydd, in patter and burlesque song, do well; and Sophie, a juvenile artist with a good future before her, is loudly encored for her character songs. Ena Millard, chorus singer, and Chas. Lee, comedian, are also well received.

ASHINGTON.—BUFFALO PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. and E. Lamb; Business-Manager, Mr. W. P. Carr.—The Three Dancing Duggans, in their skating dancing turn, are excellent, and the same may be said of Bandoni, in his "one-man band" turn.

PAVILION PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. McGraw and Weallans; Manager, Mr. Joe Curry.—Miss Isa Gibson, an old pantomime favourite here, is delighting the patrons with her Dutch dancing; Mr. Chas. Chantler, baritone, and Joe Henderson, comedian, are very good. The pictures are exceptionally fine.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manger, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Mr. W. V. Garrod's company in Are You the Man? is doing complete justice to the piece. Mr. Chas. Halling as the country gentleman, Mr. Joshua Beaumont, impresses the audience with his strong personality; Mr. W. V. Garrod as Captain Jack Beaumont depicts the hero in striking colours; Mr. William Bradford makes Sidney Beaumont a cunning rascal; Mr. F. Dallas is good as Solomon Moss; Mr. Seymour Perry as Private Tom Hopkins acquits himself creditably; Dotty Dalton is cleverly hit off by Mr. H. Fredericks; a Scotland Yard Detective, a Rural Constable, a Fisherman and Poacher, a Colonel of the Old School, and a Registrar's Clerk are all capably sustained by Messrs. W. Vincent, Owen Remonde, E. Ashton, F. S. Stewart, and C. Mitchell. Miss Ethel Crawford exercises her abilities to good effect as the adventuress Flo Dalton; Miss Alice Clarke is an amusing and good-natured lady's maid; and Miss Bertha Kingston distinguishes herself by her powerful delineation of Lilian Brandon.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—A change to "variety" is made for Whitsun week, the "stars" being the celebrated Elliott-Savonas, the musical marvels, who appear in The Palace of Orpheus. They introduce their latest novelty instrument, the Sorruasophine, Quartette, and provide a musical feast, enhanced by a picturesque vision of spectacular splendour. The other artists are Fanny Humber, instrumentalist, vocalist, and dancer; Yost and York, the military boys, a good duo of entertainers; Henry Conlin, a very useful singing comedian; Smith and Gibbs, a couple of quaint and quiet athletes; Dix and Dox, clever musical grotesques; Fallows and Beaumont, in a laughable vocal comedy act; and Miss Millie Engler and company, who enact the farcical episode, Beauty and the Burglar.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—The popularity of the animated picture entertainment is still unabated. The week's films are a mixture of historic events, adventure episodes, and some humorous pictures. The management have hit upon a change of programme on alternate evenings.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, The Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—Mr. Marks is ever on the qui-vive for some new departure to amuse his patrons. He is securing good pictures and capable vaudeville artists. The week's "bill" is up to date, and the artists are a comedian of some original ability and a singer of ballads.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Brothers; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—Mr. Leckie's enterprise is being rewarded by good houses. The pictures are well selected, and the artists for interlude are Wills and Worlock, clever comedians and dancers.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing - Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope.—A strong holiday programme is presented here, a special feature being the latest A.B. film The Twisted Trail. Other interesting pictures include A Duel in Mid-Air, How Scroggins Found the Comet, and Jones Buys a Bird Cage. East and West (Tom and Stella) present a comedy speciality act which is much appreciated.

PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. Matt Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Dent.—Crowded houses have been drawn by a diversified and attractive holiday "bill." The leading picture, His Only Daughter, has found much favour, equally acceptable being one of the popular Western dramas, The Ranch Girl's Legacy. Interesting vaudeville items are given by Mr. Colin Coop, a pleasing light comedian; and the Warners, in a taking speciality act, entitled A Musical Rehearsal. The Scarlet Band, in appropriate selections, is still a popular feature.

BACUP.—COURT THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Jno. Walters.—The famous Irwell Springs Prize Band tops the bill, and, judging by Monday's reception, will undoubtedly do big business. Little Doris May is a clever dancer and, sings in a pleasing manner; Dan Desmond supplies the humour successfully; the Sisters Lingard are capital singers and dancers; and the Three Behans, in the novel quick-change comedy act, are worthy of note.

BARNSLEY. — ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—The attraction here this week is Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company, in The Eyes of the World. Mr. Alex. W. Wynne is a manly Octave de Carnac; as Achille Fanfarade Mr. J. Edward Whitty is all that can be desired; as Hector de L'Orme Mr. Charles O'Connor is excellent; and Mr. Fred Bentley as Gaston de Carnac is very good. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr. Harold Forde as Brigard and Miss B. Hulment as Antoniette. Miss Elsie Capel is a sympathetic Avice; and Misses Flora Hastings and Nellie Garside as Esmé de Carnac and Susanne Pomfleur respectively are capable. Miss Ethel Van Praagh in the rôle of Helene de L'Orme gives a powerful delineation of that character, displaying great histrionic ability.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Messrs. Charles H. Lester and Bertram Damer's company is here with The Egyptian, a mystical farce, by Myles Willoughby. Miss Gwennie Harcourt as H'Emma acts in her own inimitable manner; Mr. Walter Beaumont as the vegetarian, Dr. Dale, is admirably suited; the Ramuel of Mr. Chas. H. Lester is a well conceived character; Mr. Frank Hudspeth is good as Spriggins; and Miss Ruby Belasco makes the most of the part of Mrs. Dale.

HIS MAJESTY'S.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—The Will o' the Wisps, under the direction of Mr. S. Sherrington Chinn, are here for a season of four weeks. A first-rate programme of concerted pieces, solos, sketches, &c., is given by this clever company, which includes Miss Cynthia Cooper, Miss Sara Drubell, Miss Ethel Walker, Mr. Arthur Gurlay, Mr. Conway George, Mr. Ronald Bagnall, and Mr. Thomas Sutton.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—Mr. Fred Conquest and company are the premier turn here with a farcical absurdity which keeps the audience in roars of laughter. Bernard's Mannikins, in a coon's revelry, furnishes a clever marionette entertainment; Barney Murphy is good in some clever patter; Mrs. Delda Gray sings in excellent style; The Martons sing duets with humour; Clarke and Mostel have some quaint patter, and their dancing is clever; and J. S. Aitkin is a comedian with a style of his own.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Fred Newman's British Empire Pictures Variety Company continue to draw crowded houses.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—A Pair of Spectacles was well received on Monday. As Benjamin Goldfinch Mr. Arthur Hare does well; Mr. Henry West makes a capital Gregory; Miss Ida Phillips enacts Mrs. Goldfinch with becoming grace; and a bright Lucy Lorimer is found in Miss Madge Monte; Dick and Percy are capably undertaken by Mr. Frank Tennant and Mr. Guy Vivian; and Mr. Lorimer is played by Mr. Walter A. James; Mr. George N. Williams and Miss Marion Williams portray the smaller parts of Bartholomew and Joyce.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Johnny Cecil, a light comedian, starts the holiday bill here, and is followed by Edwards and Edwards, speciality dancers; the duets by Florence and Rose Showell arouse immense enthusiasm; Clara Reid and John Power know how to entertain; Dan Fraser once again drives dull care away with his Scotch ditties; and in The Leaves of Memory Miss Beaumont Collins displays her acknowledged histrionic talents as Ruth Challoner. The pictures include a flying film, in which Mr. Grahame-White is the hero.

BATLEY.—BATLEY THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty; Manager, Mr. Alfred A. Taylor.—An Unwedded Wife is capitally staged and well produced here this week by Mr. Will Casey's company, and local interest is added by the fact that the play is from the pen of Mr. Whitty himself. Miss Chrissie Dunbar as Marion scores a great success, as also does Mr. Casey as Napoleon B. Boomer.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Mr. Frank Weathersby's company this week presents Facing the Music. Mr. Edward Mervyn is funny as John Smith; Mr. Philip Durham is seen to advantage as the Rev. John Smith; Mr. Robert Grey as Dick Dennard supplies a deal of fun; Miss Rhoda Beresford and Miss Janice Deane are charming in their respective parts.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Mr. Alfred Paumier and Mr. Walter Howard's company opened here on Monday with The Midnight Wedding. Miss Lilian Hallows, an exceedingly clever actress, furnished a sympathetic impersonation of the Princess Astra; Mr. Alfred Paumier shared the honours with his skilful impersonation of Paul Valmar; and Mr. A. E. Winnington Barnes was excellent as Captain Rudolf Von Scarsbruck. Mr. John Nesbitt was all that could be desired as the Crown Prince Leopold; and Lieut. Eugene Von Strelsburg was in the safe hands of Mr. Charles Whitlock. Miss Jessica Black was a charming and vivacious Kathie; and the comic element was sustained by Messrs. James E. Page, St. George Frere, and Algie Spalding, who as Sergeant Max, Corporal Otto, and Private Bobo kept the audience highly amused. Miss Ruth Wingrove may be congratulated on her treatment of the rôle of Rozel.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—A revival season commenced at this theatre on Monday, under the direction of Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond. The piece selected for this week is the romantic drama, For Wife and Kingdom, which met with a great reception. Mr. Frank Sutherland plays the rôle of General von Nestolde with much credit; and Miss Hettie Zillwood gains a gratifying success in the part of the Grand Duchesse Marie of Gotsburg. Mr. Reginald T. Fox cleverly plays the rôle of Captain Maximilian Lubeck; and it would be difficult to excel Miss Margaret R. Frame's impersonation of Camille von Nestolde. The villainies of Baron Maurice Breslaw were realistically portrayed by Mr. Albert Guyon. The humour of the piece was in the capable hands of Miss Alice Buckland, Miss Audrey Canning, and Messrs. Chas. H. Gallier and Fred Osmond, who were responsible for much merriment in their respective rôles of Nita Constadt, Ottillie Schwartz, Sergeant Offenbeck, and Karl Ludhay.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—Mr. Jack Pleasants tops the bill, and this inimitable comedian made a big hit on Monday; Park's Eton Boys (assisted by Girton Girls) furnish a most enjoyable entertainment; Mr. Fred Barnes is a capital light comedian with a good style; and the Marsumas, clever comedians on wheels, are deservedly applauded. Mr. Frank Cass is an amusing character comedian; and Miss Katie Butler's capital songs find much favour. Also here are Mr. Johnny Fuller, the Great Little Cat, and the Bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will White.—The most interesting series of films are those representing the great fight, Johnson v. Ketchell. Among others exhibited are Napoleon Outwitted, Bootmaker's Ten-Pound Note, and Late at the Office. The vaudeville element is sustained by Pueblo and Cropp, Creole artists, and Lyall and Bert, speciality artists.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Capital films here include From Cabin Boy to King and Little Blue Cap. Miss Anna Hope, a pleasing contralto, is very good.

BILSTON.—ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Edwin C. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—For the holiday attraction we have The Sins of a City, presented by Miss Winifred Maude and her capable company.

AL FRESCO PAVILION.—The season was opened here on Monday with a first-class entertainment by the Royal Cadets.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Mr. Morton-Powell's company in Brought to Ruin provides a capital holiday attraction. Played on the two houses a night principle, it affords ample scope for a telling performance, and the much-wronged heroine, Jessie Burton, is admirably impersonated by Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne; Mr. Harry Scott gives a forcible rendering of Harry Hailing; and the roué of the piece, Philip Edge, receives careful treatment at the hands of Mr. Edward M. Heanley. Mrs. Morton-Powell is conspicuous by a fine performance of Miss Winnie Waters; Miss Jeannie Risley is interesting as Lucy Lawton; and Miss Addie Adair, Miss Kathryne Eckhart, Miss Addie Cuthbert, and Messrs. Sydney Bryant and Alaric Burton also appear with distinction.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Keating.—Radford and Valentine, juggling jesters and comedians, are high in favour; J. G. Grahame and Zerlina Harrington, with the dramatic episode A Daughter of Pleasure, occupy a prominent position in the company, and very effective turns are also given by Miss Marie Blythe, descriptive vocalist; Farr and Farland, comedians; Jack Sheridan, comedian and patterer; the Elité Harmony Boys, excellent vocalists; Miss Rosie Archer, mimic and pianist; Baby Wolff, child vocalist; Loyal Leeder, variety artist; and Brown's Royal Bioscope. Mr. Ernest Dinney is musical director.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Mr. Eric H. Albury's company in the comedy Why Smith Left Home is doing well here. Mr. Albury as the Count is irresistibly amusing, and the engagement has proved very attractive.

WINTER GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—General-Managers, Messrs. B. Allandale and L. Blattner; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Dooley.—A capital holiday programme is supported by Blattner's Bohemian Orchestra.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Charley's Aunt is the holiday attraction here, and again it draws the crowds. Mr. Brandon Thomas is supported by an excellent company. As the jovial, good-natured Sir Francis Mr. Thomas is quite at home; Mr. Stanley Cooke, in the title-rôle, takes a prominent share in the success of the piece, and he is warmly applauded; Mr. Roy Byford gives a capital characterisation of the rôle of the irate solicitor; warm praise is due to Miss Ruth Henton as Kitty Verdun; and Miss Phyllis Back as Amy Spettigue. A bright curtain-raiser, written by Mr. Thomas, is entitled A Highland Legacy.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnstone.—Mr. Edward Compton is presenting an interesting series of plays, including Davy Garrick, The Road to Ruin, The School for Scandal, The Rivals (Thursday matinée), She Stoops to Conquer (Thursday evening). Mr. Compton's acting is excellent, and among his talented company Miss Kathleen Leigh and Mr. Henry Crocker are prominent. Davy Garrick is preceded by Tom Noddy's Secret.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—Audiences during this week have accorded a warm welcome to Mr. W. Graham Arthurs' company in The Mockery of Marriage. Mr. W. Graham Arthurs gives an admirable portrayal of the heavy character Sir Montague Jephson; and as Alva Kenyon Miss Mabel Liston scores a decided success. Miss C. Middleton is clever as Rose Verham; and Mr. Fitzroy Wharton is well suited as Jack Stanley.

BORDESLEY.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Goodwin Woodward.—Can a Woman be Good? is produced by Mr. Tom Taylor's company; Miss Blanche St. Albans acts charmingly in the title-rôle, and gains unstinted applause; Mr. J. Millane as the hero comes in for a good share of honours; and Mr. Harry C. Robinson as Herod Steinberg and Miss Florence Hunt as Naomi Merrick are conspicuous. The play is effectively staged.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—An enthralling story of sea life is told in the drama The Girl of My Heart, which Mr. Wentworth Croke is presenting here before crowded houses. The company is an exceptionally strong one. Miss Gladys Purnell is always a favourite in the part of Mary Graham, and Mr. Ernest Owttram makes a success as Will Stewart. There are many striking situations, particularly in the Court-martial scene, and much praise for clever acting is due to Mr. Henry Hare as Major Alfred Fulton and Mr. Ernest Rivarz as Captain Bridge; Mr. Charles Herrick as the deserter, Mr. Philip Renouf, Mr. Charles Sewell, Mr. Arthur Chappell, and Miss Marie Auckland are also prominent.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis Chapman:—Arrah-Na-Pogue is being produced by Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company, before full houses. The staging is effective, and the costumes and uniforms are a notable feature of the production. In the character of Shaun Mr. Glenville creates a good impression; and Miss Lalla Stanhope wins much applause for her portrayal of the title-rôle. Mr. H. C. Gilpin proves himself capable as Michael Feeny; and Miss Lydia Andre is responsible for a delightful impersonation of Fanny Power. Other clever members of the company are Mr. E. E. Hobart (Beamish McCoul), Mr. Wilton Reed (Col. O'Grady), Mr. Fred G. Kay (the Sergeant), and Mr Frank McCelliant (Major Coffin). The humorous characters are in capable hands.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Mr. Carr Loates' company is presenting with conspicuous success A London Outcast. The outstanding feature is the performance of Miss Cissie Milford in a difficult dual rôle. As Treacle, a waif, she is always a big favourite with her quaint repartee. Mr. Carr Loates cleverly sustains the character of Elga Hall, and Miss Maggie Hobart earns the sympathies of audiences as Mabel Reymond, the outcast; Miss Lavender Jackaway is a clever juvenile actress; and other characters are well represented. The improvements lately effected in the animated picture apparatus have greatly popularised this portion of the entertainment.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—George Lashwood heads a strong bill, and introduces new songs, all of which are well received; a beautiful act bears the name of Hagedorn's Grotto, in which a combination of electricity and water produce some wonderfully artistic effects. A novel tumbling entertainment is provided by Miss Burley, assisted by "a funny little man"; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto are clever trick cyclists, who introduce some attractive comedy business; the Neilson duo are up-to-date musicians and dancers; and others who contribute to the programme are Charles Mildare, comedian and whistler; Lena Verdi, vocalist and mimic; Amy Marsden, low comedian; and Fred Shepherd.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Messrs. Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—Serene Nord, a young lady of pleasing presence, described as the "Diving Venus," gives a picturesque aquatic exhibition, and the act is greatly appreciated; Alexandre and Hughes keep the audience in merry mood; Nelson Jackson is responsible for a bright drawing-room entertainment; a vocal treat is provided by the Serenaders, Italian operatic vocalists; J. J. Dallas is an effective comedian of considerable experience; Arthur Slater pleases immensely with his whistling selections; the Eight Empire Girls are graceful dancers; Ouida Macdermott sings her songs delightfully; and Jewel St. Leger is a tuneful soprano vocalist.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—The principal turn in a good holiday programme is provided by Jake Friedman and company, in the rollicking burletta Happy Holland, which comes in for great applause; Gus Garrick is as amusing as ever in his music-hall "Tit-bits"; Mona Vivian, a clever juvenile dancer and mimic, is extremely popular; Mora Martini gives a clever gymnastic exhibition; the Hargreaves Trio appear in a mystifying ventriloquial turn; the Cheers present a troupe of cleverly-trained cats; Clarice Sefton is a pleasing comedienne; Leigh and Lawrie are popular merchants of mirth; and the Gaietyscope exhibits good pictures.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne.—La Milo, the beautiful statuary artist, is a big attraction, and her new series of tableaux are more fascinating than ever; The Pawnbroker, a lively sketch, is played by Joe Peterman and George Ricketts; the Havannas are an exceptionally clever troupe of acrobats; Tennyson and Wallis are up-to-date entertainers, their cross-talk being highly amusing; Les Bertos are skilful and graceful dancers; the Society Quartette merit hearty applause for their singing and dancing; and others on the bill are the Oakes Duo, in a comedy sketch; W. G. Wesley, and Fred Hastings, comedian.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—A series of clever illusions, presented by the American artist, Sears, are the outstanding feature of an attractive programme; Flake White, a lightning cartoonist of ability, entertains with a number of neatly executed drawings, with colour-effects; and the Sisters Terry are popular comediennes, who sing Scotch and Irish songs. Ena Compton, vocalist and dancer, creates an excellent impression; Abel and Welsh are clever eccentrics; Charles Pastor has some effective comedy; Earle and Melville are good in song and dance; and Edith Chantler also contributes acceptably.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—The entertainments given during the Whitsuntide holidays have met with deserved success. The beautifully coloured tableaux, illustrating The Story of Esther, is a leading feature of the programme, and demonstrates in striking fashion the artistic side of cinematography. The comic films amuse all sections of the audiences, and pleasing vocal items are contributed by Miss Leah Pinnick and Mr. Frank Clark.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—A strong attraction here is the film illustrating the fight between Johnson and Ketchell for the heavy-weight boxing championship of the world, and during the holidays crowds of people interested in the art of self-defence have applauded the picture. Madame Rosini's canine circus plays a prominent part in the programme, and the vocal contributions of Mr. Herbert Bates are also keenly enjoyed. The Bijou skating rink has proved a great attraction during the holidays.

QUEEN'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—A grand programme of pictures and vaudeville is attracting crowded houses. The chief films include: The Best Man Wins, The Child's Benefactor, In a Window Recess, The Jealous Doll, and The Mad Drain-pipe. The popular Birmingham vocalist, Miss Mabel Kington, contributes pleasing songs. On Thursday night a successful benefit was given to Mr. Will George.

BINGLEY HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. George Stanley.—Crowds of sightseers have spent many profitable hours at the National Trades Exhibition. To inspect the exhibits is a task that entails a considerable amount of time, and one could well spend a whole day in the building. The amusements are diversified, the chief attraction this week being the performances of Signor Scoma's orchestra.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — EDEN THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs R. Addison, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—On Whit Monday two capital houses were provided with a grand "picture" programme, amongst which The Livingstone Case, The Antwerp Zoo, and His Last Burglary stood out most prominently.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—The Norman and Leonard Trio in their musical sketch have a great reception here; the Three Orros give a capital turn with their silver chairs; Georgina Leno (daughter of the late Dan Leno) is a clever comedienne and dancer; Spry and Monti produce an entertaining scena, The Song-writer and Soubrette; and Dale and Vale are good dancers. The Essens are very clever with their performing dogs, and Dan Day is a popular turn. The Hipposcope films are most interesting.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Once again is Brewster's Millions, as presented by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, drawing crowded houses here. Mr. Percy Hutchison again faithfully depicts the prodigal Monty, and Miss Cicely Stuckey is still the charming Margaret Grey; Miss Lilias Earle is well suited to the part of Mrs. Dan de Mille, and the other characters are in efficient hands.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Harrop.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is doing remarkable business here with Our Miss Gibbs, which is staged and acted in the most complete manner. Miss Alice Pollard in the title-rôle is just delightful, her acting, singing, and dancing being equally good; Miss Marie Wilson does well as Lady Elizabeth Thanet, whilst Miss Grace Wixon as the aristocratic Duchess of Minster and Miss Dora Sevening as Mme. Jeanne also play their parts with credit. Mr. George Gregory as Timothy Gibbs is a huge success, and makes the fun fast and furious; Mr. Lionel Mackinder, who plays the Hon. Hughie, is another very clever comedian, and Mr. H. V. Crofton, who is seen to advantage as Lord Eynsford, is a vocalist of high order. Mr. Harold Lonsdale conducts a capital orchestra.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Tom Foy, the popular Yorkshire comedian, worthily tops a big bill here; Wild, Willie, and West, the acrobatic comedians, receive their usual warm welcome, and J. W. Hall is another favourite comedian; Bert Harrow and Marion Walker are paying a return visit with their comedy duologue; the Denaro Brothers do some remarkable tumbling feats; Arthur Gallimore is a great fun provider; Ethel Loftus is a clever comedienne; Brull and Helmsley present a very comical sketch, and Marguerite Broadfoote sings very acceptably.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. H. Armitage's company is appearing here successfully in The Greater Love. Mr. William Clayton gives a vigorous impersonation of Jack May; Mrs. May being ably represented by Miss Marion Fawcett; Mr. Campbell Goldsmid is good as Paul Penfold; and Miss Violet Thorold won favour as Mary May. Capable also are the efforts of Messrs. A. J. Hicks, Henry Nunn, Harry Wren, and Misses Ethel Russell and Arles Conway.

THE Hippodrome and West's Picture Palace are running excellent picture programmes.

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Draycott's

On their garments not a blemish,

company is presenting Mrs. Kimberley's latest drama, Her Path of Sorrow. Mr. Charles Draycott gives a manly impersonation of Richard Burfield; and Mr. Frank Eaglesfield portrays, in striking fashion, the iniquitous Guy Lowther. Mrs. Charles Draycott is eminently successful as Pauline Ferrars; and the unfortunate Nellie Rayne is admirably delineated by Miss Fay Garnet-Vayne. Capital humour is introduced by Mr. Will Hook and Daisy Carlton as Tommy Onions and Polly Green.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—A strong attraction is the great Bolton favourite, Miss Hetty King, the clever male impersonator. Others in the programme are Sadie Simpson, comedienne and dancer; Roy Beavis, conjurer; the Clement Trio, in their novel comedy stage flying trapeze act; Dave Samuels, Hebrew comedian; Gosling and Merrall's Troupe of Australian Bush boys in their patriotic scena, Bright Eye's Birthday; Rene, lady juggler; Dolly Ross, comedienne; Walter Bird's company (including Ernest Luck, comedian), in the screaming comedy sketch, entitled Her Husband; and the Premier Pictures.

Empire Hippodrome, Ltd.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—The top turn here is Wee Georgie Wood, the boy phenomenon, who appears in nursery rhymes, and is well received. Other turns are Mabel Florence, comedienne and dancer; Thomas Morris, concertina soloist; Denby and Dent, comedians, in comedy act I Never Did; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leonard, in farcical sketch, True Blue; Cosgrove and Burns, comedy duettists; Violet Romaine, vocalist; Walter Aubrey, wooden shoe dancer; Hanvarr and Anna Lee, in their comedy juggling act The Golfer and the Maid; and the Hippodrome Bioscope pictures.

BOOTLE.—Winter Gardens.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Joint-Managers, Mr. Bobbie Allandale and Mr. Ludwig Blatiner; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. Lionel Cole.—An entertaining programme is headed by Mr. Ed. Chas. Gittins' Pocket Opera company in The Daughter of the Regiment, in which Mlle. Adele Prescott displays her exceptional talent as a singer; another vocal triumph is that of Signor Sorti, the Italian tenor. Other interesting items are contributed by Kennedy Allen, a clever comedian, the Lauri Bros., and Miss Lily Ewart.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company is here this week in The Prince and the Beggar Maid. Mr. Victor Ray presents a masterly impersonation of Prince Michael; Miss Stella Campbell imparts much sympathy to the part of Monica; Mr. Alfred Goddard is effective as Prince Hildred; Mr. Ernest Cox gives a sincere rendering of Prince Olaf; Mr. Herbert Burton plays Capt. Hector in manly style; Mr. Sydney Bayliss supplies a good study of the dumb Nathan; and Mr. J. H. Vyvyan as Lieut. Carl and Miss Mona Hall as Viola provide the light comedy.

BRADFORD. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Mr. Haldane Crichton's company in The Cingalee, splendidly staged, furnishes excellent holiday fare. A clever and irresistibly funny impersonation of Chambhuddy Ram is submitted by Mr. Harry Ed. Ray; Miss Ida Ernest supports him finely as the sprightly Peggy Sabine; Miss Mollie Woolstenhulme sings sweetly, and fills the part of Nanoya with effect; as Boobhamba Mr. Douglas Munro is quaint; Mr. F. W. Ford as the blustering Sir Peter Loftus is amusing; Miss Pauline Hague gracefully sustains the part of Lady Patricia Vane; Mr. Arthur Cartwright's good voice is heard to advantage as the Hon. Harry Vereker; as Bobby Warren Mr. Scott Cullen is diverting. The Parahara dances are cleverly executed, and under Mr. Rowland Wood's baton the fine chorus is well controlled.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—The Angel of His Dreams is presented by Geo. A. De Gray and H. Masterman's capable company. Mr. G. A. De Gray is convincing in his acting as the heroic but sorely tried Rev. Christian Esdaile, and with effect Mr. Wallace Campbell fills the part of the scheming Major Ferrars; Mr. Charles Arnold bears himself well as Sir Francis Tregarthen; as the erring dupe, Roy Ferrars, Mr. Robert Hall acts with power; as the scheming adventuress, Hilda Revelle, Miss Effie Bartlett is effective; with grace Miss Edna Earl portrays Milly St. Austell; Mr. Mayo Stanley as Sam Tippett and Miss Etta Turner as Bessie Sparkles contribute acceptable humour, and the acting of Little Doris Brereton as Lulu is full of promise.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—The immobile comedian Sam Mayo is responsible for much laughter here, and the Empire Comedy Four amuse greatly with their humour and capital part singing; A. C. Lilly and company are here again with the well acted sketch Drummed Out; La Freya presents a charming artistic novelty in a series of dissolving visions; in manipulating musical glasses Silvo displays great taste and skill; Barrett and Knowles, the Green Lizard and his Friend, are responsible for much laughter. There are some capital Bioscope pictures, and Tom Moore, character comedian, May Mars, a very charming songstress, and Great Vincent, a clever acrobatic table expert, complete the excellent company.

The Palace.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Tubby Edlin and company are here again with Harry Roxbury's bustling, laughable absurdity The Cowboy Millionaire, and the fun is rampant. My Husband is a laughter-provoking sketch given successfully by Lila Madison and Freddy Webb; Alice Craven scores with Lancashire songs, and J. J. Mannix, "the Coffee-Coloured Coon," sings and dances capitally; Dan Conroy's Irish songs and patter are amusing; the Burdetter Brothers do some clever head and hand balancing; the smart Will Douglas troupe, in their Bakers' Beano act are applauded for clever acrobatic work, and the Palace Perfection Pictures are amusing.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The holiday programmes at this popular resort have been greatly enjoyed by thousands of visitors. Mr. Norfolk Megone and his municipal orchestra have been very popular at the promenade concerts in the Floral Pavilion; Mr. Joseph Lycett, the vocalist, has been rapturously encored for his well-rendered bass songs. In the Grand Pavilion "The Gipsies and their Jester," under the management of that versatile comedian and dancer, Mr. Will Gane, have drawn crowded audiences. Miss Marie West is a charming soprano vocalist; Miss Elsa McIntosh shines as a comedienne and dancer; Mr. Evelyn Wood possesses a fine baritone voice; and Mr. Edgar Berte is an excellent comedian and raconteur. Mr. Byden Currie, banjoist and ventriloquist, is remarkably clever, and his performing dog has been trained to perfection. Mr. Will Gane is the life and soul of the company, his grotesque dances being a great feature of the entertainment; Miss Louise Harvey is a proficient solo pianist and accompanist; and the sketches given by the company are artistically performed. In the Royal Victoria Rooms the animated picture shows have drawn crowded houses.

New Spa and Gardens and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. Harry Tunbridge; Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—Julian Kandt and his famous band appeared at the Sunday evening concert in the Opera House, a crowded audience being delighted by the artistically-rendered selections. The vocalists at the concerts are Miss Grace Ivell, a lady with a pure and rich contralto voice, and Mr. A. Edward Oldbury, tenor. "The Salestos" are highly popular in their sparkling entertainments, Miss Winifred Browning's songs and dances and Miss Stroud Wilson's soprano songs being particularly favoured; Mr. Harry Ruming is a versatile artist, his musical contributions on bicycle bells, &c., being very clever. Mr. Sydney Warwick's baritone songs are well rendered; and Mr. Walter Walker's humorous effusions cause hearty merriment.

BRIGHTON. — Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. Andrew Emm's company is here this week with A Diver's Luck. Mr. Edmund O'Grady gives a very fine enactment of Barney Bawn; Mr. William Macready is highly successful as the diver Martin Faber; Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff makes a charming and sympathetic Helen Wyngate; Mr. William Dexter is forcible as the scheming Tom Hall; Mr. James Burt is well placed as Pedro; Mr. Herbert J. Walton's Maurice Wyngate is capitally played; and much fun is afforded by Miss Mary Stewart as Daffodil Bolter and Mr. Harry Bristow as Snowball. The drama is admirably staged.

Alhambra.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Joe Elvin is highly successful in two comedy sketches, Billy's Money-box and Deaf; Jean Wallace is very effective in songs and dances; Staffo, the "juggling butcher boy," is clever and entertaining; the Pemms are capital in cross-talk and knockabout business; Jessie Stuart sings in artistic style; Monahan and Sheehan win great favour with their varied musical selections; George Phillips is a pleasing light comedian; Ardel and Odell are well received in their eccentric and comedy acrobatic act; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting and instructive.

Barrasford's Hippodrome. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—Arthur Prince, the popular ventriloquist, wins enthusiastic applause for his clever and amusing turn; R. A. Roiffe presents "Ye Colonial Septet" in An Olde Tyme Hollowe'en with success; Rameses, "the Egyptian wonder-worker," is a very accomplished illusionist; Rorke, Rooke, and company are extremely diverting in the musical burletta The Prince's Love Affair; George Campbell is a capital patter comedian; Frank Couch, comedian, is favourably received; Harry Jolson, American travesty vocalist and burnt cork comedian, affords amusement; the Quality Quartet of male vocalists, contribute pleasing selections; the Stowe Brothers are novel and daring equilibrists; and Dorothy Sephton, comedienne, appears in her latest successes.

West Pier.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mrs. Brown Potter and company are here this week with Madame X. Mrs. Brown Potter gives an intensely realistic impersonation of Jacqueline and is stirringly effective in the scene of the murder; Mr. Leonard Pagden submits a thoroughly artistic portrayal of Louis Fleuriot; Mr. Thomas Sidney is an admirable Perissard; Mr. Douglas Arlington merits warm praise for his enactment of Raymond Fleuriot; and the remaining characters are ably represented.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Mann; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—Messrs. Daniel and Franks' company is here this week with Oh Susannah! Mr. Roland Daniel gives an excellent impersonation of John Sheppard, whose wife, Flora, has a pleasing exponent in Miss Elsie Roberts; Miss Victoria Wray-Holmes is well suited as Susannah; Mr. Arthur Gibbons as Mr. Plant submits a capital enactment; Mr. Percival Madgewick's Lieutenant Merry is ably played; Miss Dorrie Roberts achieves distinct success as Aurora; and the remaining characters are satisfactorily sustained.

Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—An excellent series of pictures is exhibited here this week. The Adventures of the Golden Valley conveys an exciting story of the Wild West, The Ruins of Old Delhi is a superb film, Rogues of the Turf is a fine drama, Calino's Duel is a comic trick picture, The Livingstone Case is a detective story, and much fun is furnished by Magic Pills, A Lady's Tram, and the Winning of Father.

Theatre de Luxe.—Proprietors, Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. H. Cousens.—The exhibitions of animated pictures here continue to attract good houses. A Trip Through Beautiful Windermere is charmingly picturesque, The Little Plotters submit a pleasing story, exciting incidents are portrayed by the Ranch Girl's Legacy and A Child of the Prairie, the Manufacture of Matches is instructive, while Fits and Misfits and The Forgotten Watch are very funny.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Mark Blow's company is here with The Prisoner of Zenda. Mr. Mark Blow is highly successful as Rudolph Rassendyll, and later as Rudolph V.; and Miss Marie Polini is very pleasing as Princess Flavia; Mr. George A. Brandram displays considerable power and acts cleverly as Black Michael; and other important parts are carefully taken by Miss Agnes Verity, Mr. Eric G. Merrie, Mr. William J. Stack, Mr. Julian Cross, and Mr. Wrenhan Ryott. The play is excellently staged and costumed.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Hush Money; or, The Disappearance of Sexton Blake, is the attraction here, the play being well staged. Mr. Horace Denton takes full advantage of all his opportunities as Sexton Blake; Mr. Ernest E. Imeson makes a good part of John Shand; Miss Theresa Osborne is pleasing as Lady Muriel Montressor; Miss Agnes Paulton is amusing as Euphemia Pattacake; the heavy part of Lord Mervyn Walgrave is well played by Mr. J. H. Darnley; and Mr. Harry Hartley does well as Tinker. The bloodhound, Pedro, is evidently well trained.

Palace.—Local Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Valazzi heads the programme; he does some inimitable juggling, and concludes with "Sloping the Slope" on an ordinary solid cannon ball. Dort and Leonard are remarkably smart comedy acrobats and tumblers; Thora is a clever lady ventriloquist; the Sisters Allen are expert and graceful dancers; Alick Lauder and company amuse with their sketch, The Christening; Irve Hayman and company please with their pretty sketch, Christmas Eve; Boden and Bell are smart juvenile vocalists and dancers; Lillie Souttar is a pleasing comedienne. Animated pictures conclude.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Fred Karno's company amuse with their new production, The G.P.O.; the Royal Tokio Troupe of equilibrists and balancers do an excellent turn, concluding with their celebrated ladder act; Wilson and Waring, comedians, score with their speciality, A Bit of Nonsense; Lydia and Amelys are clever Continental dancers; Jennie Hartley, comedienne, is entertaining; King's College Boys do well in A Student's Concert; Edna James is a pleasing comedienne; the Melbournes obtain appreciation; as also does Dan Filmer, comedian; and interesting animated pictures conclude.

Zoological Gardens. — Superintendent, Capt. E. W. B. Villiers.—There was a very large attendance here on Whit Monday. The variety company, provided, as usual, by Mr. Tom Wood, of Whitehall-road, Bristol, included the Rizarelis, lady gymnasts; Wyman, acrobatic trick skater; Norman and Allan, patter comedians and dancers; Marcus, in Herculean feats; the Deroneys, in a comedy sketch, introducing wire-walking and spade-dancing; Reignor, tumbler and side-somersault thrower; P. J. Durney, in his speciality on the rolling globe; and the Three Recars, eccentric Chinese acrobats. Mr. George Walker presided at the piano. There was the usual country fair, Mr. Tom Weymouth's quadrille band played selections and for dancing, and Messrs. W. and J. Wilder, of Birmingham, provided a fine display of fireworks.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horne.—Animated pictures are installed here, and the programme provided is of exceptional merit. This week, in addition to the films, Miss Sylvia Bond, a sweet soprano, and Mr. Albert Masey, an excellent tenor, sing several items.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—At the head of the bill here are Vardon, Perry, and Wilber, excellent singers, dancers, and musicians. Dalvers and Wallace, comedians, provide merriment; Flo Hinton is a lively comedienne in masculine attire; Tom Gott adds to his popularity as a fun maker; and Chiko is a smart equilibrist and contortionist. Ruby and Laws have a pretty song scena; and a good acrobatic turn is given by Hattie Petro and Pete Leon. The Empire Theatroscope concludes.

Palace Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—Ferdie's Ma-in-Law is brimful of good fun; George Formby, with droll songs, evokes roars of laughter; Sergeant Brennan works wonderful skill in diabolo throwing; the Cairo Trio are excellent musicians; Sissie Brand and Beatrice Allen are fascinating comediennes; Colin Mail is a good light comedian; and the Palace Pictures are highly interesting.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—A strong variety programme drew large Bank Holiday audiences here. The original Vampire Dance, presented by Mildred Deverez and Tom Terris, is weird and fascinating; the Vanderbilts (Harry and Edith), American comedy artists, score in patter and song; Jack Rae, speciality comedy gymnasts, are clever and amusing; roars of laughter greet Clifton and Gibson in their original and amusing business; Amy Belwood, a dainty comedienne, soon dances herself into favour; the Katos, with their Komical Kidgets, the Lilliputian wonders, are likewise in demand; and in a screaming farcical absurdity, entitled The Substitute, Sid Cotterell and company keep the ball of fun rolling. On the Operascope the pictures included The Proclamation of King George V.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—The theatre was reopened on Monday night by a visit of the King's Lynn Amateurs in aid of local charities. The piece played was The Mikado, and everyone must be congratulated on the success achieved. Miss Clara Dow was, of course, the star of the performance, and as Yum Yum she was as delightful as ever.

CARDIFF. — New Theatre. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—The Little Damozel is the attraction this week, large audiences being the rule each night. Miss Emelie Polini in the title-rôle shows exceptional ability; Mr. Alick Chumley portrays the character of Recklow Poole with gaiety and spirit; Mr. Guy Newall as Fitzroy Lock is quite capable; Miss Eva Stuart is a handsome Sybil Craven; Mr. D. Henry Twyford as Captain Partington and Mr. William Matthews as Walter Angel are two excellent representatives. The piece is preceded by a capital curtain-raiser entitled Curing a Selfish Husband

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert J. Taylor.—After a long absence we have a visit here from the popular Marie Lloyd, who has been accorded unusually enthusiastic receptions; Dion Wade, the clever comedian and mimic, Phil Rees' Stable Lads, in a novel racing act, and Clarissa Talbot and Albert Pearce, in a delightful Japanese musical scena, are prominent on the bill. Others who contribute are G. W. Hunter (the well-known comedian and raconteur), Ryan and Hall (two acrobatic comedians), Bert Williams (a clever ventriloquist), Vandinoff, assisted by Mlle. Louie (the lightning artist in oils), and the Sisters St. Julian (duettists and dancers), with the American Bioscope to complete.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Cambrian Theatres, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. E. Clay.—The boards are occupied this week by Mr. C. Watson Mill's company in the romantic play The Love of the Princess. Mr. Frank Harvey gives a thrilling presentation of Prince Ramona; Mr. Richard Vane is a good Count Danilo; Mr. John Burton (Josef, King of Ilarnia), Mr. Francis Serle (Duke Scarle), and Mr. Edgar Morgan (Boris) are exceptionally clever exponents of their respective characters; Mr. Beckett Bauer is a striking Lieut. Orlans; and considerable credit is also due to Mr. John Worth as Lieut. Zaroff. Miss May Beatrice wins admirers in the rôle of Princess Idalia, and Miss Josephine Lee (Constantia) and Maude Steeple (Lady Irene) could scarcely be improved upon.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson.—The exceptionally fine holiday programme en evidence at the popular Palace has had the effect of drawing crowded houses. Pride of place is given to Mr. Wilfred H. Benson's company in a stirring episode entitled The Last Halt. A sensational drama on the cinematograph is entitled The Martyrdom of Adolf Beck. The Newmans, Australia's greatest trick cyclists, also obtain unlimited approbation, and the Ten Dixie Girls in a vocal and terpsichoerean scena, The Silver Coon, are bright and musical. Geo. Geoffreys (mimic, comedian, and dancer), Burt Ward (comical siffleur and raconteur), and the Miltons (skating comedians) all contribute to a fine programme.

CARLISLE.—The Palace.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—Friend and Downing, who are the chief attraction, are very properly described as the "laughter fiends"—their style is so original and their cross-talk and patter so quaintly comical that roars of laughter greeted their every effort; Leolin gives an Indian club and juggling scena, which is as pretty as it is clever; Gwen Francis is a pleasing and dainty comedienne; and Kate Gourley's smart dancing met with well-deserved approval. The Vaudeville Trio also shine as dancers, and are in addition excellent vocalists; Clive Cattley, a smart light comedian, appears again with great success. Perhaps the most popular turn is that contributed by Shirley and Ransome, in their humorous and pathetic sketch Jim's Pal, a most interesting playlet, which gives these clever artists ample scope for displaying their undoubted histrionic abilities. Some excellent pictures conclude.

H.M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thomas Courtice.—Mr. Edmund Tearle, who is always a big favourite here, commenced a summer stock season on Saturday last with the popular drama Jeanie Deans, which met with the utmost appreciation from a full house. For the Bank Holiday Shall We Forgive Her? attracted a large audience, and much favourable comment was made on the excellent representation given by Mr. Tearle's stock company. Mr. Tearle and Miss Kate Clinton filled the leading rôles with all their well-known skill, and were well supported by Mr. Ernest Lodge in the heavy part, Miss Nancy Blackwood as Joanna Lightfoot, Messrs. Stuart Black, John Taylor, Dennis Hogan, Miss Ray Parry, and Miss Mary Campbell. The piece was well staged and dressed, and was a distinct success. It's Never Too Late to Mend is also to be produced during the week.

CASTLEFORD.—Queen's Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, The Castleford Queen's Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and Will H. Emerson.—An admirable company here was headed by Signor Arvi and his scientific and artistic mystery "Les Metabies"; Bert Bowden is making a success with a couple of quaint songs; Ariana, a well-trained dog, is introduced by Chas. d'Aix; Nancy Renshaw as a dusky songstress and bone manipulator is loudly applauded; the Carney Bros. are vocal comedians of considerable merit; Warren and Granville, in a vocal and instrumental act, His Brother's Fiancée, find plenty of admirers; and animated pictures by the Loyal Dominion Co. complete an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

CHATHAM. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard.—This week marks the first appearance at the Theatre Royal of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. The Mikado was staged on the opening night before a splendid house. In the title-rôle Mr. Leicester Tunks was excellent; Mr. Henry Herbert's performance as Nanki Poo was greatly enjoyed; Mr. Henry A. Lytton made the hit of the evening in his amusing and finished impersonation of Ko Ko; Pooh Bah was in the safe keeping of Mr. Fred Billington; Mrs. Arthur Rousbey delighted all as Yum Yum; and Miss Louie Rene was applauded throughout in the part of Katisha. The week's bill also includes The Gondoliers, The Yeomen of the Guard, and Iolanthe.

CHELTENHAM.—Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. and Mrs. Benson and company are here, and opened on Monday with Macbeth. Mr. Benson's impersonation of the guilty Thane was impressive and always interesting. Mrs. Benson acted with her customary intensity and skill as Lady Macbeth; Mr. Murray Carrington gave an admirable impersonation of Banquo; Mr. Eric Mason was capable as the Thane of Fife; Mr. Guy B. Rathborne skilfully doubled the parts of Duncan and the Doctor; Mr. Alfred Wild was a picturesque Malcolm; Mr. John Howell made a gallant figure as Leyton; Miss Marion Foreman was natural as Fleance; and the Three Witches were weirdly represented by Mr. E. Harrison, Mr. H. O. Nicholson, and Miss Violet Fairbrother.

Montpellier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—A sloping floor and other improvements have made this pavilion one of the best equipped in the country, and the opening of the season on Monday by the Middies and the Maids was attended by happy auguries of success. The entertainment is delightfully bright, and artistic. The "maids" are Miss Gladys Haysack and Miss Maisie Everette, the former a vocalist of fine voice and graceful methods, and the latter a chic and charming little lady, whose songs and dances are brimful of life and gaiety. Mr. Mostyn Scott, in his dialect songs, is a great favourite; Mr. Rex Harold is the humorist par excellence; and Mr. Arthur Randal does some capital work, Miss Everette and he scoring heavily in a Dutch duet; Mr. Kenworth gives an excellent musical monologue, "Baby Bill." One of the funniest things o' the evening is the concerted sketch The Aeroplane

Albert Hall.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Glen-Barber.—The pictures here continue good. Mr. Harry Edwards' conjuring and ventriloquial turn is clever and entertaining; Miss Alice Warner is a bright and engaging vocalist; and Mr. Fred Stuart gives a versatile show.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Marie Santoi and her merry Japs present their bright and melodious miniature musical comedy A Night in Japan, and capture the hearts of a delighted audience. Happy Attwood introduces excellent new patter and parody business; Gertrude Blanche, a dainty soubrette, is a taking vocalist and dancer; Alf Holt a clever American mimic; and D'Aubey a most capable lightning scenic colour artist. The remaining items of the bill are Charles Rowen, an acceptable comedian, Vernon's bioscopic pictures, and the Cattaneo company in their original and clever acrobatic sketch.

CHORLTON - CUM - HARDY. — Chorlton Theatre and Winter Gardens, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Walter Stott; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fredk. J. Reece.—Messrs. Shiel-Porter and Garth's répertoire company is paying a welcome return visit. On Monday A Snug Little Kingdom was presented to a large and appreciative audience. Mr. Garth, as Bernard Gray, gave a well-studied representation of an exacting part. Herbert Gray, M.D., was cleverly played by Mr. T. G. Vane; and an enjoyable piece of characterisation was Mr. Arthur McCullogh's Ben Kershaw. Miss Esmai Ellys was especially good as Mrs. Blower, and Miss Doriel Dahy presented a realistic study of Amelia. Miss Gladys Morris made a vivacious Sister Hope, and Miss Lisa Coleman was happily suited in the difficult rôle of Dolly. The staging of the piece left nothing to be desired. The Money Spinner and Caste are also in the week's bill. The tour is under the direction of Mr. J. A. Whitehouse.

COLCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—By arrangement with Mr. Herbert Sleath Miss Florence Tyrrell is presenting The Woman in the Case, and on Monday the piece was received with every show of appreciation. The three characters which stood out most prominently were the Margaret Rolfe of Miss Beth Elliott, the Thompson of Mr. W. T. Elworthy, and the Claire Foster of Miss Tyrrell, and the repeated curtains awarded this trio were ample proof of the quality of their acting. Mr. Cecil Newton was an acceptable Julian Rolfe; Mr. Sydney Porter was well groomed and very natural as Jimmy O'Neil; and Mr. Bruce Lindley extracted a large amount of humour from the part of Louis Klauffsky.

Hippodrome.—Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The holiday top is Albas, in a very fine and daring wire act; Maurice, the Mystifier, is a really good and attractive turn; Dalvaine's Marionettes reflect the utmost credit upon the producer; Miss Madge Brownie, the dainty comedy artist, has a good reception; Tom Franks, ventriloquist, wins generous applause; Tom Lee excels as a tight comedian; and Jessica Brooke scores in song and dance. The reintroduction of the Bioscope is meeting with the greatest approval.

CONSETT.—New Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. Lewis Gilbert and company are here with A Daughter of the Sea. As Mark Glensdale Mr. Lewis Gilbert is responsible for some capital stage villainy; Miss Florrie Green as Sunshine is a charming heroine; Ken Morland is in the capable hands of Mr. Roy Denman; and Mr. Ashmore Vincent is quite at home in the difficult character of Dan Glensdale. The comedy parts are well sustained by Miss Allyce Wyllyams, Mr. Jo Monkhouse, and Mr. J. W. Gonne.

CORK.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—The Rainbows, in a musical sketch, opened a week's engagement here. The soloists include Miss Marie Craven, Mr. Harry Daunt, Miss Norman Russell, Miss Bettie Ray, and Mr. Charles Hutchins. Mr. Lionel Howard gives some clever impersonations of famous actors.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Thos. F. O'Brien.—George French, comedian, contributes clever character songs; Pearl and Halton, a musical comedy couple, are diverting in lively music and patter; Miss Mina Denvil, vocalist, possesses a sweet and sympathetic voice; Elton and Edwin, banjoists, are clever; a skilful juggling display is contributed by Mozetto; Miss Barry Eldon pleases in her songs and dances; Mlle. Pollo is a graceful gymnast; Duncan and Godfrey, in their coster comedy, entitled Me and 'Er, keep the house in good humour; and the Palascope pictures are very entertaining.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Driving a Girl to Destruction, by Mrs. Morton Powell, and produced by Mr. Morton Powell's company, is proving a good holiday attraction here. As the hero, Robert Ray, Mr. Leslie Austin gives a capable impersonation; Mr. George H. Child is successful as the villain; Miss Kate Sydney and Miss Maud M. Powell as Ruth and Ruby Wright respectively fully deserve their success; and Miss Anna Corri ably portrays the terrible Madame De Meral. Mr. Edward Swinton as the tax-collector and Miss Maggie Stewart as Bessie Betts both give capital accounts of themselves.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. E. Wright.—The house was crowded on Monday at both performances. Mr. Harry P. Selwyn's company present A 33 to 1 Chance, in which Mr. Ben Jordan, the undefeated champion feather-weight of the world, and John Sullivan, the American champion, appear; Haley's Juveniles give a very fine vocal scena; Florrie Gallimore pleases the audience with her "fetching" songs; Rich Taylor gives a good ventriloquial scena; and other artists are Maude Vera, dainty comedienne; Ernesto, juggler and musical equilibrist; Ted Lowen, comedian; and the Five Vernons, xylophone specialists. The pictures deal with incidents in the life of the King.

CROYDON.—Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Alexander Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—The holiday bill here consists of The Bad Girl of the Family. Miss Violet Crossley submits a creditable rendering of Bess Moore; Miss Margaret Tueski acts with dramatic effect as Honour Moore; Miss Guinevere Shilton is commendable as Mrs. Moore; Miss Daisy Cook is a womanly and affectionate Gladys Erskine; and Miss Amy Randolph makes a vivacious Sally Smithers. Mr. Dudley Wynton is a fine, manly Lieutenant Richard Marsh; Mr. George R. Montford is suitable as Harry Gordon; Mr. Fredk. W. Freeman is well placed as Lord Erskine; Mr. Luke Forster gives a capital character sketch of Barney Gordon; Mr. Tom May is droll as Sammy Snozzle; and Mr. George Belmore deserves a word as Jerry Holmes. The company carry excellent scenery, which is manipulated with credit.

Empire Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—Mr. Jay's Whitsun bill of fare is of a palatable nature. Leonard Mortimer and company make a hit in a sketch The Riddle of the Red Crawl; Valvero's Naval Bombardment is a novel and clever show; the Achmed Ibrahim Troupe of Bedouin Arabs give a marvellous acrobatic act; Zona Vevey and Max Erard are great in musical scena, My Lady's Bower; Rich and Rich, comedians, deserve praise; Harry Bancroft, chorus vocalist, is well received; Elsie Roby is successful at the piano; Harry Rogerson is an amusing comedian; Emmie Ames, comedienne, is quite up to the mark; Frank Fort, Johannesburg Jester, is applauded; Vera Wootton is a charming comedienne; and the Bioscope Pictures are worthy of mention.

DARLINGTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's comp any is here with The Midnight Mail. Mr. John F. Trayner as Harry Steyne is excellent; Mr. F. G. Evison as Billy Brewer works comedy into a very exacting part with success; Mr. Harry W. Hatchman is capital as Leonard Boyle; Mr. Frank S. Strickland does well as Hassan Padisha; Miss Trissie Humphries as Mary Steyne wins favour by her dainty acting; Miss Mildred Carr as Nancy Brewer is clever;; and Miss Jeannie Weston is a smart Lady Phyllis Eustace. The animated pictures shown after the drama are new.

Hippodrome Theatres, Ltd. — Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Nicholls.—A big holiday bill is headed by George D'Albert, who scores with his songs. Mr. C. does well with his singing and talking; and other good turns are the Dartons, duettists; Blanco and Emilie, in a musical and dancing act; Victor Louis in vocal comedy; Maude Courtney, comedienne; Harley and Melton, the pattering pair; the Three Phydoras, musical novelty act; and the Hipposcope pictures.

DARWEN.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; Manager, Mr. D. P. Cooper.—Cliffe Dacre, baritone and character vocalist, is well applauded; Hebden and Richards are appreciated in their sketch, The Stolen Violin, which includes solos on that instrument by Mr. Percy Richards; Alf Grady, comedian, causes laughter. The pictures include The Passing Shadow and The Cowboy and the Squaw.

Albert Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Holden; Manager, Mr. J. Morris.—Dennis J. McCarthy is amusing in his sketch, At the Bar; the Three Kings, juvenile singers and dancers, are clever; as also are the Sisters Page, vocalists. Capital films include Taming a Husband and In Southern Tunis.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre.—Sole Owner and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Denley.—A capital holiday programme is headed by Percy Honri and company in Concordia; Herr Julius Walther, of Carl Rosa fame, in his standard selections, is as tuneful as ever; the Brothers Ethairen are eccentrics of an entertaining order; Arthur Astill, as a farmyard mimic, proves himself an artist of ability; Cole and Rags perform their juggling tricks in a smart and amusing manner; the Gregson Trio do well in a comedy sketch, entitled An Ideal Maid; Charles Grantly, comedian, with quaint songs and patter, makes himself a firm favourite; and Nellie Dashwood sings and dances in a manner distinctly pleasing. The Bioscope concludes with a humorous film.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes.—At this house Miss Augusta Tullock and company present a drama, entitled Judith, the Woman Who Sinned, and in the title-rôle Miss Tullock gives a fine impersonation. Jack Carrington is ably rendered by Mr. Alec Young; the rôle of the evil genius is capably portrayed by Mr. Ed. Vivian; and Miss Dorothea Vivian sustains her part in a highly-creditable manner.

There is no simpler, safer, or more agreeable preparation than

DEVONPORT.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Herbert Taylor.—The Ten Loonies keep the house in roars of laughter; Joe Reichen and his performing dogs give a wonderful turn; Stewart and Morgan supply some artistically-rendered Irish songs, which are loudly re-demanded; Hunter and Maris entertain with a clever and original comedy act; Olive Martyn is responsible for plenty of fun with a boxing burlesque; Madge Beresford, as a comedienne, is distinctly above the average; and 'Losqo Brown, coloured comedian, is equally efficient in song and dance.

METROPOLE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—One of the Best supplies a first-rate attraction. As Lieutenant Dudley Keppel Mr. James Stillwell scores brilliantly; Mr. John Sargent is a fine military martinet in the rôle of Lieutenant-General Coventry; Mr. Leonard Cardale makes a welcome re-appearance in the rôle of Dr. Penrose; Miss Jessie Yatman capably and prettily plays the part of Mary Penrose; and Mr. Lincoln Calthorpe is a capable Philip Elsworth.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Miss Florence Baines and company are making a welcome re-appearance here. Miss Baines fairly revels in her original part of Mary Ellen Thompson, and keeps the audience in continuous laughter; as John Higgins Mr. David Donaldson is responsible for some excellent acting; Mr. Burt Burton as Moses Goldburg is humorous; Mr. Payne Fletcher as John Henry Thompson does well; Miss Maud Locker ably portrays the part of Mrs. Thompson; the character of Eva Lancashire is in the able hands of Miss Eva Nelson; Mr. Sinclair Holden as Harry submits an excellent study; and Miss Mary Collier (Bertha) and Mr. Hubert Mitchell (George) do good work.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler; Musical-Director, Mr. E. G. Summerfield.—A brisk and entertaining programme is provided here, the principal turn being Sandy McNab and company in the successful screaming absurdity The Egyptian Mummy, which keeps the house in roars of laughter; Mr. J. R. Poole presents the Seven Bramusis, in a novel musical scena; Bert Byrne submits some original patter; and Guest and Newlyn, the Hebrew and the soubrette, are clever singers and dancers. The Three Delaires, in The Demon Grotto, perform some daring feats on the triple trapeze and swinging ropes; Iris Banfield sings good songs; and Sam Spira is successful as an entertainer. Cromo and Hamilton, burlesque artists, were unable to appear on Monday.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. Jack Harris; Musical-Director, Mr. R. H. Riley.—Marie Jones, in her clever quick-change act, Wanted, a Co-respondent, gives a highly-diverting entertainment, assisted by Ernest Munro; Thornbury is a capital ventriloquist and lightning painter; George Bernard has a capital patriotic song; Lottie Holland delights everybody by her singing and dancing; the Wagners contribute a pleasing instrumental turn, introducing also a clever ice skate dance; Gertrude Seaton sings good illustrated songs; Escourt exhibits much skill in juggling; and La Somnambula, mystifier, also appears.

INDUSTRIAL HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. J. Christian.—Much laughter is caused here by the comic films, and some excellent dramatic subjects are thoroughly enjoyed. Illustrated songs are also rendered at intervals.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Whitsuntide holiday attraction is the romantic drama Send Him Victorious. A dignified bearing distinguishes Mr. Howard Hardy's representation of the King of Bavonia; in lighter vein, Mr. James Archer secures a triumph as the Governor of the State Prison; Mr. Hugh Carmichael wins appreciation and applause; Mr. Charles Higgins is also loudly acclaimed for his impersonation of Major Carl Strauss; Captain Frank Allison is convincingly and artistically submitted by Mr. Herbert Skardon; and Mr. Frank Holyoake must be commended for his Sergeant Max and Mr. Lionel Carteret for his John Arany. Miss Netta Mitchell is a refined Ethel Harding; and Miss Sidney Crowe, who revives pleasant reminiscences, loses none of her popularity as the Countess Kara.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Grand Theatre Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—The holiday attraction at the Grand Theatre has been the new and original comedy, written by Cayley Calvert and J. Willoughby Woodward, entitled Not Before the Missus; Miss Nannie Goldman, a vivacious comedienne, as Jane Parker, the general, secured hearty laughter; Miss Ruth Wallace was bright as Matilda Hanbury; Mr. Leonard K. Mansford was a genuinely funny Augustus Whistler; and Mr. W. Patrick Boyle made a droll Alphonse Durprez. Mr. Francis James as Vandyke Brown acted with sincerity; Mr. William Holles presented an excellent stage portrait of Barnaby Bunstone; the Mrs. Bunstone of Miss Pattie Walton was entertaining; and Miss Helena Dale and Miss Edith Bruce were pleasing. The other parts were adequately filled. The comedy was well staged. The pièce de résistance was preceded by a musical comedy mélange, in which Miss Nannie Goldman, Mr. Francis James, and Mr. William Holles were entirely successful. The Grand orchestra, which was of great service, is under the capable direction of Mr. H. A. Dowson.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Chas. Fox.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company, in The Lady of Ostend, have delighted appreciative audiences at the Gaiety Theatre during the week. The Baron de Longueville of Mr. Lawrence Brough is a study in character always artistic and amusing; another clever bit of stage portraiture is the Toby Krockitt of Mr. Watkin Wynne; Mr. Arthur Staples as Dick Whortles imbued his impersonation with the semi-tragic note which emphasises farcical comedy; the Joseph Carbury of Mr. Fred Morland was a good performance; Mr. W. Mayne Lynton was persuasive as the manager of the cinematograph companies; and Mr. H. Ray Cody excellent in the little part of Thompson. Miss Nora Royston looked well, and played well as the Lady of Ostend; and Miss Amy Singleton made a most impressive Mother-in-law. The Dorothy Whortles of Miss Beatrice Park was effective; Miss Olga Esme was delightful as the strawberry and cream maiden, Milly Grace. The piece was lavishly mounted, and Mr. Lawrence Brough's stage-management was perfect. As a curtain-raiser a petite comedy, written by Mr. Frank Stayton, was given.

THE PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox.—In addition to dancing to the witching strains of Mr. Harry Woods' orchestra, which is the chief raison d'etre of the Palace, the management rely on their roller-skating rink, and have provided an excellent variety programme in the Opera House. The Twelve Young Stars pleased in a novel vocal scena, "A Picnic Up the River"; Miss Lillian is a daring lady cyclist; Les Napiers contain a smart juggler; the Four Craigs are clever gymnasts; the comedy acrobatic act of the Unites secures laughter; Miss Ida Kessanley and her troupe of performing fox terriers are much appreciated; but the feature of the entertainment is the beautiful singing of the Douglas Male Choristers, under the conductorship of Mr. Noah Moore.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Proprietor, Mr. Charles Dare; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Carr.—This is the only place of amusement in Douglas which is open all the year round. The management rely on the two-houses-nightly policy, and animated pictures, relieved by variety turns, are their strong card. The pictures combine comic and dramatic. Mr. James Carr, a clever actor and a cultured singer, presents an illustrated song scena, "Fall in My Lads," which goes with a bang. Messrs. Mead and Wall are funny comedians. Mr. Cecil Bevan is the pianist. Other amusements in Douglas are Buxtons, with roller-skating and high-class pierrot concerts, and Mr. Charles Dare's Burnt Cork Comedians on Douglas Head.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and His Majesty's Theatre company entered on their second week's engagement here on Monday. Sir Herbert in the rôle of Svengali achieved his accustomed artistic success, and Miss Gladys Harvey was an ideal and clever representative of Trilby. In The Man Who Was, which followed, Sir Herbert played the part of Austin Limmason. On Tuesday night a magnificent performance of The Merchant of Venice was given before a very large audience, the staging and scenic settings being superb. Sir Herbert won round upon round of applause for his excellent study of the Jew; Miss Evelyn D'Alroy in the rôle of Portia proved herself to be a most accomplished actress, and acted with splendid judgment; Mr. Arthur Wontner made an admirable Bassanio; Mr. Henry Morrell did very well as Antonio; Miss Gladys Harvey was a most efficient Nerissa; and Miss Hilda Moore gave a satisfactory portrayal of Jessica. The O'Flynn was announced for Wednesday and Thursday, and to-day The Merchant of Venice, Trilby, and The Man Who Was will be repeated.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—Messrs. O'Brien and Ireland's repertoire company has commenced a season here, and on Monday night the house was packed from floor to ceiling by an audience that received the popular play The Green Bushes; or, Ireland 150 Years Ago with great applause. Mr. James O'Brien, the famous Irish comedian, was greeted with rounds of applause on his appearance as Wild Murrogh, in which he displayed his versatile abilities to the full; Mr. Harry Ireland acted admirably as Connor O'Kennedy; Mrs. Glenville submitted an excellent portrayal of Meg; Mr. James Daly gave a very clever study of George O'Kennedy; Mr. J. D. Davis appeared with great success in the rôle of Captain Dartois; Miss Minnie Walsh gave an admirable portrayal of Geraldine; Nellie O'Neill was cleverly enacted by Miss Laura Lawson; and Miss Maud Barnes as Tigertail and Miss Madeline Hurst as Miami also did well in their respective parts.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Marsh.—An excellent bill of fare is headed by Gordon and St. Croix's company, including Miss Beatrice Edwards, in the romantic scena The Romanys. Fred Land, comedian, scores a big success; Millie Payne, eccentric comedienne, is recalled again and again; Dan Hendry, acrobatic comedian, is going strong; Zethus is well appreciated for his excellent cornet solos; Bertha Winder, Prince Milner Trio, and Harry Thurston also appear with success; and the Empire pictures conclude.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Topping the bill here are Spissell Bros. and Mack in a novel eccentric act, which causes much laughter. Others appearing are Leslie and Stevens in a comedietta entitled Love Levels All, which is well received; Zenora, in a marvellous balancing act; Amy Russell, who meets with a good reception for her excellent songs; the Beckotow Bros. in their comedy act The Butler and the Dude, which is warmly applauded; Will Nosam, coon vocalist; Belle Sylvia; the Bristons, acrobats; Will Owen, comedian; together with the Bioscope.

WORLD'S FAIR.—Proprietor Mr. Charles A. James.—The following artists are appearing with great success:—Seymour and Med, comedy artists; Gennie Lindo, vocalist; John Davies, ventriloquist; and Syd Down and George Denton, comedians.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Large audiences are enjoying the return visit of Mr. George Edwardes's company, in The Merry Widow. In the title-rôle Miss Mary Ridley wins the praises of every one with her charming singing and acting. Mr. Robert Needham is equally successful with a bright rendering of Prince Danilo; Mr. H. Sinclair Cotter gives a clever interpretation of the diverting Baron Popoff; and the character of General Novakovitch is in the capable hands of Mr. Cecil Warick. Mr. Harry Emeric as Nisch proves highly amusing, and he and Miss Neste Laurel give some really smart songs and dances. Miss Mabel Hope is an attractive Natalie; and Mr. Ronald Pomeroy a powerful Vicomte Camile de Jolidon. The play is well staged and dressed, and the choruses well rendered.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Midland Entertainment Corporation, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Watt.—At the top of the strong holiday programme is the Marvellous Child Trio, clever juvenile actor-musicians; Haley's Garden of Girls is a charming troupe of vocalists and dancers; Amy Anderson and company in scena, Banana Queen, are old favourites, as is Cull Pitt, in trick-talk travesties and topics. Also prominent are the Three Langfords, vocalists and expert dancers; Lily Belle, in a barefoot dancing act; and Will Conn, comedian. The Empire pictures are, as usual, popular.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—For the concluding week of the season a remarkable bill on the "Grand Guignol" principle is being presented. Mrs. John Lawson and company appearing in three playlets, The Devil's Sunday, The Bride for a Living, and The Woman and the Apple. Mrs. Lawson does ample justice to the different rôles, and shows herself to be an actress of most unusual ability. Excellent support is accorded by Mr. Cohen Owen; and by Mr. Sam Springson, whose Joe Faber, in The Bride for a Living, is a really fine performance. During the intervals an enjoyable musical programme is rendered by Madame Florence Burns, Miss Mildred Gibbs, and Mr. Robert Foster Hine.

KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—A very entertaining bill is headed by the Original Schichti Marionettes, one of the cleverest shows of its kind; the Four Mayos cause much laughter by their comicalities in a roller-skating scene; the Soho Trio present, with success, a racy turn, consisting of capital singing and eccentric dancing; Rastus and Banks provide a lively interlude; J. P. Carroll is a thorough master of the tambourine; and Ted Gill uses his fine tenor voice to the utmost advantage; Eddie and Ethel are warm favourites in their comedy business; Nellie Farrell wins applause for her Irish songs; and the Kingscope shows a fine film, Heroine of Mafeking.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. K. Stewart.—People's Popular Pictures opened for the season here on Monday, when two large houses welcomed with many signs of approval the capital programme presented. A coloured film, Eclipse of the Sun and Moon, is a clever and mystifying item. A capital variety turn by the Wymans completes a most enjoyable programme.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. W. Austin.—The picture entertainment continues to be attractive here, and a capital series of picture gives much satisfaction to good houses.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—Phil Percival, heading the bill here, is most entertaining at the piano; Picitt and Lizette mystify the audience in a laughable way; in an acrobatic act the Four Leopolds win praise; and the Great Spiridion is a juggler hugely enjoyed. Walter and Albert Kelly are clever jumpers; Graham and Barron prove funny comedians; and T. E. Johnstone, with character songs, is well applauded. The Bank Messenger on the Cathedoscope is an entertaining picture.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. Edward S. Petley and Miss Una Gilbert's company is appearing here in Little Mrs. Cummin. Miss Una Gilbert works hard, cleverly, and well as Mrs. Cummin; Miss Christine Raynor is a bright, girlish, and attractive Juliet; Miss Jessie Percival is excellently suited as the sporting girl Lucy; Miss Caroline Fenton does well as Mrs. Plain; and Miss Mabel Leatham and Miss Constance Walker help as Harriet and Ellen. Clever and animated work is done by Mr. J. Edgar Stevenson as Clarence; Mr. John Belton undertakes well the part of Captain Sands; Mr. Edward S. Petley is a characteristic Horace; and Mr. Gordon Hamilton an excellent Mills.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes; Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. John Hart's company is appearing here in Les Cloches De Corneville. Mr. E. St. Alban gives an extremely clever and impressive performance as Gaspard; Mr. Mark Lester is a conspicuous success as a very clever and humorous Bailie; Mr. Augustus Cramer sings and acts with much ability as the Marquis de Corneville; Mr. Wensley Russell possesses a pleasing voice which he uses well as Grenicheux; and Mr. Alfred Selby is a substantial help in providing fun as Gobo. Miss Vera Dorian is entitled to the highest praise for her capital singing and fine animated work as Germaine; Miss Gurney Delaporte is a pretty and dainty Serpolette; Miss Florence Hardy is a very good Gertrude; Miss Lucy Kipling a successful Christophe; and other parts in a particularly good cast are well filled. The very effective chorus demands a word of praise for its spirited work.

THE ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here this week are F. T. Nelson's Newsboys, and their bright and lively singing and dancing are very popular; Mr. Arthur Rigby returns with new songs and great success; Miss Lallie Brooke, original and pleasing, is very clever as "the old-fashioned girl"; Miss Amy Clevere sings her songs in a taking and attractive style; Henriette and Selina are able and refined musicians, who find well-deserved favour; Gordon and Leslie provide excellent fun; Mr. Mike Maddin is a good comedian; and new films are shown.

ECCLES.—CROWN THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company is here in a répertoire of plays. The first night was devoted to Mr. Barnes, of New York. Mr. Lodge-Percy as Mr. Barnes proved himself a most capable and painstaking actor. He was well supported by Mr. F. Douglas Howard as Danello, Mr. Andrew Money as Captain George Arthur, R.N., Miss Henrietta Schrier as Marina Paoli, and Miss Veronica Clinton as Maud Chateris. Other parts were in capable hands.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—A very fresh, bright, and healthily humorous programme is presented by those delightful entertainers, The Follies, who began a week's engagement here last Monday. The opening part of the entertainment reveals the musical abilities of the members of the company, and nothing could be more charming than the rendering of the various selections by Miss Effie Cook, Miss Gwennie Mars, Miss Ethel Armandale, and Miss Muriel George, while the amusing stories of Mr. Lewis Sydney, and the extremely clever imitations of popular London actors by Mr. Morris Harvey drew forth hearty laughter and applause. A notable item is the series of "Beverage Quartettes," the words by Mr. Arthur Davenport, and the tuneful music by Mr. H. G. Pellissier. "The Follies" revel in the humour of the "potted plays," which include travesties of Henry of Navarre, Fires of Fate, and King of Cadonia, the last-named being a particularly happy skit. The burlesque of a modern music hall, with the good-humoured mimicry of many well-known artists, evoked shouts of mirth. A new feature of this sketch is the introduction of various gallery spectators cleverly made up, who punctuate the efforts of the "stars" by critical comments of a droll kind. "The Follies" were repeatedly recalled on Monday evening, the appreciation of the audience testifying to the merits of a felicitous, well-arranged, and altogether clever entertainment. A specially designed curtain and a pretty scene in black-and-white harmonised effectively with the players' quaint dresses.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—A new comedy entitled A Sense of Humour, by Miss Beryl and Mr. Cosmo Hamilton, has been staged here this week, the piece being amusingly played by Miss Fyfe Alexander and a thoroughly efficient company. The quartet of characters, who virtually have the whole burden of the piece on their shoulders, succeed in providing a most enjoyable evening's entertainment, and their efforts are cordially appreciated. Miss Alexander, as the flirting young wife Mrs. Hay, acts a clever part with unfailing skill; the rôle of Captain Hay is effectively handled by Mr. James Hartop; and Sir William and Lady Hutton are admirably represented by Mr. Frank Wolsey and Miss Helen Holmes. Mr. Henry Le Grand creates an abundance of mirth as the butler; and Miss Violet Oakley is quite competent as the lady's maid. The authors may congratulate themselves on their work being interpreted by such expert performers, and the actors are to be complimented on their artistic production of the play. The Call of Birth, by Beatrice Heron Maxwell, put on as a curtain-raiser, gave opportunities to Miss Ethel Singer in the part of Margaret Brandreth, assisted by Mr. Wolsey and Mr. Le Grand, to make a very acceptable appearance.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—Mr. Hal Forde, a comedian with a graceful, easy style, who sings pleasant songs humorously, and who introduces some excellent patter, is one of the principal attractions at this house; Miss Annie Schuberth, a vocalist with a powerful, expressive voice, is loudly applauded for her song scena, and she is heard to equal advantage in a pretty setting of different lullabies, entitled "Songs My Mother Sang"; Slippere, a blind entertainer at the piano, shows his mastery of the instrument; and Bert Woodward, a dashing trick cyclist, performs several smart feats. Miss Phœbe Mercer and company raise hearty laughter by their excellent acting of an amusing farce, Mistakes Will Happen; Otto and Olga give an artistic selection of operatic music in their sketch, entitled Mock Opera; and dainty Miss Daisy James is highly successful in her piquant rendering of exhilarating songs. Hammon and Wyatt, "the Australian Sandow Girls"; Mr. Jack Ramsay, comedian; and views of the Proclamation of King George V. shown by the Bioscope complete a capital programme.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Miss Clarice Mayne stands at the head of this week's bill, and her song creations and mimicry, including her crinoline success, "I'm longing for someone to love me," delighted the audience, who have also fully appreciated the amusing by-play, as well as the expert playing of the gentleman who acts as accompanist; Miss Julia Kent and company submit an enjoyable little three-part comedy of 1760, entitled Pistols for Three, which is smartly played; and Mr. Harry Roxbury, aided by a cast of some half dozen actors and actresses, and a full chorus, provides plenty of diversion with the musical absurdity in three scenes On the Track. The performance of Lux and his dogs indicates great sagacity and careful training of the canine artists; the unique methods of the De Wynne Brothers, in a remarkably clever athletic display, adds to the effect of their skill and dexterity; and the comedy couple Frank and Free afford some amusement in a duologue scena. The single-handed turns comprise singing and dancing by Tiny Arnold, a juvenile comedienne; Mr. Pat Rafferty, in some of his latest comic efforts; and an excellent appearance by Mr. Andy McLeod in the triple rôle of comedian, instrumentalist, and raconteur. Bioscope pictures complete a pleasant programme.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—Lieutenant Rose and the Foreign Spy, The Eleventh Hour, and The Ingrate are the principal pictures in a varied programme here. The Proclamation of King George V. at the Mercat Cross, Edinburgh, gives a vivid presentment of the ceremony of last Tuesday week, and the humorous pictures are, as usual, many and good.

PRINGLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. E. Edmunds.—The Roman, and Ransom's Folly are two outstanding pictures displayed here this week, and the humorous subjects include Electric Soles, a very diverting series of farcical episodes. Miss Edna Cragge, a pleasing singer of illustrated songs, and the Scottish Quintette, contribute interesting turns to the variety programme.

MARINE GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Smith.—The weather in the Northern Metropolis is still far from suitable for outdoor amusements in the Gardens, but considerable audiences have patronised the entertainments in the concert hall this week. An excellent programme is provided by Mr. Graham Moffat, in his original Scottish plays; by Mr. J. P. Ling, an amusing artist, who contributes a smart performance; and by members of the Edinburgh select orchestra. There are also admirable views shown by the Bioscope.

EXETER.—NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Sandy.—The proprietors have arranged a most popular (and it proved to be a most successful) programme for the Whitsuntide holiday. George Robey keeps the house in a continual ripple of laughter; Grogie, the "character cove from the country," is another good turn; and a fine exhibition of scenic production with crayons is given by Pallette in his novel speciality, and his highly trained dog adds to the attraction. Kisbey, the call-boy, George James, the funny comedian, and Miss Adey Spencer are also in the bill.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—The Gay Gordons is being played here by the members of Mr. Robert Macdonald's company. The dresses, scenery, and the entire production are excellent. Mr. Frank Lincoln as Angus is a great success; Mr. Edwin Dodds, too, scores heavily as Nervy Nat; Mr. W. H. Desmond provides a good deal of fun as Edmund; Mr. Bernard Vaughan makes excellent use of his opportunities as Andrew Quainton; Mr. Gordon Allison capably fills the rôle of John Smith; and it is difficult to imagine a more winning, bewitching, and rompish Peggy than Miss May Yates; and Miss Dorothy Grasdorf is delightfully natural as Victoria; Miss Ada Mellon makes a sympathetic and womanly Janet McLeod; Miss Edie Martin causes laughter as Charlotte; and Miss Tessa D'Alberti, Miss Norah Gainness, and Miss Eva Rosslyn are charming as Janet, Lady Graeme, and Lady Millicent.

GATESHEAD.—King's Theatre, Ltd.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Licensee, Councillor Harold Arnold; Local-Manager, Mr. Sydney B. Stringer.—Heading a strong bill here are the Three Prestons in a laughable comedy, The Village of Shift-'em; the Wittington Trio, acrobatic comedians, are clever and amusing; Mlle. De Rose and dainty Hilda Claremont, in an agreeable collection of favourite songs, make a "hit"; the Singing Jockeys have much that is entertaining in a cleverly put on scena; Harry Kimberley, comedian and dancer, appears with success; Taree, the musical bushman, has an original "turn"; and the Kingscope is not the least important of the attractions.

Metropole Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Dixon.—Messrs. F. Marriott Watson and James Ussher's company in The Face at the Window is proving a powerful attraction. The part of Le Loup has rarely had a more suitable interpreter than Mr. Houghton Macaulay, whose work is beyond reproach; Paul Gouffet is once more finely embodied by Mr. T. W. Dunscombe; Lucien Cortier is faithfully portrayed by Mr. Arthur Chisholm; an amusing Peter is that of Mr. John A. Stimson; a picturesque Barbeton is Mr. T. Carter; Marie De Brisson is ably depicted by Miss Clare O'Sullivan; and Miss Nita Imeson is a sprightly Barbette.

GLASGOW.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—The highly-amusing farcical comedy Tom, Dick, and Harry is being played here. Mr. George Unwin, again seen in the part of General Stanhope, keeps the fun going with unflagging energy; Miss Rose Temple is a bright Daisy Armitage; the twins Dick and Harry are cleverly represented by Messrs. J. Percival Jordan and Leo St. Clair, the third young man, Tom Stanhope, being smartly played by Mr. C. Herman Pullen. The lovers, Ned Moreland and Miss Howard, are pleasantly depicted by Mr. F. C. Brenan and Miss Audrey Esmond; Miss Dorothy Payn's Mrs. Winters is a capital bit of acting; good work being done by Mr. Grahame Herington (Dr. Wagner) and Miss Dorthy Lambert (Molly). The comedy is preceded by Miss Dorothy Payn's laughable monologue A Visit to the Country.

King's, Ltd.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and G. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—This week Mr. Horace Lingard and Mr. Arthur Shelton's company is presenting Jerome K. Jerome's play Fanny and the Servant Problem. Mr. Horace Lingard plays the part of Martin Bennet with capital effect; Miss Beatrice Moreau infuses much charm into the part of Fanny; the Lord Bantock of Mr. Russell Davis is a striking performance; as also is the Dr. Freemantle of Mr. Roland Hope. Miss Ethel Coleridge and Miss Mayban Fay act well the parts of the Misses Wetherell; Mr. A. C. Jackson's interpretation of George Newte is excellent; and Miss Grace Bearing makes a prim Susannah Bennet. The play is preceded by The Admiral.

Royalty.—Sub-Lessees, The Scottish Playgoers, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Wareing.—As a complete change of programme the Repertory Company is this week reviving Sir Arthur Pinero's favourite farce Dandy Dick, and a bright and enjoyable evening it provides. Mr. Lawrence Hanray is particularly well suited as the Dean of St. Marvells, and his two daughters are played with excellent effect by Miss Muriel Pope and Miss Irene Clarke. The breezy sporting lady Georgiana Tidman is acted with infinite spirit by Miss Madge M'Intosh, and her devoted admirer, Sir Christopher Mardon, is cleverly played by Mr. Norman M'Keown. Miss Lola Duncan as Mrs. Topping and Mr. M. R. Morand as her jealous husband proved valuable members of the cast in the more humorous element. Mr. Walter Roy and Mr. Percival Clark as two military men, Mr. Campbell Gullan as the old butler, and Mr. George Tawde as a groom completed a good cast. The comedy was preceded by a tragic little play, Jean, for the first time on any stage, and this is noticed elsewhere. Mr. Kenelm Foss produced both plays in an able manner.

Grand.—District-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Chas. L. Sealy.—Hands Across the Sea is the attraction for the fifth week of the stock season. Mr. George Roberts is again a big favourite; Mr. Charles Danvers is a humorous Tom Bennett; Mr. W. G. Robb does well as Richard Melford; Mr. Hulme Sharp is quite equal to the part of Joseph Stillwood; Mr. R. B. Drysdale is a forcible Robert Stillwood; and a clever performance of Jean de Lussac is contributed by Mr. Fred Terriss. As Lilian Melford Miss Alice Defoe finds much favour; Mme. Valerie loses nothing in the hands of Miss Marie Rignold; and Miss Sadie Neville is a diverting Lucy Nettlefold.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Reynolds.—Miss Ellaline Terriss tops the bill here in a comedy entitled The Pink of Perfection, which gives the dainty actress excellent opportunities. Mr. Stanley Brett plays with great zest and humour; and Miss Maie Ashe and Mr. Ronald Chester also give good support. The Carmos perform some novel and clever feats in balancing; a farcical interlude is presented by Messrs. Queen and Le Brun; Merlin as a conjuror and card manipulator astonishes the audience; the Sisters Towers give some attractive songs and dances; Wallie Walker is humorous as a golf caddie; and Phil Parsons, comedian, Speedwell, the wizard painter, and thrilling pictures on the Bioscope complete the programme.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest R. Foster.—That clever artist Carrie Moore tops the bill here, and is excellently received for her various items, her best being a dramatic recitation. Will Van Allen, the tramp musician, gives a smart and enjoyable turn; the Derrington Family contribute some wonderful feats on cycles; W. G. Webber sings several bass songs in good style; and as a descriptive vocalist Will M'Ivor takes well. The comedy provided by Athas and Collins is heartily enjoyed; Harry Atkinson's imitations of musical instruments are smart and realistic; and Madge Goodall, comedienne, completes a varied bill.

Palace.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—The programme submitted here is extremely varied. The top position is allotted to Horace Mills and company (including T. A. Shale and Minnie Blanchard), who produce the amusing protean playlet entitled Off Duty. The reception accorded Will H. Fox, comedy pianist, is cordial; and other notable turns are Lizzie Daniels, comedienne; George Brookes, a really diverting comedian; Monie Mine, in unique story-song and dance; the Farrows, quaint comedy artists; Neville Delmar, light comedian and dancer; and the Marzelos, triple-bar performers.

Coliseum.—District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd. — No stronger favourite than Fred Kitchen ever comes to Glasgow, and his first visit with Mr. Herbert Darnley's company in Private Potts has drawn crowded houses. The popular comedian is in great form; and the other members of the company give able support. Leo Tell scores with his imitations of animals, musical instruments, &c.; Harry Lamore gets enthusiastic applause for his smart and diversified comedy turn; Dora Poole and Fred Maguire are well received for their vocal comedy act; the Avolos are marvellous in their upright bar performance; Sylvia du Barry appears with success in a scena, In Andalusia; Mlle. Eldee's picturesque poses are cleverly manipulated; J. C. Scatter, a Tyneside comedian with a quaint style, takes well in songs and dances; and the Bioscope completes the list of attractions.

Gaiety.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—Popular and interesting animated pictures are submitted. The principal films include Lieutenant Rose and the Foreign Spy, Danish Dragoons, Iris, Saved from a Terrible Death, and The Sailor Lad, all being of superior class and wonderfully clear. The variety part of the entertainment is well sustained by Muriel Dante, in illustrated song, and W. C. Bland, comedian, vocalist, and dancer.

Panopticon.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Manager, Mr. Wm. Sinclair.—The pictures on the Bioscope this week are well worth seeing, a special feature being The Proclamation of King George. The variety entertainment is ably sustained by Dean and Dare, George Westlands, Carl Osmund, and Bella Leaburn.

Hengler's.—Proprietor, Mr. Albert Hengler; Manager, Mr. Harry Milne.—Amusing and instructive films are shown here, the principal this week being Proclamation of George V. at Municipal Buildings, George-square, Glasgow. Variety turns are by Tina le Clare, whose songs are illustrated; Angelina, an expert juggler; and Frances Hanlon, comedienne and dancer.

GLOUCESTER. — Palace. — Lessee, Mr. Will Smithson; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Norman Telma, the human mystery on the billiard table, is at the top here; W. Fullbrook and company present Astronomy; Elroy, the armless wonder, provides an entertaining performance; the Carpate Bros. are smart on the triple bars; and Ronna Shanara, with Thibet mountain deer goats, is quite a novelty; Wallace Whitney scores with a clever football song; and Miss Beattie Foster is an amusing low comedy performer.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. George Gilbert; Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—A capital programme is being presented for the holidays. Mr. Chris. Harland presents an artistic production, entitled The Enchanted Grotto; Miss Ruth Ashdowne and her electric girls score with their songs and dances; Mr. D. W. Watson is a first-rate cornet soloist; Lennard and Vereker's illustrated songs are popular; and excellent pictures are exhibited.

Wellington Pier Pavilion.—Proprietors, the Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. A. A. Cash.—The season was inaugurated on Saturday by the appearance of The Tatlers, in an up-to-date and amusing musical and comedy programme. Miss Christine Roy was very successful with her songs, "Just for this hour" and "My moon"; Miss Dora Dolaro, with a charming voice, scores with her songs; Mr. Herbert Burnez contributes some amusing impersonations; Mr. Philip Williams is versatile; and the accompaniments are excellently played by Mr. Wolseley Charles. In addition to The Tatlers Mr. Hyman Long gives an entertaining music-magic turn.

GREENOCK.—Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Maud Mortimer, the clever and popular comedienne, tops the bill here, and fully maintains her reputation; Emerson and Baldwin are a couple of expert jugglers; and other notable turns include the Padias, in a clever and smartly-executed athletic act; Terry and Tate, comedy artists; Montes and Welma, in an acrobatic turn; Percy Dalton, comedian and dancer; Harriet Rose, comedienne; and Marie Dreams, a lady baritone.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—The following films take precedence: The Fence on "Bar Z" Ranche, Girls of the Range, and Ranson's Folly. The humorous subjects include A Hero in Spite of Himself, The Clown and His Donkey, A Race for a Bride, and Lo Lo's Inheritance. The talking and singing pictures are still popular.

HALIFAX.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinton and Travis Green's No. 1 Company is here with Her Fatal Marriage, playing to big holiday crowds. Miss Hilda Shirley and Mr. J. Heather play the principal parts of Myra Maletto and Zaco Maletto, and are supported by Mr. C. Heather (Wilfred Grey), Mr. G. M. Hancock (Colonel Crichton), Mr. S. Edwards (Jim Rogers), Mr. G. Byrne (Paul), Mr. P. M. Wright (Detective Smart), Mr. T. Squires (Peter Pimple), Mr. P. Lawrence (Sergeant Wiggins), Mr. W. George (P.C. Jenkins), Miss W. Rutland (Lily), and Miss L. Wright (Dolly Dimple).

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—The "Kilties," celebrated concert band, are topping the bill, and delighting huge crowds with an excellent selection of good music splendidly played; Arthur Wellesley and company give Uncle's Courtship, a clever and laughable playlet, well acted and well received; the Two Claires are excellent in a song-scena; Elsie Malpass is a clever child mimic and dancer; and some good pictures complete.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The Gaudsmidts, two clever acrobatic clowns, assisted by two well-trained poodles, give a very good turn; Canard, the "Man on Time," is a clever artist; Mildred Bryan, mezzo-soprano, sings well, and gets a good reception; Fred and Lulu Camplin give an amusing turn; Blanche Marion is a dainty comedienne and dancer; the Sages, high-class vaudeville artists, are appreciated; George Lawrence, light comedian, is a good turn; Arthur Stacey, eccentric comedian and dancer, gives every satisfaction. Pictures complete a good bill.

HANLEY. — Royal. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Charles G. Elphinstone.—A visit is being paid by Mr. Allan Wilkie and company in a capital list of plays, including The Two Orphans of Paris, Jane Shore, The Sleigh Bells, Davy Garrick, and The Fool's Revenge. This theatre closes down at the end of this week until August Bank Holiday.

King's.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Managers, Capt. F. Shaw and Mr. Colin Hazlewood.—The pictures here are the talk of the Potteries, for their clearness and steadiness; and Miss Florrie Drew, vocalist, is successful.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding Smith.—The holiday attraction here is Messrs. Platt and Tower's company in You Never Can Tell. Miss Edith Hunter was well placed as Mrs. Clandon, and Miss Beech made a dignified Gloria Clandon; Miss Ida Southern was a vivacious Dolly; and Mr. Geoffrey Wilkinson was good as Philip; Mr. Claude Haviland was a host in himself as the waiter, William; Mr. J. Edward Pearce made a capital Fergus Crampton. Other parts were in safe hands. For the last three nights of the week Miss Horniman's company is appearing in Widowers' Houses.

St. James's Hall.—New Century Animated Picture Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Boden.—A specially interesting film is The Life and Times of King Edward. The show is well attended.

The Kursaal.—Manager, Mr. J. E. Wilshire; Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford.—The Gaieties, a party of singers and dancers, are making large holiday audiences merry.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—Successful representations are being given of The Catch of the Season. Mr. Murray King as the Duke of St. Jermyns gives an intelligent and humorous impersonation; nothing could be more captivating or delightfully natural than Miss Gladys Guy as Angela Crystal; Miss Irene Carrington portrays the Duchess of St. Jermyns with excellent taste; as Lady Caterham Miss Evelyn Shelley gives distinction to the part; Mr. Ardene Linden as Sir John Crystal is amusing and original; Willie West as Bucket gives a laughable sketch; eight or ten graceful Dana Gibson Girls go through some pleasing dances; as Lord Charles Yatton Mr. C. A. Hogg is excellent; Miss Nora Dwyer and Miss Louie West give charming renderings of Lady Crystal's daughters; Mr. Maxwell Stewart as Captain Rushpool proves himself a vocalist of marked ability.

Pier Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Mr. Hunter and his clever combination of artists engage in a laughable farce, entitled A Fatal Kiss. Some original Bioscope pictures are included in the entertainment, which also includes the pleasing comedian Fred Beck; the Kahn Trio, who introduce a clever musical act; an interesting musical sketch by Ralph and Nellie Howard; an amusing ventriloquial interlude by Dunning; Thornley Dodge, the drawing-room entertainer, who is always warmly welcome; and a much-admired musical act, "Ten Minutes with Great Composers," by the Bros. Cavalotti.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING.—Picture Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—Packed houses continue the rule at this popular place of amusement. The programme is a most enjoyable one, chief items being A True Indian's Heart, The Cowboy and the Squaw, and The Duke's Plan.

HUDDERSFIELD.— Hippodrome.— Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—At the top of the bill are the Kratons, expert hoop manipulators. Other turns are provided by Johnson Clarke, ventriloquist; W. B. Raby, comedian; the Fitzroys, two graceful gymnasts; Venita, with a variety of musical instruments; the Panamas, a troupe of nimble acrobats; and James Willard and company, in a tragic little piece, entitled The Ace of Hearts. The pictures are amusing.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—Appearing here are Syd Walker, comedian; Miss Flo Burnett, vocalist; Miss Jessie Broughton and Dennis Creedon, in a charming and refined vocal and instrumental presentation; Yangar, the West African illusionist; Virto, who plays smartly on a variety of musical instruments; the Smart Brothers, a pair of clever comedy acrobats; and Jennie and Daisy, singers and dancers. The Palace pictures make up the programme.

HULL.—Grand Theatre.—Mortons, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Havana is the attraction here this week, and having in view the time that has elapsed since its production, some are feeling that its appearance has been too long delayed. Mr. Leslie Stuart can always be relied upon for tuneful music, and in Havana he is not relied on in vain. Miss Winnie Brown reads the rôle of Anita with no little skill; Consuelo finds a pleasant representative in Miss Hebe Rhos; Mr. Savill Foster portrays the part of Jackson Villiers with credit; comic effect is well secured by Mr. W. Pringle and Mr. Reg. Edwards, and both secure the house's best attention. The production is well mounted.

Alexandra Theatre.—Mortons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—The Idol of Paris is a play new to Hull, but one that was to the evident taste of the big Bank Holiday audience which thronged this theatre. The play is cast on familiar lines, and deals with woman's devotion to the man she loves. The Flare-Flare of Miss Annie Bell is a fine piece of work. Mr. Alf. Grenville plays the part of Victor with due regard to its possibilities. Mr. H. V. Thomas is a creditable Tantave; and Miss Frances Bruce gives good effect to the part of Madame Sancterre. Mr. C. Austen Lee is very acceptable as Phillippe. The remainder of the rôles are well sustained.

ILKESTON. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Leigh.—Maurice Lee's Skating Carnival heads the bill, and includes several songs, a dancing quartette, fancy and trick skating, and the usual comic relief; the dancing of the Four Leontoes is applauded; also the exhibition skating of Jack Been; Jimmy McCrath's comedy is enjoyed; Miss Midge Sibley is a dainty performer; and Miss Alice Deely and Mr. Maurice Lee are to be commended as Percy and Maudie Brown. Miss Grace Lester and company present a powerful dramatic episode, A Ruined Life, which is well acted and favourably received; Johnson and Giles, coloured entertainers, present a very good show; the Venola Brothers evoke laughter and applause for their gymnastic performance; George Norton, with his tales of woe, creates laughter; Dolly Irving, comedienne, and the Hyltons, comedy duo, complete the programme.

IPSWICH.—Lyceum Theatre.—Charles Gibbons's company, Alone in London, is here. Miss Nellie Clyde gives an excellent impersonation of the emotional part of Nan, and Miss Irene Stanhope is a graceful Ruth Clifton; Miss Molly Monaghan is a most amusing Mrs. Maloney; Tom Chickweed is well played by Miss Laurie O'Neill, and Hetty Hornsby makes a charming Little Paul; John Biddlecomb is well played by Mr. Russel Norrie; Dick Redcliffe is in the able hands of Mr. Gerald Jordan; and Mr. J. W. Wilkinson as Old Jenkinson, Mr. Wallace Dunlop as Spriggins, and Mr. Frank Caffrey as Charley Johnson do well. The scenery is ingenious and well worked.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The La Faille Troupe have a very clever acrobatic turn, their balancing powers and feats of strength being marvellous; Sergeant Bert Powell, described as a military illusionist, has some original tricks, and is very smart in their execution; the Rosses and Moon and Morris are excellent entertainers, and their dancing is droll and smart; Arthur Croxon is a neat singer, and his imitations are good; Miss May B. Brilliant also dances gracefully. Fred Herbert sings a good topical song; the Eastern extravaganza The Belle of the Orient is very popular, the characters being sustained by Mr. George Ricketts, Mr. Charles Hylton, and Mr. Walter Williams; Miss Rosalie Jacobi heads a bevy of twelve agile dancers. The music is bright and the scenery is excellent.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Lionel Locke.—Mr. Chas. Harrington's big American combination is here in Uncle Tom's Cabin, which is playing to excellent houses. Mr. J. H. Boehm is well-nigh perfect in the title-rôle; and Mr. A. Hayes does full justice to the part of Phineas Fletcher. Mr. Chas. Harrington is excellent as Mr. St. Clair; Mr. David Blair is quite at home in the part of George Harris; Mr. Tom Bowron makes the most of Legree; and Mr. Reginald Kloof causes much amusement as Marks. Miss Hetty Johnson is very well placed as Cassy; Miss Hero Hathaway looks and plays Eliza Harris to perfection; Topsy is in the capable hands of Miss Annie Watson; and Miss Gem Lloyd is very fine as Eva. Excellent specialities are introduced by various members of the company.

JERSEY.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—There was a packed house here on Whit-Monday. Mr. Albany Ward's films were particularly good, and included The Proclamation of King George V. Some fine views of St. Malo and the neighbourhood also proved of special interest. The variety turns included Jose Thornton, a comedian with a style of his own; Bert Lytton, a swell comedian; Howe and Kessler, in some clever musical items; and last, but by no means least, the Mahatma, in her remarkably clever thought transmissions.

Olympia Winter Gardens.—Proprietor, Mr. Louis Marks; Manager, Mr. Chas. A. Barnett.—This smart and up-to-date place of entertainment, which was opened last year as a skating rink, has undergone a wonderful transformation, and blossomed out on Whit-Monday as a rival to those places of entertainment which has done so much to make Blackpool and Douglas attractive to visitors. The Cremona Orchestra of lady musicians is the chief attraction, and plays both during the afternoons and evenings. The variety turns include Miss Moyna Hill, a dainty comedienne; Mr. Hill-Mitchelson, who has a big reputation; Mr. J. Brooke, a Hull vocalist; and Mr. Walter Langford, a Leicester humorist. The prevailing picture craze is well catered for, and dancing is indulged in up to midnight.

KEIGHLEY. — The Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Barrasford.—An exceedingly humorous sketch is presented by Mr. Martin Adeson and Miss Clara Bernard, who succeed in creating roars of laughter; the gymnastic exhibition of The Three Krags is of a very high order of merit; Bi-Bo-Bi excels in his manipulation of the bells; Stuart and Evans, comedians, patter in good style.

KING'S LYNN.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Pareezer.—For Bank Holiday and the following evenings a new experiment was successfully carried out here by presenting twice nightly Mr. Dickie Clare's musical comedy Lucky 'Liza. The title-rôle was admirably presented by Miss Vesta Brownie; and as Silas Slim, Mr. Dickie Clare was excellent. Some graceful dancing was introduced by Misses Amy Malvern, May Turrell, and Edna Evelyn, and the other parts were well sustained.

KIRKCALDY.—New King's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Ellis Fredericks and Abrahams.—Miss Olga Andre and company are presenting The Great Awakening. Mr. Tom Arkinstall gives a clever display of stage villainy as Guy Logan; Mr. Charles H. Mortimer is very good as Captain Harry Lambert; Mr. Arthur Wimpenny is a success as James Selby; and Mr. Fred Wood is versatile in a dual part; Miss Olga Andre enacts Lola Selby with skill and taste; Molly Merton is pleasingly portrayed by Miss Florence Zillwood; and in the comedy parts of Billy Brass and Selina Worts Mr. Walter Rouseby and Miss Hetty Farrell are amusing; Mr. Harry Hoyland does well as Richard Wilson.

Corn Exchange Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. D. Walker; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wm. Walker.—Good pictures are on view here, the following being the most noteworthy: Hawkshaw; or, The Stolen Deed, Their Son's Medal, The Magistrate's Crime, One of the Finest, and The Settlers. The variety turns consist of The Dancing Girl of Batte, and Mr. R. M. Strathmore, comedian and instrumentalist, with his performing dog Fritz.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr Chas. H. Longden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. John Halifax.—Mr. Charles Windermere and company are appearing before delighted audiences in the exceedingly clever play Where is William? Mr. Windermere gives a very happy rendering of Sir William Gregory; and Mr. Rule Pyott as Jolly makes up marvellously, and causes much merriment. The two young lovers, Phyliss Patterson and Harry, are prettily played by Miss Clare Manifield and Mr. Robert Urquhart; and as Eliza Miss Zoe Davies presents a clever character study. Miss May Rosine provides a fund of humour in the part of Emily; Miss Belle Donaldson is an acceptable Lady Gregory; and Mr. Leslie Norman plays the peppery Colonel to advantage. The burglar and the policeman are safe in the hands of Mr. Fred Lake and Mr. Albert Plant. The piece is preceded by the duologue Clause No. 6, in which Mr. Urquhart and Miss Manifield appear with distinction.

LEEDS.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Florodora is playing here to enthusiastic houses. Mr. Johnnie Scholfield is a great favourite as Tweedlepunch; Dolores is delightfully taken by Miss Daisy Lake; the part of Cyrus G. Gilfain finds an able exponent in Mr. Stanley White; Miss Florence Hersee daintily takes the character of Angela Gilfain; and Miss Kate Leicester makes the most of her opportunities as Lady Holyrood, Mr. Johnnie Junior giving a capital impersonation of Captain Arthur Donegal.

The Royal Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nathaniel Hepworth.—Mrs. Kimberley's latest production, Was She to Blame? is drawing good houses. Mrs. Kimberley ably takes the rôle of a retired actress; and Miss Nancy Roberts has an exciting part as the stage-struck girl.

The Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—Chung Ling Soo heads the bill, and is meeting with success; Miss Wish Wynne proves herself a versatile artist of much merit; Tom and Marie Motramo raise the mirth of the audience to a considerable degree. Emma Don and company appear in a smart act. Frank Maura, Wood, Wells, and Wilkins, W. P. Frayne, and Beatty and Blanche all contribute successful items.

The Hippodrome.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Slaterstein, Limited, another successful sketch of Peterman and Ricketts, is furnishing much amusement. Renroff's dancing horse, Johnson and De Vere, Juanitos Troupe, Charley and Connor, Rolando Martin, Honors and Le Prince, Shirley Liggins and Co., and Palles and Cussick also do well.

City Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Mabel Thorne, Robb Wilton, De Lilo and Metz, Herbert La Martine, Emily Delmere, and Russell Carr are appearing here.

The Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Sexton Blake is the top of the bill; Leo Dryden is very popular; Miss Jennie Alexander is also a big favourite; and other good turns include Jack Hayworth, Rose D'Aulby, Chandos Trio (gymnasts), and Morelli and Moore.

LEEK.—Grand Theatre and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. James Bibby.—Miss Grace Warner's company is presenting interesting and admirable productions of The Scarlet Clue and The Wages of Sin. In the former piece, which was enthusiastically received, Mr. George Gordon displayed ability and sound study as Michael Stanton; Miss Grace Warner in the rôle of Sal Scarlet gave a most successful portrayal; Mr. Frank Esmonde in the dual character of Jack and Harry Esmond won hearty applause; Mr. Frank Hertie did well as Edward Croker; Miss Florence M. Daly merits praise as Tabitha Esmond; Miss L. Palmer was good as Elsie Dane; little Rita Corri as Little Pollie was excellent; and was encored for her song, "Ugly Duckling"; Mr. Louis Nanton as Billy the Rotter and Miss Estha Dean as Musette extracted plenty of humour from their rôles; and Mr. Roy Rhind as Crazy Jim was quaint and amusing. The play was dressed and staged in excellent style.

LEICESTER.—Royal Opera House.—Business-Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—For this, the last week of the season, the attraction is provided by Mr. Henry Miller's company, in The Servant in the House, which is on a first visit. The company is a capable one, full justice being done to the various parts by Miss Laurie Flockton as Mary, Mr. Harry Parker as Mr. Robert Smith, Mr. Walter Gay as the Rev. William Smythe, Mr. Ernest H. Paterson as James Ponsonby Makeshyfte, D.D., Mr. Forrester Harvey as Rogers, Mr. Matthew Boulton as Manson, and Miss Nellie Hodson as the Vicar's wife.

Theatre Royal.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—The Better Land is the holiday attraction here, presented by Fred Granville's Productions, Ltd., No. 1 company, on a first visit. Miss Marguerite Trevosper maintains her reputation with a very good portrayal of Doris. Mr. Douglas Watson makes an excellent Philip Radcliffe; Mr. Leonard Booker a successful Hubert Radcliffe; and Miss Gertie Moody as Harry and Miss Elsie Jones as Tessa are capital.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—Aptly billed as the man of many parts, Mr. Charles T. Aldrich tops this week's excellent programme; Miss Juliette submits her school of highly-trained sea lions; Herbert Shelley, a smart protean artist, makes a hit in Dan the Outlaw; Alf Gibson is a quaint and thoroughly amusing comedian; the Bros. Durant's "show" is meeting with much favour; Fatmah Diard renders a couple of songs in good style; the Two St. Johns (Gale and Frank) are capital musical comedians; Arthur Woodville is a light comedian of ability; and A-Ba-Be's picture post-card album is a distinct artistic novelty. The Bioscope is still retained.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—Topping this week's bill is Gilbert Heron's company, in the dramatic episode, Saved by Wireless. The other artists in a good company include Harry Raymond, the artistic coon vocalist and dancer, and his little daughter, Ivy, a clever and graceful dancer; Capt. Ellis and Son, the favourite couple, in their comedy, musical, and dancing act; the Belmonts, in some smart dances; Nora Desmond, in attractive songs, well illustrated; Lisbon and Barker, comedians, who create much laughter; and Bert Crosbie, in expert dancing. The Bioscope pictures are of the usual excellence.

Empire.—Sole Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Company; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—This home of animated pictures have a good holiday list, including The Right to Love and Lost in Siberia, two very fine films, which are supported by When Jack Comes Home, An Embarrassing Portfolio, Picturesque Constantinople, For My Papa, The Tower of Nestle, The Scarecrow, An Improvised Inkstand, Sucide as a Profession, and Uncle Learns to Hypnotise. Two favourite artists in Ada Wood, descriptive vocalist, and Ern Francis, comedian, are on a welcome return visit.

Empress Picture Palace, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. H. V. Horton.—A capital picture programme comprises, among others, the following excellent dramatic and comedy pictures: Why They Married, Race for a Monkey, Cowboy Romance, Buried Alive, House of Cards, Wedding in Payacomba, Not What He Expected, Aerial Flights, and Rheumatic Bridegroom.

LEIGH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Lessees, Messrs. Tolfree and Slingsby; Manager, Mr. W. H. Leo King.—Mr. Eustace Day's company is here with For Love of a Woman. Mr. Edmund Grogan gives a capital rendering of Ned Merrick; Guy Manor has a capable exponent in Mr. Ernest Regent; Mr. Eustace Day successfully portrays Allen Paget; Mr. Joe Redfern makes a typical and amusing P.C. Sam Holland; Nell Paget is charmingly played by Miss Dorothy Oswald; Miss Holly Hazlewood is praiseworthy as Nance Manor; Mr. Charles Ninian is an amusing Major Hulmes; and Mr. Bertram Gunnell as Albert St. Everamond and Miss G. De Clifford as Marjory Hulmes are also the cause of much merriment.

Grand Theatre and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Secretary and Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Woolstencroft.—The leading turn is furnished by the Cumberlands Troupe of cyclists, whose acrobatic feats are loudly applauded; Harrison Bros. are a clever couple, who introduce some good patter and dancing; Alice Winsome juvenile comedienne, scores a success; Capt. Devereux presents his wondreful troupe of dogs; Messrs. Andrews and Thompson have a vocal scena which is much appreciated; Bell and Bellay are a pair of novel eccentrics; Edwin Garth, comedian, creates much amusement; the Millwards in a speciality act deserve praise; and the Hipposcope pictures are good.

LEITH.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—In Under the Iron Heel, written by Mr. Fred Jarman, and produced by Mr. Wilson Howard's company, a successful appeal to popular feeling is being made by author and actors for a tale of the Franco-Prussian War. Mr. Howard himself gives a striking realisation of Réné de Maupassant, the hero of the play; Miss Carlotta Anson wins sympathy for the heroine, Germaine Mirbleau; Miss J. Douglas Hicks does well as old Marnon Gouffe; and Miss Marie Angus misses none of the opportunities afforded by the part of the boy André. Mr. J. W. Richards is prominent in the villainy rôle of Otto Marx, in opposition to whose machinations the Major Schomberg of Mr. Dennis Clyde comes out strong; Mr. Austin H. Longford, as Sergeant Blucher, and Mr. Carl Vallender as a tool of the evil-doer help along the action of the piece effectually and humorously; and useful aid is rendered by Mr. John Talford as the Curé Mirbleau, Mr. Gerald Smythe as a Franc-tireur, Mr. R. Merring as Colonel Müller, and others who capably sustain the minor parts in a long cast.

LINCOLN.—Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Pope.—The Lighthouse Robbery, presented by Mr. E. H. Knight's company, is paying a popular return visit. Mr. Percy Beresford's hero and Miss Hilda Baynton as Rosa win high favour; and Mr. J. Cameron again offers a powerful study of the old fisherman, Dave. Mr. S. Fortescue and Mr. J. Summerville give effective expositions of the heavy rôles, and the comedy is well looked after by Mr. R. Talbot and Miss Clarice Jenner. A child actress of wonderful ability is Baby Freda, who creates a positive furore.

Clarke

Lake's Six Buster Browns are topping the bill with a bright song and dance act; the Three Askarnos, in a tumbling act, and the Wedburns, with their clever buffoonery, add to the entertainment; and Ada Fawn gives a series of very clever character songs. John Macauley's old soldier retains its artistic qualities; and Cush and Walker, patter comedians and Don and Dixie, in a brilliant musical act, find complete favour. The Palace Perfection Pictures finish a strong programme.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company in The Arcadians are fulfilling a second week's engagement here.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Here this week we are having a welcome return visit of Cavaliere F. Castellano's Italian Grand Opera Company, the stay to be for a fortnight. On Monday evening Il Trovatore was presented, Mme. Gorretta Castellano, a most gifted artist, being Azucena, her fine voice calling forth rapturous applause; Signor Barbato also found great favour as Manrico; Signora Protti carried off honours by reason of her particularly artistic rendering of the part of Leonora; Count Luna was admirably undertaken by Signor Modesti; and other eminently successful parts were undertaken by Signor Quintina (Ferrando) and Signora Massia (Ines). On Tuesday Rigoletto was staged. The other operas of the week included Barbiere di Siviglia, Ernani, and Carmen.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The stirring drama With Edged Tools is being given here this week to delighted audiences. Included in Mr. H. Armitage's excellent company is Miss Marie Lonhard, whose Jocelyn Gordon is natural and charming; Mr. Hamilton Deane proves a big favourite, with his Jack Meredith; Mr. J. D. Geddes ably handles the rôle of Sir John Meredith; Mr. Charles Barrett plays Victor Durnoto with much dramatic strength; Miss Marguerite Cellier gives an intelligent performance of Millicent Cryne; and good work also comes from Messrs. Charles Hartopp (Guy Oscard), J. Graham Pockett (Maurice Gordon), and Miss Edith Afton-Laing (Marie and Lady Herries).

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The attraction this week is Mr. Frank Adair's company with The Heathen and the Christian, which is being favourably received. Mr. Adair repeats his admirable representation of Li, the avenger; Miss Louie Adair plays strongly the character of Mira Sampson; Miss Eva Reid, as Becky Fibbins (songs and dances), and Mr. Charles Luck, in the rôle of the Bar Lamb Gentle, cause uproarious laughter; and worthy support is also given by Messrs. Herbert Sydney (Chang Lu), Fred Withers (Lung Hi), Gerald Shirley (Lieut. Allendale), Gerald Turner (Admiral Freebold), Reginald Payne (George Berresford), and Miss Stanley Burt (May Berresford).

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—The Village Blacksmith is being presented here by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company. Mr. Livesey repeats his really excellent impersonation of John Strong, a character which is received with great favour; Mr. Joseph Carter presents a strongly-marked Captain Leo; Mr. Edwin Maydew gives a capable rendering of Lucas Marler; a humorous Billy Twigg is provided by Mr. Fred Haming; Miss Maggie Edwards shows much tenderness and care in the delineation of Kate Strong; and others to whom praise is due are Mr. Thomas E. Marshall (Jeremiah Parkins), Miss Cassie Le Grande (Ruth Parkins), and Mrs. T. C. Livesey (Sal Parkins).

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners. — The talented Fragson is the big line here this week, and meets with genuine applause for his excellent work; Mr. Hubert Carter and company present an admirable sketch, entitled David Garrick, which earns much favour; Toch and Tard cause great laughter with their exceedingly funny antics as gymnasts and burlesque wrestlers; a deal of original and accomplished work is shown by the Five Whiteleys, whose acrobatic, wire-walking, and musical efforts call forth loud applause; Ike and Will Scott are as amusing as ever; Chris Van Bern proves a very eccentric monologuist; and contributions also emanate from Kathleen Gray, comedienne; Sybil Lister, contralto; and Lillie Lassah, comedienne and dancer.

LYRIC.—Lessees, Liverpool Lyric Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—The change in the style of entertainment here has apparently caught on, for large audiences are patronising the two-houses-each-night drama. The Nihilist, or a Prince's Secret Wedding, is the opening attraction, being presented in good style by Messrs. O. Silverstone and H. Wright's company. Mr. George Mitchell plays strongly the part of the blacksmith Ivan; Miss Florry Kelsey handles the rôle of Princess Olga with ability; Miss Edna Clare thoroughly grasps the possibilities of Alexia Orloff; Mr. O. Silverstone gives much support with his Prince Alexander; and others who worthily help are Messrs. Cowell Clark (Karl Orloff), Henry Wright (Bobbie Smart), C. Newton Buckland (Petoff), J. Brunelle Harvey (Father Gourko), Mrs. O. Silverstone (Katrina), and little Minnie Halstan (Alexina).

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the programme here this week is a smart burlesque, entitled Chanteclair, presented in fine style by Joe Peterman and George Ricketts; Frank Danby and J. C. Piddock have a neat musical comedy playlet, Cupid's Arms; Pichel and Scale are a couple of lively comedy acrobats; an able athletic act comes from Bertisch; Madge Temple brings her latest chorus songs, which are greatly relished; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon-Wilde have a pleasing society turn; the vocal comedy act of the three Florodora Girls is greatly enjoyed; a pleasurable turn is provided by the youthful Tiny and Mite, duettists and dancers; and Mlle. Yetta goes through a clever performance on a wire.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Cotton Spinner is being given here this week by the stock dramatic company, the principal rôles being undertaken by Messrs. Sydney Grant (Foster Cunningham), Cecil Ravenswood (Lord Northbury), Tom H. Solly (Major Stratton), Leo Montgomery (Arthur Northbury), Harry Tresham (John Prescott), Miss Lina Nazeby (Constance), and Miss Gertrude Entwistle (Mary Prescott). The Royal Bioscope shows After the Fall of the Eagle.

OLYMPIA. — District-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—An admirable little sketch, bearing the title of The Touch of the Child, heads the bill here, and is received with much satisfaction. In it appears the distinguished actor Mr. William Mollison, assisted by Mr. Henry Deas, Miss Evelyn McNay, and Miss Jennie Fitzgerald. A source of great enjoyment is Ray Wallace, with her delightful mimetic work at the piano; as a magician Sahib Gustavo Fasola astonishes everybody; Harry Herbert keeps his audience in screams of laughter; a refined drawing-room entertainment, entitled The Garden of Roses, is provided by Frank and Gracie Sumner; the Abdullah Arabs show remarkable ability as tumblers and equilibrists; and others in the list are Rhoda Paul, a smart comedienne and male impersonator; Frederick King and Marie Queenie, with an exceedingly funny act, The Butler and the Cook; and Harry Merrylees, Scotch comedian.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George T. Slatter.—The favourite Harry Ford tops the bill here this week, and keeps his audiences in roars of laughter; Annie Purcell, an able comedienne, brings her latest; Cheebert's Chinese troupe go through a clever and surprising acrobatic show on somewhat original lines; Diana Hope and Monte Bayly have a really excellent trifle, The Altar of Duty; the vocal work of the Three Royal Temples, including Mme. Louie Gilbert, is warmly appreciated; some popular illustrated songs are given by the Lovelaces; an able musical number, "The Village Blacksmith," comes from the Five M.P.'s; the Days present a clever exhibition of second sight; and S. W. Wyndham, comedian, also appears.

PIER HEAD PAVILION.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale's Pierrots opened the season here on Monday, and a good-humoured holiday crowd attended. Mr. Arthur Sutcliffe, the local manager, is as great a favourite as ever; Bonita contributes some good soprano items; Mr. Albert Royal, comedian, is up to date; Mr. Norman Osborn's ventriloquial efforts are above the ordinary; Mr. Kennedy Allen, comedian, keeps the audiences in roars of laughter; and Mr. Tunbridge, at the piano, completes an excellent cast.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—For three nights this week, commencing on Bank Holiday, Mr. Leonard Boyne's company appeared in Raffles. In the title-rôle Mr. Reginald Dance was excellent; Mr. Edward Irwin as Curtis Bedford was a typical American detective; Mr. Harold West as Harry Maunders did well; Crawshay was finely acted by Mr. Dalziel Heron; Mr. Oswald Griffiths (the Earl of Amersteth) and Mr. Arthur Fitzgerald (Viscount Crowley) were well placed; Miss May Brooke was a charming Mrs. Vidal; and Miss Frances Titheradge a capable Gwendoline Conran.

LLANELLY. — ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Z. Andrews; Resident-Manageress, Miss Alice Rocheforte.—Vaudeville provides a welcome change here this week, Mr. Harry Benet, a very popular artist, being here with a bright and clever company, including the well-known and charming actress, Miss Nellie Bowman. Mr. Benet and Miss Bowman give the bright little sketches, An Offer of Marriage and A Plumber Called, with immense success. Miss Stella Millar gives a number of new and dainty songs; Miss Rayden Dallas is also a taking serio-vocalist; Mr. Gus Dale, comedian, makes up the company. A good Bioscope picture show is added.

LONDONDERRY.—ST. COLUMB'S HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Magnificent Motorscope pictures have attracted large houses. Dave Summerhill, Scotch character comedian, scores a hit with his songs and patter; Morrisey performs a series of clever balancing feats, playing musical instruments of his own invention while standing on his head on a pedestal.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—Through the Divorce Court is meeting with warm approval. Messrs. Chattell and Denton's company are responsible for a clever production, the chief honours of which fall to Miss Hettie Chattell, who, as Lady Penarth, is excellently supported by a strong company.

MAESTEG.—PICTURE PALACE—Lessees, Poole's Theatres Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. G. F. Knowles.—The films displayed include Fair Exchange and Effects of Eating Dog Flesh. Specialities are given by Herne and Palmer, in a scena entitled The Hebrew and the Barman, and the Musical Keiths.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—Henry Coutts heads the bill with his sketch Outflanked, in which he takes no less than eight parts, his quick changes, all done in full view of the audience, receiving well-deserved applause; Signor and Mme. Borelli make an instantaneous success with their cat duet. Reg Bolton, comedian, as the "Editor's Imp," figuratively brings down the house; Ray Raymond is successful with her chorus songs; Francisco, equilibrist and juggler, gives a remarkably clever performance; the Four Sydney Girls are good dancers, and the Raysons, society entertainers, and the Electric Pictures complete.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Mr. Courtice Pounds and his company are introducing The Merry Peasant to audiences here, and on the whole the entertainment is found enjoyable and satisfactory. Mr. Courtice Pounds, in the title-part, is quite his old self, singing beautifully as usual; Miss Gwladys Gay as Annamirl acquits herself in very pleasing style; and Little Mary Glynne may be highly complimented on her playing of the dainty part of Little Rosalie; Mr. Ernest J. Langford as Zoph, the village constable, will be long remembered for his humour, and is sure of a welcome on any future occasion of his coming; much cleverness is shown also by, among others, Mr. William Hindson and Mr. Frank Wilson, as the Mayor and his son respectively. The music is undoubtedly pleasing, and the scenery beautiful.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Mr. William Mollison's company are playing this week in The Chorus Lady, a very American comedy in four acts, by James Forbes. The piece, besides exploiting a considerable and startling variety of slang, provides a special opportunity for Miss Annie Hughes to distinguish herself in characteristic fashion as the chorus lady of the title, Patricia O'Brien. This is not, however, the only success of the cast, for Mr. Henry Deas is also capital as Dan Mallory; Mr. Harold Neville plays Dick Crawford in very capable fashion; a nice impersonation of Nora O'Brien is given by Miss Elsie Vron Neville; while in lighter rôles Mr. Fred A. Marston and Miss Josephine Woodward are capital. A Breezy Morning precedes.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—Mr. Arnold Bennett's Cupid and Commonsense is the attraction here. It is a typical "Gaiety" play of the interesting order, exceedingly well played throughout. Miss Edyth Goodall as Alice Boothroyd is particularly fine; Mr. Charles Bibby as Eli scores another big character success; and Miss Hilda Bruce Potter is also highly successful as a fourteen-year-old Emily. Other parts are all well handled. It may be added that there is more commonsense than Cupid.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. Stuart Lomath's company are here in the great human play, The Enemy of Woman. Mr. Stuart Lomath is seen in the central rôle of Captain Jack Merritt, and Miss Rose Mervyn plays Marian, his wife, in equally good style. The humorous element is well supplied by Mr. A. Jennison and Miss Ellen Owen.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—A diverting programme here is headed by Jordan and Harvey, the popular Hebrew comedians; while the Royal Banzai Family of Japanese artists are also deservedly prominent in the bill; Metz and Metz, comedians and dancers, are a capital turn; and other good items are the Georgians, in a high-class scena; La Belle Duchess and her performing animals; Tom Merry, eccentric comedian; and Olive and Owen, the roadside tinkers. The pictures art topical.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—The Sin of Her Childhood is here on a return visit.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brearley.—By way of a pleasant change, musical comedy is the fare here this week. The piece is The Cingalee, which receives a capital rendering at the hands of Mr. Haldane Crichton's company. Miss Isa Bowman is the particular star of the cast, which is full of clever people. There is a full chorus and an augmented orchestra, and naturally good houses are the rule.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—Mr. Raynor's company are the attraction here, playing répertoire. Davy Garrick was the fare on Monday, Mr. Raynor appearing in the title-part, and Miss Cecilia Dare as Ada Ingot, both parts successfully filled. The Young Mrs. Winthrop and An American Citizen are other plays for the week. The principals are well supported.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—A capital holiday programme here is headed by Maidie Scott, a charming comedienne, and the Eighteen Lancashire Singers, who provide a rare vocal treat; while the other place of honour is filled by the famous Kellinos in their wonderful Risley act. Excellent turns are added by Mr. Frank Hartley, a really smart conjurer; Margaret Parker and company, in Lucky Jim; Staig's Steeplejack Cyclists, in a daring act; Devon and Earle, fine dancers; Alfred Wood's company in a farcical episode; and Ada Martine, a smart comedienne and dancer.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—That ever-charming comedienne Ada Reeve is here this week, and meets with a deservedly flattering reception, her many numbers being rendered in her usual artistic manner; another highly successful turn is that of Frank and Jen Latona, who score all along the line in their capital musical act; Humpsti Bumsti, presented by Pipifax and Panlo, is an exceedingly clever and funny acrobatic act, which brings down the house; first-rate dancing is done by Billy Hobbs, coon comedian; and Conan and Doyle, comedians; Mr. and Mrs. Lucas present scenes from Dickens with their usual success; Lulu Russell, the Californian songstress, sings well; Campbell and Barber are clever and amusing comedy cyclists; and the Lyric Quartette are pleasing harmonisers. Up-to-date pictures complete.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—The star turn here is R. A. Roberts, whose Cruel Coppinger is a triumph; the Six Brothers Luck appear in H.M.S. Perhaps; the Great Wolkowsky Troupe of Russian dancers are much enjoyed; Ryder Slone, comedian, is popular; Arthur Aldridge, the tenor, is also a popular turn; and other enjoyable items are Alec Lawson, eccentric comedian; Austin Latham, the lightning cartoonist; Daisy Morell, a pleasing comedienne; and Scott and Whaley, smart American comedians and dancers.

TIVOLI THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—A popular holiday programme is provided here this week. Fred Winn and Tom Conway's burlesque, The Magic Bean, is well thought out, and has some good numbers, as well as laughing material; Rachel Walker, the creole nightingale, is the possessor of a wonderful voice, which she uses to full advantage, gaining the plaudits of every audience; Milton Hayes is a good story-teller and monologuist; Briff, Braff, and Broff are capable acrobats, the comedy partner being really in the front rank in his line of business; Stephen Adeson and company, in their sketch, The Housebreaker, gain many laughs, while Ruby Bijou, a very dainty and clever dancer; Will Challinor, comedian; Annie Braddon, the Manx girl; the Sisters Du Cane, in pleasing scena; and Ruffell's Bioscope complete.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—An exceptionally fine programme is offered here this week. Mlle. Irma Lorraine, the beautiful poseuse, is to the front as a living replica of the most famous Continental works of art, and is very ably assisted by Marjah and Mlle. Leony; Minnie Kaufmann, a dainty trick cyclist, goes through a really sensational and marvellous performance; Chinko, a wonderful young juggler, does some surprising things; Barney Armstrong and Kelly are particularly funny comedians; and capital items are also provided by Roland George, instrumentalist; Larry Lewis, comedian; Rex and Ford, cross-talkers; the Whimsicals, in melody, mirth, and dance; and Reed and Cully, comedy tumblers. Muggins, V.C., on the Boscope, is a good film.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—The pictures, which are drawing full houses, include Arrival of the Grand Lama in India, The Last of the Dandies, and The Eleventh Hour.

MARGATE. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. E. Michael; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Weathersby.—The holiday attraction is Mr. Frank Weathersby's company in Facing the Music. Mr. Robert Noble gives an exceedingly good presentment of the Rev. John Smith; Mr. George Mudie, jun., is very humorous as the other Mr. John Smith; Mr. Dudley Stuart's Dick Dennard is a capable portrayal; Mr. Escott Robson in the part of Colonel Duncan Smith is most amusing; Mr. Tom Taylor Verison gives a delightfully refreshing and mirth-provoking representation of Sergeant Duffell; Miss Ida Chapman is delightful as Mabel; Miss Beatrice Marsdene in the part of Nora is admirably suited; Miss Cissy Sephton is an inimitable Miss Fotheringay, playing with great vivacity; and Miss Enid Ross as Mrs. Ponting acts capably. The comedy is preceded by the new comedietta Make Believe, of which a special notice appears in another column.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the South of England Hippodromes, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Mayall.—A typical Bank Holiday audience filled this place of amusement to overflowing at both entertainments on Monday night. One of the most attractive items of the programme was undoubtedly Victor's Juveniles, a company of eight clever miniature mimics, who gave life-like presentments of some of the leading music hall "stars," and their singing and dancing evoked great enthusiasm. Muriel Harding, the Anglo-French impressionist, is clever; Ray Espinosa gave three examples of dancing in quite opposite styles, and each was gracefully executed; and Victor Courtney, the "Boots" at the piano, proved himself a versatile entertainer and an accomplished instrumentalist. Clive and Clark, vocal and dancing duettists; Hans and Lux, comedians, patterers, and dancers; and Madge Hanbury, comedienne, also contribute to the programme with success. The Heroine of Mafeking was the principal Bioscopic picture, and Stickphaste Paste was provocative of great laughter.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—Mr. Chas. H. Lester's company is attracting holiday audiences in A Life for a Life. Mr. Edward Ashby does well as Don Leon Forandel; Miss Lallah Davis wins favour as Eulalie; Mr. Hugh Travers makes a capital Pedro; Mr. George Dalper merits praise as Kit Oswald; Miss Dorothy Riddell is good as Kate Evelyn; and Wee Winnie Warren scores as Venetta.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—Wright, Atkins, and company, Allan and Austin, Dan Noble, Marie Yorke, Livsey, Will Hughes, with Biograph pictures, provide the holiday programme at this house.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. H. Smith.—Mrs. Frank Bateman is here in a series of plays. On Monday night she presented The Way Women Love, giving a very fine histrionic display in her presentation of Verena Alabra; Miss Camille Treherne was a sympathetic Violet Tremayne; Mr. F. W. Goddard gave a well-studied rendering of Captain Tremayne; a strong portrayal of Leslie Lamont was provided by Mr. Henry Aynsleigh; and Mr. Percy Shaw, whistling comedian, made a capital Dick Palmer. Other plays billed are Sapho and Camille.

PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. H. Melton.—An exceptionally good programme includes Valley of Brathland, The Livingstone Case, New Marshal at Gila Camp, and humorous subjects.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—The Middlesbrough Amateur Operatic Society, under the able guidance of their popular hon. conductor, Mr. T. Dickon Wilson, this week present The Pirates of Penzance and Trial by Jury, the proceeds being in aid of the local medical charities.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Imeson.—Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey's company in Rollicking Rory meets with success. In the title-rôle Mr. Mackey is much appreciated, and in the part of Rosaleen Mrs. Mackey acquits herself well. The other characters are in competent hands.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges. — An attractive holiday programme draws crowded houses to this elegantly-appointed pleasure resort. The Marco Twins are much enjoyed; the Pasquali Brothers give a capital tumbling and equilibristic act; Natalia and Diana, aerial gymnasts; Miss Marie Stroud, chorus comedienne; Miss Vera Saunders, comedienne; Wright and Lawson, comedians; Little Zola, comedian; Herbert Rule, in successful songs, and the Empirescope Pictures all go well.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Julian.—Mr. Arthur Leigh's company in Lucky Durham have been well received, the cast including Messrs. Edmund Kennedy, Arthur Leigh, Wm. Calvert, and W. F. Clitheraw, and Misses Nellie Bonser, Dorothy Turner, Florence Tressilian, and Frances Wolviston. This fine drama goes with a delightful swing throughout, and is artistically mounted.

WEST END PIER PAVILION THEATRE.—Those ever-popular farces Are You a Mason? and Jane have once more demonstrated their drawing power, and good audiences have enjoyed the fun in each. The company has included Messrs. William Lockbart, Howard L. Tracey, and Archie Selwyn, and Misses Grace Denbeigh-Russell, Babs Stuart, and Renee de L'Estrade.

WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead.—The holiday bill has been topped by De Biere, the illusionist extraordinary; and Hayman and Franklin's players in Toplitsky have caused fresh amusement. The Marriotts' thought-reading is marvellous; the whimsicalities of Cullen and Carthy and Little Cluley are smart as ever; and other turns include the Six White Boys, speciality singers and dancers; Renz Bros., comedy acrobats; Graham, liliputian wonder; Will Rhodes, comedian; Bonair and Tess, quick-change scena; and the Eight Tennessee Guards in Camp Life Down South.

ALHAMBRA PALACE.—Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—Henry Herne and company in the dramatic episode The Colleen Bawn are sufficiently realistic to raise wild enthusiasm; Beaumont's ponies and dogs have been cleverly trained; too much praise cannot be given to Leroux's monkeys; the Forsyths have a pretty musical comedy speciality, The Tramp in the Nursery; and other turns are Will Penn, comedian; the Three Clarks, ball punching, &c.; Peter Shannon, coon; Les Crosit, novelty equilibrists; and the Maltans, comedy couple.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr. Emilius Hill.—A really clever sketch is that provided by Sylvia Cavalho and Clifford Pembroke, The Husband of Peggy, and its humours are thoroughly appreciated. Donaldson Bros. and company have a fine comedy act, Sports in a Jungle, which is intensely amusing; Bob Selvidge and Poppy Holland amuse everybody in their musical absurdity A Dotted Crochet; Adam Tomlinson patters and chants with perennial freshness; and Rex Fox (wire king), Annie Jumel (vocalist), Lum and Darius (musical and vocal scena), and Harry Drew (brasso) complete a well-balanced bill. Charles Parker's Pierrots are popular here.

TOWER AND CASINO.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Bradley.—This latest amusement resort in Morecambe was opened for the season on Saturday, and will continue until Oct. 1. Leslie's Cadets, the Liverpool Professional Military Band under Mr. Stutely, dancing, and other diversions have drawn the people in thousands.

MORLEY. — ALEXANDRA PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Izon.—A capital company, under the title of the "Palace Merrymakers," has been got together for the summer season, and the programme will be al fresco. The opening night was patronised by two packed audiences. Mappin and Webb, in a selection of harmonising and character duets, were enthusiastically received; Syd Bayley, a clever comedian, and Tom Sloan, the inimitable eccentric and dancer, provoked continual merriment, and Joe Shamrock was well appreciated for his baritone songs; Beattie Howard charmed with her Tyrolean warbling and graceful dancing, and Gracie Hunt, a dainty comedienne, was in high favour. Sexton Blake and other pictures made a smart entertainment.

NELSON.—The Grand Theatre has been closed for the summer vacation.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson.—Another excellent programme is presented this week, being headed by Jean Sene, the Indian mystery, who has some weird illusions; Verona performs difficult weight-lifting feats on roller skates; and Regan and Ryan are a capital pair of eccentric comedians. Other good turns are supplied by Golden and Chance, in a novel eccentric act; Ena Corelli, described as "the mighty atom"; Patty Yole, comedienne and dancer; Marie Ledell, song illustrator; Arthur Edmunds, human marionette, character impersonator; and Albert Sember and company, who give an amusing dramatic sketch, entitled Spasms. Mr. Chas. Fen presents a musical absurdity, entitled Percy's Perplexity.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglas.—Crowded houses are the rule. The Melody Makers have made a great hit, their vocalism being admirable; and Miss Mabel Mavis has aroused much enthusiasm by her glassophone solos. Miss L. Schumann, in quick change scena; Oliver and Denville, dancers; Mr. Horace Jones, comedian; Mr. Bert Belton, comedian; Mr. Will Atom, in sketch; and Miss Marie Watson, have all given satisfaction.

PIER PAVILION.—Managers, Messrs. AHandale and Blattner.—A variety bill is again put forward here, and is meeting with every success. Mr. Dick Tubb is a favourite with Pavilion patrons, and Miss Jessie Buckle, Mr. Cyrus Dare, Messrs. Ford and Hanson, Little Vera Elmore, Dis and Das, and others contribute to the excellent programme.

TOWER.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. H. Davy.—The Tower and grounds are now opened for the summer season, and on Whit Monday the place was crowded. In the theatre variety and animated pictures hold sway. At the Sunday concert Mr. Ben Davies sang.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—A fine house assembled on Monday to witness Mr. Arthur Phillips' presentation of The Merchant of Venice. As Shylock Mr. Phillips gives a most impressive portrayal, his delineation of the character striking one as being a most careful study, and one keenly appreciated. Miss Brandon Thomas's Portia is a clever study that does her infinite credit; as Bassanio, Mr. E. Harcourt Williams acts with rare distinction, and the other principal characters are all ably sustained.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—A strong programme is this week headed by Arthur Roberts, in a sketch entitled The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife. A clever, refined musical act is presented by Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson. An amusing and smart conjuring turn is that of Les Marco Belli, the Continental experts; and May Henderson, in spirited style, sings and dances herself into favour; Alexandra Dagmar has a fund of new stories to tell, and some effective songs; and Fred Lincoln causes any amount of merriment in his comedy creations. Other capital items are contributed by Carl and Carr, Brothers Wright, and Johnny Sinclair.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Responsible Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Wentworth Croke is presenting this week The Bondman. Mr. Philip Darien is well endowed physically for the part of the rugged Jason, and his acting is forcible, virile, and convincing. As Michael Sunlocks, Mr. Stanley Harrison imparts an air of romance to the character; and as Adam Fairbrother Mr. William Beckwith is admirable. Miss Madge Lanerton is an effective Mrs. Fairbrother; Mr. W. H. Rotherham supplies a well-defined sketch of Father Ferrati, in addition to playing as the grandfather; and the exacting rôle of Greeba falls to the lot of Miss Violet Macree, who sustains the burden of sorrow, hope, and fear with tear compelling sympathy. Mr. Alfred Fisher plays with power and expression as Governor Testa, and Mr. Fred J. Waller handles the rôle of the scheming Doctor Boni with tact and judgment. Miss Lilian Mayne takes full advantage of her opportunities as Martha. This week the theatre closes for the summer vacation, opening one evening next week (Thursday) for an amateur performance in aid of the Newport and Monmouthshire Hospital.

NORTHAMPTON.—FRANKLIN'S GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Wainwright.—Favoured by fine weather, there was a record attendance here on Whit-Monday. Calile and Rennie proved themselves experts on the flying rings; Sing Ling Ching amused with his quaint Chinese juggling, &c.; Lomas as Jacko, the man monkey, was applauded for his cleverness; Mons. and Mlle. Henri appeared with success in an artistic high leaping act; Henri Foden gave a good exposition of hand jumping, &c.; Tudor's performing ponies were a source of great delight; the Musical Korries were highly appreciated in their musical scena The Kerbstone Serenaders; and the Bodey Bros. concluded the programme with a knockabout turn on the triple bars. The Finedon Old Prize Band, conducted by Mr. J. Holdsworth, provided a high-class programme of music, and Captain Fred Bidmead made a successful balloon ascent and parachute descent. The performances were repeated on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Secretary, Mr. G. Skempton; Resident-Manager for Andrew's Pictures, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—Strong dramatic subjects are provided in The Man, In Gypsy Hands, and The Outlaw's Sacrifice. Church Parade at Aldershot is an interesting film, and Three Brothers as comic as they make. The songs, illustrated, sung by Miss Margaret Payne are "Won't you come to Madeira with me?" and "I like your old French bonnet."

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—The Sorceress of the Strand and Lieutenant Rose and the Foreign Spy excite great interest, whilst How Scroggins saw the Comet is a rattling comic.

NORTHAMPTON PICTURE PALACE. — Proprietors, Messrs. J. F. Bentley; General-Manager, Mr. J. W. Borrowman.—Thrilling drama is provided in the Daughter of the Sioux, a story of Western life, The Grandsire, Saved by Carlo, and Two Christmastides. The Ingenious Safe Deposit is amusing, and the Carnival of the Riviera, 1910, is most interesting.

NORTH SHIELDS. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The twice-nightly summer dramatic season is proving a great success here, and on Monday evening, when Mr. Leonard Thackeray presented Mr. F. B. Woulfe and his company in Lady Godiva, the house was crowded at both performances. As Tom of Coventry Mr. Woulfe gave a finished and artistic performance; Mr. Leonard Thackeray was capital as Algar; Mr. A. Hartley supplied a good study of Leofric; Mr. J. Court Harvard was a convincing Unwolf Unwolfson; Mr. Alfred G. Raymond made the most of Robert Shakelton; and Mr. F. Cheevers was a capital Edgar. As Lady Godiva Miss Edith Loraine gave an excellent portrayal of the character; Miss May Yates as Lady Aldyth was seen to advantage; and Miss M. Cartwright proved a satisfactory Elfrida. David Garrick formed the attraction on Wednesday evening.

Central Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Heading the programme here is Lomax, in his novelty pot-pourri act, for which he receives well-deserved applause; Doyle and Gibson, comedians and dancers, create much mirth; May St. Hilda, in her novel act The Studio, is cordially greeted; the Maynards, versatile artists, are much appreciated; and some excellent films are again shown this week.

NORWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. J. W. Cordiner's excellent company is here with Dare-Devil Dorothy. Mr. Geo. A. Fox as Capt. Geo. Fielding gives a manly representation, his acting and singing being most successful; Mr. Robert Gilbert ably fills the part of the villainous Capt. Dudley; Mr. Deane Cliffe as Featherstone Haugh and Mr. H. Troutback as Smith prove very humorous, while Mr. James Salter as Silas Crump creates continuous laughter; Mr. Edward Aldworth deserves mention as Hawkins; Miss Gertrude de Lacy as Dorothy is very pleasing, and her singing is much enjoyed; Miss Kathleen Stewart deserves praise as Ruth Montrose; and Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith receives much appreciation for her singing and dancing. The Misses Lille and Iris Elviedo introduce some clever dances, and the whole production is under the direction of Mr. Harry Richardson.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Dutch Daly is very clever as a concertina soloist, and is also humorous; the Columbia Comedy Trio are pleasing vocalists, and their comedy creates much laughter; Hayes and Merritt, bounding trampolinists, are acrobats of exceptional order; the Great Ruhart as a parodist is very good; Archie Royer, American comedian acrobat and fun-maker, is a great success; Merton and Rydon are interesting comedy entertainers; Allis and Cassati are also most amusing, and Nash and Noel prove capital comedians and dancers. The Hippo-Bio exhibits some interesting pictures.

The Nest, Rosary Road.—Messrs. Goodman opened here on Monday for the season with their talented company of Pierrots, and were well patronised. Mr. Leslie Sears and Miss Cissie Scott make a welcome return, and receive hearty greeting. The new-comers are Miss Aileen Delmore, Miss Rosie Effingham, Mr. Jack Bonny, and Mr. Sydney Holdays, whose pleasing songs find much appreciation. Mr. T. Capron is an able accompanist and a finished violinist.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Facing the Music was presented to a crowded house on Monday. The Curate of Mr. Charles Fancourt is an amusing and well-caricatured embodiment, while the other Mr. Smith provides many merry moments as played by Mr. H. Langdon Bruce. The two wives are impersonated by Misses Iris Hoey and Estelle Theband with well-conceived humorous suggestion. Mr. Cyril Melton is excellent as the Sergeant; Mr. Charles Steuart (Dick Desmond), Mr. Edward Bonfield (Colonel Smith), Miss Questa Dearing (Miss Fotheringay), and Miss Amy Coleman (Mrs. Ponting) are indefatigable in their efforts to amuse. The comedy is preceded by a new one-act play, The Last Drop, a detailed notice of which appears in another column.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—The stock season was opened this week, Dangerous Women being capitally played by a well-chosen company. Miss Bessie Rignold gives an excellent portrayal of the vengeful Cora Fay, and Miss Violet Agnew is a sympathetic exponent of Sylvia Rothwell; Mr. Otto Minster furnishes a vigorous rendering of the millionaire, Ronald Courtney, and Mr. Gerald Venning is convincing as Colonel Rothwell. The humorous parts are carefully and acceptably undertaken by Mr. Geo. H. Asquin (Elijah Smudge) and Miss Daisy Meynard (Bessie Basket), while effective help comes from Miss Lilian Duncker, Miss Lonard, and Messrs. Arthur Schipper, Fred Nemone, and Leslie Nolan.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—A new and original sketch, entitled The Rat, is dealt with in detail in another column. H. O. Wills is drily amusing with his whimsical jokes and mannerisms. Hearty laughter follows the burlesque conjuring of Carl Howard; the Harvey Boys and Girls sing and dance acceptably; the extraordinary antics of the Albert and Edmund's Troupe keep the fun going, and Woodhouse and Wells, patter and dance themselves into favour; Otto and Lola supply a skilful comedy acrobatic act; Conn and Conrad also achieve success; Daisy Dennis has a smart song, and Lizzie Glenroy is an expert dancer.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—Jack and Evelyn produce a large amount of fun by their smart patter; the equilibristic feats of Leo and Roland are received with well deserved applause. An amusing little sketch, Three of a Kind, is capitally presented by Ethel Arden and George Abel. Captain Kettle is an expert at palming, and Ernest Tilbury uses his pleasant voice in several songs; Edith St. Claire sings acceptably, and a humorous playlet by Marie Vera and Thomas Kennard goes with a swing. Rowland Hill, comedian, and the Bioscope are also in the programme.

OLDHAM. — Colosseum Theatre. — General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—This week Mr. Harry Foxwell's company presents Miss Sheila Walsh's capital drama Mother. Mr. Alex. J. Haviland acts in a manly style as Frank English; Miss Grace Jones as Nellie Fairweather is delightful; Mr. R. Brown is good as the vindictive Stephen Carrington; and Jasper Rawden is ably presented by Mr. George Brooke. Mr. J. O. Stewart is very good as Duncan Fairweather; Miss Elsie Dene as Polly Crumpet and Mr. Teddy Myles as Tommy Noblets cause hearty laughter; Miss Kathleen Hunt is capital as Mrs. Baggot; and Miss Amy Wood makes a motherly Martha. Miss Phillis Vaughan does well as Vesta L'Estrange; Miss Mary Holmes acts in a dainty manner as Little May; Miss Dora Kelland also does well as the Hon. Mrs. Billy; Mr. Harry James is a capital Rev. John Strong; and Mr. Roy Gordon makes a good Old Crump.

Empire Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—For Honour and Revenge is staged here by Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company. Mr. G. M. Montanini acts in a clever manner as the much-wronged James Galston, Sir Gilbert Redville being played by Mr. Courtney Robinson in a forcible manner. Miss Muriel Inglis gives a dramatic rendering of Maud Desmond; Miss Amy Dalby as Mary Galston is winsome and dainty; Miss Lizzie Ingles as Nancy O'Brien and Mr. Fred C. Imbert as Joe Reckitts provide excellent comedy; and Miss Renee Wreafort is an amusing Mrs. Jones. Mr. Chas. Russell is smart as Harry Travers; and Mr. H. Douglas does well as Arthur Redville; Mr. C. Fred Roper as a police-inspector being also good.

Royal Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—The excellent pictures this week include some fine examples. Right Among the Old Folks is most pleasing; Passing Shadows is excellent; A Village Tragedy, Race for a Bride, Trials of a Chauffeur, The Place Where Teak Wood Grows, and others are also in the bill. Mr. Roger Alwyn also contributes to the programme.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—A capital programme includes A Fence on Bar y Ranch, Coco and the Earthquake, Mr. Foolshead Turns Somersaults, Too Many Admirers, Juan the Pelota Player, The Cross of Napoleon, The Land of Monkeys and Snakes, The Volcanic Chimney, and In the Mirror. Messrs. Wild and Taylor appear in concertina solos and a football sketch.

Brown's Assembly Rooms.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Brown.—From Gipsy Hands is a thrilling story; The Twisted Trail is most dramatic; and Sensational Logging is a very interesting picture.

Osborne Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Hughes.—A Mother's Heart is a story of a pathetic nature; and Truth or Lie—Which is Best? is excellent. The Irish Boy and His Only Daughter are a couple of good dramas. The amusing films include Volunteer Fireman, Double Muscle, Alligator, Music Gone Mad; and Miss Molloy contributes some good songs.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—The latter half of last week Mr. Martin Harvey, with his talented company, gave most interesting and finished performances of The Only Way and The Breed of the Treshams. Notwithstanding the mournful times, Mr. Harvey drew packed houses on Whit-Monday. Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company commenced a most successful week's engagement with Don. Mr. Arthur Willoughby is a typical Canon, and plays the part in most finished fashion; Mr. Gordon Bailey most happily realises the difficult character of the impulsive, well-meaning Stephen; Mr. C. Tyrel is admirably suited as the old General; and Mr. Charles Harley gives a most powerful and effective rendering of the bigoted zealot, Albert Thompsett. Miss Emma Hutchison plays Mrs. Bonington in the finished easy style that we always expect from her; while the parts of Mrs. Sinclair, Ann Sinclair, and Elizabeth Thompsett can hardly find more capable exponents than in the Misses Ethel Royales, Viola Garland, and Violet Harley. Don is preceded by Her Dearest Friend, a capital curtain-raiser. The business arrangements are in the capable hands of Mr. Percy Barrow.

East Oxford Theatre.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart's company, under the direction of Mr. Karl Edwards, are this week presenting Donnybrook, which terminates the present successful stock season, and on Whit Monday there was a crowded house for the initial performance. Mr. Karl Edwards surpassed himself with a very bright and exhilarating performance as Billy, and worked hard throughout; whilst Mr. E. Holland Day was, as usual, a confident success as Dennis. Mr. Harry Leyton was sound as Father McGuire; Mr. Edwin Firth was successfully weird as Tim Dolan; and Mr. Frederick Biron was a true villain as Capt. Vere. Miss Winifred Stuart had a most hearty reception, and maintained her well-established reputation for sympathetic acting with her attractive portrayal of Molly; Miss Mabel Parker, always a sure success, did well in the small part of Bridget; Miss Vida Rogerson made a dainty Kathleen; and Miss Katie Norris did her utmost to make Sally a most amusing character, and was a distinct success. Miss Elma E. Turner added strength to an efficient cast with her powerful rendering of Lady Blanche. All the members of the present company are giving their services this Saturday evening for a benefit for the resident-manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—For the last week of the season at this house East Lynne is the attraction. The ever-popular play is finely presented by Mr. Rich. Waldon's company, headed by Miss Ada Oakley, who as Lady Isabel is deserving of praise for an admirable portrayal. All the other characters are in capable hands.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—A good bill comprises Consul, the almost man; Harry Cooke, the quaint comedian; Hargadon and Cole, Scotch comedy artists; Wilson Hallett, comedian; Miss Florence, mimic; Rohda Brothers, gymnasts; Seeley, West, and Rhodesia, novelty entertainers; and the Hippodrome pictures.

PENTRE.—Tivoli.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—An exceptionally attractive programme is headed by the Boissets, in The Bricklayers. A clever juggling and head-balancing act is given by the Maxims; Lazern, the mystic, is a clever illusionist; Kimberley and Melbourne are eccentric comedians; a much appreciated turn is given by Ida Katrena (the Dolly Girl); and Harry Zetter and Bessie Callow also deserve mention.

Workmen's Hall.—Mr. H. Solway.—The films include From Cabin Boy to King, Cherries, and A Lesson by the Sea. Dolly, Agnes, and Maud (the Staffordshire singers) and Tom Jenkins (a big favourite) contribute successfully.

PERTH.—Perth Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The Primrose Quartette provide a rich musical treat, their part-singing being wellnigh perfect; Wal Croft is a pawky Scotch comedian, with some good songs and fresh patter; Beatty St. Clair is a dainty little lady, who captivates the audience with her chorus songs; and Fields and Lewis create laughter in their burlesque melodrama scene. A fine series of pictures is provided.

PETERBOROUGH.—Thfatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—Miss Ada Wallis and company, in the musical absurdity The Major, occupied the boards here for the first three nights this week. Miss Ada Wallis was delightfully amusing as Clara O'Neale; Mr. T. C. McQuire as Major Barney O'Neale was admirable; and other parts were in capable hands.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—Peggy Pryde takes the lead here with her funny patter and songs. The Lannons, duettists and dancers, have an enthusiastic reception; Edith Hale, versatile vocalist, sings pleasing songs; Will Cornish, in his musical act, gains applause; Woolmer Young, comedian, is a strong favourite; Mack Ollive, in his whistling scena, scores a success; and the Hyde and Cody Trio provide much fun. The Karnoscope completes.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Allan Attwater.—The Arcadians drew a bumper house on Monday, the company being practically the same as on the initial visit. As Smith and subsequently Simplicitas Mr. Gus Oxley adds to his already well-established reputation as a comedian, infusing a wonderful amount of humour into the part; Mr. Frank Collins as the doleful Peter Doody cuts out a most original course with pronounced success; Mr. Roy Sidney does well as Jack Meadows and Mr. Roy Lorraine is a dapper Bobby; as Sombra Miss Marion Edwardes earns fresh laurels as a vocalist; Miss Mysie Devine has a delightful Hibernian brogue as Eileen Cavanagh, and introduces some graceful dancing into her part, and Miss Madge Holmes is excellent as the portly but businesslike Mrs. Smith

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The well-known entertainers, Bella and Bijou, are starred, and prove a popular draw, the Suffragette sketch going as well as ever; the juggling, acrobatic business, and instrumental work of Francini, Ollome and Page are brilliantly executed; Marguerite Ismay and her accompanying satellites are responsible for a very pretty and excellently dressed vocal and dancing scena; the Bros. Obo score in some humorous comedy work; Florence Esdaile is an accomplished vocalist; Wisper, a comedy juggler, supplies a very amusing turn, and Beattie Bloom is an attractive comedienne. Harry Cotton, comedian, is the remaining contributor to a good bill.

PONTEFRACT.—Castle Grounds.—Galas were held in these historic grounds on Whit Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Tom Diacoff, of Pontefract, had the booking of the stage turns, which included the Sisters Eston, trapeze artists; Mlle. Fleurier and her troupe of canine marvels; the Saletos, head and hand balancers; Three Eltons on the triple bars; Paleto, eccentric juggler and tumbler; and F. L. Knott, the human marionette.

Alexandra Theatre of Varieties.—A good holiday programme is provided for the patrons of this house. Cummin and Seaham are exceptionally funny as the postman and the ragman; Margaret Doris appears with her well-trained troupe of dogs; Mme. Adah Payne, the Australian prima donna, is heard to advantage in her high-class selections; Cestria is clever as an acrobatic waiter; Mabel Mass pays a return visit as a singer of chorus songs; and other turns are Ivey Aberdare, comedienne and dancer, Len Hall, comedian and dancer, Alpha, ventriloquist, and the Alexscope.

PORTH.—Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Poole, Ltd., Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—The Four Regals present a most sensational act, The Armourers; Maudie Ford, with her latest songs and dances, is a general favourite, and Ugo Nap is a witty comedian; Bert Errol impersonates a lady singer realistically, and Frank Taylor is a quaint comedian; Jock Laird, a Scotch comedian and dancer, is making headway; the Five Bombays have a smart singing and dancing act, and the Bioscope, as usual, has capital pictures.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—The Flag Lieutenant, which proved a magnet on its first visit, has again been presented by Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sydney Cooper's company, opening on Monday to a full house. The principal parts are ably sustained by Messrs. Edgar Kent (Richard Lascelles), Montague Love (Major W. Thesiger), Geo. Mallett (Admiral Wynne), Misses Florence Jackson (Mrs. Cameron), Dorothy Ripley (Lady Hermione Wynne), and Winifred Vallant (Viola Hood). The mounting was good. Miss Beatrice Lindley's clever entertainment preceded.

Prince's.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—The Scales of Justice, an exceedingly interesting drama, is being presented here this week. It is admirably staged and acted, and holds the attention of the audience throughout.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Captain E. H. Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Miss Ella Shields heads an attractive programme here this week, and her tuneful songs are much appreciated; Colin Bryce and company score a success with their laughable skit Are You a Socialist? The Jackson Family are a troupe of talented musicians; Will E. Stopit gives a clever comedy acrobatic performance; the Shelleys are as popular as ever in their mirthful sketch Also Ran; A. J. Hill appears to effect in a Lilliputian act. Included in the bill are George Rae, Scotch comedian; Hugo and Smit, comedy acrobats; Charles Torbay, shadowgraphist; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Pyck, Tholl, and Taylor open the entertainment with a singing and dancing act; Marie Braymen's powerful contralto voice soon wins favour; Curtis Leo's sleight-of-hand performance is exceedingly smart; Eadie and Ramsden are loudly applauded for a contortionist display, and the lady for her vocalism; George Mozart possesses an inexhaustable fund of humour, and introduces his cinematograph burlesque, The Thief; the Zigeuner Quartette are finished musicians; Sammy Shields makes a big hit as a "Football Enthusiast"; the Athoe Troupe rivet attention with their ball manipulation and acrobatic display; and an amusing film, The Lover's Pact, causes laughter.

King's.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—Little Johnnie Jones, a new comedietta, tops the bill. The name-part is sustained with humour and ability by Mr. John Humphries; the scheming Grand Vizier, Fannakapan, has a capital exponent in Mr. Chas. Cautley; the Nightingale and Aurelia afford scope to the vocal talents of Misses Beatrice Grosvenor and Mabel Danby. The chorus is supported by a strong contingent of attractive young ladies. Other contributors to the programme are Carrie Laurie's Juveniles, the Verona Troupe of cyclists, Geo. S. Melvin, Scottish comedian and dancer, Conway and Leland, La Belle Alva, Watson and Naylor, Keene and Adams, and Marion Armitage.

South Parade Pier.—Manager, Mr. A. Lalande.—Delightful Bank Holiday weather attracted large numbers to the Pier, where Mrs. Mark Kinghorne presented Mother-in-Law. The Merry Mascots, with their diverting entertainment, concluded the programme. In the morning the "Merry Boys" and Professor Percival's high-diving feats pleased the onlookers.

Shaftesbury Hall.—Another picture palace in the N.E. district of the borough, recently erected at a cost of some £7,000 or £8,000, and calculated to accommodate about 1,000 seat-holders, was opened on Monday. Everything is up to date. Noteworthy among the films is the series The Last Days of Pompeii. Miss Dorothy Alexander, with songs, and Mrs. Henry J. Cook, with recitation, contributed successfully to the entertainment, which is under the management of Mr. Herbert Cole, Mr. C. M. Gann directing the musical arrangements.

Clarence Pier.—Manager, Mr. E. Hunter.—As usual at holiday times crowds flock here. The morning's amusement is provided by the "So-and-So's," presented by Mr. Stuart Alexander. In the afternoon and evening the R.M.A. Band provides an additional attraction.

Gosport Theatre.—This house was filled to its utmost capacity on Monday, when, in addition to some capital pictures, Syd Crossley and Babs Lloyd supplied the amusement.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, the Exors. of the late W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban Newton.—The Great Raymond and his company are the chief attraction. A very clever turn is given by Les Grossi in the Vampire dance, and the Villions prove themselves masters of the wheel, while their travesty whirlwind dance brings down the house; Gordon Stretton, coloured vocalist, is a finished performer; Morris and Moore, "the British Boys," are expert dancers; Little Sunbeam is a dainty juvenile artist with a very pleasing voice, and dances well; Luella Cross, American vocalist, contributes some taking songs in a pleasing manner.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Crowded houses are welcoming Bransby Williams, and are not slow in showing their appreciation of this clever artist's répertoire; Harrigan and Holt, in their duo, the Inspector and Policeman, meet with a good reception; Archie Green, raconteur and dancer, as the Boy Scout, is decidedly good; Rutter's dogs in a football match create roars of laughter; the Cosmopolitan Male Quartette contribute some well executed quartettes; Dan Weldon, the singing newsboy, is appreciated; Nera and Zema are clever equilibriste, and perform some wonderful balancing feats; A. H. Drinkwater is a light comedian of merit; the Seven Wulfrunas, comedy acrobats, in Fun in a Café, are an exceedingly smart turn. Wanted, a Mummy, on the Bioscope, concludes a really capital show.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Clarkson.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's For Love and the King is winning the approval of crowded houses. Mr. C. Watson Mill gives a spirited portrayal of the part of Jarval; Mr. Alfred Maurice is a most accomplished villain as Michael Obrenovic; Miss Joan Ellis is to be complimented on her excellent presentation of Natila; Miss Rosalind Tate is a capable Edith Meredith. The play is superbly staged.

RADCLIFFE.—Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner, Mr. Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—Mr. Mat Lynton presents here this week a new and original mystery play, The Girl with the Angel Face. As Sir John Wentworth and Thomas Wentworth, Mr. Leighton Winsford is very successful; Mr. Edward Ling gives a good impersonation of the treacherous Jasper Death; and the character of the scheming lawyer is ably interpreted by Mr. Montague Lane; Mr. George Lanton makes a dignified lawyer; and Mr. Herbert Standing meets with much approval as the Rev. Gordon Cross. Miss Minnie Love, in the title-rôle, acts in convincing style; and Miss Laurie Potter is a smart Mollie Maitland; and Miss R. Douglas a good Ena Wentworth.

RAMSGATE.—Royal Palace Theatre.—Under the Sole Direction of Mr. Chas. Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—Mr. Wilson Berge and an all-round talented company is staging, with signal success, The Sinner. Mr. Benge plays with fine effect the difficult part of Monk Stretton; Mr. Charles Burden effectively portrays one of the representatives of villainy, Edgar Thornhill; and Mr. Alec Finlayson is admirable as Paul Levaine; Miss Mona Grey is very effective as Meg Stanton, and Miss Geraldine Verner is excellent as Vera Ewen; a lively contribution is that of Miss Sadie Smith as Nora Stretton, and good work is also contributed by Miss Dora Olga (Little Ned); Miss Muriel Deane plays with Grace and power as Honor Thornhill, and others who contribute materially to the admirable character of the production are Mr. Henry Danson (Lord Ewen), Mr. Jay Kay (Chris. Floppington), and Mr. Frank Radcliffe (a first-rate Bill Stanton).

Marina Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. J. Attack.—The clear and steady pictures displayed here during Whit Week have proved exceedingly popular, and there have been good houses. Varieties of a thoroughly entertaining character have been supplied by Clare and Pastor, comedy artists, who have made a hit with their singing and dancing.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—A variety season was commenced at this house on Whit Monday, when a very attractive programme drew crowded attendances. Von Etta, queen of illusionists and lightning protean actress, heads the bill, and gives a very novel and clever performance. Leon and Tee give a good eccentric musical act; Mollie Seymour is a very pleasing comedienne; Elvio, Ross, and Elvio appear in an amusing sketch entitled Those Troublesome Slaveys, in the course of which they execute some smart acrobatic feats; Argo is an excellent mimic; the Sisters Macarte present a charming Japanese scena, The Land of the Lotus, in which they dance effectively and perform some graceful movements on the slack wire; Tom Conover and company are very amusing in the farcical sketch The Drink Cure; the Melbourne Trio sing to advantage; and some of the latest films are shown on the Bioscope.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. E. Draco; Stage-Manager, Mr. A. Burridge.—The Lukushima, a troupe of Japanese entertainers, give a very clever acrobatic and balancing display, which is preceded by a series of beautiful lantern views of Japanese scenery; Richard Finberg gives some first-class impersonations of characters in famous plays; Louie Belrose is an acceptable comedienne; Lambert and Butler, comedians and dancers, perform very successfully; Johnny Holland and company present an amusing comedy sketch, The Millionaire; the Eduns sing tunefully in a musical comedy act, The Spider and the Fly; the Gordon Girls give an effective dancing scena, A Platform Rehearsal; Farley, Rennie, and company create immense hilarity in their sketch The Terrible Tailors; and a capital holiday programme is completed by some good Bioscope pictures.

The New Central Skating Rink has been very extensively patronised during the holidays, and the Western Road Rink has also done good business.

REDHILL.—The Military Tournament and Fête in the Sports Ground on Whit Monday was a great success. A special feature was the programme submitted by the Cheeroe Concert Party on the Cosy Corner stage. Miss Kitty Grays sang her ditties in a lively and pleasing manner; Mr. Charles Osborne's light comedy songs were rendered with ability; Miss Fay Desmond's fine voice was heard to advantage in well-selected numbers; Mr. Fred Anderson proved himself a comedian of resource; and Mr. Charles Wood kept the audience amused the whole time he was on the boards. Mr. Arthur De Val was quite at home at the piano. Mr. Arthur W. Woolland deserves congratulations upon his able management of these fêtes.

RHYL.—Town Hall.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale present a good variety company here, including La Vie, in a series of classical poses; Les Zingares, in a pretty Eastern scena; the Albano Girls, Mexican bush girls; Tom and O'Neil, comedy wrestlers; Charles Bradford, comedian; Sisters Lesser, duettists; Harry Vernon, comedian; Rastus and Amber, duettists; and Frank Weaver, sand dancer.

Olympian Gardens.—Fred Walmsley is making a huge hit here this week; Jack Barker, comedian, is also a great favourite; Eileen and May submit a clever musical act; Bernard Davies has a good selection of songs; and Howard and Wallace present an amusing sketch, Taming a Wife. Amy Flawn is the accompanist and solo pianist.

ROTHERHAM.—Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. E. Smith; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur R. Hollands.—Mr. C. le Gar's company presents a highly-successful dramatic playlet, introducing Senor Angel Blanco; the Northcotes (Madge and May) are pleasing vocal duettists; Tom and Neil are smart in a burlesque wrestling and comedy act; Gilbert Girard is a clever mimic; Haines and Borthwick and company cause roars of laughter with Half a Dollar; Charles Gardener is an amusing eccentric character comedian; Eunice and Zena are smart instrumentaliste; Zellini does well as a comedy juggler; and the Zampas are dexterous baton jugglers and dancers. The Hipposcope Pictures continue to please.

SALFORD.—P.O.W.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The Beggar Princess is a good holiday attraction, and crowded houses are the result. Mr. J. Rice Cassidy makes an effective Hon. Algernon Fitzhugh, the hero, Allen Armstrong, is well presented by Mr. Villiers Stanley; Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy is a charming Seaweed; Countess Olga is forcibly played by Miss Ada Roscoe; Maggie Bolton is cleverly portrayed by Miss M. Cameron; and much fun is provided by Mr. W. Melvyn (Harry Lortimer) and Mr. Arthur Henri (Porter). Mr. Tom Royden, Mr. David Douglas, and Mr. E. Lowrie give excellent support.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. S. Lee.—Dan Lipton's company, in the vocal scena Songland, give a very enjoyable exhibition, which includes some excellent songs by Miss Eva Kellard; Harry Tate's Motoring; Harry Levaine, comedian; Vere and Nelidon, speciality; Mark Stuart, patter comedian; T. E. Bates, eccentric comedian; Maria Racko and Partner, smart acrobats; Nellie Walton, singing mill girl with a sweet voice; and Ruby Norton, comedienne, are all capable artists.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—Fred Karno's Perkins, M.P., and The G.P.O., with Albert Bruno in the principal parts, provide endless fun; Sara Rosebury wins favour with a sweet voice and charming manner in her dialect and vocal scena; Purvis and Partner, in The Postman's Knock, are very comical; the Two Brilliants, clever lady xylophonists, are much applauded. The programme also includes Edie Anderson, a neat dancer, and the Three Aza Boys, smart clog performers.

Opera House and Assembly Rooms, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—Empty Cradle and Too Many Admirers are among the pictures which, with Mr. Tom Sherlock's illustrated songs, crowd this house.

Central Hall (Blackfriars Road).—Proprietors, Messrs. Matt Raymond; Manager, Mr. A. H. Gilbert.—Raymond's pictures are well up to the usual standard, and include Girl of the Range, Race for a Bride, Spirit of the Sword, and Mutiny on the High Seas. Ruby Lake, comedienne, is much appreciated for her singing.

"OUT OF SORTS"?

Is that your condition? You don't feel right-down ill, but you are not "up to the mark"—you have occasional headaches, or a little dizziness, or some pain after eating, or wind in the stomach! You are "out of sorts." It isn't right that you should be like that, and it isn't necessary! Your stomach is at fault. Take a few doses of Mother Seigel's Syrup after meals, and you will soon be as well as you wish.

YOU NEED THE DIGESTIVE TONIC.

The herbal extracts of which Mother Seigel's Syrup is made will tone up and strengthen your stomach, and thus banish your ailments, increase your vitality, and make you fit and well. Mr. S. R. Evans, B.A., 41, Rosebery-road, Redfield, Bristol, says:—"For so long as I remember, Mother Seigel's Syrup has been used by the various members of my family, from time to time, for indigestion and allied complaints, always with excellent results. As for myself, Mother Seigel's Syrup has kept me fit and well for more than twelve years past."

MOTHER SEIGEL'S SYRUP

The 2/6 bottle contains three times as much as the 1/1½ size.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, May 16, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"THE GEISHA."

A particularly strong attraction for the Whitsun holidays was the revival of the famous musical comedy The Geisha, and the King's on Monday evening was quite packed by an enthusiastic audience, who listened to the charming and entrancing melodies composed by Sidney Jones with every sign of approval. Mr. Frederick Mouillot has provided a company which is thoroughly competent, and in no way detracts from impressions formed by previous revivals. As O Mimosa San Miss Aimee Grey gave a delightful rendering, both her singing and acting showing much charm; Miss Renee Reel was a piquant Juliette Diamant, and won praise; a hit was made by Miss Adela Crispin as Molly Seymour, her lively acting and singing being loudly applauded; Miss Mary Morrison was a bright Lady Constance Wynn; and the guests, in the persons of Miss Olive Eileen, Miss Cecilia Morris, and Miss Jessie Hall, proved very attractive. Miss Clarice Eldon, Miss Belle Murray, and Miss Estelle Twichen were bewitching geisha. Mr. Walter Johnstone Douglas was a manly and breezy Reginald Fairfax. With a refreshing and well-cultivated voice, he won success which was quite deserved. Dick Cunningham, Arthur Cuddy, and George Grimstone were exceedingly well represented by Mr. Sam Lockridge, Mr. Hartwell D. Morice, and Mr. Sydney Langworth; the middy Tom Stanley found a sprightly artist in Miss Dorothy Clancy; Mr. Herbert Uzielli's impersonation of Captain Katana was excellent; and Mr. Harry Reynolds as Takemine was good. Mr. Edward Carlton was extremely laughable as the Chinaman Wun Hi, his "pidgin" English and energetic acting winning popularity; the rôle of the Marquis Imari was made the most of by Mr. Lionel Braham, his burlesque of the Chief of Police being highly amusing. The pretty Japanese scenes were universally admired, and the dainty chorus, in their quaint costumes, were captivating. Mr. F. Chevalier Le Grand ably directed the augmented orchestra. On Thursday evening, by special request, A Greek Slave was revived. After to-night the theatre closes for the summer vacation.

THE MARLBOROUGH.
On Monday, May 16, the Drama entitled
"THE SILVER KING."

Another return visit of G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company in the ever-popular drama by Henry Arthur Jones, The Silver King, which is drawing good houses. It is staged in elaborate style and capitally played by the whole of the company. The part of Wilfred Denver affords Mr. Fred D. Daviss much scope for really artistic acting, and he fully avails himself of his opportunities. The impersonation is most interesting from all points of view, and Mr. Daviss must be congratulated upon presenting an exposition of a difficult part which always ensures sympathy. Miss Mildred Surrey as Nellie Denver plays in a natural and convincing manner, and in every way does full justice to the part. Mr. Arthur H. Rooke sustains the character of the polished villain, Captain Herbert Skinner, "The Spider," with convincing forcefulness, taking advantage of every opportunity. The interesting criminal career of Elijah Coombe, the marine store dealer, is artistically and cleverly outlined by Mr. Arthur Wright, who admirably sustains the part. As Daniel Jaikes Mr. Edward J. George still gives a most powerful interpretation. Mr. W. Leslie Ellis is highly effective as Geoffrey Ware, and Mr. Ralph Leon makes a hit as Henry Corkett, his acting being excellent throughout. Mr. A. Hornby Warburton contrives to do exceedingly well as Detective Baxter, and the minor characters are played with unusual care. The staging and mounting, under the management of Mr. Arthur Wright, leave nothing to be desired.

CORONET THEATRE.
On Monday, May 16, the Play, entitled
"A MESSAGE FROM MARS."

Whilst denizens of the earth were engaged in passing through the tail of the comet and experiencing meteoric disturbances, the messenger from Mars was preaching the gospel of altruism with a playful and forceful use of dynamics at the Coronet Theatre. Mr. Frederick Mouillot's original production of this world-renowned play has been "on the road" for many a season now without losing any of its pristine charm and power to please. Mr. F. Vernon Travers has perfected himself in the part of Horace Parker, and acts with strength and conviction, and a nice sense of humour; Mr. William H. Brougham's resonant voice and stern demeanour are well fitted to the relentles visitor from the Martian planet; Mr. Norman Clark acts well the powerful and pathetic part of the tramp; Mr. Danelli Greene as a policeman and Miss Ray Denton as Bella contribute some amusing by-play; and Miss Katherine Camp is droll as a poor woman; Miss Rose Helene is a gentle and sympathetic Minnie Templar; and Miss Mary Buckstone as Mrs. Clarence and Miss Aubrey Ashton as Miss Parker are both interesting and efficient. Mr. Cecil Kerr as Arthur Dicey, Mr. Percy Tyler (who also stage manages) as Dr. Chapman, Mr. F. Bentley, and Miss Eily O'Dempsey, among others, do well in minor rôles. Mr. F. Leslie Moreton is general-manager, with Mr. Douglas Eley as business-manager for Mr. Mouillot.

DALSTON THEATRE.
On Monday, May 16, the Farcical Play entitled
"THE BRASS BOTTLE."

One of the best possible programmes for holiday-makers is provided this week at the Dalston Theatre by the presentatton of F. Anstey's farcical play The Brass Bottle. Mr. Gaston Mayer is responsible for the production, which keeps audiences in an almost continuous roar of laughter. Mr. Lawrence Grossmith as Horace Ventimore, the young architect whose fate it is to meet with such a strange series of adventures at the hands of his mysterious visitor, is provided with a part quite suited to his vigorous style, and he takes full advantage of the admirable opportunities for real farcical comedy that present themselves. In the character of the critical Professor Mr. Percy Marshall is often extremely droll, especially when, for the time being, he is transformed into a mule. To Mr. Holman Clark falls the lot of representing Fakrash-el-Aamash, the genie liberated from the bottle, and his acting at times impresses onlookers as much by its weirdness as by its broad fun. Mr. Rudge Harding's Spencer Pringle is an amusing representation, and the actor succeeds in getting on the best of terms with the audience. Another interesting representation is that of Samuel Wackerbath, effectively sustained by Mr. Luigi Lablache. The Rapkin of Mr. Harry Norton is funny throughout. Miss Lena Halliday is a pleasing Mrs. Futvoye, the mother of Sylvia Futvoye, the latter part finding an artistic exponent in Miss Viva Birkett. Miss Mary Brough as Mrs. Rapkin makes a decidedly attractive landlady; and others in the cast include Miss Armine Grace, Miss Gladys Storey, Miss Meda de Burgh, Mr. A. Spencer, and Mr. Vincent Holman. The scenery and costumes contribute to a completeness of representation which cannot fail to command success.

THE PAVILION.
On Monday, May 16, the Drama entitled
"TOMMY ATKINS."

A stock season was inaugurated at the Pavilion on Monday, many of the favourites of former years, including Mr. Ashley Page and Miss Marion Denvil, figuring in the company. The play chosen was that fine military drama Tommy Atkins, which had a hearty reception from the largest audience that has gathered at this theatre for a long period. Great credit is due to Mr. Ashley Page for his artistic impersonation of Harold Wilson; Mr. Fred Rivers, as Captain Maitland, avails himself fully of the opportunities afforded in the character; Sergeant Paddy Molloy is acted with much humour by Mr. Allan Carruthers; Mr. Watty Brunton, as Ebenezer Skindle, makes himself one of the favourites of the evening; Mr. Arthur Estcourt is good as Stephen Raymond; Miss Barbara Bateman wins applause as Elsie Wilson; Miss Phyllis Orme acts creditably as Margaret Maitland; and Miss Nellie James makes an excellent Kate Perkins. Miss Marion Denvil plays the part of Ruth Raymond's daughter to perfection, the applause she gains being spontaneous and hearty. Over a hundred auxiliaries were employed in the production. These included military band, soldiers, and choristers. During the course of the season standard melodramas are to be produced.

THE BRIXTON.
On Monday, May 16, the Drama, entitled
"THE SCALES OF JUSTICE."

Mr. Fred. Melville has inaugurated a short stock season, and an admirable start was made on Bank Holiday, when a large house gave a warm welcome to the above drama. The company selected are all useful and clever artists, and, under the direction of Mr. Newman Maurice, the resident-manager, the production was most praiseworthy. Mr. Maurice resumes his original character of Tom Wilkins, and his efforts in the low comedy line are provocative of much laughter; Mr. Herbert Godard is a thoroughly typical representative of Captain Duncan; and Mr. Reggie St. John is good as Captain Tom Duncan. Mr. Charles Dickens deserves warm praise for his spirited acting as Harry Maxwell; Miss Marie Duncan (an old Brixton favourite) being seen to every advantage in the dual parts of Mary Maxwell and Jenny Maxwell. Mr. Harry Sims does good work as Jack Breeze; Mr. W. H. Porter must be commended for his acting as Antonia Cordova; and Mr. Vincent Loraine is a praiseworthy Don Juan. Smithson is well played by Mr. G. Dobson; Miss Eleanor Kinross is effective as Inez Cordova; Miss May Day is a pleasing and popular Polly; and Miss Rosie Elmore makes a pretty child as Jenny. The Scales of Justice is well mounted, a brass band adding to the realism of the production. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. William T. Gliddon, excellently played the incidental and some rousing entracte music.

THE SHAKESPEARE.
On Monday, May 16, the Musical Play, in Two Acts, entitled
"OUR MISS GIBBS."

The popular musical play Our Miss Gibbs is delighting enthusiastic audiences here. In the matter of mounting there is little to be desired, and Mr. Dance's company wear new and beautiful dresses; Miss Elfie Vincent makes a charming appearance in the title-rôle, and her spirited acting and accomplished singing are warmly applauded; Miss Lilian Birtles' bright and engaging performance of Lady Elizabeth Thanet wins for her scores of admirers; and Miss Imlay is a capable representative of the haughty Duchess of Minster; an excellent piece of acting is contributed by Miss Florence Hylton as Mrs. Farquhar; and Miss Ellaline Thorne is thoroughly satisfactory in the part of Mme. Jeanne. The three Irish colleens have vivacious representatives in Miss Mollie Cole, Miss Nora Neile, and Miss Olga Grey. Mr. Vincent Erne as Timothy Gibbs is irresistibly droll, and his quaint antics keep the audience in a continual state of merriment; Mr. Frank Sealey humorously enacts the rôle of the amateur criminal, the Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint; receiving excellent support from Mr. J. S. Durant as Slithers. Mr. Ernest Darrell merits praise for his earnest portrayal of the Earl of St. Ives, and Mr. F. Coleman as Mr. Toplady is very efficient; Mr. Crawford Kent is a gallant and dashing Lord Eynsford; and Mr. David Miller as Mr. Beavis and Mr. Campbell Browne as Mr. Amalfy are capable exponents of their respective parts. The augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Otto Manns.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.
On Monday, May 16, the Play, entitled
"THE SORROWS OF SATAN."

Mr. Charles Barnard has provided a strong, dramatic attraction for the holiday week in Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company presenting The Sorrows of Satan. In the character of Prince Lucio Rimanez, Mr. Arthur Hinton submits a most impressive study, playing throughout with an intensity which holds his audience at times almost spellbound; Mr. Travis Green gives a very capable reading of Geoffrey Tempest; and Mr. Arthur Beaufort is a mystical Amiel (Prince Lucio's servant); Mr. Arthur Lowry is seen to advantage as Lord Elton, infusing a good deal of humour into the character. Mr. David Allen as Morgensen, Mr. Frank Brunde as Bentham, and Mr. Harry Sidney as Ellis all contribute their aid towards the lighter scenes of the play. As the American heiress Diana Chesney, Miss Shirley Dalton is happily cast, and Miss Mabel Coleman is quite natural as the contented Mavis Clare. Miss Lelia Zillwood as Lady Sybil Elton is responsible for artistic acting, her death scene, in which she sees the devil mocking her for her frailty being a very fine performance. Minor characters are in safe keeping, and the drama is both well dressed and staged. Particular mention must be made of the scene representing the interior of Willowsmere Hall, which is an extremely fine example of the art of scene painting. The Bioscope at the end of each performance provides a good series of pictures.

THEATRE ROYAL, EDMONTON.
RE-OPENED ON MONDAY LAST.

Mr. Auguste Van Biene has spared no trouble in taking over the Theatre Royal, Edmonton, which was, it will be remembered, rebuilt some time ago by Frank Matcham and Co. The cosy little house seats just over a thousand playgoers, and has the advantage of a double licence. Of the latter fact the Van Biene Theatres Co. intend to take the fullest advantage. Mr. Edward Van Biene, who is in charge at Edmonton, assured our representative that every effort is to be made to get the best dramatic and musical comedy companies into the northern suburb. "In proof of this," said Mr. Van Biene, "I may state that we are fully booked until Easter next. Here are some of my contracts, which, as you know, are No. 1 attractions:—The Broken Melody, A Girl's Temptation, Driving a Girl to Destruction, The Still Alarm, Her Path of Sorrow, Can a Woman be Good? Her Secret Lover, Her Fatal Marriage, Hush Money, When London Sleeps, A Daughter of the Sea, Sexton Blake, Greed of Gold, Her One False Step, A Wrecker of Men, Where Angels Fear to Tread, The Life of a Showman, and Man and Wife.

"Yes, we shall have a pantomime, and one or two weeks will be devoted to high-class vaudeville, for—variety is charming, is it not?"

Since Monday last Mr. Morton Powell's A Girl's Temptation has been played to capacity houses, and Mr. Auguste Van Biene can be congratulated on a first-rate beginning at Edmonton.

The company engaged is an all-round excellent one, and gets straight to the hearts of the people with the moral of the story that "what is folly in a man is sin in a woman." Possibly it is in the second scene that excitement runs the highest when villainous Mark Klaw, intent on ruining pretty Kate Stirling, and afterwards to force her to marry him, lures Guy Warren, Kate's lover and husband to be, to London by means of a forged telegram, and then enters the bedchamber of the girl, chloroforms her, and is—just as he wanted it to be—discovered by Guy. The intense acting of Miss Gertrude Gilbert, in conjunction with that of Mr. Frank V. Fenn and Mr. Clifton Earle, makes this scene a triumph of realism. Edmonton first held its breath, yelled its loudest during the struggle—and a finely played one, too—between hero and villain, groaned with dismay when the circumstantial evidence went dead against the heroine, and could scarcely restrain its impatience for Act III., when it chortled with joy at the wrecking of the sweater's den. The comic element was excellently carried through by Mr. Freddie Bentley as Sammy Sniggles and Miss Amy Corallie as Jemima Jossap. Mr. Bentley is, if we mistake not, another in the list of Lancashire's fine roll-call of comedians. He is light, just gags enough, and one wants more of him.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.
On Monday, May 16, for the First Time in London, the Comedy-Drama in Four Acts, by A. B. Mackay, entitled
"THE GREATER SIN."

Greville Brayle ..... Mr. B. Finlay
Captain Nemo } Mr. A. B. Mackay
George Brayle }
Bertie Wilkins ..... Mr. Louis Newman
Constable Mike Maloney .... Mr. Jack Corlass
Pincher Jim ..... Mr. Arthur Leslie
Jules ..... Mr. J. Brough
Sneaky Baxter ..... Mr. L. Graham Hamlyn
Handsome Henry ..... Mr. J. Helpar
Kipper ..... Mr. W. Black
Little Dora ..... Master Cyril
Puggy Baxter ..... Mrs. Corlass
Peggy Perkins ..... Miss Trixie Leighton
Marcelle de Valcour ..... Miss Lillie Lewis
Dora Brayle ..... Miss Ida Mackay

Produced at Pontypridd on March 7 last, The Greater Sin; or, The Beginning and the End, has been since presented intermittently in the provinces, and on Whit Monday made its initial bow to a metropolitan audience at the Stratford Theatre Royal. The domestic interest strongly pervades the piece, and, probably under the impression that popular audiences like their tears intermingled with laughter, the author has provided a plentiful supply of comedy interludes, which, however, do not interfere much with the thread of the story The reception of the piece on the night of our visit was most cordial, and it should prove another winner for Mr. Mackay.

George Brayle and his brother Greville have only a few minutes separating the time of their birth, but this is sufficient for George to be heir to a fortune and Greville to be dependent on the other's bounty. Thus the latter rebels at Fate, and schemes to usurp his brother. He is secretly married to Marcelle de Valcour, and upon vowing that he will take her to England and there acknowledge their marriage, he persuades Marcelle to agree in accusing George of the paternity of her child. As she has very strong circumstantial evidence for this the plot succeeds, inasmuch as George's wife Dora believes in the accusation against her husband, and leaves him, taking their tiny daughter with her. Greville's fiendish plans look like succeeding beyond expectation when, after drugging his brother, he is about to murder him, but he is stayed in the act by Sneaky Baxter, who chances to be in the room on burglarious intent.

Twelve years now elapse. Greville Brayle is living in luxury, with the worthless Sneaky Baxter as hanger-on, while George Brayle, bent on clearing his good name, is disguised and known as Captain Nemo. The latter's wife, Dora, eke out a precarious livelihood for herself and her daughter with the aid of former staunch servants in Peggy Perkins and her sweetheart, Bertie Wilkins, and the further help of a good-hearted policeman, Mike Maloney. As for Marcelle, Greville Brayle has not only abandoned her, but has had her son abducted and turned on the streets and the wretched woman has lost her reason thereat. The final undoing of the miscreant Greville Brayle by the ever-watchful Captain Nemo sees the end of the story, for Marcelle regains her memory and confesses to the part she played in the plot, and the curtain falls on the felicitous reuniting of George and his wife and child.

The piece is well mounted, and is capitally played by Mr. Percy Norman's company under the direction of Mr. A. B. Mackay. Mr. Mackay is a manly and interesting exponent of George Brayle, and exhibits much resource in the various disguises he assumes. Mr. E. Finlay's impersonation of the despicable Greville Brayle, though a trifle ponderous in style, is a convincing exposition of gentlemanly blackguardism; and a lesser villain in Sneaky Baxter, who has a redeeming sense of humour, is played on sound lines by Mr. L. Graham Hamlyn. Mr. Louis Newman extracts unlimited mirth from the part of Bertie Wilkins, and his vocal contributions are enjoyed; while Mr. Jack Corlass contrives to become exceedingly popular as the generous constable, Mike Maloney. Miss Ida Mackay plays with sympathy, tact, and charm as Dora Brayle, and Miss Lillie Lewis acts with commendable restraint and much effectiveness as Marcelle de Valcour. Peggy Perkins is a vivacious and outspoken damsel in the hands of Miss Trixie Leighton, and the vicious hag Puggy Baxter is safely entrusted to Mrs. Corlass. Mr. W. Black makes a nimble and entertaining Kipper; Pincher Jim is well played by Mr. Arthur Leslie; and Mr. J. Brough as Jules, Mr. J. Helpar as Handsome Henry, and Master Cyril as Little Dora complete the cast.

FULHAM THEATRE.
Whitsun Monday, May 16, the Play, in Four Acts by E. M. Royle, entitled
"A WHITE MAN."

The Whitsun attraction is Mr. Sleath's excellent company in a fine full-blooded drama, partially laid in the Wild West. The artists play up with great vigour, and make things move. Mr. Wilfred Forster does very well as Jim Carston, and plays with power and pathos; Mr. W. F. Grant makes the most of the part of the cowardly Kerhill; and Mr. Richardson is amusing as Sir John Applegate. Mr. R. H. Brandon plays sympathetically as Big Bill, and scores a success; while Mr. G. Valentine, Mr. A. Munro, and Mr. Jay Ellis give careful sketches of three types of character, as the cowpunchers. Mr. Eric Hudson is again in the rôle of Tabywena, and repeats an inimitable performance; and Mr. Louis Ashmeade is a very amusing Dean Trentham. Mr. Frank Mayo is vigorous and "lurid" as Cash Hawkins; Mr. A. E. Warren is good as the bar-tender Nick; and Mr. Ray Raymond acts strongly as the Sheriff. Miss Kathleen Maude makes a charming Countess of Kerhill; and Miss Nora Nagle plays prettily as the child Hal. The part of Nat-u-ritch is powerfully interpreted by Miss Hilda Barita. All the other parts were ably filled and smoothly played, and helped to give the necessary colour and life to the piece.

NEW LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.
On Monday, May 16, the Drama entitled
"WHEN A LASS LOVES."

Mr. Tom Craven has presented his excellent company, including Mr. Louis Palgrave in his original part, in the detective melodrama When a Lass Loves. Mr. Craven, the author of the play, announces that it consists of passages from the life of a famous lady detective. The part of Caleb Crass, a lawyer, is ably filled by Mr. Franc Stoney; and Mr. Anthony Greig as a Scotch millionaire and head of an American "Trust" well interprets his part. The heavy lead is ably undertaken by Mr. P. Ramsey Foreman in the guise of Bertram Bridge, a swell cracksman and card sharper; and the rôle of Cynthia Bridge, known as Mrs. Anthony Greig, is adequately dealt with by Miss Rita Trekelle, who works with energy and crispness. Mr. Reginald Stephens as Dr. Alan Crass, son of Caleb Crass, acts with spirit and energy, and does not fail to win the sympathy and admiration of the house. As Slack, the office boy, Mr. Louis Palgrave is remarkably good and irresistibly funny. Mr. H. Ainger acts admirably as Calvin Chase, of Scotland Yard. Considerable humour marks the work of Mr. George F. Ide as Reggie Stapleton, the solicitor's clerk with histrionic aspirations, and of Miss Ella Dixon as Nina May, an Anglo-American chorus girl. The part of Constance Lane, an ex-lady detective, is dealt with by Miss Josephine Middleton, who is admirably suited to the rôle; the change from the hard ex-lady detective to the gentle lover demands no small amount of skill, and the transition is faultlessly managed. The remaining characters have been suitably allotted to Miss Dorothy Maude, Mr. Jack Arthur, Mr. R. Strete, and Mr. L. Fass.

THE KENNINGTON.
On Monday, May 16, the Drama, entitled
"A WOMAN'S REVENGE."

Mr. Robert Arthur opened his summer season of melodrama at the Kennington Theatre on Whit Monday, when a bumper house assembled to witness the revival of A Woman's Revenge, one of the most interesting and absorbing of Mr. Henry Pettitt's works. The scenery is exceedingly well done, Mr. McKie having put in some of his best work in a couple of the scenes, viz., The Marine Hotel at Lynton and Chilton Villa, whilst Mr. E. W. Martin, the Kennington resident artist, has arranged quite a faithful reproduction of the interior of the Old Bailey for the great trial scene. Miss Jessie Winter carried off the honours on Monday by a remarkably vivid portrayal of the part of Mary Lonsdale, the heroine. Miss Winter is an actress of much grace and charm, and she won all hearts by her sympathetic acting. Mr. C. F. Collings is a manly and stalwart hero as Frank Drummond, scoring his biggest triumph by his courageous defence of his wife, a very fine piece of acting. Mr. Frank H. Crimp, fresh from the realms of musical comedy, makes an excellent Sir John Blacklock, the prosecuting counsel; and Mr. Herbert Lloyd is a dignified judge. Mr. Fred Morgan, the heavy lead, gives a realistic sketch of Jeptha Grimwade, the unscrupulous lawyer, and his efforts are ably seconded by Mr. Frank Robertson as Robert Overstone. The lighter side of the play is in the able hands of Mr. Maitland Marler as Jack Chilton and Miss Vita Spencer as Lottie Bromley, and they create a lot of fun. Miss Elsie Videau scores a distinct success as Little Mary. As Mabel Wentworth, the revengeful adventuress, Miss Winifred Whyte acts with a good deal of spirit. Miss Marie Clayton as Maggie Westward and Mr. G. F. Poison as John Overstone fill their respective rôles with credit; and others who deserve mention are Mr. Leslie Ferguson (Clerk of Arraigns), Mr. Bertram Blanch (Court Usher), Leslie Clifton (Waiter), and Howard Bart (Boots). The orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Julian Nelson, who has arranged the incidental music.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, May 16, the Play entitled
"PETE."

A full house on Monday evening last testified to the attractiveness of the fare provided for the holiday week, and the new version of Mr. Hall Caine's notable novel was received with hearty expressions of approbation. The play is excellently mounted and admirably interpreted by well-selected and talented artists, who spare themselves no pains in their endeavours to submit realistic portraits of their respective characters. Mr. Frederick Victo offers a fine performance in the title-rôle, his Pete being convincing and manly, and characterised by a judicious blending of lightness and pathos; Kate Cregeen is delicately and feelingly portrayed by Miss Constance Bachner, who displays considerable ability, and is warmly received; Mr. Alfred Lugg does ample justice to the part of Philip Christian; Mr. Maurice York is also successful as Ross Christian; Cæsar Cregeen is capably undertaken by Mrs. Ellis J. Preston; Miss May Wright is good as Granny; Miss Alys Eden offers a well-rendered study of Nancy; and Mary, Meg, and Anne have capital exponents in Miss Amy Venimore, Miss May Yardley, and Miss Lucy Raymond respectively. Able assistance is also rendered by Mr. J. Lingard (Black Tom), Mr. Will L. Clement (Jonaique Jelly), Mr. R. A. Robinson (Kelly), Mr. Wenlock Brown (William), Mr. Frank Allen (Niplightly), Mr. R. Sinclair (Dr. Mylechreest), Mr. Wilfred Edmunds (Lord Lieutenant), Mr. Charles Arthur (Mayor), Mr. William Davies (Adam Quirk), Mr. Alfred Davidson (Johnny Dumbell), and Mr. Herbert Ponton (Clerk of the Court).

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.
On Monday, May 16, the Drama entitled
"THE COAL KING."

Attracted on Whit-Monday by a soul-stirring play which is brimful of dramatic incidents and interesting situations, a large crowd showed their keen appreciation, and gave a flattering reception to The Coal King, which is written by Mr. Ernest Martin and Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn, and played by Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's judiciously chosen company. The drama is well mounted, and the numerous comedy portions of the play occasion much hilarity. Sir Reginald Harford, J.P., the good-natured and wealthy Coal King, is capably undertaken by Mr. A. W. Norman, who imbues the impersonation with sincerity and feeling. Mr. Henry Deane as Tom Roberts, the mine manager achieves distinction. Mr. Robert Faulkner, in the character of Walter Harford, plans his villainous schemes with clever sang-froid, and exercises a marked effect. Mr. Sam Roberts, who contributes a mirthful study of Jim Williams, a collier, has strong claims on the popular favour, and draws many a hearty laugh. Mr. Frank Dalton merits commendation as Dick Shirley. Miss Winifred Love makes a dainty Grace Shirley. Miss Dennis Duncan, who is happily suited in the part of Mad Ann, provides a powerful and dramatic characterisation. Miss Effie D. Crawford as Araminta Green is an amusing and lively parlourmaid. Mr H. K. Williamson, Mr. Angus Hall, Mr. Albert E. Handley, Mr. Edward Fortune, Mr. Frederick Wade, Mr. Robert Derwent, and Miss Lucy Cator give due assistance in their respective rôles.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.
On Monday, May 16, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"THE ARCADIANS."

Few bookings during recent years have been more popular at the Kingston playhouse than this charming musical play, which has been drawing crowded audiences to each performance. The story, which is fresh, and the music, which is most tuneful, have captivated every visitor to the theatre, and Mr. Peter Davey, the managing-director, has been complimented by many patrons upon bringing the show to the riverside town. A most capable company is engaged in the representation of the play. The low comedy work is in the hands of Mr. C. A. Stephenson and Mr. Alfred Beers, the former of whom appears in the dual rôle of the caterer, Smith, and the Arcadian Simplicitas, the latter as the jockey. Both are immensely amusing, and keep the house in roars of laughter. Mr. Arthur S. Macdonald also makes a good impression as Jack Meadows; Miss Sybil Tancredi, who appears as Sombra, has installed herself as a favourite for her fine singing; and favours have also been bestowed upon Miss Molly McIntyre, who appears as Eileen Cavanagh; Miss Violet Roberts, who impersonates Crysea; and Miss Gertrude Aylward, who plays the part of Mrs. Smith. The rest of the company have been all carefully selected, and it is needless to add that every care has been bestowed upon the dressing and the staging of the production.

OPERA AT HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

"TALES OF HOFFMAN"
Offenbach (in English).

Olympia ..... Miss Nora D'Argel
Guilietta ..... Miss Zélie de Lussan
Antonia ..... Miss Ruth Vincent
A Voice ..... Miss Carrie Tubb
Nicklausse ..... Miss Muriel Terry
Spallanzani ..... Mr. Dennis Byndon-Ayres
Nathanael ..... Mr. Arthur Royd
Crespel ..... Mr. Alfred Kaufmann
Luther ..... Mr. Frederick Ranalow
Cocciniglia } Mr. John Bardsley
Petichinaccio }
Franz }
Copelio } Mr. Frederic Austin
Dapertutto }
Mirakel }
Hermann ..... Mr. Robert Veevers
Schlemil ..... Mr. Robert Radford
Hoffmann ..... Mr. John Coates
Conductor, Mr. Thomas Beecham.

Mr. Thomas Beecham's season of light opera in English at His Majesty's Theatre commenced on Thursday evening, May 12, and to judge by the well-filled house, with every prospect of success. The opera chosen for the opening night was Offenbach's Tales of Hoffmann, in many respects a delightful work, with a quaint, original libretto and sparkling music, which, when performed by the Berlin Oper. Komeiche company at the Adelphi Theatre some three years ago, aroused considerable interest. There are three acts, a prologue, and epilogue in Offenbach's opera, and the prologue takes place in M. Luther's Cellar, Nuremberg, where Hoffmann relates to some boon companions the story of his three loves. In the first act we are introduced to Olympia, an automaton lady invented by Spallanzani, an amusing old gentleman, who gives Hoffmann a pair of glasses which endow everything with life. Looking through these, Hoffmann at once falls in love with the doll Olympia. Guilietta's Palace in Venice is the scene of the second act. Giulietta, a courtesan, is the next object of Hoffmann's affections, but she already has a lover, one Schlemil, and as her aim is to obtain souls for Dapertutto, she contrives a duel between the lovers, and Schlemil is killed. Guilietta scorns Hoffmann's love and departs. In the third act Hoffmann transfers his love to Antonia, a consumptive girl endowed with a very beautiful voice. Antonia yearns to be a great prima donna, but singing would endanger her life, and so she yields to Hoffmann, and gives up all ambitious dreams. Unfortunately, a certain Dr. Mirakel, of evil disposition, prevails on her to sing, and the result is fatal. Mr. John Coates as Hoffmann sang throughout with marked ability. The drinking song in the second act was delivered with splendid spirit, and the pathetic music in the closing scene given most expressively. Miss Ruth Vincent also made a great impression by her fine rendering of Antonia's music, and the deep feeling she imparted to the charming love duet. As Olympia Miss Nora D'Argel deserved praise for her performance of the bright, effective scena; while that experienced artist, Mme. Zélie de Lussan, gave a picturesque embodiment of the heartless Guilietta. Miss Muriel Terry was an excellent Nicklausse, and sang and acted capitally; while Mr. Dennis Byndon-Ayres gave a comic account of old Spallanzani. Of the three characters played by Mr. Frederic Austin, the best was Dr. Mirakel. Smaller parts were ably filled by Messrs. Arthur Royd, Alfred Kaufmann, F. Ranalow, John Bardsley, Robert Veevers, Robert Radford, and Miss Carrie Tubb. The opera was handsomely mounted, and a beautiful picture shown of Guilietta's palace at Venice, with moonlight on the Grand Canal. The well-known barcarolle was ably sung, and Mr. Thomas Beecham most skilfully conducted an excellent orchestra.

On Saturday afternoon, May 14, Mr. Beecham's company gave Humperdinck's charming opera, Hänsel and Gretel, under the conductorship of Mr. Hamish MacCunn. Miss Muriel Terry and Miss Ruth Vincent played the youthful hero and heroine with rare ability and spirit; Mr. Harry Dearth and Miss Christine D'Almayne as the Father and Mother were alike excellent; and Miss Carrie Tubb gave a strikingly weird study of the Witch. The Sandman and Dewman songs were ably sung by Miss Carmen Hill and Miss Betty Booker. The forest music was beautifully played and the scenery artistic.

"MAKE-BELIEVE."

A Comedietta, in One Act, by E. R. Rackstraw and W. Muskerry, Produced at the Theatre Royal, Margate, on Monday, May 16.

Robert Veevers ..... Mr. Dudley Stuart
Dolly Veevers ..... Miss Ida Chapman
Rags and Bones ..... Mr. Escott Robson
Sarah ..... Miss Cissy Sephton

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At its introductory presentation, before a matinée audience at the Theatre Royal on Whit Monday, the above comedietta was accorded a flattering reception. It is a pretty, brightly written little play, in which humour and sentiment are judiciously combined. Robert Veevers is a struggling journalist, who has fallen upon evil days. Encouraged by his charming young wife, Dolly, he has gone on hoping for the best, but they are now on the verge of poverty. The raison d'être of the play is furnished by an old man occupying a room on the top floor, who, because of his poverty-stricken appearance, has been known as "Rags and Bones." With all his poverty, he has never been but cheerful, always whistling and always seemingly free from any of the cares of the world. One day Dolly asked him the secret of his cheerfulness, and his answer was that "it was all make-believe." His motto was "make believe you had a thing and it would be just the same as if you had it; make believe, and you would be as happy as the birds of the air." "Let us," Dolly suggests to her husband, "make-believe for our last night together that we are rich and happy. I will be Lady Clara de Vere, and we will invite the Marquis of Calabar to dine with us." Robert enters into the spirit of the jest. An invitation is issued in due form, the menu for a "make-believe" banquet is prepared, and Sarah, the general-servant, is instructed in her make-believe duties. The "banquet" takes place, the host and hostess doing the honours of the table with becoming dignity, and the situation being as seriously accepted by the Marquis ("Rags and Bones"). The only thing that Dolly has not been able to substitute for the real thing is the music, for which Paderewski had been mentioned, and going to the piano she suggests filling in the blank herself, but with a few bars of "Home, Sweet Home," utterly breaks down. Both Dolly and her husband declare that the "make-believe" had not been a success after all. To their astonishment "Rags and Bones" announces that he is not poor but rich, that he had scraped and saved for a daughter who was now dead, and that in Dolly his daughter lived again on earth, and should have his wealth.

Mr. Dudley Stuart as Robert Veevers gave a careful study of the despondent journalist, and the manner in which he enters into the make-believe rôle of lordly host is most truthful and natural. No less successful was the Dolly of Miss Ida Chapman. The character was brightly and effectively played, with a charm of manner which was irresistible. Mr. Escott Robson played "Rags and Bones" with marked ability, enacting the mock Marquis with an assumption of dignity that was extremely funny. Miss Cissy Sephton made an ideal lodging-house slavey, keeping the audience highly amused.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

LONDON and provincial theatrical managers and actors and actresses have not been behindhand in making a final manifestation of that respectful admiration and affection which they one and all bore to the dead monarch, King Edward VII. Hundreds of beautiful floral tributes from individual members of the profession have been sent to Windsor, we were informed by an official at the Earl Marshal's office yesterday. An official list of the wreaths sent was unobtainable at the time of going to press, but from unofficial sources we learn that Sir Herbert and Lady Tree's wreath is a magnificent one of gold arum lilies and iris, with the inscription: "But He knoweth the way I take. When He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold. The floral tribute, "From the Actors and Actresses of London," is a huge construction of the choicest lilies, orchids, and laurel leaves. The senders add a notification to the effect that the offering is "in token of the profound feeling of grief occasioned by the King's death, and of the senders' deep sense of gratitude for all he did to encourage the English stage."

MANY tributes have also been forwarded from individual theatres, notably from the Lyric, where the stage hands begged of Mr. Lewis Waller, as a personal favour to themselves, that to them might be entrusted the task of designing and arranging the wreath, modelled on the lines of a huge St. George's shield. Miss Phyllis Broughton has sent a large chaplet of palms, with cluster of palm-leaves and scarlet carnations, tied with a wide scarlet ribbon. The inscription reads: "A small offering of loyal devotion and truly sorrowful regret at the loss of the good and noble life of our beloved King Edward, with deep and respectful sympathy."

SIR SQUIRE AND LADY BANCROFT sent a charming wreath of lilies and ferns, with the words: "In humble and dutiful remembrance of a great King and a kind friend." Another magnificent tribute was that which bore the words: "A token of my profound and respectful sorrow and heartfelt sympathy, from Adelina Patti-Cederström. Craig-y-Nos Castle." The wreath was composed of lilies and dark blue iris, and was in the form of a shield. Madame Melba chose a large spray of Waratah, better known here as Australian bottle brush, tied with gold gauze, illustrative of the gold of the Commonwealth.

A PILLOW of gardenias, lilies of the valley, and other choice white flowers, with a large cluster of red roses at one corner, and the words "At Rest" worked in the same coloured roses in the centre was sent from the New Theatre. The inscription read: "To our late beloved King Edward VII., as a tribute from his mourning loyal subjects at the New Theatre."

WE are informed that among the official bodies who have sent wreaths are the Society of West End Theatre Managers (a harp of bay leaves, orchids, and lilies), the Actors' Association, and the United Guild of Showmen of Great Britain, the last-named forwarding a cross of white flowers, with magnificent orchids. At the foot was inscribed, "A tribute of love and loyalty, from showmen throughout the Empire, to their gracious Sovereign, patron, and friend, King Edward VII." On another page will be found a photograph of the beautiful wreath which was sent to Buckingham Palace by the members of the Variety Artists' Federation. It was made up of gladioli, carnations, roses, lilies and orchids, and Parma violets.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ALEXANDER'S wreath bore the inscription, "A tribute of loyal and respectful devotion from his obedient and grateful servants." Mr. Martin Harvey sent a wreath of bay leaves, with white heather.

MR. FORBES ROBERTSON at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, on Friday night, May 6, made a brief but appropriate and touching allusion to the death of his Majesty after the second act of The Passing of the Third Floor Back. Subsequent to several recalls, he said: "Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have an announcement to make to you that I am sure you will receive with respectful silence. Mr. Solman and I have agreed that, in consequence of the passing away of our great King, there will be no performances of this play to-morrow." The following telegram was sent by Mr. Forbes Robertson to the Governor-General: "To his Excellency Earl Grey, Government House, Rideau Hall, Ottawa.—Am shocked at news of his Majesty's death, and am sure it would be in accordance with your Excellency's wish that we should close the Royal Alexandra Theatre for both performances to-morrow. Unfortunately the news was received too late to do so to-night. Sincerest sympathies in our national sorrow."

SIR CHARLES WYNDHAM and Miss Mary Moore will reappear at the Criterion on June 1 in a revival of The Case of Rebellious Susan. Sir Charles Wyndham and Miss Moore will resume their old parts of Sir Richard Kato and Lady Susan Harabin, and Mr. Alfred Bishop, Mr. Sam Sothern, Mr. Charles Quartermaine, Mr. Reginald Walter, Mr. Leslie Hamer, Miss Marie Illington, and Miss Ellis Jeffreys will also be in the cast.

MR. FORBES ROBERTSON returned to London from New York on Monday after a season of over seven consecutive months with The Passing of the Third Floor Back. At the direct invitation of Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, Mr. Forbes Robertson visited Toronto, where £1,000 had to be refunded owing to the cancelling, on account of the King's death, of the last two performances. Mr. Forbes Robertson will reopen in New York on Sept. 26, and will probably be on tour for two years in the United States.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY will preside at the sixty-fifth annual dinner of the Royal General Theatrical Fund at the Hotel Metropole on Sunday, June 12.

INSURANCE against actors marrying is the latest from America. According to the New York Dramatic Mirror Messrs. Cohan and Harris are applying to Lloyd's for a £10,000 policy against the possibility of Mr. John Barrymore, the "matinée idol," who is appearing in The Fortune Hunter in America, getting married. "For the purpose of obtaining the insurance," says the Dramatic Mirror, "Mr. Barrymore has made affidavits declaring he is not at present engaged and that he is not contemplating matrimony."

A MERE insurance policy, however, is not going to prevent Mr. Barrymore from marrying if he meets the right girl and she says "Yes." "If I meet her, and she will have me," he said, in an interview, "not fifty thousand dollars nor fifty million will deter me from leading her to the altar. I come from a marrying family, and I think that if Lloyd's write this policy they will take a bad risk. Personally, I think that an artist is injured in his work by marriage, but I consider a home and children the greatest things in the world, and superior to the finest art whatever. Marriage is a duty, but art to the artist is a more or less selfish pleasure."

THE annual service of the Actors' Church Union will be held at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, on Sunday, June 5, at 4 p.m. The preacher will be the Rev. F. L. Boyd, Vicar of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge. All members of the theatrical and music-hall professions are invited.

MR. PERCY HUTCHISON concludes a long tour of Brewster's Millions this evening at the Opera House, Blackpool, and opens his summer season at the Opera House, Southport, early in June, with a répertoire of London successes, in which he will play the lead. Amongst the big London stars who, as lessee and manager, Mr. Hutchison has booked at Southport this year is Sir Herbert Tree, and that eminent actor will open with His Majesty's Theatre company next Monday evening, the house for this visit having been sold out for days.

THE report of the Bath Theatre Royal Company, Ltd., to be presented at an ordinary general meeting on Friday next, states that the gross income for the past year was £630 13s. 7d., which amount added to the balance from last year makes a total of £729 13s. 9d. The profit for the year is £350 5s. 10d.; and after putting aside £28 4s. for depreciation on landlord's plant and fixtures, the directors recommend the payment of a dividend of 2s. per share, thus leaving a balance of £119 9s. 10d. to be carried forward to the credit of next year's account.

M. JEAN COQUELIN was married on Thursday to Mlle. Blanche Miroir. Among those who signed the register were M. Edmond Rostand and the bridegroom's partner in the management of the Porte Saint Martin Theatre, M. Hertz. The wedding was a quiet one.

THE secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund gratefully acknowledges from Mr. Martin Harvey a further sum of £3 15s., which Mr. Harvey has kindly devoted to the Fund, having collected the amounts by means of his autograph.

LADY TREE, Miss Mary Moore, and Mrs. George Alexander, have joined the Women's Aerial League, of which Mr. Frank Marshall is the Hon. Publicist. The offices of the League are at 227, Strand. Mrs. Watt Smyth is the Hon. Sec., and the Assistant Secretary is Miss Beatrice Fry.

THE Glasgow Repertory Theatre concludes its spring season at the end of next week, but the management have determined upon a summer season, following immediately after. Mr. Alfred Wareing, the managing-director, has made a selection of comedies, farcical and otherwise, for this purpose, and hopes, by providing a lighter type of play suited to the summer weather to retain his patrons throughout the year.

MR. H. RALPH KIMPTON, who has been stage-manager for the Glasgow Repertory Theatre since August last, leaves that city this week to resume his duties in a similar capacity with Miss Lena Ashwell's London productions. He has proved an excellent stage-manager during his stay in the North, and his Glasgow friends will miss him. Mr. Kimpton is at present carrying one arm in a sling, having injured his thumb at a football match the other day.

MR. GEORGE GRAVES, who has been for a trip to Ceylon, will return to London at the end of next month.

AT the twenty-fifth examination for Associateship of the Royal College of Music, held between April 18 and 22, 198 of the 384 candidates examined were successful in obtaining the number of marks fixed for passing. The subjects embraced composition, theory, pianoforte (teaching and solo), singing (teaching and public), organ, violin, violoncello, flute, hautboy, and horn, and many of the students passed in two departments. The remotest parts of the world were represented at the examination, candidates hailing from Bloemfontein, Melbourne, New Zealand, and Canada.

MR. HENRY HALLATT, who has just concluded two tours as Prince Maurice in Messrs. Hallatt and Howard's Her Love Against the World company, has been engaged for the autumn by Messrs. Paumier and Howard to play Prince Olaf in Walter Howard's great Lyceum success, The Prince and the Beggar Maid.

MR. MATTHEW BOULTON will shortly conclude a starring engagement with Mr. Henry Miller's Adelphi Theatre company in The Servant in the House. Mr. Boulton has scored a great artistic success in the part of Manson, his performance creating a deep impression in every town visited.

WE regret to learn that Miss Babs Stuart is seriously ill with peritonitis, and will be obliged to relinquish her part in Are You a Mason? for at least three weeks. She is at present at 8, Trinity-place, Halifax.

MISS ADA D. HATCHWELL has acquired the English rights of an original episode entitled Mrs. Bluebeard, by Mr. Frank Hawthorne, which she intends shortly to produce.

ON account of the Royal funeral arrangements for yesterday Messrs. Stedman postponed their Students' Entertainment, announced to take place on the 21st inst., until Saturday evening next, when will be presented a variety concert and recital consisting of selections from Florodora, School for Scandal, and As You Like It, interspersed with songs, dances, and recitations. Admission is by invitation only, tickets being obtainable on application at Windmill House, Great Windmill Street, W.

MR. LAWRENCE COWAN, on Monday night after the performance of Tommy Atkins at the Pavilion Theatre, on behalf of a number of friends, presented Mr. J. W. Rosenthal with a diamond ring and an illuminated address as a token of their appreciation and goodwill of his friends in the theatre. Mr. J. W. Rosenthal, in response, said he was quite sure the audience that night witnessed a most magnificent production of Tommy Atkins, and it was his aim to keep the theatre a great success. He also spoke highly of Mr. Fred Brown (the acting-manager), who had most of the engaging of the artists, and of Mr. Frank Harrison (the producer), and thanked them for their hearty co-operation.

ON board the R.M.S. Arabic, which arrived from New York on Monday, were Mrs. Ian Robertson, Miss Robertson, Miss Maud Hodson, Mr. C. A. Millward, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Petley.

"FORESTERS' NIGHT" at the Aston Theatre Royal, was celebrated on Thursday, May 12, when there was a gathering representative of the local branch of the order, including the High Chief and numerous other officials. In addition to the performance of the drama Love the Conqueror, by Mr. Frank Lindo's company, an enjoyable programme, consisting of songs, recitations, &c., was provided by Mr. Frank Lindo, Mr. Pat Cohen, Mr. Albert Starkey, and Mr. Alf. Wright. Owing to the death of King Edward VII. there was no speechmaking, the only formal part of the proceedings being the presentation of a basket of flowers to Miss Marion Wakeford, a leading actress in Mr. Lindo's company, the gift being handed to her by Mr. Cursley, secretary of the Order of Foresters, on behalf of the members. The theatre orchestra, which was augmented for the occasion, under the conductorship of Mr. George Daw, rendered "Lohengrin," "Tannhäuser," and the overture "Light Cavalry" during the evening. The Mayor of Aston, Ald. A. Taylor, was unavoidably absent.

THE Matinée Musicale of the Actresses' Franchise League (originally fixed for May 10) will take place at the Grand Hall, Criterion Restaurant, on Tuesday. Amongst the artists appearing will be Mr. Sam Walsh, Miss Lena Ashwell, Madame Alice Esty, Miss Decima Moore, Miss Fanny Wentworth, Miss Helen Mar, Mr. Ben Webster, Mr. James Welch, Miss Maggie Davies, Mr. Henry Ainley, Miss Aida Jenoure, Miss Kathleen Starling, Miss Florence Castelle, Mr. Percy French, Mr. H. V. Esmond, and Miss Cecilia Loftus. Miss Maud Hoffman and Mr. Laurence Leyton will give a duologue, and Miss Eva Moore and Mr. C. V. France will appear in a new play.

MR. CHARLES DANVERS has been engaged as principal comedian by Mr. Oswald Stoll for the Sims-Pettitt dramas at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, répertoire season, and is appearing successfully as Tom Dossitter in The Harbour Lights; Tom Bassett in In the Ranks, and similar parts in Master and Man, Hands Across the Sea, The Bells of Haslemere, &c.

MESSRS. GILLOWS will sell at 13, Portland-place, on Tuesday, May 24, and the three following days, the valuable antique furniture and works of art constituting the collection of the late Sir William Q. Orchardson, R.A., and including choice examples of Queen Anne, Sheraton, Chippendale, Adam, Louis XV. and XVI, and Empire furniture, fine tapestry panels, Aubusson carpets, embroideries, antique lace, armour, Nankin china, Hispano-Moresque, Early English drinking glass, silver and old Sheffield plate, and an interesting collection of oil paintings, original cartoons, and studies by the late artist. Theatrical buyers will be specially attracted by his collection of costumes of various periods, which were carefully chosen and very numerous.

MISS IDA MOLESWORTH and Mr. Mark Blow's Little Damozel company finishes a successful spring tour at the New Theatre, Cardiff, to-night. The autumn tour starts early in July, when The Little Damozel will visit all the No. 1 towns.

MR. MARK BLOW finishes to-night at the Prince's, Bristol, as Rudolf in The Prisoner of Zenda, and will take a few weeks' holiday before starting rehearsals for The Naked Truth, which begins a long tour on August Bank Holiday. So great is the demand for dates for this play that probably two companies will have to be sent out.

MR. E. J. PRESTON, who has just concluded three very successful tours with Messrs. Smith and Carpenter's Lyceum production of Pete (N.) as business manager, has been engaged by Messrs. Moss and Stoll as stage-manager and producer for their forthcoming stock season at the Broadway, New Cross, commencing on May 30.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BERESFORD (Miss Dorothy Milne) are concluding to-day a twenty weeks' tour as George and Marion Thornton in Two Little Vagabonds, under the Lyceum Theatre management.

MR. WYN WEAVER who has so long been associated with Mr. H. T. Maltby and his plays, has been engaged by Miss Cora Busch to support Mr. G. W. Anson as Sam Gerridge.

THE Hutchison management send on tour this autumn no less than seven companies of the latest successes from the West End theatres, produced by Mr. Percy Hutchison, and he will also appear in two new plays before the end of this year.

THE national play, The Memory of the Dead, a romantic drama of '98, by Casimir Dunin Markievicz, is to be presented by the Independent Dramatic Company at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, on Monday.

AN Irish opera, written in the native tongue and set to characteristic music, was produced at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, on Monday. The work is entitled Eithne, and the libretto is by Thomas O'Kelly, the music by Robert O'Dwyer. The story is mythical, and tells how the High King of Erin's favourite hound is killed, an act that is apparently regarded as murder. The King's son is accused of the deed by his step-brothers, but is saved from banishment by the intervention of his foster-mother, who fixes the guilt on the proper parties. The opera was sung by distinguished vocalists, the part of the King being rendered by Mr. William Dever, and that of his son by Mr. Joseph O'Mara. The title-rôle was played by Miss Evelyn Duffy. A large audience enthusiastically applauded the production.

"AISSE," a play in three acts, by Alice Clayton Greene, was produced for copyright purposes at the Court Theatre on May 13.

THE matinée at the Court Theatre arranged for May 23 has been postponed until May 27. The cast of the first item, A Likely Story, a roadside comedy, by Laurence Housman, will include Mr. Leon M. Lion, Mr. Maurice Elvey, Miss Margaret Bussé, and Miss Decima Moore. In The Lord of the Harvest, a morality, by Laurence Housman, Mr. Robert Farquharson, Miss Bessie Hatton, Mr. James Horn, Mr. Maurice Elvey, Mr. Leon M. Lion, Mr. A. V. Bramble, and Mrs. Jopling Rowe will appear; and in Miss Rose Mathews's piece, The Smack, parts will be sustained by Mr. Laurence Leyton, Miss Aimée de Burgh, Mr. James Gelderd, and Miss Christine Rayner. Greek and Irish songs and dances will be done by Misses Spong.

ONE of the most interesting items in the Whitsunday afternoon concert at the Palace Pier Pavilion, Brighton, was the Helen and Modus scene from The Hunchback presented by Mr. Walter Pearce and Miss Ella Erskine, the accomplished actress-authoress. So successful was this excerpt from Sheridan Knowles that it was repeated at the evening concert. Miss Erskine will be playing a leading part on May 30 in The Man of Fate, Mr. Juan Bonaparte's production at the Queen's, Manchester. As may be readily guessed from the title, this is a Napoleonic play.

WE recently stated that during the illness of Miss Ida Molesworth the part of Julie Alardy in The Little Damozel on tour had been played by Miss Eva Stuart. Miss Molesworth now informs us that Miss Stuart played her—Miss Molesworth's—part for three nights only, Miss Molesworth requiring a rest.

WELL-TRIED favourites will be included in the cast of Fires of Fate, which will be revived at the Adelphi for a series of special matinées on Monday. Mr. Lewis Waller's part of Colonel Egerton will be played by Mr. Ben Webster, and Mr. Bassett Roe will follow Mr. J. Fisher White in the rôle of James Roden. The Rev. Samuel Roden, originally played by Mr. A. E. George, will be entrusted to the experienced hands of Mr. J. D. Beveridge, and Miss Evelyn D'Alroy will be succeeded in the character of Sadie Adams by Miss Ruth Bower. The remainder of the cast will comprise Messrs. Arthur Burne, Spencer Trevor, Alec F. Thompson, Michael Sherbrooke, Chas. Combe, A. S. Homewood, Chas. Maude, W. Cronin Wilson, Frank Woolfe, S. J. Warmington, and Caton Woodville, and Miss Dorothea Desmond and Miss Agnes Thomas.

MR. W. W. KELLY has arranged to give daily animated picture matinées during the summer at the Birkenhead Theatre Royal, commencing on Monday next, with a wonderful film showing phases of the life, features associated with the death, and pictures of the scenes at the funeral, of his late Majesty King Edward.

NEXT week's evening attraction at the Birkenhead Theatre Royal is His Real Wife, in which Miss Ward, who will be given a benefit on Friday, will appear. A Daughter of the Sea will be the fare at Mr. Kelly's Liverpool theatre.

"TEMPTATION" concludes to-night, at the King's, Sutton-in-Ashfield, its second successful tour. Miss Nora Carton commences her autumn tour at the Royal, Ashton-under-Lyne, on August Bank Holiday. Most of the best dramatic theatres are booked well into 1911. The company go out again under the direction of Mr. Martin Comstock.

"SOME TROUBLES OF OUR CATHOLIC FOREFATHERS" was the rather clumsy title of a play which was produced at the New Catholic Hall, Dockhead, Bermondsey, last week. The plot deals with the penal laws against Catholics enacted in the seventeenth century, among the characters being Father Peter Snow, who suffered for his faith at Tyburn.

THE Irish National Theatre company begin a season at the Court on May 30. Among the productions will be W. B. Yeats's The King's Threshold, which will be acted by a Birmingham company, known as the Pilgrim Players, on June 17 and 18. The piece was given during the Dublin Society's season at the Royalty in 1905.

THE D'Oyly Carte Cricket Club started their campaign on the 10th inst. at Fratton with a match against the Hants County Asylum. Despite a score of 38 made by Mr. E. A. White, who carried his bat through the innings, the actors could only muster 64 runs, and were defeated by six wickets.

MR. ALFRED LESTER, the comedian, whose humour contributes so greatly to the success of The Arcadians, tells the following story against himself:—"One admirer of the play told me that of all I did in the piece nothing delighted him more than my share in the first act. I realised for the first time that I was, after all, a lucus a non lucendo, here to be freely rendered 'a star without any shining.' I don't appear in the first act!"

THE sacred concert promoted annually by Mr. Alfred Manners at the Empire Theatre, Swindon, in aid of the Victoria Hospital in that town, on Sunday evening, May 8, was quite as successful as formerly. There was a crowded attendance, by whom the various items of an excellent programme were keenly appreciated. The expenses of the concert were, as usual, borne by Mr. Alfred Manners, so that the whole of the receipts were handed to the Institution.

THE Mayor of the town was present, and during an interval thanked Mr. Manners for placing his services, his theatre, and his staff at their disposal on that occasion, and for arranging the programme and bearing the whole of the expense in connection with the concert. He hoped the people of Swindon would show their appreciation of his kindness by not forgetting that there was such a place as the Empire Theatre. The Mayor also thanked the artists for their services, remarking that the members of Mr. George Edwardes's company were engaged in their profession the previous night, they had had to travel some distance during the day, and they had given their only free night in the week to help this cause. At a subsequent meeting of the Victoria Hospital Management Committee thanks were heartily accorded Mr. Manners for his great kindness in handing over such a handsome amount to the hospital.

A MEMBER of the "Black Hand" gang of New York, who endeavoured to blackmail Signor Caruso by threatening him with death unless he paid over a large sum of money, has been sentenced to an "indeterminate" sentence of between three years eight months and seven years five months' imprisonment, with hard labour, in the State prison. Amid the applause of the Court the judge said: "A life imprisonment sentence would not have been too severe a penalty for Miscani's crime." He refused an application for a new trial.

A SAD case occupied the attention of the Westminster Coroner's Court on Monday, when the death of Montague Rosenberg, aged 27, who had been an actor for about twelve months, having played a small part in Two Little Vagabonds under the name of Frank Russell, was inquired into. The deceased, who had suffered from sleeplessness, went to the Strand Palace Hotel on Monday in last week, and was removed from there on Wednesday to the Charing Cross Hospital. A bottle of veronal tabloids, from which fifteen tabloids had been extracted, was found, together with an empty bottle, in the room which the deceased had occupied. These tabloids, it was suggested, had been taken to induce sleep. In a diary left by the deceased was the following entry:—"Any life that is worth living for must be a struggle, swimming not with, but against the tide." This, said the coroner, did not suggest any inclination towards suicide.

THE manager of the Lyceum Theatre company, Mr. Albert Stacey, described the deceased as a charmingly mannered young man, with a promising future opening before him. He began his theatrical career very well, but became somewhat irregular whilst on tour in the North, and his contract was concluded. Medical evidence showed that death was due to some form of poisoning, probably veronal. Two of the tablets, said the doctor, contained the maximum quantity of veronal prescribed by the medical profession, but it was a well-known fact that the effect of continued use of veronal was that it had to be taken in progressively increasing quantities to make it effective. There had been several cases of deaths from veronal poisoning of late. Death from misadventure was the verdict, the jury adding a rider that veronal should not be sold without a "poison" label on it.

MR. J. GORDON WILSON, who was in Chesterfield in 1901 as sub-editor of "Notts and Derby Contemporary Biographies," is seriously ill. A chill contracted in Lancashire seven years ago left him with an incurable internal malady, which is continuously asserting itself, and has now, with other complications, laid him low, in Chesterfield, after sixty-four years of hard work. He started as an actor when five years of age, playing with the late Barry Sullivan, in London, fifty years ago. He also played several times in the old Theatre Royal, Chesterfield, with the late Charles Dillon, Henry Lorraine and Herr Bandmann, in Shakespearean parts. He is author of numerous poems, songs, ballads, dramas, and comediettas, many of which were accepted by the late King Edward VII., notably "The Coronation Song" and "Empire Song," in 1901. He recited his poems on the "Battle of Abu Klea" and "The Fall of Khartoum" before the late Queen Victoria, in 1886. Mr. Gordon Wilson, who is staying at 15, Queen-street, Chesterfield, would be pleased to hear from old friends.

THE directors of the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, report a trading profit of £4,074, after payment of the additional ground rent of £2,000 per annum, which commenced as from Jan. 1, 1909, and about £450 for additional rates and taxes, occasioned thereby. After writing off the sum of £630 for depreciation of equipment and stock scenery, and £2,274 off pantomime productions, which stood at £7,573 in the company's books, and setting aside the sum of £206 for sinking fund, there remains a balance of £513 in part redemption of the deficiency standing in last year's accounts, thereby reducing that figure (which amounted to £9,417 on Dec. 9, 1905) to £1,783. In conformity with the practice of other provincial theatres carrying on a similar business, the directors decided to include this year the accounts of the pantomime season for the current year, and to adopt a similar method in future.

MR. W. W. KELLY has written a stirring letter to the Birkenhead papers defending the Conservative majority of the local Town Council against an accusation which has been made by the Birkenhead Post that the majority has been trying to "make capital out of the Lairage question." This allegation Mr. Kelly eloquently denies.

THE death of Mme. Pauline Viardot, née Garcia, on Wednesday, severs a link with a long musical past. Michelle Ferdinande Pauline Viardot-Garcia, a great lyric actress and singer, younger sister of Maria Malibran, was the daughter of the famous Spanish tenor and teacher, Manuel del Popolo Garcia, and of his wife, Joaquina Sitchez, an accomplished actress. She was born in Paris, July 18, 1821, and received her names from her sponsors, Ferdinand Paer, the composer, and the Princess Pauline Galitzin. Genius was Pauline Garcia's birthright, and she grew up from her cradle in an atmosphere of art, and among stirring scenes of adventure. She was only three years old when her father took his family to England, where his daughter Maria, thirteen years older than Pauline, made her first appearance on the stage.

THE child showed extraordinary intelligence, with a marvellous aptitude for learning and retaining everything. At that time it would have been hard to determine where her special genius lay. Hers was that innate force which can be applied at will in any direction. She learned languages as if in play. Her facility for painting, especially portrait-painting, was equally great. Her earliest pianoforte lessons were given her by Marcos Vega, at New York, when she was not four years old. At eight, after her return from Mexico, she played the accompaniments for her father at his singing lessons, "and I think," she wrote afterwards, "I profited by the lessons even more than the pupils did." She thus acquired a knowledge of Garcia's method, although she never was his pupil in the usual sense, and often said that her mother was her "only singing-master." Her father worked her hard, however, as he did everyone. In his drawing-room operettas, composed for his pupils, there were parts for her, "containing," she said, "things more difficult than any I have sung since. I still preserve them as precious treasures." The piano she studied for many years with Meysenberg, and afterwards with Liszt; counterpoint and composition with Reicha.

AT Brussels, in 1837, she made her first appearance as a singer, under the auspices of Dr. Beriot. She afterwards sang for him on a concert tour, and in 1838 at the Théâtre de la Renaissance in Paris, at a concert, where her powers of execution were brilliantly displayed in a "Cadence du Diable" framed on the "Trillo del Diavolo" of Tartini. On May 9, 1839, she appeared at Her Majesty's Theatre as Desdemona in Otello, and with genuine success, which increased at each performance. A certain resemblance to her sister Malibran in voice and style won the favour of her audience, while critics were not wanting who discerned in her, even at that early age, an originality and an intellectual force all her own. Her powers of execution were astonishing, and with the general public she was even more successful at that time in the concert-room than on the stage.

IN the autumn of the same year she was engaged for the Théâtre Lyrique by the impresario M. Louis Viardot, a distinguished writer and critic, founder of the Revue Indépendante. Here, chiefly in the operas of Rossini, she shared in the triumphs of Grisi, Persiani, Rubini, Tamburini, and Lablache. With these great artists she held her own, and though in many ways less gifted by nature than they, her talent seemed enhanced rather than dimmed by juxtaposition with theirs. Her face lacked regularity of feature; her voice, a mezzo-soprano, but so extended by art as to compass more than three octaves, from the bass C to F in alt, was neither equal nor always beautiful in tone.

HER first admirers were among the intellectual and the cultivated. The public took longer to become accustomed to her peculiarities, but always ended by giving in its allegiance. For men and women of letters, artists, &c., she had a strong fascination. Her picturesque weirdness and statuesque grace, her inventive power and consummate mastery over all the resources of her art—nay, her very voice and face, irregular, but full of contrast and expression—all these appealed to the imagination, and formed an ensemble irresistible in its piquancy and originality.

IN 1840 she married M. Viardot, who resigned the Opera management, and accompanied her to Italy, Spain, Germany, Russia, and England. At Berlin, after her performance of Rahel, in La Juive, one of her greatest parts, she was serenaded by the whole orchestra. Here, too, she astounded both connoisseurs and public by volunteering at a moment's notice to sing the part of Isabelle in Robert le Diable for Fräulein Tuczek, in addition to her own part of Alice—a bold attempt, vindicated by its brilliant success.

SHE returned to Paris in 1849 for the production of Meyerbeer's Prophète. She had been specially chosen by the composer for Fidès, and to her help and suggestions he was more indebted than is generally known. She was indeed, as Moscheles wrote, "the life and soul of the opera, which owed to her at least half of its great success." She played Fidès more than two hundred times in all the chief opera-houses in Europe, and has so identified herself with the part that her successors can do no more than copy her.

FROM 1848 to 1858 she appeared every year in London. In 1859 M. Carvalho, director of the Théâtre Lyrique, revived the Orphée of Gluck, which had not been heard for thirty years. The part of Orphée, restored (by Berlioz) from a high tenor to the contralto for which it was written, was taken by Mme. Viardot, who achieved in it a triumph perhaps unique. This revival was followed in 1861 by that of Gluck's Alceste at the Opéra. The music of this—as Berlioz calls it—"well-nigh inaccessible part," was less suited than that of Orphée to Mme. Viardot's voice, but it was perhaps the greatest of all her achievements, and a worthy crown to a répertoire which had included Desdemona, Cenerentola, Rosina, Norma, Arsace, Camilla (Orasi), Amina, Romeo, Lucia, Maria di Rohan, Ninette Leonora (Favorita), Azucena, Donna Anna, Zerlina, Rahel, Iphigénie (Gluck), Alice, Isabelle, Valentine, Fidès, and Orphée. In 1863 Mme. Viardot fixed her abode at Baden, and sang no more at the Opera, though she appeared at concerts, and was heard in London as lately as 1870.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Interpolations.

WILLIAM CALDER, the American actor, who came over here some years back, and starred in Rip Van Winkle, The Danites, &c., used to tell a good story of how he, as a youngster, got into great trouble with Edwin Forrest, the renowned tragedian. Forrest was a man of massive frame, and when roused to fury "his looks spoke volumes." Calder found himself cast for the First Gravedigger to Forrest's Hamlet. It was his first meeting with the great man, and also his first time of playing the part, so he was naturally very anxious. In his perplexity he applied to an older actor in the company to coach him up in the business of the part. This the latter willingly consented to do, and, being of a waggish turn of mind, he told Calder a piece of business which was purely the invention of his own brain. Said he, "When Forrest asks you for Yorick's skull you hand it towards him from the grave, but just as he is about to take it from you, you draw it back, pass it round your left side, and, by a dexterous jerk which I'll show you the trick of, you throw it up over your shoulder, catch it in your right hand, and then, and not till then, you pass it on to the Prince. It will get you a big round of applause if you do it neatly." "But—but won't Mr. Forrest object to the interpolation?" "Not at all, not at all. On the contrary, he'll think you're a very clever lad. Come into the property-room. We'll get the skull, and I'll show you how it's done." So they did; and after half an hour's hard practice, during which the skull got considerably dinted by repeated falls, Calder felt that he had mastered the trick, and was rather proud of his new accomplishment. When night came, and Forrest, in his interview with the gravedigger, asked for the skull, Calder handed it up from the grave, but drew it back quickly, executed his manœuvre, and then offered it to the tragedian. A yell of laughter from the audience rewarded his effort; but when he looked up and caught the horrified expression on Forrest's face and heard the curses "not loud, but deep," that poured in terrible whispers from his lips, he realised what a frightful "faux pas" he had made, and, not daring to get out of the grave for his exit, he dived underneath and disappeared in the cellar below, so that it must have appeared to the audience that poor Ophelia was soon after buried on top of him. As soon as Forrest could get off the stage he went all over the theatre, with his sword drawn, asking for Calder. But our comedian had left the house hurriedly, and never returned to it during the remainder of the star's engagement.

An Odd Prayer.

TALKING of interpolations though, here is one which was forgiven on the spot for its exceeding artlessness and innocence. When Mrs. Benson used to play Titania in The Midsummer Night's Dream she brought on the stage with her a pretty child, about four years old, to represent "the little changeling boy" whose adoption is the cause of quarrel between her liege lord and herself. During the scene Titania has to kneel; and the little mite, who was clad only in a suit of brown fleshings, evidently thought prayer-time had arrived, so he went down on his knees, too, put his tiny hands together, and said, much to the delight of the audience, "Please, God, make me warmer; I'se cold!"

Women and the Theatre.

"THE news that Miss Gertrude Kingston is soon to open a woman's theatre brings up the question of the attitude of women towards the theatre, or, rather, of the attitude of the theatre towards women," writes Mrs. N. H. Walker, the "Frances" of T.P.'s Weekly and the "Naro" of M.A.P., in an article on "The Woman and the Theatre," in the Daily Chronicle. "Is there a manager in London who would have the hardihood to declare that his theatre could do without us? Nay, must he not confess in very truth that if we fail him all is failure. It may be interesting to ask, considering that we are the theatrical manager's chief asset in the running of his business, whether he really considers our comfort and convenience to the extent he ought? Miss Kingston evidently thinks he does not. In her new theatre a spacious cloak-room, with special receptacles for the beloved matinée hat, is to be an important adjunct, and therein will be found mirrors and light galore.

A Comfortable Meal.

"OF the provision of supper-rooms one can only express admiration. To be able to leave your seat in the theatre, to walk in and take your seat at a table, would add new joy to play-seeking. The present business of cabbing away from a theatre, and, in the short hour before midnight, getting to a restaurant, securing the attention of a waiter, pushing through a supper, and finally chartering another cab to take you home, is a trial of strength, patience, and pocket which makes the formation of a theatre party an undertaking for the young possessors of motor-cars, and for them alone. For women unaccompanied by men there is the further difficulty—they are always last served by waiter and cabby. It taxes even the experienced reconnoitring powers of a woman journalist to get a comfortable supper under present circumstances. Now that tubes keep their hospitable doors open until one o'clock a.m. it might surely prove an argument for the extension of the supper-time in restaurants.

The Poor Playgoer.

"HOWEVER, these be matters which concern but a small section of playgoers. It is to be hoped that Miss Kingston's schemes contain thought for the woman who is without a motor-car and who cannot afford a cab; who measures her entertainment expenses by shillings instead of by pounds. Her number is far greater than is generally calculated; and her importance, if rightly estimated, holds the balance of success in theatrical enterprise.

Women in the Pit.

"As a rule, the woman with shillings to spend gets scant acknowledgment and scant courtesy when her thoughts turn to theatre-going. She is left standing in a queue, exposed to all weathers, for any length of time that her enthusiasm prompts; her money is snatched from her, and she is thrown a disc with an arrogance only surpassed by a Poor Law relieving officer; then she is rushed forward in true 'pass-along-please' style by a janitor, who questions her right to choose a seat, and the seat when she has chosen it is as narrow and as uncomfortable as it could in decency be made. Such is the treatment of the pittite.

Tempting Her to the Theatre.

"It may be asked if something could not be done to coax the woman who likes to do things comfortably, and whose income is small, to the theatre. As things are at present, she has allowed her theatre-going to assume the form of a periodical ceremonial. Two or three times a year a play is chosen about which the public have confirmed the opinion of the critics; seats are secured many days beforehand; friends are duly notified of the event—in fact, everything is done to make going to the play as much of an occasion as possible. Next day the counting-up of the cost brings about the resolution that it must be a long time before such an expensive indulgence can be permitted again."

We shall be obliged if our readers will send us any amusing anecdotes they may hear, or accounts of any quaint incidents they may witness while acting or rehearsing.

LYCEUM CHANGES HANDS.

MELVILLE MANAGEMENT'S NEW POLICY.

The event of an otherwise dull week in theatrical history is undoubtedly the acquisition of the Smith and Carpenter interests in the Lyceum by the Melville management. The occurrence is of the greatest interest to the profession at large, for to Mr. H. R. Smith belongs the credit, shared by the late Mr. Ernest Carpenter, of once again placing the old Lyceum in the front rank of West-End theatres. It may be recalled that Mr. Smith secured a lease of the theatre from Mrs. Arnold in March, 1907, and that later a syndicate was formed with the title of Popular Playhouses, Ltd., Mr. Henry R. Smith and Mr. Ernest Carpenter being appointed joint managing-directors. Under this arrangement Mr. Smith undertook the entire management of the theatre, whilst Mr. Carpenter fulfilled the duties of producer of plays and stage manager.

The partners made a start with Mr. Walter Howard's Her Love Against the World. The best of good fortune attended their efforts, and they speedily attracted a clientèle which rarely failed in its support. Pantomime at Christmas became a standing feature, while even Shakespeare did not prove above the tastes of the public they catered for. Mr. Hall Caine gave them two of his plays, The Christian and Pete, and Mr. Justin Huntly McCarthy supplied them with The Proud Prince. The sudden death of Mr. Ernest Carpenter at the end of last year was undoubtedly a great blow to the management.

"The end came quite unexpectedly," said Mr. Smith to an Era representative. "The Messrs. Melville had been negotiating for the theatre some time before, but suddenly they made a satisfactory offer, the lawyers got together, and in a few hours the Lyceum was under the banner of the new management. All the old directors have retired, of course, but I understand that the company will still be called the Popular Playhouses, Ltd. I am told, too, it is to be run on the lines first laid down by myself.

"Myself and the future? Well, first of all a good long holiday on the Continent—I haven't had one for five years, you know. Then I shall be ready for action. I want to join forces, if possible, with some big manager to whom my experience, ideas, and financial interest would be valuable. In short, I want a working partnership in any sort of theatrical enterprise—legitimate or variety."

In this connection it is possible that there are one or two places in London that would be the better for Mr. Smith's experience, for not only is he well versed in theatrical production and management, but his incursions into vaudeville years ago give him a two-fold knowledge of the entertainment world. Anyhow the man who can turn a total loss to a magnificent profit-earning proposition for the three years of his stay is bound to be heard of in West-End management shortly. We certainly ought not to let one of the many American managers now in London tempt Mr. Smith across the Atlantic. We want to keep such men in this country.

And now, what of the Lyceum's future? We are informed that Messrs. Melville have taken over all existing contracts with authors, so that it may be judged they intend pursuing the same excellent policy as that followed by their predecessors. Of the twenty-one years of the original lease eighteen have still to run. Mr. W. F. Crowe has been retained as business manager, as have also most of the staff and members of the company. Mr. Melville will continue to run drama at popular prices.

Seen by the Era representative at Oakley House, Mr. Walter Melville stated that after the run of The Prince and the Beggar Maid, which will finish shortly, probably two, if not three, new dramas would be put on in rapid succession.

"I don't believe in wearing a piece thread-bare," said Mr. Melville, "and our summer and autumn seasons will be notable for a succession of new pieces. In addition we think of putting on some of the most popular of the Shakespearean plays.

Accused of having designs on London's best playhouses, as well as some No. 1 provincial theatres, with a view of forming a popular dramatic circuit, Mr. Melville would neither deny nor confirm the rumour. "My dear fellow," said he, "the call-boy is always better informed than the proprietor." We are out to make money, and we are ambitious. But we shall see—what we shall see."

On the subject of his other enterprises, Mr. Melville said that The Bad Girl of the Family being a very good girl indeed to the box-office, no change would be made at the Aldwych for some time to come.

"CHANTECLER."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—It seems to me that the above play is not quite so new as it is made out to be. As far back as 1905 or 1906 I submitted two synopses of pantomimes for the following season to Mr. Robert Arthur. One was called The Silver Sword. 'Twas, to my idea, quite a new and funny musical comedy plot, and in it there is a farmyard scene where all the animals and birds converse. Indeed, the argument is that the vindictive witch turns the heroine into a Christmas turkey, and the poulterer (comedian) is just about to kill her when the hero, aided by the Fairy Queen of course, intervenes and saves her.—Yours faithfully, EDWD. WENTWORTH WILLIAMS.

35, Daulby-street, Liverpool, May 17.

THE 200th performance of The Bad Girl of the Family will be reached on June 1, at the Aldwych Theatre. Mr. Frederick Melville's remarkably successful drama continues to attract large audiences.

The Dawn of a To-morrow, which, after great success in America, and a production at the Shakespeare, Liverpool, on the 2nd inst., was presented to London playgoers at the Garrick Theatre on the 13th inst., is likely to win in London the favour which it has already gained in America. It is a strong, effective play, thrilling in its story, and raised above the level of ordinary melodrama by an element of religious feeling. The sketches of low life in the East End are well done, and the piece holds the attention of the audience from start to finish. The realism with which the slum scene is gradually disclosed is very impressive. Dimly, through a veil of fog we discern street lamps and houses. Very slowly the fog lifts, till we can distinguish the squalid tenements, the archway entrance, and the inevitable public-house. The effect is that of an entry into a region of lost souls.

It opens in the library in the house of a rich man named Sir Oliver Holt, who, broken down with nerves and insomnia, given up by the doctors, and tired of life, is determined to commit suicide. He gives out that he is going to Paris, but purchases an old suit of workman's clothes, and starts for the East End, where, in disguise, he intends to put an end to himself in some wretched garret. The only person whom Sir Oliver has depending on him is his nephew, Mr. Oliver Holt, a mean, heartless reprobate, who has succeeded in concealing his vices from his rich relative.

In the second scene of the act we see, through a fog darkly, Apple Blossom-court, a criminal colony in the East End. Gradually the fog clears away, and the local population appears. It seems that three recent inhabitants of the court have engaged in a burglary, which has ended in a murder, and that two of them have been arrested. The third, Dandy, is in hiding somewhere in the vicinity. Sir Oliver enters in disguise, and comes in contact with a strange, original girl, "Glad," who, despite the temptations of Apple Blossom-court, has preserved her reputation, both for virtue and honesty. "Glad's" nature is essentially optimistic. She believes in the efficacy of prayer, and her vitality and cheerfulness have an excellent effect on Sir Oliver, drawing his mind away from his own troubles. In the end he becomes deeply interested in the girl and in the people in the court.

In the second act we find Dandy seeking refuge in "Glad's" garret. He really had no part in the burglary, having fallen behind his comrades and abandoned the enterprise; but they, in revenge, swore that he was with them, and Dandy is in danger of the death penalty. The only person who can prove an alibi for him is Mr. Oliver Holt, who met him on the night of the murder at the very time when it was being committed. "Glad" conceals Dandy in a cupboard under the roof, and he manages to get down to the basement and hide before the garret is searched by the police.

And now "Glad" determines to put her faith in prayer to the test. She will go to Mr. Oliver, and will ask him to come forward and prove an alibi for Dandy, though it is unlikely that he will do so, as he wants "Glad" for himself, and would be willing to see his rival out of the way. She goes to his chambers, and asks him to come forward and save Dandy. Holt refuses, but eventually promises to prove the alibi if "Glad" will become his mistress. She agrees to do so if nothing happens in answer to a prayer which she makes for help. Oliver threatens her with violence, but she rings up the police on the telephone, and Sir Oliver's arrival on the scene alters the situation entirely. Oliver swears to the alibi, Dandy promises to lead an honest life in future, and Sir Oliver is entirely cured by his experience and adventures.

Mr. Herbert Waring has seldom had a part which suited him better than that of Sir Oliver Holt. In the first act all the symptoms of nervous exhaustion were very faithfully depicted, and in the slum scenes Mr. Waring's expressive elevation made his performance a very valuable one. The principal part of the piece, however, was that of "Glad," which was sustained by Miss Gertrude Elliott in a spirit of ardent vitality and spontaneous joie de vivre which carried all before it. Miss Elliott, by her personal magnetism, held the audience spellbound, and the success of her individual performance had much to do with that of the play. Throughout the two acts in which "Glad" appears, Miss Elliott's vivacity and earnestness never flagged, and the enthusiasm which she created in the audience was unmistakable. Mr. Jameson Lee Finney, excellently made-up, gave a most graphic picture of the mean, cold-blooded, dissipated Mr. Oliver, and acted with force as well as clever characterisation; and Mr. Henry Ainley was full of fire and intensity as the passionate criminal, Dandy. The parts of the two ordinary doctors were carefully and ably distinguished by Mr. J. H. Barnes, excellent as a white-haired, elderly medico, and Mr. James Geldard as a conventional West-End physician; and the perfervid and imaginative Dr. Heath was powerfully embodied by Mr. James Hearn, who delivered some "brainy" utterances in most intense and concentrated style. Mr. Philip Leslie was satisfactory as a young debauchee. It was not always easy to identify the individuals on the stage with the names and characters on the programme, but Mr. J. Parish Robertson as the Thief, Mr. Frank Bertram as Barney, Mr. John Tresahar as Jem, and Mr. Greighton Hale as the Bat, all supplied most effective impersonations, highly finished in every detail and particular. The part of the secretary Bedell was quietly but effectively played by Mr. Ernest C. Joy; and Mr. Sam Pearce gave a pathetic reading of the rôle of the faithful domestic Powell. Mr. Charles Weir was firm and steady as the Inspector; and Mr. Edward Chester made a sturdy Policeman, Mr. Charles King being good as the Butler. The women in the slum were well depicted. Miss Ada Dwyer was quaintly characteristic as Bet, and Miss Jane Comfort was very natural and duly emotional as Polly, Miss Marie Boyd giving a clever impersonation of Feathers. As for Miss Maude Buchanan, Miss Magdaleine Cotta, Miss Violet Craigie, and Miss Portia Knight as Mimi, Suzanne, Manette, and Madge Delorme, each was excellent in her respective rôle. The play was carefully staged by Mr. Hugh Ford, and the scenery by Hemsley, Hann, and Schmitz, was excellent, the fog effect in the second scene of the first act being admirably contrived and managed. The Dawn of a To-morrow had a warm reception, and deserves to be a sustained success.

DEATH OF MR. RUSSELL ROSSE.

Many of our readers will learn with considerable regret the news of the death of Mr. Matthew Russell Rosse, who passed away quite suddenly on Whit Sunday at Newcastle-on-Tyne. For some time he had been delicate on the lungs, and it is supposed that the shock of the King's death brought on an attack of hæmorrhage, from which he never recovered.

For many years the deceased gentleman was a touring manager, in fact, one of the oldest, and he learnt his business thoroughly in that best of all schools—experience. He could not only look after the front of the house, but could produce and stage-manage. It did not matter whether it was Shakespeare, old comedy, modern farce, or drama, Russell Rosse had the traditional business of each at his fingers' ends. Gifted with the spirit of enterprise, he was the first theatrical manager to get a special train run on Sunday. He secured this privilege when he was managing the children's Cloches de Corneville in 1881, the proprietor of the combination being the late Charles Bernard, although his first wife financed it. It was in the chorus of this company that Miss Belle Bilton (afterwards Countess of Clancarty), who died on Dec. 31, 1906, made her first appearance on the stage with her sister Flo, in the February of 1881. In connection with the company was established a travelling school, open every day excepting Mondays and Saturdays for three or four hours. Prizes were given, and in a competition for the best imaginative story Belle Bilton came out first, the story being printed in the Derby and other provincial papers. Lady Clancarty had also a liking for painting, and it was on her birthday during this tour that Mr. Russell Rosse gave her her first box of paints. She never forgot his kindness to her as a child, and for many years afterwards wrote to him as "Dear Daddy."

In 1880 he was in charge of the Madame Favart company, also for the late Charles Bernard. He was then supposed to be about the youngest acting-manager on the road. His connection with Fred Neebe, of the Bath and Exeter theatres was a very long one, and he was business manager for Miss Marie de Grey for many tours. He and Mr. J. F. Graham, now of the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, were together when the Exeter Theatre was burnt down on Sept. 5, 1887, over 150 people losing their lives, and the deceased also toured with Mr. Graham in 1888 in a piece called A Life's Debt, produced at the Victoria Theatre, Burnley, on Aug. 27 of that year, with Mr. Graham in the part of André Grenier and Mr. Rosse directing the piece. The deceased gentleman was with Miss Fortescue for four tours, and was business manager for George Edwardes during the Joan of Arc season at the Opera Comique. In 1905, at the time of Sir Henry Irving's death, Mr. Rosse in less than twelve hours got a company together and played Our Boys at the Prince of Wales's, Birmingham. Hearing the sad news at the West Strand Post Office at midnight, he immediately went home and posted on to Mr. Graham a day bill of Our Boys, with Thomas Thorne as star, and said the company could open at the Prince of Wales's, Birmingham, on Monday. Mr. Graham received the day bill at the same time as the news of Sir Henry's death.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council Meeting held on Tuesday, May 17, at 32, Regent-street.

Present: Mr. F. J. Arlton, in the chair; Mr. W. H. Mote, Hon. Solicitor; Messrs. Cyril Cattley, Chris Walker, Langford Reed, F. H. De Quincey, Edward Morgan, Robson Paige, Murri Moncrieff, Miss Rose Cazalet, and Mr. D. Young, Secretary.

The minutes of the meeting held on the 10th inst. were read and confirmed.

A letter was received from the Lord Great Chamberlain acknowledging receipt of the resolution sent to him on behalf of the Association.

The Secretary read a telegram from Sir Herbert Tree asking for the co-operation of the Association in the general tribute to the late King Edward, also letters from Mr. Frederick Whelan on the same subject. He was directed to acknowledge receipt of both communications and to say that the Council willingly associated themselves with them in the desired object.

In reference to letters from three members asking for advice re contracts, the Solicitor volunteered to write them giving the advice asked for, after a perusal of the different contracts.

The Shakespeare National Memorial Theatre's letter was ordered to be held over until the next meeting of the Council for further discussion.

The Hon. Solicitor reported that advice had been given to two members, and another matter was being proceeded with.

The Finance Committee's report was read by Mr. Arlton, and adopted.

Mr. Langford Reed brought forward the following resolution:—"That this Council ask for letters from members giving their views as to the exact lines on which the Agency should be run." The resolution was seconded by Mr. Paige, and after discussion was lost by a majority of 2. The Secretary reported four engagements, and others pending.

It was resolved to defer discussion of the Agenda book until May 31st, when Mr. Morlan would in all probability be able to attend the Council.

An anonymous letter sent to a member was read to the Council, who did not deem it of sufficient importance to take any notice of it.

Elections: Lyonel Watts, Leon Quartermaine. Nominations: Ruhamah Catton, R. Ronald Ashby.

"CHAINS."

Play, in Four Acts, by Elizabeth Baker, performed at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday, May 17.

Charlie Wilson	MR. DENNIS EADIE
Fred Tennant	MR. FREDERICK LLOYD
Morton Leslie	MR. ARTHUR WHITBY
Percy Massey	MR. DONALD CALTHROP
Alfred Massey	MR. EDMUND GWENN
Walter Foster	MR. HUBERT HARBEN
Fenwick	MR. LEWIS CASSON
Lily Wilson	MISS HILDA TREVELYAN
Maggie Massey	MISS SYBIL THORNDIKE
Mrs. Massey	MISS FLORENCE HAYDON
Sybil Frost	MISS DOROTHY MINTO

The favourable notice which we printed of the original performance of Miss Elizabeth Baker's piece after its production by the Play Actors at the Comedy Theatre on April 18 last year was fully justified by the reception which was given to Chains at the Duke of York's in connection with Mr. Frohman's Repertory Theatre on Tuesday. Miss Baker has chosen for study the lower middle class, the class of the clerk and the small tradesman, which she treats in soberly realistic fashion, embellished with delightful humour, and represents without caricature. Such plays are not too popular with the general public, who prefer the idealised picture presented by less conscientious artists than Miss Baker, whose truth of treatment is uncompromising. The characters are capitally drawn, and the dialogue, dealing as much of it does, with the little things that are great to little men, is faithfully studied from the real conversation of the class. The slight story is decidedly interesting; and so truly are the characters drawn, so sharply do they appeal to us as real and living individuals, that we follow with interest the humble hopes and projects of the dramatis personæ, and are distressed when the first turn out to be baseless, and the latter are found to be futile. As is the fashion nowadays, Chains ends on a note of depression, the doctrine of renunciation being strongly preached when the hero, who has stuff in him that might lead to success in the Colonies, consents to remain a drudge at the entreaty of his wife and the prospect of a "babe unborn."

The action opens in the sitting-room of a lower middle-class family, consisting of Charlie Wilson, a City clerk, his wife Lily, and a lodger, Fred Tennant, also a clerk. The "atmosphere" of Acacia-avenue, Hammersmith, is cleverly created, the dialogue being always soberly realistic. Excitement is soon created by the announcement on the part of the lodger that he is weary of office drudgery, and has resigned his berth in the City in order to go to Australia. There is a good deal of discussion pro and con Tennant's proposed step; and Wilson, whose salary has been reduced owing to the lessened profits of the firm by which he is engaged, is almost convinced of the wisdom of Tennant's proposed course, and thinks of accompanying him.

A character who has a serious amount of influence on the play is Wilson's father-in-law, Alfred Massey, a plumber. He is a somewhat cynical philosopher, who does his plumbing doggedly, and sleeps away Sunday on a sofa. He is the father of Lily, and he cannot comprehend why anyone should throw up a safe berth and exchange a certainty for an uncertainty. Another opponent of any adventurous action on Charlie's part is his wife. When she learns that he proposes to go out to Australia alone, she fancies that he is tired of her, and tells her relations and friends so. His father-in-law and his mother-in-law are both against his emigrating; but Charlie has a sympathiser in his sister-in-law, Maggie Massey, a restless, revoltant girl, who promises to look after her sister till he returns, or until he is in a position to send for her to come out to him. So Charlie determines to get away secretly, and tells Tennant he will meet him at Southampton. But Lily has a last card to play. She informs Charlie that she is to be a mother; and, vanquished by this information, he resigns himself to his fate and to life-long clerkdom.

The piece was very cleverly cast. Mr. Dennis Eadie handled the part of Charlie Wilson quite judiciously, marking the class of the individual cleverly, yet suggesting the dormant energy and enterprise of the man strongly and effectively. Nothing could have been better than Mr. Edmund Gwenn's Alfred Massey. His make-up as the fat, vulgar, dense, and contented plumber was excellent, and all the little touches of ill-breeding were very amusingly supplied. He was a mass of corpulent self-satisfaction and stupidity. Mr. Frederick Lloyd gave to his representation of Fred Tennant just the needed touch of superiority and alertness; and Mr. Arthur Whitby hit off Morton Leslie to the life. The young and foolish Percy Massey was played very neatly and naturally by Mr. Donald Calthrop; and Mr. Hubert Harben contributed a most ingenious reproduction of a curious type of City clerk as Walter Foster, Mr. Lewis Casson being capital as the melancholy Fenwick. The happy choice of Miss Hilda Trevelyan for the part of Lily Watson ensured a perfect performance of the part; she was the obedient, long-suffering, but bornée housewife to the life. No less faithful and natural was Miss Sybil Thorndike's Maggie Massey. Miss Florence Haydon as Mrs. Massey had one of those motherly rôles in which she is absolutely unimpeachable; and Miss Dorothy Minto gave a clever little character sketch as Sybil Frost. Great care had been taken in the furnishing of the two interiors, the one in the Early Victorian, the other in the modern suburban style. Chains had a very favourable reception from an appreciative audience.

"THE LAST DROP."

A New and Original Play, in One Act, by Barton White, Produced at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, on Monday, May 16.

Sir Harry Pender, Bart.	MR. CYRIL MELTON
Diana	MISS ESTELLE THEBAUD
Peggy	MISS QUESTA DEARING
Lord St. Osyth	MR. CHARLES FANCOURT

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

This is a gruesome story, with a sordid setting in an East End slum, but is capitally told. In a miserable attic is discovered Sir Harry Pender and his wife, who have both given way to drink until the last remnant of respectability is gone. The wife, in a thoroughly maudlin state, exclaims at intervals throughout the play that she has taken "the last drop." The daughter of this precious couple had been rescued in infancy from her surroundings by some relatives, and is now engaged to Lord St. Osyth. In consequence of the mystery surrounding her antecedents an objection is raised by St. Osyth's connections to Peggy's marriage with him. After some trouble the fallen pair are found, and visited by Peggy and her betrothed.

The girl is overwhelmed by the terrible discovery of her parentage, and she promptly breaks off her engagement. After their departure Pender entices his wife to the window, and they both take "the last drop" to the pavement below, thus ending their wretched lives. Miss Estelle Thebaud graphically delineated the repulsive character of Diana; Miss Questa Dearing gave the fullest expression to the emotions of the unhappy Peggy; Mr. Cyril Melton played with strong effect as Pender, without making the part unduly distasteful; and Lord St. Osyth was pleasantly drawn by Mr. Charles Fancourt.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, Thursday, May 12.—An unquestionable success was accorded to this amusing farce, which is something in the nature of the good old volks-play, with a plenitude of fun and a judicious admixture of pathos. The action passes in Berlin at the present day—always a step in the favour of the Berliners. Willy Mindner, the hero, returns home after a four years' absence a made man. He also acquired such fame as a professional bicycle racer that he has an income of several thousands (pounds, not marks), and is at heart, of course, just the same as ever. He finds his parents "camping out" in the summer-house of their bit of garden on the outskirts of the East End. Mindner, sen., is on strike, which is another word for enjoying a period of idleness. Being unable to pay their rent, he and his wife, with Wally, their foster child, have been turned out of their dwelling proper. Frau Mindner bewails their situation, and is opposed to "strikes," but her husband is perfectly content, and passes his time abusing the capitalists, to the accompaniment of a mug of beer and a farthing cigar. Thus Willy finds his family, and he proceeds to make them comfortable in a luxurious establishment in Kurfürstendamm, which is equivalent to the London Park-lane. Mindner, sen., allows himself to be persuaded with some difficulty to partake in this luxury, but he takes kindly enough to it after a time, and though still a professed Radical and Social Democrat, as "red as they make them," he abuses the footman for not preparing his bath at the correct temperature and scolds the butler because the caviare is not of the very first quality. All this is excedingly funny, and the climax is reached when Willy falls in love with Wally, and becomes engaged to her. The wedding takes place with due haste, for the famous racer has many duties to fulfil. His trainer and manager object entirely to his marrying at all; he has other and far more important things to do according to his many contracts. Poor Willy is snatched from the arms of his bride by these obdurate tyrants and rushed off to Paris in an automobile to ride a great race which he had forgotten. There he is kept a prisoner, so that by rigid training he may be in perfect form. How he contrives to escape, to win the great race and gain his little wife at the same time must be seen to be appreciated. The audience laughed from start to finish, and called the authors and artists repeatedly before the curtain. Herr Harry Walden had a part in Willy Mindner which suited him to a nicety, and he was admirably supported all round. The piece will certainly enjoy a long run.

"Die Liebe Wacht," four-act comedy, by M.M. De Caillavet and De Flers, did not make a very favourable impression at the Schiller on its production last week. French farces of a risky kind are at home at the Residenz and the Trianon, but at the Schiller they are a mistake; the audience there does not care for them. The interpretation was a good one, but the applause was feeble and the laughter forced.

The funniest farce of the century, When Knights Were Bold, under its German title Die Goldene Ritterzeit, has passed its fiftieth performance at the Neues Theatre, and is still drawing so well that there is no necessity to think of any other piece before the summer holidays. It will then go on tour to a number of big German cities.

At the Deutsches Theatre on the 8th inst. an alarming accident occurred during the performance of the pantomime Sumurûn. A basket suspended from the castle ramparts fell on to the stage—a depth of some 12ft. The occupant, Herr Gottowt—an understudy—received a severe nervous shock and sustained slight injuries to his back. The audience rose in a panic, and the curtain was immediately lowered. The manager quieted the audience, telling them the artist's injuries were but trifling, and the play would proceed. Half an hour passed, however, before this could be done, when many persons had left the theatre Herr Gottowt is rapidly recovering.

Hans Tanzler, a tenor, has been engaged by Angelo Neumann for the new Grand Opera here at a (for Berlin) altogether unprecedented salary. Tannhäuser is said to be the tenor's most famous rôle, the singing of which recently brought him unusual ovations at Prague, where Germans, as a rule, are not much wanted. The Grand Opera will be commenced as soon as Whitsuntide is turned, and the work is to be carried forward with all possible expedition.

"JEAN."

A Play, in One Act, by Donald Colquhoun, Produced for the First Time on any Stage at the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, on Monday, May 16.

James Milroy ..... Mr. Campbell Gullan
Sandy (his son) ..... Mr. Walter Roy

This tragic little play was given by the Glasgow Repertory Company in front of Dandy Dick, and proved a thrilling and pathetic study in humble life. An old farmer keeps his son, who is getting on in years, working away as a farm hand for his mere keep, and with no prospect of bettering himself except by stepping into the old man's shoes at the latter's death. The son chafes under this state of matters, and demands some definite arrangement. The father is loth to give up the reins to his son, and advises delay for a year or two, especially as a doctor has warned the old man that his heart is weak. In the course of conversation, the father hints at ambitious marriages for his son, but the latter resents this, and then the father proceeds to make it a condition of the son's ultimate possession of the farm that he retains Jean, the servant, on in his service, as she had been befriended by the lad's dead mother years before when betrayed and left with a child by some errant lover. The son had never heard of this incident previously, and on the top of it admits that Jean is his wife, they having been married by the registrar a few weeks ago. The indignation of the son, and the surprise of the father, affect the latter's heart, and he drops dead in the midst of their argument. Both parts were exceedingly well acted, Mr. Campbell Gullan being perfect as the old farmer, and Mr. Walter Roy contributing a powerful study of the morose and gloomy son. Jean, though frequently referred to, does not appear in the play, which was produced by Mr. Kenelm Foss, and undoubtedly made a strong, if somewhat painful, impression on the audience.

A CORRECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In your recent notice of the production of The Deadbeat at the Sadler's Wells, through an error on the programme, you gave the name of the author as "John F. Raynor." It should have been John F. Traynor.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN F. TRAYNOR.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

On Thursday night, May 12, the Royal Opera reopened with a performance of Saint-Saëns' opera, Samson et Dalila, which had such signal success in last year's grand season mainly through Mme. Kirkby Lunn's splendid impersonation of Dalila. M. Franz, from the Paris Opéra, made his first appearance on Thursday in the part of Samson, and created a most favourable impression. In addition to a fine voice M. Franz has a commanding presence, while his acting is full of dignity and always appropriate to the situation. Samson's music, in the great scene with Dalila, was sung with fervour and pathetic expression. Dressed in handsome, picturesque costumes, M. Franz proved one of the most successful exponents of the hero that has yet appeared, and the audience gave the newcomer a very hearty reception. Mme. Kirkby Lunn, who was in excellent voice, again charmed her hearers with a superb rendering of "Mon cœurs' ouvre à ta voix" and the delightful "Printemps qui commence." Mme. Lunn's Dalila is as fine a dramatic study as ever, while owing to great experience in the part, the famous artist gave such a masterly and seductive reading that no wonder Samson is fascinated, and falls an easy victim. Besides Mme. Lunn, two other English-speaking vocalists, Mr. Edmund Burke and Mr. Murray Davey, greatly distinguished themselves. Mr. Burke was a dignified and impressive High Priest; and the fine sonorous voice of Mr. Davey was heard to advantage in the part of the old Hebrew. Abimelech was skilfully undertaken by M. Crabbé; and the smaller parts of A Philistine Messenger, First and Second Philistine, were ably filled by Mr. D'Oisly, Signor Zucchi, and M. Verheyden. Mlle. Opalfvens was première danseuse, and the chorus sang admirably. The scenic effects, particularly the Fall of the Temple of Dagon, were striking; and M. Frigara, who conducted, secured an excellent ensemble.

There was a large audience present at Covent Garden on Friday night, May 13, when Rossini's opera Il Barbiere di Siviglia was performed for the first time this season. Il Barbiere, said to have been composed by Rossini in fifteen days, and originally produced in London on January, 1818, is now not often heard at Covent Garden, as many changes have taken place in operatic tastes, and the large stage of our fine opera house is considered by many musicians too big for such a dainty subject. But with such artists in the cast as Mme. Tetrazzini, Signor Sammarco, Signor Rostowsky, Signor Marcoux, and Signor Malatesta, the performance could not be otherwise than delightful. Mme. Tetrazzini sang superbly, and if Rossini's work is slight in subject, no better opera could be chosen for displaying her unequalled powers and perfect command of florid music. The charming ease with which Mme. Tetrazzini, in the Lesson scene, sang the brilliant "Polonaise" from Mignon, enchanted the audience, and when followed by a wonderful performance of the extremely difficult variations to the "Carnival of Venice," the greatest enthusiasm was aroused. The graceful air "Una Voce" was not only beautifully sung, but embellished by Mme. Tetrazzini with masterly skill and finish. Signor Sammarco proved an excellent and animated Figaro; and Signor Marcoux's quaintly comic Basilio was one of the chief features of the performance. Admirably grotesque in his make-up, Signor Marcoux was as humorous vocally as in his clever acting. The Bartolo of Signor Malatesta had many excellent points, and the newcomer, by his singing and lively and amusing action, created a favourable impression. Signor Rostowsky, who sang so well in Rigoletto, may not be an ideal Count Almaviva, but he gave a pleasing account of the music; and both Mme. Bérat and Signor Sampieri, as Bertha and Fiorello, were successful. A pianoforte accompanied the recitatives, and Signor Campanini conducted.

Verdi's Aïda was performed at Covent Garden on Saturday night, May 14, and two new artists, Mlle. Karola and Signor Zerola, made a most successful first appearance. Mlle. Karola, who impersonated the heroine, has a voice of good quality and considerable power, while she displayed dramatic instincts that aroused interest in her performance. Although Mlle. Karola may at times have shown certain technical flaws in her singing, great allowance must be made for a first appearance in a very difficult rôle. Signor Zerola as Radames seemed at first a little nervous, but this quickly disappeared, and in the later scenes of the opera Signor Zerola sang with true Italian fervour and passion, while his ringing high notes greatly delighted the audience. Both the experienced artists will be welcome additions to the cast this season. Mme. Kirkby Lunn sang with splendid effect as Amneris; and Signor Sammarco again gave a most artistic reading of Amonasro. Signor Marcoux was a stately Ramfis; and Mr. Murray Davey sang the King's music admirably. Signor Campanini conducted, and a new scene of A Gate of Thebes has been painted by Mr. Harry Brooks.

Faust was performed at Covent Garden on Monday night, and perhaps for a holiday occasion no better work than Gounod's famous old opera could be chosen. Mme. Edvina, who has greatly advanced in her profession, made a charmingly graceful and girlish Marguerite, and sang most intelligently. Mme. Edvina's acting in the Garden scene was artistic, and the avoidance of some old conventions did the young vocalist great credit. The Jewel Song was sung with ease and refinement, and Marguerite's delight in the beautiful gems cleverly expressed. In the more intense and tragic portions Mme. Edvina still requires that experience which, unfortunately for the youthful aspect of the character, only comes with years.

M. Franz, who achieved such success in Samson et Dalila, increased the good impression already made by his fine singing as Faust. M. Franz made a fervent lover, and the great solo in the second act was admirably sung, but why did the distinguished artist adopt so ungraceful a make-up? Signor Marcoux's excellent Mephistopheles is familiar, and his reading of the part, to make that sardonic personage a being to be feared instead of a jolly companion, has much to commend it. Valentin's music was ably sung by M. Lestelle; and Mlle. Symiane most successfully impersonated Siebel. The parts of Martha and Wagner were skilfully undertaken by Mme. Bérat and M. Morin. The chorus sang and acted with animation, and the lively Kermesse scene was given with great spirit. Why, however, should the crowd stand aside to make a passage for Marguerite as if for some grand lady, and then pay marked attention to Faust addressing her? Surely a gallant speaking to a pretty girl would be a common incident in such a scene. M. Frigara conducted.

In the absence of Dr. Richter, Herr Von Schuch, of the Royal Opera, Dresden, directed the performance of Tristan und Isolde on Tuesday evening. Herr Von Schuch is undoubtedly a fine conductor, and the audience greeted his first appearance at Covent Garden in the most cordial manner. Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens, who undertook the part of Isolde for the first time, created a good impression by her intelligent singing and graceful bearing. Isolde is one of Wagner's most beautiful and at the same time most exacting creations, and Mme. Saltzmann-Stevens deserved much praise for her graphic and very promising impersonation. Herr Burrian's Tristan is familiar, and has many excellent features; while the superb singing and acting of Herr Van Rooy as Kurwenal and Mme. Kirkby Lunn in the part of Brangäne gave the performance special interest. As König Marke Herr Fönss displayed talent. Mr. Sydney Russell proved a successful Melot; and Herr Bechstein's clever acting made Ein Hirt very effective.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, May 4.—Mr. De Wolf Hopper is with us once more, and the legion of playgoers that have laughed at his comical capers since the days of Wang and Panjandrum, not forgetting El Capitan, which he took to London a dozen years ago, will be well represented at Daly's Theatre for weeks to come. In the witty entr'acte speech that he makes at every performance, because the audience demands it, Mr. Hopper talks of the hardships he endured "on the road," and how glad he is to get back to Broadway. Then everyone laughs, realising the fact that old stories, like old songs, sometimes enjoy a perennial popularity. At one place in particular the weather was so bad that Hopper asked one of the natives if they ever had any summer there. "I don't know," he replied, "I've only lived here eleven months."

A Matinée Idol, described in the programme as a "song comedy," is Mr. Hopper's current offering. The book is by Armand and Barnard, the lyrics by Ray Goetz and Seymour Brown, and the music by Silvio Hein. The story was suggested by Molière's La Médicin Malgré Lui. Medford Griffin is, or has been, a matinée "idol," but as he is out of an engagement and "dead broke," the word should be spelt "i-d-l-e," according to Hopper. With Jimmie Grant, his valet, who has been a jockey, Griffin finds himself stranded in France, and applies for the post of instructor of elocution at a young ladies' seminary. He fails to obtain this, but sees an opportunity to put some money in his purse by posing as a doctor. In so doing he furthers the plans of a pair of young lovers. Dick Allen is about to be sent to Europe in order to separate him from his sweetheart, Lucy Gray, and he pretends to be taken ill. The "doctor" is called in, and being obliged to prescribe for the patient in order to keep up the deception, he sends to the druggist's for a compound calculated to kill a horse. Young Allen fears he will have to swallow it, so he confesses that he is not ill, and Griffin admits that he is not a doctor. So as each is able to help the other, they conspire together, and astonish the school authorities, the "doctor" by exhibiting his hypnotic powers and his subject by faithfully responding to them.

Surrounded by pretty girls, Mr. Hopper sings about "Autographs," and vocalises on other subjects in the humorous way that the public knows, and likes so well. Miss Louise Dresser sings "Loving ways," which has a pretty air, and a facetious number, "Put on your slippers, you're in for the night." Mr. Georgie Mack, in this instance, is the diminutive foil with which the unabridged comedian always provides himself, and as Jimmie Grant the abbreviated Mack sings "The Dancing Banshee" very effectively. Miss Ethel Green, who appears as Lucy Gray, has a sweet voice, and her rendering of "Little lady in the moon" was greatly enjoyed. There are fifteen numbers altogether, and plenty of fun between times, besides an attractive chorus to please the eye. So Mr. Hopper has received a hearty welcome, and will undoubtedly stay awhile.

The Actors' Fund Fair, to be held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armoury next week, will be the largest charity bazaar ever held in New York. Organised twenty-eight years ago, the Actors' Fund is one of the most famous of American charities. It recognises no nationality or creed, but extends its aid promptly and freely to every player whom illness, adversity, or old age may overtake. In the Actors' Home on Staten Island the fund maintains for the aged of the profession a pleasant refuge which, in its comfortable appointments and cheery surroundings, is unique among similar institutions in the country. Those who seek its shelter are not "inmates," but guests. Thirty-two are now enjoying the benefits of the home. In years past the roll has included the names of many celebrities of the dramatic profession. To maintain the home and to keep effective the charities of the fund itself in all its branches throughout the United States requires more money than can be raised by the annual benefit performances and the nominal dues received from the members. Last year the expenditure for charities was about 45,000 dollars, all of which was raised by the profession itself. This year the amount will be considerably larger, and to meet this contingency the coming fair was projected. Eighteen years ago, at Madison-square Garden, a great fair was held, which yielded 170,000 dollars, and at the Metropolitan Opera House, which proved too small for the purpose, a similar sum was realised three years ago. President Taft will open the fair. The Seventy-first Regiment Armoury will be transformed to resemble the Palace Gardens of Versailles, and will contain a small theatre fully equipped for dramatic and vaudeville performances, besides an illuminated fountain and the numerous stalls for the sale of articles of every description.

Mr. Charles Burnham, for many years the active manager of Wallack's Theatre for Mrs. Octavia Moss, has leased that popular playhouse for a long period, and in future will be the sole director of its affairs. Mr. Burnham has been connected with Wallack's for twenty-five years.

Mr. Lawrance D'Orsay will be Miss Billie Burke's leading man in Mrs. Dot next season. He will also appear in a revival of his old success, The Earl of Pawtucket, after which he will be seen in a sequel to the latter play, to be written by its author, Mr. Augustus Thomas.

Mr. Francis Wilson, the American comedian, has adopted "Baby" Davis, a clever little fellow, who acts the part of the little girl whom Mr. Wilson adopts against his will in his play The Bachelor's Baby, which has had a long run at the Criterion Theatre. The youngster is seven, and has already had a stage "career" of two years.

At the Knickerbocker Theatre The Dollar Princess will close on May 14, after a run of thirty-eight weeks. It will be the opening attraction at the Knickerbocker in August.

"Jim the Penman," with an "all-star" cast, will be revived at the Lyric Theatre next Monday. With this play and Caste in current theatricals, the old-timers will be able to raise a large crop of reminiscences.

Mr. Oscar Hammerstein has decided that his Manhattan Opera House in West Thirty-fourth-street, New York, shall be converted into a high-class music hall. One of the chief attractions booked for the opening will be Mlle. Polaire, the French dancer. Koster and Bials' Music Hall was originally known as the Manhattan Opera House. It was built by Hammerstein in Thirty-fourth-street, but a stone's throw from the house where, for four seasons, Mr. Hammerstein's opera company lately held sway. Koster and Bials' was demolished nine years ago. It was a fine house, but it was built about ten years too soon. Mr. Alfred E. Aarons put on the Faust ballet there, from the Empire Theatre, London. It was the finest attraction of its kind ever seen in a New York music hall. The New Yorkers are supposed to have the best of everything, sooner or later. So far, however, they have never seen anything at their music halls to compare with the beautiful Alhambra ballets. Perhaps Mr. Hammerstein will give them something in that line at the Manhattan Opera House.

Miss Pauline Chase arrived in London on Monday after her flying visit to the States to sell postcards and photographs at the Actors' Fund Fair. In the course of an interview Miss Pauline Chase expressed surprise that currency had been given in London to a report that she only succeeded in raising £152 for the Actors' Fund Fair. "As a matter of fact," she said, "I set out to raise £1,000 for the fund, and that, I was told when I left New York, was in round figures the amount actually collected."

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

MELBOURNE, April 5.—Princess's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson.—Miss Nellie Stewart's staging of What Every Woman Knows has obtained a well-deserved popularity, both on account of the excellence of the play itself and of the capable interpretation by the company. The house has been crowded since the opening night by enthusiastic audiences, who accord Miss Stewart a hearty welcome each evening. What Every Woman Knows will hold the boards till further notice.

Her Majesty's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—The Country Girl is drawing crowded houses. The play, despite the success of its revival, will be withdrawn at the end of the week, and on Saturday night The Dollar Princess will be staged for the first time in Australia. The booking for the opening night is exceptionally good, so a bumper house is assured to welcome Mr. Williamson's latest production.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Messrs. Clyde Meynell and Rupert Clarke; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy.—The delightful musical comedy The Arcadians is proving a strong draw, and, judging from the size of the audience, the piece is going to have a long and prosperous run. Mr. Cromwell as Smith the Caterer has a part which suits him admirably. The part of Peter is taken by Mr. Tom Walls, whose acting, like everything else in The Arcadians, is stamped with originality throughout. Miss Maie Sydney makes a dainty Sombra. Apart from her finished acting Miss Sydney possesses a delightful voice, her songs, "The Pipes of Pan" and "Arcady is ever young," being amongst her best numbers. The rest of a capable company all fill their parts with entire satisfaction. The production throughout is mounted on a most lavish scale, and the scenery includes some magnificent forest views, also a remarkably fine stage-picture of Ascot Racecourse. A special word of praise is due to the chorus for their excellent singing.

King's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant.—Mr. William Anderson's new attraction, A Thief in the Night, is proving a worthy successor to The Prince and the Beggar Maid. The theatre has been crowded ever since the opening night. Miss Eugenie Duggan appears to advantage as the heroine, and is ably supported by a strong company. The scenery throughout is on the lavish scale which characterises all of Mr. Anderson's productions. Mr. Anderson possesses a courteous and capable business-manager in the person of Mr. Julius Grant.

Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Frederic Aydon.—Re-appearances of popular artists at the Opera House include the Trapnell Sisters, Olga Gray, Les Warton, and others. Mlle. De Dio will give her last performance to-night. To-morrow the Martinis return for a short season, and on Wednesday the Mysterious Howards will appear. Artists appearing on the present bill with success include Vasco, (the mad musician), Alexandra and Bertie, the Donnellys, Tom Parker, Johnnie Gilmore, Graham and Dent, the Two Prices, George Sorlie, Nellie Power, the Huxhams, Gertie McLeod, Wm. A. Robyns, and a host of others.

West's Pictures at West's Palace, Tait's Pictures at the Glaciarium, Spencer's Pictures at the Olympia, and the World's Pictures at the Bijou Theatre all continue to do excellent business.

THEATRICAL CORNERS AND MONOPOLIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In the columns of the Referee last Sunday one read with much interest the views of Mr. Marc Klaw in respect of the above. In the course of his remarks Mr. Klaw says, "Monopoly? No. Corner? No, sir. You can't monopolise players and playwrights. . . . You can't harness real ability and true genius in matters of the drama. . . . Take the case of your English stage. Your managers and ours think we have contracted to secure all the best dramatic output whether plays or players. What happens. Up starts an Ethel Irving. . . . Up rises a Somerset Maugham. . . . He demands to be reckoned with, and you reckon. . . . No; you can't make monopolies or trusts TO HARNESS THESE THINGS." The capitals of the last words are mine, because it is just there that a point arises which, with all due deference to Mr. Marc Klaw, he seems to have lost sight of.

We must recognise in the first place that these great theatrical syndicates, in looking for players or plays, in Mr. Klaw's own words "secure the best dramatic output whether plays or players," only to meet with occasional surprises when some unknown man starts up unaided by them. That is to say that they only deal in what is already successful, and do not hold out artistic assistance to the struggling artist or genius until that artist or genius has proved his worth apart from them, which, as the big trusts control the bulk of the market nowadays, leaves him a pretty hard job to tackle. I am judging by Mr. Klaw's own remarks.

The trusts being now out for business do not encourage new endeavour. They wait (as is apparent from Mr. Klaw's article) till the genius arises of himself before they "have to reckon."

But when Mr. Klaw says that such trusts can't harness these things, I venture to disagree. They CAN and do harness these things in a certain sense. It may be only a negative sense, but still they harness it by the very process of shutting their doors against artist or author until he "has to be reckoned with."

No trust brought either Ethel Irving or Somerset Maugham to the front. And these are the special examples to which Mr. Klaw refers. Presumably entry to any of the dealings of such trusts was closed to them till they came to the front, yet they were none the less valuable people when unrecognised. So the trusts do harness the unknown and unrecognised artist by shutting him out, so to speak, from the chief source of endeavour, since they control the bulk of theatrical business. They do not want fresh men. Their doors are closed to them until somebody or another becomes a nuisance by being successful in spite of them, and then, as Mr. Klaw says, "He demands to be reckoned with and you reckon."

Is there no "harnessing" of endeavour here?—Yours faithfully,

ANTI-HARNESS.

AN APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Will you allow me to appeal to your readers who have votes to the Royal Blind Pension Society, and who have not yet disposed of their votes, to kindly give my claim their kind consideration?

I was an advance agent for ten years, but four and a half years ago I caught a severe chill at Seacombe, which resulted in diabetes and other maladies, which prevented me from following any employment whatever.

Some kind friends in my native town—Newcastle—have got me nominated for the small pension from the above society. I shall, therefore, be glad to have the support of my old theatrical or any London friends that have their votes to spare.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN MITCHESON.

Hall's Café, Pilgrim-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Mr. Norman Clark will to-day (Saturday) give his 750th performance as the Tramp in The Message from Mars.

"Children on the Stage." Managers, agents, entrepreneurs, and performers wishing to possess a copy of the complete Act (in a concise form) can do so by forwarding three stamps to the Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

A New York paper has been asking well-known people in the world of entertainment what they would do if it were absolutely certain that the comet would destroy the earth in three days. Mr. Eugene Walter, the playwright, answered: "Death itself would have no terrors for me, and, since I should not be leaving behind those I love, I think I could meet my end like a philosopher." Mr. Frederick Thompson, the theatrical manager, said: "I'd book every play I could in Providence, Rhode Island." Miss Norah Bayes, the actress, who is now singing the most popular song in America, "Has anybody here seen Kelly?" replied: "I should just stop doing everything else, and stick close to my husband. When the time came I'd put my arms tight round his neck, and then I wouldn't care if the comet did kill us, and neither would he.

"Just now, when funeral music is much in the air, it suggests itself as a matter for regret," says the Westminster Gazette, "that on an occasion such as the present no appropriate music, or at any rate so very little, from the pens of native composers is available for performance. There is a Funeral March in Elgar's 'Grania and Diarmid' music which might be used, and Stanford has written a good many elegiac pieces, but it would be idle to pretend that any British composer has produced anything worthy of comparison with the greatest compositions of this order.

"Of these, the Dead March from 'Saul' is at once the oldest and best known of those commonly played, and though surpassed in popularity nowadays, perhaps, by some later works, it still holds its own well, and in point of impressiveness, solemnity, and simplicity, still takes, if the expression may pass, a lot of beating. Queen Victoria, it is well known, had a great antipathy to it, and so at her obsequies Chopin's well known Marche Funèbre was mainly employed. Handel's work is being used again, however, to-morrow along with others.

"Of funeral music there is, indeed, no lack. Beethoven contributed two noble examples in the well-known slow movement of the A flat piano sonata and the corresponding section of the Eroica symphony, and numerous other works which, if not originally intended for this purpose, could be quite appropriately used as elegiac pieces, as, for instance, the beautiful Equali for trombones (which were used with fine effect at Lord Leighton's funeral at St. Paul's), and any number of his slow movements.

"The Masonic funeral music of Mozart, which was included in the programme of the 'In Memoriam' concert at the Queen's Hall on Thursday afternoon, is not often heard, but is said to be a composition of great beauty, written in the form of a short, slow movement, based on a cantus firmus. The Chopin funeral march, the 'Pathetic' symphony of Tchaikowsky, and the Trauermarsch from 'Götterdämmerung' will, however, all be familiar enough; as will be the vocal numbers which Mme. Ada Crossley is to sing.

"Another memorial concert is to take place at the Albert Hall on Sunday, when Sir Charles Stanford will conduct the New Symphony Orchestra and Mme. Ada Crossley and Mr. Ben Davies will sing. A circular to hand on the subject states that a 'specially effective rendering of the National Anthem has been arranged as a finale, descriptive of the peaceful death of the late much-beloved King, and the glorious accession to the Throne of his popular successor.'"

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London). 5s. The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

Important changes in the law affecting the amusement professions have been made since the issue nine years ago of the second edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable book on Theatrical and Musical Law, and the third edition just published comes opportunely to hand. The work has been greatly enlarged, upwards of sixty additional pages being required to accommodate the mass of new information. The publication has been brought as nearly as possible up to date, and within its pages will be found analyses of important measures which have been adopted both in Parliament and out. There is, for instance, the full text of the recent Berlin Convention, and the New Copyright Act of the United States. The awards governing the relations between managers, artists, and agents are reproduced in their entirety, and a number of fresh cases illustrating the effect of the barring clauses is included.

The Musical Copyright Act, by which tardy justice was secured to song writers and publishers, is given in full, and a digest of the measure, bringing out its salient features, is also printed. A whole chapter is now devoted to the subject of children on the stage, and the important question of the Workmen's Compensation Act is exhaustively dealt with. All the decisions of the Courts affecting theatres and music halls are referred to, many notable cases being recalled. The law governing dramatic and musical copyright is defined as clearly as its intricacies will allow, and a reliable indication of the methods to be adopted in securing protection is afforded. The progress made in the question of licensing has been too slow to allow of more than a reproduction of the terms of agreement entered into between the representatives of theatres and music halls regarding sketches, but pronouncements under that heading are numerous.

The treatise is written in chatty and graceful style, which first invites attention and engrosses the reader, so that legal knowledge is absorbed in the pleasantest possible way. Numerous marginal notes make the work easy of reference, and the finger can be placed upon the information required in an incredibly short space of time. So comprehensive and concise a work is nowhere else available, and it can be confidently recommended as the first resort of managers and artists alike in any legal difficulty.

The Limit of Enquiry.
